(3) Partnership may not file return or claim on behalf of partner. The partnership may not file any return (Form 720) or any claim for credit or refund (Form 843) on behalf of the partner.

(4) Partnership does not represent partner in proceedings. Unless otherwise agreed upon between the partner and the partnership, the partnership shall not represent the partner in administrative or judicial proceedings to determine the proper treatment of partnership items with respect to the windfall profit tax.

(d) Partnership responsibilities in event 5-percent election is made. If the partnership elects to act on behalf of the partners in accordance with §61.6232(c)-2 but a 5-percent election is made to negate that authority, the partnership shall furnish a Form 6248 with respect to each partner in the partnership to the Service and to the partner by the time prescribed in §51.4997-2. The Forms 6248 furnished to the Service shall be filed with the service center designated on that form. The partnership is not permitted to make any adjustment under paragraph (b)(4)(i) of this section with respect to the partners under these circumstances.

(e) Address of Austin Service Center. The address of the Austin Service Center to be used for purposes of this section and §§51.6232(c)-2 through 51.6232(c)-5 is: Internal Revenue Service Center, WPT Staff, P.O. Box 934, Austin, Texas 78767, Stop 4002.

§51.6232(c)-2 Election of act on behalf of partners for a removal year after 1984.

(a) In general. The partnership may elect to be treated as authorized to act for its partners for a removal year after 1984 by furnishing to the Service the notice described in paragraph (b) of this section. This election is an annual election. The partnership must furnish a separate notice for each removal year for which the partnership wishes to make this selection. For rules with respect to removal years 1983 and 1984, see §150.6232(c)-2.

(b) Notice to the Service—(2) Content of notice. The partnership shall furnish to the Internal Revenue Service a notice that identifies the partnership by name, address, and taxpayer identification number and is signed by the tax matters partner. The notice shall state that the partnership intends to:

(i) Act on behalf of all partners in any judicial or administrative proceeding with respect to partnership items for windfall profit tax purposes for a removal year;

(ii) Pay on behalf of the partners any additional windfall profit tax determined to be due to reflect the proper treatment of partnership items for that removal year.

(iii) Receive on behalf of the partners any refund of any overpayment of windfall profit tax attributable to partnership items for that removal year; and

(iv) Reimburse the Service upon request for any duplicate refund made to a partner.

(2) Time and place for filing. The notice shall be filed with the Austin Service Center (at the address specified in §51.6232(c)-1(e)) on or before September 30 of the removal year to which the election applies (on or before October 31, 1985, for removal year 1985).

(c) Notice to the partners—(1) In general. A partnership that makes an election by filing a notice under paragraph (b) of this section shall furnish to each of its partners by September 30 of the removal year to which the notice relates (or or before October 31, 1985, for removal year 1985) a notice that includes the information contained in the notice under paragraph (b) of this section.

(2) Furnish information required. The notice sent to the partners shall also—

(i) explain the right of any partner or any group of partners holding a 5-percent or greater interest in the income of the partnership to negate the authority of the partnership to act on behalf of all partners by filing a notice in accordance with §51.6232(c)-3; and

(ii) Explain the right of each partner individually to elect not to have the partnership act on behalf of that partner by filing a notice in accordance with §51.6232(c)-4.

(a) In general. Any partner or group of partners owning in the aggregate at least 5 percent of the income interest of the partnership may elect to negate the authority of the partnership to act on behalf of the partners for a removal year after 1984 by filing a written notice to that effect. For rules with respect to removal years 1983 and 1984, see §150.6232(c)-3.

(b) Procedure for making election—(1) Time and place for filing. The notice described in paragraph (a) of this section shall be filed with the Austin Service Center (at the address specified in §51.6232(c)-1(e)) on or before December 31 of the removal year to which the election applies.

(2) Content of notice. The notice shall—

(i) Identify the partnership by name, address, and identification number;

(ii) Identify the partners forming the 5-percent group by name, address, identification number, and percentage interest in the partnership;

(iii) Be signed by all members of the group making the election; and

(iv) Be clearly identified as an election to negate the authority of the partnership to act for all partners.

Any notice not clearly identified as a notice of election under this section shall be treated as an individual election under §51.6232(c)-4. Thus, for example, a notice by a single partner owning a 5-percent interest that is not clearly identified as an election to negate the authority of the partnership to act for all partners shall be treated as an individual election under §51.6232(c)-4.

(3) copy for partnership. A copy of the notice shall be furnished to the partnership within the period prescribed for filing the notice.

(a) In general. Any partner desiring that the partnership not be authorized to act on its behalf for a removal year after 1984 shall file a notice in accordance with the rules set forth in this section. For rules with respect to removal years 1983 and 1984, see §150.6232(c)-4.

(b) Procedure for making elec- tion—(1) Time and place for filing. The notice described in paragraph (a) of this section shall be filed with the Austin Service Center (at the address specified in §150.6232(c)-1(e)) on or before December 31 of the removal year to which the election applies.

(2) Content of notice. The notice shall clearly identify the partner and the partnership by name, address, and identification number and shall state that it constitutes an election to deny the partnership the right to represent the partner in proceedings related to windfall profit tax on partnership production during the removal year. The notice shall be signed by the partner.

(3) Copy for partnership. A copy of the notice shall be furnished to the partnership within the period prescribed for filing the notice.

§51.6232(c)-5 Partner responsibility when partnership authority is negated for removal year after 1984.

(a) In general. If the partnership makes an election under §51.6232(c)-2 to act on behalf of the partners for a removal year after 1984, this section shall apply with respect to—

(1) All partners if an election under §51.6232(c)-3 is made, and

(2) Any partner who makes an election under §51.6232(c)-4.

For rules with respect to removal years 1983 and 1984, see §150.6232(c)-5.

(b) Partner shall pay additional tax or claim credit or refund. The partner shall aggregate the Form 6248 information received from the partnership with Form 6248 information received from other sources to determine whether a net overpayment or underpayment of windfall profit tax exists for the partner's interests in oil properties. If a net underpayment exists, the partner shall file Form 720 with the service center designated on that form and pay any tax due by the time prescribed in §51.6076-1. If a net overpayment exists, the partner may file a form 843 or any other appropriate form to claim a credit or refund in accordance with the applicable instructions.

(c) Partner is in same position as under rules for income tax proceedings. The partner retains any right with respect to the determination of the tax treatment of partnership items for windfall profit tax purposes that the partner would possess under sections 6221 through 6231 and the regulations under those sections. For example, the partner is entitled to receive notice of the proceedings from the tax matters partner or the Service if that partner is entitled to receive notice under section 6223 of the Code, and the partner is entitled to participate in any administrative or judicial proceeding.

Similarly, a settlement agreement entered into between the Service and the tax matters partner is binding on that partner if a settlement entered into under section 6224(c) of the Code would be binding on the partner.

26 CFR 301.6323(f)-1: Place for filing notice; form.

Federal tax lien; filing in Massachusetts. Due to a change in Massachusetts State law, the Service will continue to follow Rev. Rul. 77-61 and file notices of federal tax liens with respect to personal property in Massachusetts only in the office of the United States district court for the judicial district in which the taxpayer resides. Rev. Rul. 84-148 revoked.

Rev. Rul. 85-89

Rev. Rul. 84-148, 1984-2 C.B. 303 holds that notices of federal tax liens with respect to personal property in Massachusetts shall be filed in the office of the State Secretary or, in the case of persons other than estates, trusts, and corporations and partnerships having a principal executive office in Massachusetts, in the office of the clerk of the city or town where the person against whose interest the lien applies resides at the time of filing of the notice of the lien. In so holding, Rev. Rul. 84-148 had modified Rev. Rul. 77-61, 1977-1 C.B. 388. Section 6323(f) of the Internal Revenue Code provides that if a state does not designate "one office" for the filing of notices of federal tax liens, the notice shall be filed with the clerk of the United States district court for the judicial district in which the property subject to the lien is situated. Rev. Rul. 84-148 was based on a July 13, 1983 amendment to Massachusetts state law that was to be effective January 1, 1984. The amendment designated one such office in accordance with section 6323(f) of the Code. See 1983 Mass. Acts ch. 278, sec. 5. However, the amendment on which Rev. Rul. 84-148 was predicated was repealed effective December 21, 1983. See 1983 Mass. Acts ch. 674, repealing Mass. Ann. Laws ch. 255, sec. 39B (Michie/Law. Co-op Supp. 1984).

The Internal Revenue Service, therefore, will continue to follow Rev. Rul. 77-61 and file notices of federal tax liens with respect to personal property in Massachusetts only in the office of the United States district court for the judicial district in which the taxpayer resides. Pursuant to section 6323(f)(2) of the Code, this is the district where the personal property is deemed located. If state law is again amended to comply with section 6323(f), such liens will be filed only in the one office designated by state law.

Rev. Rul. 84-148 is revoked.

Rev. Rul. 77-61 discusses an additional requirement. The Service had to record the notices of federal tax liens in a public index at the district office of the Service for the district in which the property subject to the lien is situated. Rev. Rul. 84-148 stated, however, that the recording requirement was repealed with respect to personal property (effective after November 6, 1978) by the Revenue Act of 1978, section 702(q)(1), 1978-3 (Vol. 1) C.B. 1, 171. To this extent Rev. Rul. 77-61 remains modified.

Syllabus

Section 6331(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 provides that the Government may collect taxes of a delinquent taxpayer "by levy upon all property and rights to property . . . belonging to such person." Section 6332(a) then provides that "any person in possession of (or obligated with respect to) property or rights to property subject to levy upon which a levy has been made shall, upon demand of the Secretary [of the Treasury], surrender such property or rights . . . to the Secretary, except such part of the property or rights as is . . . subject to an attachment or execution." The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) levied on two joint accounts in respondent bank in Arkansas for delinquent income taxes owed by only one of the persons in whose names the accounts stood. When respondent, contending that it did not know how much of the money or deposit belonged to the delinquent taxpayer as opposed to his codepositors, refused to comply with the levy, the United States brought an action in Federal District Court, seeking judgment against respondent for the amount of the delinquent taxes. The District Court granted respondent's motion to dismiss. The Court of Appeals affirmed, holding that because under Arkansas garnishment law a creditor of a bank depositor is not subrogated to the depositor's power to withdraw the account, the IRS, too, could not stand in the depositor's shoes, and that the Government could not make use of the administrative procedure without negating or quantifying the claims that the delinquent taxpayer's codepositors might have to the funds in question. The court reasoned that the delinquent taxpayer did not possess a sufficient property interest in the funds to support the levy, that the codepositors might possess competing claims to the funds, and that an IRS levy is not normally intended for use against property in which third parties have an interest or which bears on its face the names of third parties.

Held: The IRS had a right to levy on the joint accounts in question.

(a) A bank served with an IRS notice of levy has only two defenses for failure to comply with the demand: that it is neither "in possession of" nor "obligated with respect to" property or rights to property belonging to the delinquent taxpayer, or that the taxpayer's property is "subject to a prior judicial attachment or execution." Here, the latter defense was not available, and so respondent's only defense was that the joint accounts did not constitute "property or rights to property" of the delinquent taxpayer.

(b) In applying the Internal Revenue Code, state law controls in determining the nature of the legal interest which the taxpayer has in property. In this case, the delinquent taxpayer had an absolute right under state law to withdraw from the joint accounts, and such state-law right constitutes "property [or] rights to property" belonging to him within the meaning of §6331(a). Respondent, in its turn, was "obligated with respect to" the taxpayer's right to that property under §6332(a), since state law required it to honor any withdrawal request he might make. Respondent thus had no basis for refusing to honor the levy. In a levy proceeding, the IRS acquires whatever right the taxpayer himself possesses.

(c) The question whether a state-law right constitutes "property" or "right to property" is a matter of federal law. Thus, the facts that under Arkansas law the delinquent taxpayer's creditors could not exercise his right to withdrawal in their favor, and in a garnishment proceeding would have to join his codepositors, are irrelevant. That other parties may have competing claims to the account is not a legitimate statutory defense to the levy. A §6331(a) administrative levy is only a provisional remedy, which does not determine the rights of third parties until after the levy is made, in postseizure administrative or judicial hearings.

BLACKMUN, J., delivered the opinion of the Court, in which BURGER, C.J., and WHITE, RENQUIST, and O'CONNOR, JJ., joined. POWELL, J., filed a dissenting opinion, in which BRENNAN, MARSHALL, and STEVENS, JJ., joined.

JUSTICE BLACKMUN delivered the opinion to the Court.

Section 5331(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended, 26 U.S.C. §6331(a), provides that the Government may collect taxes of a delinquent taxpayer "by levy upon all property and rights to property . . . belonging to such person."[1] Section 6332(a) of the Code, 26 U.S.C. §6332(a), then provides that "any person in possession of (or obligated with respect to) property or rights to property subject to levy upon which a levy has been made shall, upon demand of the Secretary, surrender such property or rights . . . to the Secretary."[2]

[1]Section 6331(a) reads in pertinent part:
"If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax . . . by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person. . . ."
Section 7701(a)(11)(B) of the Code reads:
"The term 'Secretary' means the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate."

[2]Section 6332(a) reads:
"Except as otherwise provided in subsection (b), any person in possession of (or obligated with respect to) property or rights to property subject to levy upon which a levy has been made shall, upon demand of the Secretary, surrender such property or rights (or discharge such obligation) to the Secretary, except such part of the

The controversy in this case concerns two joint accounts in a bank in Arkansas.[3] The issue is whether the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) has a right to levy on those accounts for delinquent federal income taxes owed by only one of the persons in whose names the joint accounts stand in order that the IRS may obtain provisional control over the amount in question.

The relevant facts are stipulated. On December 10, 1979, the IRS assessed against Roy J. Reeves federal income taxes, penalties, and interest for the taxable year 1977 in the total amount of $3,607.45. As a result of payments and credits, the amount owing on the assessment was reduced to $856.61. App. 11.

On June 13, 1980, there were on deposit with respondent National Bank of Commerce, at Pine Bluff, Ark., the sum of $321.66 in a checking account and the sum of $1,241.60 in a savings account, each in the names of "Roy Reeves or Ruby Reeves or Neva R. Reeves." Id., at 11-12.[4] Each of the persons named, Roy Reeves, Ruby Reeves, and Neva R. Reeves, was authorized by contract with the bank to make withdrawals from each of these joint accounts. Id., at 12.

On the same date, that is, on June 13, 1980, a notice of levy was served on the respondent bank pursuant to §6331(d) of the Code, 26 U.S.C. §6331(d), demanding that the bank pay over to the United States all sums the bank owed to Roy J. Reeves up to a total of $1,302.56. Subsequently, there was a Partial Release of Levy for the amount in excess of $856.61. On October 10, a final demand for payment was served on the bank.

The bank, contending that it did not know how much of the money on deposit belonged to Roy as opposed to Ruby and Neva, refused to comply with the levy. Ibid. The United States thereupon instituted this action in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Arkansas, pursuant to §6332(c)(1) of the Code, 26 U.S.C. §6332(c)(1), seeking judgment against the bank in the amount of $856.61.[5]

By way of a supplement to the stipulation of facts, it was agreed that "[n]o further evidence as to the ownership of the monies in the subject bank accounts will be submitted." App. 17. As a consequence, we do not know which of the three codepositors, as a matter of state law, owned the funds in the two accounts, or in what proportion. The facts thus come to us in very bare form. We are not confronted with any dispute as to who owns what share of the accounts. We deal simply with two joint accounts in the names of three persons, with each of the three entitled to draw out all the money in each of the accounts.

B

The case was submitted to the District Court on cross motions for summary judgment and on the respondent bank's motion to dismiss the complaint. Id., at 18-24. The District Court granted the motion to dismiss, holding the case procedurally "immature." 554 F. Supp. 110, 117 (1982). The court concluded that due process mandates "something more than the post-seizure lawsuit allowed" by the Code's levy procedures. Id., at 114. In its view, "the minimum due process required in distraint actions against joint bank accounts," ibid., compelled the IRS to identify the codepositors of the delinquent taxpayer and to provide them with notice and an opportunity to be heard. Id., at 114-115. The court then outlined the procedures it believed the Constitution requires the IRS to follow when levying on a joint account. Specifically, it ruled that a bank, upon receiving a notice of levy, shoul freeze the assets in the account and pr vide the IRS with the names of th codepositors. Id., at 114. The IRS the should notify the codepositors and giv them a reasonable time "in which to r spond both to the government and the bank by affidavit or other appropr ate means, specifically setting out an ownership interest in the joint accou which they claim and the factual an legal basis for that claim." Id., at 11 If the bank, on the basis of such info mation, "believes that a genuine di pute exists as to the legality of an ownership claim made by" th codepositors, "it may refuse to surre der any portion of the funds s claimed." Id., at 116. At that poin "the government may bring suit to e force the levy on the contested funds, ibid., but it must name the codepositor as defendant along with the bank.

The United States Court of Appea for the Eighth Circuit affirmed, 72 F.2d 1292 (1984). It expressed n opinion on the District Court's constitu tional analysis. Id., at 1293, 1300. reached essentially the same resul however, as a matter of statutory co struction. It ruled that the IRS, whe levying on a joint bank account, has th burden of proving "the actual value the delinquent taxpayer's interest i jointly owned property." Id., at 129 It observed that here "the rights of th various parties," id., at 1300, had n been determined. Therefore, the Gov ernment had not shown the bank to b in possession of property or rights t property belonging to the delinquen taxpayer, Roy J. Reeves, as §6331(a required.

The Court of Appeals acknowledge that "Roy could have withdrawn an amount he wished from the account and used it to pay his debts, includin federal income taxes. . . ." Id., at 129 It rejected, however, the Government' contention that it stood "in Roy's shoe and could do anything Roy could do subject to whatever duties Roy owes t Ruby or Neva," id., at 1295-1296, fo it observed that "at least as to ordinar creditors, [that] is not the law o Arkansas." Id., at 1296. Under stat garnishment law, the court noted, creditor of a codepositor is not "subro gated to that co-owner's power to with draw the entire account." Instead,

[3] "The basic legal concept of 'joint account' means that it be in two or more names." Harbour v. Harbour, 207 Ark. 551, 555, 181 S.W.2d 805, 807 (1944).

[4] No point is made as to any distinction between the "Roy J. Reeves" against whom the assessment was made, and the "Roy Reeves" whose name was on the two accounts. We assume, accordingly, that Roy J. Reeves and Roy Reeves are one and the same person.

The record does not disclose any relationship that may exist among the three codepositors. The parties have indicated that Neva is Roy's wife and that Ruby is his mother.

[5] The complaint also asserted liability, under §6332(c)(2), for a 50% penalty. See App. 7. The Government, however, subsequently waived the penalty claim, and the complaint was amended accordingly. Id., at 13-15.

creditor must join both co-owners as defendants and permit them to "show by parol or otherwise the extent of his or her interest in the account." Ibid.

The Court of Appeals then concluded that a similar precept should apply in administrative levy proceedings under the Internal Revenue Code. It accordingly ruled that the Government could not prevail without negating or quantifying the claims that Ruby or Neva might have to the funds in question. It expressed the belief that an IRS administrative levy "is not normally intended for use as against property in which third parties have an interest" or as "against property bearing on its face the names of third parties." Id., at 1300. In such a situation, the Government was free to "brin[g] suit to foreclose its lien under Section 7403," joining the codepositors or defendants. Ibid.

Because the opinion of the Court of Appeals appeared to us to conflict, directly or in principle, with decisions of other Courts of Appeals,[6] we granted certiorari. ___ U.S. ___ (1985).

Section 6321 of the Code, 26 U.S.C. §6321, provides: "If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same after demand, the amount . . . shall be a lien in favor of the United States upon all property and rights to property, whether real or personal, belonging to such person." Under the succeeding §6322, the lien generally arises when an assessment is made, and it continues until the taxpayer's liability "is satisfied or becomes unenforceable by reason of lapse of time."

The statutory language "all property and rights to property," appearing in §6321 (and, as well, in §§6331(a) and 6332(a), see nn. 1 and 2, supra), is broad and reveals on its face that Congress meant to reach every interest in property that a taxpayer might have. See 4 B. Bittker, Federal Taxation of Income, Estates and Gifts ¶111.5.4, p. 111-100 (1981) (Bittker). "Stronger language could hardly have been selected to reveal a purpose to assure the collection of taxes." Glass City Bank v. United States, 326 U.S. 265, 267 (1945).

A federal tax lien, however, is not self-executing. Affirmative action by the IRS is required to enforce collection of the unpaid taxes. The Internal Revenue Code provides two principal tools for that purpose. The first is the lien-foreclosure suit. Section 7403(a) authorizes the institution of a civil action in federal district court to enforce a lien "to subject any property, of whatever nature, of the delinquent, or in which he has any right, title, or interest, to the payment of such tax." Section 7403(b) provides: "All persons have liens upon or claiming any interest in the property involved in such action shall be made parties thereto." The suit is a plenary action in which the court "shall . . . adjudicate all matters involved therein and finally determine the merits of all claims to and liens upon the property." §7403(c). See generally United States v. Rodgers, 461 U.S. 677, 680-682 (1983) [1983-2 C.B. 253]. The second tool is the collection of the unpaid tax by administrative levy. The levy is a provisional remedy and typically "does not require any judicial intervention." Id., at 682. The governing statute is §6331(a). See n.1, supra. It authorizes collection of the tax by levy which, by §6331(b), "includes the power of distraint and seizure by any means."

In the situation where a taxpayer's property is held by another, a notice of levy upon the custodian is customarily served pursuant to §6332(a). This notice gives the IRS the right to all property levied upon, United States v. Eiland, 223 F.2d 118, 121 (CA4 1955), and creates a custodial relationship between the person holding the property and the IRS so that the property comes into the constructive possession of the Government. Phelps v. United States, 421 U.S. 330, 334 (1975) [1975-1 C.B. 372]. If the custodian honors the levy, he is "discharged from any obligation or liability to the delinquent taxpayer with respect to such property or rights to property arising from such surrender or payment." §6332(d). If, on the other hand, the custodian refuses to honor a levy, he incurs liability to the Government for his refusal. §6332(c)(1).

The administrative levy has been aptly described as a "provisional remedy." 4 Bittker, at ¶111.5.5, p. 111-108. In contrast to the lien-foreclosure suit, the levy does not determine whether the Government's rights to the seized property are superior to those of other claimants; it, however, does protect the Government against diversion or loss while such claims are being resolved. "The underlying principle" justifying the administrative levy is "the need of the government promptly to secure its revenues." Phillips v. Commissoner, 283 U.S. 589, 596 (1931). "Indeed, one may readily acknowledge that the existence of the levy power is an essential part of our self-assessment tax system," for it "enhances voluntary compliance in the collection of taxes." G.M. Leasing Corp. v. United States, 429 U.S. 338, 350 (1977) [1977-1 C.B. 389, 393]. "Among the advantages of administrative levy is that it is quick and relatively inexpensive." united States v. Rodgers, 461 U.S., at 699 [1983-2 C.B. 253, 260].

The constitutionality of the levy procedure, of course, "has long been settled." Phillips v. Commissioner, 283 U.S., at 595. See G.M. Leasing Corp. v. United States, 429 U.S., at 352, n.18.

It is well established that a bank account is a species of property "subject to levy," within the meaning of §§6331 and 6332. A levy on a bank account has been permitted since the Revenue Act of 1924, §1016, 43 Stat. 343, and the Treasury Regulations explicitly authorize such levies. Treas. Reg. §301.6331-1(a)(1), 26 CFR §301.6331-1(a)(1) (1984).

The courts uniformly have held that a bank served with an IRS notice of levy "has only two defenses for a failure to comply with the demand." United States v. Sterling National Bank & Trust Co. of New York, 494 F.2d 919, 931 (CA2 1974), and cases cited. One defense is that the bank, in the words of §6332(a), is neither "in possession of" nor "obligated with respect to" property or rights to property belonging to the delinquent taxpayer. The other defense, again with reference of §6332(a), is that the taxpayer's property is "subject to a prior judicial attachment or execution." 494 F.2d, at 921. Accord, Bank of Nevada v. United States, 251 F.2d 820, 824 (CA9 1957), cert. denied, 356 U.S. 938 (1958).

There is no suggestion here that the Reeves accounts were subject to a prior judicial attachment or execution. Nor is there any doubt that the bank was "obligated with respect to" the accounts because, as it concedes, "Roy Reeves did have a right under Arkansas law to make withdrawals from the bank accounts in question." Brief for Respondent 2. The bank's only defense, therefore, is that the joint accounts did not constitute "property or rights to property" of Roy J. Reeves. See §6331(a).

"'[I]n the application of a federal revenue act, state law controls in determining the nature of the legal interest which the taxpayer had in the property.'" Aquilino v. United States, 363 U.S. 509, 513 (1960) [1960-2 C.B. 477, 479], quoting Morgan v. Commissioner, 309 U.S. 78, 82 (1940). See also Sterling National Bank, 494 F.2d, at 921. This follows from the fact that the federal statute "creates no property rights but merely attaches consequences, federally defined, to rights created under state law." United States v. Bess, 357 U.S. 51, 55 (1958) [1958-2 C.B. 934, 935]. And those consequences are "a matter left to federal law." United States v. Rodgers, 461 U.S., at 683 [1983–2 C.B. 253, 255]. "[O]nce it has been determined that state law creates sufficient interests in the [taxpayer] to satisfy the requirements of [the statute], state law is inoperative," and the tax consequences thenceforth are dictated by federal law. United States v. Bess, 357 U.S., at 56-57 [1958-2 C.B. 934, 936]. See also Fidelity & Deposit Co. of Maryland v. New York City Housing Authority, 241 F.2d 142, 144 (CA2 1957); Note, Property Subject to the Federal Tax Lien, 77 Harv. L. Rev. 1485, 1486-1487 (1964).

In the Bess case, the Court held that a delinquent taxpayer, who had purchased life insurance policies, did not have "property or rights to property" in the death proceeds of the policies, but that he did have such rights in their cash surrender value. 357 U.S., at 55-56. The latter conclusion, it was said, followed from the fact that the taxpayer insured had "the right under the policy contract to compel the insurer to pay him this sum." Id., at 56. Thus, the insured's interest in the cash surrender value was subject to the federal tax lien. The fact that "under State law the insured's property right represented by the cash surrender value is not subject to creditors' liens" was irrelevant. Id., at 56-57. State law defined the nature of the taxpayer's interest in the property, but the state law consequences of that definition are of no concern to the operation of the federal tax law.

As noted above, it is stipulated that Roy J. Reeves had the unqualified right to withdraw the full amounts on deposit in the joint accounts without notice to his codepositors. In any event, wholly apart from the stipulation, Roy's right of withdrawal is secured by his contract with the bank, as well as by the relevant Arkansas statutory provisions. See Ark. Stat. Ann. §§67-521 and 67-552 (1980).[7] On its part, the bank was obligated to honor any withdrawal requests Roy might make, even up to the full amounts of the accounts. The Court of Appeals thus correctly concluded that, under Arkansas law, "Roy could have withdrawn any amount he wished from the account and used it to pay his debts, including federal income taxes, and his co-owners would have had no lawful complaint against the bank." 726 F.2d, at 1295.

Roy, then, had the absolute right under state law and under his contract with the bank to compel the payment of the outstanding balances in the two accounts. This, it seems to us, should have been an end to the case, for we agree with the Government that such a state-law right constituted "property [or] rights to property . . . belonging to" Roy, within the meaning of §6331(a).

[7]Effective March 25, 1983, after the issuance of the notice of levy here, §67-552 was amended and §67-521 was repealed. 1983 Ark. Gen. Acts, No. 843, §§1 and 2. The result was recodification without substantial change.

The bank, in its turn, was "obliga with respect to" Roy's right to t property, §6332(a), since state law quired it to honor any withdrawal quest he might make. The bank had Bank & Trust Co.*, 111 F. Supp. 152, 155-156 (MD Pa. 1953). And the Eighth Circuit itself has observed that the "unqualified contractual right to receive property is itself a property right subject to seizure by levy." St. Louis Union Trust Co. v. United States, 617 F.2d 1293, 1302 (1980).[9]

Common sense dictates that a right to withdraw qualifies as a right to property for purposes of §§6331 and 6332. In a levy proceeding, the IRS " 'steps into the taxpayer's shoes,' " United States v. Rodgers, 461 U.S., at 691, n.16, quoting 4 Bittker, at ¶111.5.4, p. 111-102; M. Saltzman, IRS Practice and Procedure ¶14.08, p.14-32 (1981); Brief for Respondent 8. The IRS acquires whatever rights the taxpayer himself possesses. And in such circumstances, where, under state law, a taxpayer has the unrestricted right to withdraw funds from the account, "it is inconceivable that Congress . . . intended to prohibit the Government from levying on that which is plainly accessible to the delinquent taxpayer-depositor." United States v. First National Bank of Arizona, 348 F. Supp., at 389. Accord, United States v. Citizens & Southern National Bank, 538 F.2d, at 1107.[10] The taxpayer's right to withdraw is analogous in this sense to the IRS' right to levy on the property and secure the funds. Both actions are similarly provisional and subject to a later claim by a codepositor that the money in fact belongs to him or her.

[9]The dissent's suggestion that these cases are "irrelevant," see post, at 12-13, n.9, stems from its erroneous assumption that state law dictates the extent of the Government's power to levy. It does not, and these cases all stand for the proposition that a delinquent's state-law right to withdraw funds from the joint bank account is a property interest sufficient for purposes of federal law for the Government to levy the account, notwithstanding the fact that questions as to the ultimate ownership of the funds may be unresolved.

[10]We stress the narrow nature of our holding. By finding that the right to withdraw funds from a joint bank account is a right to property subject to administrative levy under §6331, we express no opinion concerning the federal characterization of other kinds of state-law created forms of joint ownership. This case concerns the right to levy only upon joint bank accounts.

III

The Court of Appeals, however, applied state law beyond the point of that law's specification of the nature of the property right, and bound the IRS to certain consequences of state property law. Because under Arkansas garnishment law, a creditor of a depositor is not subrogated to the depositor's power to withdraw the account, the court reasoned that the IRS, too, could not stand in the depositor's shoes. This gloss, it seems to us, is contrary to the analysis and holding in United States v. Bess, supra. The Court of Appeals adduced three principal justifications for its result. The first was its belief that under Arkansas law Roy did not have a sufficient property interest in the funds to support the levy. The second was its concern that Ruby and Neva might possess competing claims to the funds on deposit, and that the bank might be subject to claims asserted by them. The third was its stated conclusion that "levy is not normally intended for use as against property . . . bearing on its face the names of third parties, and in which those third parties likely have a property interest." 726 F.2d, at 1300.

We are not persuaded by any of these asserted jusifications.

The Court of Appeals' conclusion that Roy did not possess "property [or] rights to property" on which the IRS could levy rested heavily on its understanding of the Arkansas law of creditors' rights, particularly those in garnishment. Id., at 1295-1296. See Hayden v. Gardner, 238 Ark. 351, 381 S.W.2d 752 (1964). As we have suggested, this misconceives the role properly played by state law in federal tax-collection matters. The question whether a state-law right constitutes "property" or "rights to property" is a matter of federal law. United State v. Bess, 357 U.S., at 56-57. Thus, the facts that under Arkansas law Roy's creditors, unlike Roy himself, could not exercise his right to withdrawal in their favor and in a garnishment proceeding would have to join his codepositors are irrelevant. The federal statute relates to the taxpayer's rights to property and not to his creditor's rights. The Court of Appeals would remit the IRS to the rights only an ordinary creditor would have under state law. That result "compare[s] the government to a class of creditors to which it is superior." Randall v. H. Nasahima & Co., 542 F.2d 270, 274, n.8 (CA5 1976).

The Court of Appeals also has concerned that Ruby and Neva might have rights that are affected if the levy were honored. 726 F.2d, at 1297-1300. This reasoning, however, runs counter to the observation above that a bank served with a notice of levy has two, and only two, possible defenses for failure to comply with the demand: that it is not in possession of property of the taxpayer, or that the property is subject to a prior judicial attachment or execution. As we have stated, neither defense is applicable here. That another party or parties have competing claims to the accounts is not a legitimate statutory defense.

In its understandable concern for Ruby's and Neva's property interests, the Court of Appeals has ignored the statutory scheme established by Congress to protect those rights. Crucially, the administrative levy, as has been noted, is only a provisional remedy. "The final judgment in [a levy] action settles no rights in the property subject to seizure." United States v. New England Merchants National Bank, 465 F. Supp. 83, 87. (Mass. 1979). Other claimants, if they have rights, may assert them. Congress recognized this when the Code's summary-collection procedures were enacted. S. Rep. No. 1708, 89th Cong., 2nd Sess., 29 (1966), and when it provided in §7426 of the Code, 26 U.S.C. §7426, that one claiming an interest in property seized for another's taxes may bring a civil action against the United States to have the property or the proceeds of its sale returned.[11] Congress also has provided, by §6343(b), an effective and inexpensive administrative remedy for the return of the property. See Treas. Reg. §301.6343-1(b)(2), 26 CFR §301.6343-1(b)(2) (1984).[12]

[11]The dissent would find support in United States v. Stock Yards Bank of Louisville, 231 F.2d 628 (CA6 1956), and Raffaele v. Granger, 196 F.2d 620 (CA3 1952). See post, at 11, n.8. Both cases are clearly distinguishable. Stock Yards Bank concerned an attempted levy upon United States Savings Bonds, held in the names of husband and wife, to satisfy the husband's tax liability. Savings bonds, however, are different from joint bank accounts and possess "limitations and conditions . . . which are delineated by the terms of the contract by federal law." 231 F.2d, at 630. Furthermore, the case was decided prior to the enactment of §7426, which was added to the Internal Revenue Code by the Federal Tax Lien Act of 1966, §110(a), 80 Stat. 1142 [Pub. L. 89-719, 1966-2 C.B. 623, 638].

Congress thus balanced the interest of the Government in the speedy collection of taxes against the interests of any claimants to the property, and reconciled those interests by permitting the IRS to levy on the assets at once, leaving ownership disputes to be resolved in a post-seizure administrative or judicial proceeding. See United Sand & Gravel Contractors, Inc. v. United States, 624 F.2d 733, 739 (CA5 1980); Valley Finance Inc. v. United States, 203 U.S. App. D.C. 128, 136-137, 629 F.2d 162, 170-171 (1980), cert. denied, 451 U.S. 1018 (1981). Its decision that certain property rights must yield provisionally to governmental need should not have been disregarded by the Court of Appeals. Nor would the bank be exposed to double liability, were it to honor the IRS levy. The Code provides administrative and judicial remedies for codepositors against the Government, and any attempt to secure payment in this situation from the bank itself would be contrary to the federal enforcement scheme.[13]

The Court of Appeals' final justification for its holding was its belief that an IRS levy "is not normally intended for use as against property in which third parties have an interest" or "as against property bearing on its face the names of third parties, and in which those third parties likely have a property interest." 726 F.2d, at 1300. The court acknowledged the existence of §7426 but felt that that statute was designed to protect only those third parties "whose property has been seized 'inadvertently.' " 726 F.2d, at 1300.

We disagree. The IRS' understanding of the terms of the Code is entitled to considerable deference. Here, moreover, collection provisions plainly contemplate that a taxpayer's interest in property may be less than full ownership. The tax lien attaches not only to "property" but also to "rights to property."; See S. Rep. No. 1708, at 29 [1966-2 C.B. 876]. Further, we see nothing in the language of §7426 that distinguishes among various species of third-party claimants. The language of the statute encompasses advertent seizures as well as inadvertent ones.[14]

There is nothing express or implied i United States v. Rodgers, supra, to th contrary.

Rodgers held that §7403 empowers District Court to order the sale of family house in which a delinquent ta payer has an interest, even though nondelinquent spouse also has a hom stead interest in the house under sta law. 461 U.S., at 698–700. In so ru ing, the Court contrasted the operatio of §7403 with that of §6331. See 4
U.S., at 696. The Court noted th §6331, unlike §7403, does not "imp cate the rights of third parties," becau an administrative levy, unlike a judic lien-foreclosure action, does not de mine the ownership rights to the pr erty. Instead, third parties whose pr erty is seized in an administrative le
"are entitled to claim that the prope may apply for its return either throu administrative channels . . . or throu a civil action." Id., at 696. The Co in other words, recognized what now make explicit: that §6331 is a p visional remedy, which does not de mine the rights of third parties until ter the levy is made, in postseiz administrative or judicial hearings.[

Raffaele v. Granger is even less on point. The decision there did not concern the property of a provisional remedy, but the final ownership of the property in question. The court held that under Pennsylvania law a husband and wife's joint bank account was held by them together as tenants by the entirety, and that therefore the Government could not use the money in the account to satisfy the tax obligations of one spouse. The fact that either spouse could withdraw the property did not mean that it could be used to satisfy either spouse's tax obligations. 196 F.2d, at 622-623. The Government here does not claim otherwise; it merely asserts the right to levy on such property and have all third-parties who claim to own it come forward and make their claim.

[13]As a result, it may well be that any attempt to recover against the bank under state law would be pre-empted. We need not resolve that question, however, for, under Arkansas law, the bank's payment to one depositor was a complete defense against suit on a codepositor's claim. Ark. Stat. Ann. §§67-521, 67-552(b) (1980). Since the government stood in Roy's shoes when it levied upon the joint account, the bank's payment to the IRS would likewise insulate the bank from actions by Roy's codepositors.

[14]The dissent's central argument apes the decision of the Court of Appeals in suggesting that there is something in the language of §6331 that, when compared to the language of §7403, requires that it be read to apply only to the case where the Government has proof that the property levied upon "completely belong[s]" to the delinquent. See post, at 9 (emphasis added). The adverb, however, simply is not part of the statutory language. The dissent bases its reading on the contrast between the language in §7403, "property . . . in which [the delinquent] has any right, title, or interest," with the language in §6331, "property and rights to property . . . belonging to the delinquent." See id. at 5–9. While the dissent's reading of the statutes in contrast is plausible, so too is the Government's, especially in light of the fact that §6331 refers to "rights to property" as well as "property." The legislative history also supports the agency's understanding of the statutory language. Thus when Congress in §7426 enacted a cause of action for one whose property was wrongfully levied, it explicitly recognized that it was protecting against the situation "where the Government levies on property which, in part at least, a third person considers to be his." S. Rep. No. 1708, 89th Cong., 2d Sess., 29 (1966) (emphasis added) [1966-2 C.B. 876, 897]). If Congress intended §6331 to give the Government the power to levy only u property it knows to be wholly owned by the linquent, it never would have felt the need t act §7426. When the agency's plausible inte tation of its statute is supported by the p meaning of the statute, the statutory scheme whole, and the legislative history, we shal reject it because another plausible reading statute is possible.

The dissent also is incorrect when it in that the Court gives the word 'wrongf

The Court of Appeals' result would force the IRS, if it wished to pursue a delinquent taxpayer's interest in a joint bank account, to institute a lien-foreclosure suit under §7403, joining all codepositors as defendants. The practical effect of this would be to eliminate the alternative procedure for administrative levy under §§6331 and 6332. We do not lightly discard this alternative relief that Congress so clearly hs provided for the Government. If the IRS were required to bring a lien-foreclosure suit each time it wished to execute a tax lien on funds in a joint bank account, it would be uneconomical, as a practical matter, to do so on small sums of money such as those at issue here. And it would be easy for a delinquent taxpayer to evade, or at least defer, his obligations by placing his funds in joint bank accounts. While one might not be enthusiastic about paying taxes, it is still true that 'taxes are the life-blood of government, and their prompt and certain availability an imperious need." Bull v. United States, 295 U.S. 247, 259 (1935).

The judgment of the Court of Appeals is reversed.

It is so ordered.

property are punctiliously protected. In comparing §6331 to §7403 in this manner, the dissent compares apples and oranges. A more telling comparison to the lien-foreclosure proceeding of §7403 would be 'with the administrative and judicial remedies for third parties whose property has been subject to wrongful levy, that is, with §§6343(b) and 7426(a)(1). It was just such a comparison that was made in this context by the Court in Rodgers. See 461 U.S., at 696.

Nor is Mansfield v. Excelsior Refining Co., 135 U.S. 326 (1890) (which not surprisingly was not relied on by the District Court or the Court of Appeals or by any of the parties here), in any way related to our holding today. That case involved provisions of the 1868 tax code that required a distiller who rented the property upon which it ran its distillery to obtain a "waiver" from the fee holder stipulating that a lien of the United States on the property for taxes owed by the distiller shall have priority over any mortgage held by the person executing the waiver, and giving the Government the rightful title to the property in case of forfeiture. Act of July 20, 1868, ch. 186, §8, 15 Stat. 128. See 135 U.S., at 328–329, 338–339. The Court held that this waiver did not entitle the Government to treat the property as if it belonged to the distiller for purposes of the then tax code's levy provisions. Id., at 338. The waiver, the Court held, did not give the distiller a fee interest in the premises, nor did it give the Government the right to anything more than a first or prior lien. Id., at 339.

That holding is irrelevant to the present controversy. Insofar as the case stands for any general proposition at all concerning the Government's power to levy, it is not that a levy cannot be used to freeze assets when the delinquent "had less than a complete interest" in the property levied, see post, at 6, but that the government may not levy upon a leasehold interest and then turn around and sell a fee interest—an entirely different kind of interest. In Mansfield, the Court held that the delinquent held no interest in the fee that could be levied upon, and so that case has nothing to do with the question whether the Government can levy when the extent of the delinquent's interest in the property is not finally determined. The part of the decision relied upon by the dissent has to do with the nature of the "waiver" as it affects the characterization of the interest held by the renter/distiller in the underlying fee. The phrase cited by the dissent in context stands for the proposition that the waiver did not give the delinquent a fee interest that the Government could levy upon, but rather gave the Government the right to foreclose on its lien through a suit in equity.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE.—CHAPTER 1, SUBCHAPTER F, PART 301—PROCEDURE AND ADMINISTRATION

Reduction of Tax Overpayments by Amount of Past-due Legally Enforceable Debt Owed to Federal Agency

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service, Treasury.

ACTION: Temporary Regulations; final regulations.

SUMMARY: This document contains temporary regulations and final regulations relating to the reduction of a taxpayer's overpayment (i.e., tax refund) by the amount of any past-due legally enforceable debt owed to a Federal agency and referred by that agency to the Internal Revenue Service for offset. The text of the temporary regulations set forth in this document also serves as the text of the proposed regulations cross-referenced * * * [on page 839, this Bulletin]. Changes to the applicable law were made by the Spending Reduction Act of 1984. The regulations affect any taxpayer who owes a past-due legally enforceable debt to any Federal agency identified as eligible to participate in the tax refund offset program by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and who has made an overpayment of taxes, and such Federal agency to which the past-due legally enforceable debt is owed.

DATES: The regulations apply to refunds payable under section 6402 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 after December 31, 1985 and before January 1, 1988 and are effective upon publication.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document amends the Procedure and Administration Regulations (26 CFR Part 301) to provide rules under section 6402(d) and (e) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, and section 3720A of subchapter II of chapter 37 of title 31, United States Code. Section 6402(d) and (e) was added to the Internal Revenue Code, and section 3720A was added to title 31 of the United States Code, by section 2653 of the Spending Reduction Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369, 98 Stat. 1153) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 661]. The temporary regulations contained in this document will remain in effect until superseded by additional temporary or final regulations published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

EXPLANATION OF STATUTORY PROVISIONS

Section 6402(d) of the Internal Revenue Code requires the Internal Revenue Service (1) to reduce the amount of any overpayment (i.e., tax refund) otherwise payable to a taxpayer by the amount of any past-due legally enforceable debt owed to a federal agency of which the Service has been notified, (2) to pay the amount of the reduction to the agency to which the debt is owed, and (3) to notify the taxpayer that the overpayment has been reduced. That subsection also provides that before reduction for past-due legally enforceable debt, an overpayment shall be reduced for an outstanding liability for past-due support assigned to a State under section 402(a)(26) or 471(a)(17) of the Social Security Act ,and in case more than one debt is owed by a taxpayer, the reduction of the overpayment shall be applied to the debts in the order in which they accrued.

Section 6402(e) provides that no court of the United States shall have jurisdiction to hear any action brought to restrain or review a reduction of an overpayment for past-due support under 6402(c) or past-due legally enforceable debt under 6402(d), and that no such reduction can be reviewed by the Service in an administrative proceeding.

Section 3720A(a) of title 31 provides that any Federal agency that is owed a past-due legally enforceable debt shall notify the Internal Revenue Service of the amount of the debt. Under section 3720A(b), a Federal agency must, before notifying the Service, notify the taxpayer who is responsible for the debt that the agency plans to refer the taxpayer's debt to the Service for offset of any Federal tax refund; determine that the debt is past-due and legally enforceable after providing the taxpayer at least 60 days in which to present evidence to the contrary; and make reasonable efforts to collect the debt. Section 3720A(c) requires the Service to reduce the tax refund, if any, payable to a taxpayer by the amount of the past-due legally enforceable debt owed to the creditor agency and to pay the amount of the reduction to the agency. Under section 3720A(d), the Service is directed to issue regulations providing the time and manner of submission of notification. Section 3720A(e) requires any Federal agency which has received an erroneous payment from the Service to repay such amount to the Service.

EXPLANATION OF REGULATORY PROVISIONS

The temporary regulations under section 6402(d) and (e) and section 3720A provide that, for purposes of the pilot tax refund offset program, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue will identify those creditor Federal agencies which are eligible to enter into an agreement with the Service with regard to their participation in this offset program. In addition, the regulations provide guidance as to which past-due legally enforceable debts qualify for offset. The regulations include the statutory requirements that prior to referral of a debt to the Service, an agency must give the debtor at least 60 days to present evidence that all or part of the debt is not past-due or legally enforceable, consider any evidence presented, and determine that the debt is past-due and legally enforceable. The regulations also require that debts to be offset after 1986 first must be referred to a consumer reporting agency under 31 U.S.C. 3711(f), which includes a similar 60-day period for notice and administrative review prior to referral to a consumer reporting agency. Agencies will not be required to duplicate such administrative review to the extent they have previously complied with identical requirements under 31 U.S.C. 3711(f).

The regulations set forth requirements relating to time of notification to the Service, the content of the notification, and procedures for correction of notification after submission of the initial information. The regulations describe the disposition of the amounts collected and provide that a fee sufficient to cover the Service's cost of the offset procedure shall be billed to, and collected from, the participating agencies.

The final regulations conform existing regulations under section 6402 to the changes made to 6402(c) and (d) by section 2653 of the Spending Reduction Act of 1984 and section 21 of the Child Support Enforcement Amendments of 1984.

EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291 AND REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that these temporary and final rules are not major rules as defined in Executive Order 12291 and, therefore, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required. A general notice of proposed rulemaking is not required by 5 U.S.C. 553 for temporary regulations or for final regulations subject to 5 U.S.C. 553(b)(3). Accordingly, these temporary and final regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these regulations is Sharon L. Hall of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations on matters of both substance and style.

Amendments to the regulations

The amendments to 26 CFR Part 301 are as follows:

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 301 is amended by adding the following citation:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. * * Section 301.6402-6T also issued under 31 U.S.C. 3720A.

Par. 2. Section 301.6402-1 is revised to read as follows:

§301.6402-1 Authority to make credits or refunds.

The Commissioner, within the applicable period of limitations, may credit any overpayment of tax, including interest thereon, against any outstanding liability for any tax (or for any interest, additional amount, addition to the tax, or assessable penalty) owed by the person making the overpayment and the balance, if any, shall be refunded, subject to sections 6402(c) and (d) and the regulations thereunder, to that person by the Commissioner.

Par. 3. Section 301.6402-3(a)(6) is revised to read as follows:

§301.6402-3 Special rules applicable to income tax.

(a) * * *

(6) Notwithstanding paragraph (a)(5)

of this section, the Internal Revenue Service, within the applicable period of limitations, may credit any overpayment of individual, fiduciary, or corporation income tax, including interest thereon, against—

(i) First, any outstanding liability for any tax (or for any interest, additional amount, additions to the tax, or assessable penalty) owed by the taxpayer making the overpayment;

(ii) Second, in the case of an individual taxpayer, amounts of past-due support assigned to a State under section 402(a)(26) or 471(a)(17) of the Social Security Act under procedures set forth in the regulations under section 6402(c);

(iii) Third, past-due and legally enforceable debt under procedures set forth in the regulations under section 6402(d); and

(iv) Fourth, qualifying amounts of past-due support not assigned to a State under procedures set forth in the regulations under section 6402(c).

Only the balance, if any, of the overpayment remaining after credits described in this paragraph (a)(6) shall be treated in the manner so elected.

* * * * *

Par. 5. The following new section is added immediately after §301.6402-5 to read as follows:

(a) General rule. (1) A Federal agency (as defined in section 6402(f)) that has entered into an agreement with the Internal Revenue Service with regard to its participation in the tax refund offset program and that is owed a past-due legally enforceable debt may notify the Internal Revenue Service, pursuant to the terms of such agreement, of past-due legally enforceable debts owed to such agency that are to be collected by tax refund offset. The Service shall, after making appropriate credits as provided by §301.6402-3(a)(6)(i) and (ii), reduce the amount of any overpayment payable to a taxpayer by the amount of any past-due legally enforceable debt owed to such agency of which the Service has been properly notified. This section does not apply to any debt incurred by an overpayment of benefits to a taxpayer under Title II of the Social Security Act (OASDI overpayment) or debt subject to section 464 of the Social Security Act (past-due support).

(2) For purposes of the pilot tax refund offset program, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue will identify those Federal agencies eligible to enter into the agreement with the Service described in paragraph (a)(1) of this section.

(b) Past-due legally enforceable debt eligible for refund offset. For purposes of this section, a past-due legally enforceable debt which may be referred by a Federal agency to the Service for offset is a debt—

(1) which, except in the case of a judgment debt, has been delinquent for at least three months but has not been delinquent for more than ten years at the time the offset is made;

(2) which cannot be currently collected pursuant to the salary offset provisions of-5 U.S.C. 5514(a)(1);

(3) which is ineligible for administrative offset under 31 U.S.C. 3716(a) by reason of 31 U.S.C. 3716(c)(2), or cannot be currently collected by administrative offset under 31 U.S.C. 3716(a) by the referring agency against amounts payable to the debtor by the referring agency;

(4) with respect to which FAS the agency has given the taxpayer at least 60 days to present evidence that all or part of the debt is not past-due or legally enforceable, has considered evidence presented by such taxpayer, and determined that an amount of such debt is past-due and legally enforceable;

(5) which has been disclosed by such agency to a consumer reporting agency as authorized by 31 U.S.C. 3711(f), in the case of a debt to be referred to the Service after June 30, 1986;

(6) with respect to which that the agency has notified, or has made a reasonable attempt to notify, the taxpayer that—

(i) the debt is past due, and

(ii) unless repaid within 60 days thereafter, will be referred to the Service for offset against any overpayment of tax; and

(7) which is at least $25.

(c) Time and content of notification of liability for past-due legally enforceable debt. (1) A Federal agency must submit a notification of a taxpayer's liability for past-due legally enforceable debt to the Service on magnetic tape by December 1 of each year. Such notification must contain—

(i) The name and identifying number (as defined in section 6109) of the taxpayer who is responsible for the debt;

(ii) The amount of such past-due and legally enforceable debt;

(iii) The date on which the debt became past-due;

(iv) The designation of the Federal agency or subagency submitting the notification of liability and identification of the agency program under which the debt was incurred.

(2) Accompanying each magnetic tape, the agency must submit a statement certifying that, with respect to each debt reported on the tape, all of the requirements of §301.6402-6(b) have been satisfied.

(d) Correction of notification. If, after submitting to the Service notification of liability for past-due legally enforceable debt as provided by paragraph (c), an agency determines that an error has been made with respect to the information contained in the notification, or if an agency receives a payment or credits a payment to the account of a taxpayer named in this notification, the agency shall promptly notify the Service, which shall make the appropriate correction of its records. However, this paragraph does not apply to a subsequent increase in the amount of past-due legally enforceable debt owed by a taxpayer named in an agency's original notification to the Service.

(e) Priorities for offset. (1) An overpayment shall be reduced first by the amount of an outstanding liability for any tax under section 6402(a); second, by the amount of any past-due support assigned to a State under section 402(a)(26) or 471(a)(17) of the Social Security Act which is to be offset under section 6402(c) and the regulations thereunder; third, by the amount of any past-due legally enforceable debt owed to a Federal agency under section 6402(d) and this section; and fourth, by the amount of any qualifying past-due support not assigned to a State which is to be offset under section 6402(c) and the regulations thereunder.

(2) If a taxpayer owes more than one past-due legally enforceable debt to a Federal agency or agencies, the overpayment shall be credited against the debts in the order in which the debts accrued. A debt shall be considered to have accrued at the time at which the debt became past due.

(3) Reduction of the overpayment pursuant to section 6402(a), (c) and (d) shall occur prior to crediting of the overpayment to any future liability for an internal revenue tax. Any amount remaining after offset under section 6402(a), (c) and (d) shall be refunded to the taxpayer, or applied to estimated tax, if elected by the taxpayer.

(f) Notice of offset. The Service shall notify the taxpayer in writing of the amount and date of the offset for past-due legally enforceable debt and of the Federal agency to which this amount has been paid or credited. Such notice shall include a notification to any other person who may have filed a joint return with the taxpayer of the steps which such other person may take in order to secure his or her proper share of the refund. The Service shall advise each agency on a monthly basis of the names, mailing addresses and identifying numbers of the taxpayers from whom amounts of past-due legally enforceable debt were collected and of the amounts collected from each taxpayer. If the refund from which an amount of past-due legally enforceable debt is to be withheld is based upon a joint return, the Service shall so notify the agency, and furnish the names and address of each taxpayer filing such joint return.

(g) Offset made with regard to refund based upon joint return. If the person filing the joint return with the taxpayer owing the past-due legally enforceable debt takes appropriate action to secure his or her proper share of a refund from which a withholding was made, the Service shall pay such person his or her share of the refund and shall deduct that amount from amounts subsequently payable to the agency to which the amount withheld was originally paid.

(h) Disposition of amounts collected. Amounts collected under this section shall be transferred to a special account maintained by the Bureau of Financial Management Services for each Federal agency. If an erroneous payment is made to any agency, the Service shall deduct the amount of such payment from amounts subsequently payable to the agency to which the amount withheld was originally paid.

(i) Fees. Refund offset fees in amounts determined to be sufficient to reimburse the Service for the full cost of the offset procedure prescribed by this section shall be billed to, and collected from, the participating Federal agencies. The fees shall be deposited in the United States Treasury and credited to the appropriation accounts of the Service which bore all or part of the costs involved in administering the refund offset procedures.

(j) Review of offset of refunds. Any reduction of a taxpayer's refund made pursuant to section 6402(c) or (d) shall not be subject to review by any court of the United States or by the Service in an administrative proceeding. No action brought against the United States to recover the amount of any such reduction shall be considered to be a suit for refund of tax. Any legal, equitable or administrative action by any person seeking to recover the amount of the reduction of the overpayment must be taken against the Federal agency to which the amount of the reduction was paid.

(k) Effective date. This section applies to refunds payable under section 6402 of the Internal Revenue Code after December 31, 1985, and before January 1, 1988.

There is need for immediate guidance with respect to the provisions contained in this Treasury decision. For this reason, it is found impractical to issue this Treasury decision with notice and public procedure under subsection (b) of section 553 of Title 5 of the United States Code or subject to the effective date limitation of subsection (d) of that section.

Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Subchapter C.—Determination of Interest Rate; Compounding of Interest

Section 6621.—Determination of Rate of Interest

26 CFR 301.6621-1: Interest rate.

Adjusted interest rate; underpayments and overpayments. The adjusted rate of interest on underpayments and overpayments, as determined under section 6621(b) of the Code, will decrease from 11 to 10 percent on January 1, 1986.

Rev. Rul. 85-169

Section 6621(b) of the Internal Revenue Code provides for semiannual adjustment of the interest rate established under that section. Section 6621(b)(1) requires that these adjustments in the rate be established by October 15 and April 15, and be based on the average prime interest rate for the six-month period ending the previous September 30 or March 31, respectively.

The Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System has determined that the average prime interest rate for the six-month period ending September 30, 1985, was 9.85 percent. That rate, rounded to the nearest full percent, is 10 percent, a change of 1 percent from the rate of 11 percent in effect under the last determination made by the Internal Revenue Service. See Rev. Rul. 85-47, 1985-1 C.B. 367. Accordingly, an adjusted rate of interest of 10 percent is established under section 6621(b). The adjusted rate will take effect on January 1, 1986, and will apply to amounts outstanding on that date or arising thereafter.

Daily rates for compound interest for 10 percent were published in Table 16 of Rev. Proc. 83-7, 1983-1 C.B. 583, 599.

Rev. Rul. 85-178

In Rev. Rul. 84-80, 1984-1 C.B. 275, and Rev. Rul. 84-180, 1984-2 C.B. 314, the Internal Revenue Service listed several states that revised their limited partnership statutes after the promulgation of the Revised Uniform Limited Partnership Act. The Service determined that the legislation enacted by those states corresponds to the Uniform Limited Partnership Act ("ULPA") for purposes of section 301.7701-2 of the Regulations on Procedure and Administration.

The Service has determined that the following additional states have enacted legislation that, as of the effective date, corresponds to ULPA for purposes of section 301.7701-2 of the regulations:

IOWA: Iowa Code Ann. sections 545.101 through 545.1106 (West Supp. 1984) effective July 1, 1982.

WYOMING: Wyo. Stat. sections 17-14-201 through 17-14-1104 (Supp. 1984) effective July 1, 1979.

ISSUE 1

In the situation described below, is a firm that furnishes a computerized tax return preparation service to tax practitioners an income tax return preparer under section 7701(a)(36) of the Internal Revenue Code?

ISSUE 2

If so, what requirements and/or penalties will apply?

FACTS

X is a firm that offers a computerized tax preparation service to tax practitioners such as attorneys and certified public accountants, including A. Practitioners such as A fill out sheets with information about their clients' income, deductions, etc. This work sheet requires the practitioners to make substantive determinations about categorization of income, allowability of deductions, etc. The practitioners forward the information to X, whose employees enter the information into X's computer, which has been programmed to produce a completed Form 1040, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, together with appropriate supporting schedules. X then forwards the completed returns to the practitioners, who normally sign the clients' returns as preparers and give the returns to the clients. X does not deal directly wi the public.

In 1984, B a client of A, came to with information concerning incon and deductions for the tax year 198 and requested that A prepare For 1040 for 1983. A studied the inform tion, asked the requisite questions of completed X's worksheet, and mail the worksheet to X. X then furnished completed Form 1040 for B to A. signed the return and gave it to B, w filed the return with the Internal Rev nue Service.

The program that X used computing the tax on B's 1983 retu included a computation of an Accel ated Cost Recovery System (ACR deduction under section 168 of t Code with respect to property tha put into service during 1983. computing the allowable deduction, program did not reduce the basis of property by 50 percent of the amo of the credit claimed under secti 46(a)(2), as required by section 48 as in effect for 1983. X's progr would have correctly computed B's under the law in effect for 1982 bef the amendment made by the Tax Equ and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 19 section 205(a), 1982-2 C.B. 462, 4 X, however, failed to reprogram system to take this change into acco

In 1984, the Service examined return and determined that the failur reduce the basis of B's property cau an understatement of tax.

LAW AND ANALYSIS

Section 7701(a)(36)(A) of the C defines an income tax return prep as any person who prepares any re of tax, or any claim for refund of imposed by subtitle A, for compe tion, or any person who employs or more persons to prepare such ret or claims for refund for compensat

Section 7701(a)(36)(B)(i) of Code provides that a person merely furnishes typing, reproduci or other mechanical assistance is no income tax return preparer.

The Code and the regulations template that more than one person be a preparer with respect to a give turn or claim for refund. For exam section 301.7701-15(a) of the Reg tions on Procedure and Administra defines an income tax return preparer as any person who actually prepares the return as well as any person who employs (or engages) one or more persons to prepare a return. Similarly, section 301.7701-15(b)(1) of the regulations, in discussing whether preparation of a portion of a return is considered preparation of the return as a whole, speaks of "persons acting in concert". Thus, in this case, the fact that A is the preparer of B's return does not mean that X could not also be considered a preparer because A has engaged X for assistance in preparing a complete return for B.

X is considered a preparer with respect to B's return because X's calculations go beyond mere mechanical assistance to A. X's program has made substantive determinations concerning the application of section 48(q) in computing how much is deductible with respect to B's ACRS deduction, and goes beyond merely furnishing typing, reproducing, or other mechanical assistance.

Sections 6694(a) and 6694(b) of the Code provide that any person who is an income tax return preparer may be subject to a penalty if any part of an understatement of liability with respect to a return or claim for refund is due to a negligent or intentional disregard of rules or regulations by an income tax return preparer, or if the understatement is due to a willful attempt to understate the liability by an income tax return preparer.

Rev. Proc. 80-40, 1980-2 C.B. 774, provides guidelines for the application of the penalty under section 6694(a) of the Code. Under section 4.01 of Rev. Proc. 80-40, the following factors will be taken into consideration in determining whether to assert the penalty: The nature of the error causing the understatement; the frequency of errors; and the materiality of errors. Additionally, under section 4.02 of Rev. Proc. 80-40, the preparer's office practice will be taken into account in determining whether to assert the penalty.

Under section 6107(a) of the Code, an income tax return preparer has an obligation to furnish a copy of the return to the taxpayer and may be penalized under section 6695(a) for failure to do so. Under section 6107(b), an income tax return preparer has an obligation to retain a copy of the return or a list of taxpayers for whom returns have been prepared and may be penalized under section 6695(d) for failure to do so. When one preparer employs or engages another, the responsibility for these acts falls on the employer. See section 1.6107-1(c)(1) of the Income Tax Regulations.

Section 6695(b) of the Code imposes an obligation to sign the return and imposes a penalty for failure to do so. Under section 1.6695-1(b)(2) of the regulations, this obligation falls on the person with primary responsibility for the overall subtantive accuracy of the return, and not on every person who may be a preparer with respect to that return.

Section 6109(a)(4) of the Code imposes an obligation on preparers to furnish their identifying numbers. Under section 1.6695-1(c)(2) of the regulations, the penalty for failure to do so under section 6695(c) of the Code does not fall on a preparer engaged by another preparer.

Under sections 6060 of the Code and 1.6060-1 of the regulations, any person who employs an income tax return preparer must retain a record concerning each preparer so employed and may be penalized under section 6695(e) for failure to do so.

Section 6695(f) of the Code imposes a penalty on income tax return preparers who endorse or otherwise negotiate refund checks that are issued to taxpayers.

Section 7216 of the Code imposes a criminal penalty for unlawful disclosure or use of return information by persons who prepare returns or provide services in connection with the preparation of returns.

HOLDINGS

X is an income tax return preparer with respect to B's 1983 income tax return.

As an income tax return preparer, X may be subject to a number of requirements and penalties. X is potentially subject to a penalty under sections 6694(a) or 6694(b) of the Code if any part of an understatement of liability with respect to B's return is due to a negligent or intentional disregard of rules or regulations by X, or if the understatement is due to X's attempt to willfully understate the liability. In order to determine whether the penalty under section 6694(a) will be asserted, the factors discussed in sections 4.01 and 4.02 of Rev. Proc. 80-40 must be considered.

The responsibility for furnishing a copy of the return to B and for retaining a list of taxpayers for whom returns have been prepared falls on A. Accordingly, X is not subject to the penalties under sections 6695(a) or 6695(d) of the Code.

Because A had primary responsibility for the overall substantive accuracy of B's return, A correctly signed the return as preparer and X is not subject to the penalty under section 6695(b) of the Code for failure to do so.

Because X was engaged by A, A's identifying number and not X's should be shown on B's return. X is not subject to the penalty under section 6695(c) of the Code.

Under section 6060 of the Code, X must keep a record of any person in its employ that meets the definition of income tax return preparer. X is subject to the penalty under section 6695(e) of the Code for failure to do so.

X may be penalized under section 6695(f) of the Code if X endorses or otherwise negotiates a refund check issued to B.

X may be subject to the criminal penalty under section 7216 of the Code if X makes an unlawful disclosure or use of return information.

Return preparers; farmers cooperative credit association. A farmers cooperative credit association that prepares Schedule F of Form 1040 as part of a computerized data processing system provided to members is an income tax return preparer if the Schedule F is a substantial portion of a member's return.

Are a farmers cooperative credit association and its employees who prepare Schedule F of Form 1040 (Farm Income and Expenses) income tax return preparers under section 7701(a)(36) of the Internal Revenue Code under the circumstances described below?

ISSUE 2

If so, what requirements and/or penalties will apply?

FACTS

X, a farmers cooperative credit association, lends money to member farmers. In connection with this activity, X markets a computerized data processing system which it provides to its members as a service. Using information submitted by members of the cooperative, the system provides a variety of schedules and summaries dealing with each member's financial operations, including a completed Schedule F, a Form W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement), and a Form 941 (Employer's Quarterly Federal Tax Return) for reporting withheld income tax and Federal Insurance Contribution Act taxes. To complete the Schedule F the computer has been programmed to figure the amount of allowable depreciation and to make other tax computations based on the information fed into it.

Some members do not want all these items and request only the schedules and summaries they feel would be useful. X charges a standard fee regardless of whether its members receive all of the information provided.

A, an employee of X, is responsible for explaining the computer system to potential members, helping members assemble and code data for input into the system, reviewing the items furnished to the members, and performing other duties not directly related to administration of the system. A is familiar with both the financial and operational aspects of farming and has knowledge of farm finance and individual income taxation. A may advise the members on how to classify tax items when assisting them. A also reviews the completed forms to ensure that the correct information is fed into the computer so that forms are completed properly. A does not, however, purport be a tax specialist and does not prepare Form 1040 (U.S. Individual Income Tax Return) for members. Such returns are usually prepared by other income tax return preparers or by the members themselves.

Section 7701(a)(36) of the Code defines an income tax return preparer as any person who prepares for compensation, or who employs one or more persons to prepare for compensation, any return of tax imposed by subtitle A or any claim for refund of tax imposed by subtitle A. The preparation of a substantial portion of a return or claim for refund is treated as if it were the preparation of the return or claim. Persons who merely furnish typing, reproducing, or other mechanical assistance are excepted from the definition of preparer.

Section 301.7701-15(b) of the Regulations on Procedure and Administration provides that only a person (or persons acting in concert) who prepares all or a substantial portion of a return or claim is considered a preparer. A person who gives advice directly relevant to the determination of the existence, characterization, or amount of an entry on a return or claim is regarded as having prepared that entry. Whether a schedule, entry, or other portion of a return or claim is a substantial portion of the return or claim is determined by comparing the length and complexity of, and the tax liability or refund involved in, that portion to the length and complexity of, and tax liability or refund involved in, the return or claim for refund as a whole.

To be a preparer under section 7701(a)(36) of the Code, a person must satisfy all the elements of the definition of preparer. In summary, the person must prepare a return for compensation or employ a person who is a preparer with respect to a return or claim.

Form W-2 and Form 941 are specifically excluded from the definition of income tax returns by section 301.7701-15(c)(1)(ii) of the regulations. Schedule F, while not a return in itself, may be a substantial portion of a return if it meets the criteria in section 301.7701-15(b).

Because the amount of depreciation and other tax computations are made for members, the data processing system has been programmed to make sub stantive tax determinations. A's assis ance to the members involve substantive tax advice in instance where A makes determinations abo how tax items are to be classified wh providing the assistance.

The members pay an amount for t use of the entire system, includi preparation of Schedule F. A is co pensated for duties, including those lated to the operation of the system, though many of A's duties do n involve preparation of Schedule F.

Sections 6694(a) and 6694(b) of t Code provide that any person who is income tax return preparer may be su ject to a penalty if any part of an und statement of liability with respect t return or claim for refund is due t negligent or intentional disregard rules or regulations by an income return preparer, or if the understa ment is due to a willful attempt to derstate the liability by an income return preparer.

Rev. Proc. 80-40, 1980-2 C.B. 7 provides guidelines for the applica of the penalty under section 6694(a the Code. Under section 4.01 of R Proc. 80-40, the following factors be taken into consideration in deter ing whether to assert the penalty: nature of the error causing the un statement; the frequency of errors; the materiality of errors. Additiona under section 4.02 of Rev. P 80-40, the preparer's office prac will be taken into account in deter ing whether to assert the penalty.

Under section 6107(a) of the C an income tax return preparer ha obligation to furnish a copy of th turn to the taxpayer and may be p ized under section 6695(a) for failu do so. Under section 6107(b), a come tax return preparer has an ob tion to retain a copy of the return list of taxpayers for whom returns been prepared and may be pena under section 6695(d) for failure so. When one preparer employs gages another, the responsibilit these acts falls on the employer section 1.6107-1(c)(1) of the In Tax Regulations.

Section 6695(b) of the Code im an obligation to sign the retur imposes a penalty for failure to do so. Under section 1.6695-1(b)(2) of the regulations, this obligation falls on the person with primary responsibility for the overall substantive accuracy of the return, and not on every person who may be a preparer with respect to that return.

Section 6109(a)(4) of the Code imposes an obligation on preparers to furnish their identifying numbers. Under section 1.6695-1(c)(2) of the regulations, the penalty for failure to do so imposed by section 6695(c) of the Code does not fall on a preparer engaged by another preparer.

Under sections 6060 of the Code and 1.6060-1 of the regulations, any person who employs an income tax return preparer must retain a record concerning each preparer so employed and may be penalized under section 6695(e) for failure to do so.

Section 6695(f) of the Code imposes a penalty on income tax return preparers who endorse or otherwise negotiate refund checks that are issued to taxpayers.

Section 7216 of the Code imposes a criminal penalty for unlawful disclosure or use of return information by persons who prepare returns or provide services in connection with the preparation of returns.

HOLDING

ISSUE 1

Preparation of a Schedule F by X's computerized data processing system is preparation of a federal income tax return under section 7701(a)(36) of the Code only when the Schedule F constitutes a substantial portion of a Form 1040 filed by a taxpayer. Thus, X is an income tax return preparer with respect to such a return. A also is considered an income tax return preparer with respect to such a return when A makes independent determinations about what items should be fed into the computer (i.e., which items are deductible, which are not) or how the information on completed forms should be categorized.

In those situations in which X is considered an income tax return preparer because Schedule F constitutes a substantial portion of the return, X may be subject to the following requirements and/or penalties:

X is potentially subject to a penalty under sections 6694(a) or 6694(b) of the Code if any part of an understatement of liability with respect to a member's return is due to a negligent or intentional disregard of rules or regulations by X or if the understatement is due to X's attempt to willfully understate the liability. In order to determine whether the penalty under section 6694(a) will be asserted, the factors discussed in sections 4.01 and 4.02 of Rev. Proc. 80-40 must be considered. Similarly, A also is potentially subject to such a penalty if A is a preparer with respect to a return.

X must furnish a copy of Schedule F to members and retain a list of taxpayers for whom schedules have been prepared and may be penalized under sections 6695(a) and 6695(d) of the Code for failure to do so.

Because neither X nor its employees has primary responsibility for the overall substantive accuracy of a member's return, neither A nor X is required to sign a return and neither is subject to the penalty for failure to do so. Similarly, neither X's nor A's identifying number need appear on the return.

Under section 6060 of the Code, X must keep a record of A and any other person in its employ that meets the definition of income tax return preparer. X is subject to the penalty under section 6695(e) for failure to do so.

X may be penalized under section 6695(f) of the Code if X endorses or otherwise negotiates a refund check issued to a member for whom a Schedule F was prepared.

Both X and A may be subject to the criminal penalty under section 7216 of the Code if either makes an unlawful disclosure or use of return information. This penalty could apply even if Schedule F does not constitute a substantial portion of a return and even if A is not an income tax return preparer because of the absence of independent determinations with respect to a given return.

Return preparers; sale of computer program. A person who prepares a computer program and sells it to a taxpayer to use in preparing the taxpayer's income tax return may be an income tax return preparer.

ISSUE 1

Is a person who prepares a computer program and sells it to a taxpayer to use in preparing the taxpayer's income tax return considered an income tax return preparer within the meaning of section 7701(a)(36) of the Internal Revenue Code under the circumstances described below?

ISSUE 2

If so, what requirements and/or penalties will apply?

FACTS

X has prepared a computer program that is to be used to complete Form 1040, U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, for calendar year 1983 and that X sells to customers. A, a customer of X, used the program to complete A's Form 1040 for calendar year 1983 without any assistance from X. A entered figures into a computer after the computer program explained the requirements for each entry on the return (that is, what constitutes income, what items are deductible, which persons may be claimed as dependents, etc). The computer is programmed to calculate some return items for the taxpayer based on the information fed into it. For example, the program determines whether the taxpayer is eligible for various deductions and credits and the amounts allowable. The computer prints the figures for all the lines of the return on a line printer. X designed the computer program so that customers can use it even if they are not familiar with the provisions of the Code and regulations.

The program used in computing the tax on A's 1983 return included a computation of an Accelerated Cost Recovery System (ACRS) deduction under section 168 of the Code with respect to property that A put into service during 1983. In computing the allowable deduction, X's program did not reduce the basis of the property by 50 percent of the amount of the credit claimed under section 46(a)(2), as required by section 48(q) as in effect for 1983. X's program would have correctly computed A's tax under the law in effect for 1982 before the amendment made by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982, section 205(a), 1982-2 C.B. 462, 474. However, X failed to reprogram the program for 1983 to take this change into account.

In 1984, the Service examined A's return and determined that the failure to reduce the basis of A's property caused an understatement of tax.

ISSUE 1

Section 7701(a)(36)(A) of the Code defines an income tax return preparer as any person who prepares any return of tax, or any claim for refund of tax, imposed by subtitle A, for compensation, or any person who employs one or more persons to prepare such returns or claims for refund for compensation.

Section 7701(a)(36)(B)(i) of the Code provides that a person who merely furnishes typing, reproducing, or other mechanical assistance is not an income tax return preparer.

Section 301.7701-15(a)(1) of the Regulations on Procedure and Administration provides that if a person furnishes a taxpayer or other preparer enough information and advice to make completing the return or claim for refund largely a mechanical or clerical matter, the person is considered an income tax return preparer, even if he or she does not actually place or review information on the return or claim for refund.

The determination of whether X is considered the preparer of A's return does not depend on whether X or X's employees personally reviewed the completed return or whether X or X's employees actually placed any of the figures on the return. Rather, such a determination depends on whether X has given substantive tax instructions in the computer program.

X is considered a preparer with respect to A's return because X's computer program provides more than mere mechanical assistance. Substantive determinations are performed by X's computer program concerning the application of section 48(q) of the Code to the factual information supplied by A.

Sections 6694(a) and 6694(b) of the Code provide that any person who is an income tax return preparer may be subject to a penalty if any part of an understatement of liability with respect to a return or claim for refund is due to a negligent or intentional disregard of rules or regulations by an income tax return preparer, or if the understatement is due to a willful attempt to understate the liability.

Rev. Proc. 80-40, 1980-2 C.B. 774, provides guidelines for the application of the penalty under section 6694(a) of the Code. Under section 4.01 of Rev. Proc. 80-40, the following factors will be taken into consideration in determining whether to assert the penalty: the nature of the error causing the understatement; the frequency of errors; and the materiality of errors. Additionally, under section 4.02 of Rev. Proc. 80-40, the preparer's office practice will be taken into account in determining whether to assert the penalty.

Under section 6107(a) of the Code, an income tax return preparer has an obligation to furnish a copy of the return to the taxpayer and may be penalized under section 6695(a) for failure to do so. Under section 6107(b), an income tax return preparer has an obligation to retain a copy of the return or a list of taxpayers for whom returns have been prepared and may be penalized under section 6695(d) for failure to do so.

Section 6695(b) of the Code imposes an obligation on preparers to furnish their identifying numbers and section 6695(c) imposes a penalty for failure to do so.

Under sections 6060 of the Code and 1.6060-1 of the Income Tax Regulations, any person who employs an income tax return preparer must retain a record concerning each preparer so employed and may be penalized under section 6695(e) for failure to do so.

The penalties in sections 6695(a)-(e) do not apply if the failure is due to reasonable cause.

Section 6695(f) of the Code imposes a penalty on income tax return preparers who endorse or other wise negotiate refund checks that are issued to taxpayers.

Section 7216 of the Code imposes a criminal penalty for unlawful disclosure of return information by persons who prepare returns or provide services in connection with the preparation of returns.

ISSUE 1

X is an income tax return preparer with respect to A's 1983 income tax return.

X is potentially subject to a penalty under sections 6694(a) or 6694(b) of the Code if any part of an understatement of liability with respect to A's return is due to a negligent or intentional disregard of rules or regulations by X, or if the understatement is due to X's attempt to willfully understate the liability. In the determination of whether the penalty under section 6694(a) will be asserted, the factors discussed in sections 4.01 and 4.02 of Rev. Proc. 80-40 must be considered.

Sections 6695(a)-(e) of the Code and the regulations thereunder provide that the penalties will not apply if it is shown that the failure is due to reasonable cause and not due to willful neglect. In this case, noncompliance with sections 6695(a)-(e) would be viewed as due to reasonable cause since X had no involvement with the actual preparation of the return. Consequently, the penalties under sections 6695(a)-(e) do not apply to X under these circumstances.

X may be penalized under section 6695(f) of the Code if X endorses or otherwise negotiates a refund check issued to A.

X may be subject to the criminal penalty under section 7216 of the Code if X makes an unlawful disclosure or use of return information.

TITLE 26—INTERNAL REVENUE.—CHAPTER I, SUBCHAPTER A, PART 1—INCOME TAX; TAXABLE YEARS BEGINNING AFTER DECEMBER 31, 1953

Below Market Loans

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service, Treasury.

ACTION: Temporary regulations; final regulations.

SUMMARY: This document contains temporary regulations relating to the Federal tax treatment of both the lender and the borrower in certain below-market interest rate loan transactions. Changes to the applicable law were made by the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. The regulations exempt taxpayers who are parties to certain below-market interest rate loan transactions from the new rules which generally apply to below-market interest rate loans. See the text of the notice of proposed rulemaking * * * [LR-165-84, page 812, this Bulletin] for rules which would affect taxpayers who enter into certain below-market loans and provide them with guidance needed to comply with the law.

DATES: The regulations apply to below-market term loans made after June 6, 1984, and below-market demand loans outstanding after June 6, 1984, and are effective June 6, 1984.

This document contains temporary Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under section 7872 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

IN GENERAL

Prior to the enactment of section 7872, some taxpayers used interest-free loans or loans with an interest rate below the current market rate (in each case, "below-market loans") which purported to circumvent well-established rules of taxation. Thus, in family or similar situations below-market loans have been used which purported to have the effect of avoiding taxation under the grantor trust rules and deflecting income to others. Corporations have made below-market loans to shareholders with the effect of avoiding taxation of income at the corporate level which is the economic equivalent of receiving a deduction for dividends paid to those shareholders. Employers have made below-market loans to employees with the effect of providing compensation which has not been subject to employment taxes. Interest-free loans have also been used to convert non-deductible expenses into the equivalent of deductible expenses.

Section 7872 addresses these and similar practices, generally, by treating certain below-market loans described in one of the categories specified in section 7872(c) as economically equivalent to loans bearing interest at the applicable Federal rate coupled with a payment by the lender to the borrower sufficient to fund the payment of interest by the borrower. Thus, the lender is treated as making (i) a loan to the borrower in exchange for a note requiring the payment of interest at the applicable Federal rate, and (ii) a transfer of funds to the borrower in an amount generally equal to the amount of interest imputed under section 7872. In the case of term gift loans, however, the amount of money treated as transferred by the lender to the borrower which is subject to gift tax, and the amount of the imputed interest payment by the borrower to the lender are unequal because they are calculated differently under the Statute.

These temporary regulations provide for the exemption of certain below-market loans from the rules of section 7872. Section 7872(g)(1)(C) provides regulatory authority for exempting from the application of section 7872 any class of transactions if the application of section 7872 would not have a significant effect on any Federal tax liability of the lender or the borrower. Accordingly, these temporary regulations provide that certain below-market loans which are not structured as such for tax avoidance purposes are exempted from the provisions of section 7872. If, however, such a loan is structured as one of the exempted loans for tax avoidance purposes, the Service may recharacterize the transaction according to its economic substance and apply section 7872 in accordance with its terms.

NOTICE OF PROPOSED RULEMAKING

The notice of proposed rulemaking [LR-165-84], which is published * * * [on page 812, this Bulletin] provides taxpayers who enter into certain below-market loans with the guidance needed to comply with section 7872. Accordingly, those proposals would provide rules for determining:

(1) The type of transactions characterized as loans;

(2) The types of below-market loans subject to section 7872;

(3) The timing and amount of transfers in connection with gift, demand and term loans;

(4) The special application of section 7872 to loans made directly between natural persons;

(5) The rule for de minimis amount of loans; and

(6) Other special rules.

As a result, these temporary regulations reserve all sections of the regulations other than §1.7872-5T until the proposed regulations are published as either temporary or final regulations.

INAPPLICABILITY OF EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Treasury Department has determined that these temporary regulations are not subject to review under Executive Order 12291. Accordingly, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT

A general notice of proposed rulemaking is not required by 5 U.S.C. 553 for temporary regulations. Accordingly, the temporary regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6).

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these regulations is Howard A. Balikov of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing these regulations on matters of both substance and style.

Adoption of amendments to the regulations.

Accordingly, 26 CFR Part 1 is amended as follows:

INCOME TAX REGULATIONS 26 CFR PART 1

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 1 is amended by adding the following citation:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. * * * Section 1.7872 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 7872.

Par. 2. New §§1.7872-1 through 1.7872-4 are added and reserved in the appropriate place.

Par. 3. New §§1.7872-6 through 1.7872-14 are added and reserved in the appropriate place.

Par. 4. New §1.7872-5T is added in the appropriate place. The new section reads as follows:

§1.7872-5T Exempted loans. (Temporary)

(a) In general—(1) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (a)(2) of this section, notwithstanding any other provision of section 7872 and the regulations thereunder, section 7872 does not apply to the loans listed in paragraph (b) of this section because the interest arrangements do not have a significant effect on the Federal tax liability of the borrower or the lender.

(2) No exemption for tax avoidance loans. If a taxpayer structures a transaction to be a loan described in paragraph (b) of this section and one of the principal purposes of so structuring the transaction is the avoidance of Federal tax, then the transaction will be recharacterized as a tax avoidance loan as defined in section 7872(c)(1)(D).

(b) List of exemptions. Except as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, the following transactions are exempt from section 7872:

(1) Loans which are made availa by the lender to the general public the same terms and conditions a which are consistent with the lende customary business practice;

(5) Loans subsidized by the Feder State (including the District of Colu bia), or Municipal government (or a agency or instrumentality thereof), a which are made available under a pr gram of general application to th public;

(6) Employee-relocation loans th meet the requirements of paragrap (c)(1) of this section;

(7) Obligations the interest on whic is excluded from gross income unde section 103;

(8) Obligations of the United State government;

(9) Loans to a charitable organiza tion (described in section 170(c), bu only if at no time during the taxabl year will the aggregate outstandin amount of loans by the lender to a such organizations exceed $10,000;

(10) Loans made to or from a foreig person that meet the requirements o paragraph (c)(2) of this section;

(11) Loans made by a private foun dation or other organization describe in section 170(c), the primary purpos of which is to accomplish one or mor of the purposes described in sectio 170(c)(2)(B);

(12) Loans made prior to July 1, 1986, to the extent excepted from the application of section 482 for the 6-month (or longer) period referred to in §1.482-2(a)(3);

(13) For periods prior to July 1, 1986, all money, securities, and property received by a futures commission merchant or by a clearing organization (i) to margin, guarantee or secure contracts for future delivery on or subject to the rules of a qualified board or exchange (as defined in section 1256(g)(7)), or (ii) to purchase, margin, gurantee or secure options contracts traded on or subject to the rules of a qualified board or exchange, and all money accruing to account holders as the result of such futures and options contracts;

(14) Loans the interest arrangements of which the taxpayer is able to show have no significant effect on any Federal tax liability of the lender or the borrower, as described in paragraph (c)(3) of this section; and

(15) Loans, described in revenue ruling rulings or revenue procedures issued under section 7872(g)(1)(C), if the Commissioner finds that the factors justifying an exemption for such loans are sufficiently similar to the factors justifying the exemptions contained in this section.

(c) Special rules—(1) Employee-relocation loans—(i) Mortgage loans. In the case of a compensation-related loan to an employee, where such loan is secured by a mortgage on the new principal residence (within the meaning of section 217 and the regulations thereunder) of the employee, acquired in connection with the transfer of that employee to a new principal place of work (which meets the requirements in section 217(c) and the regulations thereunder), the loan will be exempt from section 7872 if the following conditions are satisfied:

(A) The loan is a demand loan or is a term loan the benefits of the interest arrangements of which are not transferable by the employee and are conditioned on the future performance of substantial services by the employee;

(B) The employee certifies to the employer that the employer reasonably expects to be entitled to and will itemize deductions for each year the loan is outstanding; and

(C) The loan agreement requires that the loan proceeds be used only to purchase the new principal residence of the employee.

(ii) Bridge loans. In the case of a compensation-related loan to an employee which is not described in paragraph (c)(1)(i) of this section, and which is used to purchase a new principal residence (within the meaning of section 217 and the regulations thereunder) of the employee acquired in connection with the transfer of that employee to a new principal place of work (which meets the requirements in section 217(c) and the regulations thereunder), the loan will be exempt from section 7872 if the following conditions are satisfied:

(A) The conditions contained in paragraphs (c)(1)(i)(A), (B), and (C) of this section;

(B) The loan agreement provides that the loan is payable in full within 15 days after the date of the sale of the employee's immediately former principal residence;

(C) The aggregate principal amount of all outstanding loans described in this paragraph (c)(1)(ii) to an employee is no greater than the employer's reasonable estimate of the amount of the equity of the employee and the employee's spouse in the employee's immediately former principal residence, and

(D) The employee's immediately former principal residence is not converted to business or investment use.

(2) Below-market loans involving foreign persons—(i) Section 7872 shall not apply to a below-market loan (other than a compensation-related loan or a corporation-shareholder loan where the borrower is a shareholder that is not a C corporation as defined in section 1361(a)(2)) if the lender is a foreign person and the borrower is a U.S. person unless the interest income imputed to the foreign lender (without regard to this paragraph) would be effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business within the meaning of section 864(c) and the regulations thereunder and not exempt from U.S. income taxation under an applicable income tax treaty.

(ii) Section 7872 shall not apply to a below-market loan where both the lender and the borrower are foreign persons unless the interest income imputed to the lender (without regard to this paragraph) would be effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business within the meaning of section 864(c) and the regulations thereunder and not exempt from U.S. income taxation under an applicable income tax treaty.

(iii) For purposes of this section, the term "foreign person" means any person that is not a U.S. person.

(3) Loans without significant tax effect. Whether a loan will be considered to be a loan the interest arrangements of which have a significant effect on any Federal tax liability of the lender or the borrower will be determined according to all of the facts and circumstances. Among the factors to be considered are—

(i) whether items of income and deduction generated by the loan offset each other;

(ii) the amount of such items;

(iii) the cost to the taxpayer of complying with the provisions of section 7872 if such section were applied; and

(iv) any non-tax reasons for deciding to structure the transaction as a below-market loan rather than a loan with interest at a rate equal to or greater than the applicable Federal rate and a payment by the lender to the borrower.

There is need for immediate guidance with respect to the provisions contained in this Treasury decision. For this reason, it is found impracticable to issue this Treasury decision with notice and public procedure under section (b) of section 553 of Title 5 of the United States Code or subject to the effective date limitation of subsection (d) of that section.

Public Law 99-15
99th Congress, H.R. 1866[1]
April 4, 1985

An Act to phase out the Federal supplemental compensation program.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That—

(a) CONTINUATION OF COMPENSATION FOR INDIVIDUALS WHOSE ELIGIBILITY BEGINS PRIOR TO TERMINATION DATE.— Section 602(f)(2) of the Federal Supplemental Compensation Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-248, 1982-2 C.B. 462, 598, 599] is amended—

(1) by striking out "(2) No Federal" and inserting in lieu thereof "(2)(A) Except as provided in subparagraph (B), no Federal"; and

(2) by adding at the end thereof the following new subparagraph:

"(B) In the case of any individual who is receiving Federal supplemental compensation for the week which includes March 31, 1985, such compensation shall continue to be payable to such individual in accordance with subsection (e) for any week thereafter, in a period of consecutive weeks for each of which he meets the eligibility requirements of this Act."

(b) CONFORMING AMENDMENT TO PERIOD OF ELIGIBILITY.— Section 605(2) of such Act is amended by inserting "(except as otherwise provided in section 602(f)(2)(B))" after "April 1, 1985".

(c) MODIFICATION OF AGREEMENTS.— The Secretary of Labor shall, at the earliest practicable date after the date of the enactment of this Act, propose to each State with which he has in effect an agreement under section 602 of the Federal Supplemental Compensation Act of 1982 a modification of such agreement designed to provide for the payment of Federal supplemental compensation under such Act in accordance with the amendments made by this Act. Notwithstanding any other provision of law, if any State fails or refuses within the three-week period beginning on the date the Secretary of Labor proposes such modification to such State, to enter into such modification of such agreement, the Secretary of Labor shall terminate such agreement effective with the end of the last week which ends on or before the close of such three-week period. Pending modification (or termination) of the agreement, States may pay Federal supplemental compensation in accordance with the amendments made by this Act for weeks beginning after March 31, 1985, and shall be reimbursed in accordance with the provisions of the Federal Supplemental Compensation Act of 1982.

Approved April 4, 1985.

Mr. Rostenkowski, from the Committee on Ways and Means, submitted the following Report to accompany H.R. 1866.[1]

* * * * *

The Committee on Ways and Means, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 1866) to phase out the Federal supplemental compensation program, having considered the same, report favorably thereon without amendment and recommend that the bill do pass.

I. SUMMARY OF BILL

H.R. 1866 would allow individuals who receive Federal Supplemental Compensation (FSC) for the week of March 31, 1985 through April 6, 1985, the last week of the current program, to continue to receive the remainder of their FSC entitlement.

[1]House Report No 99-36, this page.

[1]Public Law 99-15, this page.

II. EXPLANATION OF BILL

Present Law

The Federal Supplemental Compensation (FSC) program provides 8, 10, 12, or 14 additional weeks of unemployment benefits to unemployed workers who have exhausted their regular State benefits and any Extended Benefits (EB) to which they were entitled (the permanent EB program provides 13 additional weeks of benefits but is triggered on only in Alaska, West Virginia, Idaho, and Puerto Rico).

The number of weeks of FSC payable in a State is based on the State's insured unemployment rate (IUR), a measure of those people in the State claiming regular State unemployment benefits during the most recent 13 week period. States can qualify for the 14 or 12 week tier based on either their current IUR or their average IUR since January 1, 1982. Ten and 8 week tiers are based solely on the current IUR.

The last week for which FSC can be collected is the week ending on Saturday, April 6, 1985. There is no provision in current law for "phasing out" recipients. Benefits cease after the week ending April 6, 1985 regardless of the number of weeks an individual has collected his original entitlement. For the week of March 9, 1985, the most recent week for which data is available, there were 340,000 jobless workers receiving FSC benefits.

Under the bill, FSC will be payable for weeks of unemployment beginning after April 6, 1985 only to those people who received FSC for the week of March 31, 1985 through April 6, 1985, the last week of the program under current law. Individuals who receive FSC for that week will be allowed to collect the remainder of their FSC entitlement. Their remaining weeks of benefits must be collected in consecutive weeks.

Public Law 99-44

May 24, 1985

An Act to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to repeal the contemporaneous recordkeeping requirements added by the Tax Reform Act of 1984, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

SECTION 1. REPEAL OF CONTEMPORANEOUS RECORDKEEPING REQUIREMENTS, ETC.

(a) CONTEMPORANEOUS RECORDKEEPING REQUIREMENTS.—Subsection (d) of section 274 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to substantiation requirements for certain deductions and credits) is amended by striking out "adequate contemporaneous records" and inserting in lieu thereof "adequate records or by sufficient evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement", and the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 shall be applied and administered as if the word "contemporaneous" had not been added to such subsection (d).

(b) PROVISIONS RELATING TO RETURN PREPARES AND NEGLIGENCE PENALTY.—Paragraphs (2) and (3) of section 179(b) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 are hereby repealed, and the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 shall be applied and administered as if such paragraphs (and the amendments made by such paragraphs) had not been enacted.

(c) REPEAL OF REGULATIONS.—Regulations issued before the date of the enactment of this Act to carry out the amendments made by paragraphs (1)(C), (2), and (3) of section 179(b) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 shall have no force and effect.

SEC. 2. SUBSTANTIATION REQUIREMENTS NOT TO APPLY TO CERTAIN VEHICLES WITH LITTLE PERSONAL USE

(a) IN GENERAL.—Subsection (d) of section 274 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to substantiation required) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new sentence: "This subsection shall not apply to any qualified nonpersonal use vehicle (as defined in subsection (i))."

(b) QUALIFIED NONPERSONAL USE VEHICLE DEFINED.—Section 274 of such Code is amended by redesignating subsection (i) as subsection (j) and by inserting after subsection (h) the following new subsection:

"(i) QUALIFIED NONPERSONAL USE VEHICLE.—For purposes of subsection (d), the term 'qualified nonpersonal use vehicle' means any vehicle which, by reason of its nature, is not likely to be used more than a de minimis amount for personal purpose."

SEC. 3. EXEMPTION FROM REQUIRED INCOME TAX WITHHOLDING FOR CERTAIN FRINGE BENEFITS

Section 3402 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to income tax collected at source) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(s) EXEMPTION FROM WITHHOLDING FOR ANY VEHICLE FRINGE BENEFIT.—

"(1) EMPLOYER ELECTION NOT TO WITHHOLD.—The employer may elect not to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter with respect to any vehicle fringe benefit provided to any employee if such employee is notified by the employer of such election (at such time and in such manner as the Secretary shall by regulations prescribe). The preceding sentence shall not apply to any vehicle fringe benefit unless the amount of such benefit is included by the employer on a statement timely furnished under section 6051.

"(2) EMPLOYER MUST FURNISH W-2.—Any vehicle fringe benefit shall be treated as wages from which amounts are required to be deducted and withheld under this chapter for purposes of section 6051.

"(3) VEHICLE FRINGE BENEFIT.—For purposes of this subsection, the term 'vehicle fringe benefit' means any fringe benefit—

"(A) which constitutes wages (as defined in section 3401), and

"(B) which consists of providing a highway motor vehicle for the use of the employee."

SEC. 4. REDUCTION IN LIMITATIONS ON INVESTMENT TAX CREDIT AND DEPRECIATIONS FOR LUXURY AUTOMOBILES.

(a) GENERAL RULE.—

(1) INVESTMENT TAX CREDIT.— paragraph (1) of section 280F(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to investment tax credit) is amended by striking out "$1,000" and inserting in lieu thereof "$675".

(2) DEPRECIATION.—Paragraph (2) of section 280F(a) of such Code (relating to depreciation) is amended—

(A) by striking out "$4,000" in subparagraph (A)(i) and inserting in lieu thereof "$3,200", and

(B) by striking out "$6,000" each place it appears in subparagraphs (A)(ii) and (B)(ii) and inserting in lieu thereof "$4,800".

(b) 4-YEAR DEFERRAL OF INFLATION ADJUSTMENT.—

(1) ADJUSTMENT AFTER 1988.—Subparagraph (A) of section 280F(d)(7) of such Code (relating to automobile price inflation adjustment) is amended by striking out "passenger automobile" and inserting in lieu thereof "passenger automobile placed in service after 1988."

(2) 1987 BASE PERIOD.—Subclause (II) of section 280F(d)(7)(B)(i) of such Code is amended by striking out "1983" and inserting in lieu thereof "1987".

(3) TECHNICAL AMENDMENT.—Clause (i) of section 280F(d)(7)(B) of such Code is amended by striking out the last sentence.

SEC. 5. NEW REGULATIONS.

Not later than October 1, 1985, the Secretary of the Treasury or his delegate shall prescribe regulations to carry out the provisions of this Act which shall fully reflect such provisions.

SEC. 6. EFFECTIVE DATES

(a) REPEALS.—The amendment and repeals made by subsections (a) and (b) of section 1 hall take effect as if included in the amendments made by section 179(b) of the Tax Reform Act of 1985 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3.C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 226].

(b) RESTORATION OF PRIOR LAW FOR 1985.—For taxable years beginning in 1985, section 274(d) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 shall apply as it read before the amendments made by section 179(b)(1) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984.

(c) EXCEPTION FROM SUBSTANTIATION REQUIREMENTS FOR QUALIFIED NONPERSONAL USE VEHICLES.—The amendments made by section 2 shall apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1985.

(d) WITHHOLDING AMENDMENT.—The amendment made by section 3 shall take effect on January 1, 1985.

(e) REDUCTION IN LIMITATIONS ON INVESTMENT TAX CREDIT AND DEPRECIATION.—

(1) Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by section 4 shall apply to—

(A) property placed in service after April 2, 1985, in taxable years ending after such date, and

(B) property leased after April 2, 1985, in taxable years ending after such date.

(2) The amendments made by section 4 shall not apply to any property—

(A) acquired by the taxpayer pursuant to a binding contract in effect on April 1, 1985, and at all times thereafter, but only if the property is placed in service before August 1, 1985, or

(B) of which the taxpayer is the lessee, but only if the lease is pursuant to a binding contract in effect on April 1, 1985, and at all times thereafter, and only if the taxpayer first uses such property under the lease before August 1, 1985.

Approved May 24, 1985.

REPEAL OF THE CONTEMPORANEOUS RECORDKEEPING REQUIREMENTS

April 2, 1985

Mr. Rostenkowski, from the Committee on Ways and Means, submitted the following Report to accompany H.R. 1869.[1]

The Committee on Ways and Means, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 1869) to repeal the contemporaneous recordkeeping requirements added by the Tax Reform Act of 1984, and for other purposes, having considered the same, report favorably thereon without amendment and recommend that the bill do pass.

I. EXPLANATION OF THE BILL:

A. PRESENT LAW

Substantiation rules

Background

A taxpayer may deduction expenditures, including depreciation and operating costs, attributable to business use of an automobile or other means of transportation. No deduction is allowed for expenditures attributable to the personal use of an automobile or other property (other than for interest on purchase indebtedness or for certain State taxes). For example, the costs of commuting to and from work are personal expenses that are nondeductible pursuant to Code section 262.[1]

Under general tax law principles, the courts have held that a taxpayer bears the burden of proving both the eligibility of an expenditure as a deduction or credit and also the amount of any such [2] eligible expenditure, including the expenses of using a car in the taxpayer's trade or business.[2]

In the Revenue Act of 1962 [Pub. L. 87-834, 1962-3 C.B. 111], the Congress enacted Code section 274(d), under which a taxpayer must substantiate the business purpose, amount, and date of certain types of expenditures "by adequate records or by sufficient evidence corroborating his own statement." This provision was added because the Congress recognized that "in many instances, deductions are obtained by disguising personal expenses as business expenses."[3] These specific substantiation rules were made applicable to (1) traveling expenses (including meals and lodging while away from home); (2) expenditures with respect to entertainment, amusement, or recreation activities or facilities; and (3) business gifts. Local travel expenses were not subject to this provision as enacted, but instead were subject to the general substantiation requirements applicable to all other business expenditures.

1984 Act Amendments

Recordkeeping.—The Tax Reform Act of 1984 (P.L. 98-369) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1] made several amendments to Code section 274(d), effective for taxable years beginning afterr December 31, 1984. First, the 1984 Act added a requirement that the taxpayer must keep "contemporaneous" records to substantiate deductions for expenditures subject to section 274(d). Second, the 1984 Act deleted from section 274(d) the alternative method of substantiating deductions, which was by means of sufficient evidence, (written or oral) corroborating the taxpayer's own statement. Third, the 1984 Act made additional property subject to the requirements of section 274(d), including automobiles and other means of transportation. As a result, local travel expenses, like traveling expenses away from home, became subject to the section 274(d) rules.

Tax prepare rules.—The 1984 Act required that paid income tax return preparers must advise the taxpayer of the section 274(d) substantiation requirements and obtain written confirmation from the taxpayer that these requirements were met. Failure to advise the taxpayer or to obtain the confirmation subjects the return preparer to a penalty of $25 for each failure, unless due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect (sec. 6695(b)).

Special negligence penalty.—The 1984 Act provided that, for purposes of the section 6653 negligence penalty, any portion of an underpayment of tax due to a failure to comply with the section 274(d) recordkeeping requirements is treated as due to negligence, in the absence of clear and convincing evidence to the contrary. The penalty is five percent of the portion of the understatement attributable to the failure to comply with the section 274(d) recordkeeping requirements (sec. 6653(h)).

Limitations on ITC and depreciation for certain automobiles

General rules

In general, a 6-percent investment tax credit may be claimed for an eligible automobile, and its cost (reduced by one-half the amount of the 6-percent credit) may be recovered over three years. The accelerated recovery percentages, beginning with the first year, are 25, 38, and 37 percent. Other options with respect to the investment credit and depreciation are generally available.

However, limits generally are imposed on the amount of investment credit and annual depreciation deductions that are allowed for an automobile placed in service or leased by the taxpayer after June 18, 1984 (sec. 280F).[4] For an automobile subject to these limits and placed in service in 1984, (1) the investment tax credit is limited to $1,000 (2) depreciation in the first year is limited to $4,000, and (3) depreciation in any subsequent year is limited to $6,000.

For more expensive automobiles, the limits generally produce a recovery period longer than three years. If the depreciation limits result in unrecovered basis existing at the end of the recovery period otherwise applicable, then that basis may be recovered through a depreciation deduction in subsequent years equal to the lesser of the unrecovered basis of $6,000, if use of the automobile in those years is such that a depreciation deduction is otherwise allowable. The "unrecovered basis" means the excess of unadjusted basis over the aggregate amount of depreciation deductions that would have been allowed if 100 perrcent of the automobile's use had been in a trade or business or for the production of income.

The limits for any year are reduced by the proportion of total use in that year that is personal use.

Inflation adjustment to limits

For years after 1984, the $1,000, $4,000, and $6,000 limits are adjusted for inflation, as measured by the percentage growth of the automobile component of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers between October of the preceding year and October, 1983. The adjustment is rounded to the nearest $100. The adjusted limits for any year apply only to automobiles placed in service in that year.

B. REASONS FOR CHANGE

The contemporaneous recordkeeping requirement and related compliance provisions enacted in the Tax Reform Act of 1984 reflected concerns of the congress about significant overstatements of deductions and credits for claimed business use of automobiles and other types of property that typically are used for personal pur[4]poses, such as for commuting, vacation trips, personal errands and shopping excursions, etc. Many taxpayers who did make business use of automobiles or other vehicles failed to keep fully accurate records or based exaggerated claims of business use on inexact recollections at the time of filing their returns, To achieve increased compliance and accuracy, the Congress required that only contemporaneous records could be used to substantiate traveling expenses and the other types of expenditures listed in section 274(d), as revised by the Act. No definition of "contemporaneous" was set forth in the statute.

As businesses and individuals have sought to understand and comply with the contemporaneous recordkeeping requirement, it has become clear that the requirement sweeps too broadly and generally imposes excessive recordkeeping burdens on may taxpayers. While the Internal Revenue Service has modified its initial regulations and scheduled public hearings prior to adoption of final rules, the committee has concluded that the only appropriate actions that will provide a speedy and certain resolution to these problems are to repeal the "contemporaneous" re-

[4]However, the limits do not apply to (1) certain automobiles acquired under binding contracts in effect before June 19, 1984; (2) ambulances and hearses used directly in the taxpayer's trade or business; (3) vehicles (such as taxicabs and limousines) used by the taxpayer directly in the trade or business of transporting persons or property for compensation or hire; and (4) regulations, trucks or vans

Also, the limits do not apply to an automobile leased or held for leasing by a person regularly engaged in the business of leasing automobiles. Rather, the limitation affects the lessee, whose deductions for lease payments are reduced (according to tables prescribed by the Treasury) by amounts intended to approximate the results of placing the limits on the lessor.

quirement (and the tax return preparer and negligence penalty provisions) as added by the 1984 Act, to repeal the IRS temporary regulations interpreting the "contemporaneous" requirement, to reinstate with modifications generally the prior-law substantiation rules under section 274(d), and to except from these reinstated rules vehicles which, by reason of their nature, are not likely to be used more than a de minimis amount for personal purposes.

To provide guidance to taxpayers, the bill requires the IRS to issue regulations not later than October 1, 1985, carrying out the provisions of the bill. The bill specifies that these IRS regulations must fully reflect all the amendments made by the bill. In addition, IRS regulations must be consistent with the legislative history of the bill, including this report. Accordingly, any type of vehicle (such as farm tractors or combines, marked police or fire vehicles, etc.) that this report specifies are vehicles except from section 274(d) as qualified nonpersonal use vehicles must be so treated in the regulations.

The committee remains concerned about overstated claims of the extent of business use of automobiles or other property. The bill does not repeal all recordkeeping requirements for traveling expenses, etc. Indeed, the bill reinstates the prior-law substantiation requirements of section 274(d) as in effect prior to the 1984 Act amendments, with two modifications. First, a taxpayer who fails to maintain adequate records can substantiate expenditures subject to section 274(d) only by sufficient written evidence corroborating his or her own statement; oral evidence alone is not sufficient as corroboration for this purpose. Second, automobile expenses are made subject to the reinstated section 274(d) substantiation rules, effective for taxable years beginning after 1985; thus, such expenses are treated in the same manner as traveling expenses away from home.

In view of the budget deficit, the committee concluded that it is appropriate to balance the revenue loss resulting from the provisions of the bill repealing certain compliance rules enacted in the 1984 Act by adjusting the limitations set forth in section 280F on [5] the investment tax credit and depreciation deductions for automobiles.

C. EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

1. Repeal of 1984 Act provisions

Repeal of "contemporaneous"

The bill repeals the word "contemporaneous" from Code section 274(d) as if it had never been a part of that section. The bill also provides that the Internal Revenue Code is to be applied and administered as if the word "contemporaneous" had never been added to section 274(d).

Repeal of return preparer's provision

The bill repeals the provision of the 1984 Act requiring that a return preparer must specifically advise the taxpayer of the recordkeeping requirements of section 274(d) and must obtain written confirmation from the taxpayer that adequate contemporaneous records existed to support the claimed deductions or credits (Code sec. 6695(b)). The bill provides that the Internal Revenue Code shall be applied and administered as if this provision had never been enacted.

The committee believes that it is inappropriate to single out this one area of recordkeeping for special requirements, since return preparers already are responsible for the overall substantive accuracy of the preparation of the return. Also, because the committee intends (see below) that taxpayers claiming tax credits or depreciation for the use of automobiles and other listed property must indicate on the tax return whether the taxpayer has adequate records or sufficient written evidence supporting the claimed deductions and credits, the return preparer requirement is not needed. That is, if a return preparer signed a return that both claimed a deduction for the business use of a car and indicated that the taxpayer did not have the evidence required by the statute to justify the claims, the return preparer would be subject to existing penalties.

Repeal of special negligence penalty

The bill also repeals the provision of the 1984 Act providing a special negligence penalty rule applicable to an underpayment of tax attrributable to a failure to comply with the recordkeeping requirements of section 274(d). The bill provides that the Internal Revenue Code shall be applied and administered as if this provision had never been enacted.

The committee believes that repealing this portion of the negligence penalty is needed to restore to the Internal Revenue Service and the courts discretion not to impose the negligence penalty for minor, inadvertent recordkeeping or computational errors. The committee emphasizes, however, that the regular negligence and fraud penalties will continue to be applicable if a taxpayer claims tax benefits that cannot be supported. The committee is concerned that these negligence and fraud penalties have not been applied by the Internal Revenue Service or the courts in a substantial number of instances where their application would be fully justified.

[6] In one Tax Court case, for example, the taxpayer had kept detailed mileage records, required by his employer for reimbursement purposes, that indicated that his business use was approximately five percent of total use. On his tax return, the taxpayer claimed 70 percent business use, with no records to justify this claim. The Tax Court properly allowed only five percent business use. The Court did not, however, impose a negligence or fraud penalty. The committee believes that, in a case like this one, the negligence penalty should certainly be imposed, and that careful consideration should be given to imposing the civil fraud penalty.

In another Tax Court case, the taxpayer had kept detailed records so that he could be reimbursed by his employer, but claimed on his tax return approximately 35,000 miles of business use beyond what his records demonstrated, without any justification. No negligence penalty was imposed. In another case, the taxpayer produced a diary purporting to justify the claimed deductions. The Tax Court called the diary a "fabrication" and said that the taxpayer "was not telling the truth." The Court still permitted him a deduction, and did not impose the negligence or civil fraud penalty. Finally, another taxpayer apparently claimed a deduction for business mileage that exceeded the total mileage shown on his odometer, but the Tax Court did not impose a negligence or civil fraud penalty.

These cases indicate that the negligence and civil fraud penalties are not being administered by either the Internal Revenue Service or the courts in the manner that the Congres intended when it initially enacted these penalties. While minor, inadvertent recordkeeping or computational errors should not lead to the imposition of a substantial penalty, the committee believes that it is vital to the integrity of the tax system that honest taxpayers know that others who claim tax benefits far in excess of what can be justified will be subject to the negligence and fraud penalties.

Repeal of regulations

The bill repeals all Treasury Regulations (temporary or proposed) issued prior to the enactment of the bill that carry out the amendments made by section 179(b) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984. Thus, regulations issued to implement the changes to section 274(d) made by that Act, particularly the inclusion in that section of the word "contemporaneous," are revoked.[5] In addition, any regulations relating to the return preparer prrovision and the special negligence penalty (described above) are revoked.[6] These revoked regulations are to have no force and effect whatsoever.[7]

[7] 2. Definition of adequate records

In general

The bill amends section 274 to require that taxpayers must maintain adequate records or sufficient written evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement to support the credits or deductions they are claiming.

The bill specifies that, in the alternate substantiation test, the sufficient corroborating evidence must be written. The committee believes that it is appropriate to require that taxpayers maintain written evidence to support their claims of tax credits and deductions. The written evidence must exist by the time tax return is filed.[8]

More specifically, in the case of travel, the committee intends that these records or evidence support the deductions or credits claimed. Adequate records or sufficient written evidence includes the following:

a. Account books
b. Diaries
c. Logs
d. Documentary evidence (receipts, paid bills)
e. Trip sheets
f. Expense reports
g. If the employee is required to make an adequate accounting to the employer and the reimbursement equals expenses, the employee is not required to report the expenses and reimbursement on his tax return
h. Written statements of witnesses

All of these types of documentation were specifically approved under prior law. The committee specifically approves of these means of documentation, and considers the longstanding Treasury Regulations on recordkeeping issued under section 274(d)[9] prior to the 1984 Act to reflect accurately its intent as to the documentation that taxpayers are required to maintain, except insofar as those regulations authorize the use of sufficient oral evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statements and except that the written evidence must be compiled by the time the return is filed. The committee also believes that case law under section 274(d) generally reflects appropriate standards of recordkeeping, except insofar as those cases authorize the use of oral evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement. While taxpayers may choose to keep contemporaneous logs on the use of their automobiles, the Treasury is specifically prohibited from requiring that all taxpayers keep daily contemporaneous logs of their use of the automobile.

The committee believes that the written policy statements kept by the employer to implement a policy of no personal use (or no personal use except for commuting) qualify as sufficient written evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement. Therefore, the employee will not need to keep records under section 274(d) for [8] the use of vehicle that qualifies under either of these provisions. A written policy statement adopted by a governmental unit would be eligible for this rule. Thus, a resolution of the city council or a provision of state law or the state constitution would qualify, so long as the conditions described below are met.

The committee wants to continue the provision in the recent regulations that provided that no recordkeeping under section 274(d) is required if the employer provides a vehicle to an employee and prohibits personal use by the employee. In order to be eligible for this special rule, the following conditions must be met—

(a) The vehicle owned or leased by the employer is provided to one or more employees for use in connection with the employer's trade or business;

(2) When the vehicle is not being used for such business purposes, it is kept on the employer's business premises (or temporarily located elsewhere, e.g., for repair);

(3) Under the employer's policy, no employee may use the vehicle for personal purposes, other than de minimis personal use (such as a stop for lunch between two business deliveries);

(4) The employer reasonably believes that no employee uses the vehicle, other than de minimis use, for any personal purpose; and

(5) No employee using the vehicle lives at the employer's business premises.

To utilize this exception to the otherwise applicable substantiation requirement, there must be evidence that would enable the Internal Revenue Service to determine whether the use of the vehicle met the five conditions listed in the preceding paragraph.

The committee also wants to continue the provision in the recent regula-

[5]Also, the regulations prohibiting the employer from including the entire value of the use of the automobile in the income of certain employees are revoked.

[6]The regulations relating to valuation issued under sections 61 and 132 are not, however, revoked.

[7]The committee revokes the regulations that provide for safe harbors for the use of highway vehicles. This change does not prohibit Treasury from developing similar safe harbors. To the extent that Treasury considers reinstating these safe harbors, the committee believes that Treasury should consider whether the standard requiring that farmers derive 70% of their income from farming may be too high.

[8]In a few instances, the courts had permitted taxpayers to deduct amounts solely on the basis of oral evidence. The committee believes that requiring written evidence will be beneficial to taxpayers, because they will compile the necessary information by the time the tax return is filed.

[9]See Treas. Reg. sec. 1.274-5, initially published in the Federal Register on December 29, 1962.

tions that provided that no recordkeeping under section 274(d) is required if the employer provides a vehicle to a specified employee and prohibits personal use by the employee, except for commuting. In order to be eligible for this rule, the following conditions must be met—

(1) The vehicle owned or leased by the employer is provided to one or more employees for use in connection with the employer's trade or business and is used in the employer's trade or business;

(2) For bona fide noncompensatory business reasons, the employer requires the employee to commute to and/or from work in the vehicle;

(3) The employer establishes a policy under which the employee may not use the vehicle for personal purposes, other than commuting or de minimis personal use (such as a stop for a personal errand between a business delivery and the employee's home);

(4) The employer reasonable believes that, except for de minimis use, the employee does not use the vehicle for any personal purpose other than commuting; and

(5) The employer accounts for the commuting use by including an appropriate amount in the employee's gross income. This special exception to the substantiation rule is not available if the employee using the vehicle for commuting is an officer or one-percent owner of the employer.

[9] In order to utilize this exception to the otherwise applicable substantiation requirements, there must be evidence that would enable the Internal Revenue Service to determine whether the use of the vehicle meets the conditions set forth in the preceding paragraphs.

Information required on return

The committee wants to ensure that taxpayers claim only the deductions to which they are entitled without being unduly burdened by complex recordkeeping requirements. The committee also believes that taxpayers should provide sufficient information on their returns so that the Internal Revenue Service can make a preliminary evaluation of the appropriateness of the taxpayer's claimed deductions. Previously, the Internal Revenue Service found it difficult to make this sort of preliminary evaluation without auditing the taxpayer, which can also be a significant burden on the taxpayer. Therefore, the committee believes that taxpayers should all answer a few short questions on their returns if they claim the tax benefits for the business use of an automobile.

The committee believes that taxpayers will not be significantly burdened by responding to a few questions, most of them requiring a yes or no response. The committee directs that the following questions appear on the tax return, to be answered by taxpayers claiming credits or deductions for the business use of an automobile:

1. Total number of miles driven during the year: miles.

2. Percentage of personal use claimed: %.

3. Was the vehicle used for commuting Yes No. If Yes, the distance normally commuted: miles.

4. Was the vehicle available for personal use in off duty hours Yes No.

5. Is another vehicle available for personal use Yes No.

6. I have adequate records or sufficient written evidence to justify these deductions Yes No. If no, no deduction is permitted.

The committee notes that the requirement that these questions be included on the tax forms does not appear in the bill because the Internal Revenue Code does not generally specify the format or specific content of forms. The Internal Revenue Code does not need to be amended to provide the authority to require these questions, since that authority already exists in sections 6001 and 6011.

The committee intends that employees who claim deductions or credits for business use of their own car be asked these questions on Form 2106 (relating to employee business expenses); some of this information is already required to be provided on that form. Unincorporated taxpayers who claim these credits or deductions on either Schedules C or F (or on some other form) will be asked these questions on that form. Corporate taxpayers, as well as all other taxpayers and entities, will be asked these questions on the forms they are required to file.

The committee intends that employees give this information to their employers if the employer provided the car. Generally, the [10] employer would put this information on its tax return, since the employer is claiming the tax benefits of the use of the car. Employers who provide more than 5 cars to employees, however, would not have to include this information on the employer's return; the Internal Revenue Service could examine on audit the information that the employees provide to the employer. The employer would have to indicate on his return that he has received this information from the employees. The employer can rely on the employee's statement (unless the employer has reason to know it is false) to determine the credits and deductions to which the employer is entitled and to determine the amount of income, if any, the employer must include in the employee's income because of the employee's personal use of the employer's car.

The committee intends that similar questions be asked on the tax return about other listed property, such as yachts, airplanes, and computers. For computers, for example, the following questions should be asked:

1. Percentage of personal use claimed: %.

2. Was the computer located at your place of business or your home or both. If both, what percentage of the year was it at home: %.

3. Do you have records or written evidence to justify these deductions Yes No.

3. Vehicles with no personal use

The bill provides that any vehicle that by reason of its nature is not likely to be used more than a de minimis amount for personal purposes is exempt from the recordkeeping requirements of section 274(d).

The committee believes that this is an appropriate exemption from the recordkeeping requirements of section 274(d) because one of the purposes of those recordkeeping requirements is to ensure that taxpayers do not deduct as a business expense an expense that is really personal in nature. This purpose does not apply to a vehicle the characteristics of which make it highly unlikely that it will be used more than a very minimal amount for personal purposes. Consequently, the committee believes that it is appropriate to exempt these vehicles from the recordkeeping requirements of section 274(d). Taxpayers will still have to justify their claimed deductions for these vehicles as required under either section 162 or 212, which are the general provisions relating to business deductions.

The Internal Revenue Service had listed in its recent regulations under section 274(d) several examples of vehicles that by their nature are not likely to be used more than a de minimis amount for personal purposes:

a. forklifts,

b. cement mixers,

c. dump trucks (including garbage trucks),

d. refrigerated trucks,

e. tractors, and

f. combines.

The committee intends that these types of vehicles continue to be considered to be not susceptible to personal use. In addition, the committee believes that there are other types of vehicles that, be- [11] cause of their inherent nature or characteristics, are unlikely to be used more than a very minimal amount for personal purposes. The committee has identified the following types of vehicles as meeting this criterion:

a. delivery trucks with seating only for the driver,[10]

b. flatbed trucks,

c. any vehicle designed to carry cargo with a loaded gross vehicle weight over 14,000 pounds,

d. passenger buses used as such with a capacity of at least 20 passengers,

e. clearly marked police and fire vehicles,

f. ambulances used as such,

g. hearses used as such,

h. bucket trucks ("cherry pickers"),

i. cranes, and

j. derricks.

The committee recognizes that it may not have developed an exhaustive list of vehicles not susceptible to personal use. Therefore, the committee intends that the Internal Revenue Service expand this list through either regulations or revenue rulings to include those vehicles that the committee may not have included in this listing but that are appropriate for listing because by their nature it is highly unlikely that they will be used more than a very minimal amount for personal purposes.

A clearly marked police or fire vehicle, owned or leased by a governmental unit that is clearly marked (through painted insignia or words) as a police or fire vehicle, the markings on which make it readily apparent that it is a police or fire vehicle. A marking on a license plate is not a clear marking.

The committee expects that it is appropriate for Treasury to provide in regulations that under certain conditions all use of such vehicles by an employee is excluded, as a working condition fringe benefit, from the employee's income and wages. If, for example, an employer requires, for bona fide business reasons, that the employee takes such a vehicle to his or her home when the employee is not working and that no personal use (e.g., shopping or recreation) is made of the vehicle, then all use of the vehicle could be considered business use which would be deductible under section 162, and thus excluded from income under section 132(d) as a working condition fringe.

The committee has not generally exempted from the recordkeeping requirement all pickup trucks and vans, because these vehicles can be easily used for personal purposes. Some taxpayers purchase these vehicles as substitutes for passenger sedans, and use them predominantly (or entirely) for personal purposes. One article has noted that, should vans be exempted, "taxpayers will have an opportunity to acquire luxury passenger vehicles with full tax benefits." On the other hand, however, the committee recognizes that this is not applicable to all vans. For example, a van that has only a front bench for seating, in which permanent shelving has been [12] installed, that constantly carries merchandise, and that has been specially painted with advertising or the company's name, is a vehicle not susceptible to personal use.

4. Withholding elections

As authorized by the legislative history of the 1984 Act, the Internal Revenue Service has provided (in temporary regulations) that an employer may withhold income and employment taxes due on taxable fringe benefits provided to an employee on a quarterly basis. For example, if the employee receives a $100 taxable benefit on January 10, withholding can be deferred by treating the benefit as paid on March 31.

The committee intends that the regulations are to be revised to allow an employer to elect, for income and employment tax purposes, to treat taxable fringe benefits (including personal use of employer-provided automobiles) as paid on a pay period, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual basis. Thus, in the example above, withholding could be deferred by treating the benefit as paid on June 30 or December 31.

In addition, the bill provides that an employer could elect not to withhold income taxes on the value of the personal use of an automobile that is included in the employee's income if (1) the employer gives the employee advance written notice of this election that nonwithholding is implemented as to that employee and (2) the employer includes the taxable amount of the benefit in the employee's income as reported on the Form W-2 provided by the employer to the employee for the year in which such benefit is received.[11] This generally must be provided to the employee by January 1 of the year as to which the election is to apply; if an election is made for 1985, the notice must be provided by July 1, 1985. If the employer elects not to withhold income taxes, the employee can increase his withholding from regular wages by adjusting his Form W-4 so that the employee does not need to make estimated tax payments.

5. Limitations on ITC and depreciation

The bill reduces the limits on the amount of investment tax credit and annual depreciation deductions that are allowed for an automobile as follows: (1) the investment tax credit is limited to $675; (2) depreciation on the first year is limited to $3600; and (3) depreciation in any subsequent year is limited to $5400.

[10] A vehicle with a jump seat (i.e., a seat that folds up flat) in addition to the seat only for the driver would also qualify.

[11] These amounts will be treated as withheld upon for purposes of 280F(d)(6)(C)(i)(III).

For years after 1985, the limits provided in the bill are indexed for inflation, as measured by the percentage growth of the automobile component of the consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers between October of the preceding year and October 1984. Adjustments for inflation are otherwise determined as under present law. The committee intends that the Secretary of the Treasury shall prescribe the adjusted limits.

The repeal of word "contemporaneous" from section 274(d) and the repeal of the return preparer's provision and the special negligence penalty enacted in the 1984 Act are effective as if those provisions had never been included in the 1984 Act.

The amendments to section 274(d) as reinstated—(1) providing that the evidence which can corroborate the taxpayer's own statement, in the absence of adequate records, is written evidence and (2) modifying the types of items subject to section 274(d)—are effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1985. The Internal Revenue Service is required to issue the regulations carrying out the provisions of the bill no later than October 1, 1985. This should give taxpayers sufficient time to prepare to comply with the provisions of this bill.

For taxable years beginning in 1985, the bill provides that prior law relating to recordkeeping applies. The committee believes that, because of the confusion that has existed since the start of the current year as to what recordkeeping requirements taxpayers would have to follow, taxpayers should be permitted for the current year to follow the rules that were in effect before the 1984 Act.

Limitations on ITC and depreciation

In general, the reduced limits on the investment tax credit and depreciation are effective for property placed in service by the taxpayer or leased by the taxpayer after April 2, 1985. However, property acquired by the taxpayer pursuant to a binding contract in effect on April 1, 1985, and at all times thereafter, is not subject to the reduced limits provided by the bill, if it is placed in service before August 1, 1985; and property of which the taxpayer is the lessee pursuant to a binding contract in effect on April 1, 1985, and all times thereafter, is not subject to the reduced limits if the taxpayer first uses the property under the lease before August 1, 1985. The reduced limits on the investment tax credit and depreciation are effective for the remainder of 1985; in 1986, those limits are indexed.

REPEALING THE REQUIREMENT THAT CONTEMPORANEOUS RECORDS BE KEPT TO SUBSTANTIATE CERTAIN DEDUCTIONS AND CREDITS

April 2 (legislative day, February 18), 1985.

Mr. Packwood, from the Committee on Finance, submitted the following Report to accompany S. 245.[1]

* * * * *

The Committee on Finance, to which was referred the bill (S. 245) to repeal the requirement that contemporaneous records be kept to substantiate certain deductions and credits, having considered the same, reports favorably thereon with an amendment to the text and an amendment to the title and recommends that the bill as amended do pass.

The amendment to the text of the bill is shown in italics.

[2] I. EXPLANATION OF THE BILL

A. PRESENT LAW

Substantiation rules

Background

A taxpayer may deduct expenditures, including depreciation and operating costs, attributable to business use of an automobile or other means of transportation. No deduction is allowed for expenditures attributable to the personal use of an automobile or other property (other than for interest on purchase indebtedness or for certain State taxes). For example, the costs of commuting to and from work are personal expenses that are nondeductible pursuant to Code section 262.[1]

Under general tax law principles, the courts have held that a taxpayer bears the burden of proving both the eligibility of an expenditure as a deduction or credit and also the amount of any such eligible expenditure, including the expenses of using a car in the taxpayer's trade or business.[2]

In the Revenue Act of 1962 [Pub. L. 87-834, 1962-3 C.B. 111], the Congress enacted Code section 274(d), under which a taxpayer must substantiate the business purpose, amount, and date of certain types of expenditures "by adequate records or by sufficient evidence corroborating his own statement." This provision was added because the Congress recognized that "in many instances deductions are obtained by disguising personal expenses as business expenses."[3] These specific substantiation rules were made applicable to (1) traveling expenses (including meals and lodging while away from home); (2) expenditures with respect to entertainment, amusement, or recreation activities or facilities; and (3) business gifts. Local travel expenses were not subject to this provision as enacted, but instead were subject to the general substantiation requirements applicable to all other business expenditures.

Recordkeeping.—The Tax Reform Act of 1984 (P.L. 98-369) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1] made several amendments to Code section 274(d), effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1984. First, the 1984 Act added a requirement that the taxpayer must keep "contemporaneous" records to substantiate deductions for expenditures subject to section 274(d). Second, the 1984 Act deleted from section 274(d) the alternative method of substantiating deductions, which was by means of sufficient evidence (written or oral) corroborating the taxpayer's own statement. Third, the 1984 Act made additional property subject to the requirements of section 274(d), including automobiles and other means of transportation. As a result, local travel expenses, like traveling expenses away from home, becoem subject to the section 274(d) rules.

[3] Tax preparer rules.—The 1984 Act required that paid income tax return preparers must advise the taxpayer of the section 274(d) substantiation requirements and obtain written confirmation from the taxpayer that these requirements were met. Failure to advise the taxpayer or to obtain the confirmation subjects the return prepaper to a penalty of $25 for each failure, unless due to reasonable cause and not to willful neglect (sec. 6695(b)).

Special negligence penalty.—The 1984 Act provided that, for purposes of the section 6653 negligence penalty, any portion of an underpayment of tax due to a failure to comply with the section 274(d) recordkeeping requirements is treated as due to negligence, in the absence of clear and convincing evidence to the contrary. The penalty is five percent of the portion of the understatement attributable to the failure to comply with the section 274(d) recordkeeping requirements (sec. 6653(h)).

B. REASONS FOR CHANGE

The contemporaneous recordkeeping requirement and related compliance provisions enacted in the Tax Reform Act of 1984 reflected concerns of the Congress about significant overstatements of deductions and credits for claimed business use of automobiles and other types of property that typically are used for personal purposes, such as for commuting, vacation trips, personal errands and shopping excursions, etc. Many taxpayers who did make business use of automobiles or other vehicles failed to keep fully accurate records or based exaggerated claims of business use on inexact recollections at the time of filing their returns. To achieve increased compliance and accuracy, the Congress required that only contemporaneous records could be used to substantiate traveling expenses and the other types of expenditures listed in seciton 274(d), as revised by the 1984 Act. No definition of "contemporaneous" was set forth in the statute.

As businesses and individuals have sought to understand and comply with the contemporaneous recordkeeping requirement, it has become clear that the requirement sweeps too broadly and generally imposes excessive recordkeeping burdens on many taxpayers. While the Internal Revenue Service has modified its initial regulations interpreting the new requirement and has scheduled public hearings prior to adoption of final rules, the committee has concluded that the only appropriate actions that will provide a speedy and certain resolution to these problems are to repeal the "contemporaneous" requirement (and the tax return preparer and negligence penalty provisions) as added by the 1984 Act, to repeal the IRS temporary regulations interpreting the "contemporaneous" requirement, and to reinstate the prior-law substantiation standards under section 274(d) and the long-standing regulations thereunder.

[4] C. EXPANATION OF PROVISIONS

1. Repeal of 1984 Act provisions

Repeal of "contemporaneous"

The bill strikes the words "adequate contemporaneous records" from Code section 274(d) as if those words had never been a part of that provision, and inserts in lieu thereof the words "adequate records or by sufficient evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement". This is the substantiation standard that had been in effect prior to the Tax Reform Act of 1984 and that had been interpreted in long-standing IRS regulations originally issued in 1962.

The substantiation standard reinstated by the bill applies, as provided by section 274(d), to traveling expenses; entertainment, amusement, or recreation activities or facilities; business gifts; and, effective for taxable years beginning after 1984, and listed property (as defined in sec. 280F(d)(4)).

Repeal of return preparer provision

The bill repeals the provision of the 1984 Act requiring that a return preparer must specifically advise the taxpayer of the recordkeeping requirements of section 274(d) and must obtain written confirmation from the taxpayer that such requirements wer met (Code sec. 6695(b)). The bill pro vides that the Internal Revenue Cod shall be applied and administered as i this provision had never been enacted

Repeal of special negligence penalt

The bill repeals the provision o
1984 Act providing a special negli gence penalty rule (Code sec. 6653(h) applicable to an underpayment of ta attributable to a failure to comply wit the recordkeeping requirements of sec tion 274(d). The bill provides that th Internal Revenue Code shall be applie and administered as if this provisio had never been enacted.

Repeal of certain regulations

The bill repeals all Treasury regula tions (temporary or proposed) issue prior to the enactment of the bill whic carry out the amendments made by pa agraphs (1)(C), (2), and (3) of sectio
179(b) of the Tax Reform Act of 198 that are repealed by this bill. These r voked regulations are to have no forc and effect whatsoever.

2. Limited-use vehicles and certain flight benefits

The committee intends that Treasur regulations are to provide that the fai market value of an employee' commuting use of a limited-use vehicl furnished by the employer is excluded as a working condition fringe, from th employee's gross income for Federa income tax purposes, and from th wage base (and, if applicable, from th benefit base) for purposes of incom tax withholding and FICA, FUTA, an RRTA taxes. A limited-use vehicle is vehicle the characteristics of whic make it unlikely that it will be use more than a very minimal amount fo personal purposes. Example of suc limited-use vehicles include marked po lice and fire vehicles, ambulances use as such, school buses used as such dump [5] trucks, cement mixers, refri erated trucks, tractors, and specialize utility repair trucks used as such.

The committee also intends that th
Treasury is to substitute the followin safe-harbor valuation rules with respe to employee flights on employe provided noncommercial aircraft th constitute taxable fringe benefits, f the valuation rules with respect to su benefits that are currently set forth temporary regulations. The committee believes that these substitute safe-harbor rules reflect the intent of the Congress concerning the valuation of personal use of noncommercial aircraft under the fringe benefit rules in the Tax Reform Act of 1984.

Weight of aircraft	Includible value for control employees	Includible value for other employees
More than 10,000 pounds	First class fare	Value imputed to parent of airline employee.
More than 6,000 pounds but not more than 10,000 pounds.	Coach fare	¾ value imputed to parent of airline employee.
6,000 pounds or less	½ coach fare	½ value imputed to parent of airline employee.

The amount imputed to employees other than control employees is intended to be no more than the amount imputed to a parent of an airline employee, since it is difficult to distinguish the value of a standby flight on a commercial airline and a flight on a space-available basis on a similar noncommercial jet aircraft. However, the amount imputed to a parent of an airline employee under temporary Treasury regulations is presently 50 percent of the highest unrestricted coach fare for the trip which is charged by the carrier for which the employee works. The safe-harbor valuation regulations (as revised to reflect the committee's intent) are to utilize rules referring to commercial airline fares, such as Standard Initial Fare Level (SIFL) rates or industry average rates.

For purposes of the valuation rules in the table above, the term control employee means an employee (whether or not an officer) who controls the use of the aircraft for the trip, i.e., who controls either the use, scheduling, or destination of the aircraft.

D. EFFECTIVE DATE

The provisions of the bill repealing certain provisions enacted in the tax Reform Act of 1984 take effect as if included in the amendments made by section 179(b) of the 1984 Act.

REPEAL OF CONTEMPORANEOUS RECORDKEEPING REQUIREMENTS

May 7, 1985

Mr. Rostenkowski, from the committee of conference, submitted the following conference report to accompany H.R. 1869.[1]

* * * * *

JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two houses on the amendments of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 1869) to repeal the contemporaneous recordkeeping requirements added by the Tax Reform Act of 1984, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The Senate amendment to the text of the bill struck out all of the House bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment which is a substitute for the house bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clarifying changes.

[5] STATEMENT OF MANAGERS ON THE PART OF THE HOUSE

I. EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

A. Repeal of Requirement that Certain Records Must Be Contemporaneous (secs. 1(a) and (c) and 2(a) of the House bill and secs. 1(a) and (c) of the Senate amendment)

1. Repeal of "contemporaneous" requirement

Present law

The Tax Reform Act of 1984 (the 1984 Act) [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1] amended Code section 274(d) to require that taxpayers must maintain "adequate contemporaneous records" to substantiate deductions and credits for business use of automobiles and other listed property.

House bill

The House bill repeals the word "contemporaneous," effective as if it had never been enacted.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

2. Alternate substantiation method

Present law and background

Prior to the 1984 Act, taxpayers were required under section 274(d) to substantiate deductions for travel away from home (including meals and lodging), for items with respect to entertainment, amusement, or recreation activities of facilities, and for business gifts by adequate records or by sufficient evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement. In the case of an expense or item subject to substantiation under section 274(d), that provision required substantiation as to (1) the amount of such expense or other item, (2) the time and place of the travel, entertainment, amusement, recreation, or use of the facility, or the date and description of the gift, (3) the business purpose of the expense or other item, and (4) the business relationship to the taxpayer of persons entertained, using the facility, or receiving the gift. Prior to the 1984 Act, local travel (i.e., travel not away from home) was not subject to the section 274(d) substantiation standards.

Section 179(b) of the 1984 Act deleted from section 274(d) the alternate substantiation method of sufficient evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement. The 1984 Act also applied the section 274(d) substantiation requirements to deductions or credits claimed for use of listed property (as defined in sec. 280F(d)(4)). The categories of listed property include automobiles (whether used for local travel or travel away from home), other means of transportation, computers, etc.

The House bill provides that, as an alternative to maintaining adequate records, taxpayers may substantiate deductions and credits under section 274(d) by sufficient written evidence corroborating their own statement.

The committee report also requires that certain information concerning mileage and business use of vehicles, as well as similar information concerning business use of other listed property, must be requested on tax returns.

The House bill is effective on January 1, 1986. For 1985, the substantiation rules in effect prior to the 1984 Act would apply.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is similar to the House bill in that it provides for an alternate substantiation method. However, the Senate amendment does not require that the evidence must be written in order to qualify as sufficient under the alternate substantiation standard. The Senate amendment is effective January 1, 1985.

The Senate amendment does not specifically require that questions regarding the business use of automobiles and other listed property be asked on tax returns.

Conference agreement

Substantiation standards

In general

The conference agreement generally follows the Senate amendment as to the substantiation standards under section 274(d). Thus, section 274(d) is amended to require that a taxpayer must have adequate records or sufficient evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement to support credits or deductions for expenditures subject to the section 274(d) substantiation rules. As under pre-1984 Act law section 274(d) as amended by the bill requires the taxpayer to substantiate (1) the amount of the expense or item subject to section 274(d), (2) the time and place of the travel, entertainment, amusement, recreation, or use of the facility or property, or the date and description of the gift, (3) the business purpose of the expense or other item, and (4) the business relationship to the taxpayer of persons entertained, using the facility or property, or receiving the gift.

The conferees believe that a taxpayer's uncorroborated statement as to the business use of an automobile or other listed property does not alone have sufficient probative value to warrant consideration by the Internal Revenue Service or the courts. Consequently, the conferees adopt for this purpose the standard of prior law applicable to travel away from home and business entertainment (sec. 274(d)) that requires taxpayers to provide either adequate records or sufficient evidence corroborating their own statements in order to support a deduction or credit under section 274(d). The more general substantiation standards applicable under section [7] 162,[1] which have been interpreted to permit in certain circumstances uncorroborated statements by taxpayers to support business deductions not subject to section 274(d) or other special rules, are to have no application to deductions or credits with respect to local travel, computers, and other listed property first required (under this bill) to meet the section 274(d) substantiation standards beginning January 1, 1986, just as they are to have no application with respect to expenditures with respect to travel away from home, etc., which continue to be subject to section 274(d) substantiation standards.

The conference agreement does not include the provision of the House bill that would require that the sufficient evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement be written. The conferees believe that oral evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement, such as oral testimony from a disinterested, unrelated party describing the taxpayer's activities, may be of sufficient probative value that it should not be automatically excluded from consideration under section 274(d).

The conferees emphasize, however, that different types of evidence have different degrees of probative value. The conferees believe that oral evidence alone has considerably less probative value than written evidence. In addition, the conferees believe that the probative value of written evidence is greater the closer in time it relates to the expenditure. Thus, written evidence arising at or near the time of the expenditure, absent unusual circumstances, has much more probative value than evidence created years later, such as written evidence first prepared for audit or court.

The conferees specifically approve the types of substantiation that were required under prior law, and consider the longstanding Treasury regulations on recordkeeping issued under section 274(d)[2] prior to the 1984 Act to reflect accurately their intent as to the substantiation that taxpayers are required to maintain.[3] While taxpayers may choose

[1] Under general tax law principles, the courts have held that a taxpayer bears the burden of proving both the eligibility of any expenditure claimed as a deduction or credit and also the amount of any such eligible expenditure, including the expenses of using a car in the taxpayer's trade or business. See, e.g., Interstate Transit Lines v. Comm'r, 319 U.S. 590, 593 (1943); Comm'r v. Heininger, 320 U.S. 467 (1943); Gaines v. Comm'r, 35 T.C.M. 1415 (1976).

[2] See Treas. Reg. sec. 1.274-5.

[3] Prior law provided that adequate records or sufficient evidence may take the following forms:

a. Account books
b. Diaries
c. Logs

to keep logs on the use of their automobiles, and while such evidence generally has more probative value than evidence developed later, the Treasury is specifically prohibited from requiring that taxpayers keep daily contemporaneous logs of their use of automobiles.

[8] The conferees expect the Internal Revenue Service and the courts to continue to weigh carefully the probative value of these, as well as all other, forms of evidence. The Service and the courts continue to have the ability to discount or reject totally evidence that has limited or no probative value (such as documents actually created much later than they purport to have been created). As noted above, section 274(d) requires that the records or evidence (whatever their particular form) most substantiate not just the amount of the expense, but also the time and place of the travel, entertainment, amusement, recreation, or use of the facility or property, or the date and description of the gift; the business purpose of the expense or other item; and the business relationship to the taxpayer of persons entertained, using the facility or property, or receiving the gift.

Although the conferees intend that the principles of these regulations fully apply to deductions and credits claimed for local travel and the use of other listed property under section 274(d), the conferees also recognize that these principles will need to be carefully applied to local travel and listed property not previously subject to section 274(d). This will need to be done because the nature of making these expenditures generally differs from the nature of making the types of expenditures that had been required to meet the section 274(d) substantiation standards prior to the 1984 Act, such as travel away from home and business meals. For example, deductions associated with local travel may be for annual amounts for items such as depreciation and insurance, rather than a series of discrete expenditures for meals or hotels. Also, expense for travel away from home often involve a third party, such as an airline, train, or hotel, that provides a receipt for the taxpayer of the date and amount of the expenditure and the destination or location. Similarly, expenses for business meals generally occur in restaurants, which provide a similar receipt. While these receipts do not, of course, encompass all of the elements of the substantiation requirements under section 274(d),[4] they do aid taxpayers in their recordkeeping. Similar third party involvement generally is not available for local travel or the use of computers. Similarly, expenses for travel away from home or for business meals do not generally occur with the same frequency as individual local travel trips. Because the bill repeals the 1984 Act requirement of contemporaneous records, taxpayers are not required to maintain trip-by-trip logs and records encompassing each element of the substantiation standards of section 274(d) to justify a deduction or credit.

Consequently, the conferees recognize that some adjustment generally will need to be made in order to apply these principles to the specific factual circumstances surrounding expenditures for local travel and use of listed property not previously subject to section 274(d) rules. The conferees believe that the courts and the Treasury can make these required adjustments without sacrificing these principles, and without reverting to the section 162 standards (including the Cohan[5] rule), which the conferees have determined are [9] inadequate and unacceptable for purposes of section 274(d). In several cases previously decided under section 274(d), it is not clear that the courts had rejected the Cohan rule; the conferees believe that the courts must clearly and explicitly reject the Cohan rule for expenditures required to meet the substantiation requirements of section 274(d).

Written policy statements

The conferees intend that the two types of written policy statements satisfying the conditions described below, if initiated and kept by an employer to implement a policy of no personal use (or no personal use except for commuting) of a vehicle provided by the employer, qualify as sufficient evidence corroborating the taxpayer's own statement[6] and therefore will satisfy the employer's substantiation requirements under section 274(d). Therefore, the employee need not keep a separate set of records for purposes of the employer's substantiation requirements under section 274(d) with respect to use of a vehicle satisfying these written policy statement rules. A written policy statement adopted by a government unit as to employee use of its vehicles would be eligible for these exceptions to the section 274(d) substantiation rules. Thus, a resolution of a city council or a provision of state law or the state constitution would qualify as a written policy statement, so long as the conditions described below are met.

The first type of written policy statement that will satisfy the employer's substantiation requirements under section 274(d) is a policy that prohibits personal use by the employee. In order to be eligible for this special rule, all of the following conditions must be met—

(1) The vehicle is owned or leased by the employer and is provided to one or more employees for use in connection with the employer's trade or business;

(2) When the vehicle is not being used for such business purposes, it is kept on the employer's business premises (or temporarily located elsewhere, e.g., for repair);

(3) Under the employer's written policy, no employee may use the vehicle for personal purposes, other than de minimis, personal use (such as a stop for lunch between two business deliveries);

d. Documentary evidence (receipts, paid bills)
e. Trip sheets
f. Expense reports
g. Statements of witnesses
h. If the employee is required to make an adequate accounting to the employer and the reimbursement equals expenses, the employee is not required to report the expenses and reimbursement on his or her tax return. (A reimbursement would equal expenses where the reimbursement is determined pursuant to data on the type of automobile and its availability for personal purposes, and on a reasonable allocation of local operating and fixed costs.)

[4]For example, the third party is not in a position to record the business purpose of the trip or meal; the taxpayer must provide that information, which is required under the section 274(d) substantiation rules.

[5]Cohan v. Commissioner, 39 F.2d 540, 544 (2d Cir. 1930).

[6]The substance of these two special rules was set forth in the temporary Treasury regulations repealed by the bill. The conferees intend that these rules, as described in this report, be reinstated in the new regulations required by the bill.

(4) The employer reasonably believes that no employee uses the vehicle, other than de minimis use, for any personal purpose;

(5) No employee using the vehicle lives at the employer's business premises; and

(6) There must be evidence that would enable the Internal Revenue Service to determine whether the use of the vehicle met the five preceeding conditions.

The second type of written policy statement that will satisfy the employer's substantiation requirements under section 274(d) is a policy that prohibits personal use by the employee, except for commuting. In order to be eligible for this rule, all of the following conditions must be met—

[10] (1) The vehicle is owned or leased by the employer and is provided to one or more employees for use in connection with the employer's trade or business and is used in the employer's trade or business;

(2) For bona fide noncompensatory business reasons, the employer requires the employee to commute to and/or from work in the vehicle;

(3) The employer establishes a written policy under which the employee may not use the vehicle for personal purposes, other than commuting or de minimis personal use (such as a stop for a personal errand between a business delivery and the employee's home);

(4) The employer reasonably believes that, except for de minimis use, the employee does not use the vehicle for any personal purpose other than commuting;

(5) The employer accounts for the commuting use by including an appropriate amount (specified in Treasury regulations) in the employee's gross income;[7] and

(6) There must be evidence that would enable the Internal Revenue Service to determine whether the use of the vehicle met the five preceding conditions.

This second type of written policy statement is not available if the employee using the vehicle for commuting is an officer or one-percent owner of the employer.[8]

Tax return questions

The conference agreement generally follows the House bill as to information to be requested on tax returns about business use of vehicles and other listed property.

The conferees want to ensure that taxpayers claim only the deductions and credits to which they are entitled, but without being unduly burdened by unnecessarily complex recordkeeping requirements. At the same time, the conferees believe that taxpayers should provide sufficient information on their returns so that the Internal Revenue Service can make a preliminary evaluation of the appropriateness of the taxpayer's claimed deductions. Previously, the Internal Revenue Service found it difficult to make such a preliminary evaluation without auditing the taxpayer, which can also be a significant burden on the taxpayer.

Therefore, the conferees intend that individual taxpayers (whether employees or self-employed) claiming deductions or credits for business use of an automobile or other listed property subject to the substantiation standards of section 274(d) are to provide on their returns the substance of the information (generally on appropriate existing tax forms) called for by all the questions as set forth in the House report on the bill.[9] Corporate taxpayers, as well as all [11] other taxpayers and entities, claiming such deductions or credits also are to be asked to supply such information on the forms or schedules they are required to file.

The conferees have carefully considered the fact that furnishing additional tax return information, although involving only a limited number of questions, requires some additional effort by taxpayers. However, the conferees note that computations involved with respect to vehicles (such as mileage and percentage of business use) normally would be made by taxpayers in the process of determining the proper amount of deductions and credits to claim, and that other information can be obtained through "yes" or "no" questions. Accordingly, to achieve better compliance and more accurate computations, the conference agreement directs the Internal Revenue Service to obtain this information on appropriate tax forms or schedules, notwithstanding any otherwise applicable paperwork reduction considerations.

The conferees intend that employees give this return information to their employers with respect to employer-provided vehicles. Generally, the employer would report this information on its tax return, since the employer is claiming the tax deductions or credits for use of the vehicle. An employer which provides more than five cars to its employees, however, would not have to include all this information on the employer's return; instead, such an employer must obtain this information from its employees, must so indicate on its return, and must retain the information received. The Internal Revenue Service could then examine on audit the information that the employees have provided to the employer. An employer may rely on such a statement from an employee (unless the employer knows or has reason to know it is false) to determine the credits and deductions to which the employer is entitled and to determine the amount, if any, which must be included in employee's incor

[7] Of course, if in fact the employee uses the vehicle for personal purposes in violation of the particular type of written policy statement, then the employee has additional gross income.

[8] This restriction, which makes this rule inapplicable to officers or one-percent owners, applies for substantiation purposes under the conference agreement. The treatment of commuting use of vehicles by such persons for valuation purposes is to be determined separately under Treasury regulations. No inference is intended, on the basis of the exclusion of officers and one-percent owners from eligibility under this substantiation rule, as to the treatment of commuting use of vehicles by such persons under valuation rules prescribed by Treasury regulations.

[9] In the case of a vehicle, the information required to be requested on the tax return relates to mileage (total, business, commuting, and other personal), percentage of business use, date placed in service, use of other vehicles and after-work use, whether the taxpayer has evidence to support the business use claimed on the return, and whether or not the evidence is written. In the case of other listed property subject to the section 274(d) rules, information should be requested in connection with appropriate tax forms or schedules as to type of property (e.g., yacht computer, airplane, etc.), percentage of business use, whether the taxpayer has written evidence to support the business use claimed on the return, a whether or not the evidence is written. Under t conference agreement, the Internal Reven Service is not required to request on returns t specific question relating to computers set fo as question 2 on page 10 of the committee rep on the House bill.

and wages by the employer because of the employee's commuting or other personal use of the employer-provided car.

Effective dates

The modification to the substantiation standards of section 274(d) that provides that taxpayers must substantiate deductions or credits subject to that provision by adequate records or sufficient evidence corroborating their own statement is effective January 1, 1985.

Use of listed property that was not subject to section 274(d) substantiation rules prior to the 1984 Act (such as local travel in an automobile or use of computers) is subject to the section 274(d) substantiation requirements effective January 1, 1986.[10] For 1985, use [12] of such listed property is not subject to the special substantiation standards under section 274(d).

The tax return information (described above) must be requested on returns for taxable years beginning in 1985 (i.e., in the case of most individuals, returns which must be filed by April 15, 1986.)

3. Repeal of regulations

Present law

The Internal Revenue Service has issued temporary regulations implementing the recordkeeping provisions of section 179(b) of the 1984 Act.

House bill

The House bill repeals all Treasury regulations (temporary or proposed) issued prior to the enactment of this House bill that carry out the amendments made by section 179(b) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984. Thus, such regulations issued to implement the changes to section 274(d) made by that Act, particularly the inclusion in that section of the word "contemporaneous," are revoked.[11] In addition, any regulations relating to the return preparer provision and the special negligence penalty (described above) are revoked.[12] These revoked regulations are to have no force and effect whatsoever.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment. Thus, the conference agreement provides that regulations issued to carry out the amendments made by paragraphs (1)(C), (2), and (3) of section 179(b) of the 1984 Act shall have no force and effect.

B. Repeal of Provisions Relating to Return Preparers (sec. 1(b) of the House bill and sec. 1(c) of the Senate amendment)

Present law

Return preparers must advise taxpayers of the substantiation requirements under section 274(d) and obtain written confirmation that those requirements have been met (Code section 6695(b)).

[13] House bill

The House bill repeals this provision, effective as if it had never been enacted.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment.

C. Repeal of Special Negligence Penalty (sec. 1(b) of the House bill and sec. 1(c) of the Senate amendment)

Present law

A special no-fault negligence penalty (Code sec. 6653(h)) applies to the portion of any understatement of tax attributable to failure to meet the substantiation requirements of section 274(d).

House bill

The House bill repeals this special negligence penalty, effective as if it had never been enacted.

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill and the Senate amendment. The conference agreement provides that the Internal Revenue Code shall be applied and administered as if this special negligence penalty had never been enacted.

The conferees believe that repealing this special negligence penalty is needed to restore to the Internal Revenue Service and the courts discretion not to impose the negligence penalty for minor, inadvertent recordkeeping or computational errors. The conferees emphasize, however, that the regular negligence and fraud penalties will continue to be applicable if a taxpayer claims tax benefits that cannot be supported. The conferees are concerned that these regular negligence and fraud penalties have not been applied by the Internal Revenue Service or the courts in a substantial number of instances where their application would be fully justified.

In one Tax Court case, for example, the taxpayer had kept detailed mileage records, required by his employer for reimbursement purposes, that indicated that his business use was approximately five percent of total use. On his tax return, the taxpayer claimed 70 percent business use, with no records, to justify this claim. The Tax Court properly allowed only five percent business use. The Court did not, however, impose a negligence or fraud penalty. The conferees believe that, in a case like this one, the regular negligence penalty should certainly be imposed, and that careful consideration should be given to [10] This January 1, 1986 effective date applies only to the extent that use of listed property was first made subject to the substantiation standards of section 274(d) by the 1984 Act. Deductions for expenses or items that were subject to the section 274(d) substantiation standards prior to the 1984 Act (such as use of an automobile for travel away from home or use of a yacht that is an entertainment, recreation, or amusement facility) remain subject to the section 274(d) substantiation standards for all taxable years ending after December 31, 1962.

[11] Also, the provisions of the temporary regulations that prohibit an employer from including the entire value of the use of an automobile in the income of certain employees are revoked. Thus, an employer is permitted to charge the entire value of an employer-provided car to an employee as income and wages (for income tax, FICA, FUTA, and RRTA withholding purposes). The employer may then reimburse the employee for the business use of the car, or the employee may claim a deduction on the employee's income tax return for the business use of the car.

[12] The bill only revokes such regulations and (issued prior to enactment) carrying out such amendments made by sections 179(b)(1)(C), (2), and (3) of the 1984 Act. Thus, the bill does not revoke any other regulations, such as regulations issued under sections 61 and 132 (relating to valuation).

In another Tax Court case, the taxpayer had kept detailed records so that he could be reimbursed by his employer, but [14] claimed on his tax return approximately 35,000 miles of business use beyond what his records demonstrated, without any justification. No negligence penalty was imposed. In another case, the taxpayer produced a diary purporting to justify the claimed deductions. The Tax Court called the diary a "fabrication" and said that the taxpayer "was not telling the truth." The Court still permitted him a deduction, and did not impose the regular negligence or civil fraud penalty. Finally, another taxpayer apparently claimed a deduction for business mileage that exceeded the total mileage shown on his odometer, but the Tax Court did not impose a negligence or civil fraud penalty.

These cases indicate that the regular negligence and civil fraud penalties are not being administered by either the Internal Revenue Service or the courts in the manner that the Congress intended when it initially enacted these penalties. While minor, inadvertent recordkeeping or computational errors should not lead to the imposition of a substantial penalty, the conferees believe that it is vital to the integrity of the tax system that honest taxpayers know that others who claim tax benefits far in excess of what can be justified will be subject to the negligence and fraud penalties.

D. Exceptions From Section 274(d) Rules and Exclusion From Income for Certain Vehicles (sec. 2(b) of the House bill and sec. 2 of the Senate amendment)

Present law

Substantiation rules

Temporary Treasury regulations provided that, except for vehicles used for commuting, vehicles of a type ordinarily not susceptible to personal use do not constitute listed property to which the section 274(d) substantiation requirements apply. The regulations cited, as examples of such vehicles that are not susceptible to personal use, trucks specially designed for specific business purposes (such as refrigerated delivery trucks), special-purpose farm vehicles (such as tractors and combines), cement mixers, and forklifts.

Income inclusion

The fair market value of an employer-provided fringe benefit, such as personal use by an employee of an employer-provided vehicle, is included in the employee's gross income, and in wages for purposes of withholding and FICA, FUTA, and RRTA taxes, unless excluded under a specific statutory provision of the Code (secs. 61(a)(1), 3121(a), 3231(e), 3306(b), 3401(a)).

House bill

Substantiation rules

The House bill exempts from the section 274(d) substantiation rules (as modified by the bill) any vehicle that, by reason of its nature, is not likely to be used more than a de minimis amount for personal purposes. This provision is effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1985; thus, for 1985 the pre-1984 Act substantiation rules continue to apply with respect to such vehicles.

[15] The committee report on the House bill lists the following vehicles as examples of vehicles exempted under the bill from the section 274(d) substantiation rules: (a) clearly marked police and fire vehicles (as described in the report); (b) delivery trucks with seating only for the driver, or only for the driver plus a folding jump seat; (c) flatbed trucks; (d) any vehicle designed to carry cargo with a loaded gross vehicle weight over 14,000 pounds; (e) passenger buses used as such with a capacity of at least 20 passengers; (f) ambulances used as such or hearses used as such; (g) bucket trucks ("cherry pickers"); (h) cranes and derricks; (i) forklifts; (j) cement mixers; (k) dump trucks (including garbage trucks); (l) refrigerated trucks; (m) tractors; and (n) combines.

The report on the House bill also states that the committee recognizes that it may not have developed an exhaustive list of vehicles not susceptible to personal use. Therefore, the report states, the committee intends that the Internal Revenue Service is to expand this list through either regulations or revenue rulings to include any vehicles not included in the listing in the report that are appropriate for listing because by their nature it is highly unlikely that they will be used more than a very minimal amount for personal purposes.

The report also states that the committee did not generally exempt from the section 274(d) substantiation rules all pickup trucks and vans, because these vehicles can easily be used for personal purposes. Some taxpayers purchase these vehicles as substitutes for passenger sedans, and use them predominantly (or entirely) for personal purposes. On the other hand, however, the committee report recognized that this is not applicable to all vans. For example, a van that has only a front bench for seating in which permanent shelving[13] has been installed, that constantly carries merchandise, and that has been specially painted with advertising or the company's name, is a vehicle not susceptible to personal use.

The committee report on the House bill states that it is appropriate for Treasury regulations to provide that under certain conditions all use by an employee of any employer-provided vehicle that is exempted under the House bill from the section 274(d) substantiation rules (see above) is excluded, as a working condition fringe benefit (sec. 132(a)(3)),[14] from the employee's gross income, and from wages (and, where appropriate, from the benefit base) for purposes of FICA, FUTA, and RRTA taxes. Such exclusions pursuant to Treasury regulations are to be effective as of January 1, 1985.

Senate amendment

Substantiation rules

The Senate amendment provides that the following vehicles are exempt from the section 274(d) substantiation rules (as modified by [16] the amendment) and that any commuting or other personal use of such exempted vehicles is excluded from the user's gross income and from the wages (and, where appropriate, from the benefit base) for pur

[13] It is intended that this shelving fill most o the cargo area.

[14] Absent such a special exclusion, commutin use (or other personal use) by an employee of a employer-provided vehicle could not qualify as working condition fringe benefit because th costs of commuting to and from work (or of othe personal use of a vehicle) are nondeductible pur suant to Code section 262. See, e.g., Fausner v Comm'r, 413 U.S. 838 (1973) [1974-2 C.B. 42]

poses of FICA, FUTA, and RRTA taxes, effective January 1, 1985:

(a) Vehicles required to be used as an integral part of the trade or business of an individual or of the employer (such as calling on customers or clients, making deliveries, or visiting job sites), so long as use in the trade or business is at least 75 percent of the vehicle's total use;

(b) Vehicles used by an employee for commuting, where the commuting is for a bona fide business purpose, where the employer does not permit the employee to make other personal use of the vehicle (other than de minimis use), and where use in the trade or business of the employer is at least 75 percent of total use; and

(c) Vehicles used by a governmental unit for police or other law enforcement purposes and vehicles used as an ambulance.

Income inclusion

The Senate amendment provides that any commuting or other personal use of such exempted vehicles (described above) is excluded from the user's gross income, and from wages (and, where appropriate, from the benefit base) for purposes of FICA, FUTA, and RRTA taxes, effective January 1, 1985.

ITC and depreciation cups

The Senate and amendment provides that police and law enforcement vehicles and ambulances placed in service after June 18, 1984 are exempt from the investment tax credit and depreciation limitations set forth in section 280F.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill, with the following modifications.

The conferees intend that school buses (as defined in Code section 4221(d)(7)(C)), qualified specialized utility repair trucks, and qualified moving vans, in addition to the list above (items (a) through (n) in the description of the House bill), are also to be examples of vehicles that, by reason of their nature, are not likely to be used more than a de minimis amount for personal purposes.

The term "qualified specialized utility repair trucks" means trucks (not including vans or pickup trucks) specifically designed and used to carry heavy tools, testing equipment, or parts where (1) the shelves, racks, or other permanent interior construction which has been installed to carry and store such heavy items is such that it is unlikely that the truck will be used more than a very minimal amount for personal purposes[15] and (2) the employer requires the employee to drive the truck home in order to be able to respond in emergency situations for purposes of restoring or maintaining electricity, gas, telephone, water, sewer, or steam utility services.

[17] The term "qualified moving vans" means vans used by professional moving companies in the trade or business of moving household or business goods where no personal use of the van is allowed other than for travel to and from a move site (or for de minimis use), where personal use for travel to and from a move site is an irregular practice (i.e., not more than five times a month on average), and where personal use is limited to situations in which it is more convenient to the employer, because of the location of the employee's residence, for the van not to be returned to the employer's business location.

Also, the conferees agreed that the Treasury Department has authority to issue regulations exempting from the section 274(d) substantiation rules, and from inclusion in income and wages, officially authorized uses of unmarked vehicles by law enforcement officers. To qualify for this exemption, the personal use must be authorized by the Federal, State, county, or local governmental agency or department that owns or leases the vehicle and employs the officer, and must be for law-enforcement functions such as undercover work or reporting directly from home to a stakeout or surveillance site, or to an emergency situation. Use of an unmarked vehicle for vacation or recreation trips cannot qualify as an authorized use. The term "law enforcement officer" means an individual who is employed on a full-time basis by a governmental unit that is responsible for the prevention or investigation of crime involving injury to persons or property, who is authorized by law to carry firearms and execute search warrants and also to make arrests (other than merely a citizen arrest), and who regularly carries firearms (except when it is not possible to do this because of the requirements of undercover work). The term "law enforcement officer" does not include Internal Revenue Service special agents.

The conference agreement also provides that if, for example, a municipal government ordinance requires that police officers driving clearly marked police cars who are on duty at all times must take the vehicle home when the employee is not on his or her regular shift, and prohibits any personal use (except for this commuting use) of the vehicle outside the city (i.e., outside the limit of the officer's arrest powers), then all use of the vehicle could be considered in such regulations as an excludable working condition fringe.

E. Withholding Election (sec. 3 of the House bill)

Present law

As authorized under the 1984 Act, temporary Treasury regulations have provided for withholding (or payment) of income and employment taxes with respect to taxable noncash fringe benefits, such as an employee's personal use of an employer-provided vehicle, on a quarterly basis (Code sec. 3501(b)).

House bill

The House bill provides that an employer may elect not to deduct and withhold income taxes with respect to the noncash fringe benefit attributable to an employee's personal use of a highway motor vehicle provided by the employer. An employer making this election must so notify the employee (at such time and in such [18] manner as provided in Treasury regulations) and must include the fair market value of the benefit on the Form W-2 furnished to the employee. An electing employer must still withhold social security (or railroad retirement) taxes. This provision is effective as of January 1, 1985.

[15] An example of this would be permanent shelving that fills most of the cargo area.

The committee report on the House bill states that the committee intends that the regulations are to be revised to allow an employer to elect, for income and employment tax purposes, to treat taxable fringe benefits (including personal use of employer-provided automobiles) as paid on a pay period, quarterly, semi-annual, or annual basis.

Senate amendment

No provision.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill.

F. Limitations on Investment Tax Credit and Depreciation for Automobiles (sec. 4 of the House bill)

Present law

The 1984 Act generally imposed limitations on the amount of investment tax credit and annual depreciation deductions that are allowed for an automobile placed in service or leased by the taxpayer after June 18, 1984.

For an automobile placed in service in 1984, (1) the investment tax credit is limited to $1,000; (2) depreciation in the first taxable year the automobile is placed in service is limited to $4,000; and (3) depreciation in any subsequent taxable year is limited to $6,000. For years after 1984, the limits are adjusted for inflation, as measured by the percentage growth of the automobile component of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers between October of the preceding year and October, 1983. The adjusted limits for any year apply only to automobiles placed in service in that year.

The limits on the amount of investment tax credit and annual depreciation deductions that may be claimed with respect to an automobile are reduced as follows under the House bill; (1) the investment tax credit is limited to $675; (2) depreciation in the first taxable year the automobile is placed in service is limited to $3,600 and (3) depreciation in any subsequent taxable year is limited to $5,400. For years after 1985, the reduced limits are indexed for inflation, as measured by the percentage growth of the automobile component of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban consumers between Otober of the preceding year and October, 1984. Adjustments for inflation are otherwise determined as under present law. The committee report states that the committee intends that the Secretary of the Treasury prescribe all limits adjusted for inflation.

[19] The reduced limits are generally effective for property placed in service or leased by the taxpayer after April 2, 1985. However, property acquired by the taxpayer pursuant to a binding contract in effect on April 1, 1985, and at all times thereafter, is not subject to the reduced limits if it is placed in service before August 1, 1985; and property of which the taxpayer is the lessee pursuant to a binding contract in effect on April 1, 1985, and all times thereafter, is not subject to the reduced limits if the taxpayer first uses the property under the lease before August 1, 1985.

Senate amendment

No provision.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follows the House bill, with three modifications: (1) depreciation in the first taxable year is limited to $3,200; (2) depreciation in any subsequent taxable year is limited to $4,800; and (3) the reduced limits on the investment credit and depreciation are not indexed for inflation until 1989. For automobiles placed in service in any year after 1988, the reduced limits are adjusted for the precentage increase of the automobile component of the Consumer Price Index for All Urban Consumers between October of the preceding year and October, 1987. The conferees made these changes to the House bill to ensure that the conference agreement is revenue neutral.

G. New Regulations (sec. 5 of the House bill)

Present law

The Treasury Department has the authority to issue regulations under the Internal Revenue Code.

House bill

The House bill requires that the Treasury Department issue regulations to carry out the provisions of the Hous bill not later than October 1, 1985.

Senate amendment

No provision.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement follow the House bill. Because the confere have delayed applicability of the se tion 274(b) substantiation rules to loc travel, computers, etc., until January 1986, the conferees believe that requi ing regulations to be issued by Octob 1, 1985, will provide taxpayers wit sufficient time to prepare to meet thes requirements.

Public Law 99-121
99th Congress, H.R. 2475[1]
October 11, 1985

Act to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to simplify the imputed interest rules of sections 1274 and 483, and for other purposes.

Be it enacted by the Senate and House of Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled,

TITLE I—AMENDMENTS TO IMPUTED INTEREST RULES

SECTION 101. SIMPLIFICATION OF GENERAL IMPUTED INTEREST RULES

(a) Reduction of Imputation Rate From 120 to 100 Percent; Elimination of Separate Testing Rate.—

(1) Amendments of section 1274.—

(A) Subparagraph (B) of section 1274(b)(2) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (defining imputed principal amount) is amended by striking out "120 percent of"

(B) Clause (ii) of section 1274(c)(1)(A) of such Code is amended to read as follows:

"(ii) in any other case, the imputed principal amount of such debt instrument determined under subsection (b), and".

(C) Paragraph (2) of section 1274(c) of such Code is amended by striking out "the testing amount" and inserting in lieu thereof "the imputed principal amount of such debt instrument determined under subsection (b)"

(D) Subsection (c) of section 1274 of such Code is amended by striking out paragraph (3) and by redesignating paragraph (4) as paragraph (3).

(2) Amendments of section 483.—

(A) The last sentence of section 483(b) of such Code (defining total unstated interest) is amended by striking out "120 percent of".

(B) Subparagraph (B) of section 483(c)(1) of such Code is amended to read as follows:

"(B) under which there is total unstated interest."

(b) Interest Rates Redetermined Each Month.—

(1) In general.—Paragraph (1) of section 1724(d) of such Code (defining applicable Federal rate) is amended by striking out subparagraphs (B), (C), and (D) and inserting in lieu thereof the following:

"(B) Determination of rates.— During each calendar month, the Secretary shall determine the Federal short-term rate, mid-term rate, and long-term rate which shall apply during the following calendar month.

"(C) Federal rate for any calendar month.—For purposes of this paragraph—

"(i) Federal short-term rate.—The Federal short-term rate shall be the rate determined by the Secretary based on the average market yield (during any 1-month period selected by the Secretary and ending in the calendar month in which the determination is made) on outstanding marketable obligations of the United States with remaining periods to maturity of 3 years or less.

"(ii) Federal mid-term and long-term rates.—The Federal mid-term and long-term rate shall be determined in accordance with the principles of clause (i).

"(D) Lower rate permitted in certain cases.—The Secretary may by regulations permit a rate to be used with respect to any debt instrument which is lower than the applicable Federal rate if the taxpayer establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that such lower rate is based on the same principles as the applicable Federal rate and is appropriate for the term of such instrument."

(2) Rate applicable to any sale or exchange.—Paragraph (2) of section 1274(d) of such Code (relating to rate applicable to any sale or exchange) is amended to read as follows:

"(2) Lowest 3-month rate applicable to any sale or exchange.—

"(A) In general.—In the case of any sale or exchange, the applicable Federal rate shall be the lowest 3-month rate.

"(B) Lowest 3-month rate.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the term 'lowest 3-month rate' means the lowest of the applicable Federal rates in effect for any month in the 3-calendar-month period ending with the 1st calendar month in which there is a binding contract in writing for such sale or exchange."

(c) Rate Increased to 110 Percent in Case of Sale-leaseback.—Section 1274 of such Code (relating to determination of issue price in the case of certain debt instruments issued for property) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subsection:

"(e) 110 Percent Rate Where Sale-

Leaseback Involved.—

"(1) In general.—In the case of any debt instrument to which this subsection applies, the discount rate used under subsection (b)(2)(B) or section 483(b) shall be 110 percent of the applicable Federal rate, compounded semiannually.

"(2) Lower discount rates shall not apply.—Section 1274A shall not apply to any debt instrument to which this subsection applies.

"(3) Debt instruments to which this subsection applies.—This subsection shall apply to any debt instrument given in consideration for the sale or exchange of any property if, pursuant to a plan, the transferor or any related person leases a portion of such property after such sale or exchange."

"SEC. 102. LOWER DISCOUNT RATE IN CASE OF CERTAIN SALES WHERE STATED PRINCIPAL AMOUNT DOES NOT EXCEED $2,800,000

(a) General Rule.—Subpart A of part V of subchapter P of chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to original issue discount) is amended by inserting after section 1274 the following new section:

"SEC. 1274A. SPECIAL RULES FOR CERTAIN TRANSACTIONS WHERE STATED PRINCIPAL AMOUNT DOES NOT EXCEED $2,800,000

"(a) Lower Discount Rate.—In the case of any qualified debt instrument, the discount rate used for purposes of sections 483 and 1274 shall not exceed 9 percent, compounded semiannually.

"(b) Qualified Debt Instrument Defined.—For purposes of this section, the term 'qualified debt instrument' means any debt instrument given in consideration for the sale or exchange of property (other than new section 38 property within the meaning of section 48(b)) if the stated principal amount of such instrument does not exceed $2,800,000.

"(c) Election To Use Cash Method Where Stated Principal Amount Does Not Exceed $2,000,000.—

"(1) In general.—In the case of any cash method debt instrument—

"(A) section 1274 shall not apply, and

"(B) interest on such debt instrument shall be taken into account by both the borrower and the lender under the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting.

"(2) Cash method debt instrument.—For purposes of paragraph (1), the term 'cash method debt instrument' means any qualified debt instrument if—

"(A) the stated principal amount does not exceed $2,000,000,

"(B) the lender does not use an accrual method of accounting and is not a dealer with respect to the property sold or exchanged,

"(C) section 1274 would have applied to such instrument but for an election under this subsection, and

"(D) an election under this subsection is jointly made with respect to such debt instrument by the borrower and lender.

"(3) Successors bound by election.—

"(A) In general.—Except as provided in subparagraph (B), paragraph (1) shall apply to any successor to the borrower or lender with respect to a cash method debt instrument.

"(B) Exception where lender transfers debt instrument to accrual method taxpayer.—If the lender (or any successor) transfers any cash method debt instrument to a taxpayer who uses an accrual method of accounting, this paragraph shall not apply with respect to such instrument for periods after such transfer.

"(4) Fair market value rule in potentially abusive situations.—In the case of any cash method debt instrument, section 483 shall be applied as if it included provisions similar to the provisions of section 1274(b)(3).

"(d) Other Special Rules.—

"(1) Aggregation rules.—For purposes of this section—

"(A) all sales or exchanges which are part of the same transaction (or a series of related transactions) shall be treated as 1 sale or exchange, and

"(B) all debt instruments arising from the same transaction (or a series of related transactions) shall be treated as 1 debt instrument.

"(2) Inflation adjustments.—

"(A) In general.—In the case of any debt instrument arising out of a sale or exchange during any calendar year after 1989, each dollar amount contained in the preceding provisions of this section shall be increased by the inflation adjustment for such calendar year. Any increase under the preceding sentence shall be rounded to the nearest multiple of $100 (or, if such increase is a multiple of $50, such increase shall be increased to the nearest multiple of $100).

"(B) Inflation adjustment.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the inflation adjustment for any calendar year is the percentage (if any) by which—

"(i) the CPI for the preceding calendar year exceeds

"(ii) the CPI for calendar year 1988.

For purposes of the preceding sentence, the CPI for any calendar year is the average of the Consumer Price Index as of the close of the 12-month period ending on September 30 of such calendar year.

"(e) Regulations.—The Secretary shall prescribe such regulations as may be necessary to carry out the purposes of this subsection, including—

"(1) regulations coordinating the provisions of this section with other provisions of this title,

"(2) regulations necessary to prevent the avoidance of tax through the abuse of the provisions of subsection (c), and

"(3) regulations relating to the treatment of transfers of cash method debt instruments."

(b) Exception for Assumptions.—Subsection (c) of section 1274 of such Code is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(4) Exception for assumptions.—If any person—

"(A) in connection with the sale or exchange of property, assumes an debt instrument, or

"(B) acquires any property subject to any debt instrument, in determining whether this section or section 483 applies to such debt instrument, such assumption (or such acquisition) shall not be taken into account unless the terms and conditions of such debt instrument are modified (or the nature of the transaction is changed) in connection with the assumption (or acquisition)."

(c) Technical Amendments.—

(1) Section 483 of such Code is amended by striking out subsection (f) and by redesignating subsections (g), and (h) as subsections (e), (f), and (g), respectively.

(2) Paragraph (1) of section 483(e) of such Code (as redesignated by paragraph (1)) is amended by striking out "7 percent" and inserting in lieu thereof "6 percent".

(3) Subsection (g) of section 483 of such Code (as redesignated by paragraph (1)) is amended to read as follows:

"(g) Cross References.—

"(1) For treatment of assumptions, see section 1274(c)(4).

"(2) For special rules for certain transactions where stated principal amount does not exceed $2,800,000 see section 1274A.

"(3) For special rules in case of the borrower under certain loans for personal use, see section 1275(b)."

(4) Paragraph (4) of section 280G(d) of such Code is amended by striking out "in accordance with section 1274(b)(2)" and inserting in lieu thereof "by using a discount rate equal to 120 percent of the applicable Federal rate (determined under section 1274(d)), compounded semiannually".

(d) Clerical Amendment.—The table of sections for subpart A of part V of subchapter P of chapter 1 of such Code is amended by inserting after the item relating to section 1274 the following new item:

"Sect. 1274A. Special rules for certain transactions where stated principal amount does not exceed $2,800,000."

SEC. 103. RECOVERY PERIOD FOR 18-YEAR REAL PROPERTY EXTENDED TO 19 YEARS

(a) In General.—Clause (i) of section 168(b)(2)(A) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to amount of deduction for 18-year real property) is amended by striking out "18-year recovery period" and inserting in lieu thereof "19-year recovery period".

(b) Technical Amendments.—

(1) The following provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 are amended by striking out "18-year real property" each place it appears in the text and headings thereof and inserting in lieu thereof "19-year real property":

(A) Section 168 (relating to accelerated cost recovery system).

(B) Section 57(a)(12) (relating to preference for accelerated cost recovery deduction).

(C) Section 312(k)(3)(A) (relating to earnings and profits).

(D) Subparagraphs (A), (B), and (C) of section 1245(a)(5) (relating to gain dispositions of certain depreciable property).

(2) the table contained in subparagraph (A) of section 168(b)(3) of such Code (relating to election of different recovery percentage) is amended by striking out "18, 35, or 45" and inserting in lieu thereof "19, 35, or 45 years".

(3)(A) Subparagraph (B) of section 168(f)(1) of such Code (relating to components of section 1250 class property) is amended by redesignating clause (iii) as clause (iv) and by inserting after clause (ii) the following new clause:

"(iii) Buildings placed in service before May 9, 1985.—In the case of any building placed in service by the taxpayer before May 9, 1985, for purposes of applying subparagraph (A) to components of such buildings placed in service after May 8, 1985, the deduction allowable under subsection (a) with respect to such components shall be computed in the same manner as the deduction allowable with respect to the first component placed in service after May 8, 1985."

(B) Clause (ii) of section 168(f)(1)(B) of such Code is amended by striking out "March 15, 1984, the" and inserting in lieu thereof "March 15, 1984, and before May 9, 1985, the"

(c) Clause (iv) of section 168(f)(1)(B) of such Code, as redesignated by subparagraph (A), is amended by striking out "or (ii)" and inserting in lieu thereof ", (ii), or (iii)".

(4) clause (ii) of section 168(f)(12)(B) of such Code (relating to limitations for property financed with tax-exempt bonds) is amended—

(A) by striking out "15-year real property" each place it appears in the heading and the text and inserting in lieu thereof "19-year real property", and

(B) by striking out "15 years" and inserting in lieu thereof "19 years".

(5) Paragraph (2) of section 48(g) of such Code (relating to special rules for qualified rehabilitated buildings) is amended by striking out "18" in subparagraphs (A)(i) and (B)(v) thereof and inserting in lieu thereof "19".

(6) The table contained in subparagraph (B) of section 47(a)(5) of such Code (relating to special rules for recovery property) is amended by striking out "For 15-year, 10-year, and 5-year property" and inserting in lieu thereof "For property other than 3-year property".

(7) Clause (i) of section 57(a)(12)(B) of such Code (relating to real property and low-income housing) is amended by striking out "18 years" and inserting in lieu thereof "19 years".

SEC. 104. SPECIAL RULE FOR CERTAIN WORKOUTS

(a) General Rule.—Sections 483 and 1274 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 shall not apply to the issuance or modification of any written indebtedness if—

(1) such issuance or modification is in connection with a workout of a specified MLC loan which (as of May 31, 1985) was substantially in arrears, and

(2) the aggregate principal amount of indebtedness resulting from such workout does not exceed the sum (as of the time of the workout) of the outstanding principal amount of the specified MLC loan and any arrearages on such loan.

(b) Specified MLC Loan.—For purposes of subsection (a), the term "specified MLC loan" means any loan which, in a submission dated June 17, 1985, on behalf of the New York State Mortgage Loan Enforcement and Administration Corporation, had one of the following loan numbers: 001, 005, 007, 012, 025, 038, 041, 042, 043, 049, 053, 064, 068, 090, 141, 180, or 188.

(a) Sections 101 and 102.—

(1) In general.—Except as provided in paragraph (2), the amendments made by sections 101 and 102 shall apply to sales and exchanges after June 30, 1985, in taxable years ending after such date. The amendment made by section 2 of Public Law 98-612 shall not apply to sales and exchanges after June 30, 1985, in taxable years ending after such date.

(2) Regulatory authority to establish lower rate.—Section 1274(d)(1)(D) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as added by section 101(b), shall apply as if included in the amendments made by section 41 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984.

(b) Section 103.—

(1) In general.—Except as otherwise provided in this subsection, the amendments made by section 103 shall apply with respect to property placed in service by the taxpayer after May 8, 1985.

(2) Exception.—The amendments made by section 103 shall not apply to property placed in service by the taxpayer before January 1, 1987, if—

(A) the taxpayer or a qualified person entered into a binding contract to purchase or construct such property before May 9, 1985, or

(B) construction of such property was commenced by or for the taxpayer or a qualified person before May 9, 1985.

For purposes of this paragraph, the term "qualified person" means any person whose rights in such a contract or such property are transferred to the taxpayer, but only if such property is not placed in service before such rights are transferred to the taxpayer.

(3) Special rule for components.—For purposes of applying section 168(f)(1)(B) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (as amended by section 103) to components placed in service after December 31, 1986, property to which paragraph (2) of this subsection applies shall be treated as placed in service by the taxpayer before May 9, 1985.

(4) Technical correction.—The amendment made by paragraph (6) of section 103(b) shall apply as if included in the amendments made by section 111 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984.

(5) Special rule for leasing of qualified rehabilitated buildings.—The amendment made by paragraph (5) of section 103(b) to section 48(g)(2)(B)(v) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 shall not apply to leases entered into before May 22, 1985, but only if the lessee signed the lease before May 17, 1985.

TITLE II—AMENDMENTS TO BELOW-MARKET INTEREST RULES

SEC. 201. CERTAIN LOANS TO QUALIFIED CONTINUING CARE FACILITIES EXEMPT FROM BELOW-MARKET INTEREST RATE RULES

(a) In General.—Section 7872 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to treatment of loans with below-market interest rates) is amended by redesignating subsection (g) as subsection (h) and by inserting after subsection (f) the following new subsection:

"(g) Exception for Certain Loans to Qualified Continuing Care Facilities.—

"(1) In general.—This section shall not apply for any calendar year to any below-market loan made by a lender to a qualified continuing care facility pursuant to a continuing care contract if the lender (or the lender's spouse) attains age 65 before the close of such year.

"(2) $90,000 limit.—Paragraph (1) shall apply only to the extent that the aggregate outstanding amount of any loan to which such paragraph applies (determined without regard to this paragraph), when added to the aggregate outstanding amount of all other previous loans between the lender (or the lender's spouse) and any qualified continuing care facility to which paragraph (1) applies, does not exceed $90,000.

"(3) Continuing care contract.—For purposes of this section, the term 'continuing care contract' means a written contract between an individual and a qualified continuing care facility under which—

"(A) the individual or individual's spouse may use a qualified continuing care facility for their life or lives,

"(B) the individual or individual's spouse—

"(i) will first—

"(I) reside in a separate, independent living unit with additional facilities outside such unit for the providing of meals and other personal care, and

"(II) not require long-term nursing care, and

"(ii) then will be provided long-term and skilled nursing care as the health of such individual or individual's spouse requires, and

"(C) no additional substantial payment is required if such individual or individual's spouse requires increased personal care services or long-term and skilled nursing care.

"(4) Qualified continuing care facility.—

"(A) In general.—For purposes of this section, the term 'qualified continuing care facility' means 1 or more facilities—

"(i) which are designed to provide services under continuing care contracts, and

"(ii) substantially all of the residents of which are covered by continuing care contracts.

"(B) Substantially all facilities must be owned or operated by borrower.—A facility shall not be treated as a qualified continuing care facility unless substantially all facilities which are used to provide services which are required to be provided under a continuing care contract are owned or operated by the borrower.

"(C) Nursing homes excluded.—The term 'qualified continuing care facility' shall not include any facility which is of a type which is traditionally considered a nursing home.

"(5) Adjustment of limit for inflation.—

"(A) In general.—In the case of any loan made during any calendar year after 1986 to which paragraph (1) applies, the dollar amount in paragraph (2) shall be increased by the inflation adjustment for such calendar year. Any increase under the preceding sentence shall be rounded to the nearest multiple of $100 (or, if such increase is a multiple of $50, such increase shall be increased to the nearest multiple of $100).

"(B) Inflation adjustment.—For purposes of subparagraph (A), the inflation adjustment for any calendar year is the percentage (if any) by which—

"(i) the CPI for the preceding calendar year exceeds

"(ii) the CPI for calendar year 1985.

For purposes of the preceding sentence, the CPI for any calendar year is the average of the Consumer Price Index as of the close of the 12-month period ending on September 30 of such calendar year."

(b) Clarification of Application of Below-Market Interest Rate Rules to Loans to Qualified Continuing Care Facilities.—Paragraph (1) of section 7872(c) of such Code (relating to below-market loans to which section applies) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new subparagraph:

(F) Loans to qualified continuing care facilities.—Any loan to any qualified continuing care facility pursuant to a continuing care contract."

(c) Conforming Amendments.—

(1) Paragraph (1) of section 7872(c) of such Code is amended by inserting "and subsection (g)" after "subsection".

(2) Subparagraph (E) of section 7872(c)(1) of such Code is amended by striking out "or (C)" and inserting in lieu thereof "(C), or (F)".

SEC. 202. TIME FOR DETERMINING RATE APPLICABLE TO EMPLOYEE RELOCATION LOANS

Subsection (f) of section 7872 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (relating to treatment of loans with below-market interest rates) is amended by adding at the end thereof the following new paragraph:

"(11) Time for determining rate applicable to employee relocation loans.—

"(A) In general.—In the case of any term loan made by an employer to an employee the proceeds of which are used by the employee to purchase a principal residence (within the meaning of section 1034), the determination of the applicable Federal rate shall be made as of the date the written contract to purchase such residence was entered into.

"(B) Paragraph only to apply to cases to which section 217 applies.—Subparagraph (A) shall only apply to the purchase of a principal residence in connection with the commencement of work by an employee or a change in the principal place of work of an employee to which section 217 applies."

SEC. 203. SECTION 7872 OF THE INTERNAL REVENUE CODE SHALL NOT APPLY TO NON-LOAN PAYMENTS TO CERTAIN RESIDENTIAL HOUSING FACILITIES FOR THE ELDERLY

(a) General Rule.—For purposes of section 7872 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, payments made to a specified independent living facility for the elderly by a payor who is an individual at least 65 years old shall not be treated as loans provided—

(1) the independent living facility is designed and operated to meet some substantial combination of the health, physical, emotional, recreational, social, religious and similar needs of persons over the age of 65;

(2) in exchange for the payment, the payor obtains the right to occupy (or equivalent contractual right) independent living quarters located in the independent living facility;

(3) the amount of the payment is equal to the fair market value of the right to occupy the independent living quarters;

(4) upon leaving the independent living facility, the payor is entitled to receive a payment equal to at least 50 percent of the fair market value at that time of the right to occupy the independent living quarters, the timing of which payment may be contingent on the time when the independent living facility is able to locate a new occupant for such quarters; and

(5) the excess, if any, of the fair market value of the independent living quarters at the time the payor leaves such quarters (less a reasonable amount to cover costs) over the amount paid to the payor is used by an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of such Code to provide housing and related services for needy elderly persons.

(b) Specified Independent Living Facility for the Elderly.—For purposes of this section—

(1) In general.—The term "specified independent living facility for the elderly" means—

(A) the Our Lady of Life Apartments owned by a Missouri not-for-profit corporation with the same name,

(B) the Laclede Oaks Manor owned by the Lutheran Health Care Association of St. Louis, Missouri, and

(C) the Luther Center Northeast owned by the Lutheran Altenheim Society of Missouri.

(2) Requirements.—A facility shall not be considered to be a specified independent living facility for the elderly—

(A) if it is located at any site other than the site which it occupied (or was in the process of occupying through construction) on the date of the enactment of this Act, or

(B) if its ownership is transferred after such date of enactment to a person other than an organization described in section 501(c)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

(1) In general.—The amendments made by section 201 shall apply with respect to loans made after the date of enactment of this Act.

(2) Section 7872 not to apply to certain loans.—Section 7872 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 shall not apply to loans made on or before the date of the enactment of this Act to any qualified continuing care facility pursuant to a continuing care contract. For purposes of this paragraph, the terms "qualified continuing care facility" and "continuing care contract" have the meanings given such terms by section 7872(g) of such Code (as added by section 201).

(b) Section 202.—The amendment made by section 202 shall apply to contracts entered into after June 30, 1985, in taxable years ending after such date.

(c) Section 203.—The provisions of section 203 shall apply as if included in section 172(a) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984.

Approved October 11, 1985.

SIMPLIFICATION OF IMPUTED INTEREST RULES

May 14, 1985.—Committed to the Committee of the Whole House on the State of the Union and ordered to be printed

Mr. Rostenkowski, from the Committee on Ways and Means, submitted the following report to accompany H.R. 2475[1]

The Committee on Ways and Means, to whom was referred the bill (H.R. 2475) to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to simplify the imputed interest rules of sections 1274 and 483, and for other purposes, having considered the same, report favorably thereon without amendment and recommend that the bill do pass.

I. SUMMARY

Present Law

The Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 (the "1984 Act", P.L. 98-369) made two basic modifications to the Federal income tax treatment of imputed interest on seller-financing arising from the sale of property. First, the 1984 Act attempted to correct deficiencies in the then-existing imputed interest rules by providing that the amount of imputed interest would be determined by reference to an interest rate tied to the yields on U.S. Treasury obligations. Under these rules, if interest is not stated at a rate at least 110 percent of the average yield on Treasury obligations. Under these rules, if interest is not stated at a rate at least 110 percent of the average yield on Treasury obligations within an appropriate category of maturities (referred to as the applicable Federal rate), then interest is imputed into the transaction at a rate equal to 120 percent of the Federal rate. The effect of imputing interest income into the transaction is not to increase the amount paid by the buyer to the seller, but to recharacterize a portion of the payments (designated as principal by the parties) as interest for Federal income tax purposes.

[2] Second, the 1984 Act expanded the rules dealing with original issue discount to cover many deferred payment obligations arising from the sale of property. The purpose of this change was to ensure that the interest deduction taken by the buyer during a year does not exceed the interest income reported by the seller during that year.

In response to concerns expressed about the complexity of the 1984 Act rules, the Congress passed temporary legislation (called the "stopgap legislation", P.L. 98–612) at the end of the 98th Congress. Under the stopgap legislation, the test rate on the first $2 million of borrowed amounts is 9 percent on sales for exchanges of property occurring before July 1, 1985.

Committee Bill

Imputed interest rules

The committee bill provides that the rate used to determine whether there is adequate stated interest on the first $2 million of seller financing cannot exceed 9 percent. Where the amount of seller financing is greater than $4 million, that rate is 100 percent of the Federal rates. Where the amount of seller financing is between $2 million and $4 million, that rate is a blend of the 9 percent rate on an amount which phases out on a dollar-for-dollar basis as the amount of seller financing exceeds $2 million and 100 percent of the Federal rates on the excess. The $2 million and $4 million threshold amounts are indexed for inflation after 1988.

The committee bill also provides that the rate used to impute interest into the transaction is to be the same as the rate used to determine whether the stated interest is adequate (i.e., there would be no higher penalty rate where inadequate interest is stated). In addition, the Federal rates are to be determined on a monthly basis, and a rate for a month may be used for sales or exchanges occurring in that month and the next two succeeding months. The imputed interest rules will not apply to assumed loans.

Further, in certain transactions where the borrowed amount is not more than $2 million, the committee bill allows the parties to elect to account for interest in the transaction on the cash method of accounting. The election cannot be made if the seller is a dealer in the property sold or uses the accrual method of accounting.

The amendments by the committee bill to the imputed interest rules apply to sales and exchanges after June 30, 1985.

ACRS recovery period for real property

The committee bill extends the ACRS recovery period for real property (other than low-income real property) from 18 years to 19 years. This change generally would be effective for property placed in service after May 8, 1985. However, the longer recovery period would not apply to property placed in service after May 8, 1985, and before January 1, 1987, if the taxpayer entered into a binding contract to purchase or construct the property before May 9, 1985, or construction of the property had begun before May 9, 1985.

A. The Original Issue Discount Rules

Treatment of original issue discount as interest

If, in a lending transaction, the bor rower receives less than the amount t be repaid at the loan's maturity, the the difference represents "discount.
Discount performs the same function a stated interest, i.e., compensation o the lender for the use of the lender'

1275 and section 163(e) (the "OI rules") generally require the holder of debt instrument issued at a discount t include annually in income a portion o the original issue discount ("OID") o the instrument, and allow the issuer such an instrument to deduct a corr sponding amount, irrespective of th methods of accounting that the hold and the issuer otherwise use.[2]

Definitions

[2] Prior to 1982, the OID rules applied only limited class of obligations. The Tax Equity Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 and the Act greatly expanded the number and type obligations to which the OID rules apply.

[3] Presently, only stock or securities trade an established securities market are treate publicly traded. However, section 103 o Technical Corrections Act of 1985 (H.R. would grant the Treasury Department author issue regulations treating as publicly traded property "of a kind regularly traded on an e lished market."

Operation of the OID rules

The amount of the OID in a debt instrument, if any, is allocated over the life of the instrument through a series of adjustments to the issue price for each "accrual period" (i.e., each six-month or shorter period ending on the calendar day corresponding to the date of the debt instrument's maturity and the date six months prior to the date of maturity). The adjustment to the issue price for each accrual period is determined by multiplying the "adjusted issue price" (i.e., the issue price increased by adjustments prior to the beginning of the accrual period) by the instrument's yield to maturity, and then subtracting the interest payable during the accrual period. The adjustment to the issue price for any accrual [4] period is the amount of OID allocated to that accrual period. These adjustments reflect the amount of the accrued but unpaid interest on the debt instrument in each period. The holder is required to include this amount as interest income and the issuer is permitted a corresponding interest deduction.[4]

B. Determination of Issue Price in Debt-for-Property Transactions: Section 1274

Section 1274, added by the 1984 Act, performs two roles. First, section 1274 tests the adequacy of stated interest in certain debt instruments issued for nonpublicly traded property and, where stated interest is inadequate, recharacterizes a portion of the principal of the debt instrument as interest. Second, section 1274 prescribes the issue price of the debt instrument. If the issue price so prescribed is less than the debt instrument's stated redemption price at maturity, the application of the OID rules will require the issuer and the holder of the debt instrument to use the accrual method of accounting for any interest (whether stated or imputed) that is not paid currently. Thus, the impact of section 1274 is to require the lender and borrower to account for interest annually in an amount equal to the greater of the stated interest rate or a rate deemed to be adequate (i.e., the "imputation rate," described below).

Subject to certain exceptions, described below, section 1274 determines the issue price of a debt instrument issued in connection with the sale or exchange of property if (1) neither the instrument nor the property received in exchange for the instrument is publicly traded; (2) some or all of the payments under the instrument are due more than six months after the sale; and (3) the stated redemption price at maturity of the instrument exceeds its stated principal amount (if there is adequate stated interest) or its "imputed principal amount" (if there is inadequate stated interest).

Determination of issue price and amount of OID under section 1274

The issue price of an obligation subject to 1274 is the stated principal amount of the instrument unless there is inadequate stated interest. In order to determine whether stated interest is adequate, the stated principal amount of the debt instrument is compared with the "testing amount"—the amount determined by discounting all payments due under the instrument at a prescribed "test rate." An instrument contains adequate stated interest if the stated principal amount is less than or equal to the testing amount.

[5] If a debt instrument does not contain adequate stated interest, section 1274 deems the principal amount (and the issue price) of the instrument to be the "imputed principal amount." The imputed principal amount is the amount determined by discounting all payments due under the instrument using a prescribed "imputation rate," which is higher than the test rate.

In effect, where section 1274 applies, if the debt instrument does not bear interest at a rate at least equal to the prescribed test rate, interest will be imputed at a higher rate. Moreover, if such interest is not unconditionally payable at least annually,[5] the OID rules will require periodic inclusion and deduction of the accrued but unpaid interest. The OID rules also apply if an instrument provides for adequate interest payable at least annually, but also provides for fixed additional amounts of interest that are not paid currently. In such a case, the instrument is deemed to contain OID equal to the additional interest. Pursuant to the OID rules, a portion of this OID is reported as income by the lender and deducted by the borrower currently.[6]

Under section 1274, whether is adequate stated interest in a transaction is determined by reference to an appropriate test rate. The test rate of or a debt instrument subject to section 1274 is the rate in effect on the first day there is a binding contract for the sale or exchange of the property. All test and imputation rates are applied using semiannual compounding.

General rule.—For sales or exchanges after December 31, 1984, of new property eligible for the investment credit, and for all sales or exchanges after June 30, 1985, the test rate is 110 percent of the "applicable Federal rate,"and the imputation rate is 120 percent of the "applicable Federal rate."

Applicable Federal rate.—The applicable Federal rate ("AFR") for a debt instrument is the lower of two published rates, one specified by the 1984 Act and one specified in temporary Treasury regulations. The statutory rate

[4]The premise of the OID rules is that, for Federal income tax purposes, an obligations issued at a discount should be treated like an obligation issued at par requiring current payments of interest. Accordingly, the effect of the OID rules is to treat the borrower as having paid semiannually the lender the interest accruing on the outstanding principal balance of the loan, thereby permitting the borrower to deduct as interest expense and requiring the lender to include in income such interest which has accrued but is unpaid. The lender is then deemed to have lent the accrued but unpaid interest back to the borrower, who in subsequent periods is deemed to pay interest on this amount as well as on the principal balance. This concept of accruing interest on unpaid interest is commonly referred to as the "economic accrual" of interest, or interest "compounding."

[5]As discussed below, the prescribed test rates are based on semiannual compounding. Accordingly, if interest is payable annually, the amount payable must reflect the compounding of the test rate. If interest is payable at intervals more frequent than semiannual, the nominal rate may be adjusted appropriately. For illustration of the adjustments to the prescribed rate based on the intervals at which interest is paid, see e.g., Rev. Rul. 85-58, 1985-1 C.B. 290.

[6]An exception from the accrual accounting requirement is provided for debt issued in connection with sales of property not eligible for the investment credit and used in the active trade or business of farming. This exception applies only if the sale takes place after December 31, 1984, and prior to July 1, 1985, and the borrowed is based on the weighted average of yields over a period of six months for marketable obligations of the United States Government with a comparable maturity. Such rates are redetermined at six-month intervals for three categories of debt instruments: short-term maturity (three years or less), mid-term maturity (more than three years but not in excess of nine years), and long-term maturity (more than nine years).[7]

[6] The rates determined under the temporary Treasury regulation are intended to reflect more accurately the current marketplace.[8] These rates are computed monthly using the same methodology described above, except that the rates reflect the average yields for one-month periods. In any month, the lower of the six-month rate or the monthly rate is the AFR. However, in cases where the monthly rate for either of the two preceding months is lower than the AFR for a particular month, the test rate for that month is the lower of the two such rates.

Special rule for certain transactions before July 1, 1985.—For sales or exchanges after December 31, 1984, and before July 1, 1985, of property other than new property eligible for the investment credit, the test rate for "borrowed amounts" not exceeding $2 million is 9 percent. The test rate for borrowed amounts exceeding $2 million is a "blend" of 9 percent on the first $2 million and 110 percent of the AFR on the excess. In applying the $2 million limitation, all sales or exchanges that are part of the same transaction (or a series of related transactions) are treated as one transaction, and all debt instruments arising from the same transaction (or a series of related transactions) are treated as one debt instrument. The imputation rate for transactions during this same period is 10 percent for borrowed amounts to $2 million and a blend of 10 percent and 120 percent of the AFR for borrowed amounts exceeding $2 million.

Limitation on principal amount of a debt instrument

Notwithstanding the computation of "issue price" discussed above (and, accordingly, the buyer's basis in the property), the principal amount of any debt instrument under section 1274 in a "potentially abusive situation" is equal to the fair market value of the property sold.[9] This limitation applies whether the stated interest is adequate or inadequate under section 1274.

A potentially abusive situation includes any transaction involving a "tax shelter" (as defined in sec. 6661(b)(2)(C)(ii)). It also includes any other situation that, because of (1) recent sales transactions, (2) nonresource financing, (3) financing with a term beyond the economic life of the property, or (4) other circumstances, is of a type which the Treasury Department by regulation identifies as having a potential for abuse.

Exceptions

Specific exceptions are provided for certain debt instruments that otherwise would be subject to section 1274. However, these debt instruments may be subject to the rules of section 483. As discussed below, section 483 tests the adequacy of interest in a debt instrument without requiring annual inclusion and deduction of ac- [7] crued but unpaid interest. Debt instruments that are expected from section 1274 are as follows:

Personal-use property.—Issuers (but not holders) of debt instruments issued in exchange for property, substantially all of which will not be used by the issuer in a trade or business or held by the issuer for the production or collection of income, are excepted from section 1274. Accordingly, a cash-metho issuer of such an obligation may clai interest deductions only for amounts stated interest actually paid during th taxable year.

Annuities.—Section 1274 does no apply to an annuity to which section 7 applies and the liability for which d pends in whole or in substantial part the life expectancy of any individua In addition, section 1274 does not a ply to any annuity (whether or not d pendent upon life expectancy) issue by an insurance company (subject tax under Subchapter L), provided t annuity is issued (1) in a transaction which only cash or another annui contract meeting the requirements this exception is exchanged for the a nuity, (2) upon exercise of an electi under a life insurance policy by a ben ficiary thereof, or (3) in a transacti involving a qualified pension or e ployee benefit plan.

Patents.—An exception is provid for payments attributable to a trans of a patent, provided the transfer is gible for capital gain treatment un section 1235 and such payments contingent upon the productivity, u or disposition of the patent. Thus, exception does not apply in the case a deferred lump-sum amount paya for a patent.

Farms.—Section 1274 does not ply to debt instruments received by individual, estate, or testamentary tr by a small business corporation (as fined in sec. 1244(c)(3)), or by cer partnerships[10] in exchange for a fa This exception applies only if the s price does not exceed $1 million.[11]

Principal residences—Debt ins ments received by an individual as sideration for the sale or exchang that individual's principal reside (within the meaning of sec. 1034) not subject to section 1274, regard amount does not exceed $2 million. Interest on such debt is accounted for by both the borrower and the lender on the cash method of accounting.

[7]Appropriate adjustments to the rates are to be made for application to debt instruments, the interest on which is wholly or partly exempt from tax (sec. 1288).

[8]The mechanism provided by the temporary regulations is intended to respond to a problem that may exist where interest rates decline after the period in which the Federal rates were determined.

[9]The principal amount of the note is reduced to reflect the fair market value of other consideration involved in the transaction. This provision prevents both overstatement and understatement of the buyer's basis in the property. The purpose of the latter restriction is to prevent the intentional overstatement of OID. A taxpayer might be motivated to overstate the interest element of a sale, for example, if the property involved in the sale were nondepreciable or the seller were not subject to U.S. tax on interest income.

[10]That is, those partnerships whose capi not in excess of the limits specified in 1244(c)(3).

[11]Sales and exchanges that are part of the transaction or a series of related transactio treated as one sale or exchange, in order t vent taxpayers from avoiding the $1 million tation by dividing what is in substance a transaction into two or more smaller transac The exception for farms as well as the exce following are nevertheless subject to sec. 4 more fully discussed in the text below.

of the amount involved in the transaction.

Total payments not exceeding $250,000—Section 1274 does not apply to any debt instrument given in exchange for property if the sum of (1) the payments due under the instrument (whether designated principal or interest) and under any other debt instrument given in the transaction, and (2) the fair market value of any other consideration given in the transaction, does not exceed $250,000.[12]

Land transfers between related persons.—Section 1274 does not apply to an instrument to the extent that section 483(f), relating to certain sales of land between related parties, applied.

[8] C. Measurement of Principal and Interest in Transactions Not Subject to the OID Rules: Section 483

In general

Section 483 generally applies to nonpublicly traded debt instruments given in exchange for nonpublicly traded property where such debt instruments are not subject to section 1274. Under section 483, an instrument is tested for adequate stated interest in the same manner, and using the same test rates, as under section 1274. Where stated interest is inadequate, section 483 recharacterizes a portion of the principal amount of the instrument as interest which, in general, is equal to the additional amount of OID that section 1274 would impute.[13]

However, unlike section 1274, section 483 does not require inputed interest (or stated interest) to be accounted for on an accrual basis. Stated interest on a debt instrument subject to section 483 is accounted for under the taxpayer's usual method of accounting. Imputed interest is accounted for by cash-method taxpayers when the payments, portions of which are recharacterized as interest by section 483 are made, or by accrual-method taxpayers when such payments are due. The portion of the imputed interest that is allocated to a payment is that portion of the total imputed interest which, in a manner consistent with the method of computing interest under the OID rules, is properly allocable to such payment.

Exceptions

Excepted transactions.—Section 483 contains the same exceptions for sales of personal-use property, annuities, and patents that apply to section 1274. In addition, section 483 does not apply where the sales price of the property does not exceed $3,000.

Lower test rates.—In the case of a sale after June 30, 1985, of a principal residence where the purchase price does not exceed $250,000 or of farm land where the price does not exceed $1 million (where such sale would qualify for exception from section 1274), the test rate may not exceed 9 percent, and imputation rate may not exceed 10 percent. If the purchase price of a principal residence exceeds $250,000, these limits apply to the portion of the deferred payments that $250,000 bears to the sales price; the rates based on the AFR apply to the remainder. In addition, for sales or exchanges of land between an individual and that individual's brothers, sisters, spouse, ancestors or lineal descendants, the test rate under section 483 may not exceed 6 percent. This preferential rate applies only to the extent that the sales price of the land, and the sales price of all prior sales price of the land, and the sales price of all prior sales of land between the same individuals in a calendar year, does not exceed $500,000.

[9] D. Regulatory Authority Relating to Debt-For-Property Transactions

The Treasury Department has authority to issue regulations dealing with the treatment of transactions involving varying interest rates, put or call options, indefinite maturities, contingent payments, assumptions of debt instruments not specifically dealt with in the statute, and other circumstances. The regulatory authority granted to the Treasury Department contemplates possible modification of the generally applicable rules where appropriate to carry out the purposes of the statute, including the provision of exceptions for transactions not likely to significantly reduce the tax liability of the purchaser by reason of overstatement of the basis of the acquired property.

Pursuant to its regulatory authority, the Treasury Department has provided the monthly rates in order to address the problems that may arise where the statutorily determined rates are significantly higher than prevailing market interest rates.

E. Assumptions of Debt in Connection With the Sales of Property

Neither section 483 nor section 1274 applies to the following debt obligations assumed in connection with the sale or exchange of property, or to debt obligations which property is taken subject to, provided that the terms and conditions of the obligation are not modified in connection with the sale:

Pre-October 16, 1984 obligations

Loans made on or before October 15, 1984, and assumed after December 31, 1984, in connection with a sale or exchange of property, are not subject to section 483 or section 1274 by reason of such assumption.[14] This exception does not apply, however, if the purchase price of the property exceeds $100 million.

Residences

Loans assumed in connection with a sale of a residence by an individual, estate, or testmentary trust are exempt from sections 483 and 1274 if either (1) at the time of the sale, the property was the seller's (or if applicable, the decedent's) principal residence (within the meaning of sec. 1034) or (2) during the two-year period prior to the sale, no substantial portion of the property was of a character subject to an allowance for depreciation. Thus, an assumption of a loan in connection with the sale of a principal residence, or of a vacation home on which a taxpayers may not claim depreciation (e.g., by reason of sec. 280A), generally is not subject to testing for unstated interest under sections 483 or 1274. This exception does not apply, however, to a sale of property that was at any time held by the seller for sale to customers in the ordinary course of business.

[12]This exception is subject to an aggregation rule similar to that provided under the farm sale exception.

[14]The exceptions relating to assumptions of loans also apply to loans which property may be taken subject to:

[10] Farms

Neither sections 483 or 1274 apply to loans assumed in connection with a sale by a "qualified person" of real property used as a farm (within the meaning of sec. 6420(c)(2)) at all times during the three-year period prior to the sale. The exception also applies to loans assumed in connection with the sale of tangible personal property used by the seller of such a farm in the active conduct of a farming business that is also sold in connection with the sale of such a farm for use by the buyer in the active conduct of a farming business. The term "qualified person" includes an individual, estate, or testamentary trust, or a corporation or partnership having 35 or fewer shareholders or partners immediately prior to the sale or exchange, owning at least a 10-percent interest in the property sold.

Trades or businesses

Loans assumed in connection with a sale by a "qualified person" of a trade or business are exempt from sections 483 and 1274. Trade or business has the same meaning as under section 355, except that the rental of real estate under no circumstances qualifies as an active business for this purpose. For purposes of this exception, the term "qualified person" has the same meaning as in the exception for assumptions in connection with the sale of farm properties except that the sale must constitute a disposition of the seller's entire interest in the trade or business and in all substantially similar trades or businesses.

An exception is also provided for a sale of real property used in an active trade or business (as defined above) by someone who would be a qualified person but for the fact that this entire interest in the trade or business is not being sold. Thus, for example, loans assumed in connection with a casual sale by a sole proprietor of real property used in his business could be exempt from sections 1274 and 483.

The trade or business property exception does not apply to a sale of property qualifying under the farm exception, or to property that is new property eligible for the investment credit in the buyer's hands.

F. Cost Recovery Deductions for Real Property

In general, domestic real property placed in service after March 15, 1984, and qualifying as recovery property, may be depreciated on an accelerated basis under ACRS over an 18-year period, under tables of recovery percentages prescribed by the Treasury Department. These tables reflect a "mid-month" convention for property placed in service after June 22, 1984. Taxpayers may also elect to depreciate such property on a straight-line basis over 18, 35, or 45 years. The recovery period under ACRS for low-income housing described in sections 1250(a)(1)(B)(i), (ii), (iv) is 15 years and no mid-month convention is used.

Under transitional rules provided by the 1984 Act, property placed in service after March 15, 1984, pursuant to binding contracts entered into, or where construction was commenced by or for the taxpayer, prior to March 16, 1984, may be eligible for a 15-year [11] recovery period. Special rules under the 1984 Act are also provided relating to components of real property placed in service prior to March 16, 1984, that are placed in service on or after the date.[15]

III. REASONS FOR CHANGE

In general

The imputed interest rules of the 1984 Act have been perceived as complex in several respects. The changes made by the committee bill attempt to simplify the imputed interest rules, while retaining the basic purposes of the 1984 legislation.

The imputed interest rate

The committee believes that taxpayers entering into smaller transactions should not have to keep track of the fluctuating imputed interest rates prescribed by the 1984 Act. Accordingly, the committee bill provides a single maximum test rate of 9 percent for transactions where the amount of seller financing does not exceed $2 million. In addition, in order not to create unfairness where the size of the transaction is slightly above the $2 million threshold amount, the committee bill phases out the 9-percent rate on a dollar-for-dollar basis on amounts between $2 million and $4 million.

The definition of the AFR provided by the Act was intended to be a current measure of minimum borrowing rates for a given range of maturities. The mechanism for determining the AFR under the 1984 Act (and the temporary Treasury regulations), however, lags somewhat behind the market. For example, where interest rates are falling rapidly, it is possible for the appropriate borrowing rates for a particular transaction to be slightly lower than 110 percent of the AFR. Accordingly, the committee believes that it is appropriate to reduce the imputed interest rate to 100 percent of the AFR.

The committee believes that an imputed interest rate of 100 percent of the AFR (for transactions not eligible for the lower fixed test rate) is a fair minimum rate and one which will not impose hardships on taxpayers. In recognition that there might be certain isolated circumstances in which a different rate would be more appropriate, the committee bill grants the Treasury Department authority to issue regulations that would permit taxpayers to demonstrate that a lower rate is more accurate in proper cases.

The committee also believes that it is an unnecessary and needless complication to maintain the dual mechanism for determining the AFR that is currently provided by the 1984 Act and temporary Treasury regulations. The mechanism provided by the regulations has worked adequately to provide a rate which is current, yet because of the three-month period that a taxpayer may use the rate, is stable. Consequently, the committee bill eliminates the six-month rate.

Finally, the committee believes that the higher imputation provided by the 1984 Act often acted as a penalty for uninformed taxpayers. Knowledgeable taxpayers could always avoid the higher im- [12] putation rate by providing for stated interest at a lower test rate. Accordingly, the committee bill eliminates the higher imputation rate

Method of accounting

The 1984 Act attempted to prevent mismatching of interest income and interest deductions by requiring both the buyer and the seller to account for the interest in the transaction on the accrual method of accounting. Nevertheless, calculating and accounting for accrued but unpaid interest may impose hardship on taxpayers who might have to report taxable income in advance of receiving cash with which to pay the tax. This aspect is inconsistent with the committee's intention to relieve smaller transactions from complexity. Therefore, the committee bill permits taxpayers in certain smaller transactions to elect to use the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting for interest income and expense, provided that both buyer and seller jointly agree to do so.

Assumptions

While the changes that the 1984 Act made in the imputed interest rules were in large part intended to stop abuses that result from the manipulation of principal and interest in a debt instrument arising from a seller-financed sale of property, many taxpayers have argued that the assumption of a debt instrument does not present the same potential for abuse as does a seller- financed debt instrument because where a debt instrument is assumed and its terms are not modified in connection with the transaction, there is no opportunity for the parties to manipulate principal and interest on the loan. Accordingly, under the committee bill, the imputed interest rules generally will not apply to assumptions of loans.

ACRS recovery period for real property

The committee believes that, in light of the current budget deficit of the Federal Government, there should be an offset for the revenue loss resulting from the changes the committee bill makes to the imputed interest rules (much of which results from transactions involving real property.) The committee also believes that the useful life of most real property exceeds 18 years and that an increase in the cost recovery period for real property would more correctly measure the income from real property. Accordingly, to maintain revenue neutrality, the committee bill would extend the ACRS recovery period of real property (other than low-income housing) from 18 years to 19 years.

IV. EXPLANATION OF THE BILL

A. The Imputed Interest Rate

In general

The committee bill makes four basic changes to the imputed interest rates. First, the committee bill reduces the test rate from 110 percent of the AFR to 100 percent of the AFR. Second, the committee bill provides for lower imputed interest rates for certain smaller transactions. Third, the committee bill provides that the imputa-[13] tion rate would be the same as the test rate (i.e., there would be no higher "penalty rate" where inadequate interest is stated). Finally, the committee bill would revise the computation of the AFR from a semiannual rate to a monthly rate.

Lower overall imputed interest rate

Under the committee bill, the imputed interest rate (i.e., the test rate and the imputation rate) is reduced to 100 percent of the AFR.

Lower imputed interest rates for certain smaller transactions

The committee bill places a limit on the imputed interest rates in smaller transactions which do not involve new property eligible for the investment tax credit. Under these rules, where the amount of seller financing[16] does not exceed $4 million, the committee bill provides that the imputed interest rate cannot exceed 9 percent.[17] Where the amount of seller financing exceeds $2 million but is less than $4 million, the imputed interest rate is a "blend" of 9 percent on a specified portion of the seller financing and the 100 percent of the AFR on the remainder. The portion of the seller-financing eligible for the 9 percent rate is equal to $2 million reduced dollar-for-dollar by the amount of seller financing over $2 million. For example, if the amount of seller financing were $2.5 million, the emputed interest rate would be the weighted average of 9 percent on $1.5 million (i.e., $2 million reduced by the excess of $2.5 million over $2 million) and the AFR on the remaining $1 million.[18] where the amount of seller financing is $4 million or more, the imputed interest rate is the equal to 100 percent of the AFR. The $2 million and $4 million "thresholds" will be indexed for inflation beginning after 1988.

For sales of new property eligible for the investment credit, the imputed interest rate for a seller-financed debt instrument is equal to the AFR regardless of the amount of seller financing.

Elimination of the penalty rate

Under the committee bill, the imputation rate for a debt instrument that fails to state adequate interest will be the same as the test rate for that instrument. Accordingly, there is only one "imputed interest rate" for a transaction and there is not separate "penalty rate" where a debt instrument does not state adequate interest for any reason.

Determination of the applicable Federal rate

Under the committee bill, the sole mechanism for determining the AFR will be the one currently prescribed by the temporary Treasury regulations. The alternative mechanism under present law for determining the six-month rate prescribed by the 1984 Act will be eliminated.
[14] Under these revised rules, the AFR will be computed using the same methodology as under present law, except that the rates will be determined on a monthly basis and the rate will reflect the average yields for one-month periods. In addition, the AFR for a particular month may be used as the imputed interest rate for that month and the next two succeeding months.

Regulatory authority

Aggregation rules.—The Committee bill authorizes the Treasury Department to issue regulations specifying the circumstances in which transactions will be treated as "part of the same transaction of related transactions" for the purpose of applying the $2 million and $4 million limitations. These regulations will address transactions involving multiple sellers, multiple buyers, "pass-through" entities, and one transaction structured as a series of small transactions. It is anticipated that the regulations will aggregate transactions in which multiple buyers or multiple sellers are acting in concert. The committee intends, however, that these regulations would provide that multiple sales by a taxpayer who is a dealer in the property sold, to unrelated buyers in otherwise unrelated transactions (such as typically occurs when a home builder sells homes in unrelated transactions to different home buyers) would not be aggregated.

[16]The amount of seller financing is measured by the stated principal amount of the seller-financed debt instrument.

[17]As under prior law, all rates are compounded semiannually.

Lower rates.—The committee bill also provides that the Treasury Department is authorized to issue regulations under which taxpayers would be permitted to demonstrate that, in appropriate circumstances, a rate lower than the AFR provided by the statute, but calculated according to the same principles as the AFR, is a more appropriate imputed interest rate for a particular debt instrument. For example, it may be appropriate to use a lower rate where the borrower can demonstrate that it can borrow in the open market at a rate less than the AFR applicable to that maturity to the debt instrument for which the imputed interest rate is to be applied.

Coordination with other Code provisions.—The Treasury Department is authorized to issue regulations regarding the relationship of the imputed interest provisions to other Code provisions. The committee intends to limit the benefit of the lower test rate (provided by section 1274A) to bona fide sales of property between unrelated parties. Accordingly, the regulations may provide that section 1274A would not apply to certain transactions undertaken to avoid other provisions of the Code that require an arm's-length interest rate. For example, where a corporation purchases $2 million of nonpublicly traded debt yielding a rate equal to the AFR and sells that debt obligation to its shareholders for a note paying interest at 9 percent, the committee understands that regulations would provide that there would be additional interest income to the corporation. The committee anticipates that the Treasury Department will exercise the regulatory authority granted by the 1984 Act to provide rules under which contingent payments (e.g., payments based on future sales or rental receipts) may be taken into account in determining whether or not a debt instrument has adequate stated interest in transactions that would not thereby be subject to abuses. In addition, the committee intends that the Treasury Department's 1984 Act regulatory authority will be exer- [15] cised with regard to situations where the OID rules are avoided a result of prearranged or systematic discounting of seller-financed debt instruments.

B. Method of Accounting

The "cash-cash" election

The committee bill provides that, in the case of certain debt instruments that otherwise would be subject to section 1274, interest income and expense arising from such debt instruments may be accounted for on the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting. To be eligible for for such treatment, (1) the stated principal amount of the debt instrument cannot exceed $2 million, (2) the debt instrument must arise from the sale of property by a cash-basis taxpayer who is not a dealer in the type of property sold, and (3) the lender and the borrower must jointly elect such treatment.[19] A debt instrument meeting these requirements is to be known as a "cash-method debt instrument."

Transfers and assumptions of cash-method debt instruments

Special rules are provided relating to the treatment of taxpayers who are the successors to either the issuer or holder of a cash-method debt instrument. Generally, such a successor shall also be required to use the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting for interest income and expense arising from the cash-method debt instrument. Accordingly, where an accrual-metho taxpayer assumes the liability on cash-method debt instrument, that ta payer must use the cash method to ac count for interest expense arising fro the instrument. An exception is pr vided where a cash-method debt instr ment is transferred to a subsequen holder who uses the accrual method accounting. In this case, the exceptio requires the subsequent holder to co tinue to use his normal method of a counting (i.e., to use the accru method).

Regulatory authority

The Treasury Department is autho ized to issue regulations prescribin rules to prevent abuses of the speci treatment afforded to cash-method de instruments. The committee intend that the delegation of regulatory autho ity will be exercised only to preve abuse situations.

One situation that such regulatio may address is the timing of deductio for interest on indebtedness incurred continued to acquire or carry a cas method debt instrument. Another situ tion that may be addressed is o where a cash-method debt instrume remains outstanding when the propert the initial sale of which gave rise to t cash-method debt instrument, is reso in a transaction involving a selle financed debt instrument.

A third situation which the regul tions may address relates to the trea ment of transfers of cash-method de instruments. It is anticipated that the regulations will clarify existing la regard- [16] ing (1) the amount a character of gain realized on dispositi of a cash-method debt instrumen (2) the allocation of payments on t debt instrument between income a recovery of basis for a subseque holder, and (3) the timing of intere deductions for, and the allocation of terest deductions between, the initial suer and a taxpayer who assumes issuer's obligations on a cash-meth debt instrument.[20]

[19]The Committee intends that, until regulations are issued specifying a different method of election, the parties can make the election by so indicating in their respective tax returns and stating the election clearly in the debt instrument.

[20]See, e.g., United States v. Midland R Corp. 381 U.S. 54 (1965); Treas. Reg. 1.61-7; Code secs. 1276, et seq.

C. Assumptions

Under the committee bill, if an existing debt instrument is assumed in connection with the sale or exchange of property (or if the property is acquired subject to an existing debt instrument), section 1274 and section 483 do not apply to such existing debt instrument by reason of such assumption (or acquisition) unless the terms of the existing debt instrument are modified in connection with the transaction or the nature of the transaction is changed.[21] If only minor modifications are made in the terms of the loan, the committee does not intend that the imputed interest rules will be applied.

Under temporary Treasury regulations, for installment reporting purposes, a so-called wrap-around debt instrument may be treated like an assumption of the so-called "wrapped" (or underlying debt). However, many taxpayers have taken the contrary position. The committee believes that a wrap-around debt should be treated consistently for purposes of the installment reporting and imputed interest rules. The committee does not wish to address the proper treatment of wrap-around debt for installment reporting at this time. Moreover, the committee wishes to avoid the situation where the seller takes the position that the wrap-around debt does not result in immediate taxation, while the buyer takes the position that the entire amount of the wrap-around debt is exempt from the imputed interest rules. Accordingly, until and unless it is ultimately settled that a wrap-around debt instrument is treated as an assumption for installment reporting purposes, the committee intends that the exception in the committee bill relating to assumptions should not apply to wrap-around debt instruments.

D. Accelerated Cost Recovery System

Under the committee bill, the minimum recovery period for domestic real property qualifying as recovery property is increased from 18 years to 19 years. This change in the recovery period does not affect the ACRS provisions relating to low-income housing.

[17] E. Effective Dates

Imputed interest rules

The provisions of the committee bill relating to the amendment of the imputed interest rules are effective for sales or exchanges occurring after June 30, 1985.

ACRS recovery period for real property

The provision of the committee bill relating to the ACRS recovery period for real property is generally effective for property placed in service after May 8, 1985. Transitional rules similar to those under the 1984 Act are provided for property that is placed in service after May 8, 1985, and before January 1, 1987, where there was a binding contract to construct or acquire the property, or where construction was begun by or for the taxpayer before May 9, 1985. Special rules apply to components placed in service after May 8, 1985.[22]

June 13 (legislative day, June 3), 1985

Mr. Packwood from the Committee on Finance, submitted the following report to accompany H.R. 2475.[1]

The Committee on Finance, to which was referred the bill (H.R. 2475) to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to simplify the imputed interest rules of sections 1274 and 483, and for other purposes, having considered the same, reports favorably thereon with an amendment and recommends that the bill as amended do pass.

I. SUMMARY

Present Law

The Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 (the "1984 Act", P.L. 98-369) made two basic modifications to the Federal income tax treatment of interest on seller-financed obligations arising from the sale of property. First, the 1984 Act attempted to correct deficiencies in the then existing imputed interest rules by providing that the amount of unstated interest in a transaction would be determined by reference to an interest rate tied to the yields on U.S. Treasury obligations. Under the imputed interest rules as modified by the Act, if interest is not stated at a rate at least 110 percent of the "applicable Federal rate"—the average yield on Treasury obligations within an appropriate category of maturities—then interest is imputed into the transaction at a rate equal to 120 percent of the Federal rate. The effect of imputed interest income into a transaction is not to increase the amount paid by the buyer to the seller over the term of the loan, but to recharacterize a portion of the [2] payments (designated as principal by the parties) as interest for Federal income tax purposes.

Second, the 1984 Act expanded the rules dealing with original issue discount to cover many deferred-payment obligations arising from the sale of property. The purpose of this change was to ensure that the interest deduction taken by the buyer during a year essentially equals the amount of interest income are reported by the seller during the year.

The 1984 Act also modified the tax treatment of certain loans with below-market interest rates, other than those subject to the imputed interest rules. Generally, the 1984 Act would treat such "below-market loans" as loans bearing a market rate of interest, accompanied by a payment from the lender to the borrower.

In response to concerns expressed about the complexity of the 1984 Act rules, the Congress passed temporary legislation (called the "stopgap legislation", P.L. 98-612) at the end of the 98th Congress. Under the stopgap legislation, in seller-financed transactions the test rate on the first $2 million of borrowed amounts is 9 percent on sales and exchanges of property occurring before July 1.

[21]The committee intends that the nature of the transaction is to be considered changed if, for example, the loan which is to be assumed arose in a transaction that was excepted from section 483, but the subsequent transaction does not qualify for the exception. See, e.g., Treas. Reg. sec. 1.483-1(f)(6)(iv) (Example 4).

Committee Bill

Imputed interest rules

The Committee bill provides that the rate used to test the adequacy of stated interest on the first $2 million of seller financing cannot exceed 9 percent. Where the amount of seller financing is greater than $4 million, the rate is 100 percent of the applicable Federal rate. Where the amount of seller financing is between $2 million and $4 million, that rate is a blend of the 9 percent rate on an amount which phases out on a dollar-for-dollar basis as the amount of seller financing exceeds $2 million and 100 percent of the applicable Federal rate on the excess. The $2 million and $4 million threshold amounts are indexed for inflation after 1988. In certain circumstances, the discount rate used in determining the amount of imputed interest in a transaction is limited if the applicable Federal rate exceeds 12 percent.

The Committee bill also provides that the rate used to impute interest in a transaction in which in adequate interest is stated). In addition, the Federal rates will be determined on a monthly basis, and a rate for a month may be used for sales or exchanges occurring in that month and the next two succeeding months. The imputed interest rules will not apply to assumed loans.

Further, in certain transactions where the amount of seller-financing is not more than $2 million, the Committee bill allows the parties to elect to account for interest in the transaction on the cash method of accounting. The election cannot be made if the seller is a dealer in the property sold or uses the accrual method of accounting.

The amendments by the Committee bill to the imputed interest and original issue discount rules apply to sales and exchanges after June 30, 1985.

[3] With the exception of the limitation on the discount rate where the applicable Federal rate exceeds 12 percent, identical provisions are contained in the House bill.

Below-market loan rules

The Committee bill clarifies the application of the below-market loan rules for certain loans made to "continuing care facilities" pursuant to "continuing care contracts." In general, a continuing care facility is a combination of a retirement community and a facility for the provision of long-term nursing care. The continuing care contract provides a retired individual or couple with residential accommodations, ongoing personal care, and an insurance-type arrangement under which long-term nursing care will be provided when necessary without substantial additional cost to the retirees. In general, where a loan in such an arrangement was made on or prior to the date of enactment, or where the loan is made during or after the calendar year in which the lender reaches age 65 and the amount of the loan does not exceed $90,000, the loan is excepted from the below-market loan rules. Loans made after the date of enactment to continuing care facilities pursuant to continuing care contracts, will be subject to the below-market loan rules to the extent the principal amount of the loan exceeds $90,000 or where the lender does not meet the age requirement.

The Committee bill also modifies the below-market loan rules relating to employer-employee loans the proceeds of which are used by the employee to purchase a principal residence in connection with certain changes in employment. Under the Committee bill, the rate used to determine whether such a loan bears adequate interest is the applicable Federal rate for the date on which a written contract to purchase the principal residence is entered into, rather than at the time the loan is made. This modification is effective for loans made with respect to purchase contracts entered into after June 30, 1985.

ACRS recovery period for real property

The Committee bill extends the ACRS recovery period for real property (other than low-income housing) from 18 years to 19 years. This change generally will be effective for property placed in service after May 8, 1985. However, the longer recovery period will not apply to property placed in service after May 8, 1985, and before January 1, 1987, if the taxpayer entered into a binding contract to purchase or construct the property before May 9, 1985, or construction of the property began before May 9, 1985. The House bill contains an identical provision.

[4] II. PRESENT LAW

A. The Original Issue Discount Rules

Treatment of original issue discount as interest

If the borrower receives less in a lending transaction than the amount to be repaid at the loan's maturity, then the difference represents "discount." Discount performs the same function as stated interest, i.e., compensation of the lender for the use of the lender's money.[1] Code sections 1272 through 1275 and section 163(e) (the "OID rules") generally require the holder of a debt instrument issued at a discount to include annually in income a portion of the original issue discount ("OID") on the instrument, and allow the issuer of such an instrument to deduct a corresponding amount, irrespective of the methods of accounting that the holder and the issuer otherwise use.[2]

Definitions

"Original issue discount" is defined as the excess of a debt instrument's "stated redemption price at maturity" over its "issue price" (provided such excess is not less than a certain de minimis amount).

"Issue price" is generally (1) in the case of a cash loan, the amount borrowed, (2) in the case of a debt instrument that is issued for property where either the debt instrument or the property is publicly traded,[3] the fair market value of the property, or (3) if neither the debt instrument nor the property exchanged for it is publicly traded, the amount determined under section 1274, as discussed below.

[2] Prior to 1982, the OID rules applied only to a limited class of obligations. The Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 and the 1984 Act greatly expanded the number and types of obligations to which the OID rules apply.

[3] Presently, only stock or securities traded on an established securities market are treated as publicly traded. However, section 103 of the proposed Technical Corrections Act of 1985 (S. 814) would grant the Treasury Department authority to issue regulations treating as publicly traded other property "of a kind regularly traded on an established market."

"Stated redemption price at maturity" includes all amounts payable at maturity excluding any interest based on a fixed rate and payable unconditionally over the life of the debt instrument at fixed intervals no longer than one year.

Operation of the OID rules

The amount of the OID in a debt instrument, if any, is allocated over the life of the instrument through a series of adjustments to the issue price for each "accrual period" (i.e., each six-month or shorter period ending on the calendar day corresponding to the date of the debt instrument's maturity and the date six months [5] prior to the date of maturity). The adjustment to the issue price for each accrual period is determined by multiplying the "adjusted issue price" (i.e., the issue price increased by adjustments prior to the beginning of the accrual period) by the instrument's yield to maturity, and then subtracting the interest payable during the accrual period. The adjustment to the issue price for any accrual period is the amount of OID allocated to that accrual period. These adjustments reflect the amount of the accrued but unpaid interest on the debt instrument in each period. The holder is required to include this amount as interest income and the issuer is permitted a corresponding interest deduction.[4]

B. Determination of Issue Price in Debt-for-Property Transactions: Section 1274

Section 1274, added by the 1984 Act, performs two roles. First, section 1274 tests the adequacy of stated interest in certain debt instruments issued for nonpublicly traded property and, where stated interest is inadequate, recharacterizes a portion of the principal of the debt instrument as interest. Second, section 1274 prescribes the issue price of the debt instrument. If the issue price so prescribed is less than the debt instrument's stated redemption price at maturity, the application of the OID rules will require the issuer and the holder of the debt instrument to use the accrual method of accounting for any interest. (whether stated or imputed) that is not paid currently. Thus, the impact of section 1274 is to require the lender and borrower to account for interest annually in an amount equal to the greater of the stated interest rate or a rate deemed to be adequate (i.e., the "imputation rate," described below).

Subject to certain exceptions, described below, section 1274 determines the issue price of a debt instrument issued in connection with the sale or exchange of property if (1) neither the instrument nor the property received in exchange for the instrument is publicly traded; (2) some or all of the payments under the instrument are due more than six months after the sale; and (3) the stated redemption price at maturity of the instrument exceeds its stated principal amount (if there is adequate stated interest) or its "imputed principal amount" (if there is inadequate stated interest).

Determination of issue price and amount of OID under section 1274

The issue price of an obligation subject to section 1274 is the stated principal amount of the instrument unless there is inadequate stated interest. In order to determine whether stated interest is adequate, the stated principal amount of the debt instrument [6] is compared with the "testing amount"—the amount determined by discounting all payments due under the instrument at a prescribed "test rate." An instrument contains adequate stated interest if the stated principal amount is less than or equal to the testing amount.

If a debt instrument does not contain adequate stated interest, section 1274 deems the principal amount (and the issue price) of the instrument to be the "imputed principal amount." The imputed principal amount is the amount determined by discounting all payments due under the instrument using a prescribed "imputation rate." which is higher than the test rate.

In effect, where section 1274 applies, if the debt instrument does not bear interest at a rate at least equal to the prescribed test rate, interest will be imputed at a higher rate. Moreover, if such interest is not unconditionally payable at least annually,[5] the OID rules will require periodic inclusion and deduction of the accrued but unpaid interest. The OID rules also apply if an instrument provides for adequate interest payable at least annually, but also provides for fixed additional amounts of interest that are paid currently. In such a case, the instrument is deemed to contain OID equal to the additional interest. Pursuant to the OID rules, a portion of this OID is reported as income by the lender and deducted by the borrower currently.[6]

Under section 1274, whether there is adequate stated interest in a transaction is determined by reference to an appropriate test rate. The test rate for a debt instrument subject to section 1274 is the rate in effect on the first day there is a binding contract for the sale or exchange of the property. All test and imputation rates are applied using semiannual compounding.

General rule.—For sale or exchange after December 31, 1984, of new property eligible for the investment credit, and for all sales or exchanges after

[4]The premise of the OID rules is that, for Federal income tax purposes, an obligation issued at a discount should be treated like an obligation issued at par requiring current payments of interest. Accordingly, the effect of the OID rules is to treat the borrower as having paid semiannually the lender the interest accruing on the outstanding principal balance of the loan, thereby permitting the borrower to deduct as interest expense and requiring the lender to include in income such interest which has accrued but is unpaid. The lender is then deemed to have lent the accrued but unpaid interest back to the borrower, who in subsequent periods is deemed to pay interest on this amount as well as on the principal balance. This concept of accruing interest on unpaid interest is commonly referred to as the "economic accrual" of interest, or interest "compounding."

[5]As discussed below, the prescribed test rates are based on semiannual compounding. Accordingly, if interest is payable annually, the amount payable must reflect the compounding of the test rate. If interest is payable at intervals more frequent than semiannual, the nominal rate may be adjusted appropriately. For illustration of the adjustments to the prescribed rate based on the intervals at which interest is paid, see e.g., Rev. Rul. 85-58, 1985-1 C.B. 290.

[6]An exception from the accrual accounting requirement is provided for debt issued in connection with sales of property not eligible for the investment credit and used in the active trade or business of farming. This exception applies only if the sale takes place after December 31, 1984, and prior to July 1, 1985, and the borrowed amount does not exceed $2 million. Interest on such debt is accounted for by both the borrower and the lender on the cash method of accounting.

June 30, 1985, the test rate is 110 percent of the "applicable Federal rate," and the imputation rate is 120 percent of the "applicable Federal rate."

Applicable Federal rate.—The applicable Federal rate ("AFR") for a debt instrument is the lower of two published rates, one specified by the 1984 Act and one specified in temporary Treasury regulations. The statutory rate is based on the weighted average of yields over a period of six months for marketable obligations of the Untied States Government with a comparable maturity. Such rates are redetermined at six-month intervals for three categories of debt instruments: short-term maturity (three years or less), mid-term [7] maturity (more than three years but not in excess of nine years), and long-term maturity (more than nine years).[7]

The rates determined under the temporary Treasury regulations are intended to reflect more accurately the current marketplace.[8] These rates are computed monthly using the same methodology described above, except that the rates reflect the average yields for one-month periods. In any month, the lower of the six-month rate of the monthly rate is the AFR. However, in cases where the monthly rate for either of the two preceding months is lower than the AFR for a particular month, the test rate for that month is the lower of the two such rates.

Special rule for certain transactions before July 1, 1985.—For sales or exchanges after December 31, 1984, and before July 1, 1985, or property other than new property eligible for the investment credit, the test rate for "borrowed amounts" not exceeding $2 million exceeding $2 million is 9 percent. The test rate for borrowed amounts exceeding $2 million is a "blend" of 9 percent in the first $2 million and 110 percent of the AFR on the excess. In applying the $2 million limitation, all sales or exchanges that are part of the same transaction (or a series of related transactions) are treated as one transaction, and all debt instruments arising from the same transaction (or a series of related transactions) are treated as one debt instrument. The imputation rate for transactions during this same period is 10 percent for borrowed amounts up to $2 million and a blend of 10 percent and 120 percent of the AFR for borrowed amounts exceeding $2 million.

Notwithstanding the computation of "issue price" discussed above (and, accordingly, the buyer's basis in the property), the principal amount of any debt instrument under section 1274 in a "potentially abusive situation" is equal to the fair market value of the property sold.[9] This limitation applies whether the slated interest is adequate or inadequate under section 1274.

A potentially abusive situation includes any transaction involving a "tax shelter" (as defined in sec. 6661(b)(2)(C)(ii)). It also includes any other situation that, because of (1) recent sales transactions, (2) nonrecourse financing, (3) financing with a term beyond the economic life of the property, or (4) other circumstances, is of a type which the Treasury Department by regulation identifies as having a potential for abuse.

Specific exceptions are provided for certain debt instruments that otherwise would be subject to section 1274. However, these debt instruments may be subject to the rules of section 483. As discussed below, section 483 tests the adequacy of interest in a debt instrument without requiring annual inclusion and deduction of accrued but unpaid interest. Debt instruments that are excepted from section 1274 are as follows:

Personal-use property.—Issuers (but not holders) of debt instruments issued in exchange for property, substantially all of which will not be used by the issuer in a trade or business or held by the issuer for the production or collection of income, are excepted from section 1274. Accordingly, a cash-method issuer of such an obligation may claim interest deductions only for amounts of stated interest actually paid during the taxable year.

Annuities.—Section 1274 does not apply to an annuity to which section 72 applies and the liability for which depends in whole or in substantial part on the life expectancy of any individual. In addition, section 1274 does not apply to any annuity (whether or not dependent upon life expectancy) issued by an insurance company (subject to tax under Subchapter L), provided the annuity is issued (1) in a transaction in which only cash or another annuity contract meeting the requirements of this exception is exchanged for the annuity, (2) upon exercise of an election under a life insurance policy by a beneficiary thereof, or (3) in a transaction involving a qualified pension or employee benefit plan.

Patents.—An exception is provided for payments attributable to a transfer of a patent, provided the transfer is eligible for capital gain treatment under section 1235 and such payments are contingent upon the productivity, use, or disposition of the patent. Thus, the exception does not apply in the case of a deferred lump-sum amount payable for a patent.

Farms.—Section 1274 does not apply to debt instruments received by an individual, estate, or testamentary trust, by a small business corporation (as defined in sec. 1244(c)(3)), or by certain partnerships[10] in exchange for a farm. This exception applies only if the sales price does not exceed $1 million.[11]

[7]Appropriate adjustments to the rates are to be made for application to debt instruments, the interest on which is wholly or partly exempt from tax (sec. 1288).

[8]The mechanism provided by the temporary regulations is intended to respond to a problem that may exist where interest rates decline after the period in which the Federal rates were determined.

[9]The principal amount of the note is reduced to reflect the fair market value of other consideration involved in the transaction. This provision prevents both overstatement and understatement of the buyer's basis in the property. The purpose of the latter restriction is to prevent the intentional overstatement of OID. A taxpayer might be motivated to overstate the interest element of a sale, for example, if the property involved in the sale were nondepreciable or the seller were not subject to U.S. tax on interest income.

[11]Sales and exchanges that are part of the same transaction or a series of related transactions are treated as one sale or exchange, in order to prevent taxpayers from avoiding the $1 million limitation by divjding what is in substance a single transaction into two or more smaller transactions.

Principal residences.—Debt instruments received by an individual as consideration for the sale or exchange of that individual's principal residence (within the meaning of sec. 1034) are not subject so section 1274, regardless of the amount involved in the transaction.

Total payments not exceeding $250,000.—Section 1274 does not apply to any debt instrument given in exchange for property if the sum of (1) the payments due under the instrument (whether designated principal or interest) and under any other debt instrument [9] given in the transaction, and (2) the fair market value of any other consideration given in the transaction, does not exceed $250,000.[12]

Land transfers between related persons.—Section 1274 does not apply to an instrument to the extent that section 483(f), relating to certain sales of land between related parties, applies.

C. Measurement of Principal and Interest in Transactions Not Subject to the OID Rules: Section 483

In general

Section 483 generally applies to nonpublicly traded debt instruments given in exchange for nonpublicly traded property where such debt instruments are not subject to section 1274. Under section 483, an instrument is tested for adequate stated interest in the same manner, and using the same test rates, as under section 1274. Where stated interest is inadequate, section 483 recharacterizes a portion of the principal amount of the instrument as interest which, in general, is equal to the additional amount of OID that section 1274 would inpute.[13]

However, unlike section 1274, section 483 does not require imputed interest (or stated interest) to be accounted for on an accrual basis. Stated interest on a debt instrument subject to section 483 is accounted for under the taxpayers's usual method of accounting. Imputed interest is accounted for by cash-method taxpayers when the payments, portions of which are recharacterized as interest by section 483 are made, or by accrual-method taxpayers when such payments are due. The portion of the imputed interest that is allocated to a payment is that portion of the total imputed interest which, in a manner consistent with the method of computing interest under the OID rules, is properly allocable to such payment.

Exceptions

Excepted transactions.—Section 483 contains the same exceptions for sales of personal-use property, annuities, and patents that apply to section 1274. In addition, section 483 does not apply where the sales price of the property does not exceed $3,000.

Lowest test rates.—In the case of a sale after June 30, 1985, of a principal residence where the purchase price does not exceed $250,000 or of farm land where the price does not exceed $1 million (where such sale would qualify for exception from section 1274), the test rate may not exceed 9 percent, and imputation rate may not exceed 10 percent. If the purchase price of a principal residence exceeds $250,000, these limits apply to the portion of the deferred payments that $250,000 bears to the sales price; the rates based on the AFR apply to the remainder. In addition, for sales or exchanges of land between an individual and that individual's brothers, sisters, spouse, ancestors or lineal descendants, the test rate under section 483 may not exceed 6 percent. This preferential rate applies only to the extent that the sales price of the land, and the [10] sales price of all prior sales of land between the same individuals in a calendar year, does not exceed $500,000.

D. Regulatory Authority Relating to Debt-For-Property Transactions

The Treasury Department has authority to issue regulations dealing with the treatment of transactions involving varying interest rates, put or call options, indefinite maturities, contingent payments, assumptions of debt instruments not specifically dealt with in the statute, and other circumstances. The regulatory authority granted to the Treasury Department contemplates possible modification of the generally applicable rules where appropriate to carry out the purposes of the state, including the provisions of exceptions for transactions not likely to significantly reduce the tax liability of the purchaser by reason of overstatement of the basis of the acquired property.

Pursuant to its regulatory authority, the Treasury Department has provided the monthly rates in order to address the problems that may arise where the statutorily determined rates are significantly higher than prevailing market interest rates.

E. Assumptions of Debt in Connection With the Sale of Property

Neither section 483 nor section 1274 applies to the following debt obligations assumed in connection with the sale or exchange of property, or to debt obligations which property is taken subject to, provided that the terms and conditions of the obligation are not modified in connection with the sale.

Pre-October 16, 1984 obligations

Loans made on or before October 15, 1984, and assumed after December 31, 1984, in connection with a sale or exchange of property, are not subject to section 483 or section 1274 by reason of such assumption.[14] This exception does not apply, however, if the purchase price of the property exceeds $100 million.

Residences

Loans assumed in connection with a sale of a residence by an individual, estate, or testamentary trust are exempt from sections 483 and 1274 if either (1) at the time of the sale, the property was the seller's (or if applicable, the decedent's) principal residence (within the meaning of sec. 1034) or (2) during the two-year period prior to the sale, no substantial portion of the property was of a character subject to an allowance for depreciation. Thus, an assumption of a loan in connection with the sale of

---

The exception for farms as well as the exceptions following are nevertheless subject to sec. 483, as more fully discussed in the text below.

[12]This exception is subject to an aggregation rule similar to that provided under the farm sale exception.

[14]The exceptions relating to assumptions of loans also apply to loans which property may be taken subject to.

a principal residence, or of a vacation home on which a taxpayer may not claim depreciation (e.g., by reason of sec. 280A), generally is not subject to testing for unstated interest under sections 483 or 1274. This exception does not apply, however, to a sale of property that was at any time held by the seller for sale to customers in the ordinary course of business.

[11] Farms

Neither sections 483 or 1274 apply to loans assumed in connection with a sale by a "qualified person" of real property used as a farm (within the meaning of sec. 6420(c)(2)) at all times during the three-year period prior to the sale. The exception also applies to loans assumed in connection with the sale of tangible personal property used by the seller of such a farm in the active conduct of a farming business that is also sold in connection with the sale of such a farm for use by the buyer in the active conduct of a farming business. The term "qualified person" includes an individual, estate, or testamentary trust, or a corporation or partnership having 35 or fewer shareholders or partners immediately prior to the sale or exchange, owning at least a 10-percent interest in the property sold.

Trades or businesses

Loans assumed in connection with a sale by a "qualified person" of a trade or business are exempt from sections 483 and 1274. Trade or business has the same meaning as under section 355, except that the rental of real estate under no circumstances qualifies as an active business for this purpose. For purposes of this exception, the term "qualified person" has the same meaning as in the exception for assumptions in connection with the sale of farm properties except that the sale must constitute a disposition of the seller's entire interest in the trade or business and in all substantially similar trades or businesses.

An exception is also provided for a sale of real property used in an active trade or business (as defined above) by someone who would be a qualified person but for the fact that his entire interest in the trade or business is not being sold. Thus, for example, loans assumed in connection with a casual sale by a sole proprietor of real property used in his business could be exempt from sections 1274 nd 483.

The trade or business property exception does not apply to a sale of property qualifying under the farm exception, or to property that is new property eligible for the investment credit in the buyer's hands.

F. Below-Market Loans

Section 7872 of the Code, added by the 1984 Act, generally provides that certain loans bearing interest at a below-market rate, are to be treated as loans bearing interest at the market rate accompanied by a payment or payments from the lender to the borrower which are characterized in accordance with the substance of the particular transaction (e.g., gift, compensation, dividend, etc.). The market rate of interest for purposes of section 7872 is assumed to be 100 percent of the AFR at the time the loan is made in the case of a term loan, or in the case of a demand loan, 100 percent of the AFR in effect over the time that the loan is outstanding.

Section 7872 applies to (1) loans where the foregone (i.e., below-market) interest is in the nature of a gift, (2) loans to an employee from a employer or to an independent contractor or one for whom the independent contractor provides services, (3) loans between a [12] corporation and a shareholder of the corporation, (4) loans of which one of the principal purposes of the interest arrangement is the avoidance of any Federal tax, and (5) to the extent provided in regulations, any below-market loan if the interest arrangement of such loan has a significant effect on any Federal liability of either the lender or borrower. Below-market loans made by individuals pursuant to arrangements providing for the satisfaction of personal needs in retirement may be considered to come within either of the last two categories. The application of section 7872 is limited by certain de minimis exceptions and, for certain gift loans, by the net investment income of the borrower.

G. Cost Recovery Deductions For Real Property

In general, domestic real property placed in service after March 15, 1984, and qualifying as recovery property, may be depreciated on an accelerated basis under ACRS over an 18-year period, under tables of recovery percentages prescribed by the Treasury Department. These tables reflect a "mid-month" convention for property placed in service after June 22, 1984. Taxpayers may also elect to depreciate such property on a straight-line basis over 18, 35, or 45 years. The recovery period under ACRS for low-income housing described in sections 1250(a)(1)(B)(i), (ii), (iii) or (iv) is 15 years and no mid-month convention is used.

Under transitional rules provided by the 1984 Act, property placed in service after March 15, 1984, pursuant to binding contracts entered into, or where construction was commenced by or for the taxpayer, prior to March 16, 1984, may be eligible for a 15-year recovery period. Special rules under the 1984 Act are also provided relating to components of real property placed in service prior to March 16, 1984, that are placed in service on or after the date.[15]

[13] III. REASONS FOR CHANGE

A. The Imputed Interest Rules

In general

The imputed interest rules of the 1984 Act have been perceived as complex in several respects. The changes made by the Committee bill attempt to simplify the imputed interest rules, while retaining the basic purposes of the 1984 legislation.

The imputed interest rate

The Committee believes that taxpayers entering into smaller transactions should not have to keep track of the fluctuating imputed interest rates prescribed by the 1984 Act. Accordingly, the Committee bill provides a single maximum test rate of 9 percent for transactions where the amount of seller financing does not exceed $2 million. In addition, in order not to create unfairness where the size of the transaction is slightly above the $2 million threshold amount, the Committee bill phases out the 9-percent rate on a dollar-for-dollar basis on amounts between $2 million and $4 million.

The definition of the AFR provided by the 1984 Act was intended to be a current measure of minimum borrowing rates for a given range of maturities. The mechanism for determining the AFR under the 1984 Act (and the temporary Treasury regulations), however, lags somewhat behind the market. For example, where interest rates are falling rapidly, it is possible for the appropriate borrowing rates for a particular transaction to be slightly lower than 110 percent of the AFR. Accordingly, the Committee believes that it is appropriate to reduce the imputed interest rate to 100 percent of the AFR.

The Committee believes that an imputed interest rate of 100 percent of the AFR (for transactions not eligible for the lower fixed test rate) is a fair minimum rate and one which will not impose hardships on taxpayers. In recognition that there might be certain isolated circumstances in which a different rate would be more appropriate, the Committee bill grants the Treasury Department authority to issue regulations that would permit taxpayers to demonstrate that a lower rate is more accurate in proper cases.

The Committee is concerned, however, that even with the lower test rate provided by the bill, sales of property may be hindered when interest rates in the financial markets (and hence the Federal rates) increase above interest rates that were typically experienced. Accordingly, the Committee amendment provides that if the AFR exceeds 12 percent, the discount rate used in determining the adequacy of interest in a transaction will be limited in certain cases.

The Committee is concerned, however, that even with the lower test rate provided by the bill, sales of property may be hindered when interest rates in the financial markets (and hence the Federal rates) increase above interest rates that were typically experienced. Accordingly, the Committee amendment provides that if the AFR exceeds 12 percent, the discount rate used in determining the adequacy of interest in a transaction will be limited in certain cases.

[14] The Committee also believes that it is an unnecessary complication to maintain the dual mechanism for determining the AFR that is currently provided by the 1984 Act and temporary Treasury regulations. The mechanism provided by the regulations has worked adequately to provide a rate which is current, yet because of the three-month period that a taxpayer may use the rate, is stable. Consequently, the Committee bill eliminates the six-month rate.

Finally, the Committee believes that the higher imputation provided by the 1984 Act often acted as a penalty for uninformed taxpayers. Knowledgeable taxpayers will always avoid the higher imputation providing for stated interest at the applicable test rate. Accordingly, the Committee bill eliminates the higher imputation rate.

Method of accounting

The 1984 Act attempted to prevent mismatching of interest income and interest deductions by requiring both the buyer and the seller to account for the interest in the transaction on the accrual method of accounting. Nevertheless, calculating and accounting for accrued but unpaid interest may impose hardship on taxpayers who might have to report taxable income in advance of receiving cash with which to pay the tax. This aspect is inconsistent with the Committee's intention to relieve smaller transactions from complexity. Therefore, the Committee bill permits taxpayers in certain smaller transactions to elect to use the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting for interest income and expense, provided that both buyer and seller jointly agree to do so.

Assumptions

While the changes that the 1984 Act made in the imputed interest rules were in large part intended to stop abuses that result from the manipulation of principal and interest in a debt instrument arising from a seller-financed sale of property, many taxpayers have argued that the assumption of a debt instrument does not present the same potential for abuse as does a seller-financed debt instrument because where a debt instrument is assumed and its terms are not modified in connection with the transaction, there is no opportunity for the parties to manipulate principal and interest on the loan. Accordingly, under the Committee bill, the imputed interest rules generally will not apply to assumptions of loans.

B. Below-Market Loans

The Committee believes that encouraging individuals to provide in advance for the potential need for increasing levels of personal care, including long-term nursing care, in the advanced stages of retirement may further a valuable social objective. The committee also believes that it is desirable for individuals to be able to do so in arrangements in which substantial initial payments are refundable, hence providing the individual with greater flexibility than where the payment is not refundable. Accordingly, the Committee bill clarifies the application of the below-market loan rules with respect to certain arrangements under which such potential needs [15] may be provided for. Under the committee bill, certain loans to "continuing care facilities" pursuant to "continuing care contracts" are excepted from the below-Market loan provisions. Loans to continuing care facilities pursuant to continuing care contracts are, however, subject to the below-market loan rules to the extent that specific criteria for the exception are not met.

In light of the changes made by the Committee bill to the computation of the applicable Federal rate, the Committee believes that the appropriate time for determining the adequacy of interest on employer-employee loans where the employee uses the proceeds toward the purchase of a principal residence in connection with certain changes in employment is the time the employee contracts to purchase the principal residence rather than at the time the loan is made. Accordingly, the Committee bill amends the below-market loan rules to so provide.

C. ACRS Recovery Period for Real Property

The Committee believes that, in light of the current budget deficit of the Federal Government, there should be an offset for the revenue loss resulting from the changes the Committee bill makes to the imputed interest rules (much of which results from transactions involving real property.) The Committee also believes that the useful life of most real property exceeds 18 years and that an increase in the cost recovery period for real property would more correctly measure the income from real property. Accordingly, to maintain revenue neutrality, the Committee bill would extend the ACRS recovery period of real property (other than low-income housing) from 18 years to 19 years.

[16] IV. EXPLANATION OF THE BILL

A. The Imputed Interest Rules

1. The Imputed interest rate

In general

The Committee bill makes five basic changes to the imputed interest rates. First, the Committee bill reduces the test rate from 110 percent of the AFR to 100 percent of the AFR. Second, the Committee bill provides for lower imputed interest rates for certain smaller transactions. Third, the Committee bill provides lower imputed interest rates for certain transactions where the AFR exceeds 12 percent. Fourth, the Committee bill provides that the imputation rate would be the same as the test rate (i.e., there would be no higher "penalty rate" where inadequate interest is stated). Finally, the Committee bill revises the computation of the AFR from a semiannual rate to a monthly rate.

Lower overall imputed interest rate

Under the Committee bill, the imputed interest rate (i.e., the test rate and the imputation rate) is reduced to 100 percent of the AFR.

Lower imputed interest rates for certain smaller transactions

The Committee bill places a limit on the imputed interest rates in smaller transactions which do not involve new property eligible for the investment tax credit. Under these rules, where the amount of seller financing[16] does not exceed $2 million, the Committee bill provides that the imputed interest rate cannot exceed 9 percent.[17] Where the amount of seller financing exceeds $2 million but is less than $4 million, the imputed interest rate is a "blend" of 9 percent on a specified portion of the seller financing and the 100 percent of the AFR on the remainder.[18] The portion of the seller-financing eligible for the 9 percent rate is equal to $2 million reduced dollar-for-dollar by the amount of seller financing over $2 million. For example, if the amount of seller financing were $2.5 million, the imputed interest rate would be the weighted average of 9 percent on $1.5 million (i.e., $2 million reduced by the excess of $2.5 million over $2 million) and the AFR on the remaining $1 million.[19] Where the amount of seller financing is $4 million or more, the imputed interest rate is equal to 100 percent of the AFR, unless the [17] special limitation described in the following section applies. The $2 million and $4 million "thresholds" will be indexed for inflation beginning after 1988.

For sales of new property eligible for the investment credit, the imputed interest rate for a seller-financed debt instrument is equal to the AFR regardless of the amount of seller financing, unless the special limitation discussed below applies.

Limitation on discount rate in certain circumstances where AFR exceeds 12 percent

Under the Committee bill, for a three-year period, the imputed interest rate in transactions involving $4 million or more in seller financing is limited in certain circumstances, and the imputed interest rate for transactions involving between $2 million and and $4 million is further limited.

If the transaction involves $4 million or more in seller financing and the AFR exceeds 12 percent and one of two tests is met, the imputed interest rate is limited to 12 percent plus one-third of the excess of the applicable Federal rate over 12 percent.

The first test is satisfied if the debt instrument is issued in exchange for property which is depreciable or amortizable in the hands of the buyer and (a) the stated principal amount of the debt instrument is not more than 50 percent of the total sales price of the property, (b) the term of the instrument (including any extension or renewal) is not greater than two-thirds of the "statutory recovery period"[20] of the property, and (c) the instrument requires the unconditional payment at fixed periodic intervals of one year or less of at least 80 percent of the total interest allocable to the period to which the payment relates.

The second test is satisfied if the debt instrument is given in exchange for property that is nondepreciable and nonamortizable in the hands of the purchaser. Except as provided in Treasury regulations, a purchase of a partnership interest or stock representing control[21] of a corporation will not qualify under this test. Such purchases will be treated as purchases of the underlying assets and the debt instruments will be eligible for the limited rate only if they satisfy the conditions of the first test.

The Committee expects that the regulations will permit a transaction to qualify for the limited rate under the second test if the transaction does not result in the purchaser's obtaining a stepped-up basis in all or a portion of the assets of the corporation or partnership. For example, the second test generally should be satisfied and the rate limitation therefore should apply, without regard to whether the first test would be satisfied if the debt instrument were issued for the underlying assets, if the transaction involves a qualified stock purchase under section 338 and no election is made or deemed to have been made under that section. Likewise, the limitation should generally apply if the purchaser will not obtain a stepped-up basis in the underlying assets by virtue of a corporate [18] liquidation under section 331 or, in the case of the acquisition of a partnership interest, by reason of an election under section 754 or a liquidation of the partnership under section 732(b).

[16]The amount of seller financing is measured by the stated principal amount of the seller-financed debt instrument.

[17]As under present law, all rates will be compounded semiannually.

[18]A special limitation on the AFR used in the blending formula may apply where the AFR exceeds 12 percent. See discussion below.

[19]The weighted average in the example may be computed as follows, assuming an AFR of 11.5 percent; 9 percent times 0.6 (i.e., $1.5 million divided by $2.5 million) plus 11.5 percent times 0.4 (i.e., $1.0 million divided by $2.5 million) equals 10 percent.

[20]For purposes of this provision, the term "statutory recovery period" means the recovery period under section 168 in the case of property with respect to which deductions are allowable under that section, and in the case of other property, the period over which deductions for depreciation or amortization are otherwise allowable.

If a debt instrument is issued in exchange for several properties, the principal amount must be allocated to each of the properties on the basis of their relative fair market values, and the three-part test will be applied separately to each depreciable or amortizable piece of property. If the transaction involves a sale of land and any 15-year, 18-year or 19-year real property (together with a de minimis amount of incidental personal property), no allocation must be made, and both the land and the incidental personal property shall be treated as having a statutory recovery period equal to the statutory recovery period for the depreciable real property.

In the case of transaction involving seller financing of more than $2 million but less than $4 million, the bill provides that, subject to the two tests described above, the imputed interest rate is determined by blending 9 percent with the discount rate determined pursuant to the limitation just described.

The limitation applies only to sales or exchanges occurring on or before June 30, 1988.

Elimination of the penalty rate

Under the Committee bill, the imputation rate for a debt instrument that fails to state adequate interest will be the same as the test rate for that instrument. Accordingly, there is only one "imputed interest rate" for a transaction and there is no separate "penalty rate" where a debt instrument does not state adequate interest for any reason.

Determination of the applicable Federal rate

Under the Committee bill, the sole mechanism for determining the AFR will be the one currently prescribed by the temporary Treasury regulations. The alternative mechanism under present law for determining the six-month rate prescribed by the 1984 Act will be eliminated.

Under these revised rules, the AFR will be computed using the same methodology as under present law, except that the rates will be determined on a monthly basis and the rate will reflect the average yields for one-month periods. In addition, the AFR for a particular month may be used as the imputed interest rate for contracts for sales or exchanges entered into in that month and the next two succeeding months.

Aggregation rules.—The Committee bill authorizes the Treasury Department to issue regulations specifying the circumstances in which transactions will be treated as "part of the same transaction or related transactions" for the purpose of applying the $2 million and $4 million limitations. These regulations will address transactions involving multiple sellers, multiple buyers, "pass-through" entities, and one transaction structured as a series of small transactions. It is anticipated that the regulations will aggregate transactions in which multiple buyers or multiple sellers are acting in concert. The Committee does not intend, however, that multiple [19] sales by a taxpayer who is a dealer in the property sold, to unrelated buyers in otherwise unrelated transactions (such as typically occurs when a home builder sells homes in unrelated transactions to different home buyers), be aggregated.

Lower rates.—The Committee bill also provides that the Treasury Department is authorized to issue regulations under which taxpayers would be permitted to demonstrate that, in appropriate circumstances, a rate lower than the AFR provided by the statute, but calculated according to the same principles as the AFR, is a more appropriate imputed interest rate for a particular debt instrument. For example, it may be appropriate to use a lower rate where the borrower can demonstrate that it can borrow in the open market at a rate less than the AFR applicable to that maturity of the debt instrument for which the imputed interest rate is to be applied. The regulatory authority granted by this provision is effective as if included in the imputed interest provisions of the 1984 Act.

Coordination with other Code provisions.—The Treasury Department is authorized to issue regulations regarding the relationship of the imputed interest provisions to other Code provisions. The Committee intends to limit the benefit of the lower test rate (provided by section 1274A) to bona fide sales of property between unrelated parties. Accordingly, the regulations may provide that section 1274A would not apply to certain transactions undertaken to avoid other provisions of the Code that require an arm's-length interest rate. For example, where a corporation purchases $2 million of nonpublicly traded debt yielding a rate equal to the AFR and sells that debt obligation to its shareholders for a note paying interest at 9 percent, the Committee understands that the regulations would provide that there would be additional interest income to the corporation. The Committee anticipates that the Treasury Department will exercise the regulatory authority granted by the 1984 Act to provide rules under which contingent payments (e.g., payments based on future sales or rental receipts) may be taken into account in determining whether or not a debt instrument has adequate stated interest in transactions that would not thereby be subject to abuses. In addition, the Committee intends that the Treasury Department's 1984 Act regulatory authority will be exercised with regard to situations where the OID rules are avoided as a result of prearranged or systematic discounting of seller-financed debt instruments.

2. Method of accounting

The "cash-cash" election

The Committee bill provides that, in the case of certain debt instruments that otherwise would be subject to section 1274, interest income and expense arising from such debt instruments may be accounted for on the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting. To be eligible for such treatment, (1) the stated principal amount of the debt instrument cannot exceed $2 million, (2) the debt instrument must arise from the sale of property by a cash-basis taxpayer who is not a dealer in the type of property sold, and (3) the lender and the borrower must jointly elect such treat-[20] ment.[22] A debt instrument meeting these requirements is to be known as a "cash-method debt instrument."

Transfers and assumptions of cash-method debt instruments

Special rules are provided relating to the treatment of taxpayers who are the successors to either the issuer or holder of a cash-method debt instrument. Generally, such a successor shall also be required to use the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting for interest income and expense arising from the cash-method debt instrument. Accordingly, where an accrual-method taxpayer assumes the liability on a cash-method debt instrument, that taxpayer must use the cash-method to account for interest expense arising from the instrument. An exception is provided where a cash-method debt instrument is transferred to a subsequent holder who uses the accrural method of accounting. In this case, the exception requires the subsequent holder to continue to use his normal method of accounting (i.e., to use the accrual method).

The Treasury Department is authorized to issue regulations prescribing rules to prevent abuses of the special treatment afforded to cash-method debt instruments. The Committee intends that the delegation of regulatory authority will be exercised only to prevent abuse situations.

One situation that such regulations may address is the timing of deductions for interest on indebtedness incurred or continued to acquire or carry a cash-method debt instrument. Another situation that may be addressed is one where a cash-method debt instrument remains outstanding when the property, the initial sale of which gave rise to the cash-method debt instrument, is resold in a transaction involving a seller-financed debt instrument.

A third situation which the regulations may address relates to the treatment of transfers of cash-method debt instruments. It is anticipated that these regulations will clarify existing law regarding (1) the amount and character of gain realized on disposition of a cash-method debt instrument, (2) the allocation of payments on the debt instrument between income and recovery of basis for a subsequent holder, and (3) the timing of interest deductions for, and the allocation of interest deductions between, the initial issuer and a taxpayer who assumes the issuer's obligations on a cash-method debt instrument.[3]

3. Assumptions

Under the Committee bill, if an existing debt instrument is assumed in connection with the sale or exchange of property (or if the property is acquired subject to an existing debt instrument), section 1274 and section 483 do not apply to such existing debt instrument by reason of such assumption (or acquisition) unless the terms of the existing debt instrument are modified in connection [21] with the transaction or the nature of the transaction is changed.[24] If only minor modifications are made in the terms of the loan, the Committee does not intend that the imputed interest rules will be applied.

Under temporary Treasury regulations, for installment reporting purposes, a so-called wrap-around debt instrument may be treated like an assumption of the so-called "wrapped" (or underlying debt). However, many taxpayers have taken the contrary position. The Committee believes that a wrap-around debt should be treated consistently for purposes of the installment reporting and imputed interest rules. The Committee does not wish to address the proper treatment of wrap-around debt for installment reporting at this time. Moreover, the Committee wishes to avoid the situation where the seller takes the position that the wrap-around debt does not result in immediate taxation, while the buyer takes the position that the entire amount of the wrap-around debt is exempt from the imputed interest rules. Accordingly, until and unless it is ultimately settled that a wrap-around debt instrument is treated as an assumption for installment reporting purposes, the Committee intends that the exception in the Committee bill relating to assumptions should not apply to wrap-around debt instruments.

B. Below-Market Loan Provisions

1. Loans to continuing care facilities

In general

Under the Committee bill, certain below-market loans to a "continuing care facility," made pursuant to a "continuing care contract" are excepted from the below-market loan provisions of the Code, i.e., no additional interest and offsetting payment will be attributed to such loans. Loans to continuing care facilities pursuant to continuing care contracts are subject to he below-market loan provisions to the extent that the criteria for the exception are not met.

Continuing care contract

A continuing care contract is an arrangement between an individual or a married couple and a continuing care facility with certain specified requirements. Under the first requirement, a retired individual or couple must be entitled to use of the continuing care facility for the remainder of the individual's or both married spouses' lives. Under the second requirement, such use must commence with residence in a separate, independent living unit provided by the continuing care facility.[25] The independent living unit is provided for so long as the individual or either of the married spouses is capable of living independently, and during this period the individual may not require (in order to maintain residence in [22] such independent living unit) care other than the providing of meals and other personal care services, as described below.

Under the third requirement, during the period in which the individuals reside in the independent living units, the continuing care facility must be obliged to provide such individuals with various "personal care" services. These are services that are designed to prolong an elderly person's ability to maintain an independent residence. Examples are services relating to maintenance of the residential unit, the preparation of meals, (either on a common basis or within the separate living unit), and daily aid and supervision relating to

[24] The Committee intends that the nature of the transaction is to be considered changed if, for example, the loan which is to be assumed arose in a transaction that was excepted from section 483, but the subsequent transaction does not qualify for the exception. See, e.g., Treas. Reg. sec. 1.483-1(f)(6)(iv) (Example 4).

[25] It is contemplated that such units would have their own kitchen, bath, and living area, and would be of a nature that provides the same degree of convenience and privacy as a private residence.

Under the fourth requirement, the continuing care facility must also undertake to provide long-term nursing care for those individuals who are no longer capable of living independently, even with the aid of personal care services. Under the fifth requirement, the continuing care contract must require the continuing care facility to provide the personal care and long-term nursing services without substantial additional cost to the individual, i.e., there must be a significant insurance-like element for the individual.

The Committee intends that the personal care and custodial care services are to be substantial, so that they in fact prolong the ability of an individual to maintain an independent residence, except in the case of sudden, totally disabling medical cause. For example, the mere provision of maid services and a registered nurse on the premises of a retirement community would not be sufficient.

Continuing care facility

A continuing care facility is one or more facilities which are designed to provide services under continuing care contracts and substantially all of the residents of which have entered into continuing care contracts. The term "substantially all" is intended to permit isolated situations where an individual may enter the continuing care facility in immediate need of long-term nursing care, particularly if in conjunction with a spouse who simultaneously enters a separate independent living unit in the continuing care facility, or where a newly opened facility may accept several individuals directly into the long-term nursing facility (under normal nursing care arrangements, i.e., not pursuant to continuing care contracts) in order to fill excess capacity.

In addition, substantially all of the facilities used to provide the services that must be provided under a continuing care contract must be in facilities that are either owned or operated by the continuing care facility.

The Committee believes that the exception from the below-market loan rules should be limited to facilities that provide personal care services designed to prolong the ability of retired persons to live independently, as well as an insurance-like arrangement providing for the possible need for long-term nursing care. Accordingly, the exception from the below-market loan rules does not apply to below-market loans to facilities where an individual would generally receive long-term nursing care immediately upon entering the facility without any period of living independently, i.e., facilities of a type traditionally considered to be nursing homes.

The exception is available for a loan only as of the calendar year in which the lender has attained age 65. A loan from either or both members of a married couple where only one spouse has attained age 65, will be treated as qualifying for the exception where both of the spouses are to reside in the continuing care facility. Loans made by an individual prior to reaching age 65 which do not qualify initially may nevertheless qualify as of the calendar year in which the individual reaches age 65. The Committee believes that the benefit of this exception should not be afforded to the provision of luxurious accommodations. Accordingly, the exception applies only to the extent that the principal amount of a loan, when added to the aggregate outstanding amount of all other previous loans between the lender (or if the lender is married, the lender and the lender's spouse), to any continuing care facility, does not exceed $90,000. This amount is indexed for inflation.

Transactions not treated as loans

The Committee understands that the below-market loan provisions of the Code prescribe the treatment only of transactions that are loans for Federal income tax purposes,and that such provisions do not define and did not alter prior law relating to what transactions are or are not to be treated as loans. The Committee understands that entrants into a life care facility generally expect to reside at the facility for a considerable length of time. The Committee also understands that a payment to a continuing care facility pursuant to a continuing care contract frequently is wholly or partially refundable for a relatively brief period (e.g., six months) essentially for consumer protection purposes pursuant to State law or regulations. The Committee also understands that payments to a continuing care facility are often refundable on a declining pro rata basis over a somewhat longer period (often up to eight years). The Committee understands that such payments ordinarily would be treated as the advance payment of fees and not as loans under present law.

2. Employee relocation loans

The Committee bill modifies the below-market loan rules with respect to so-called "employee relocation loans." An employee relocation loan is a loan from an employer to an employee, the proceeds of which are used by the employee toward the purchase of a principal residence in connection with commencement of work by the employee at a new principal place of work. The purchase of the principal residence must occur in a situation where any moving expenses incurred by the employee would be deductible under section 217 of the Code.

In the case of such employee relocation loans, the rate used for determining whether the loan is a below-market loan to which additional interest will be imputed, is the AFR for the month in which the employee enters into a written contract for the purchase of the principal residence rather than the month in which the loan is made.

[24] C. Accelerated Cost Recovery System

Under the Committee bill, the minimum recovery period for domestic real property qualifying as recovery property generally is increased from 18 years to 19 years. However, this change in the recovery period does not affect the ACRS provisions relating to low-income housing (which remains at 15 years).

D. Effective Dates

Imputed interest rules

The provisions of the Committee bill relating to the amendment imputed interest rules are effective for sales or exchanges occurring after June 30, 1985. However, the provision limiting the imputed interest rate where the AFR exceeds 12 percent does not apply to any sale or exchange after June 30, 1988. The Committee understands that where a sale or exchange takes place after June 30, 1985, pursuant to a binding contract entered into on or before that date, the imputed interest rates for such a transaction are to be determined pursuant to the provisions of the Committee bill using the applicable Federal rates in effect on the date the binding contract was entered into.

The regulatory authority under which the Treasury Department may permit a taxpayer to use a lower imputed interest rate is effective as if included in the imputed interest provisions of the 1984 Act.

Below-market loans

The provisions of the Committee bill relating to below-market loans to continuing care facilities pursuant to continuing care contracts are generally effective with respect to such loans that are made after the date of enactment. All such loans made on or before the date of enactment are excepted from the below-market loan rules.

The provisions of the Committee bill relating to employee relocation loans are effective for loans made pursuant to purchase contracts entered into after June 30, 1985.

ACRS recovery period for real property

The provision of the Committee bill relating to the ACRS recovery period for real property is generally effective for property placed in service after May 8, 1985. Transitional rules similar to those under the 1984 Act are provided for property that is placed in service after May 8, 1985, and before January 1, 1987, where there was a binding contract to construct or acquire the property, or where construction was begun by or for the taxpayers before May 9, 1985. Special rules apply to cost placed in service after May 8, 1985.[26]

In addition, a conforming amendment relating to the eligibility of lessee-incurred costs for the rehabilitation tax credit (secs. 46 and 48(g)) is effective for leases executed prior to May 22, 1985, if the lessee signed the lease before May 17, 1985.

SIMPLIFICATION OF IMPUTED INTEREST RULES

August 1, 1985.—
Ordered to be printed

Mr. Rostenkowski, from the committee of conference, submitted the following conference report to accompany H.R. 2475[1]

* * * * *

[12] JOINT EXPLANATORY STATEMENT OF THE COMMITTEE OF CONFERENCE

The managers on the part of the House and the Senate at the conference on the disagreeing votes of the two Houses on the amendment of the Senate to the bill (H.R. 2475) to amend the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 to simplify the imputed interest rules of sections 1274 and 483, and for other purposes, submit the following joint statement to the House and the Senate in explanation of the effect of the action agreed upon by the managers and recommended in the accompanying conference report:

The Senate amendment struck out all of the House bill after the enacting clause and inserted a substitute text.

The House recedes from its disagreement to the amendment of the Senate with an amendment which is a substitute for the House bill and the Senate amendment. The differences between the House bill, the Senate amendment, and the substitute agreed to in conference are noted below, except for clerical corrections, conforming changes made necessary by agreements reached by the conferees, and minor drafting and clarifying changes.

I. SIMPLIFICATION Of GENERAL IMPUTED INTEREST RULES

A. The Imputed Interest Rules

Present law

The imputed interest rate

Overview

Under the imputed interest rules, whether there is adequate stated interest in a debt instrument issued for nonpublicly-traded property is determined by reference to an appropriate "test rate." Where adequate interest is not stated, the imputed interest rules recharacterize a portion of the principal amount of the debt instrument for income tax purposes using a somewhat higher "imputation rate." The amounts of principal and interest as recharacterized will generally determine the seller's "amount realized," the buyer's basis in the property, and the amount of interest deductions and interest income for the buyer and the seller, respectively. The test rate for a debt instrument subject to the imputed interest rules is the rate in effect on the first day there is a binding contract for the sale or exchange of the property. All test and imputation rates are applied using semiannual compounding.

"Test rates" and "imputation rates"

General rule.—For sales or exchanges after December 31, 1984, of new property eligible for the investment credit, and for all sales or exchanges after June 30, 1985, the test rate is 110 percent of the [13] "applicable Federal rate," and the imputation rate is 120 percent of the "applicable Federal rate."

Special rule for certain transactions before July 1, 1985.—For sales or exchanges after December 31, 1984, and before July 1, 1985, of property other than new property eligible for the investment credit, the test rate for "borrowed amounts" not exceeding $2 million is 9 percent. The test rate for borrowed amounts exceeding $2 million is a "blend" of 9 percent on the first $2 million and 110 percent of the applicable Federal rate (the "AFR") on the excess. In applying the $2 million limitation, all sales or exchanges that are part of the same transaction (or a series of related transactions) are treated as one transaction, and all debt instruments arising from the same transaction (or a series of related transactions) are treated as one debt instrument. The imputation rate for transactions during this same period is 10 percent for borrowed amount up to $2 million and a blend of 10 percent and 120 percent of the AFR for borrowed amounts exceeding $2 million.

Other lower test and imputation rates.—The test rate for certain sales of homes and farm property after June 30, 1985, may not exceed 9 percent. This exception generally is limited to $250,000 for sales of homes and $1 million for sales of farms.

Applicable Federal rate.—The applicable Federal rate ("AFR") for a debt instrument is the lower of two published rates, one specified by the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (the "1984 Act") and one specified in temporary Treasury regulations. The statutory rate is based on the weighted average of yields over a period of six months for marketable obligations of the United States Government with a comparable maturity. Such rates are redetermined at six-month intervals for three categories of debt instruments: short-term maturity (three years or less), mid-term maturity (more than three years but not in excess of nine years), and long-term maturity (more than nine years).[1]

The rates determined under the temporary Treasury regulations are intended to reflect more accurately the current marketplace.[2] These rates are computed monthly using the same methodology described above, except that the rates reflect the average yields for one-month periods. In any month, the lower of the six-month rate or the monthly rate is the AFR. However, in cases where the monthly rate for either of the two preceding months is lower than the AFR for a particular month, the test rate for that month is the lower of the two such rates.

Exceptions.—The imputed interest rules do not apply to the obligor on a debt instrument incurred in the acquisition of personal use property, to the sale of certain patents, to certain annuities, and to transactions involving a sale of property with a sales price of not more than $3,000.

Interest income and expense on debt instruments that are issued for property and that do not require the current payment of interest generally must be accounted for on the accrual method of accounting unless one of the following exceptions apply.

The accrual accounting requirement does not apply to (1) debt instruments issued for nonpublicly-traded property in transaction that are excepted from the imputed interest rules (2) debt created in the sale of certain small businesses and farms, (3) debt created in the sale of a principal residence, and (4) debt created where the total payments are less than $250,000.

Assumptions

The assumption of the following debt obligations in connection with the sale or exchange of property, or the taking of property subject to such debt obligations, does not result in the application of the imputed interest rules, provided that the terms and conditions of the obligation are not modified in connection with the sale: (1) loans that were made before October 16, 1984, and assumed after December 31, 1984, in connection with the sale of property the purchase price of which does not exceed $100 million and (2) all loans assumed in connection with the sale of a residence, certain farms, and certain trades or businesses.

House Bill

The imputed interest rules

Overview

The House bill makes four basic changes to the imputed interest rates. First, the House bill generally reduces the test rate from 110 percent of the AFR to 100 percent of the AFR. Second, the House bill provides for lower imputed interest rates for certain smaller transactions. Third, the House bill provides that the imputation rate would be the same as the test rate (i.e., there would be no higher "penalty rate" where inadequate interest is stated). Finally, the House bill revises the computation of the AFR from a semiannual rate to a monthly rate.

Lower overall imputed interest rate

Under the House bill, the imputed interest rate (i.e., the test rate and the imputation rate) is reduced to 100 percent of the AFR.

Lower imputed interest rates for certain smaller transactions

The House bill places a limit on the imputed interest rates in smaller transactions that do not involve new property eligible for the investment tax credit. Under these rules, where the amount of seller financing[3] does not exceed $2 million, the House bill provides that the imputed interest rate cannot exceed 9 percent.[4] [15] Where the amount of seller financing exceeds $2 million but is less than $4 million, the imputed interest rate cannot exceed a "blend" of 9 percent on a specified portion of the seller financing and the 100 percent of the AFR on the remainder. The portion of the seller-financing eligible for the 9 percent rate is equal to $2 million reduced dollar-for-dollar by the amount of seller financing over $2 million. Where the amount of seller financing is $4 million or more, the imputed interest rate is equal to 100 percent of the AFR. The $2 million and $4 million thresholds amounts will be indexed for inflation beginning after 1988.

For sales of new property eligible for the investment credit, the imputed interest rate for a seller-financed debt instrument is equal to 100 percent of the AFR regardless of the amount of seller financing.

Elimination of the penalty rate

Under the House bill, the imputation rate for a debt instrument that fails to state adequate interest will be the same as the test rate for that instrument. Accordingly, there is only one "imputed interest rate" for a transaction and there is no separate "penalty rate" where a debt instrument does not state adequate interest for any reason.

Determination of the applicable Federal rate

Under the House bill, the sole mechanism for determining the AFR will be the one currently prescribed by the temporary Treasury regulations. The alternative mechanism under present law for determining the six-month rate prescribed by the 1984 Act will be eliminated.

Under these revised rules, the AFR will be computed using the same methodology as under present law, except that the rates will be determined on a monthly basis and the rate will reflect the average yields for one-month peri-

[1] Appropriate adjustments to the rates are to be made for application to debt instruments, the interest on which is wholly or partly exempt from tax (sec. 1288).

[2] The mechanism provided by the temporary regulations is intended to respond to a problem that may exist where interest rates decline after the period in which the Federal rates were determined.

[3] The amount of seller financing is measured by the stated principal amount of the seller-financed debt instrument.

[4] As under present law, all rates will be compounded semiannually.

ods. In addition, the AFR for a particular month may be used as the imputed interest rate for contracts for sales or exchanges entered into in that month and the next two succeeding months.

Regulatory authority

The House bill authorizes the Treasury Department to issue regulations specifying the circumstances in which transactions will be treated as "part of the same transaction or related transactions" for the purpose of applying the $2 million and $4 million limitations. The House bill also provides that the Treasury Department is authorized to issue regulations under which taxpayers would be permitted to demonstrate that, in appropriate circumstances, a rate lower than the AFR provided by the statute, but calculated according to the same principles as the AFR,[5] is a more appropriate imputed interest rate for a particular debt instrument. Finally, the House bill authorizes the Treasury Department to issue regulations regarding the relationship of the imputed interest provisions to other Code provisions.

The House bill provides that, in the case of certain debt instruments that otherwise would be subject to the accrual accounting requirement, interest income and expense arising from such debt instruments may be accounted for on the cash receipts and disbursements methods of accounting. To be eligible for such treatment, (1) the stated principal amount of the debt instrument cannot exceed $2 million, (2) the debt instrument must arise from the sale of property by a cash-basis taxpayer who is not a dealer in the type of property sold, and (3) the lender and the borrower must jointly elect such treatment. A debt instrument meeting these requirements is to be known as a "cash-method debt instrument."

Special rules are provided relating to the treatment of taxpayers who are the successors to either the issuer or holder of a cash-method debt instrument. The Treasury Department is authorized to issue regulations prescribing rules to prevent abuses of the special treatment afforded to cash-method debt instruments.

[5]That is, a rate that is calculated by reference to Treasury obligations with similar maturity.

Assumptions

Under the House bill, if an existing debt instrument is assumed in connection with the sale or exchange of property (or if the property is acquired subject to an existing debt instrument), the imputed interest rules will not apply to such existing debt instrument by reason of such assumption (or acquisition) unless either the terms of the existing debt instrument are modified in connection with the transaction or the nature of the transaction is changed.

Effective date

The provisions of the House bill relating to the amendment of the imputed interest rules are effective for sales or exchanges occurring after June 30, 1985.

Senate amendment

The imputed interest rules

The Senate amendment generally follows the House bill with certain modifications. Under the Senate amendment, in general, the amount of seller financing that would be eligible for the 9 percent rate is $2 million for all transactions where the amount of seller financing does not exceed $4 million. In transactions involving the sale of farm property or real property used in certain closely held trades or businesses, $2 million of seller financing would be eligible for the 9 percent rate, provided the total amount of seller financing did not exceed $9 million. Also under the Senate amendment, an imputed interest rate of 110 percent of the AFR would apply to any sale-leaseback transaction or any transaction involving a sales price in excess of $25 million. In addition, where the AFR exceeded 12 percent, the imputed interest rate for certain transactions would be limited to the sum of 12 percent and one-third of the excess of the AFR over 12 percent.

The authority granted to the Treasury Department to provide regulations that would permit taxpayers to prove that a lower im- [17] puted interest rate is appropriate would be effective as if it were contained in the 1984 Act.

Method of accounting

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Assumptions

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill.

Conference agreement

The imputed interest rules

The conference agreement generally follows the House bill with the following modifications. Under the conference agreement, where the amount of seller financing does not exceed $2,800,000, the imputed interest rate generally may not exceed 9 percent. Where the amount of seller financing is greater than $2,800,000, the imputed interest rate is generally 100 percent of the AFR. An imputed interest rate of 110 percent of the AFR, however, applies to sale-leaseback transactions. Indexing of the $2,800,000 threshold for the 9 percent rate (and the $2 million threshold for the 9 percent rate (and the $2 million threshold for cash-method debt instruments) begins after 1989.

The effective date of the regulatory authority relating to the use of lower imputed interest rate is the same as in the Senate amendment. In this regard, the conferees intend that the regulatory authority be exercised in a manner so that the lower rate would be permitted only in circumstances where it can be demonstrated that both the rate recalculated based on the same principles as the AFR and the rate at which the borrower can borrow funds on an arm's length basis is lower than the AFR that otherwise would be applicable to the borrower's debt instrument. Further, it is intended that the rate permitted under the regulations would be not less than the borrower's arm's length borrowing rate.

The conferees understand that where a sale or exchange takes place after June 30, 1985, pursuant to a binding contract entered into on or before that date, the imputed interest rates for such a transaction are to be determined pursuant to the provisions of the conference agreement using the applicable Federal rates in effect on the date the binding contract was entered into. For example, if a seller executes a binding contract on March 15, 1985, with a buyer to purchase nonpublicly-traded property with seller financing of $3 million and the transaction is closed on July 15, 1985, the test rate is 100 percent of the AFR for March 15, 1985.

Under the conference agreement, the imputed interest rules will not be applied to the issuance or modification of certain specified debt instruments held by the New York State Mortgage Loan Enforcement and Administration Corporation provided such issuance or modification is in connection with the workout of such debt instruments and the principal amount of indebtedness resulting from such workout does not exceed the sum (as of the time of the workout) of the outstanding principal amount of the specified debt instrument and any arrearages thereon. The conferees understand that the rate of interest charged with respect to the arrearages shall be not less than the rate on the related loan. The conferees [18] intend no inference in adopting this provision regarding the appropriate income tax treatment of such debt instruments or of other debt instruments in similar circumstances. Specifically, the conferees intend that no inferences be taken from the adoption of this provision that any arrangements existing prior to or resulting from these workout agreements is properly considered as debt for tax purposes.

Method of accounting

The conference agreement is the same as the House bill and the Senate amendment.

Assumptions

The conference agreement is the same as the House bill and the Senate amendment. The conferrees are concerned about the extend to which the assumption rules apply when the terms of the debt are modified. The conferees expect that the Treasury Department will issue regulations, consistent with the purposes of these provisions, regarding the proper tax treatment of all parties in transactions where the terms and conditions of the obligation are modified or changed in connection with the transfer of property.

B. Accelerated Cost Recovery System

Present law

In general, domestic real property placed in service after March 15, 1984, and qualifying as recovery property, may be depreciated on an accelerated basis under ACRS over an 18-year period, under tables of recovery percentages prescribed by the Treasury Department. These tables reflect a "mid-month" convention for property placed in service after June 22, 1984. Taxpayers may also elect to depreciate such property on a straight-line basis over 18, 35, or 45 years. The recovery period under ACRS for low-income housing described in sections 1250(a)(1)(B)(i), (ii), (iii) or (iv) is 15 years and no mid-month convention is used.

Under transitional ruels provided by the 1984 Act, property placed in service after March 15, 1984, pursuant to binding contracts entered into, or where construction was commenced by or for the taxpayer, prior to March 16, 1984, may be eligible for a 15-year recovery period. Special rules under the 1984 Act are also provided relating to components of real property placed in service prior to March 16, 1984, that are placed in service on or after that date.[6]

Under the House bill, the minimum recovery period for domestic real property qualifying as recovery property generally is increased from 18 years to 19 years. However, this change in the recovery period does not affect the ACRS provisions relating to low-income housing (the recovery period of which remains at 15 years).

The provision of the House bill relating to the ACRS recovery period for real property is generally effective for property placed in [19] service after May 8, 1985. Transitional rules similar to those under the 1984 Act are provided for property that is placed in service after May 8, 1985, and before January 1, 1987, where there was a binding contract to construct or acquire the property, or where construction was begun by or for the taxpayer before May 9, 1985. Special rules apply to components placed in service after May 8, 1985.[7]

Senate amendment

The Senate amendment is the same as the House bill with the exception that a conforming amendment relating to the eligibility of lessee-incurred costs for the rehabilitation tax credit (secs. 46 and 48(g)) is not effective for leases executed prior to May 22, 1985, if the lessee signed the lease before May 17, 1985.

Conference agreement

The conference agreement is the same as the Senate amendment. The conferees intent that the recovery percentages to be computed by the Treasury Department be done on a more exact basis than is current practice. Specifically, if the Treasury Department provides that depreciation may be calculated by applying specified percentages to the basis of the property, the conferees intend that the percentage be expressed to at least the nearest tenth of a percentage point. Similarly, separate percentage rates should be provided for each month during a taxable year during which the property may be placed in service.

II. BELOW-MARKET LOAN PROVISIONS

Present law

Section 7872 of the Code, added by the 1984 Act, generally provides that certain loans that bear interest at a below-market rate, are to be treated as loans bearing interest at the market rate accompanied by a payment or payments from the lender to the borrower which are characterized in accordance with the substance of the particular transaction (e.g., gift, compensation, dividend, etc.). The market rate of interest for purposes of section 7872 is assumed to be 100 percent of the AFR at the time the loan is made in the case of a term loan or, in the case of a demand, 100 percent of the AFR in effect over the time that the loan is outstanding. The monthly rate provided by the temporary Treasury regulations under the imputed interest rules does not apply for this purpose

Section 7872 applies to (1) loans where the foregone (i.e., below-market) interest is in the nature of a gift, (2) loans to an employee from an employer or to an independent contractor from one for whom the independent contractor provides services, (3) loans between a corporation and a shareholder of the corporation, (4) loans of which one of the principal purposes of the interest arrangement is the avoidance of any Federal tax, and (5) to the extent provided in Treasury regulations, any below-market loan if the interest arrangement of such loan has a significant effect on any Federal tax [20] liability of either the lender or borrower. The provisions of section 7872 generally apply to term loans made after June 6, 1984, and to demand loans made after that date (or demand loans outstanding after June 6, 1984, which are not repaid before September 17, 1984). However, the below market loan rules do not apply to loans made to elderly care facilities before June 6, 1984, that are contingent on the continued residence of the lender at the facility. The application of section 7872 is limited by certain de minimis exceptions and, for certain gift loans, by the net investment income of the borrower. In addition, transactions covered by the last category above (i.e., number 5) would not be effective prior to the issuance of such Treasury regulations.

Below-market loans made by individuals pursuant to arrangements providing for the satisfaction of personal needs in retirement may be considered to come within either of the last two categories.

House bill

No provision.

Senate amendment

Loans to continuing care facilities

Overview

Under the Senate amendment, certain below-market loans to a "continuing care facility," made pursuant to a "continuing care contract" are excepted from the below-market loan provisions of the Code. Thus, under the Senate amendment, such loans will not be treated as bearing an interest rate equal to the applicable Federal rate and no additional payments will be treated as made from the lender to the borrower. Loans to continuing care facilities pursuant to continuing care contracts would be subject to the below-market loan provisions to the extent that the criteria for the exception are not met.

A continuing care contract is an arrangement between an individual or a married couple and a continuing care facility that meets five requirements. Under the first requirement, a retired individual or couple must be entitled to the use of the continuing care facility for the remainder of the individual's life or both married spouses' lives. Under the second requirement, such use must commence with residence in a separate, independent living unit provided by the continuing care facility.

Under the third requirement, during the period in which the individuals reside in the independent living units, the continuing care facility must be obliged to provide such individuals with various "personal care" services. Under the fourth requirement, the continuing care facility must also undertake to provide long-term nursing care for those individuals who are no longer capable of living independently, even with the aid of personal care services. Under the fifth requirement, the continuing care contract must require the continuing care facility to provide the personal care and [21] long-term nursing services without substantial additional cost to the individual (i.e., there must be a significant insurance-like element for the individual).

Continuing care facility

A continuing care facility is one or more facilities that are designed to provide services under continuing care contracts and substantially all of the residents of which have entered into continuing care contracts.

Limitations

The exception is available for a loan only as of the calendar year in which the lender has attained age 65. A loan from either or both members of a married couple where only one spouse has attained age 65 will be treated as qualifying for the exception if both of the spouses are to reside in the continuing care facility. The exception applies only to the extent that the principal amount of a loan, when added to the aggregate outstanding amount of all other previous loans between the lender (or if the lender is married, the lender and the lender's spouse) to any continuing care facility, does not exceed $90,000. This amount is indexed for inflation.

Special rule for certain payments

Payment arrangements meeting specified requirements, between an individual and an elderly care facility meeting specified requirements are not treated as loans for purposes of the below-market loan rules. In general, the payment arrangement is one where an initial payment and a portion thereof that is refundable is based on the fair market value of residential accommodations supplied to the individual by the elderly care facility.

Effective date

The provisions of the Senate amendment relating to below-market loans to continuing care facilities pursuant to continuing care contracts are generally effective with respect to such loans that are made after the date of enactment. All such loans made on or before the date of enactment are excepted from the below-market loan rules. In addition, any Treasury regulations relating to the application of the below-market loan rules to loans made to any elderly care facilities are prohibited from taking effect prior to January 1, 1986.

Employee relocation loans

The Senate amendment modifies the below-market loan rules with respect to so-called "employee relocation loans." An employee relocation loan is a loan from an employer to an employee, the proceeds of which are used by the employee toward the purchase of a principal residence in connection with commencement of work by the employee at a new principal place of work. The purchase of the principal residence must occur in a situation where any moving expenses incurred by the employee would be deductible under section 217 of the Code.

In the case of such employee relocation loans, the rate used for determining whether the loan is a below-market loan to which ad- [22] ditional interest will be imputed, is the AFR for the month in which the employee enters into a written contract for the purchase of the principal residence, rather than the month in which the loan is made.

The provisions of the Senate amendment relating to employee relocation loans are effective for loans made pursuant to purchase contracts entered into after June 30, 1985.

Conference agreement

Loans to continuing care facilities

The conference agreement generally follows the Senate amendment with certain modifications. First, the requirement that the continuing care facility own or operate substantially all the facilities used to provide services under a continuing care contract is effective without regard to when a facility began operating (or a contract for the construction of the facility was entered into). Second, no restrictions are placed on the effective date of any Treasury regulations relating to the application of the below-market loan rules to loans made to elderly care facilities.

The provision in the Senate amendments relating to whether specified payment arrangements are to be treated as loans for purposes of the below-market loan rules is limited to three specified elderly care facilities that would not qualify as continuing care facilities under the Senate amendment. In this regard, the conferees confirm that the below-market loan rules of the 1984 Act and the changes made to those rules by this bill only apply to transactions that are loans for Federal income tax purposes. The conferees specifically intend that the provisions of the bill do not define, and do not alter, the prior law rules relating to what transactions are, or are not, to be treated as loans. In addition, the conferees understand that a payment to a continuing care facility pursuant to a continuing care contract frequently is wholly or partially refundable for a relatively brief period (e.g., six months) essentially for consumer protection purposes pursuant to State law or regulations. The conferees also understand that payments to a continuing care facility are often refundable on a declining pro rata basis over a somewhat longer period (often up to eight years). The conferees understand that such payments ordinarily would be treated as the advance payment of fees and not as loans under present law.

In addition, certain technical modifications have been made to the language contained in the Senate amendment.

Delegation Order No. 156 (Rev. 6) (Effective August 1, 1985)

Authority To Permit Disclosure of Tax Information and To Permit Testimony or the Production of Documents

Pursuant to the authority vested in the Commissioner of Internal Revenue by Treasury Department Order No. 156-37 and in the Chief Counsel by General Counsel Order 4, and by Treasury Department Order No. 190 (as revised), authority to act in matters officially before their respective functions is hereby delegated.

The authority to disclose returns and/or return information under certain provisions of the IR Code, such as IRC 6103(h)(1) and (k)(6) is not delegated herein as the language of these provisions themselves permits officers and employees of the Internal Revenue Service and the Office of the Chief Counsel to disclose such information. The authority to disclose returns and return information under IRC 6103(k)(4) is also not delegated herein as Delegation Order 114 (as revised) [1982-1 C.B. 341] governs these disclosures.

(1) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioners; Assistant Commissioners; Deputy Assistant Commissioners; Division Directors (or equivalent level position); Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division; Deputy Chief Counsel; Associates Chief Counsel; Deputy Associates Chief Counsel; Chief Counsel Division Directors; Regional Commissioners; Regional Inspectors; Regional Counsels; Deputy Regional Counsels; District Counsels; District and Service Center Directors; Director, National Computer Center; and Director, Data Center are authorized:

(a) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns or return information to such persons as the taxpayer may designate in a written request, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(c) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder. The authority to withhold return information upon a determination that such disclosure would seriously impair Federal tax administration is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph to disclose returns or return information may be redelegated to Internal Revenue Service employees and employees of the Office of Chief Counsel to the extent necessary within the exercise of their official duties. The authority delegated in this paragraph to withhold return information may be redelegated not lower than Chiefs, Special Procedures function; Group Managers (or their equivalent); Chiefs, Appeals Offices; Chiefs, Criminal Investigation Branch; and Disclosure Officers.

(b) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns, upon the written request of an individual taxpayer, partner, corporate officer, shareholder, administrator, executor, trustee, or other person having a material interest subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(e). The authority to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of return information to such persons, upon a determination that disclosure would not seriously impair Federal tax administration, as prescribed in IRC 6103(e)(7), is also delegated. The authority to withhold return information upon a determination that disclosure would seriously impair Federal tax administration is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph to disclose or authorize the disclosure of returns or return information may be redelegated to Internal Revenue Service employees and employees of the Office of Chief Counsel to the extent necessary within the exercise of their official duties. In the event a disclosure of return information would seriously impair Federal tax administration, the decision to withhold such return information will be referred to officials not lower than Chiefs, Special Procedures function; Group Managers (or their equivalent); Chiefs, Appeals Officers; Chiefs, Criminal Investigation Branch; and Disclosure Officers.

(c) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns or return information to officers and employees of the Department of Justice including United States attorneys, in a matter involving tax administration, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(h)(2), the Treasury Regulations thereunder, and (h)(3)(A). The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated not lower than Chiefs, Special Procedures function; and Group Managers (or their equivalent including Disclosure Officers). The authority delegated in this paragraph to Chief Counsel employees may be redelegated not lower than Chiefs, Appeals Officers; and to attorneys of the Office of Chief Counsel directly involved in such matters. (See paragraph (17) below.)

(d) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns or return information to officers and employees of the Department of Treasury, as specified in IRC 6103(i)(4)(B) or, upon written request, to employees and other persons specified in IRC 6103(l)(4)(A) for use in personnel or claimant representative matters, and to make relevancy and materiality determinations as provided in section 6103(l)(4)(A), subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(l)(4). The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only to Assistant Division Directors (or equivalent level position); Assistant Regional Commissioners; Regional Director of Appeals; Assistant Regional Inspectors; Regional Chief, Personnel Branch; Assistant District and Service Center Directors; Division Chiefs; National Office Branch Chiefs, Internal Security Division; Staff Assistants to Regional Counsels; and to attorneys of the Office of Chief Counsel and inspectors directly involved in such matters. (See paragraph 13(e).)

(e) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns or return information to the extent necessary in connection with contractual procurement by the Service or Office of the Chief Counsel of equipment or other property or services, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(n) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only to Assistant Division Directors (or equivalent level position); Assistant Regional Commissioners; Regional Director of Appeals; Assistant Regional Inspectors; Assistant District and Service Center Directors; Division Chiefs; Chief Counsel Assistant Division Directors; Associate Regional Counsel; and Disclosure Officers.

(f) To disclose, or in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of return information (other than taxpayer return information) which may constitute evidence of a violation of any Federal criminal law (not involving tax administration) or to disclose return information under circumstances involving a threat or other imminent danger of death or other physical injury, which is directed against the President or other government official, to the U.S. Secret Service, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(l)(3). The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to Assistant District and Service Center Directors. This does not limit the authority granted in paragraph 6(d) of this order.

(g) To determine whether a disclosure of standards used or to be used for selection of returns for examination, or data used or to be used for determining such standards will seriously impair assessment, collection or enforcement under the internal revenue laws pursuant to IRC 6103(b)(2). The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated to Disclosure Officers.

(2) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioners; Assistant Commissioners; Deputy Assistant Commissioners; Division Directors (or equivalent level position); Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division; Regional Commissioners; Regional Inspectors; District and Service Center Directors; Director, National Computer Center, and Director, Data Center are authorized to determine whether a disclosure of returns or return information in a Federal or State judicial or administrative proceeding pertaining to tax administration would identify a confidential informant or seriously impair a civil or criminal tax investigation, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(h)(4). The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(3) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Policy and Management); Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Regional Commissioners; Director, Disclosure and Security Division; Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division; and District and Service Center Directors are authorized;

(a) To furnish an affirmative or negative response to a written inquiry from an attorney of the Department of Justice (including a United States Attorney) involved in a judicial proceeding pertaining to tax administration, or any person (or his/her legal representative) who is a party to such proceeding, as to whether a prospective juror has or has not been the subject of any audit or other tax investigation by the Internal Revenue Service, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(h)(5). The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only to Assistant District and service Center Directors; Division Chiefs, and Disclosure Officers.

(b) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of:

(i) Accepted offers-in-compromise to members of the general public, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(k)(1).

(ii) The amount of an outstanding obligation secured by a lien, notice of which has been filed pursuant to section 6323(f), to any person who furnishes satisfactory written evidence establishing a right in or intent to obtain a right in property subject to such lien, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(k)(2). The authority to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of the amount of such outstanding obligation is also delegated to the Associate Commissioner (Operations); Assistant Commissioner (Collection); and Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Collection).

(iii) Taxpayer identity information with respect to any income tax return preparer and information as to whether any penalty hs been assessed against such preparer to officers and employees of any agency charged under State or local law with the regulation of such preparers, upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(k)(5);

(iv) Returns or return information with respect to taxes imposed by IRC chapters 2, 21, and 24 to the Social Security Administration, upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(l)(1)(A);

(v) Returns or return information with respect to taxes imposed by IRC chapter 22 to the Railroad Retirement Board, upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(l)(1)(C).

(vi) Returns or return information with respect to taxes imposed by IRC subtitle E (relating to taxes on alcohol, tobacco and firearms) to officers and employees of the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms, upon written request and pursuant to IRC 6103(o)(1).

The authority delegated in subparagraphs (iv) and (v) is also delegated to the Associate Commissioner (Operations); the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical); and the Assistant Commissioner (Examination). The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only to Assistant District and Service Center Directors; Division Chiefs; and Disclosure Officers. In addition, the authority delegated in subparagraph (i) may also be redelegated only to Chiefs, Special Procedures function; Special Procedures function Advisor Reviewers; and Group Managers (or their equivalent). The authority delegated in subparagraph (ii) may also be redelegated only to Chiefs, Special Procedures function; Special Procedures function Advisor Reviewers; Group Managers (or their equivalent); and Revenue Officers. The authority delegated in subparagraph (iv) may be redelegated not lower than Branch Chief.

(4) The Deputy Commissioner; Regional Commissioner; District and Service Center Directors are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns or return information to designated State tax officials, upon written request by the head of a State tax agency, for the purpose of and to the extent necessary in the administration of State tax laws, pursuant to the provisions of IRC 6103(d) and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(h)(4) and (p)(8). The authority to withhold return information pursuant to IRC 6103(d) and (h)(4) upon a determination that such disclosure would identify a confidential informant or seriously impair any civil or criminal tax investigation is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph does not extend to the entry into Federal/State Agreements on the Coordination of Tax Administration. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated to any supervisory level deemed appropriate, but such redelegation shall not extend to the authority to withhold return information.

(5) The Deputy Commissioner; Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center Directors; and Director, National Computer Center are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize, the disclosure of returns or return information pursuant to Federal/State Agreements on the Coordination of Tax Administration entered into between the head of any State tax agency and the Commissioners of Internal Revenue, pursuant to the provisions of IRC 6103(d) and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(h)(4) and (p)(8). The authority to withhold return information pursuant to IRC 6103(d) and (h)(4) upon a determination that such disclosure would identify a confidential informant or seriously impair any civil or criminal tax investigation is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated to any supervisory level deemed appropriate, but such redelegation shall not extend to the authority to withhold return information.

(6) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Policy and Management); Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Director, Disclosure and Security Division; and Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division are authorized:

(a) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns and return information to Congressional committees and other persons, upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(f). The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to the Assistant to the Commissioner (Legislative Liaison). The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(b) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns or return information to officers and employees of a Federal agency pursuant to an ex parte order by a Federal District Court judge or magistrate when needed for use in the enforcement of a Federal criminal statute (not involving tax administration), or to locate a fugitive from justice subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(i)(1) or (i)(5) and the Treasury Regulations hereunder. The authority to withhold any return or return information, pursuant to IRC 6103(i)(6), upon a determination that such disclosure would identify a confidential informant or seriously impair any civil or criminal tax investigation is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors. This authority may not be redelegated.

(c) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of return information (other than taxpayer return information) to officers and employees of a Federal agency upon written request by the head of such agency or the Inspector General thereof, or in the case of the Department of Justice, the Attorney General, the Deputy Attorney General, the Associate Attorney General, any Assistant Attorney General, the Director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, the Administrator of the Drug Enforcement Administration, any United States attorney, any special prosecutor appointed under section 593 of title 28, United States Code, or any attorney in charge of a criminal division organized crime strike force established pursuant to section 510 of title 28, United States Code, when needed for use in the enforcement of a Federal criminal statute (not involving tax administration), subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(i)(2). The authority to withhold return information (other than taxpayer return information), pursuant to IRC 6103(i)(6), upon a determination that such disclosure would identify a confidential informant or seriously impair any civil or criminal tax investigation is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors. This authority may not be redelegated.

(d) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of:

(i) Return information (other than taxpayer return information) which may constitute evidence of a violation of Federal criminal law (not involving tax administration) to the extent necessary to apprise the head of the appropriate Federal agency pursuant to IRC 6103(i)(3)(A);

(ii) Return information to the extent necessary to apprise appropriate officers or employees of a Federal or State law enforcement agency of circumstances involving an imminent danger of death or physical injury to any individual pursuant to IRC 6103(i)(3)(B)(i);

(iii) Return information to the extent necessary to apprise appropriate officers or employees of a Federal law enforcement agency of circumstances involving the imminent flight of an individual from Federal prosecution pursuant to IRC 6103(i)(3)(B)(ii);

With respect to subparagraph (i), the authority to withhold any return information pursuant to IRC 6103(i)(6) upon a determination that such disclosure would identify a confidential informant or seriously impair a civil or criminal tax investigation is also delegated.

The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center directors. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only to the Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division; and Branch Chiefs and Section Chiefs, Disclosure and Security Division, but such redelegation shall not extend to the authority to withhold return information (other than taxpayer return information). This authority is in addition to the authority previously delegated in paragraph (1)(f).

(e) To notify the Attorney General or his delegate of the head of a Federal agency that certain returns or return information obtained pursuant in IRC 6103(i)(1), (2) or (3)(A) shall not be admitted into evidence under IRC 6103(i)(4)(A)(i) or (B), upon a determination, in accordance with IRC 6103(i)(4)(C), that such admission would identify a confidential informant or seriously impair a civil or criminal tax investigation. The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors. This authority may not be redelegated.

(f) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns or return information to officers and employees of the General Accounting Office, upon written request by the Comptroller General of the Untied States and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(i)(7). The authority to withhold any return or return information, pursuant to IRC 6103(i)(6), upon a determination that such disclosure would impair any civil or criminal tax investigation or reveal the identity of a confidential informant is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(g) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of:

(i) The mailing address of taxpayer to officers and employees of an agency when needed in connection with a Federal claim against such taxpayer, upon written request to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(m)(2). The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to Regional Commissioners, District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors. Upon approval of a contractual agreement to such disclosures, the authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to the Assistant Commissioner (Returns and Information Processing); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Returns and Information Processing); Director, Returns Processing and Accounting Division; and Director National Computer Center. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only as set forth below. The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Director, Disclosure and Security Division and the Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division may be redelegated only to the Branch Chiefs and Section Chiefs, Disclosure and Security Division. The authority delegated to the Regional Commissioners; Director, National Computer Center; District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors may be redelegated only to the Disclosure Officer, National Computer Center and Regional, District and Service Center Disclosure Officers. The authority delegated in this order does not include authority to enter into a contractual agreement, which is contained in Delegation Order No. 100, as revised [1982-1 C.B. 338].

(ii) Whether or not an applicant for a loan under an included Federal loan program has a tax delinquent account to the head of the Federal agency administering such program, upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(1)(3). The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors. Upon approval of a contractual agreement for such disclosures, the authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to the Assistant Commissioner (Returns and Information Processing); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Returns and Information Processing); Director, Returns Processing and Accounting Division; and Director, National Computer Center. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only as set forth below. The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Director, Disclosure and Security Division and the Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division may be delegated only to the Branch Chiefs and Section Chiefs, Disclosure and Security Division. The authority delegated to the Regional Commissioners, Director, National Computer Center; District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors may be redelegated only to the Disclosure Officer, National Computer Center and Regional, District and Service Center Disclosure Officers. The authority delegated in this order does not include authority to enter into a contractual agreement, which is contained in Delegation Order No. 100, as revised.

(h) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of the mailing address of taxpayers to officers and employees of the National Institute for Occupational Safety and Health, upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(m)(3). Upon approval by the Director, Disclosure and Security Division or his/her delegate of a contractual agreement for such disclosures, the authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to the Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Director, Software Division; Director, National Computer Center; and Service Center Directors. The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Director, Disclosure and Security Division and the Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division, may be redelegated only to Branch Chiefs and Section Chiefs, Disclosure and Security Division. The authority delegated to the Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Director, Software Division; Director, National Computer Center; and Service Center Directors may not be redelegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph does not include authority to enter into a contractual agreement, which is contained in Delegation Order No. 100, as revised.

(i) To disclose, or in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of the mailing address of any taxpayer who has defaulted on a loan made from the student loan fund established under part B or E of title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 or a loan made to a student at an institute of higher education pursuant to section 3(a)(1) of the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962, to the Secretary of Education upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(m)(4). Upon approval by the Director, Disclosure and Security Division or his/her delegate of a contractual agreement for such disclosures, the authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to the following officials: Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Director, Software Division; Director, National Computer Center; and Service Center Directors. The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Director, Disclosure and Security Division and the Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division, may be redelegated only to Branch Chiefs and Section Chiefs, Disclosure and Security Division. The authority delegated to the Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Director, Software Division; Director, National Computer Center; and Service Center Directors may not be redelegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph does not include authority to enter into a contractual agreement, which is contained in Delegation Order No. 100, as revised.

(7) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Data Processing); and Assistant Commissioner (Returns and Information Processing) are authorized:

(a) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns or return information for statistical use to officer and employees of the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Census, upon the written request of the Secretary of Commerce to officers and employees of the Department of the Treasury, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(j)(1)(A) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder and (j)(3). The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only to the Director, Statistics of Income Division.

(b) To disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of return information for statistical use to officers and employees of the Department of Commerce, Bureau of Economic Analysis, upon the written request of the Secretary of Commerce, or to officers and employees of the Federal Trade commission, upon written request of the chairman, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(j)(1)(B) and (j)(2) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated only to the Director, Statistics of Income Division.

(8) The Deputy Commissioner, Assistant to the Commissioner (Public Affairs); Director and Assistant Director, Public Affairs Division; Regional Commissioner; and District Directors are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of taxpayers' names and the city, state and zip code of their mailing addresses to the press and other media for purposes of notifying persons entitled to undelivered tax refunds, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(m)(1). The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated to Assistant District Directors and Public Affairs Officers.

(9) The Deputy Commissioner, Associate Commissioner (Policy and Management); and Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) are authorized;

(a) Upon written request of the President, to disclose, or in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of return information (other than return information that is adverse to the taxpayer) of an individual who is under consideration for appointment to a position in the executive or judicial branch of the Federal Government to the authorized representative of the Executive Office of the President or to the Federal Bureau of Investigation on behalf of the President, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(g)(2) and (g)(4). Authority is also delegated to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of return information with respect to the categories of individuals discussed above to the heads of Federal agencies upon written request, or the Federal Bureau of Investigation on behalf of and upon the written request of such agency heads, subject to the conditions described in IRC 6103(g)(2) and (g)(4). Upon receipt of any request for return information under IRC 6103(g)(2), authority to notify the individuals with respect to whom the request has been made is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated but not lower than:

(i) Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services), in the case of requests by or on behalf of the President where the return information to be disclosed is not adverse to the taxpayer.

(ii) Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division, in the case of requests by or on behalf of the heads of Federal agencies where the return information to be disclosed is adverse to the taxpayer;

(iii) Branch Chiefs, Disclosure and Security Division, in the case of requests by or on behalf of the heads of Federal agencies where the return information to be disclosed is not adverse to the taxpayer; and

(iv) Section Chiefs, Disclosure and Security Division, concerning the notification of individuals with respect to whom a request has been made.

(b) To make the determination that an agency, body or commission or the General Accounting Office has failed to or does not meet the requirements of IRC 6103(p)(4). Subject to the administrative review applicable to State tax agencies described in IRC 6103(p)(7), authority to withhold returns and return information from any agency, body or commission or the General Accounting Office until a determination is made that the requirements of IRC 6103(p)(4) have been or will be met is also delegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(10) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Operations); Assistant Commissioner (Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations); Director, Disclosure and Security Division; Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division; Regional Commissioners; District Directors of Key Districts for Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations matters; Service Center Directors; Director, National Computer Center; and Director, Data Center are authorized to disclose, or in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of:

(a) Statements, notifications, reports, or other return information described in IRC 6057(d) to officers and employees of the Social Security Administration for the administration of section 1131 of the Social Security Act, upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(1)(1)(B). The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Assistant Commissioner and Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations) may be redelegated, but not lower than Branch Chiefs, Employee Plans Technical and Actuarial Division. The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Director and Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division may not be redelegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph to Regional Commissioners may be redelegated not lower than Assistant Regional Commissioner. The authority delegated in this paragraph to the District Directors of Key Districts may be redelegated, but not below Chiefs, Technical Review Staffs, Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations Division. The authority delegated in this paragraph to Service Center Directors may be redelegated, but not lower than Section Chiefs (or their equivalent). The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Director, National Computer Center and Director Data Center may be redelegated, but not lower than Branch Chiefs (or their equivalent).

(b) Returns or return information, including compensation information, to officers and employees of the Department of Labor and Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation for the administration of Titles I and IV of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974 [Pub. L. 93-406, 1974-3 C.B. 1], upon written request and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(1)(2) and the Treasury Regulations thereunder. The returns or return information which may be disclosed under this paragraph include:

(i) Upon specific written request, the information specified in 26 CFR 301.6103(1)(2)-1(a), 2(a), 3(b)(1), and 3(b)(2);

(ii) Upon receipt by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of an annual written request, the information specified in 26 CFR 301.6103(1)(2)-3(a);

(iii) Upon receipt by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue of a general written request, information specified in 26 CFR 301.6103(1)(2)-3(d).

The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Assistant Commissioner and Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Employee Plans, and Exempt Organizations) may be redelegated, but not lower than Branch Chiefs, Employee Plans Technical and Actuarial Division. The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Director and Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division may not be redelegated. The authority delegated in this paragraph to Regional Commissioners may be redelegated not lower than Assistant Regional Commissioner. The authority delegated in this paragraph to District Directors of the Key Districts may be redelegated, but not lower than Chiefs, Technical Review Staff, Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations Division; Group Managers, Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations Division; and Employee Plans Specialist. The authority delegated in this paragraph to Service Center Directors may be redelegated, but not lower than Section Chiefs (or their equivalent). The authority delegated in this paragraph to the Director, National Computer Center and Director, Data Center may be redelegated, but not lower than Branch Chiefs (or their equivalent). The authority delegated in this paragraph is also delegated to the Director, Appeals Division; Regional Director of Appeals; Chief Appeals Office; and Associate Chief, Appeals Office and may not be redelegated.

(11) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Operations); Assistant Commissioner (Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations); and Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations) are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of drafts of proposed exemptions or of proposed denials of exemption requests, denial letters, and copies of information submitted by taxpayers requesting exemptions to the proper officers of the Department of Labor for consultation and coordination as required by IRC 4975(c)(2). The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated not lower than Branch Chiefs, Employee Plans Technical and Actuarial Division.

(12) Disclosure of information to appropriate Federal, State or local law enforcement officials may be made by Internal Revenue Service employees, and employees of the Office of Chief counsel, concerning non-tax crimes which do not involve return information or the income or other financial information of an individual or entity, in accordance with the provisions of Chapter (35)00 of the Disclosure of Official Information Handbook, IRM 1272. In situations where there is a question as to whether the information to be disclosed is or is not return information, such as those described in IRM 1272, the Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (support and Services); Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors are authorized to approve or deny such requests for disclosure. The Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) and the Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) should act in all such matters only after coordination with the Disclosure Litigation Division, Office of Chief Counsel. Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center Directors; and Assistant District and Service Center Directors should act in all such matters only after coordination with the Office of Regional or District Counsel, as appropriate. The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(13) The authority vested in the Commissioner of Internal Revenue by 26 CFR 301.9000-1 is delegated by this Order to the Deputy Commissioner. It is also delegated to the following officials to the extent described below. [No authorization is needed in cases referred to the Department of Justice which are discussed in paragraph (1)(c) where the testimony or disclosure is made on behalf of the government.]

(a) Regional Commissioners are authorized to determine whether officers and employees of the Internal Revenue Service assigned to their regions, including employees of the Office of the Regional Counsel, but not including employees of the Regional Inspector, will be permitted to testify or produce Service records because of a request or demand for the disclosure of such records or information. The Regional Commissioners should act in all such matters only after coordination with the Office of Regional Counsel. However, the personal testimony of a Regional Commissioner shall require authorization in accordance with (b) below. The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated. (See (d) and (e) below.) The authority delegated in this paragraph shall not extend to the disclosure of Internal Revenue Service records and information in response to a subpoena or request or other order of the Tax Court. (See General Counsel Order No. 4, 44 Federal Register 58017 (1979), which provide the authority for disclosure of Internal Revenue Service records and information in tax court proceedings.)

(b) The Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) and the Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) are authorized to determine whether Regional Commissioners, officers and employees of the Internal Revenue Service assigned to the National Office, including employees of the Office of Chief Counsel, and employees assigned to Regional Inspectors will be permitted to testify or produce Service records because of a request or demand for the disclosure of such records or information. The Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) or the Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) should act in all such matters only after coordination with the Disclosure Litigation Division, Office of Chief Counsel. The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated. (See (d) and (e) below.) The authority delegated in this paragraph shall not extend to the disclosure of Internal Revenue Service records and information in response to a subpoena or request or other order of the Tax Court. (See General Counsel Order No. 4, 44 Federal Register 58017 (1979).)

(c) The District Directors and Service Center Directors are authorized to determine whether officers and employees of the Internal Revenue Service assigned to their district or service center (including regional appellate employees located in the district) will be permitted to testify or produce Service records because of a request or demand for disclosure of such records or information. For purposes of this paragraph employees of the Office of the District Counsel come under the authority of the District Director. Employees of the Regional Inspector are covered under paragraph (b), above. The District and Service Centers Directors should act in all such matters only after coordination with the Office of the District Counsel. However, the personal testimony of a District Director or Service Center Director shall require authorization in accordance with (a) above. The authority in this paragraph may not be redelegated. (See (d) and (e) below.) The authority delegated in this paragraph shall not extend to the disclosure of Internal Revenue Service records and information in response to a subpoena or request or other order of the Tax Court. (See General Counsel Order No. 4, 44 Federal Register 58017 (1979).)

(d) The authority delegated in paragraphs (a), (b) and (c) shall not extend to testimony or the production of Service records because of a request or demand for the disclosure of such records or information:

(i) by a Congressional Committee;

(ii) Involving a disclosure to the President or certain other persons pursuant to IRC 6103(g);

(iii) Involving a disclosure to the Comptroller General pursuant to IRC 6103(i)(7); or

(iv) Involving a disclosure to correct a misstatement of fact pursuant to IRC 6103(k)(3).

(e) The Director, General Legal Services Division and Assistant Regional Counsel (GLS), with the concurrence of the Director, General Legal Services Division are authorized to determine whether officers and employees of the Internal Revenue Service, including employees of the Office of Chief Counsel, will be permitted to testify or produce internal revenue records or information because of a request or demand for the disclosure of such records or information, if the request or demand is made in connection with personnel or claimant representative matters under the jurisdiction of the General Legal Services Division for which they have been delegated authority to disclose returns or return information as described in paragraph 1(d). The authority delegated above in this paragraph to the Director, General Legal Services Division may be redelegated only to the Assistant Director, General Legal Services Division and to Branch Chiefs and attorneys of the Office of Chief counsel directly involved in such matters. This paragraph does not limit the authority granted in (a), (b), or (c) above.

(f) The authority delegated to Regional Commissioners and District and Service Center Directors in paragraphs (a) and (c) shall not extend to testimony or the production of Service records because of a request or demand for the disclosure of such records or information which may require a disclosure to a competent authority under a tax convention, whether or not such records or information were previously disclosed pursuant to such convention. The Associate Commissioner (Policy and Management), Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) and the Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) should act in all such matters only after authorization by the appropriate United States competent authority. (See Delegation Order 114, as revised).

(g) In addition to paragraphs (a), (b), (c) and (e) above, authority is further delegated to Regional Commissioners; Assistant Regional Commissioners (Resource Management); Regional Inspectors; Regional and District Counsel; District and Service Center Directors; and Director, Data Center, to release or, in specific instances, authorize the release of information from the leave and payroll records of employees under their jurisdiction, and to the Fiscal Management Officer to release or, in specific instances, authorize the release of information from the leave and payroll records of all employees of the National Office, when such information is requested or subpoenaed in connection with private litigation, upon determination that release of the information would not be detrimental to the Internal Revenue Service. This delegation does not include authority to release or authorize the release of information contained in official personnel folders, which is covered by IRM 0293. When any uncertainty exists as to the availability of furnishing leave and pay information in a particular case, the matter should be referred to the national Office, Attention: PM:PRF:F, with a complete report of the circumstances. The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

The provisions of this paragraph (13(a)-(g)) are limited to the authorization of testimony or the production of documents pursuant to a request or demand as referred to in paragraphs (d)(1)(i) and (ii) of 26 CFR 301.9000-1 and does not extend to or affect other disclosure authority previously delegated in paragraphs (6) and (9) of this order. Furthermore, in instances where it is anticipated that the testimony or production of Service records by a Chief Counsel attorney will involve matters which may fall within the attorney-client privilege, the determination of whether to waive the privilege, as well as the authority to authorize the testimony or production shall lie with the Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) and Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services) who will act in these matters only after coordination with the Disclosure Litigation Division. In instances involving Regional or District Counsel attorneys and the attorney-client privilege, authority shall lie with the Regional Commissioner who will act in these matters only after coordination with the Regional Counsel.

(14) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Data Processing); Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Regional Commissioners; Director, Software Division; Director, National Computer Center; and Service Center Directors are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of individual master file information to the head of a Federal, State or local child support enforcement agency or an authorized supervisory official under a contractual agreement entered into pursuant to Delegation Order 100, as revised, Revenue Procedure 78-10, and subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(l)(6)(A)(i). Such contractual agreement should be entered into only after coordination with the Director or Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated to any supervisory level deemed appropriate.

(15) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Policy and Management); Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Regional Commissioners; and Service Center directors are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of return information to the head of a Federal, State or local child support enforcement agency or an authorized supervisory official under a contractual agreement entered into pursuant to Delegation Order 100, as revised, Revenue Procedure 78-10, ans subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(1)(6)(A)(ii). Such contractual agreement should be entered into only after coordination with the Director, Disclosure and Security Division. The authority delegated in this paragraph may be redelegated to any supervisory level deemed appropriate.

(16) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Policy and Management); Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Deputy Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Regional Commissioners; Service Center Directors; Director, National Computer Center, and Director, Data Center are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of information returns filed pursuant to part III of subchapter A of IRC chapter 61 to designated personnel of the Social Security Administration for the purpose of carrying out an effective return processing program in accordance with section 232 of the Social Security Act and pursuant to IRC 6103(1)(5). The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(17) The Deputy Commissioner, Deputy Chief Counsel and Associate Chief Counsel (Litigation) are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of returns and return information to the designated officers and employees of the Department of Justice pursuant to a written request from the Attorney General, the Deputy Attorney General, or an Assistant Attorney General in a matter involving tax administration, subject to the conditions prescribed in IRC 6103(h)(3)(B). The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(18) The Deputy Commissioner; Associate Commissioner (Data Processing); Assistant Commissioner (Computer Services); Assistant Commissioner (Returns and Information Processing); Director, Disclosure and Security Division; Assistant Director, Disclosure and Security Division; Service Center Directors and Director, National Computer Center are authorized upon written request to disclose, or in specific instances, authorize the disclosure of return information pursuant to IRC 6103(h)(6) with respect to the address and status of an individual as a nonresident alien, citizen or resident of the United States to the Social Security Administration or the Railroad Retirement Board for purposes of carrying out responsibilities for withholding tax from social security benefits under IRC 1441.

(19) At the request of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue and with the approval of the Joint Committee on Taxation, the following officials may disclose information with respect to a specific taxpayer pursuant to IRC 6103(k)(3): Deputy Commissioner; Regional Commissioners; District and Service Center Directors; Associate Commissioner (Operations); Associate Commissioner (Policy and Management); Assistant Commissioner (Support and Services); Assistant Commissioner (Examination); Assistant Commissioner (Collection); Assistant Commissioner (Criminal Investigation); Assistant Commissioner (Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations); Director, Disclosure and Security Division; any individual who is specifically designated by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. The authority delegated in this paragraph may not be redelegated.

(20) Associate Commissioner (Data Processing); Assistant Commissioner (Returns and Information Processing); Director, National Computer Center; and Director, Disclosure and Security Division, are authorized to disclose or, in specific instances, to authorize the disclosure of return information from the Information Returns Processing Master File under a contractual agreement entered into pursuant to delegation Order No. 100, as revised, and Revenue Procedure 85-21 [1985-1 C.B. 539], as revised, to Federal, State, and Local agencies administering certain welfare programs, subject to the conditions of IRC 6103(1)(7). Such contractual agreements may be entered into only after coordination with the Director, Disclosure and Security Division. The authority in this paragraph may be redelegated to any supervisory level deemed appropriate, but only by the officials named above.

Dated: July 26, 1985.

Approved:

JEAN OWENS,
Deputy Chief Counsel.

Dated: August 1, 1985.

Approved:

JAMES I. OWENS,
Deputy Commissioner.

Plan Amendments to comply with TEFRA and Certain Other Qualification Requirements

Notice 85-14

Notice 83-4, 1983-1 C.B. 532, described the time periods within which plans must be amended to conform to TEFRA, Pub. L. 97-248, 1982-2 C.B. 462, as well as certain other requirements of the law. The notice indicated a plan generally must be amended no later than the end of the first plan year beginning after 1983.

Amendments to section 1.401(b)-1 of the Income Tax Regulations, contained in T.D. 7997, 1985-1 C.B. 136, provide that a plan provision which results in the failure of the plan to meet the qualification requirements of the Internal Revenue Code because of a change effected by TEFRA is considered a disqualifying provision for which there is a remedial amendment period during which the plan may be retroactively amended to satisfy the qualification requirements of the Code. The regulations generally allow more time for conforming to TEFRA than Notice 83-4. Accordingly, Notice 83-4 is hereby modified to provide that plans may be amended to meet the TEFRA requirements during the remedial amendment period specified in section 1.401(b)-1 of the regulations.

As indicated in Notice 85-5, 1985-1 C.B. 427, the Service has determined that this remedial amendment period will be applied as if the employer applied for, and received, an automatic extension of time for filing tax returns, pursuant to section 6081 of the Code, and section 1.6081 of the Income Tax Regulations, whether or not such a request for an extension of time actually has been filed. For example, calendar year corporate taxpayers will have until September 15, 1985 to amend plans to comply with TEFRA.

Notice 83-4 is further modified to provide that pursuant to the authority contained in section 7805(b), plans are not required to be amended to conform to the following requirements until the time they are required to conform to TEFRA: (1) final regulations under section 401(j) (concerning defined benefit plans covering self-employed individuals or shareholder employees) (see Notice 82-9, 1982-1 C.B. 358); (2) Section 414(m) (concerning affiliated Service groups) (see Notices 82-7 and 82-8, 1982-1 C.B. 356, 357); (3) Section 414(n) (concerning employee leasing) (see Notice 84-11, 1984-2 C.B. 469); (4) Rev. Rul. 79-90, 1979-1 C.B. 155 (relating to actuarial assumptions); (5) Notice 81-2, 1981-1 C.B. 613 and Notice 81-10 1981-2 C.B. 543 (dealing with final regulations under section 415 of the Code); (6) Rev. Rul. 81-211, 1981-2 C.B. 98; (full vesting at normal retirement age rather than normal retirement date); (7) Notice 82-23, 1982-2 C.B. 752 (concerning final suspension of benefits regulations); (8) Rev. Rul. 84-45, 1984-1 C.B. 115 (regarding integration of offset plans); and (9) Treasury regulation 1.401-4(c)(7)(vi), T.D. 7934, 1984-1 C.B. 119, 120 (concerning final regulations on early termination of qualified plans). Such amendments must be effective as of the first day to which the respective qualification requirements apply to the plan.

As noted in Notice 82-19, 1982-2 C.B. 749, the revisions made to section 415 of the Code have an earlier effective date than other TEFRA changes, and amendments to comply with the TEFRA changes to section 415 may have been necessary at a date earlier than the date specified in section 1.401(b)-1 to prevent excess accruals. Any plan that used any of the simplified amendments relating to section 415, as set forth in Notice 83-4, must be amended to provide sufficient specificity in the plan to satisfy fully the definitely determinable requirement by the time it is required to be amended.

This notice applies both to individually designed plans and adopters of master or prototype plans. However, master or prototype plan adopters described in section 12 of Rev. Proc. 84-23, 1984-1 C.B. 47, will have until the later of the dates specified in the preceding paragraphs of this notice or section 12 of the revenue procedure to amend their plans to retroactively conform to the above requirements without loss of qualified status.

Notice 85-15

Section 4989(b) of the Internal Revenue Code requires the determination of an inflation adjustment factor for use in computing the windfall profit tax.

The Service has determined that, for oil removed during the October-December quarter of 1985, the inflation adjustments are as follows:

Tier 1 or Tier 2 oil	0.4249
Tier 3 oil	0.6061

Worksheets for computation of the windfall profit tax are included in the Instructions for Form 6047, Windfall Profit Tax, and an explanation of the inflation adjustment may be found in the Specific Instructions for Line 4 of the worksheets.

Regulations Governing the Discipline of Appraisers Against Whom Aiding and Abetting Penalties Under the Internal Revenue Code Have Been Assessed

Notice 85-18

SUMMARY: This document contains the final regulations implementing section 156 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984, 98 Stat. 695 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 203]. Such legislation provides for the disqualification appraisals and appraisers' testimony in connection with Treasury Department or Internal Revenue Service proceedings with respect to any appraiser who has been assessed an aiding and abetting penalty under 26 U.S.C. 6701(a) after July 18, 1984.

DATE: These regulations are effective October 17, 1985. These regulations apply to any appraiser who has been assessed an aiding and abetting penalty under 26 U.S.C. 6701(a) after July 18, 1984.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mr. Leslie S. Shapiro, Director of Practice, Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D.C. 20224, (202) 535-6787.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

On February 20, 1985, a notice of proposed rulemaking was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (50 FR 7075) [Notice 85-7, 1985-1 C.B. 428] to amend the regulations in 31 CFR Part 10 by implementing section 156 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984, 58 Stat. 695. The notice proposed regulations providing for the disqualification of appraiser testimony and appraisals by an appraiser who has been assessed a penalty under 26 U.S.C. 6701(a) for aiding and abetting the understatement of tax. A 90-day period for comments was accorded the public. Five comments were received. They will be addressed below:

1. The commenter believes that there should be some sort of regulatory measures to standardize appraisal procedures. However, the commenter does not feel "such procedures" could be carried out effectively. (This reference presumedly is in reference to the regulation of appraisal services by the government.) Rather, a self-policing arrangement (within the profession) should be employed because of the many variables involved in appraising.

The comment deals with the regulation of appraisal services. We concur in the observation that appraisers may benefit from mechanisms established within the profession to assure professionally responsible appraisal services. However, the subject of the comment is outside the scope of section 156 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984. Therefore, it is not addressed in the proposed regulations and is not an appropriate subject for the final rule. This factor does not adversely affect any consideration being given the adoption of mechanisms within the profession to standardize appraisal procedures of those which may be forthcoming.

2. The comment supports the procedures set forth in the proposal. However, concern is expressed with respect to the need to establish standards applicable to real estate appraisals that could be used for guidance in Internal Revenue Service evaluations of real estate appraisals. The comment expresses the belief that a joint effort by the Internal Revenue Service and appraiser societies could develop standards that would be mutually useful.

The concept of establishing professional standards to the extent feasible is one which appears meritorious. However, it is one not directly related to the proposed regulations or to their statutory basis. Any implementation of the recommendation is a matter that should be addressed in a forum other than this rulemaking procedure.

3. The commenter expresses concern relative to a perceived inconsistency in the proposed regulations. The proposal provides that the appraisals of a person who has been disqualified will be preserved with respect to those (appraisals) provided before the date of disqualification. However, a similar provision is not made for the testimony of an appraiser regarding appraisals issued before the date of disqualification. The commenter believes such omission will work to the detriment of the taxpayers.

While the concern expressed in the comment is recognized, we do not concur in its theory. To permit an appraiser who is disqualified to continue appraisal service either in issuing appraisals or in providing testimony in connection with Treasury Department matters would be at variance with the statutory basis of the regulations and with the integrity of the discipline program. We believe it in fact is one of the very things the statute and regulations are designed to prohibit. An appraiser who is found to have engaged in conduct which has warranted the assessment of an aiding and abetting penalty has the potential of adversely affecting taxpayers responsibilities relative to our tax system, a potential the proposed regulations wishes to prevent.

However, we recognize that taxpayers may have placed good faith reliance on appraisals the disqualified appraiser issued prior to his/her disqualification. Consequently, the proposed regulations preserve the ability of taxpayers to present those appraisals for the purpose of demonstrating such good faith reliance. To enable a disqualified appraiser to provide testimony regarding such appraisals would not be directly related to the issue of good faith reliance.

4. The comment states, in effect, that section 156 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984 does not reflect its legislative history.

In this connection, it refers to the absence of clear guidelines as to (1) the definition of a "qualified appraiser" and (2) authority to disqualify appraisers who have engaged in misconduct in areas other than aiding and abetting the understatement of tax. The comment points out the dichotomy between these factors and the authorization given the Treasury Department with respect to others who perform professional services in connection with the Internal Revenue Service.

The comment appears to be directed at the limited nature of the legislation itself rather than at the proposed regulations. We find nothing in the comment indicating the proposal does not reflect the language of the statute or that the proposal contains provisions which should be modified in the final rule. Consequently, the comment does not affect this rulemaking procedure.

5. The comment expresses full support of the intent and purpose of the proposal. In order to eliminate any problems that cause violations of the regulations, it is suggested that an appraiser be a member in good standing of a national appraiser organization, be licensed by the government and that the appraisal fee for items to be used for a tax deduction not be based on a percentage of the appraised value. In addition, the commenter believes the appraiser who is subject to regulations by the Internal Revenue Service should be governed in the same manner as those who appear before the Internal Revenue Service, e.g. attorneys. Further, appraisers should be required to provide statements with their appraisals setting forth the bases for the appraisals.

The comment makes suggestions which are in the interests of the professional status of appraisers and the enhancement of the quality of appraisal services relative to Internal Revenue Service matters. However, the suggestions are outside the purview of the statutory amendment precipitating the proposed regulations and cannot be considered for inclusion in the final rule.

Because the proposed regulations are not affected by the comments received, the proposal as it appeared in the FEDERAL REGISTER is adopted by this Final Rule.

Special Analyses

This rule relates soley to professional services in connection with Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department proceedings and is not expected to have any significant economic consequences.

Therefore, it has been determined that this rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and a regulatory impact analysis is not required. It is hereby certified that this rule is not expected to have a significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, a regulatory flexibility analysis is not required.

Drafting Information

The principal author of these regulations is Mr. Leslie S. Shapiro, Director of Practice, Department of the Treasury. Other present and former personnel in the Treasury Department participated in the development of the regulations, both as to substance and style.

Subpart D—Rules Applicable to Disqualification of Appraisers

(a) Authority to disqualify. Pursuant to section 156 of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984, 98 Stat. 695, amending 31 U.S.C. 330, the Secretary of the Treasury, after due notice and opportunity for hearing may disqualify any appraiser with respect to whom a penalty has been assessed after July 18, 1984, under section 6701(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended (26 U.S.C. 6701(a)).

(b) Effect of disqualification. If any appraiser is disqualified pursuant to 31 U.S.C. 330 and this Subpart:

(1) Appraisals by such appraiser shall not have any probative effect in any administrative proceeding before the Department of the Treasury or the Internal Revenue Service; and

(2) Such appraiser shall be barred from presenting evidence or testimony in any such administrative proceeding. Paragraph (b)(1) shall apply to appraisals made by such appraiser after the effective date of disqualification, but shall not apply to appraisals made by the appraiser on or before such date. Notwithstanding the forgoing sentence, an appraisal otherwise barred from admission into evidence pursuant to paragraph (b)(1) may be admitted into evidence solely for the purpose of determining the taxpayer's reliance in good faith on such appraisal. Paragraph (b)(2) shall apply to the presentation of testimony or evidence in any administrative proceeding after the date of such disqualification, regardless of whether such testimony or evidence would pertain to an appraisal made prior to such date.

§10.78 Institution of proceeding.

(a) In general. Whenever the Director of Practice is advised or becomes aware that a penalty has been assessed against an appraiser under 26 U.S.C. 6701(a), he/she may reprimand such person or institute a proceeding for disqualification of such appraiser through the filing of a complaint. Irrespective of whether a proceeding for disqualification has been instituted against an appraiser, the Director of Practice may confer with an appraiser against whom such a penalty has been assessed concerning such penalty.

(b) Voluntary disqualification. In order to avoid the initiation or conclusion of a disqualification proceeding, an appraiser may offer his/her consent to disqualification. The Director of Practice, in his/her discretion, may disqualify an appraiser in accordance with the consent offered.

§10.79 Contents of complaint.

(a) Charges. A proceeding for disqualification of an appraiser shall be instituted through the filing of a complaint, which shall give a plain and concise description of the allegations that constitute the basis for the proceeding. A complaint shall be deemed sufficient if it refers to the penalty previously imposed on the respondent under section 6701(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended (26 U.S.C. 6701(a)), and advises him/her of the institution of the proceeding.

(b) Demand for answer. In the complaint, or in a separate paper attached to the complaint, notification shall be given of the place and time within which the respondent shall file his/her answer, which time shall not be less than 15 days from the date of service of the complaint, and notice shall be given that a decision by default may be rendered against the respondent in the event there is failure to file an answer.

§10.80 Service of complaint and other papers.

(a) Complaint. The complaint or a copy thereof may be served upon the respondent by certified mail, or first-class mail as hereinafter provided, by delivering it to the respondent or his/her attorney or agent of record either in person or by leaving it at the office or place of business of the respondent, attorney or agent, or in any other manner that has been agreed to by the respondent. Where the service is by certified mail, the return post office receipt duly signed by or on behalf of the respondent shall be proof of service. If the certified mail is not claimed or accepted by the respondent and is returned undelivered, complete service may be made by mailing the complaint to the respondent by first-class mail, addressed to the respondent at the last address known to the Director of Practice. If service is made upon the respondent in person or by leaving the complaint at the office or place of business of the respondent, the verified return by the person making service, setting forth the manner of service, shall be proof of such service.

(b) Service of papers other than complaint. any paper other than the complaint may be served as provided in paragraph (a) of this section or by mailing the paper by first-class mail to the respondent at the last address known to the Director of Practice, or by mailing the paper by first-class mail to the respondent's attorney or agent of record. Such mailing shall constitute complete service. Notices may be served upon the respondent or his/her attorney or agent of record by telegraph.

(c) Filing of papers. Whenever the filing of a paper is required or permitted in connection with a disqualification proceeding under this Subpart or by rule or order of the Administrative Law Judge, the paper shall be filed with the Director of Practice, Treasury Department, Internal Revenue Service, Washington, D.C. 20224. All papers shall be filed in duplicate.

(a) Filing. The respondent's answer shall be filed in writing within the time specified in the compliant or notice of institution of the proceeding, unless on application the time is extended by the Director of Practice or the Administrative Law Judge. The answer shall be filed in duplicate with the Director of Practice.

(b) Contents. The answer shall contain a statement of facts that constitute the grounds of defense, and it shall specifically admit or deny each allegation set forth in the complaint, except that the respondent shall not deny a material allegation in the complaint that he/she knows to be true, or state that he/she is without sufficient information to form a belief when in fact he/she possesses such information.

(c) Failure to deny or answer allegations in the complaint. Every allegation in the complaint which is not denied in the answer shall be deemed to be admitted and may be considered as proved, and no further evidence in respect of such allegation need be adduced at a hearing. Failure to file an answer within the time prescribed in the notice to the respondent, except as the time for answer is extended by the Director of Practice or the Administrative Law Judge, shall constitute an admission of the allegations of the complaint and a waiver of hearing, and the Administrative Law Judge may make his/her decision by default without a hearing or further procedure.

If it appears that the respondent in his/her answer, falsely and in bad faith, denies a material allegation of fact in the complaint or states that the respondent has no knowledge sufficient to form a belief, when he/she in fact possesses such information, or if it appears that the respondent has knowingly introduced false testimony during proceedings for his/her disqualification, the Director of Practice may thereupon file supplemental charges against the respondent. Such supplemental charges may be tried with other charges in the case, provided the respondent is given due notice thereof and is afforded an opportunity to prepare a defense thereto.

§10.83 Reply to answer.

No reply to the respondent's answer shall be required, and any new matter in the answer shall be deemed to be denied, but the Director of Practice may file a reply in his/her discretion or at the request of the Administrative Law Judge.

§10.84 Proof, variance, amendment of pleadings.

In the case of a variance between the allegations in a pleading and the evidence adduced in support of the pleading, the Administrative Law Judge may order or authorize amendment of the pleading to conform to the evidence; provided, that the party who would otherwise be prejudiced by the amendment is given reasonable opportunity to meet the allegations of the pleading as amended, and the Administrative Law Judge shall make findings on any issue presented by the pleadings as so amended.

§10.85 Motions and requests.

Motions and requests may be filed with the Director of Practice or with the Administrative Law Judge.

§10.86 Representation.

A respondent may appear in person or may be represented by counsel or other representative. The Director of Practice may be represented by an attorney or other employee of the Department of the Treasury.

§10.87 Administrative Law Judge.

(a) Appointment. An Administrative Law Judge appointed as provided by 5 U.S.C. 3105, shall conduct proceedings upon complaints for the disqualification of appraisers.

(b) Powers of Administrative Law Judge. Among other powers, the Administrative Law Judge shall have authority, in connection with any disqualification proceeding assigned or referred to him/her to do the following:

(1) Administer oaths and affirmations;

(2) Make rulings upon motions and requests which rulings may not be appealed from prior to the close of a hearing except at the discretion of the Administrative Law Judge, in extraordinary circumstances;

(3) Determine the time and place of hearing and regulate its course and conduct;

(4) Adopt rules of procedure and modify the same from time to time as occasion requires for the orderly disposition of proceedings;

(5) Rule upon offers of proof, receive relevant evidence, and examine witnesses;

(6) Take or authorize the taking of depositions;

(7) Receive and consider oral or written argument on facts or law;

(8) Hold or provide for the holding of conferences for the settlement or simplification of the issues by consent of the parties;

(9) Perform such acts and take such measures as are necessary or appropriate to the efficient conduct of any proceeding; and

(10) Make initial decisions.

§10.88 Hearings.

(a) In general. The Administrative Law Judge shall preside at the hearing on a complaint for the disqualification of an appraiser. Hearings shall be stenographically recorded and transcribed and the testimony of witnesses shall be taken under oath or affirmation. Hearings will be conducted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 556.

(b) Failure to appear. If either party to the proceeding fails to appear at the hearing after due notice thereof has been sent to him/her, the right to a hearing shall be deemed to have been waived and the administrative Law Judge may make a decision by default against the absent party.

§10.89 Evidence.

(a) In general. The rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law and equity are not controlling in hearings on complaints for the disqualification of appraisers. However, the Administrative Law Judge shall exclude evidence which is irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious.

(b) Depositions. The deposition of any witness taken pursuant to 10.90 may be admitted.

(c) Proof of documents. Official documents, records, and papers of the Internal Revenue Service of the Department of the Treasury shall be admissible in evidence without the production of an officer or employee to authenticate them. Any such documents, records,and papers may be evidenced by a copy attested or identified by an officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service or the Department of the Treasury, as the case may be.

(d) Exhibits. If any document, record, or other paper is introduced in evidence as an exhibit, the Administrative Law Judge may authorize the withdrawal of the exhibit subject to any conditions which he/she deems proper.

(e) Objections. Objections to evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objection relied upon, and the record shall not include argument thereon, except as ordered by the Administrative Law Judge. Rulings on such objections shall be a part of the record. No exception to the ruling is necessary to preserve the rights of the parties.

§10.90 Depositions.

Depositions for use at a hearing may, with the written approval of the Administrative Law Judge, be taken either by the Director of Practice or the respondent or their duly authorized representatives. Depositions may be taken upon oral or written interrogatories, upon not less than 10 days' written notice to the other party before any officer duly authorized to administer an oath for general purposes or before an officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service who is authorized to adminsiter an oath in internal revenue matters. Such notice shall state the names of the witnesses and the time and place where the depositions are to be taken. The requirement of 10 days' notice may be waived by the parties in writing, and depositions may then be taken from the persons and at the times and places mutually agreed to by the parties. When a deposition is taken upon written interrogatories, any cross-examination shall be upon written interrogatories. Copies of such written interrogatories shall be served upon the other party with the notice, and copies of any written cross-interrogation shall be mailed or delivered to the opposing party at least 5 days before the date of taking the depositions, unless the parties mutually agree otherwise. A party upon whose behalf a deposition is taken must file it with the Administrative Law Judge and serve one copy upon the opposing party. Expenses in the reporting of depositions shall be borne by the party at whose instance the deposition is taken.

In cases where the hearing is stenographically reported by a Government contract reporter, copies of the transcript may be obtained from the reporter at rates not to exceed the maximum rates fixed by contract between the Government and the reporter. Where a hearing is stenographically reported by a regular employee of the Internal Revenue Service, a copy thereof will be supplied to the respondent either without charge or upon the payment of a reasonable fee. Copies of exhibits introduced at the hearing or at the taking of depositions will be supplied to the parties upon the payment of a reasonable fee (Sec. 501, Pub. L. 82-137, 65 Stat. 290 (31 U.S.C. 483a)).

§10.92 Proposed findings and conclusions.

Except in cases where the respondent has failed to answer the complaint or where a party has failed to appear at the hearing, the Administrative Law Judge, prior to making a decision, shall afford the parties a reasonable opportunity to submit proposed findings and conclusions and supporting reasons therefor.

§10.93 Decision of the Administrative Law Judge.

As soon as practicable after the conclusion of a hearing and the receipt of any proposed findings and conclusions timely submitted by the parties, the Administrative Law Judge shall make the initial decision in the case. The decision shall include (a) a statement of findings and conclusions, as well as the reasons or basis therefor, upon all the material issues of fact, law, or discretion presented on the record, and (b) an order of disqualification or an order of dismissal of the complaint. The Administrative Law Judge shall file the decision with the Director of Practice and shall transmit a copy thereof to the respondent of his attorney of record. In the absence of an appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury, or review of the decision upon motion of the Secretary, the decision of the Administrative Law Judge shall without further proceedings become the decision of the Secretary of the Treasury 30 days from the date of the Administrative Law Judge's decision.

Within 30 days from the date of the Administrative Law Judge's decision, either party may appeal such decision to the Secretary of the Treasury. If an appeal is by the respondent, the appeal shall be filed with the Director of Practice in duplicate and shall include exceptions to the decision of the Administrative Law Judge and supporting reasons for such exceptions. If an appeal is filed by the Director of Practice, a copy thereof shall be transmitted to the respondent. Within 30 days after receipt of an appeal or copy thereof, the other party may file a reply brief in duplicate with the Director of Practice. If the reply brief is filed by the Director, a copy shall be transmitted to the respondent. Upon the filing of an appeal and a reply brief, if any, the Director of Practice shall transmit the entire record to the Secretary of the Treasury.

§10.95 Decision of the Secretary.

On appeal from or review of the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge, the Secretary of the Treasury shall make the agency decision. In making such decision, the Secretary of the Treasury will review the record or such portions thereof as may be cited by the parties. A copy of the Secretary's decision shall be transmitted to the respondent by the Director of Practice.

§10.96 Final order.

Upon the issuance of a final order disqualifying an appraiser, the Director of Practice shall give notice thereof to appropriate officers and employees of the Internal Revenue Service and to interested departments and agencies of the Federal Government.

§10.97 Petition for reinstatement.

The director of Practice may entertain a petition for reinstatement from any disqualified appraiser after the expiration of 5 years following such disqualification. Reinstatement may not be granted unless the Director of Practice is satisfied that the petitioner, thereafter, is not likely to conduct himself/herself contrary to 26 U.S.C. 6701(a), and that granting such reinstatement would not be contrary to the public interest.

4. The newly designated §10.98 is amended by revising paragraph (a) to read as follows:

§10.98 Records.

(a) Availability. There are made available to public inspection at the Office of Director of Practice the roster of all persons enrolled to practice, the roster of all persons disbarred or suspended from practice, and the roster of all disqualified appraisers. Other records may be disclosed upon specific request, in accordance with the disclosure regulations of the Internal Revenue Service and the Treasury Department.

5. The newly designated §10.99 is revised to read as follows:

§10.99 Effective date of regulations.

The regulations of this Part are effective on October 17, 1985 and shall supersede all prior regulations related to this part.

6. The newly designated §10.100 is revised to read as follows:

§10.100 Saving clause.

Any proceeding for the disbarment or suspension of an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent, instituted but not closed prior to the effective date of these revised regulations, shall not be affected by such regulations. Any proceeding under this Part based on conduct engaged in prior to the effective date of these regulations may be instituted subsequent to such effective date.

Dated: September 23, 1985.

ROBERT M. KIMMITT,
General Counsel.

(Filed by the Office of the Federal Register on October 16, 1985, 8:45 a.m., and published in the issue of the Federal Register for October 17, 1985, 50 F.R. 42014)

Notice 85-19

Section 4989(b) of the Internal Revenue Code requires the determination of an inflation adjustment factor for use in computing the windfall profit tax.

The Service has determined that, for oil removed during the January-March quarter of 1986, the inflation adjustments are as follows:

Tier 1 or Tier 2 oil	0.4326
Tier 3 oil	0.6228

Worksheets for computation of the windfall profit tax are included in the Instructions for Form 6047, Windfall Profit Tax, and an explanation of the inflation adjustment may be found in the Specific Instructions for Line 4 of the worksheets.

	SOUTHWEST REGION
Dallas	Albuquerque, Austin, Cheyenne, Dallas, Denver, Houston, Oklahoma City, Phoenix, Salt Lake City, and Wichita
	WESTERN REGION
Los Angeles	Honolulu, Laguna Niguel, and Los Angeles
San Francisco	Reno, Sacramento, San Jose, and San Francisco
Seattle	Anchorage, Boise, Portland, and Seattle

.02 This list replaces the list found in Section 4 of Rev. Proc. 84-46.

SEC. 4. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

Section 4 of Rev. Proc. 84-46 is modified.

SEC. 5. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective July 1, 1985, the date of its publication in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

---

26 CFR 601.702: Publication and public inspection.
(Also Part 1, Section 6103.)

Rev. Proc. 85-33

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

.01. The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide instructions to federal and state agencies requesting taxpayer address information and to federal agencies requesting tax delinquent account status indicators from the Internal Revenue Service.

.02 These instructions relate to large volume requests of 100 or more items. Information on procedures regarding small volume requests can be obtained by contacting the local Internal Revenue Service district office.

SEC. 2. AUTHORITY

.01 Taxpayer address information can be obtained by an agency under the authority of section 6103(d), (m)(2), (m)(3), and (m)(4) of the Internal Revenue Code.

.02 Section 6103(d) of the Code provides for the disclosure of return information (including address information) to State tax agencies for State tax administration purposes.

.03 Section 6103(m)(2) of the Code provides for the disclosure of address information to federal agencies for their use in collecting federal claims against an individual in accordance with sections 3711, 3717, and 3718 of Title 31 of the United States Code. This section also provides for the redisclosure of a taxpayer's mailing address to a consumer reporting agency, but only to allow for the preparation of a commercial credit report on the taxpayer for use by the requesting federal agency in accordance with the Federal Claims Collection Act of 1966, as amended by the Debt Collection Act of 1982 and codified in sections 3711, et. seq..

.04 Section 6103(m)(3) of the Code allows for the disclosure of a taxpayer's mailing address to the National Institute for Occupational Health Safety and (NIOSH) soley for locating individuals who are or may have been exposed to occupational hazards to determine the status of their health or to inform them of the possible need for medical care and treatment.

.05 Section 6103(m)(4) of the Code allows for the disclosure of address information to the Secretary of Education for purposes of collecting defaulted student loans made from the fund established under Part B or E, Title IV, Higher Education Act of 1965 or made under section 3(a)(1) of the Migration and Refugee Assistance Act of 1962 to a student of an institution of higher education.

.06 Section 6103(1)(3) of the Code authorizes the Service to disclose a Tax Delinquent Account Status Indicator to federal agencies administering any included federal loan program. For purposes of this paragraph, the term "included federal loan program" means any program under which the United States or a federal agency makes, guarantees, or insures loans, and with respect to which there is in effect a determination by the Director of the Office of Management and Budget (which has been published in the Federal Register) that the application of this paragraph to such program will substantially prevent or reduce future delinquencies under such program. A listing of included Federal loan programs was published in the Federal Register dated December 27, 1982, 47 F.R. 57595.

SEC. 3. BACKGROUND

.01 The information provided will be extracted monthly from the Internal Revenue Service Individual Master File (IMF) and Business Master File (BMF) located at the Internal Revenue Service National Computer Center (NCC) in Martinsburg, West Virginia. The IMF contains tax accounts of individuals. The BMF contains tax accounts of business entities (i.e., corporations, sub-chapter S corporations, partnerships, exempt organizations and estates.)

.02 IMF Address Requests may be made on magnetic tape or computer punch cards.

.03 Tax Delinquent Account Status Indicator Requests and BMF Address Requests must be made on magnetic tape.

.04 The Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) provides an indication whether the taxpayer's account would be found on the IMF or BMF. Accounts are established on the IMF under Social Security Numbers (SSN, format xxx-xx-xxxx). Accounts are established on the BMF under Employer Identification Numbers (EIN, format xx-xxxxxxx), except for estates, which appear on the BMF with an SSN.

.05 Data will be extracted from the IMF and BMF based on the existence of a match between the master file and the data record submitted by the requester. Both the Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) and name control on the data record request must match with a record on the Master File before any data is extracted. Without a match, the Service will not be able to provide the requested data. See Section 15 for instructions for determining Name Control.

.06 If unsure as to whether an account would appear on the IMF or BMF it may be expedient to request information from both the IMF and the BMF.

.07 Accounts for married individuals are sometimes established on the IMF using the SSN of one of the individuals as the control or primary SSN. Submissions for IMF extracts will first be run against the Internal Revenue Service Spouse-Primary SSN Record File to determine the primary SSN. Although the primary SSN identified will be used in the IMF extract process, the SSN shown on the output tape will be that provided by the requesting agency.

SEC. 4. APPLICATION FOR INCLUSION IN PROGRAM

.01 Federal agencies wishing to receive data under sections 6103(1)(3) or (m)(2) for debt collection purposes should submit their applications to:

Internal Revenue Service
1111 Constitution Ave., N.W.
Director, Disclosure and Security Division, PM:S:DS
Washington, D.C. 20224

The application should indicate whether the agency wishes to enter into an agreement to receive address data, TDA data or both. The application should also indicate whether data will be requested from the IMF, BMF, or both, and whether the request submissions will be made via tapes or punch cards.

.02 Federal or state agencies wishing to receive data under sections other than 6103(1)(3) or (m)(2) should also submit their application to the above address. The application should indicate whether data will be requested from the IMF, BMF, or both, and whether the request submissions will be made via magnetic tape or punch cards.

.03 A request under section 6103(m)(2) of the Code must meet the following criteria:

(i) It must be in writing and be signed by the head of the agency or a designee. "Head of agency" means the head of an executive or legislative department, agency, or instrumentality;

(ii) If the request is signed by a designee, it must state that the authority to collect or compromise a federal claim under sections 3711, 3717, and 3718 of Title 31 of the U.S. Code has been delegated to that individual, and a copy of the delegation order must be submitted with the initial request:

(iii) It must indicate that it involves a claim for money or property arising out of the activities of, or referred to, the requesting agency;

(iv) It must state that the information will be used by proper agency officers, employees, or agents in locating the taxpayer to collect or compromise a federal claim against the taxpayer in accordance with sections 3711, 3717, and 3718 of Title 31 of the U.S. Code.

.04 A request under Section 6103(m)(3) of the Code must meet the following conditions:

(i) It must be in writing and be signed by the responsible NIOSH official;

(ii) It must state that the addresses will be used by officers and employees of NIOSH solely for locating individuals who are or may have been exposed to occupational hazards in order to determine the status or their health or to inform them of the possible need for medical treatment, and;

(iii) It must state that the addresses will be disclosed to third parties only for locating such individuals to determine the status of their health, or to advise them of the possible need for medical care.

.05 A request under section

6103(m)(4) of the Code must meet the following conditions:

(i) It must be in writing and be signed by the Secretary of Education and must specify that section 6103(m)(4) is the statutory authority for the request;

(ii) It must specify that the persons whose addresses are requested are in default on loans made under Part B or E of Title IV of the Higher Education Act of 1965 or under section 3(a)(1) of the Migration and Refugee Act of 1962, and;

(iii) It must state that the address information will be disclosed solely to persons authorized by section 6103(m)(4) to receive it and solely for the purposes in section 6103(m)(4).

.06 A request under section 6103(1)(3) of the code must meet the following conditions:

(i) It must be made in writing and be signed by an officer or employee of the agency administering an included Federal loan program;

(ii) It must state the statutory authority for the disclosure, i.e. section 6103(1)(3);

(iii) It must briefly explain the purpose for which the information is sought and state the intended use of the information.

.07 A request under section 6103(d) of the code must meet the following conditions:

(i) It must be made in writing and be signed by the head of the state tax agency;

(ii) It must contain the name, title and office location of the state tax agency representative who is to inspect or receive the address information on behalf of the agency;

(iii) It must state the specific state tax law which the agency is charged with administering;

(iv) It must state the agency's specific tax administration need for the information and an explanation of how such information will be used to satisfy that need, and;

(v) It must contain an agreement to all of the safeguard requirements imposed by section 6103(p)(4) of the Code and any additional safeguard requirements imposed by the Service.

.08 Upon receipt and approval of an application from an agency, the Service will prepare Form 5181, Agreement Covering Reimbursable Services (see Exhibit A). The requesting agency will be provided with the prepared agreement.

.09 The requesting agency will complete boxes 5a, b, and c and 9a, b, and c of Form 5181. The person indicated in box 5a will be the person coordinating requests and receipt of data from the Service. The signature in box 9a must be of an authorized agency head or other delegated official.

.10 The original of the signed agreement should be returned to the Service at the address indicated in 01. above.

.11 The Service will receive the signed agreement from agencies. After signature of the Service's approving official is obtained, a copy of the agreement will be returned to the requesting agency. Upon receipt of the signed agreement, the agency may begin making submissions for the type of data specified in the agreement.

.12 Each approved agreement returned to a requesting agency will provide an "Agency Code(s)" to be used in all data requests. Distinct agency codes will be provided for each type of request.

SEC. 5. LIMITATIONS AND SAFEGUARDS

.01 Officers and employees who are entitled to access to this information must not redisclose the information except as authorized by section 6103 of the Code.

.02 Officers and employees of federal and state agencies who disclose return information in a manner or for a purpose not authorized by section 6103 of the Code are subject to the criminal penalty provisions of section 7213. Federal agencies and officers and employees of state agencies who disclose return information in a manner or for a purpose not authorized by section 6103 are also subject to the civil damages provisions of section 7431.

.03 Any unauthorized disclosure of return information must be reported to the nearest Internal Revenue Service Regional Inspector. The name, address, and telephone number of this individual may be obtained from the disclosure officer at the Internal Revenue Service district in which the agency is located.

.04 Return information which is obtained pursuant to section 6103(d) and (1)(3) is subject to the safeguarding, recordkeeping, and reporting requirements of section 6103(p)(4) of the Code. If return information is obtained pursuant to section 6103(m)(2) or (m)(4) and is subsequently redisclosed to an agent, then both the federal agency receiving the information from the Service and the agent are subject to the safeguard provisions of section 6103(p)(4).

.05 If the return information becomes a part of the agency case file regarding a specific taxpayer, the case file must be segregated to the maximum extent possible and safeguarded under the terms and conditions of section 6103(p)(4). Destruction of return information is also governed by section 6103(p)(4).

.06 An agency subject to section 6103(p)(4) must submit a safeguard procedures report within 30 days of initial receipt of the return information. The report will detail the security accorded the information, the individuals who may request and have access to the information, the flow of the information once the agency has received it, as well as other information which will give a comprehensive picture of the need for, the use of, and the disposal of, the return information. Publication 1075 gives additional information about the safeguard procedures report, including the address where the safeguard procedures report must be sent, and may be obtained from the Internal Revenue Service district disclosure officer in the district in which the agency is located.

.07 The agency must also submit an annual safeguard activity report giving current information on its safeguard program. The information required for this report is also detailed in Publication 1075.

.02 Punch card input will be converted to tape at the Service Centers and shipped to NCC for matching.

.03 Prior to tape conversion, validity checks will be performed on punch cards at the Service Center. Cards containing errors (e.g., an alphabetic character in the Social Security Number, a Social Security Number outside the range of numbers assigned for use by the Social Security Administration, etc.) will be screened out and returned to the customer. These cards will not be converted to tape for matching.

.04 Include a transmittal letter with each shipment. The transmittal should identify the punch cards as input to the Internal Revenue Service Taxpayer Address Request Program, indicate the number of cards submitted and the return address. The transmittal should also include the name and telephone number of an individual within the agency who can aid in reconciling shipping problems.

.05 After the NCC matching extract, output will be returned to the Service Centers for creation of Forms 4453, Taxpayer Address. Service Centers will ship Forms 4453 back to the requesting agency prepaid. Unless otherwise requested by the customer, punch card input will be destroyed upon shipment of Forms 4453.

SEC. 7. PUNCH CARD INPUT SPECIFICATIONS (IMF ADDRESS REQUESTS ONLY)

.01 Punch Card Input Format

Card Columns	Contents
1–3	Agency Code. Enter the three digit number assigned at the time of initial negotiation. Use only the agency code assigned for IMF punch card address requests.
4–12	Social Security Number. Enter the nine digit Social Security Number which will be used for matching with the IMF.
13–15	Project Code. Enter the constant "719" which identifies this as an IMF Address Request.
16–41	Agency Case Control Number. This field is provided for the use of the customer and may contain any alphabetic or numeric data needed for control purposes, or may be used as a reference field, at the discretion of the customer. Output data will be sorted in alpha-numeric sequence by the first nine positions of this field. Leave positions 16–24 blank if you desire your output in sequence by SSN.
42–45	Name Control. Enter the four character Name Control which will be used for matching with the IMF.
46–51	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.
52–80	Optional Use. The customer may use this field for a particular need. The data will not be printed on the output.

SEC. 8 PUNCH CARD OUTPUT SPECIFICATIONS, FORM 4453.

.01 If there is a match on both Social Security Number and Name Control, Form 4453 will be printed, formatted as in Exhibit B. The data elements are:

Element	Contents
1	Name and Address. The name provided is that which was entered by the tax payer on the most recent tax return. A second name line may be present showing a continuation of the first name line (i.e., "in care of Joe Doe", "John Doe, Executor," etc.) The address will show the latest street address, Post Office Box number, or other address, city, state and Zip Code furnished by the taxpayer on a tax return or a notice of change of address provided to the Service by the taxpayer. Zeros in all five positions of the Zip Code indicate that the taxpayer did not provide a valid Zip Code and the city of town could not be located in the Zip Code Master File maintained by the Service. Zeros in the last two positions indicate that only the area code (the first three digits) could be determined.
2	Social Security Number. As input.
3	Agency Code. As input.
4	Agency Case Control Number. As input.
5	Name Control. As input.
6	Last Filing Date. The year of latest activity on the taxpayer's account. This information is provided to State agencies only. It is not provided to Federal agencies.
7	0 or 1. Service use only.

.02 If there is no match between the input Social Security Number and/or Name control and the Individual Master File, Form 4453 will be printed, formatted as in Exhibit C. The data elements are:

Element	Contents
1	Name and Address. If the input Social Security Number (or SSN extracted from Spouse-Primary SSN Record File) does not match an SSN on the Individual Master File, NO RECORD SSN will be printed in this area. If the input Name Control does not match the Name Control for that record on the Master File, NO RECORD NC will be printed in this area.
2	Social Security Number. As input.
3	Agency Code. As input.
4	Agency Case Control Number. As input.

SEC. 9 TAPE SUBMISSIONS

.01 Tape submissions must be in the format specified for that type of request.

.02 Separate tapes must be submitted for address requests and TDA requests. Separate tapes must also be submitted for IMF and BMF requests. A separate tape, therefore, is required for each of the following type requests.

a) IMF Address Requests
b) IMF TDA Requests
c) BMF Address Requests
d) BMF TDA Requests

.03 An agency may submit any combination of types of requests in a given month, or even make no tape submission in a given month. They should not, however, combine more than one type of request on a signal reel of tape. There is no limitation on the number of reels of tape that may be submitted in a month for particular type of request.

.04 A file is defined as one or more reels of a specific type of request, submitted at one time.

.05 It is the responsibility of the requesting agency to assure that input record data meet all specifications. Data Records containing invalid characters in the Taxpayer Identification Number field or in the Agency Code field will be dropped from processing. Duplicate requests by the same agency will also be dropped.

SEC. 10. SHIPMENT OF TAPES

.01 Ship input tapes (prepaid) to:

Internal Revenue Service
National Computer Center
Martinsburg, WV 25401
Attn: Chief Librarian

.02 Each input tape reel should contain the following information on its label:

a) Agency Name
b) Tape Reel Identification Number
c) An indication of "Request for Taxpayer Address Data or TDA Data."
d) Assigned Agency Code Number for type of request.
e) IMF or BMF extract

.03 For each shipment, a transmittal letter should be sent under separate cover to the National Computer Center. The transmittal should indicate the number of reels in the shipment, the reel identification number of each reel, the number of records on each reel, the assigned agency code for each reel, and the type of request (BMF TDA, IMF Address, etc.). The transmittal should also include the name and telephone number of an individual within the agency who can aid in reconciling shipping problems.

.04 Address the transmittal to:

Internal Revenue Service
National Computer Center
P.O. Box 1208
Martinsburg, WV 25401

.05 Please provide magnetic tapes (at least three tapes) for your output, when making initial input shipment. The input tape is scheduled for a 100 day retention. After that time, the input tape will be scratched and the tape used for your next output.

.06 If Internal Revenue Service tapes must be used to provide output,new tapes will be used. The cost of these tapes will be reflected in the agency billing.

SEC. 11. INPUT TAPE SPECIFICATIONS

.01 All input tape should be submitted with the following characteristics:

a) 9 track
b) 1600 BPI
c) Extended binary coded decimal (EBCDIC)
d) Odd Parity

.02 Each tape reel must contain the following types of records.

Header Record
Tape Mark (after the Header Record)
Data Records—Maximum of 100 data records per block. Separate blocks from each other by an inter-record gap. Each tape reel can consist of several sets of data blocks.
Tape Mark after the last Data Record on a Tape.
Trailer Record
Tape Mark

.03 BMF TDA Requests
(a) Header Record

Position(s)	Contents

44–45	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.
46–49	Name Control. Enter the four character Name Control which will be used for matching with the BMF.
50–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the last data record on a reel.

(c) Trailer Record

Position(s)	Contents
1–4	Trailer Record I.D. Enter the constant "IEOR" or "IEOF" to identify this tape record as the trailers record. Use "IEOR" to signify the end of a reel and "IEOF" to signify the end of a file.
5	Blank. Leave this position blank.
6–10	Block Count. Enter the number of data blocks on this reel of tape.
11–20	Reel Record Count. For customer's use (no entry required).
21–30	Reel Hash Count. for customer's use (no entry required)
31–40	File Record Count. For customer's use (no entry required).
41–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the trailer record.

.04 BMF Address Requests

(a) Header Record

Position(s)	Contents
1–4	Header Label I.D. Enter the constant "IHDR" to identify this record as a Header Record.
5–15	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.
16	Dash. Enter a dash (–)
17–19	Reel Sequence Number. Enter a three digit number indicating the sequence of this reel within the file. Number sequentially beginning with 001.
20	Blank. Leave this position blank.
21–30	To Job Number. Enter the constant "1550101000".
31–35	Creation Date (YYDDD). Enter the date the file was created. YY indicates the low order digits of the year and DDD the Julian day of the year, from 001–366.
36	Dash. Enter a dash (–)
37–39	Retention Period. Enter the constant "100". This indicates the maximum period that this tape will be held for entry into the program.
40	Blank. Leave this position blank.
41–50	From Job Number. Enter the constant "AGENCY-nnn" where "nnn" is the agency code number assigned for BMF address requests.
51–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the Header Record.

(b) Data Records

Position(s)	Contents
1	Blank. Leave this position blank.
2–4	Project Code. Enter the constant "155".

Position(s)	Contents
5–7	Agency Code. Enter the three digit number assigned at the time of initial negotiation. Use only the agency code assigned for BMF address requests.
8	TIN Indicator. Enter "2" if EIN or "0" if SSN.
9–17	TIN. Enter the nine digit EIN or SSN which will be used for matching with the BMF.
18–43	Agency Case Control Number. This field is provided for the use of the customer and may contain any alphabetic or numeric data needed for control purposes, or may be used as a reference field, at the discretion of the customer. Output data will be sorted in alpha-numeric sequence by the first nine positions of this field. Leave positions 18–26 blank if you desire your output in sequence by TIN.
44–45	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.
46–49	Name Control. Enter the four character Name Control which will be used for matching with the BMF.
50–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the last data record on a reel.

(c) Trailer Record

Positions	Contents
1–4	Trailer Record I.D. Enter the constant "IEOR" or "IEOF" to identify this tape record as the trailer record. Use "IEOR" to signify the end of a reel and "IEOF" to signify the end of a file.
5	Blank. Leave this position blank.
6–10	Block Count. Enter the number of data tape blocks in the reel of tape.
11–20	Reel Record Count. For customer's use (no entry required).
21–30	Reel Hash Count. For customer's use (no entry required).
31–40	File Record Count. For customer's use (no entry required).
41–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the trailer record.

.05 IMF TDA Requests

(a) Header Record

Positions	Contents
1–4	Header Label I.D. Enter the constant "IHDR" to identify this record as a Header Record.
5–15	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.
16	Dash. Enter a dash (–).
17–19	Reel Sequence Number. Enter a three digit number indicating the sequence of this reel within the file. Number sequentially beginning with 001.
20	Blank. Leave this position blank.
21–30	To Job Number. Enter the constant "4550101000".
31–35	Creation Date (YYDDD). Enter the date the file was created. YY indicates the low order digits of the year and DDD the Julian day of the year, from 001–366.
36	Dash. Enter a dash (–).
37–39	Retention Period. Enter the constant "100". This indicates the maximum period that this tape will be held for entry into the program.
40	Blank. Leave this position blank.
41–50	From Job Number. Enter the constant "4550111000".
51–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the Header Record.

(b) Data Record(s)

Positions	Contents
1	Blank. Leave this position blank.
2–4	Project Code. Enter the constant "455" to identify this as a IMF TDA request.
5–7	Agency Code. Enter the three digit number assigned at the time of initial negotiation. Use only the agency code assigned for TDA request.
8	Blank. Leave this position blank.
9–17	Social Security Number. Enter the nine digit Social Security Number which will be used for matching with the IMF.
18–43	Agency Case Control Number. This field is provided for the use of the customer and may contain any alphabetic or numeric data needed for control purposes, or may be used as a reference field, at the discretion of the customer. Output data will be sorted in alpha-numeric sequence by the first nine positions of this field. Leave positions 18–26 blank if you desire your output in sequence by SSN.
44–45	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.
46–49	Name Control. Enter the four character Name Control which will be used for matching with the IMF.
50–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the last data record on a reel.

(c) Trailer Record.

Positions	Contents
1–4	Trailer Record I.D. Enter the constant "IEOR" or "IEOF" to identify this tape record as the trailer record. Use "IEOR" to signify the end of a reel and "IEOF" to signify the end of a file.
5	Blank. Leave this position blank.
6–10	Block Count. Enter the number of data tape blocks in the reel of tape.
11–20	Reel Record Count. For customer's use (no entry required).
21–30	Reel Hash Count. For customer's use (no entry required)
31–40	File Record Count. For customer's use (no entry required).
41–80	Blank. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the trailer record.

.06 IMF Address Requests

(a) Header Record

Positions	Contents
1–4	Header Label I.D. Enter the constant "IHDR" to identify this tape record as a Header Record.
5–15	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.
16	Dash. Enter a dash (–).
17–19	Reel Sequence Number. Enter a three digit number indicating the sequence of this reel within the file. Number sequentially beginning with 001.
20	Blank. Leave this position blank.
21–30	To Job Number. Enter the constant "7190701000".
31–35	Creation Date (YYDDD). Enter the date the file was created. YY indicates the low order digits of the year and DDD the Julian day of the year, from 001–366.
36	Dash. enter a dash (–).
37–39	Retention Period. Enter the constant "100". This indicates the maximum period that this tape will be held for entry into the program.
40	Blank. Leave this position blank.
41–50	From Job Number. Enter the constant "7190101000".

51–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the Header Record.

(b) Data Records(s)

Positions	Contents
1	Blank. Leave this position blank.
2–4	Project Code. Enter the constant "719" which identifies this as an IMF Address Request.
5–7	Agency Code. Enter the three digit number assigned at the time of initial negotiation. Use only the agency code assigned for IMF Address request.
8–16	Social Security Number. Enter the nine digit Social Security Number which will be used for matching with the IMF.
17–42	Agency Case Control Number. This field is provided for the use of the customer and may contain any alphabetic or numeric data needed for control purposes, or may be used as a reference field, at the discretion of the customer. Output data will be sorted in alpha-numeric sequence by the first nine positions of this field. Leave positions 17–25 blank if you desire your output in sequence by SSN.
43–44	Magnetic Tape Code. Enter the two digit code assigned by the Service.
45–48	Name Control. Enter the four character Name Control which will be used for matching with the IMF.
49–50	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the last data record on a reel. If it is necessary to pad the last block, pad with 9's.

(c) Trailer Record

Positions	Contents
1–4	Trailer Label I.D. Enter the constant "IEOR" or "IEOF" to identify this tape record as the trailer record. Use "IEOR" to signify the end of a reel and "IEOF" to signify the end of a file.
5	Blank. Leave this position blank.
6–10	Block Count. enter the number of data tape blocks in the reel of tape.
11–80	Blanks. Leave these positions blank.

Enter a tape mark following the trailer record.

SEC. 12. RETURN OF OUTPUT TAPES

.01 Output tapes will be returned to the requesting agency at the address provided on the Form 5181. Output tapes will be returned approximately three weeks after the original due date at NCC.

.02. Tapes will be formatted according to the type of request. See Section 13 for specific formats.

.03 Separate tapes will be returned for each type of request submitted.

.04 Each output tape will be labeled with the following information:

a) Agency Name
b) Tape Reel Identification Number
c) Assigned Agency Code Number for type of request
d) IMF or BMF extract
e) Address or TDA request.

SEC. 13. OUTPUT TAPE SPECIFICATIONS

.01 Output tape will have the following characteristics:

a) 9 track
b) 1600 BPI
c) Extended binary coded decimal (EBCDIC)
d) Odd Parity

.02 Each tape reel will contain the following types of records:

Header Record
Tape Mark (after the Header Record)
Data Records. Tape Blocks separated from each other by an interrecord gap.
Tape Mark after the last Data Record on a tape.
Trailer Record
Tape Mark

Each tape reel may consist of one or more sets of data blocks.

.03 BMF TDA Requests

(a) Header Record

Positions	Contents
1–4	Header Label I.D. constant "IHDR".
5–15	Blanks.
16	Dash (–).
17–19	Reel Sequence Number. As input.
20	Blank.
21–30	To Job Number. Will appear as constant "TDA CHECK".
31–35	Creation Date (YYDDD). This is the date of the BMF extract. The YY represents the low order digits of the year and DDD is the Julian day of the year, from 001–366.
36	Dash (–).
37–39	Retention Period. Constant "100".
40	Blank.
41–50	From Job Number. Will appear as constant "1550512000".
51–80	Blanks.

(b) Data Record(s)

Positions	Contents
1–4	Record Length. Service use only.
5	Separation Code. Service use only.
6–8	Project Code. Constant "155".
9–11	Agency Code. As input.
12	TIN Indicator. As input.
13–21	TIN. As input.
22–47	Agency Case Control Number. As input.
48–49	Blanks.
50–53	Name Control. As input.
54	Blank.
55	Delinquency Indicator. This field indicates the TDA status of the account on the BMF. The codes in this field have the following meanings: "Y"—indicates delinquency status. "N"—no indication of delinquency status. "blank"—no match obtained at the Master File with the TIN/Name Control combination provided.
56–80	Blanks.

A tape mark will appear following the last data record on a reel.

(c) Trailer record

Positions	Contents
1–4	Trailer Record I.D. Constant "IEOR" or "IEOF".
5	Blank.
6–10	Block Count. As input.
11–20	Reel Record Count. As input (entry not required).
21–30	Reel Hash Count. As input (entry not required).
31–40	File Record Count. As input (entry not required).

A tape mark will appear following the trailer record.

.04 BMF Address Requests

(a) Header Record

Positions	Contents
1–4	Header Label I.D. Constant "IHDR".
5–15	Blanks.
16	Dash (–).
17–19	Reel Sequence Number. As input.
20	Blank.
21–30	To Job Number. Will appear as constant "NAME ADDR".
31–35	Creation Date (YYDDD). This is the date of the BMF extract. The YY represents the low order digits of the year and DDD is the Julian day of the year, from 001–366.
36	Dash (–).
37–39	Retention Period. Constant "100".
40	Blank.
41–50	From Job Number. Will appear as the constant "1550511000".
51–80	Blanks.

A tape mark will appear following the Header Record.

(b) Data Records

Positions	Contents
1–4	Record Length. Service use only.
5	Separation Code. Service use only.
6–8	Project Code. Constant "155".
9–11	Agency Code. As input.
12	TIN Indicator. As input.
13–21	TIN. As input.
22–47	Agency Case Control Number. As input.
48–49	Blanks.
50–53	Name Control. As input.
54–55	Blanks.
56–90	First Name Line. The name provided is that which was entered by the taxpayer on the most recent tax return. Subsequent name lines may be blank or may show a continuation of the first name line. They may also show information such as "in care of John Doe" or "John Doe, Executor". If the input EIN or Name Control do not match with the corresponding fields on the Master File—"NO RECORD EIN" or "NO RECORD NC" will appear in the first name line field.
91–125	Second Name Line.
161–195	Fourth Name Line.
253–257	Zip Code

These fields will show the latest street address, Post Office Box number, or other address, city, state and Zip Code furnished by the taxpayer on a tax return or a notice of change of address provided to IRS by the taxpayer.

Zeros in all five positions of the Zip Code indicate that the taxpayer did not provide a valid Zip Code and the city or town could not be located in the Zip Code Master File maintained by the Service. Zeros in the last two positions indicate that only the area code (the first three digits) could be determined.

A tape mark will follow the last data record on the reel.

(c) Trailer Record

Positions	Contents
1–4	Trailer Record I.D. Constant "IEOR" or "IEOF".
5	Blank.
6–10	Block Count. As input.
11–20	Reel Record Count. As input (entry not required).
21–30	Reel Hash Count. As input (entry not required).
31–40	File Record Count. As input (entry not required).

A tape mark will appear following the trailer record.

.05 IMF TDA Requests

(a) Header Record

Position(s)	Contents
1–4	Header Label I.D. Constant "IHDR".
5–15	Blanks.
16	Dash (–).
17–19	Reel Sequence Number. As input.
20	Blank.
21–30	To Job Number. Will appear as constant "4550901000".
31–35	Creation Date. (YYDDD) This is the date of the IMF extract. The YY represents the low order digits of the year and DDD represents the Julian day of the year, from 001–366.
36	Dash (–).
37–39	Retention Period. Constant "100".
40	Blank.
41–50	From Job Number. Will appear as constant "4550711000".
51–80	Blanks.

A tape mark will appear following the Header Record.

(b) Data Record(s)

Position(s)	Contents
1	Blank
2–4	Project Code. Constant "455".
5–7	Agency Code. As input.
8	Blank.
9–17	SSN. As input.
18–43	Agency Case Control Number. As input.
44–45	Blanks.
46–49	Name Control. As input.
50	Blanks.
51	Delinquency Indicator. This field indicates the TDA status of the account on the IMF. The codes in this field have the following meanings: "Y"—indicates delinquency status. "N"—no indication of delinquency status. "blank"—no match obtained at the Master File with the SSN/Name Control combination provided.
52–80	Blanks.

A tape mark will appear following the last data record on a reel.

(c) Trailer Record

Position(s)	Contents
1–4	Trailer Record I.D. Constant "IEOR" or "IEOF".
5	Blank.
6–10	Block Count. As input.
11–20	Reel Record Count. As input (entry not required).
21–30	Reel Hash Count. As input (entry not required).
31–40	File Record Count. As input (entry not required).

A tape mark will appear following the trailer record.

.06 IMF Address Requests

(a) Header Record

Position(s)	Contents
1–4	Header Label I.D. Constant "IHDR".
5–15	Blanks.
16	Dash (–).
17–19	Reel Sequence Number. As input.
21–30	To Job Number. Will appear as constant "7192501000".
31–35	Creation Date. (YYDDD) This is the date of the IMF extract. The YY represents the low order digits of the year and DDD represents the Julian day of the year, 001-366.
36	Dash (–).
37–39	Retention Period. Constant "100".
40	Blank.
41–50	From Job Number. Will appear as the number of the Service file that created the extract.
51–80	Blanks.

A tape mark will appear following the Header Record.

(b) Data Record(s)

Position(s)	Contents
1–4	Record Length. Service use only.
5	IRS Code. Service use only.
6–7	Magnetic Tape Code. As input.
8–10	Agency Code. As input.
11	IRS Code. Service use only.
12–14	Blanks.
15–23	Social Security Number. As input.
24–49	Agency Case Control Number. As input.
50–84	First Name Line. The name provided is that which was entered by the taxpayer on the most recent tax return. Subsequent name lines may be blank or may show a continuation of the first name line. They may also show information such as "in care of John Doe" or "John Doe, Executor". If the input SSN (or SSN extracted from the Spouse-Primary SSN Record File) or Name Control do not match with the corresponding fields on the corresponding fields on the Master File "NO RECORD SSN" or "NO RECORD NC" will appear in the first name line field.
85–119	Second Name Line.

120–154	Street Address.
180–184	Zip Code.

These fields will show the latest street address, Post Office Box number, or other address, city, state and Zip Code furnished by the taxpayer on a tax return or a notice of change of address provided to IRS by the taxpayer.

Zeros in all five positions of the Zip Code indicate that the taxpayer did not provide a valid Zip Code and the city or town could not be located in the Zip Code Master File maintained by the Service. Zeros in the last two positions indicate that only the area code (the first three digits) could be determined.

185–188	Name Control. As input.
189–190	Year of Latest Tax Activity. State agency use, otherwise, blank.
191	Service Use Only.
192–212	Blanks.

A tape mark will appear following the last data record on a reel.

(c) Trailer Record

Position(s)	Contents
1–4	Trailer Label I.D. Constant "IEOR" or "IEOF"
5	Blank.
6–10	Block Count. As input.
11–30	Zeros.
31–80	Blanks.

A tape mark will appear following the trailer record.

SEC. 14. USE OF REQUEST OUTPUT

.01 Users should be aware of the limitations of the delinquency indication. It reflects only the Master File status of the account at the time of the extract. For instance, the account could show delinquency status but a payment agreement could have been recently established between the Service and the taxpayer. Or the extract could show an account as delinquent but by the time the agency receives the output or is ready to use the information, the delinquent amount may have been paid.

.02 There is also the possibility that a taxpayer may be delinquent but in an amount less than that which creates a delinquency indication on the Master File. In such a case, the extract will indicate that the taxpayer's account is not in delinquent status.

.03 Requestors should take care to provide correct information to the Service. They should be aware that if they fail to do so, there is the slight possibility that through coincidental circumstances, the data provided may not be that of the individual for whom the request was made. For instance, if information is requested for John Smith, but an erroneous SSN is provided which happens to be that of a Joe Smith, the Master File will match the account of Joe Smith and the data provided will reflect that account.

SEC. 15. DETERMINING A NAME CONTROL

.01 Each input data record will require a name control. Determine according to the following instructions.

.02 Individuals

a) The name control of an individual is the first four significant characters of the last name (including hyphens). In surnames of less than four characters, the remaining positions are blank. Disregard blanks or apostrophes between letters.

Individual Name	Name Control
John A. Fir	FIR
James P. Ai	AI
John A. El-Oak	EL-O
Mary Van Elm	VANE
Joe McCedar	MCCE
Ann O'Spruce	OSPR
Dorothy Willow	WILL
Mr. John Holly	HOLL
Harry Maple, Owner	MAPL
Pfc. M. Ralph Evergreen	EVER
John DiPine	DIPI
Mark D'Oak	DOAK
John De la Rose	DELA

.03 Corporations

a) The name control of a corporation is derived from the first four significant characters of the name.

b) An exception to this rule is to exclude the word "the" when used as a prefix to the name and the word "the" is followed by more than one word.

c) In instances where a numeric is followed by a decimal (.) as part of the name, replace the decimal point (.) with a hyphen (–) when determining the name control

Business Name	Name Control
John Field Plows Inc.	JOHN
The Meadowlark Co.	MEAD
The Opah	THEO
The 813 Club Inc.	813C

Business Name	Name Control
11th Street Inc.	11TH
P & P Company	P&PC
Y–Z Drive Co.	Y–ZD
RS Corporation	RSCO
ZZZ Club	ZZZC
J.R. Olive Inc.	JROL
Pier Pickle Ltd.	PIER
18.8 Acres, Inc.	18–8

.04 Partnerships

a) Derive the name control for partnership entities from the legal name of the partnership. If the legal name contains the name of a partner, derive the name control from the surname of the first listed partner. If the legal name does not contain the name of a partner, derive the name control from the first four characters in the legal name. Do not use a trade name (doing business as) to determine name control.

.05 Other Organizations

a) Unions, municipal groups, churches, lodges, associations, tax exempt organizations, foundations, funds and other like entities are assigned name controls as if corporate names. Chapter, department and local designations should be ignored.

Organization	Name Control
Scottish Rite of Free Heather	SCOT
Ice Wagon Drivers Helpers Union	ICEW
(The) Shrine of the Little River Church	SHRI
NCO Open Mess Bldg.-000	NCOO
Piranha Pension Plan Board of Trustees	PIRA
Ibex Foundation	IBEX
Seattle Local 55 Veterans of Space Wars	VETE
Local 210 International Orchid Assn.	INTE
Diocese of Roseville, St. Violet's Hospital	STVI

b) Political activity entities should be name controlled as a corporation unless the entity is an individual's name.

Organization	Name Control
Sinking Fund Commission of the City of Lillipput	SINK
Phineous Kudzu Campaign Fund	KUDZ

.06 Estates

Derive the Name Control from the surname of the decedent.

SEC. 16. SCHEDULES

.01 Master File extracts will be made monthly. The current NCC extract schedule will be provided as a part of the contracting process.

.02 The Master File extract process requires approximately two and one half weeks. Output tapes will be mailed from NCC approximately three weeks from the tape received due dates provided with your contract. Forms 4453 will be mailed from Service Centers approximately six weeks from the punch card received due dates specified above.

.03 Processing schedules are not flexible. Agencies are responsible for assuring that input is received in ample time to be included in the month's processing. Input received late will be processed in the next month.

SEC. 17. REIMBURSEMENT

All work done by the Service for agencies will be performed on a reimbursable basis. Billing will be based on the number of data records processed and the number of Service tapes required for output. The cost per data record is tentatively projected to be four cents ($.04) for requests. The cost per Service tape will be $12.

SEC.18. QUESTIONS

Any questions regarding the material in this Revenue Procedure can be addressed to the Internal Revenue Project Coordinator.

SEC. 19. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

Rev. Proc. 84-20, 1984-1 C.B. 434, is superseded.

Terms and Conditions

1. The authority to perform services on a cost basis is contained in Section 6103(p)(2) and Section 6108(b) of the Internal Revenue Code (IRC). The performance of services is authorized only when consistent with the basic public obligations of the Internal Revenue Service (the Service). If necessary to fulfill its public obligations, the Service may reject or terminate any part of this agreement and return the unused balance of funds advanced.

2. Although every reasonable effort is made to avoid delays and errors in the performance of its work, the Service is not responsible for delays or errors in the services performed. The cost of data recompilations or corrections must be paid for by the requesting party.

3. Direct and indirect actual costs will be charged for reimbursable work. If funds advanced to the Service are more than the actual cost of performing the work, the difference will be returned. If an estimate is less than the actual costs incurred, the requesting organization agrees to pay for the actual costs incurred.

4a. Section 6103(p)(4) of the IRC provides specific requirements for Federal, state and local organizations to safeguard Federal returns and return information as a condition for receiving the information.

b. Section 7213 of the IRC makes illegal disclosure of returns or return information a felony punishable by a fine not to exceed $5000 or imprisonment of not more than 5 years, or both, together with the costs of prosecution. IRC Section 7431 makes persons liable for civil damages who knowingly or negligently disclose returns or return information illegally.

5. The Service reserves the right to use a copy of all data provided under this agreement.

6. The requester may cancel this agreement only by giving the Service written notice 30 days before cancellation. Payment to the Service shall include actual costs to the date of cancellation. The Service will exercise due diligence to prevent incurring costs after the cancellation date. However, payment shall also be made for unavoidable commitments up to the date the agreement would have expired.

Rev. Proc. 85-34

SECTION 1. BACKGROUND

Rev. Proc. 85-22, 1985-1 C.B. 550, sets forth areas in which advance rulings or determination letters will not be issued by the Internal Revenue Service. Section 5 of Rev. Proc. 85-22 is entitled, Areas Under Extensive Study in Which Rulings or Determination Letters Will Not be Issued Until the Service Resolves the Issue Through Publication of a Revenue Ruling, Revenue Procedure, Regulations or Otherwise.

Section 5.19 provides:

Section 368.—Definitions relating to Corporate Reorganizations.—Whether the conversion of a financial institution from mutual to stock will qualify under section 368(a)(1)(G) and section 368(a)(3)(D) of the Code, unless the stock of the converted financial institution is acquired by a financial institution to which either section 585 or section 593 of the Code applies.

SEC. 2. PROCEDURE

Rev. Proc. 85-22 is hereby modified by deleting section 5.19.

SEC. 3. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective July 22, 1985, the date of publication of this revenue procedure in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

SEC. 4. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Rev. Proc. 85-22 is modified.

Rev. Proc. 85-35

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide guidance for representatives of certain military or civilian employees of the United States who have died as a result of injuries incurred outside the United States in a terroristic or military action. Procedures are provided for having tax forgiven or for claiming refunds of tax under section 692(c) of the Internal Revenue Code.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Pub. L. No. 98-259, 1984-1 C.B. 313 (the Act), as amended by the Tax Reform Act of 1984, Pub. L. No. 98-369, section 722(g), 98 Stat. 494, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 482, enacted section 692(c) of the Internal Revenue Code. Section 692(c)(1) provides, in the case of any individual who dies while a military or civilian employee of the Unted States, if such death occurs as a result of wounds or injury while the individual was a military or civilian employee and which was incurred outside the United States in a terroristic or military action, that any tax imposed by subtitle A of the Code (income tax) shall not apply with respect to the taxable year in which falls the date of death and with respect to any prior taxable year in the period beginning with the last taxable year ending before the taxable year in which the wounds or injury were incurred.

.02 Section 692(c)(2) of the Code defines "terroristic or military action" as any terroristic activity which a preponderance of the evidence indicates was directed against the United States or any of its allies and any military action involving the Armed Forces of the United States and resulting from violence or aggression against the United States or any of its allies (or threat thereof).

.03 Under section 1(b)(1) of the Act, section 692(c) of the Code applies to all taxable years of individuals dying after December 31, 1979, as a result of wounds or injuries incurred after that date. The general period of limitations set forth in section 6511 applies to claims made under the Act. However, under section 1(b)(2) of the Act, in a case in which the general period of limitations has expired or will otherwise expire before April 10, 1985, the period of limitations will not expire before April 10, 1985.

.04 Section 722(g) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 amended the Act to change the effective date from December 31, 1979, to November 17, 1978, and to include the Director General of the Multinational Force and Observers in the Sinai as a civilian employee. Under section 722(g)(5)(B), claims for refund for persons affected by these changes may be made by July 18, 1985, if the period of limitations would otherwise have expired before then.

SEC. 3. PROCEDURE

.01 In the case of any employee for whom no U.S. Individual Income Tax Return (Form 1040, 1040A or 1040EZ) has been filed, tax may be forgiven and a claim for refund of any withheld income tax or estimated tax payments should be made by filing Form 1040 with the Internal Revenue Service Center, P.O. Box 267, Covington, KY 41019, Attn: Stop 2. The phrase "KITA—see attached" should be entered on the line for "Total tax" (line 56 on the 1983 form). The attachment should include a computation of the tax liability before application of section 692(c) of the Code and the amount being forgiven under that section. On joint returns reporting taxable income of the surviving spouse, an allocation of tax between spouses must be made. See Section 1.692-1(b) of the Income Tax Regulations and Rev. Rul. 85-103, page 176, this Bulletin. If the surviving spouse or other person filing the joint return is unable to determine the proper allocation, statement of all income and deductions allocable to each spouse should be attached and the Internal Revenue Service will make the proper allocation. All returns must be accompanied by Form W-2, Wage and Tax Statement.

.02 In the case of any employee for whom a U.S. individual income tax return has already been filed (for example, in the case of a year for which the return was filed before enactment of the Act), claims for refund should be made by filing Form 1040X, Amended U.S. Individual Income Tax Return, with the Internal Revenue Service Center, P.O. Box 267, Covington, KY 41019, Attn: Stop 2. Separate Forms 1040X should be filed for each year in question. The phrase "KITA—see attached" should be entered on line 12, "Total tax liability". The attachment should include a computation of the tax liability before application of section 692(c) of the Code and the amount being forgiven under that section. In the case of joint returns reporting taxable income of the surviving spouse, an allocation of tax between spouses must be made. See, section 1.692-1(b) of the regulations and Rev. Rul. 85-103. If the surviving spouse or other person filing the claim for refund is unable to determine the proper allocation, a statement of all income and deductions allocable to each spouse should be attached and the Service will make the proper allocation.

.03 All returns and claims for refund should be identified by writing "K I T A" in bold letters on the top of page 1 of the return or claim for refund.

.04 All returns and claims for refunds must be accompanied by the following documents:

1. Form 1310, Statement of Person Claiming Refund Due a Deceased Taxpayer;

2. A certification from the Department of Defense or the Department of State that the death was the result of terroristic or military action outside the United States. In the case of military employees and civilian employees of the Department of Defense, certification must be made by the Department of Defense on Form DOD 1300. In the case of civilian employees of all other agencies, certification must be made in the form of a letter signed by the Director General of the Foreign Service, Department of State, or his/her delegate. In either case, the certification must include the name and social security number of the individual, the date of injury, the date of death, and a statement that the individual died as the result of a military or terroristic action outside the United States and was an employee of the United States at the date of injury and at the date of death.

.05 In a case in which a decedent has been certified as having died as the result of military or terroristic action outside the United States, but the decedent's representative does not have enough tax information to file a timely claim for refund, the representative may stop the running of the period of limitations for making such a claim by filing Form 1040X with the Internal Revenue Service, Covington, Ky 41019, Attn: Stop 2, attaching Form 1310, and attaching a statement that an amended claim will be filed as soon as the requisite information is ascertained.

SEC. 4. INQUIRIES

Inquiries concerning this revenue procedure should be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, attention D:R:R:1, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington D.C. 20224.

SEC. 5. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective for all returns or claims for refunds filed as the result of the Act, as amended.

26 CFR 601.204: Changes in accounting periods and in methods of accounting.
(Also Part 1, Sections 446, 471, 481; 1.446-1, 1.471-1, 1.481-5.)

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide a procedure whereby certain taxpayers who are required to use inventories in order to clearly determine income may obtain expeditious consent to change their overall method of accounting from the cash receipts and disbursements method to the accrual method. Taxpayers complying with this revenue procedure will be deemed to have obtained the consent of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to change their method of accounting.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

01. Section 471 of the Internal Revenue Code requires the use of inventories when in the opinion of the Commissioner it is necessary in order clearly to determine income. Section 1.471-1 of the Income Tax Regulations provides that in order clearly to determine income, inventories at the beginning and end of each tax year are necessary in every case in which the production, purchase, or sale of merchandise is an income-producing factor.

.02 Section 1.446-1(c)(2) of the regulations provides that when taxpayers are required to use inventories in order to clearly determine income they must use the accrual method of accounting with regard to purchases and sales.

.03 Section 446(e) of the Code and section 1.446-1(e) of the regulations state that, except as otherwise provided, in order to change a method of accounting for federal income tax purposes a taxpayer must obtain the consent of the Commissioner. Section 1.446-1(e)(3)(i) requires that in order to obtain this consent, generally an application, Form 3115, Application for Change in Accounting Method, must be filed within 180 days after the beginning of the tax year in which the proposed change is to be made. Section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii) authorizes the Commissioner to prescribe administrative procedures setting forth the limitations, terms, and conditions deemed necessary to permit a taxpayer to obtain consent to a change in its method of accounting in accordance with section 446(e).

.04 Section 481(a) of the Code requires that those adjustments necessary to prevent amounts from being duplicated or omitted be taken into account when the taxpayer's taxable income is computed under a method of accounting different from the method used to compute taxable income for the preceding tax year. Section 481(c) and section 1.481-5 of the regulations provide that the adjustment required by section 481(a) may be taken into account in determining taxable income in the manner and subject to the conditions agreed to by the Commissioner and the taxpayer.

.05 Section 6.02 of Rev. Proc. 84-74, 1984-2 C.B. 736 defines a Category A method of accounting as a method of accounting that is specifically not permitted to be used by the taxpayer by the Code, regulations, or a decision of the Supreme Court of the United States, or a method that is clearly erroneous. The overall use of the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting when inventories are required in order to clearly determine income constitutes the use of a Category A method of accounting.

SEC. 3. SCOPE

.01 Except as provided in section 3.02 below, this revenue procedure applies to taxpayers who (1) employ the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting as their overall method of accounting, (2) are required to use inventories in order to clearly determine income, and (3) desire to change their overall method of accounting to the accrual method.

.02 This revenue procedure does not apply to:

(1) Financial institutions;

(2) Farmers;

(3) Cooperatives;

(4) Manufacturers and producers required to use the full absorption method for inventory costing (see section 1.471-11 of the regulations);

(5) Taxpayers who desire to change to the overall accrual method of accounting and to a special method of accounting, such as a long-term contract method or the method of accounting for prepaid subscription income provided in section 455 of the Code;

(6) Taxpayers under examination by the Service when the year or years under examination encompass the tax year in which the cash receipts and disbursements method was first employed by the taxpayer;

(7) Taxpayers who have been contacted in any manner by a representative of the Service for the purpose of scheduling an examination of their federal income tax return(s) for any year and such examination has not been completed;

(8) Taxpayers who at the time of filing Form 3115 are:

(a) Before an appeals office of the Service with respect to an examination of their federal income tax return(s) for any year, unless the taxpayer has obtained an agreement from the appeals officer that there is no objection to the proposed change in method of accounting, or

(b) Before any federal court with respect to an income tax issue arising in any year, unless the taxpayer has obtained an agreement from counsel for the Government that there is no objection to the proposed change in method of accounting;

(9) Taxpayers who are the subject of a criminal investigation or proceeding concerning, (a) directly or indirectly the taxpayer's federal tax liability for any year, or (b) the possibility of false or fraudulent statement made by the taxpayer with respect to any issue relating to its federal tax liability for any year.

.03 Taxpayers to whom this revenue procedure does not apply and who desire to change their overall method of accounting to the accrual method should file an application (Form 3115) with the Commissioner in accordance with the requirements of section 1.446-1(e)(3) of the regulations and Rev. Proc. 84-74.

SEC. 4. APPLICATION

01. Consent. In accordance with section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii) of the regulations, the 180-day period is waived, and under section 1.446-1(e)(2)(i), consent is hereby granted to taxpayers who (1) employ the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting as their overall method of accounting, and (2) are required to use inventories in order clearly to determine income, to change their overall method of accounting to the accrual method. This consent is granted for the tax year for which a taxpayer requests a change (year of change) by filing a current Form 3115 in the manner described in section 6 of this revenue procedure and by otherwise complying with the provisions of this revenue procedure. See section 5 regarding compliance with conditions of this revenue procedure.

.02 Section 481(a) adjustment. Section 481 of the Code prescribes the rules to be followed in computing taxable income in cases in which the taxable income of a taxpayer is computed under a method of accounting different from the method used to compute the taxable income for the preceding tax year. An adjustment is required to prevent items from being duplicated or omitted when a change in method of accounting is made. The adjustment, referred to as the "section 481(a) adjustment" is the net amount of the adjustment required by section 481(a) of the Code. The "section 481(a) adjustment" takes into account inventories, accounts receivable, accounts payable, and any other item determined necessary in order to prevent items from being duplicated or omitted. The "section 481(a) adjustment" shall be taken into account in computing taxable income in the manner provided in section 4.03 below. Rev. Proc. 79-47, 1979-2 C.B. 528, sets forth the effect of the "section 481(a) adjustment" on corporate earnings and profits. The approved change shall be considered to be a change in method of accounting initiated by the taxpayer. An example of the computation of the "section 481(a) adjustment" is as follows:

As of December 31, 1984, A, a calendar year taxpayer who uses the overall cash method of accounting, has the following items of unreported income, undeducted expenses, and deducted inventoriable costs:

Income, the right to which is fixed and the amount determinable, but that has not yet been received	$120,000
Inventory that was previously deducted	$100,000
Expenses, the liability for which is fixed, the amount determinable, and with respect to which economic performance has occurred, but that have not yet been paid	$ 30,000
Amount necessary to establish a reasonable reserve for bad debts	$ 10,000

Taxpayer A changes to an overall accrual method for calendar year 1985. Taxpayer A computes the section 481(a) adjustment in the following manner:

Income that was not included in gross income under A's old method and that will never be included in gross income under A's new method (accounts receivable at December 31, 1984)		$120,000
Inventory at December 31, 1984, which was deducted under A's old method and will also be deducted under A's new method		100,000
		220,000
Less:
Expenses that were not deducted under A's old method and that will never be deducted under A's new method (accounts payable at December 31, 1984)	$30,000
Reserve for bad debts at December 31, 1984, which was not deducted under A's old method and will never be deducted under A's new method	10,000
Section 481(a) adjustment (positive)		40,000

.03 Section 481 adjustment period.

(1) The appropriate period ("adjustment period") for taking into account an adjustment, whether positive or negative, referred to in section 4.02 is generally determined as follows:

(a) For the two (2) tax years beginning after October 29, 1984, the taxpayer will be given an adjustment period determined in accordance with subdivisions (i), (ii), and (iii) below.

(i) When an entire net amount of an adjustment is attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change (first preceding year), the total net adjustment is taken into account in computing taxable income for the year of change. The amount attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change is the difference in the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change and the amount of the adjustment that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change in method of accounting had been made in the preceding year.

(ii) When subdivision (i) of this section 4.03(1)(a) does not apply and 67 percent or more of the net amount of an adjustment is attributable to the 1-tax year period, 2-tax year period, or 3-tax year period immediately preceding the year of change, the highest percent attributable to the 1, 2, or 3-tax year period is to be taken into account ratably over a 3-tax year period beginning with the year of change. Any remaining balance is to be taken into account ratably over an additional period equal to the remainder of the number of tax years the taxpayer has used the method of accounting that is being changed. However, the total adjustment period shall not exceed 6 tax years. This section 4.03(1)(a)(ii) only applies if the taxpayer has used the method being changed for more than 3 tax years. If the method of accounting being changed has been used for no more than 4 tax years, 75 percent shall be substituted for 67 percent. An amount attributable to the 1, 2, or 3-tax year period is the difference in the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change and the amount that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change had been made at the beginning of the preceding 1, 2, or 3-tax year period.

(iii) When there is a change in method of accounting that results in a negative net adjustment under section 481(a) of the Code, the entire negative net adjustment will be taken into account in computing taxable income in the year of change.

(b) When subparagraph (a) of this section 4.03(1) does not apply and the entire net amount of an adjustment is either negative or attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change, the total net adjustment is to be taken into account in computing taxable income for the year of change. The amount attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change is the difference in the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change and the amount of the adjustment that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change in method of accounting had been made for such preceding year.

(c) When neither subparagraphs (a) nor (b) of this section 4.03(1) apply, the total net adjustment is to be taken into account ratably over the number of tax years (not to exceed 3) the taxpayer has used the method of accounting that is being changed.

(2) In applying section 4.03(1), if a taxpayer's books and records do not contain sufficient information to compute the section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the 1, 2, or 3 tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change, the taxpayer may reasonably estimate these amounts and attach the computations upon which the estimates are based and attach and sign the following statement to the Form 3115:

Under penalties of perjury, I hereby certify that:

(a) The books and records of [name of the taxpayer] do not contain sufficient information to permit a computation of the section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the 1-tax year period, 2-tax year period, or 3-tax year period immediately preceding the year of change as required by section 4.03(1) of Rev. Proc. 85-36.

(b) Based on the information that is contained in such records, to the best of my knowledge and belief, the entire amount of the section 481(a) adjustment for the year of change [indicate either "is" or "is not," as the case may be] attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change, and 67 percent [or "75 percent", in applicable cases] or more of the section 481(a) adjustment for the year of change [indicate "is" or "is not", as the case may be] attributable to the 1-tax year period, 2 -tax year period, or 3-tax year period immediately preceding the year of change.

(3) For examples of the application of the rules prescribed in section 4.03(1) with respect to the appropriate period for taking into account the section 481(a) adjustment, see examples in section 5.14 of Rev. Proc. 84-74.

.04 Accounts receivable.

(1) The section 481(a) adjustment shall not include any account receivable that was worthless or partially worthless as of the last day of the year preceding the year of change. See section 1.166-3 of the regulations.

(2) If, during the adjustment period (see section 4.03), any portion of the accounts receivable included in the section 481(a) adjustment becomes worthless or partially worthless, such portion, not previously included in gross income, shall be included in income in the tax year it becomes worthless. This condition will apply regardless of whether the section 481(a) adjustment is positive or negative. This condition is illustrated by the following example.

A, the taxpayer in example 1, section 4.02, has determined that the section 481(a) adjustment is to be taken into account ratably over six tax years.

In 1986, $30,000 of the $120,000 accounts receivable were determined to be worthless. In 1986, A, will not have included in gross income $150,000 of the section 481(a) adjustment ($180,000 less $30,000 included in gross income in 1985). In 1986, A must include in gross income the remaining portion of the accounts receivable determined to be worthless but not previously included in gross income, of $25,000 ($30,000 less the $5,000 portion included in gross income in 1985) plus one-fifth of the remaining balance of the section 481(a) adjustment, $25,000. A total of $50,000 will be included in gross income in 1986.

Amortization of section 481(a) adjustment
1985				30,000
				$150,000
1986	Worthless accounts receivable	$25,000
	1/5 of remaining section 481(a) adjustment ($150,000–25,000)	25,000	50,000
1987			25,000
1988			25,000
1990			25,000	$150,000

(3) If, during the adjustment period (see section 4.03), the accounts receivable as of the last day of any tax year are reduced by more than 33 1/3 percent of the accounts receivable balance at the beginning of the year of change, the balance of the section 481(a) adjustment relating to accounts receivable not previously taken into account shall be included in income in the year the accounts receivable are so reduced. This condition will apply whether the section 481(a) adjustment is positive or negative.

.05 Inventory.

(1) If, during the adjustment period (see section 4.03), the inventory as of the last day of any tax year is reduced by more than 33 1/3 percent of the inventory balance at the beginning of the year of change, and remains reduced for a period of one tax year, then the remaining portion of the section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the inventory not previously deducted shall be included in income at the end of the year succeeding the year of the reduction. This condition would apply whether the section 481(a) adjustment is positive or negative. If the value of the inventory does not remain reduced for one tax year, the reduction is not considered permanent and the provisions of this paragraph do not apply. In applying this section 4.05(1), the 33 1/3 percent rule applies only to the inventory to which the section 481(a) adjustment relates. For an illustration of the kind of computations required by the above rule see the example in section 5.08(1) of Rev. Proc. 84-74.

(2) Section 4.05(1) shall not apply if the taxpayer has shown to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that such reduction is attributable to a strike, involuntary conversion, or involuntary interruption of the availability of goods. This section 4.05(2) shall apply only if the taxpayer has obtained the consent of the Commissioner. The consent must be requested no later than 90 days after the end of the tax year in which section 4.05(1) would otherwise apply.

.06 Bad debts. As part of the change to the accrual method, a taxpayer may adopt the reserve method for bad debts. The initial reserve for bad debts at the beginning of the year of change is included jn the section 481(a) adjustment. The amount established as the initial reserve must be considered in determining the amount of subsequent additions to such reserve, even though the entire amount of the reserve may not have been accounted for because of a spread of the section 481(a) adjustment (see section 4.03). The amount of the bad debt deduction for the year of change and for tax years thereafter will consist of a reasonable addition to the reserve for bad debts as provided by section 166(c) of the Code. In computing the reserve for bad debts, the taxpayer will not include notes receivable sold without recourse or to be sold in the immediate future without recourse. See sections 5.02(2), 5.02(3), and 5.06 of Rev. Proc. 85-8, 1985-1 C.B. 495.

.07 Ceasing to engage in the trade or business.

(1) With respect to a corporation:

If the corporation ceases to engage in the trade or business to which the adjustment (section 4.02) relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 4.03, the taxpayer shall take into account in that year the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing taxable income. See Rev. Rul. 80-39, 1980-1 C.B. 112, which holds that if a division of a corporation, for which a change in method of accounting had been granted, ceases to operate the trade or business for which the change in method was granted, the remaining portion fo the section 481(a) adjustment applicable to the business conducted by that division of the corporation must be taken into account in computing income in the year the corporation ceases to engage in that trade or business. For purposes of this condition, the taxpayer is not considered to have ceased operation of the trade or business if its assets have been acquired by another corporation in a transaction to which section 381 of the Code applies, but in such case the acquiring corporation shall continue to be subject to this revenue procedure as though it were the acquired corporation.

(2) With respect to a partnership:

In the event a partnership terminates or ceases to engage in the trade or business (within the meaning of section 708(b) of the Code) to which the adjustment (section 4.02) relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 4.03, the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing ordinary income shall be taken into account in that year. A partnership ceasing to engage in the trade or business includes the incorporation of the trade or business in a transaction to which section 351 of the Code applies (See Rev. Rul. 77-264, 1977-2 C.B. 187).

(3) With respect to a sole proprietor:

If the individual (sole proprietor) ceases to engage in the trade or business to which the adjustment (section 4.02) relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 4.03, the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing taxable income shall be taken into account in that year. A sole proprietor ceasing to engage in trade or business includes the incorporation of the trade or business in a transaction to which section 351 of the Code applies (See Rev. Rul. 77-264). A sole proprietorship does not cease to engage in that trade or business when the individual taxpayer sells a partial interest in the proprietorship and continues to be actively engaged in the management of the business that is subsequently operated as a partnership. The section 481(a) adjustment remaining at the time the partnership is formed is to be taken into account by the sole proprietor in computing his own taxable income as though there had been no change in ownership (See Rev. Rul. 66-206, 1966-2 C.B. 206).

SEC. 5. COMPLIANCE WITH CONDITIONS

Taxpayers making a change in their overall method of accounting from the cash receipts and disbursements method to the accrual method without complying with all the conditions of this revenue procedure will be deemed to have initiated the change in method of accounting without obtaining the permission of the Commissioner as required under section 446(e) of the Code.

SEC 6. MANNER OF EFFECTING THE CHANGE

.01 A taxpayer applying for a change in method of accounting pursuant to this revenue procedure must complete and file a current Form 3115 in duplicate. The original shall be attached to the taxpayer's timely filed federal income tax return for the year of change. A copy of the Form 3115 shall be filed with the National Office addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:C:C:1, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, no later than 270 days after the beginning of the year of change. In addition to including all of the information required on the Form 3115, the taxpayer must state: (1) that it agrees to all of the conditions of Rev. Proc. 85-36 and that it proposes to take the section 481(a) adjustment into account over the appropriate period required by section 4.03; and (2) the period over which the section 481(a) adjustment will be taken into account and the basis for such conclusion. If it is found that the taxpayer does not qualify for the change in method of accounting under this revenue procedure, the National Office or the district director will so advise the taxpayer.

.02 In order to assist in the processing of these changes in method of accounting and to insure proper handling, reference to this revenue procedure shall be made a part of the Form 3115 by either typing or legibly printing the following statement at the top of page 1 of Form 3115: "FILED UNDER REV. PROC. 85-36."

.03 The signature of the person requesting the change in method of accounting must appear in the space provided for it on the Form 3115. For example, an officer must sign on behalf of a corporation, a general partner on behalf of a partnership, a trustee on behalf of a trust, or a sole proprietor. See the signature requirements set forth in the General Instructions attached to a current Form 3115 for those who are to sign. If an agent is authorized to represent the taxpayer before the Service, to receive the original or a copy of correspondence concerning the request, or to perform any other act(s) regarding the application on behalf of the taxpayer, a power of attorney reflecting such authorization(s) must be attached to the application. Taxpayer's representatives without a power of attorney to represent the taxpayer as indicated in this subsection will not be given any information about the application.

.04 If the taxpayer is a member of an affiliated group that has elected to file a consolidated federal income tax return, a Form 3115 submitted on behalf of the taxpayer must be signed by a duly authorized officer of the common parent. See section 1.1502-77 of the regulations.

SEC. 7. INQUIRIES

Inquiries regarding this revenue procedure may be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:C:C:1, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 8. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective July 29, 1985, the date of its publication. Requests for change in methods that qualify under this revenue procedure and are received in the National Office after the effective date will be returned to the taxpayer. Taxpayers who have timely filed a Form 3115 with the National Office prior to the effective date of this revenue procedure may use the automatic provisions of this revenue procedure and will be notified to this effect by the National Office.

26 CFR 601.204: Changes in accounting periods and in methods of accounting.
(Also Part 1, Sections 446, 481; 1.446-1, 1.481-5.)

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide a procedure whereby certain taxpayers may obtain expeditious consent to change their overall method of accounting from the cash receipts and disbursements method to the accrual method. Taxpayers complying with this revenue procedure will be deemed to have obtained the consent of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue to change their method of accounting.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 446(e) of the Internal Revenue Code and section 1.446-1(e) of the Income Tax Regulations state that, except as otherwise provided, in order to change a method of accounting for federal income tax purposes, a taxpayer must obtain the consent of the Commissioner. Section 1.446-1(e)(3)(i) requires that in order to obtain this consent, generally an application, Form 3115, Application for Change in Accounting Method, must be filed within 180 days after the beginning of the tax year in which the proposed change is to be made. Section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii) authorizes the Commissioner to prescribe administrative procedures setting forth the limitations, terms, and conditions deemed necessary to permit taxpayers to obtain consent to change their method of accounting in accordance with section 446(e).

.02 Section 481(a) of the Code requires that those adjustments necessary to prevent amounts from being duplicated or omitted be taken into account when the taxpayer's taxable income is computed under a method of accounting different from the method used to compute taxable income for the preceding tax year. Section 481(c) and section 1.481-5 of the regulations provide that the adjustment required by section 481(a) may be taken into account in determining taxable income in the manner and subject to the conditions agreed to by the Commissioner and the taxpayer.

SEC. 3. SCOPE

.01 Except as provided in section 3.02 below, this revenue procedure applies to taxpayers who employ the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting as their overall method of accounting and desire to change their overall method of accounting to the accrual method.

.02 This revenue procedure does not apply to:

(1) Financial institutions;

(2) Farmers;

(3) Cooperatives;

(4) Taxpayers required to use an inventory method of accounting in order to clearly determine income. See section 1.471-1 of the regulations and Rev. Proc. 85-36, page 434, this Bulletin;

(5) Individual taxpayers, except for activities conducted as a sole proprietor;

(6) Taxpayers who desire to change to the overall accrual method of accounting and to a special method of accounting, such as a long-term contract method or the method of accounting for prepaid subscription income provided in section 455 of the Code. This exception is illustrated by the following examples.

EXAMPLE 1

X, a corporate contractor, constructs buildings pursuant to long-term contracts and employs the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting. X desires to change to both the overall accrual method of accounting and to use the completed contract method for its long-term contracts.

This revenue procedure does not apply to X because more than a change to the overall accrual method is involved.

EXAMPLE 2

A, a dance instructor, operates as a sole proprietor and receives payments for future services. A uses the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting and desires to change to both the overall accrual method of accounting and to defer recognition of payments for future services as permitted by Rev. Proc. 71-21, 1971-2 C.B. 549.

This revenue procedure does not apply to A because more than a change to the overall accrual method is involved.

EXAMPLE 3

B, a self-employed accountant, employs the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting and desires to change to the accrual method of accounting.

This revenue procedure applies to B.

(7) Taxpayers under examination by the Service when the year or years under examination encompass the tax year in which the cash receipts and disbursements method was first employed by the taxpayer;

(8) Taxpayers who have been contacted in any manner by a representative of the Service for the purpose of scheduling an examination of their federal income tax return(s) for any year and such examination has not been completed;

(9) Taxpayers who at the time of filing Form 3115 are:

(a) Before an appeals office of the Service with respect to an examination of their federal income tax return(s) for any year, unless the taxpayer has obtained an agreement from the appeals officer that there is no objection to the proposed change in method of accounting, or

(b) Before any federal court with respect to an income tax issue arising in any tax year, unless the taxpayer has obtained an agreement from counsel for the Government that there is no objection to the proposed change in method of accounting.

(10) Taxpayers who are the subject of a criminal investigation or proceeding concerning, (a) directly or indirectly the taxpayer's federal tax liability for any year, or (b) the possibility of false or fraudulent statements made by the taxpayer with respect to any issue relating to its federal tax liability for any year.

.03 Taxpayers to whom this revenue procedure does not apply and who desire to change their overall method of accounting to the accrual method should file an application (Form 3115) with the Commissioner in accordance with the requirements of section 1.446-1(e)(3) of the regulations and Rev. Proc. 84-74, 1984-2 C.B. 736.

SEC. 4. APPLICATION

01. Consent. In accordance with section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii) of the regulations, the 180-day period is waived, and, under section 1.446-1(e)(2)(i), consent is hereby granted to taxpayers using the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting to change their overall method of accounting to the accrual method. This consent is granted for the tax year for which a taxpayer requests a change (year of change) by filing a current Form 3115 in the manner described in section 6 of this revenue procedure and by otherwise complying with the provisions of this revenue procedure. See section 5 regarding compliance with conditions of this revenue procedure.

.02 Section 481(a) adjustment. Section 481 of the Code prescribes the rules to be followed in computing taxable income in cases in which the taxable income of a taxpayer is computed under a method of accounting different from the method used to compute the taxable income for the preceding tax year. An adjustment is required to prevent items from being duplicated or omitted when a change in method of accounting is made. The adjustment, referred to as the "section 481(a) adjustment," is the net amount of the adjustment required by section 481(a) of the Code. The "section 481(a) adjustment" takes into account the accounts receivable, accounts payable, and any other item determined necessary in order to prevent items from being duplicated or omitted. The "section 481(a) adjustment" shall be taken into account in computing taxable income in the manner provided in section 4.03 below. Rev. Proc. 79-47, 1979-2 C.B. 528, sets forth the effect of the "section 481(a) adjustment" on corporate earnings and profits. The approved change shall be considered to be a change in method of accounting initiated by the taxpayer. Examples of the computation of the "section 481(a) adjustment" are as follows:

As of December 31, 1984, D, a calendar year taxpayer who uses the overall cash method of accounting, has the following items of unreported income and undeducted expenses:

Income, the right to which is fixed and the amount determinable, but that has not yet been received	$100,000
Expenses, the liability for which is fixed, the amount determinable, and with respect to which economic performance has occurred, but that have not yet been paid	30,000
Amount necessary to establish a reasonable reserve for bad debts	10,000

Taxpayer D changes to the overall accrual method for calendar year 1985. Taxpayer D computes the section 481(a) adjustment in the following manner:

Income that was not included in gross income under D's old method and that will never be included in gross income under D's new method (accounts receivable at December 31, 1984)		$100,000
Less:
Expenses that were not deducted under D's old method and that will never be deducted under D's new method (accounts payable at December 31, 1984)	$30,000
Reserve for bad debts at December 31, 1984, which was not deducted under D's old method and will never be deducted under D's new method	10,000	40,000
Section 481(a) adjustment (positive)		$60,000

EXAMPLE 5

As of December 31, 1984, E, a calendar year taxpayer who uses the overall cash method of accounting, has the following items of unreported income and undeducted expenses:

Income, the right to which is fixed and the amount determinable, but that has not yet been received	$20,000
Expenses, the liability for which is fixed and the amount determinable, and with respect to which economic performance has occurred, but that have not yet been paid	65,000

Taxpayer E changes to the overall accrual method for calendar year 1985. Taxpayer E computes the section 481(a) adjustment in the following manner:

Expenses that were not deducted under E's old method and that will never be deducted under E's new method (accounts payable at December 31, 1984)	$65,000
Less
Income that was not included in gross income under E's old method and that will never be included in gross income under E's new method (accounts receivable at December 31, 1984)	20,000
Section 481(a) adjustment (negative)	45,000

(1) The appropriate period ("adjustment period") for taking into account an adjustment, whether positive or negative, referred to in section 4.02 is generally determined as follows:

(a) When the entire net amount of an adjustment is attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change (first preceding year), the total net adjustment is to be taken into account in computing taxable income for the year of change. The amount attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change is the difference in the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change and the amount of the adjustment that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change in method of accounting had been made for such preceding year.

(b) When subparagraph (a) of this section 4.03(1) does not apply and 67 percent or more of the net amount of an adjustment is attributable to the 1-tax year period, 2-tax year period, or 3-tax year period immediately preceding the year of change, the highest percent attributable to such 1, 2, or 3-tax year period is to be taken into account ratably over a 3-year period beginning with the year of change. Any remaining balance is to be taken into account ratably over an additional period equal to the remainder of the number of tax years the taxpayer has used the method of accounting that is being changed. However, the total adjustment period shall not exceed 6 tax years. This section 4.03(1)(b) only applies if the taxpayer has used the method being changed for more than 3 tax years. If the method of accounting being changed has been used for no more than 4 tax years, 75 percent shall be substituted for 67 percent. An amount attributable to such 1, 2, or 3-tax year period is the difference in the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change and the amount that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change had been made at the beginning of such preceding 1, 2, or 3-tax year period.

(c) In all other situations in which subparagraphs (a) and (b) of this section 4.03(1) do not apply, the total net adjustment is to be taken into account ratably over the number of tax years (not to exceed 6) the taxpayer has used the method of accounting that is being changed.

(2) In applying section 4.03(1), if a taxpayer's books and records do not contain sufficient information to compute the section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the 1, 2, or 3-tax year immediately preceding the year of change, the taxpayer may reasonably estimate these amounts and attach the computations upon which the estimates are based and attach and sign the following statement to the Form 3115.

Under penalties of perjury, I hereby certify that:

(a) The books and records of [name of the taxpayer] do not contain sufficient information to permit a computation of the section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the 1-tax year period, 2-tax year period, or 3-tax year period immediately preceding the year of change as required by section 4.03(1) of Rev. Proc. 85-37.

(b) Based on the information that is contained in such records, to the best of my knowledge and belief, the entire amount of the section 481(a) adjustment for the year of change [indicate either "is" or "is not" as the case may be] attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change, and 67 percent [or "75 percent," in applicable cases] or more of the section 481(a) adjustment for the year of change [indicate "is" or "is not," as the case may be] attributable to the 1-tax year period, 2-tax year period, or 3-tax year period immediately preceding the year of change.

(3) For examples of the application of the rules prescribed in section 4.03(1) with respect to the appropriate period for taking into account the section 481(a) adjustment, see examples in section 5.14 of Rev. Proc. 84-74.

.04 Net Operating Loss Carryovers and Net Operating Losses.

(1) No part of any (consolidated or separate) net operating loss carryover (NOL carryover) available at the beginning of the year of change may be used as an offset against the portion of the positive section 481(a) adjustment taken into account in the year of change. That is, the net operating loss carryover available at the beginning of the year of change may be offset only against income (other than the section 481(a) adjustment) generated in the year of change. This condition will not apply to years subsequent to year of change. Any portion of the positive section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the year of change may be offset against any net operating loss otherwise incurred in the year of change as well as any future net operating loss carryback under section 172(b) of the Code.

(2) Any portion of any net operating loss arising in the year of change or in any subsequent year in the adjustment period that is attributable to the negative section 481(a) adjustment may not be carried to those 3 tax years preceding the year of change to which section 172 of the Code otherwise would require it first to be carried.

.05 Credit carryover

No part of any (consolidated or separate) credit carryover available at the beginning of the year of change may be used to reduce the federal income tax liability resulting from or attributable to, the inclusion in income of a portion of the section 481(a) adjustment in the year of change. This restriction does not apply, however, to a credit arising in the year of change or to any future credit carrybacks to the year of change.

.06 Accounts receivable.

(1) The section 481(a) adjustment shall not include any account receivable that was worthless or partially worthless as of the last day of the year preceding the year of change. See section 1.166-3 of the regulations.

(2) If, during the adjustment period (see section 4.03), any portion of the accounts receivable included in the section 481(a) adjustment becomes worthless or partially worthless, such portion, not previously included in gross income, shall be included in income in the tax year it becomes worthless. This condition will apply whether the section 481(a) adjustment is positive or negative. This condition is illustrated by the following example.

F, a calendar year taxpayer, employs this revenue procedure to change to the overall accrual method of accounting in 1985. The section 481(a) adjustment (positive) of $60,000 was comprised of $120,000, income (accounts receivable as of December 31, 1984) less $60,000, expenses (accounts payable as of December 31, 1984). It is determined that the section 481(a) adjustment is to be taken into account ratably over six tax years.

In 1987, $30,000 of the $120,000 accounts receivable were determined to be totally worthless. In 1987, F will not have included in gross income $40,000 of the section 481(a) adjustment ($60,000 less $10,000 included in gross income in both 1985 and 1986). In 1987, F must include in gross income the remaining portion of the accounts receivable determined to be totally worthless but not previously included in gross income, of $20,000 ($30,000) less the $5,000 portion included in gross income in both 1985 and 1986), plus one-fourth of the remaining balance of the section 481(a) adjustment, $20,000. A total of $25,000 will be included in gross income in 1987.

Amortization of section 481(a) adjustment				$60,000
1985
1986			$10,000
			10,000	20,000
				$40,000
1987	Worthless accounts receivable	$20,000
	1/4 of remaining section 481(a) adjustment ($40,000-20,000)
		5,000	25,000
1988			5,000
1990			5,000	40,000

(3) If, during the adjustment period (see section 4.03), the accounts receivable as of the last day of any tax year are reduced by more than 33 1/3 percent of the accounts receivable balance at the beginning of the year of change, the balance of the section 481(a) adjustment relating to accounts receivable not previously taken into account shall be included in income in the year the accounts receivable are so reduced. This condition will apply whether the section 481(a) adjustment is positive or negative.

.07 Bad Debts. As part of the change to the accrual method, a taxpayer may adopt the reserve method for bad debts. The initial reserve for bad debts at the beginning of the year of change is included in the section 481(a) adjustment. The amount established as the initial reserve must be considered in determining the amount of subsequent additions to such reserve, even though the entire amount of the reserve may not have been accounted for because of the spread of a section 481(a) adjustment (see section 4.03). The amount of the bad debt deduction for the year of change and for tax years thereafter will consist of a reasonable addition to the reserve for bad debts as provided by section 166(c) of the Code. In computing the reserve for bad debts, the taxpayer will not include notes receivable sold without recourse or to be sold in the immediate future without recourse. See sections 5.02(2), 5.02(3), and 5.06 of Rev. Proc. 85-8, 1985-1 C.B. 495.

.08 Ceasing to engage in the trade or business.

(1) With respect to a corporation:

If the corporation ceases to engage in the trade or business to which the adjustment (section 4.02) relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 4.03, the taxpayer shall take into account in that year the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing taxable income. See Rev. Rul. 80-39, 1980-1 C.B. 112, which holds that if a division of a corporation for which a change in method of accounting had been granted ceases to operate the trade or business for which the change in method was granted, the remaining section 481(a) adjustment applicable to the business conducted by that division of the corporation must be taken into account in computing income in the year the corporation ceases to engage in that trade or business. For purposes of this condition, the taxpayer is not considered to have ceased operation of the trade or business if its assets have been acquired by another corporation in a transaction to which section 381 of the Code applies, but in that case the acquiring corporation shall continue to be subject to this revenue procedure as though it were the acquired corporation.

(2) With respect to a partnership:

In the event a partnership terminates or ceases to engage in the trade or business (within the meaning of section 708 of the Code) to which the adjustment (section 4.02) relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 4.03, the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing ordinary income shall be taken into account in that year. A partnership ceasing to engage in the trade or business includes the incorporation of the trade or business in a transaction to which section 351 of the Code applies. (See Rev. Rul. 77-264, 1977-2 C.B. 187.)

(3) With respect to a sole proprietor:

If the individual (sole proprietor) ceases to engage in the trade or business to which the adjustment (section 4.02) relates at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period referred to in section 4.03, the balance of the adjustment not previously taken into account in computing taxable income shall be taken into account in that year. A sole proprietor ceasing to engage in trade or business includes the incorporation of the trade or business in a transaction to which section 351 of the Code applies. (See Rev. Rul.

77-264.) A sole proprietorship does not cease to engage in that trade or business when the individual taxpayer sells a partial interest in the proprietorship and continues to be actively engaged in the management of the business that is subsequently operated as a partnership. The section 481(a) adjustment remaining at the time the partnership is formed is to be taken into account by the sole proprietor in computing his own taxable income as though there had been no change in ownership (See Rev. Rul. 66-206, 1966-2 C.B. 206).

SEC. 5. COMPLIANCE WITH CONDITIONS

Taxpayers making a change in their overall method of accounting from the cash receipts and disbursements method to the accrual method without complying with all the conditions of this revenue procedure will be deemed to have initiated the change in method of accounting without obtaining the permission of the Commissioner as required under section 446(e) of the Code.

SEC. 6. MANNER OF EFFECTING THE CHANGE

.01 A taxpayer applying for a change in method of accounting pursuant to this revenue procedure must complete and file a current Form 3115 in duplicate. The original shall be attached to the taxpayer's timely filed federal income tax return for the year of change. A copy of the Form 3115 shall be filed with the National Office addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:C:C:1, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, no later than 270 days after the beginning of the year of change. In addition to including all of the information required on the Form 3115, the taxpayer must state: (1) that it agrees to all of the conditions of Rev. Proc. 85-37 and that it proposes to take the section 481(a) adjustment into account over the appropriate period required by section 4.03; and (2) the period over which the section 481(a) adjustment will be taken into account and the basis for such conclusion. If it is found that the taxpayer does not qualify for the change in method of accounting under this revenue procedure, the National Office or the district director will so advise the taxpayer.

.02 In order to assist in the processing of these changes in method of accounting and to insure proper handling, reference to this revenue procedure shall be made a part of the Form 3115 by either typing or legibly printing the following statement at the top of page 1 of Form 3115: "FILED UNDER REV. PROC. 85-37."

.03 The signature of the person requesting the change in method of accounting must appear in the space provided for it on the Form 3115. For example, an officer must sign on behalf of a corporation, a general partner on behalf of a partnership, a trustee on behalf of a trust, or a sole proprietor See the signature requirements set forth in the General Instructions attached to a current Form 3115 for those who are to sign. If an agent is authorized to represent the taxpayer before the Service, to receive the original or a copy of correspondence concerning the request, or to perform any other act(s) regarding the application on behalf of the taxpayer, a power of attorney reflecting such authorization(s) must be attached to the application. Taxpayer's representatives without a power of attorney to represent the taxpayer as indicated in this subsection will not be given any information about the application.

.04 If the taxpayer is a member of an affiliated group that has elected to file a consolidated federal income tax return, a Form 3115 submitted on behalf of the taxpayer must be signed by a duly authorized officer of the common parent. See section 1.1502-77 of the regulations.

SEC. 7. INQUIRIES

Inquiries regarding this revenue procedure may be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:C:C:1, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 8. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective July 29, 1985, the date of its publication. Requests for change in methods of accounting that qualify under this revenue procedure and are received in the National Office after the effective date will be returned to the taxpayer. Taxpayers who have timely filed a Form 3115 with the National Office prior to the effective date of this revenue procedure may use the automatic provisions of this revenue procedure and will be notified to this effect by the National Office.

Rev. Proc. 85-38

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to set forth guidelines under which the Internal Revenue Service will issue an advance ruling that a proper method of valuation will be used for the acquired obligations in a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund described in section 103(c)(4)(B) of the Internal Revenue Code and Section 1.103-14(d) of the Income Tax Regulations.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 103(a)(1) of the Code provides that gross income does not include interest on the obligations of a state or a political subdivision of a state. Section 103(c)(1) provides that, with certain exceptions, any arbitrage bond will not be treated as an obligation described in section 103(a)(1). An arbitrage bond is any obligation that is part of an issue all or a major portion (more than 15 percent) of the proceeds of which are reasonably expected to be used to acquire securities that will produce a yield over the term of the issue that is materially higher than the yield on such issue.

.02 Section 103(c)(4)(B) of the Code provides that an obligation shall not be treated as an arbitrage bond solely by reason of the fact that an amount of the proceeds of the issue of which such obligation is a part may be invested in securities or other obligations that are part of a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund. The amount of the bond proceeds invested in securities or other obligations that is part of a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund shall not exceed 15 percent of the proceeds of the issue unless the issuer establishes that a higher amount is necessary.

.03 Section 1.103-14(d)(1) of the regulations provides that, under section 103(c)(4)(B), an obligation shall not be treated as an arbitrage bond solely by reason of the fact that a portion of any proceeds of the issue of which such obligation is a part may be invested in materially higher yield acquired obligations that are part of a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund.

.04 Section 1.103-14(d)(2) of the regulations provides that if an amount in excess of the amount provided in section 1.103-14(d)(1) (including, for example, an amount in excess of 15 percent of the original face amount of the issue) is invested in a reserve or replacement fund, such excess will be considered to be invested in a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund if (i) the issuer applies for a ruling that the specified reserve or replacement fund is necessary, and (ii) a ruling to that effect is subsequently issued to the governmental unit.

.05 A reserve or replacement fund ordinarily will be considered to be "reasonably required" within the meaning of section 103(c)(4)(B) of the Code if such fund does not exceed the lesser of (1) maximum annual debt service, or (2) one and one-quarter times the average annual debt service. See Rev. Proc. 84-26, 1984-1 C.B. 468.

.06 The issuer of municipal obligations may provide in the bond indenture or a similar document that the value of the acquired obligations in the reserve or replacement fund must not be permitted to fall below the amount determined to be reasonably required. Therefore, when the acquired obligations in the reserve or replacement fund decrease in value below the amount determined to be reasonably required, the issuer is required to transfer securities to the fund. The issuer, or other person with a material financial interest in the municipal obligations, may want to request a ruling from the Service that the method of valuing the acquired obligations in the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund will be proper.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

A ruling ordinarily will be issued by the Service that a method of valuing the acquired obligations in a reasonably required reserve or replacement fund will be proper if the following conditions are met:

.01 The issuer of municipal obligations must value the acquired obligations in the reasonably required reserve or replacement fund under either the "cost" or the "fair market value" method of valuation. The issuer must be consistent in the use of the method of valuation adopted.

.02 If the acquired obligations in the reserve or replacement fund are valued at cost but the actual total fair market value of such acquired obligations is less than the amount of the reserve or replacement fund that could be determined to be reasonably required under section 103(c)(4)(B) of the Code, the issuer may not add securities in an amount necessary to increase the reserve or replacement fund to a reasonably required amount calculated on the fair market value method. If the acquired obligations in the reserve or replacement fund are valued at cost but the total fair market value of such acquired obligations is more than the amount of the reserve or replacement fund that could be determined to be reasonably required under section 103(c)(4)(B), the issuer need not reduce the acquired obligations or restrict the yield on the acquired obligations.

.03 If the acquired obligations in the reserve or replacement fund are valued at fair market value and the total value of such acquired obligations is less than the amount of the reserve or replacement fund determined to be reasonably required under section 103(c)(4)(B) of the Code, the issuer may add securities in an amount necessary to restore the reserve or replacement fund to its reasonably required amount.

.04 If the acquired obligations in the reserve or replacement fund are valued at fair market value and the total value of such acquired obligations is more than the amount of the reserve of replacement fund determined to be reasonably required under section 103(c)(4)(B) of the Code, the issuer must reduce the amount of acquired obligations by an amount equal to the excess of the fair market value of the acquired obligations over the amount of the reserve or replacement fund determined to be reasonably required under section 103(c)(4)(B) or restrict a yield on the same amount of acquired obligations in accordance with section 1.103-13(b)(5) of the regulations.

.05 If an issuer uses the fair market value method of valuation, the valuation of the acquired obligations in the reserve or replacement fund must be accomplished on an annual basis unless the bond indenture requires a more frequent valuation.

.06 The requester must comply with the requirements of Rev. Proc. 84-48, 1984-1 C.B. 547, Rev. Proc. 84-49, 1984-1 C.B. 548, and Rev. Proc. 84-50, 1984-1 C.B. 550, whichever are applicable, and any other applicable revenue procedures.

SEC. 4. INQUIRIES

Inquiries with respect to this revenue procedure should refer to its number and should be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revneue, Attention: CC:IND:S, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 5. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure shall be effective with respect to advance rulings regarding the method of valuation of acquired obligations in reasonably required reserve or replacement funds for municipal obligations to be sold after July 29, 1985.

Rev. Proc. 85-39[1]

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide issuers of "mortgage subsidy bonds," as defined in section 103A(b)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code, with a list of the "state ceiling" safe harbor limitations to assist the issuers in determining whether the bonds will be treated as tax-exempt obligations under section 103(a)(1) or (2).

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 103(a) of the Code provides that gross income does not include interest on (1) the obligations of a state, a territory, or a possession of the United States, or any political subdivision of any of the foregoing, or of the District of Columbia, and (2) qualified scholarship funding bonds.

[1]Also released as News Release IR-85-67, dated July 15, 1985

.02 Section 103A was added to the Code by the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980, 1980–2 C.B. 512. Section 103A was amended by Pub. L. 96-595, 1980-2 C.B. 647, the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982, 1982-2 C.B. 462, and the Tax Reform Act of 1984, 1984-3 (Vol. 1) C.B. 1. Section 103A(a) provides that, with certain exceptions, any mortgage subsidy bond will be treated as an obligation not described in section 103(a)(1) or (2). A mortgage subsidy bond is an obligation that is issued as part of an issue a significant portion of the proceeds of which is to be used directly or indirectly to provide mortgages on owner-occupied residences.

.03 Section 103A(b)(2)(A) of the Code provides that any "qualified mortgage bond" will not be treated as a mortgage subsidy bond. A qualified mortgage bond is an obligation issued as part of a "qualified mortgage issue." An issue by a state or political subdivision of a state of one or more obligations is a qualified mortgage issue if (1) all proceeds of the issue (exclusive of issuance costs and a reasonably required reserve) are to be used to finance owner-occupied residences, and (2) the issue meets the requirements of subsections (d), (e), (f), (h), (i), and (j) of section 103A.

.04 In general, an issue meets the requirements of subsection (g) of section 103A of the Code if the aggregate amount of bonds issued under that subsection, when added to the aggregate amount of qualified mortgage bonds previously issued by the issuing authority during the calendar year, does not exceed the authority's market limitation for such calendar year. Each issuer's market limitation is the issuer's proportionate share of the state ceiling limitation. The state proportionate share of the state ceiling limitation. The state ceiling limitation applicable to any state for any calendar year is the greater of (A) 9 percent of the average annual aggregate principal amount of mortgages executed during the immediately preceding 3 calendar years for single-family, owner-occupied residences located within the jurisdiction of the state, or (B) $200,000,000. A state or local government may elect to exchange all or part of their qualified mortgage bond authority for authority to issue mortgage credit certificates. Section 103A(g)(8) provides that the applicable limit of any issuing authority for any calendar year shall be reduced by the sum of the amount of qualified mortgage bonds that such authority elects not to issue under section 25(c)(2)(A) during such year, plus the amount of any reduction in such ceiling under section 25(f).

.05 Temporary Income Tax Regulations relating to the tax-exempt status of certain mortgage subsidy bonds under section 103A of the Code were published in the Federal Register dated July 1, 1981 (46 FR 34311), 1981-2 C.B. 25, and were amended November 10, 1981 (46 FR 55513), 1981-2 C.B. 40; May 24, 1982 (47 FR 22360), 1982-1 C.B. 23; June 8, 1982 (47 FR 24701), 1982-2 C.B. 51; June 29, 1982 (47 FR 28094), 1982-2 C.B. 52; and December 12, 1984 (49 FR 48292), 1985-1 C.B. 49. Section 6a.103A-2(g)(6)(iii) of the temporary regulations provides that an issuer may rely upon the state ceiling safe harbor limitation published by the Department of the Treasury. An issuer may use a limitation different from the published safe harbor limitation if the different limitation is based on more accurate and comprehensive data.

.06 The state ceiling safe harbor limitations for 1984 were released by News Release IR-84-78 on July 18, 1984, and were published in Rev. Proc. 84-53, 1984-2 C.B. 488. Announcement 84-133, 1984-53 I.R.B. 28, announced that issuers of mortgage subsidy bonds to be issued in 1985 may continue to rely on the 1984 state ceiling safe harbor limitations published in Rev. Proc. 84-53 until the 1985 state ceiling safe harbor limitations are published.

.07 Section 103(m)(1) of the Code provides that obligations the interest on which is exempt under provisions outside the Internal Revenue Code must satisfy the appropriate requirements under sections 103 and 103A if issued after December 31, 1983. For purposes of applying such requirements, a possession of the United States shall be treated as a state.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

.01 Issuers of qualified mortgage bonds may rely on the 1985 state ceiling safe harbor limitations contained in this revenue procedure. The safe harbor limitations are based on data and procedures that are employed in the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) coordinated surveys of mortgage lending activity for 1-4 family residences. The estimates of mortgage volume for 1-4 family dwellings in each state are adjusted from a special tabulation of the HUD sponsored Annual Housing Survey to reflect only the amount of mortgages originated that were secured by owner-occupied residences.

.02 The mortgage loan originations secured by owner-occupied residences during 1982, 1983, and 1984 and the 1985 state ceiling safe harbor limitations for each state, the District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, and the Virgin Islands, are listed below (dollars in millions).

PART A.—GENERAL

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

.01 The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide the requirements and conditions for filing information return Forms 1098, 1099, 5498, and W-2G on magnetic tape. THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IS TO BE USED FOR THE PREPARATION OF TAX YEAR 1985 INFORMATION RETURNS ONLY. THIS PROCEDURE IS UPDATED YEARLY TO REFLECT NECESSARY CHANGES. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY. Specifications for filing the following forms are contained in this procedure:

(a) Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

(b) Form 1099-A, Information Return for Acquisition or Abandonment of Secured Property.

(c) Form 1099-B, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds from Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions.

(d) Form 1099-DIV, Statement for Recipients of Dividends and Distributions.

(e) Form 1099-G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Government Payments.

(f) Form 1099-INT, Statement for Recipients of Interest Income.

(g) Form 1099-MISC, Statement for Recipients of Miscellaneous Income.

(h) Form 1099-OID, Statement for Recipients of Original Issue Discount.

(i) Form 1099-PATR, Statement for Recipients (Patrons) of Taxable Distributions Received From Cooperatives.

(j) Form 1099-R, Statement for Recipients of Total Distributions from Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, etc.

(k) Form 5498, Individual Retirement Arrangement Information.

(l) Form W-2G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Gambling Winnings.

.02 This procedure also provides the requirements and specifications for magnetic tape filing under the Combined Federal/State Filing Program. Refer to Part A, Sec. 14.

.03 The following revenue procedures and publications provide more detailed filing procedures for certain information returns, payer identification, transfer agents and paper substitute specifications, respectively.

(a) 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498, and 1096", provide further information on filing returns with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). These instructions are available at local IRS offices.

(b) Rev. Proc. 84-24, 1984-1 C.B. 465, regarding preparation of transmittal documents for information returns.

(c) Rev. Proc. 84-33, 1984-1 C.B. 502, regarding the optional method for agents to report and deposit backup withholding.

(d) Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

.04 This procedure supersedes the following revenue procedure: Rev. Proc. 84-61, 1984-2 C.B. 505, also published in Publication 1220 Rev. (9-84), Requirements and Conditions for Filing Information Returns in the Forms 1099, 5498, and W-2G Series on Magnetic Tape.

.05 Refer to Part A, Sec. 15 for definitions of terms used in this publication.

SEC. 2 BACKGROUND—PRIOR YEAR CHANGES (TAX YEAR 1984)

.01 This section contains a review of the changes described in the revenue procedure last year. Please insure that the necessary reprogramming was accomplished in order to comply with last year's changes as these changes will still be necessary in the programming for the current year.

.02 The following were general changes.

(a) Procedures for applying for waivers for undue hardship were added.

(b) An explanation of penalties was added.

(c) Reports from different branches for one payer were consolidated under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of information return. For example, all like Form 1099-INT documents must be sorted together under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, followed by the appropriate Payee "B" Records and one End of Payer "C" Record.

(d) The explanation of Taxpayer Indentification Numbers (TINs) was rewritten to clarify changes concerning backup withholding and due diligence requirements.

(e) Changes were made to the requirements concerning the paper copy of the information return furnished to the payee.

(f) A definition for "Transfer Agent" was added.

(g) A list of valid U.S. Postal Service State Abbreviations was added to aid in developing the State Code portion of Name Line fields.

(h) The size of the block which IRS programs can accept was increased to 10,000 tape positions.

(i) Records may not span blocks.

(j) Trailer labels EOV1 and EOV2 were added as standard trailer labels IRS programs can process.

.03 The following changes were made to the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record.

(a) Header label UHL1 was added as one of the standard labels IRS programs can process.

(b) Amount Indicator "2" was added for Form 5498.

(c) "Type of Return" and "Amount Indicators" were added for Form W-2G.

(d) The codes for "Type of Payer" and "Payee 'B' Record Surname Indicator" fields should have been deleted from your programs. However, the positions in the record should not have been deleted. Fill these positions with blanks.

(e) The "Second Payer Name" field was shortened from 40 characters to 39 characters. The contents of the "Second Payer Name" field, as well as the contents of the "Payer Shipping Address" and the "Payer City, State and ZIP Code" fields, are dependent upon the value of the "Transfer Agent Indicator".

(f) A "Transfer Agent Indicator" was added following the "Second Payer Name" field. The contents of this field let IRS programs know if the information in "Second Payer Name", "Payer Shipping Address" and "Payer City, State and ZIP Code" pertains to the Payer or to the Transfer Agent.

(g) The name of "Payer Mailing Address" was changed to "Payer Shipping Address". Beginning with Tax Year 1984 returns, IRS notified payers of any information returns not containing valid TINs. This notification includes a payee notice for each such information return. Therefore, we must have an address capable of accepting volume mail.

.04 The following changes were made to the Payee "B" Record.

(a) The meaning of the "Document Specific Code" for Form 1099-G was expanded.

(b) The use of the "Document Specific Code" was increased to include 'Type of Wager for Form W-2G.

(c) PLEASE NOTE: If any one Payment Amount Field exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total MUST be submitted for the Payee. Example: the total money amount to be reported for Payee ABC is $250,371,491.87. Three Payee "B" Records will have to be submitted for Payee ABC to contain the entire total amount. (DO NOT enter dollar signs, commas, or decimal points in the Payment Amount fields.)

(d) New field definitions specific to Form W-2G for positions 293-360 were added.

SEC. 3. NATURE OF CHANGES—CURRENT YEAR (TAX YEAR 1985)

.01 DUE TO NUMEROUS LEGISLATIVE AND FORMS CHANGES BETWEEN TAX YEARS 1984 AND 1985, CHANGES HAVE NOT BEEN LISTED INDIVIDUALLY UNDER THIS SECTION. THIS ENTIRE PUBLICATION HAS BEEN REVISED. REVIEW THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IN ITS ENTIRETY.

SEC. 4. WAGE AND PENSION INFORMATION FILED WITH SSA

.01 Section 8(b), Public Law 94-202, 1976-1 C.B. 503, enacted in January 1976, authorized the combined reporting of FICA detailed information in one consolidated annual W-2 (Copy A) to the Federal government. AS A RESULT, FORMS W-2 AND W-2P ARE TO BE FILED WITH THE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION (SSA), NOT WITH THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE.

.02 SSA will accept magnetic media filing of Forms W-2 and W-2P and has issued the following concerning this: TIB-4a, "Magnetic Tape Reporting, Submitting FICA Wage and Tax Data to the Social Security Administration"; TIB-4b, "Magnetic Tape Reporting, Submitting Annuity, Pension, Retired Pay or IRA Payment to the Social Security Administration"; and TIB-4c, "Diskette Reporting, Submitting FICA Wage and Tax Data to the Social Security Administration". Applications for filing Forms W-2 and W-2P on magnetic media appear in TIBs-4a, 4b, and 4c.

.03 Copies of Social Security Administration publications TIB-4a, 4b, and 4c are available from any local Social Security Administration office or the SSA Regional Magnetic Media Coordinators.

SEC. 5. APPLICATION FOR MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTING AND REQUESTS FOR UNDUE HARDSHIP WAIVERS

.01 For purposes of this revenue procedure, the PAYER is the organization making the payments and the TRANSMITTER is the organization preparing the magnetic tape file. The payer and transmitter may be the same organization. Payers or their transmitters are required to complete Form 4419, Application for Magnetic Media Reporting of Information Returns. A copy of this form, for your use, can be found at the end of this publication. Requests for additional information or forms related to magnetic media processing should be addressed to the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the appropriate service center or the National Computer Center.

On January 1, 1985, the National Computer Center assumed responsibility for the magnetic media processing previously handled by the Philadelphia, Kansas City, and Austin Service Centers. Beginning January 1, 1986, magnetic media processing for ALL service centers will be centralized at the National Computer Center. Addresses are listed in Part A, Sec. 13 of this revenue procedure.

.02 Applications should be filed with the National Computer Center or the appropriate service center 90 days before the due date of the return. IRS will act on an application and notify the applicant, in writing, of authorization to file. A five character Transmitter Control Code will be assigned and included in an acknowledgement letter within 30 days of receipt of the application. Magnetic tape returns may not be filed with IRS until the application has been approved. Do not enter blanks in the "A" Record Transmitter Control Code field; enter the five character Transmitter Control Code which is assigned to you by IRS after you have filed an application and it has been approved.

.03 After you have received approval to file on magnetic media, you do not need to reapply each year UNLESS:

(a) there are hardware or software changes that would affect the characteristics of the magnetic media submission (e.g., changing from diskette to tape filing or vice versa) or,

(b) you discontinue filing on magnetic media for a year (your five character Transmitter Control Code may be reassigned).

If either of these conditions applies to you, you should contact your coordinator for clarification. In ALL correspondence, refer to your current five character Transmitter Control Code to assist the coordinator in locating your files.

.04 IRS will assist new filers with their initial magnetic tape submission by reviewing "test" files submitted in advance of the filing season. Approved payers or transmitters should submit "test" files with the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the appropriate service center or the National Computer Center. You MUST submit a "test" file in order to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program; however, you are encouraged to submit "test" files if you are a new filer on magnetic media. As a guideline, IRS prefers that all "test" files be submitted between September and December. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Do not submit "test" tapes after January 1. If you are unable to submit your "test" file by the end of December, you may only send a sample hardcopy printout or tape dump to the National Computer Center which shows a sample of each record (A, B, C, K and F) used. Clearly mark the hardcopy printout or tape dump as "TEST DATA", and include identification information such as name, address and telephone number of someone familiar with the "test" print or tape dump who may be contacted to discuss its acceptability. After January 1, 1986, submit the "test" print or tape dump showing a sample of each record to the National Computer Center only.

.05 If your magnetic media files have been prepared for you in the past by a service agency, and you now have computer equipment compatible with that of IRS and wish to prepare your own files, you must request your own five character Transmitter Control Code by filing an application, Form 4419, as described above.

.06 If you as an individual or organization are an approved filer on magnetic media and you change your name or the name of your organization, please notify the National Computer Center or service center Magnetic Media Coordinator so that your file may be updated to reflect the proper name.

.07 In accordance with section 1.6041-7(b) of the Income Tax Regulations, payments to providers of medical and health care services from separate departments of a health care carrier may be reported as separate returns on magnetic media. In this case, the headquarters office will be considered to be the transmitter, and the individual departments of the company filing reports will be considered to be payers. A single application form covering all the departments which will be filing on magnetic tape should be submitted. One five character Transmitter Control Code may be used for all departments.

.08 Section 1.6045-1(1) of the Income Tax Regulations requires brokers and barter exchanges to use magnetic media in reporting all Form 1099-B data to the IRS. Generally, NEW brokers and NEW barter exchanges may request an undue hardship exemption by filing an application, by the end of the second month following the month in which they became a broker or barter exchange, with the National Computer Center or service center Magnetic Media Coordinator.

.09 All requests for undue hardship exemptions should be submitted at least 90 days before the due date of the return, except as stated in Sec. 5.08 above.

.10 The requirements to receive a waiver from filing required information returns on magnetic media for tax year 1985 are more stringent than they were for tax year 1984. Filers must submit a written statement requesting an undue hardship waiver from magnetic media filing for a specific period of time, not to exceed one tax year. If the filer requires a waiver for a longer period of time, the filer must reapply at the appropriate time each year (90 days before the due date of the return). Filers may not apply for a waiver for more than one tax year at a time. The written statement must contain the following identification information:

(a) The filer's name and address.

(b) The filer's Taxpayer Identification Number (SSN or EIN).

(c) The period for which the waiver is requested: Tax Year 1985.

(d) The name and telephone number of a person to contact who is familiar with the information contained in the waiver request.

(e) The type of returns and expected volume of each form.

(f) The reason for the request.

(g) The estimated cost for filing the returns on paper, or magnetic media if you prepare the files, and on magnetic media using the services of an agency who will charge you for this service. IF YOU EXPECT TO FILE OVER 500 RETURNS, YOU MUST SUBMIT A COPY OF A WRITTEN COST ESTIMATE FOR MAGNETIC MEDIA FILING FROM A SERVICE AGENCY; FOR 500 OR LESS, SUBMIT AN ESTIMATE AS DESCRIBED ABOVE.

.11 If you request a waiver from filing on magnetic media and it is approved, do not send a copy of the approved waiver to the service centers. Do not staple, paperclip or use rubberbands on any scannable forms. Paper returns are read by an optical scanner (OCR) at the service center.

.12 Waivers are granted on a case-by-case basis and may be approved at the discretion of the service center or National Computer Center Magnetic Media Coordinators. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Waiver requests should be filed 90 days before the due date of the return, except as stated in Sec. 5.08 above.

13. If you are required to file on magnetic media but fail to do so, and you do not have an approved waiver on record, you may be subject to a failure to file penalty. Refer to Sec. 6.02 below.

14. An approved waiver from filing information returns on magnetic media does not provide exemption from ALL filing; you MUST submit your information returns on acceptable paper forms.

.15 A magnetic tape reporting package, which includes all the necessary transmittals, labels, and instructions, will be mailed to all approved filers between October and December and each year.

SEC. 6. FILING OF MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTS

.01 Section 6011(e) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended by the Interest and Dividend Tax Compliance Act of 1983, Pub. L. 98-67, 1983-2 C.B. 352, requires that any person, including individuals, estates and trusts, required to file more than 50 information returns in the aggregate for payments of interest (Forms 1099-INT and 1099-OID), dividends (Form 1099-DIV) or patronage dividends (Form 1099-PATR) for any calendar year, must file such returns on magnetic media. For example, if a payer must file 30 Forms 1099-DIV and 25 Forms 1099-INT, filing on magnetic media is required. This requirement shall not apply if you establish that it will cause you undue hardship. Refer to Sec. 5 above.

.02 The penalty for both the failure to timely file certain information returns and failure to file returns as prescribed by IRS is now $50 per payee up to a maximum of $50,000 a year. However, there is no maximum penalty for returns of 1099-INT, 1099-OID, 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR or 5498. If the failure to file is due to intentional disregard of the filing requirements, the penalty may be greater than $50 per payee and there is no maximum penalty.

.03 Generally, payers are now subject to a $50 penalty for each failure to include the payee's correct TIN on an information return.

.04 Rev. Proc. 84-24, 1984-1 C.B. 465, gives detailed information on preparing transmittal documents for information returns and is available at your local IRS office. Specific guidelines are given on how to report the payer's name, address and TIN on transmittal documents and information returns. Instructions for multiple transmittals and the submission of transmittals by service bureaus or agents are also covered.

.05 THE MAGNETIC TAPE RECORDS ARE TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE NATIONAL COMPUTER CENTER; HOWEVER, PAPER INFORMATION RETURNS ARE TO CONTINUE TO BE FILED WITH THE APPROPRIATE SERVICE CENTERS. See Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Form 4804, Transmittal of Information Returns Reported on Magnetic Media, must accompany magnetic tape submissions. If you file for multiple payers and have the authority to sign the affidavit on Form 4804, you should also submit Form 4802, Multiple Payer Transmittal for Magnetic Media Reporting.

For the IRS to ensure that your actual data records were formatted following THIS revenue procedure, include a hardcopy printout, fast print or tape dump showing a sample of each type of record (A, B, C, K and F) used on the tape. This will be reviewed prior to actual processing to ensure that the data is in the proper format. Be sure to include Form 4804, 4802 or computer generated listing with your tape shipment. IRS encourages the use of a computer generated Form 4804 which includes all necessary information requested on the actual form. DO NOT MAIL THE TAPES AND THE TRANSMITTAL DOCUMENTS SEPARATELY.

Paper information returns must be transmitted to the appropriate service center using Form 1096, Annual Summary and Transmittal of U.S. Information Returns. Do not send information returns filed on paper forms to the National Computer Center.

.06 The affidavit which appears on Form 4804 should be signed by the payer; however, the transmitter, service bureau, paying agent, or disbursing agent may sign the affidavit on behalf of the payer if all of the following conditions are met:

(a) It has the authority to sign the affidavit under an agency agreement (either oral, written, or implied) that is valid under the state law.

(b) It has the responsibility (either oral, written, or implied) conferred on it by the payer to request the TINs of borrowers, recipients, or participants reported on magnetic media or paper returns.

(c) It signs the affidavit and adds the caption "For: (name of payer)."

.07 Although a duly authorized agent signs the affidavit, the payer is held responsible for the accuracy of the Form 4804, and the payer will be liable for penalties for failure to comply with filing requirements.

.08 If a portion of the returns is submitted on paper documents with the service center, include a statement on the Form 1096 that the remaining returns are being filed on magnetic media with the National Computer Center. DO NOT REPORT THE SAME INFORMATION ON PAPER FORMS THAT YOU REPORT ON MAGNETIC MEDIA. IF YOU REPORT PART OF YOUR RETURNS ON PAPER AND PART ON MAGNETIC MEDIA, BE SURE THAT DUPLICATE RETURNS, WITH THE SAME INFORMATION, ARE NOT INCLUDED ON BOTH. This does not mean that corrected documents are not to be filed. If a return has been prepared and submitted improperly, you must file a corrected return as soon as possible. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for requirements and instructions on filing corrected returns.

.09 Reports from different branches for one payer MUST be consolidated under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of information return. For example, all Forms 1099-INT must be sorted together under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record followed by the appropriate "B" Records and one "C" Record.

.10 Health care carriers, or their agents, filing Form 1099-MISC per Part A, Sec. 5.07, may submit part of their returns on paper documents and part on magnetic media if the records of some departments are not maintained on computer files. However, an information return is required if the aggregate amount paid to a health care service provider from all departments equals $600 or more. For example, Department A pays $200, Department B pays $300, and Department C pays $100 to the same health care service provider. The aggregate amount paid from all departments equals $600. The health care carrier or agent must submit either one information return for the aggregate amount of $600 or three separate returns from the departments, indicating the amount paid by each department.

.11 Before submitting magnetic media files, include the following:

(a) A signed Form 4804 or computer generated substitute. If you send two copies of the Form 4804, one will be used as an acknowledgement.

(b) A Form 4802 (if you transmit for multiple payers).

(c) A hard copy printout or listing of the first five and last two blocks of your file. The listing should show a sample of each type of record (A, B, C, K and F) used on the magnetic media being submitted.

(d) The magnetic media with an external identification label as described in Part B, Sec. 1.

(e) On the outside of the shipping container, include a Form 4801 or a substitute for the form which reads "DELIVER UNOPENED TO TAPE LIBRARY—MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTING—BOX ___ of ___." If there is only one container, mark the outside as Box 1 of 1. For multiple containers, include the sequence (i.e., Box 1 of 33, 2 of 33, etc.).

(f) If you were granted an extension and are filing late, include a copy of the approved extension letter with the magnetic media.

.12 IRS will not pay or accept "Collect on Delivery" or "Charged to IRS" shipments of reportable tax information that an individual or organization is legally required to submit. The current policy is to return magnetic materials or requested information at U.S. Government expense.

.13 Files returned to you due to coding or format errors are to be corrected and returned to IRS within 30 days of receipt by the filer.

SEC. 7. FILING DATES

.01 The dates prescribed for filing paper returns with IRS also apply to magnetic media filing. Magnetic media reporting to the IRS for all types of Form 1098, 1099 Series, 5498, and W-2G must be on a calendar year basis.

.02 Information returns filed on magnetic media for Forms 1098, all types of Forms 1099, and W-2G must be submitted to IRS by February 28. The due date for furnishing the required copy or statement to the recipient is January 31.

.03 Information returns filed on magnetic media for Forms 5498 must be submitted to IRS by May 31. Copies of this form or statements are due to the participant by May 31 for contributions made to IRAs and SEPs; however, participant copies or statements for DECs are due the time the contribution is made or January 31, whichever is the later. Form 5498 is filed for contributions to be applied to 1985 that are made between January 1, 1985, and April 15, 1986.

SEC. 8. EXTENSIONS OF TIME TO FILE

.01 If a payer or transmitter of returns on magnetic media is unable to submit their magnetic media file by the dates prescribed in Sec. 7.02 and 7.03 above, submit a letter requesting an extension of up to 30 days to file, as soon as you are aware that an extension will be necessary. The request MUST be filed before the due date of the return. The letter should be sent to the attention of the Magnetic Media Reporting Program at the National Computer Center where the tape file is to be submitted. See Part A, Sec. 13 for the address. The request should include:

(a) The filer's name and address.

(b) The filer's Taxpayer Identification Number (SSN or EIN).

(c) The tax year for which the extension of time is requested: Tax Year 1985.

(d) The name and telephone number of a person to contact who is familiar with the request.

(e) The type of returns and expected volume.

(f) The Transmitter Control Code assigned to the organization or individual requesting the extension (if a number has been assigned).

(g) The reason for the delay and date that you will be able to file.

.02 If an extension of time to file on magnetic media is granted by the National Computer Center, a copy of the letter granting the extension MUST be attached to the transmittal Form 4804 or computer generated substitute when the file is submitted.

SEC. 9. PROCESSING OF MAGNETIC MEDIAL RETURNS

.01 The National Computer Center will process tax information from magnetic media files. All magnetic media files that are received timely by the National Computer Center will be returned to the filers by August 15 of the year in which submitted.

.02 After January 1, 1986, all magnetic media processing will be centralized at the National Computer Center. Due to the volume of input received and the cost to return special containers, special shipping containers should not be used for transmitting data to the National Computer Center since IRS cannot guarantee return of such containers.

.03 Files will be returned to you for correction if they are unprocessable due to format or coding errors, or by the request of the filer. Files must be corrected and returned to the National Computer Center within 30 days of receipt by the filer. The corrected files will be returned to the filer by the National Computer Center within 6 months of receipt. PLEASE BE SURE THAT YOUR FORMAT AND CODING COMPLY WITH THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE. THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IS TO BE USED FOR THE PREPARATION OF TAX YEAR 1985 INFORMATION RETURNS ONLY. AS SOME LEGISLATIVE AND FORMS CHANGES AFFECTING INFORMATION RETURNS OCCUR EACH YEAR, THIS PROCEDURE IS UPDATED TO REFLECT NECESSARY CHANGES. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY.

SEC. 10. HOW TO FILE CORRECTED RETURNS

.01 If a return has been prepared and submitted improperly, you must file a complete corrected return as soon as possible. ALL FIELDS OR BOXES MUST BE COMPLETED WITH THE CORRECT INFORMATION, NOT JUST THE DATA FIELDS NEEDING CORRECTION. If you file corrected returns on paper forms, submit Copy A to the appropriate service center. There are numerous types of errors. It may require more than one transaction to properly correct the initial error. You are strongly encouraged to read this ENTIRE section before attempting to make ANY correction. If the initial return was filed as an aggregate, you must consider this in filing the corrected returns.

.02 Corrected returns submitted to IRS on magnetic media, using a "G" coded Payee "B" Record, may be submitted on the same tape as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, they must be submitted using a separate "A" Record. Corrected returns for different tax years may not be submitted on the same file. Corrected returns are to be identified as corrections on the transmittal document and on the EXTERNAL label of the file.

.03 The instructions that follow will provide information on how to file corrected returns on magnetic media and on paper forms. Please refer to the appropriate chart and type of error for instructions on how to properly file the corrected return(s).

.04 You may file corrected returns on paper forms; however, you are encouraged to file on magnetic media if you file more than 50 corrected returns.

.05 If you file your corrected returns on paper forms, do not submit the paper returns to the National Computer Center. All paper returns, whether original or corrected, must be filed with the appropriate service center. Corrected returns filed on magnetic media must be filed with the National Computer Center. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.

.06 Statements to the recipient or participant should be identified as "CORRECTED" and should be provided to them as soon as possible.

.07 If you file corrected returns on paper forms, use IRS forms or acceptable OCR scannable paper substitutes. Always submit Copy A to the appropriate service center. NOTE: Form W-2G is not required to be in OCR scannable format. Publication 1179, "Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G" provides requirements and instructions. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for paper substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

.08 For further instructions on filing information returns with IRS, refer to the 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498 and 1096." If these instructions are not included in your magnetic media reporting packages, request a copy from your local IRS office.

.09 Type or machine print all information on returns filed on paper.

.10 Use the proper form. If you are in doubt, review the instructions noted in .08 above or contact your local IRS office.

.11 Use only the boxes provided on the paper forms. Do not add additional boxes.

.12 Do not change the title of any box on the paper forms.

.13 Use the same name and TIN (SSN or EIN) for the filer on the Form 1096 transmittal form and all related forms that follow.

.14 A separate transmittal Form 1096 is required for each type of paper information return filed in the 1098, 5498 and 1099 Series. A transmittal Form W-3G is required to transmit paper Forms 1099-R and W-2G. DO NOT USE THE SAME TRANSMITTAL DOCUMENT TO FILE ORIGINAL AND CORRECTED RETURNS WHETHER ON PAPER FORMS OR MAGNETIC MEDIA. A transmittal Form 4804 or computer generated substitute is used to transmit magnetic media. A Form 4802 is a continuation form for a Form 4804. Please utilize a Form 4802 if you file on magnetic media for multiple payers and are an authorized agent for the payer.

.15 Do not staple, fold, paperclip or use rubberbands on any paper information returns filed with IRS. This could impair the OCR scanning process.

.16 Use the correct tax year's forms to file information returns with IRS (i.e., do not submit tax year 1985 returns using 1984 forms). The same is true for magnetic media filing. You must submit your returns filed on magnetic media using the revenue procedure for the tax year of the returns. Forms and revenue procedures are normally updated each year to include necessary changes.

.17 Most information returns contain a "VOID" box and a "CORRECTED" box. The "VOID" box is used only if you make an error while typing or printing the paper forms. Mark this box ONLY when you wish the return to be disregarded or passed over. The OCR scanner at the service centers will not read a "VOID" return; it will pass over it and go to the next form if the "VOID" box is marked. Do not confuse the "VOID" box and the "CORRECTED" box.

.18 On magnetic media files, the Payee "B" Record provides space to enter a Payer's Account Number for the Payee. This same account number may be provided on paper forms. In order to properly file corrected returns, this number will help identify the appropriate incorrect return. DO NOT ENTER A TIN (SSN OR EIN). A PAYER'S ACCOUNT NUMBER FOR THE PAYEE MAY BE A CHECKING ACCOUNT NUMBER, SAVINGS ACCOUNT NUMBER, SERIAL NUMBER OR ANY OTHER NUMBER ASSIGNED TO THE PAYEE BY THE PAYER, WHICH WILL DISTINGUISH THE SPECIFIC ACCOUNT. THIS NUMBER MUST APPEAR ON THE INITIAL RETURN AND ON THE CORRECTED RETURN IN ORDER TO IDENTIFY AND PROCESS THE CORRECTION PROPERLY.

.19 REVIEW BOTH CHARTS 1 AND 2 THAT FOLLOW. The types of errors made will normally fall under one of the four categories listed. Next to each type of error made, you will find a list of instructions to tell you how to properly file the corrected return for that type of error. READ ALL OF THE INSTRUCTIONS LISTED AND FOLLOW THEM FOR THE TYPE OF ERROR MADE ON THE INITIAL RETURN. IN SOME CASES TWO TRANSACTIONS ARE REQUIRED TO PROPERLY FILE CORRECTIONS. IF THE ORIGINAL RETURN WAS FILED AS AN AGGREGATE, YOU MUST CONSIDER THIS IN FILING THE CORRECTED RETURNS.

(PLEASE READ SEC. 10.01 THROUGH 10.19 OF THIS PUBLICATION BEFORE MAKING ANY CORRECTIONS)

Type of Error Made on the Original Return Filed on Magnetic Media	How to File The Corrected Return On Magnetic Media
1. Original return was filed with NO Payee TIN (SSN or EIN), OR the return was filed with an INCORRECT Payee TIN (SSN or EIN). THIS WILL REQUIRE TWO SEPARATE TRANSACTIONS TO MAKE THE CORRECTION PROPERLY. READ AND FOLLOW ALL INSTRUCTIONS FOR BOTH TRANSACTIONS 1 AND 2.	TRANSACTION 1: Identifying return submitted with NO TIN or an INCORRECT TIN A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. Prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or tape dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record) format. 5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W–2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. The information in the "A" Record will be the same as it was in the original submission. 3. The Payee "B" Record must contain exactly the same information as submitted previously EXCEPT: insert a "G" code in tape position 5 of the "B" Record AND for ALL payment amounts used, enter "0" (zero). 4. Corrected returns submitted to IRS using a "G" coded "B" Record may be submitted on the same tape as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, a separate "A" Record is required. 5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the tape "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION." 6. Submit the tape(s), a tape dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.) TRANSACTION 2: Reporting the correct information A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. If you submit records with the corrected information on a separate tape from those that are "G" coded, prepare a new Transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute.

	3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or tape dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format. 5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file with the correct information in ALL records. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. 3. Do not code the payee "B" Record as a corrected return for this type of correction. (Remove the "G" Code.) 4. Provide all of the correct information supplying the correct TIN (SSN or EIN). 5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the tape "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION". 6. Submit the tape(s), a tape dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.)
2. Original return was filed with an incorrect payment amount(s) in the Payee "B" Record, OR a money amount was reported using an incorrect Payment Amount Indicator Code in the original Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Correct Type Of Return indicator was used in the "A" Record. THIS WILL REQUIRE ONLY ONE TRANSACTION TO MAKE THE CORRECTION. (NOTE: If the wrong Type Of Return indicator was used, see number 3 of this chart.)	A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. Prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or tape dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format. 5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. The information in the "A" Record will be the same as it was in the original submission EXCEPT, the correct Amount Indicators will be used. 3. The Payee "B" Record must contain exactly the same information as submitted previously EXCEPT: insert a "G" code in tape position 5 of the "B" Record AND report the correct payment amounts as they should have been reported on the initial return. 4. Corrected returns submitted to IRS using a "G" coded

	"B" Record may be submitted on the same tape as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, a separate "A" Record is required. 5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the tape "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION". 6. Submit the tape(s), a tape dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.)
3. Original return was filed using the WRONG Type of Return indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. (For example, a return was coded using the Type of Return indicator for 1099-DIV and it should have been coded 1099-INT.) B. Form 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 or W-2G
1. Prepare a new information return on the proper type of form.
2. Mark over the "X" in the "CORRECTED" box at the top of the form(s).
3. Enter the Payer, Recipient and Account Number information (if any) exactly as it appeared on the original incorrect return filed with NO TIN or INCORRECT TIN; HOWEVER, enter "0" (zero) for all money amounts.
4. File the transmittal document and Copy A of the returns with the appropriate service center.
5. Do NOT cut the forms that are three to a page.
6. Do NOT staple, paperclip or use rubberbands on the forms.
7. Use a separate transmittal Form 1096 or Form W-3G (depending on the type of return) to transmit the "CORRECTED" return(s).
8. Do NOT include copies of the original return that was filed incorrectly.

TRANSACTION 2: Reporting correct information

A. Form 1096 or W-3G:
1. Prepare a new transmittal Form 1096 or W-3G depending on the type of return being filed.
2. Do NOT mark over the "X" in the "CORRECTED" box at the top of the form for THIS type of correction.
3. Provide all requested information correctly.
4. Type or machine print in upper case letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" in the blank space below the instructions.
5. Do NOT staple this transmittal form to the related returns.
6. Use a separate transmittal form for each type of return.
7. A transmittal Form 1096 or W-3G MUST be present. (Refer to .14 of this section for clarification.)

B. Form 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 or W-2G:
1. Prepare a new information return on the proper type of form.
2. Do NOT mark over the "X" in the "CORRECTED" box at the top of the form(s) for this type of correction. Submit the new returns as though they were originals.
3. Include all of the correct information supplying the TIN (SSN or EIN).
4. File the transmittal document and Copy A of the returns with the appropriate service center.
5. Do NOT cut the forms that are three to a page.
6. Do NOT staple, paperclip or use rubberbands on the forms.
7. Use a separate transmittal Form 1096 or W-3G (depending on the type of return) to transmit the corrected returns. You MUST NOT use the same transmittal used in Transaction 1.
8. Do NOT include copies of the original return that was filed incorrectly.

SEC. 11. TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBERS

.01 Under section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code, recipients of all reportable payments on information returns are required to furnish Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs) to the payer. The number must be furnished to the payer whether or not the payee is required to file a tax return or is covered by social security. Refer to Sec. 15 for a definition of Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN).

.02 The recipient's TIN is used to associate and verify amounts reported to IRS with corresponding amounts on tax returns. Therefore, it is particularly important that correct social security and employer identification numbers for payees be provided on magnetic media or paper forms submitted to IRS. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROES.

.03 Under section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code, a $50 penalty applies for each failure to furnish a TIN to another person who is required to file an information return, and for each failure to include a TIN on an information return. The penalty for payments other than interest or dividends applies unless the failures were due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

.04 With respect to all payers of interest and dividends, section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that the payer must self-assess a $50 penalty for each failure to include a payee's TIN or each inclusion of an incorrect TIN on an information return, unless the payer can demonstrate that the payer met the due diligence requirements in attempting to acquire correct TINs for payees. Use Form 8210, Self-Assessed Penalties Return.

.05 For any reportable payment, if the payee fails to provide a TIN to the payer or if IRS notifies you that the TIN provided is incorrect, then backup withholding must be instituted for that payee. In the case of notice of an incorrect TIN from IRS, the payer must begin withholding on the 31st day after the notice is received. If the payer receives another TIN in the manner required from the payee within 30 days of notice from IRS, no withholding is required.

.06 The TIN to be furnished to IRS depends primarily upon the manner in which the account is maintained or set up on the payer's record. The TIN to be provided must be that of the owner of the account. If the account is recorded in more than one name, furnish the TIN and name of one of the owners of the account. The TIN provided must be associated with the name of the payee provided in the first name line of the Payee "B" Record. For individuals, including sole proprietors, the payee TIN is the payee's social security number. For other entities, the payee TIN is the payee's employer identification number.

.07 Sole proprietors who are payers should show their employer identification number in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. However, sole proprietors who are not otherwise required to have an employer identification number should use their social security number.

.08 Sole proprietors' social security numbers must be used in the Payee "B" Record.

.09 The charts below will help you determine the number to be furnished to IRS for recipients of reportable payments (payees).

SEC. 12. EFFECT ON PAPER RETURNS

.01 Magnetic tape reporting of the information returns listed in Part A, Sec. 1 applies only to the original (Copy A).

.02 For payments of dividends or interest (reported on Forms 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT or 1099-OID), a payer is required to furnish an official Form 1099 to a payee either in a separate mailing by First-Class mail or in person. These forms may not be combined or mailed with other information furnished to the recipient except Forms W-8, W-9, or other Form 1099 statements. The payer may use substitute Forms 1099 if they are substantially similar to the official forms and if the payer complies with all revenue procedures relating to substitute Forms 1099 in effect at the time (see Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G). A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement. Copy B (For Recipient) of the substitute forms must contain the statement "This is important tax information and is being furnished to IRS. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty will be imposed on you if this income is taxable and IRS determines that it has not been reported."

.03 Statements to recipients for Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B, 1099-G, 1099-MISC (except for substitute payments in lieu of dividends and tax-exempt interest), 1099-R, 5498 or W-2G need not be a copy of the paper form filed with IRS. It is important that income items be properly classified for Federal tax purposes on the statement the payer gives to recipients. The message "This information is being furnished to IRS" must appear on the statements. The payer may combine the statements with other reports or financial or commercial notices, or expand them to include other information of interest to the recipient. Also, be sure that all copies of the forms are legible and provide the recipient with applicable instructions that appear on the back of the recipient's copy of the official IRS form so that the information may properly be used by the recipient in meeting his or her tax obligations.

.04 If a portion of the returns is reported on magnetic tape and the remainder is reported on paper forms, those returns not submitted on magnetic tape must be filed on official forms or on acceptable paper substitutes meeting specifications in Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

SEC. 13. MAGNETIC MEDIA COORDINATOR CONTACTS

.01 On January 1, 1985, the National Computer Center assumed responsibility for the magnetic media processing previously handled by the Philadelphia, Kansas City, and Austin Service Centers. Beginning January 1, 1986, magnetic media processing for all service centers will be centralized at the National Computer Center. On or after January 1, 1986, please direct all requests for magnetic media related publications, information, undue hardship waivers, or forms to the following address:

SEC. 14. COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING

.01 The Combined Federal/State Program was established to simplify information returns filing for the taxpayer. IRS will accept, upon prior approval, magnetic tape files containing state reporting information only for those states listed in Table 1 in this section. FORMS 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B and W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM.

.02 To request approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, a "test" file, coded for this program, must be submitted between September and December using the revenue procedure that will be used for the actual data files. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information. See Part A, Sec. 5.04 for general guidelines on submission of "test" files. Each record, both in the "test" file and actual data file, must be 360 positions in length, and the file must conform exactly to the revenue procedure for the tax year of the actual data. Combined Federal/State records must be coded using each state's dollar criteria from Table 2 of this Section for each type of return. If the "test" tape is determined to be acceptable, IRS will return it to the filer with a letter of approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program. Form 6847, Consent For Internal Revenue Service to Release Tax Information, will be included with the letter of approval. You must complete Form 6847, include your 5 character Transmitter Control Code on the form, and return it to IRS before IRS will release tax information to any of the participating states. Do not submit actual data records coded for the Combined Federal/State Program without prior approval from IRS. The first time you submit actual data files coded for this program, include the signed Form 6847.

.03 States that participate in this program and the valid state code assigned to each are listed in Table 1 of this Section. If the state that you wish information released to does not participate in the program, do not code your records for that state. If the state participates, if you have received prior approval, and if all other conditions are met, IRS will forward the tax information to the participating state at no charge to the filer.

.04 IF CORRECTIONS MUST BE MADE, IRS WILL NOT TRANSMIT CORRECTED RETURNS TO THE STATES. THIS WILL BE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE FILER.

.05 IRS will make no attempt to process files with any deviations. Approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program will be revoked if any files are submitted that do not totally conform.

.06 IRS is acting as a forwarding agent ONLY. Some participating states require separate notification that you are filing in this manner. It is your responsibility to contact the appropriate states for further information.

.07 The appropriate state code should be entered for those documents which meet that state's filing requirements. It is the filer's responsibility to determine the state code to be used and to obtain the filing requirements from the appropriate state(s).

.08 If you meet all of the requirements for this program, you must provide the state totals from the "K" record on a separate Form 4804, Transmittal of Information Returns on Magnetic Media (or Form 4802, Multiple Payer Transmittal For Magnetic Media Reporting) or computer generated substitute for each state, or you must include a listing which identifies each state and the "K" record totals for each.

.09 If you have met ALL of the above conditions:

(a) You must submit all records using 360 positions which indicate the appropriate coding related to this program.

(b) The "C" record must be followed by a "K" Record for each state. The "K" record indicates the number of payees (different TINs) being reported to each particular state.

(c) Payment amount totals and the valid participating state code must be included in the state totals "K" Record. Refer to Part B, Sec. 7, for a description of the "K" Record.

(d) The "K" record is followed by an end of transmission "F" Record (if this is the last record of the entire file).

.10 Only those states listed in Table 1 below will receive informat from IRS. It is the filer's responsib to file information returns with st that do not participate in this progr

NR—No filing requirement.

Footnotes:

a. These requirements apply to individuals and business entities.

b. Amounts are aggregates of several types of income from the same payroll.

c. State regulation changing filing requirement from $600 to $10 is pending.

d. $10.01 for Savings and Loan Associations and Credit Unions.

e. $600.01 for Rents and Royalties.

f. Aggregate both types of returns. The state would prefer those returns filed with respect to non-Missouri residents to sent directly to the state agency.

g. Aggregate of several types of income.

h. Return required for state of Oregon residents only.

i. Same as Federal requirements for this type of return.

*NOTE: Filing requirements for any state not shown on the above chart are the same as the Federal requirement.

SEC. 15. DEFINITIONS OF TERMS

Element	Description
b	Denotes a blank position. Enter blank(s) when this symbol is used (do not enter the letter "b"). This appears in numerous areas throughout the record descriptions.
Coding Range	Indicates the allowable codes for a particular type of statement.
EIN	Employer Identification Number that has been assigned by IRS to the reporting entity.
Excess Golden Parachute Payment	Parachute payments (also called "golden parachutes") are certain payments in the nature of compensation which corporations make to key individuals, often in excess of their usual compensation, in the event that ownership or control of the corporation changes.
File	For purposes of this procedure, a file consists of all magnetic tape records submitted by a Payer or Transmitter.
Payee	Person(s) or organization(s) receiving payments from the Payer, or for whom an information return must be filed.
Payer	Person or organization, including paying agent, making payments or the person liable for filing an information return. The Payer will be held responsible for the completeness, accuracy and timely submission of magnetic tape files.
Special Character	Any character that is not a numeral, a letter or a blank.
SSA	Social Security Administration.
SSN	Social Security Number.
Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)	May be either an EIN or SSN.
Transfer Agent (Paying Agent)	The transfer agent or paying agent is the entity who has been contracted or authorized by the payer to perform the services of paying and reporting backup withholding (Form 941). The payer must submit to IRS a Form 2678, Employer Appointment of Agent under Section 3504, which notifies IRS of the transfer agent relationship.
Transmitter	Person or organization preparing magnetic tape file(s). May be Payer or agent of Payer.
Transmitter Control Code (TCC)	A five character number assigned by IRS to the transmitter prior to actual filing on magnetic media. This number is inserted in the "A" Record of your files and must be present before the file can be processed. An application Form 4419 must be filed with IRS to receive this number. See Part A, Sec. 5. (Abbreviation for this term is TCC.)

SEC. 16. U.S. POSTAL SERVICE STATE ABBREVIATIONS

You MUST use the following U.S. Postal Service state abbreviations when developing the state code portion of address fields. (This table provides state abbreviations only and does not represent those states participating in the Combined Federal/State Program. For a list of states that participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, refer to Sec. 14.10.)

PART B. TAPE SPECIFICATIONS

SECTION 1. GENERAL

.01 The specifications contained in this part of the revenue procedure define the required format and contents of the records to be included in the tape file. These specifications must be adhered to unless deviations have been specifically granted by IRS in writing.

.02 In most instances, IRS will be able to process any compatible tape files. Compatible tape files must meet any one set of the following:

(a) 9 channel EBCDIC (Extended Binary Coded Decimal Interchange Code) with

(1) Odd Parity and

(2) A density of 800, 1600, or 6250 BPI.

(b) 9 channel ASCII (American Standard Coded Information Interchange) with

(1) Odd Parity and

(2) A density of 800, 1600, or 6250 BPI.

(c) 7 channel BCD (Binary Coded Decimal) with

(1) Either Even or Odd Parity and

(2) A density of 556 or 800 BPI. (The IRS will accept and process 7 channel tapes; however, 9 channel is preferred.

.03 All compatible tape files must have the following characteristics:

(a) Type of tape—0.5 inch (12.7 mm) wide, computer grade magnetic tape on reels of up to 2400 feet (731.52 m) within the following specifications:

(1) Tape thickness: 1.0 or 1.5 mils and

(2) Reel diameter: 10.5 inch (26.67 cm), 8.5 inch (21.59 cm), or 7 inch (17.78 cm).

(b) Interrecord Gap—3/4 inch.

.04 Payers who can substantially conform to these specifications, but who require some minor deviations, MUST contact the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the National Computer Center or the service centers. Under no circumstances may tapes deviating from the specifications in this revenue procedure be submitted without prior written approval from IRS. If you file under the Combined Federal/State Program, your files must conform totally to this revenue procedure.

.05 An external label must appear on each tape submitted for processing. The following information is needed:

(a) The transmitter's name.

(b) The five character Transmitter Control Code.

(c) The type of computer equipment that the data was prepared on.

(d) The type of tape drive utilized.

(e) Tape density.

(f) Track (e.g., 7 or 9).

(g) Parity (e.g., Odd or Even).

(h) Recording code (e.g., EBCDIC or ASCII).

(i) The tax year of the data (e.g., 1985).

(j) Document types (e.g., 1099 INT).

(k) The total number of payers (from the "F" record).

(l) The total number of payees (from the "C" record).

(m) The total number of reels in the file.

(n) A reel number assigned by the transmitter.

(o) The sequence of each reel (e.g., 001 of 008).

This information will assist IRS in processing the file or in locating a file, should the transmitter request that it be returned due to errors. IRS advises that special shipping containers not be used for transmitting data since it cannot be guaranteed that they will be returned.

SEC. 2. RECORD LENGTH

.01 The tape records defined in this revenue procedure may be blocked or unblocked, subject to the following:

(a) A block must not exceed 10,000 tape positions.

(b) A record must be a minimum of 200 positions and a maximum of 360 positions. A FIXED RECORD OF 360 POSITIONS IS RECOMMENDED. If you report as a Combined Federal/State filer, your lengths must be 360 for all records: A, B, C, K, and F. Use a "K" Record only if you are an approved Combined Federal/State filer.

(c) If the use of blocked records would result in a short block, all remaining positions of the block must be filled with 9s. Do not pad a block with blanks.

(d) All records except the Header and Trailer Labels, may be blocked.

(e) Records may not span blocks.

.02 A provision is made in the Payee "B" Records for special data entries. These entries are optional. If the field is utilized, it must be present on all Payee "B" Records. The field is intended to serve one or both of these purposes:

(a) Contain information required by state or local governments. Filers who wish to use this option for satisfying state or local reporting requirements should contact their state or local department of revenue for filing instructions. Also refer to Part A, Sec. 14.

(b) Facilitate making all records the same length.

SEC. 3. OPTIONS FOR FILING

For filing convenience, this revenue procedure contains two options for using Header Labels and Payer/Transmitter "A" Records. For the purposes of this revenue procedure the following conventions must be used.

Header Label:

1. Payers may use standard headers provided they begin with 1HDR, HDR1, VOL1, VOL2, UHL1 or "bLABEL".

2. Consist of a maximum of 80 positions.

3. Position 9 MUST NOT contain the letters A, B, C, F, or K.

Trailer Label:

1. Standard trailer labels may be used provided that they begin with 1EOR, 1EOF, EOR1, EOF1, EOV1 or EOV2.

2. Consist of a maximum of 80 positions.

Record Mark:

1. Special character used to separate blocked records on tape.

2. Can be written only at the end of a record or block.

3. For odd parity tapes, use BCD bit configuration 011010 ("A82").

Tape Mark:

1. Used to signify the physical end of the recording on tape.

2. For even parity, use BCD configuration 001111 ("8421").

3. May follow the header label and precede and/or follow the trailer label.

Option 1: When using this option, a correct Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, described in Sec. 4 below, is required as the first record on each file. The reel sequence number must appear in positions 3-5 of each "A" Record and must be incremented by 1 on each tape reel of the file after the first reel. Filers using this option may have Header Labels preceding the "A" Record, however, headers are not required

Option 2: Requires a Header Label as the first record on each reel. The Header Label must contain the reel sequence number and it must be incremented by 1 on each reel after the first reel. The "A" Record will contain the location of the reel sequence number in the Header Label. If your system generates a four digit reel sequence number, ignore the first digit when determining the location for the purposes of the "A" Record. This option requires a Trailer Label at the end of each reel.

Examples for Option 2 filing:

Example 1: If your Header Label reel sequence is four digits (e.g. 0001) and is in positions 28-31, enter "29" as the location in position 3 and 4 of the "A" Record and also enter an "X" in position 5 of the "A" Record.

Example 2: If your Header Label reel sequence is 3 digits (e.g. 001) and is in positions 10-12, enter "10" as the location in positions 3 and 4 of the "A"; Record and also enter an "X" in position 5 of the "A" Record.

SEC. 4. PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

.01 Identifies the payer and transmitter of the tape file and provides parameters for the succeeding Payee "B" Records. IRS computer programs rely on the absolute relationship between the parameters and data fields in the "A" Record and the data fields in the "B" Records to which they apply.

.02 The number of "A" Records appearing on a tape reel will depend on the number of payers and the different types of returns being reported. After the header label on the tape, the first record appearing in the file must be an "A" Record. For magnetic tape filing, the actual record lengths for the "A" and "B" Records must agree with whatever is entered in tape positions 28-30 and 31-33 of the "A" Record. A transmitter may include Payee "B" records for more than one payer on a tape reel; however, each GROUP of Payee "B" Records must be preceded by an "A" Record. A single tape reel may also contain different types of returns, but the types of returns must not be intermingled. A separate "A" Record is required for each type of return being reported. An "A" Record may be blocked with "B" Records; however, the initial record on a file must be an "A" Record. The IRS will accept an "A" Record after a "C" Record; but RECORDS MAY NOT SPAN BLOCKS. Do not begin any record at the end of a block and continue the same record into the next block.

RECORD NAME: PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "A".
2	Payment Year	1	REQUIRED. Must be the right most digit of the year for which information is being reported. (e.g., if payments were made in 1985, enter "5"). Must be incremented each year.
3-5	Reel Sequence Number	3	REQUIRED. Use in the following manner depending on the filing option selected as described in SEC. 3. above: Filing Option — Usage Option 1 — Contains the reel sequence number of the file on which this Payer/Transmitter "A" Record resides. Format will be nnn. Option 2 — Contains the location of the reel sequence number in the Header Label of the file on which this Payer/Transmitter "A" Record resides. Format will be nnX.
6-14	Payer's Federal EIN	9	REQUIRED. Must be the valid 9-digit number assigned to the payer by IRS. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROES.
15	Blank	1	REQUIRED. Enter blank.
16	Combined Federal/State Filer	1	REQUIRED. Enter the appropriate code from the table below. Prior approval is required. A Consent Form 6847 must be submitted to IRS before tax information will be released to the States. Refer to Part A, Sec. 14.11 for money criteria. Not all states participate in this Program. If the Payer/Transmitter is not participating in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program, enter blanks. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 14 for the requirements that must be met prior to actual participation in this program.) Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B and W-2G cannot be filed on this Program.

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
			Code — Meaning 1 — Participating in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program. blank — Not participating.
17	Type of Return	1	REQUIRED. Enter appropriate code from table below: Type of Return — Code 1098 — 3 1099-A — 4 1099-B — B 1099-DIV — 1 1099-G — F 1099-INT — 6 1099-MISC — A 1099-OID — D 1099-PATR — 7 1099-R — 9 5498 — L W-2G — W
18-26	Amount Indicators	9	REQUIRED. In most cases, the boxes or Amount Indicators on paper information returns correspond with the Amount Codes used to file on magnetic media; however, should you notice discrepancies, please disregard them and program according to this revenue procedure for your returns filed on magnetic media. The amount indicators entered for a given type of return indicate type(s) of payment(s) which were made. Example: If position 17 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is "6" (for 1099-INT) and positions 18-26 are "123bbbbbb", this indicates that 3 payment amount fields are present in all of the following Payee "B" Records. The first payment amount field in the Payee "B" Record will represent Earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposit, etc., the second will represent Amount of forfeiture, and the third will represent Federal income tax withheld. Enter the Amount Indicators in ASCENDING SEQUENCE, left justify, filling unused positions with blanks. For any further clarification of the Amount Indicator codes, you may contact the service center or National Computer Center Magnetic Media Coordinators listed in Part A, Sec. 13.
	Amount Indicators Form 1098-Mortgage Interest Statement (New Form)		For Reporting Mortgage Interest Received from Payer(s) on Form 1098: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Mortgage interest received from payer(s) 2 — Optional field for items such as real estate taxes or insurance paid from escrow.
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-A—Acquisition or Abandonment of Secured Property (New Form)		For Reporting the Acquisition or Abandonment of Secured Property on Form 1099-A: Amount Code — Amount Type 2 — Amount of debt outstanding

		3	Amount of debt satisfied
		4	Fair market value of property at acquisition or abandonment
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-B—Proceeds from Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-B:

Amount Code	Amount Type
2	Stocks, bonds, etc. (For Forward Contracts see NOTE below.)
3	Bartering
4	Federal income tax withheld
6	Profit (or loss) realized in 1985
7	Unrealized profit (or loss) on open contracts--12/31/84
8	Unrealized profit (or loss) on open contracts—12/31/85
9	Aggregate profit (or loss)

NOTE: The Payment Amount field associated with Amount Code 2 may be used to represent a loss when the reporting is for Forward Contracts. Refer to Payee "B" Record-General Field Descriptions, Payment Amount Fields, for instructions in reporting negative amounts.

Amount Indicators Form 1099-DIV—Dividends and Distributions

For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-DIV:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Gross dividends and other distributions on stock
2	Dividends qualifying for exclusion
3	Dividends not qualifying for exclusion
4	Federal income tax withheld
5	Capital gain distributions
6	Nontaxable distributions (if determinable)
7	Foreign tax paid
8	Cash liquidation distributions
9	Noncash liquidation distributions (Show fair market value)

Amount Indicators Form 1099-G—Certain Government Payments

For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-G:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Unemployment compensation
2	State or local income tax refunds
4	Federal income tax withheld
5	Discharge of indebtedness
6	Taxable grants
7	Agriculture payments

Amount Indicators Form 1099-INT—Interest Income

For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-INT:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Earnings from savings and loan associations,

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
			credits unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposit, etc.
		2	Amount of forfeiture
		3	Federal income tax withheld
		4	Foreign tax paid (if eligible for foreign tax credit)
		5	U.S. Savings Bonds, etc.
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-MISC—Miscellaneous Income (See Notes 1, 2 and 3)		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-MISC:
		Amount Code	Amount Type
		1	Rents
		2	Royalties
		3	Prizes and awards
		4	Federal income tax withheld
		5	Fishing boat proceeds
		6	Medical and health care payments
		7	Nonemployee compensation
		8	Direct sales "indicator" (see NOTE 1)
		9	Substitute payments in lieu of dividends or interest (see NOTE 2)

NOTE 1: Use Amount Code "8" to report direct sales of $5000 or more of consumer products on a buy-sell, deposit-commission, or other basis for resale. If not for resale, enter a "0" (zero) in tape position 4 of the Payee "B" Record. Please refer to the "B" Record Document Specific Code for clarification. The use of Amount Code "8" actually reflects an indicator of direct sales and not an actual payment amount or amount code. The corresponding payment amount field in the Payee "B" Record MUST be reflected as 0000000100. This does not mean that a payment of $1.00 was made or is being reported. The use of Amount Code "8" relates directly to tape position 4, Document Specific Code and Note 2 of the Payment Amount Field in the Payee "B" Record.

NOTE 2: Brokers are subject to a new reporting requirement for payments received after 1984. Brokers who transfer securities of a customer for use in a short sale must use Amount Code 9 of Form 1099-MISC to report the aggregate payments received in lieu of dividends or tax-exempt interest on behalf of a customer while the short sale was open. Generally, for substitute payments in lieu of dividends, a broker is required to file a Form 1099-MISC for each affected customer who is not an individual. Refer to the 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498, and 1096" for detailed information. (The instructions are available from local IRS offices.)

NOTE 3: If you are reporting Excess Golden Parachute Payments, use paper forms 1099-MISC. Do not report Excess Golden Parachute Payments on magnetic media for tax year 1985. See Part A, Sec. 15 for a definition of an Excess Golden Parachute Payment.

	Amount Indicators Form 1099-OID—Original Issue Discount		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-OID:
		Amount Code	Amount Type
		1	Total original issue discount (ratable) for the tax year covered by the return
		2	Stated interest (the regular interest paid on this obligation without regard to any original issue discount)
		3	Amount of forfeiture
		4	Federal income tax withheld

RECORD NAME: PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD—Continued

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-PATR—Taxable Distributions Received From Cooperatives		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-PATR:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Patronage dividends
2	Nonpatronage distributions
3	Per-unit retain allocations
4	Federal income tax withheld
5	Redemption of nonqualified notices and retain allocations
6	Investment credit (See NOTE)
7	Energy investment credit (See NOTE)
8	Jobs credit (See NOTE)

NOTE: The amounts shown for Amount Indicators "6", "7" and "8" must be reported to the payee; however, since these amounts are not taxable, they need not be reported to IRS.

Amount Indicators Form 1099-R—Total Distributions from Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, Etc. (See NOTE)

For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-R:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Amount includable as income (add amounts in codes 2 and 3)
2	Capital gain (for lump-sum distributions only)
3	Ordinary income
4	Federal income tax withheld
5	Employee contributions to profit-sharing or retirement plans
6	IRA, SEP or DEC distributions
8	Net unrealized appreciation in employer's securities
9	Other

NOTE: For tax year 1985 reporting, coding is not provided to report to IRS, on magnetic media, any state income tax withheld.

Amount Indicators Form 5498—Individual Retirement Arrangement Information

For Reporting Payments on Form 5498:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Regular IRA, SEP or DEC contributions made in calendar year 1985 for tax year 1984 reporting
2	Rollover IRA, SEP or DEC contributions
3	Regular IRA, SEP or DEC contributions made in calendar year 1985 and 1986 for tax year 1985 reporting
4	Allocable life insurance cost included in code 3 for endowment contracts only

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
	Amount Indicators Form W-2G—Certain Gambling Winnings		For Reporting Payments on Form W-2G: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Gross winnings 2 — Federal income tax withheld 7 — Winnings from identical wagers
27	Blank	1	REQUIRED. Enter blank.
28-30	"A" Record Length	3	REQUIRED. Enter the number of positions used or that you have allowed for the "A" Record. For magnetic tape filing, the "actual" record length must agree with whatever you enter in this field.
31-33	"B" Record Length	3	REQUIRED. Enter the number of positions used or that you have allowed for the "B" Record. For magnetic tape filing, the "actual" record length must agree with whatever you enter in this field.
34	Blank	1	REQUIRED. Enter blank.
35-39	Transmitter Control Code (TCC)	5	REQUIRED. Enter the 5 character Transmitter Control Code assigned by IRS. See Part A, Sec. 15 for a definition of Transmitter Control Code (TCC). You must have a TCC to file actual data on this program.
40	Blank	1	REQUIRED. Enter blank.
41-80	First Payer Name	40	REQUIRED. Enter the name of the payer in the manner in which it is used in normal business. Any extraneous information must be deleted from the name line. Left justify and fill with blanks.
81-119	Second Payer Name	39	REQUIRED. The contents of this field are dependent upon the TRANSFER AGENT INDICATOR in position 120 of this record. If the Transfer Agent Indicator contains a "1", this field will contain the name of the Transfer Agent. If the Transfer Agent Indicator contains a "0" (zero), this field will contain either a continuation of the First Payer Name field or blanks. Left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. IF NO ENTRIES ARE PRESENT FOR THIS FIELD FILL WITH BLANKS. (See Sec. 15 for a definition of Transfer Agent.)
120	Transfer Agent Indicator	1	REQUIRED. Identifies the entity in the Second Payer Name field. (See Part A, Sec. 15 for a definition of Transfer Agent.) Code — Meaning 1 — The entity in the Second Payer Name field is the Transfer Agent. 0 (zero) — The entity shown is not the Transfer Agent (i.e. the Second Payer Name field contains either a continuation of the First Payer Name field or blanks).
121-160	Payer Shipping Address	40	REQUIRED. If the TRANSFER AGENT INDICATOR in position 120 is a "1" enter the shipping address of the Transfer Agent. Otherwise, enter the shipping address of the payer. Left justify and fill with blanks.

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
161-200	Payer City, State and ZIP Code	40	REQUIRED. If the TRANSFER AGENT INDICATOR in position 120 is a "1" enter the city, state and ZIP Code of the Transfer Agent. Otherwise, enter the city, state and ZIP Code of the payer. Left justify and fill with blanks.
201-280	Transmitter Name	80	REQUIRED. Enter the name of the transmitter in the manner in which it is used in normal business. The name of the transmitter must be constant through the entire file. Left justify and fill with blanks.
281-320	Transmitter Mailing Address	40	REQUIRED. Enter the mailing address of the transmitter. Left justify and fill with blanks.
321-360	Transmitter City, State and ZIP Code	40	REQUIRED. Enter the city, state, and ZIP Code of the transmitter. Left justify and fill with blanks.

SEC. 5. PAYEE "B" RECORD—GENERAL FIELD DESCRIPTIONS

.01 The Payee "B" Record contains the payment information from the individual statements. When filing information documents on tape(s), the format for the Payee "B" Records will vary in relation to the number of payment amount fields being reported. The number of payment amount fields will depend upon on the number of Payment Amount Indicator Codes used in positions 18-26 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT, position 17 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record will be coded with a "6". If the Amount Indicators used to report this interest are Amount Codes "1", "2", and "3", then tape positions 18-26 of the "A" Record will be coded "123bbbbbb" (b represents a blank position). To correspond with Amount Indicators "1", "2" and "3" of the "A" Record, the "B" Record will contain three payment amount fields. Tape positions 31-40 of the "B" Record will contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "1" (earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposits, etc.); tape positions 41-50 of the "B" Record would contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "2" (amount of forfeiture); and tape positions 51-60 of the "B" Record would contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "3" (Federal income tax withheld). The First Payee Name Line must begin immediately after the last payment amount that is used. In this example, the First Payee Name Line would begin in tape position 61.

.02 All records must be a fixed length. Records may be blocked or unblocked. Records may not span blocks. A block may not exceed 10,000 tape positions. DO NOT PAD A BLOCK WITH BLANKS. If the use of blocked records would result in a short block, all remaining positions of the block must be filled with 9s.

.03 All payee records must contain correct payee name and address information entered in the fields prescribed in this section. Any records containing an invalid TIN (SSN or EIN) and having no address data present will be returned for correction.

.04 IRS must be able to identify the surname associated with the TIN (SSN or EIN) furnished on a statement. The specifications below include a field in the payee records called "Name Control" in which the first four alphabetic characters of the payees' surname or last name are to be entered by the payers. The surname or last name should appear first in the First Payee Name Line of all Payee "B" Records; however, if your records have been developed using the first name first, IRS programs will accept this but, a blank must appear between the first and last name.

.05 If payers are unable to provide the first four characters of the surname, the Name Control Field may be left blank; however, compliance with the following will facilitate IRS computer programs in generating the Name Control.

(a) The surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record should always appear first. If however, you enter the first name first, you must leave a blank space between the first and last name.

(b) In the case of multiple payees, only the surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record, must be present in the First Payee Name Line. Surnames of any other payees in the record must be entered in the Second Payee Name Line.

.06 Provision is also made in these specifications for data entries required by state or local governments. This should minimize the Payer/Transmitter's programming burden should payers desire to report on tape to state or local governments. See Part A, Sec. 14, for the Combined Federal/State filing requirements.

.07 Those filers participating in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program must have 360 position records. Positions 359 and 360 in the Payee "B" Records must contain the appropriate state code for the state to receive the information. The file should also meet the money criteria described in Part A, Sec. 14.11. Do not code for the states unless prior approval to participate has been granted by IRS. See Part A, Sec. 14 for a list of the valid participating state codes. FORMS 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B AND W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM. Your files must meet all of the requirements specified in Part A, Sec. 14 in order to participate in this program.

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "B".
2–3	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which payments are being reported (e.g., if payments were made in 1985 enter "85"). Must be incremented each year.
4	Document Specific Code	1	REQUIRED for Forms 1099-R, 1099-MISC, 1099-G and W-2G. For Form 1099-R, enter the appropriate value for the Category of Total IRA Distribution. For Form 1099-MISC, enter the appropriate value for Direct Sales. For Form 1099-G, enter the year of income tax refund. For Form W-2G enter the Type of Wager. FOR ALL OTHER FORMS, ENTER BLANK.
	Category of Total Distribution (Form 1099-R only)		Use only for reporting on Form 1099-R to identify the Category of Total Distribution. Enter the applicable code from the table below. Code 7 below is not required for Amount Indicators 1, 2 and 3. A "0" (zero) is not a valid code for Form 1099-R.
			Category — Code Premature distribution (other than codes 2, 3, 4, or 5) — 1 Rollover — 2 Disability — 3 Death — 4 Prohibited transaction — 5 Other — 6 Normal IRA, SEP or DEC distributions — 7 Excess contributions refunded plus earnings on such excess contributions — 8
	Direct Sales (Form 1099-MISC only)		Use only for direct sales reporting on Form 1099-MISC. If sales to the recipient of consumer products on a buy-sell, deposit-commission, or any other basis for resale, have amounted to $5,000 or more ENTER "1". If not for resale, enter "0" (zero). If you are filing 1099-MISC, with an Amount Indicator of "8" in the "A" Record, you must enter a code "1" or "0" in this field. In Part B, Sec. 4, information concerning the direct sales indicator can be found under Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, NOTE 1.
	Refund is for Tax Year (Form 1099-G only)		Use only for reporting the tax year for which the refund was issued. If the payment amount field associated with Amount Indicator 2, Income Tax Refunds, contains a refund, credit or offset that is attributable to an income tax that applies exclusively to income from a trade or business and is not of general application, then enter the ALPHA equivalent of the year of refund from the table below. Otherwise, enter the NUMERIC Year for which the Refund was issued.
			Year for which Refund was Issued — Alpha Equivalent 1 — A 2 — B 3 — C 4 — D

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD—Continued

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
			5 E 6 F 7 G 8 H 9 I 0 J
	Type of Wager (Form W-2G only)		Use only for reporting the Type of Wager on Form W-2G. Category — Code Horse Race Track (or Off Track Betting of a Horse Track nature) — 1 Dog Race Track (or Off Track Betting of a Dog Track nature) — 2 Jai-alai — 3 State Conducted Lottery — 4 Keno — 5 Casino Type Bingo. DO NOT use this code for any other type of Bingo winnings (i.e. Church, Fire Dept. etc.). — 6 Slot Machines — 7 Any other types of gambling winnings. This includes Church Bingo, Fire Dept. Bingo, unlabeled winnings, etc. — 8
5-6	Blank	2	REQUIRED. Enter blanks. (Reserved for IRS use.) Tape position 5 is used to indicate a corrected return. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for specific instructions on how to file corrected returns utilizing either magnetic media or paper forms.
7-10	Name Control	4	REQUIRED. Enter the first 4 letters of the surname of the payee. Surnames of less than four (4) letters should be left justified, filling the unused positions with blanks. Special characters and imbedded blanks should be removed. IF THE NAME CONTROL IS NOT DETERMINABLE BY THE PAYER, LEAVE THIS FIELD BLANK. A dash (—) or ampersand (&) are the only acceptable special characters.
11	Type of TIN	1	REQUIRED. This field is used to identify the Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) in positions 12-20 as either an Employer Identification Number, a Social Security Number, or the reason no number is shown. Enter the appropriate code from the table below: Type of TIN — TIN — Type of Account 1 — EIN — A business or an organization 2 — SSN — An individual 9 — SSN — The payee is a foreign individual and not a U.S. resident blank — N/A — A Taxpayer Identification Number is required but unobtainable due to legitimate cause; e.g. number applied for but not received.
12-20	Taxpayer Identification Numbe	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9-digit Taxpayer Identification Number of the payee (SSN or EIN, as appropriate). Where an identification number has been applied for but not received or where there is any other legitimate cause for not having an identification number, enter blanks.

			DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROES. Any record containing an invalid identification number in this field will be returned for correction.
21-30	Payer's Account Number for Payee	10	REQUIRED. Payer may use this field to enter the payee's account number. The use of this item will facilitate easy reference to specific records in the payer's file should any questions arise. DO NOT ENTER A TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER IN THIS FIELD. An account number can be any account number assigned by the payer to the payee (i.e., checking account, savings account, etc.). THIS NUMBER WILL HELP TO DISTINGUISH THE INDIVIDUAL PAYEE'S ACCOUNT WITH YOU AND THE SPECIFIC TRANSACTION MADE WITH THE ORGANIZATION, SHOULD MULTIPLE RETURNS BE FILED. This information will be particularly necessary if you need to file a corrected return. You are strongly encouraged to use this field. You may use any number that will help identify the particular transaction that you are reporting.
	Payment Amount Fields		The number of payment amounts is dependent upon and must agree with the number of Amount Indicators present in positions 18-26 of the "A" Record. THE FIRST PAYEE NAME LINE MUST APPEAR IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE LAST PAYMENT AMOUNT INDICATED AS BEING USED. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT and you used only Amount Indicator "3" in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, then you will only use one ten position payment amount in the Payee "B" Record, right justified, and the First Payee Name Line will begin in position 41. If you use a record length of 360 positions and you used just one payment amount, enter blanks after the ZIP Code in the Payee Address field to arrive at a 360 length record. Each payment field that you allow for, or use, must contain 10 numeric characters (see following NOTE). Do not provide a payment amount field when the corresponding Amount Indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is blank. Each payment amount must be entered in dollars and cents. Do not enter dollar signs, commas, decimal points, or NEGATIVE PAYMENTS (except those items that reflect a loss on Form 1099-B and must be negative overpunched in the units position). Example: If the Amount Indicators are reflected as "123bbbbbb", the Payee "B" Records must have only 3 payment amount fields. If Amount Indicators are reflected as "12367bbbb", the "B" Records must have only 5 payment amount fields. Payment amounts MUST be right-justified and unused positions MUST be zero-filled. NOTE 1: If any one payment amount exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total amount MUST be submitted for the Payee. NOTE 2: If you file 1099-MISC and use Amount Code "8" in the Amount Indicator field of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, you must enter 0000000100 in the corresponding Payment Amount Field. This will not represent an actual money amount; this is an amount code. (Refer to PART B, Sec. 4, NOTE 1, of the Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, for clarification.)

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
31-40	Payment Amount 1	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 18 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. This amount must always be present.
Determine at this point the number of payment fields to be reported within the Payee "B" Record. This can be determined from the number of Amount Indicators appearing in positions 18-26 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record.
41-50	Payment Amount 2	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 19 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 19 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
51-60	Payment Amount 3	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 20 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 20 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
61-70	Payment Amount 4	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 21 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 21 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
71-80	Payment Amount 5	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 22 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 22 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
81-90	Payment Amount 6	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 23 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 23 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
91-100	Payment Amount 7	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 24 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 24 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
101-110	Payment Amount 8	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 25 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 25 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
111-120	Payment Amount 9	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 26 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 26 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
THE NEXT 160 POSITIONS MUST BEGIN IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE LAST PAYMENT AMOUNT FIELD INDICATED AS BEING USED. THE NUMBER OF PAYMENT AMOUNT FIELDS IS DETERMINED BY THE NUMBER OF AMOUNT INDICATORS IN POSITIONS 18-26 OF THE PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD. (See PART B, Sec. 5.01 for an example.)
	First Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. The First Payee Name Line must appear immediately after the last payment amount indicated as being used. Do not enter address information in this field. If you use all payment amounts, the first Payee Name Line will begin in tape position 121. Enter the name of the payee whose Taxpayer Identification Number appears in positions 12-20 above. If fewer than 40 characters are required, left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. If more space is required for the name, utilize the Second Payee Name Line field below. If there are multiple payees, only the name of the payee whose Taxpayer Identification Number has been provided should be entered in this field. The names of the other payees should be entered in the Second Payee Name Line field.
	Second Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. If the payee name requires more space than is available in the First Payee Name Line, enter the remaining portion of the name only in this field. If there are multiple payees, this field may be used for those payees' names who are not associated with the Taxpayer Identification Number provided in positions 12-20 above. Do not enter address information in this field. Left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. FILL WITH BLANKS IF NO ENTRIES ARE PRESENT FOR THIS FIELD.

	Payee Mailing Address	40	REQUIRED. Enter mailing address of payee. Left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. Address MUST be present. This field MUST NOT contain any data other than the payee's mailing address.
	Payee City	29	REQUIRED. Enter the city, left justified and fill the unused positions with blanks. Do not enter state and ZIP Code information in this field. (If the payee lives outside of the United States, include their current mailing address and spell out the name of the country if possible.)
	Payee State	2	REQUIRED. Enter the abbreviation for the state. You MUST use valid U.S. Postal Service abbreviations for states as shown in the table in Part A, Sec. 16. Use this field for state information only.
	Payee ZIP Code	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9 digit ZIP Code assigned by the U.S. Postal Service. If only the first 5 digits are known, left justify and fill the unused positions with blanks. Use this field for the ZIP Code only.

SEC. 6. END OF PAYER "C" RECORD

.01 The Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Adjust your programs accordingly.

.02 The End of Payer "C" Record is a summary record for a Type of Return for a given payer. It MUST be the same length as the "B" Records in the payer's file.

.03 The "C" Record will contain the totals of the payment amount fields and the payees filed by a given payer. The "C" Record must be written after the last payee record for each Type of Return for a given payer. For each "A" Record on the file, there must be a corresponding "C" Record.

.04 Payers/Transmitters must verify the accuracy of the totals in the "C" Record and must enter the totals on the transmittal, Form 4804, which will accompany the shipment.

RECORD NAME: END OF PAYER "C" RECORD

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "C".
2-7	Number of Payees	6	REQUIRED. Enter the total number of payees ("B" Records) covered by the preceding Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Right justify and zero fill.
8-22	Control Total 1	15	REQUIRED. Please note that all Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Enter accumulated totals from Payment Amount 1. Right justify and zero fill each Control Total amount. IF LESS THAN NINE AMOUNT FIELDS ARE BEING REPORTED, ZERO FILL UNUSED CONTROL TOTAL FIELDS.
	Control Total 2 through Control Total 9 are OPTIONAL. If any corresponding Payment Amount fields are present in the Payee "B" Records, accumulate into the appropriate Control Total field. ZERO FILL UNUSED CONTROL TOTAL FIELDS. Please note that all Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions.

128-142	Control Total 9	15
143-360	Blank	218	REQUIRED. Enter blanks.

SEC. 7. STATE TOTALS "K" RECORD

.01 The Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Adjust your programs accordingly.

.02 The State Totals "K" Record is a summary for a given payer and a given state in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program, used ONLY when State Reporting approval has been granted. IT MUST BE 360 POSITIONS IN LENGTH.

.03 The "K" Record will contain the totals of the payment amount fields and the payees filed by a given payer for a given state. The "K" Record(s) must be written after the "C" Record for the related "A" Record.

.04 There MUST be a separate "K" Record for each state being reported.

.05 Refer to Part A, Sec. 14 for the requirements and conditions that must be met to file on this Program.

RECORD NAME: STATE TOTALS "K" RECORD

Tape Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "K".
2-7	Number of Payees	6	REQUIRED. Enter the number of payees (different TINs) being reported to this state. Right justify and zero fill.

Form 4419 (Rev. 7-85)

Instructions for Form 4419

Payers or agents who decide to file information returns on magnetic media must complete Form 4419 to receive authorization for filing. Please be sure to complete all appropriate blocks as explained in the following instructions:

Block 2

Enter the name and complete address of the person or organization that will prepare and submit the magnetic media.

Block 3

Show the tax (payment) year for which you intend to begin filing information returns on magnetic media.

Block 5

Check the kind of magnetic media you plan to submit. If you plan to submit more than one kind of magnetic media, you should complete a separate application for each kind.

Block 7

Check the boxes next to all of the information returns you file with the Internal Revenue Service.

a. Magnetic media column: Enter the total number of individual information returns to be reported on magnetic media (an estimate is acceptable).

b. Paper column: Enter the total number of individual information returns to be reported on paper if not all returns will be filed in magnetic media form (an estimate is acceptable).

Block 9

If your firm is preparing information returns on magnetic media for payers other than itself, attach to your application a list of the names and employer identification numbers of the payers. If you add or delete any payers from your file, you must submit an updated list of payers.

Block 10

The form must be signed and dated by an official of the company or organization requesting authorization to report on magnetic media.

Filing your application

1. Mail the completed application and any attached lists to the Internal Revenue Service Center at the address shown in BLOCK 1

2. When we receive your application, we will review it. If it is acceptable, we will send you an authorization letter within 30 days. Do not submit magnetic media until you receive an authorization letter.

3. We encourage new filers to submit test data on magnetic media for review before the filing season. If you want to submit test data, contact the magnetic media coordinator where you file your application.

4. Your authorization will be valid as long as the magnetic media submitted conforms to the specifications of the applicable revenue procedures. However, a new application is required if:

a. filing is discontinued and then resumed, or

b. there is any change in the equipment listed on the application.

Paperwork Reduction Act Notice

We ask for this information to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. We need it to ensure that the magnetic media you are using will be compatible with our processing equipment. The information is also used to more efficiently schedule and manage its processing in the service centers. You are required to give us this information if you want to file your returns on magnetic media.

26 CFR 601.602: Tax forms and instructions. (Also Part I, Section 1445)

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide the procedures to be followed to obtain a withholding certificate for purposes of sections 1.1445-3T and 1.1445-6T of the Temporary Income Tax Regulations concerning withholding on dispositions by foreign persons of United States (U.S.) real property interests.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

The Tax Reform Act of 1984, section 129, 1984-3 (Vol. 1) C.B. 163, added section 1445 to the Internal Revenue Code as a means of enforcing the tax imposed pursuant to section 897 on dispositions by foreign persons of investments in U.S. real property. Section 1445(a) provides that a transferee of a U.S. real property interest from a foreign person must deduct and withhold a tax equal to 10 percent of the amount realized by the foreign person on the disposition. Section 1445(b) provides several exceptions to this requirement, including an exemption from withholding for persons who purchase property for use as a residence for $300,000 or less. Other exemptions under section 1445(b) include cases where the transferor furnishes an affidavit of nonforeign status, where the property transferred is stock that is regularly traded on an established securities market, and where a statement is obtained from the Internal Revenue Service that excuses withholding. Similarly, section 1445(c) provides that the amount required to be withheld can be reduced pursuant to a determination by the Service of the transferor's maximum tax liability upon the disposition. Sections 1.1445-3T and 1.1445-6T of the temporary regulations provide rules concerning the issuance by the Service of a withholding certificate that reduces or eliminates withholding. This revenue procedure provides additional guidance concerning applications for withholding certificates.

SEC. 3. WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATES—IN GENERAL

.01 Purpose of Withholding Certificate. Withholding under section 1445 may be reduced or eliminated pursuant to a withholding certificate issued by the Service in accordance with the rules set forth in this revenue procedure. A withholding certificate may be issued by the Service in cases where reduced withholding is appropriate, where the transferor is exempt from U.S. tax, or where an agreement for the payment of tax is entered into with the Service. A withholding certificate that is obtained prior to a transfer notifies the transferee that no withholding is required, or that reduced withholding is required. A withholding certificate that is obtained after a transfer has been made may authorize a normal refund or an early refund. See section 1.1445-3T(f) of the temporary regulations. A withholding certificate issued pursuant to the provisions of this revenue procedure serves to fulfill the requirements, as applicable, of section 1445(b)(4) concerning qualifying statements, section 1445(c)(1) concerning the transferor's maximum tax liability, or section 1445(c)(1) concerning the transferor's maximum tax liability, or section 1445(c)(2) concerning the Secretary's authority to prescribe reduced withholding.

.02 Limited Effect of a Withholding Certificate. A withholding certificate serves only to adjust withholding obligations to correspond as closely as possible to the probable tax liability arising out of a transfer. Therefore, all determinations that are made by the Service in connection with the issuance of a withholding certificate apply solely for the limited purpose of determining withholding obligations under section 1445 and do not necessarily represent the Service's final view with respect to any substantive issue that may arise in connection with a transfer. Similarly, the Service's acceptance in connection with the issuance of a withholding certificate of any evidence provided or any representation made by a taxpayer is made only for that purpose, is not binding for any other purpose, and does not constitute a final determination of the truth or accuracy of any such evidence or representation.

.03 Types of Withholding Certificates available. Pursuant to section 1.1445-3T of the temporary regulations, a withholding certificate may be issued on the basis of any of the following:

1 A determination by the Service that reduced withholding is appropriate because either:

(a) The amount otherwise required to be withheld would exceed the transferor's maximum tax liability; or

(b) Withholding of a reduced amount would not jeopardize collection of the tax;

2 The exemption from U.S. tax of all gain realized by the transferor; or 3 An agreement for the payment of tax providing security for the tax liability, entered into by the transferee or transferor.

SEC. 4. APPLICATIONS FOR WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATES

.01 General rules. An application for a withholding certificate must be submitted in duplicate to the Director, Foreign Operations District; Attn: FOD:666; 1325 K Street, N.W.; Washington, DC 20225. Either a transferee or a transferor may apply for a withholding certificate, but only a transferor may apply for a blanket withholding certificate. The Service ordinarily will act upon an application not later than the 90th day after its receipt. However, in the case of an application for a certificate described in section 4.036 below, and in unusually complicate cases, the Service may be unable to provide a withholding certificate by the 90th day. In such a case the Service will notify the applicant by the 45th day after receipt of the application that additional processing time will be necessary. The Service's notice may request additional information or explanation concerning particular aspects of the application and will provide a target date for final action (contingent upon the applicant's timely submission of any requested information). If an application for a withholding certificate is submitted at least 30 days prior to the date of a transfer, and on the date of the transfer the application remains pending with the Service, then the amount required to be withheld by the transferee is not required to be reported and paid over immediately. Instead, that amount (or such other amount as is appropriate) must be reported and paid over by the 10th day following the Service's final determination with respect to the application for a withholding certificate.

.02 Required signatures. An application for a withholding certificate must be signed by a responsible officer in the case of a corporation, by a general partner in the case of a partnership, by a trustee, executor, or equivalent fiduciary in the case of a trust or estate, and, in the case of an individual, by the individual himself or herself. In addition, an application may be signed by an agent authorized to do so by a general or specific power of attorney. Form 2848 may be used for this purpose. The person signing the application must verify under penalties of perjury that all representations made in connection with the application are true, correct, and complete to the best of that person's knowledge and belief. To the extent that an application is premised in whole or in part on information provided by another party to the transaction, this information is to be supported by a written verification attached to that application signed under penalties of perjury by the party to whom it pertains. The application must follow the format set forth in section 4.04 below.

.03 Categorizing of applications. To facilitate the processing of applications for withholding certificates, this revenue procedure divides all applications into six basic categories, as follows:

1 Applications for withholding certificates based on a claim that the transfer is entitled to nonrecognition treatment or is exempt from tax;

2 Applications for withholding certificates based solely on a calculation of the transferor's maximum tax liability;

3 Applications for withholding certificates under the special installment sales rules of section 7 of this revenue procedure;

4 Applications for withholding certificates based on an agreement for the payment of tax with conforming security;

5 Applications for blanket withholding certificates under section 9 of this revenue procedure; and 6 Applications for withholding certificates on any other basis.

.04 Format for application. All applications for withholding certificates must provide the following information in paragraphs labelled to correspond with the numbers and letters set forth below. Place "N/A" in the relevant space if the information requested is not applicable to the application being submitted.

1 (a) State which category of section 3.03, above, describes the application;

(b) In the case of category 4 applications (agreement for the payment of tax with conforming security):

(1) State whether the proposed agreement secures (A) the transferor's maximum tax liability, or (B) the amount that would otherwise be required to be withheld; and

(2) State whether the proposed agreement and security instrument conform to the standard formats set forth in this revenue procedure.

2 (a) Provide the name, address, and identification number (if any) of the person applying for the withholding certificate.

(b) State whether the applicant is the transferee or transferor.

(c) provide the name, address, and identification number (if any) of all other transferees and transferors of the U.S. real property interest with respect to which the withholding certificate is sought.

3 Provide the following information concerning the U.S. real property interest with respect to which the withholding certificate is sought:

(a) Type of interest (that is, interest in real property, in associated personal property, or in a domestic U.S. real property holding corporation);

(b) The contract price;

(c) In the case of an interest in real property, its location and a general description of the property (for example, "10-story, 100 unit luxury apartment building"); and

(d) In the case of an interest in a U.S. real property holding corporation, the class or type and amount of the interest.

4 Provide full information concerning the basis for the issuance of the withholding certificate, in accordance with the rules of sections 4.05 through 4.10 below. Although the information to be included in this section of the application will necessarily vary from case to case, the rules set forth below provide general guidelines for the inclusion of appropriate information with respect to each category of application.

.05 Information concerning category 1 applications (nonrecognition or exempt transfer). If a withholding certificate is sought on the basis of a claim that the transaction is entitled to nonrecognition treatment or is exempt from U.S. taxation, provide the following:

1 A brief description of the transfer;

2 A brief summary of the law and facts supporting the claim of nonrecognition or exemption;

3 Evidence that the transferor has no unsatisfied withholding liability, as described in section 4.063; and

4 The most recent assessed value, for state or local property tax purposes, of the U.S. real property interest to be transferred, or other good faith estimate of its fair market value (no supporting evidence concerning the value of the property need be supplied)

.06 Information concerning category 2 applications (determination of maximum tax liability).

1 In general. If a withholding certificate is sought on the basis of a determination of the transferor's maximum tax liability, then information must be provided to establish the two elements of that liability: (a) the maximum tax that may be imposed on the disposition, and (b) the transferor's unsatisfied withholding liability. Paragraphs 4.062 and .063, below, provide guidelines for the furnishing of such information. for further information concerning the determination of the transferor's maximum tax liability, see section 1.1445-3T(c) of the temporary regulations.

2 Maximum tax on disposition. (a) The applicant must provide a calculation of the maximum tax that may be imposed on the disposition, including the following information:

(1) The amount to be realized by the transferor plus evidence confirming this amount, such as a copy of the signed contract relating to the transfer;

(2) Adjusted basis of the property plus evidence confirming the basis claimed, such as schedules of depreciation for tax purposes;

(3) Amounts to be recaptured with respect to accelerated depreciation, investment tax credit, or other items subject to recapture;

(4) Maximum capital gain and/or ordinary income tax rates applicable to the transfer;

(5) Tentative tax owed;

(6) Amount of any increase or reduction of tax to which the transferor is subject, including any reduction to which the transferor is entitled under a provision of a U.S. income tax treaty as well as evidence supporting the adjustment claimed. See section 1.1445-3T(c)(2) of the temporary regulations.

(b) For purposes of calculating the maximum tax that may be imposed upon a disposition, unused credit carryovers shall not be taken into account, and net operating loss carryovers (NOL) (see section 172 of the Code) may be taken into account only if:

(1) The transferor claiming the NOL has been engaged in a trade or business in the U.S. during the three preceding tax years and has timely filed an income tax return for each of those years (copies of which should be attached);

(2) The claimed NOL has been reflected on previously-filed returns (No anticipated loss with respect to current-year operations may be considered);

(3) The claimed NOL is not currently the subject of an examination by or a dispute with the Service;

(4) The transferor agrees that if the amount of gain that the transferor claimed would be offset by the NOL exceeds the amount of the gain realized upon the subject disposition that is in fact offset by the claimed NOL when the transferor files its tax return for the current tax year, then the transferor will pay interest upon the excess of the amount that would have been withheld if the actual offset had been claimed in the application over the amount, if any, actually withheld, which interest will be computed;

(A) at the rates and in the manner prescribed by sections 6621 and 6622; and

(B) with respect to the period between the date on which withholding would otherwise have been required and the date on which payment is made (For purposes of determining whether gain realized on the subject disposition was in fact offset by the claimed NOL, the NOL is deemed to have offset first income from sources other than the disposition of U.S. real property interests, then gain from such dispositions with respect to which a withholding certificate was issued in the order in which such dispositions occurred);

(5) The claimed NOL has not previously been used to reduce withholding upon other dispositions of U.S. real property interests or to reduce the amount of any other obligation or liability under U.S. internal revenue laws;

(6) The NOL to be taken into account is computed without reference to any partnership losses that were recognized by the transferor with respect to any partnership interest of the transferor as a limited partner; and

(7) As part of the application, the transferor represents that:

(A) At least 80 percent of its gross income subject to U.S. taxation in the tax year of disposition will be derived from U.S. real property interests; and

(B) In calculating the maximum tax that may be imposed on the disposition, the application calculates the NOL in the manner prescribed by the provisions of this section 4.062(b), and the NOL is taken into account only to the extent permitted by such provisions.

3 Transferor's unsatisfied withholding liability. The applicant must provide a calculation of the transferor's unsatisfied withholding liability or evidence that it does not exist. That liability is the amount of any tax that the transferor was required to but did not withhold and pay over under section 1445 upon the acquisition of the subject U.S. real property interest or a predecessor interest. The transferor's unsatisified withholding liability is lincluded in the calculation of maximum tax liability so that such prior withholding liability can be satisfied by the transferee's withholding upon the current transfer. For further information see section 1.1445-3T(c)(3) of the temporary regulations. Evidence that the transferor has no unsatisfied withholding liability includes any one of the following items:

(a) Evidence that the trnasferor acquired the subject or predecessor real property interest prior to January 1, 1985;

(b) A copy of the Form 8288 that was filed by the transferor, and proof of payment of the amount shown due thereon, with respect to the transferor's acquisition of the subject or predecessor real property interest;

(c) A copy of a withholding certificate issued with respect to the transferor's acquisition of the subject or predecessor real property interest, plus a copy of Form 8288 and proof of payment with respect to any withholding required under that certificate;

(d) A copy of the nonforeign certification furnished by the person from whom the subject or predecessor U.S. real property interest was acquired, executed at the time of that acquisition;

(e) Evidence that the transferor purchased the subject or predecessor real property for $300,000 or less, and a statement, signed by the transferor under penalties of perjury, that the transferor purchased the property for use as a residence within the meaning of section 1.1445-2T(d)(1);

(f) Evidence that the person from whom the transferor acquired the subject or predecessor U.S. real property interest fully paid any tax imposed on that transaction pursuant to section 897;

(g) A copy of a notice of nonrecognition treatment provided to the transferor pursuant to section 1.1445-2T(d)(2) by the person from whom the transferor acquired the subject or predecessor U.S. real property interest; and

(h) A statement, signed by the transferor under penalties of perjury, setting forth the facts and circumstances that support the transferor's conclusion that no withholding was required under section 1445(a) with respect to the transferor's acquisition of the subject or predecessor real property interest.

.07 Information concerning category 3 applications (installment sale). See section 7 of this revenue procedure.

.08 Information concerning category 4 applications (agreement for the payment of tax with conforming security). If a withholding certificate is sought on the basis of an agreement for the payment of tax, the application must include:

1 Information establishing:

(a) the transferor's maximum tax liability, in accordance with section 4.06; or

(b) The amount otherwise required to be withheld pursuant to section 1445(a).

2 A signed copy of the agreement proposed by the applicant; and

3 A copy of the security instrument proposed by the applicant. For further information concerning agreements for the payment of tax and security instruments, see sections 5 and 6 of this revenue procedure and section 1.1445-3T.

.09 Information concerning category 5 applications (blanket withholding certificate). See section 9 of this revenue procedure.

.10 Information concerning category 6 applications (non-standard applications).

1 Agreement for payment of tax with nonconforming security. If the applicant seeks to enter an agreement for the payment of tax but wishes to provide a nonconforming type of security, the application must include:

(a) The information required by section 4.08 concerning category 4 applications;

(b) A description of the nonconforming security proposed by the applicant; and

(c) A memorandum of law and facts establishing that the proposed security is valid and enforceable and that it adequately protects the government's interest.

2 Other non-standard applications. An application for a withholding certificate not otherwise described in this revenue procedure must explain in detail the proposed basis for the issuance of the certificate and set forth the reasons justifying the issuance of a certificate on that basis.

.11 Availability of records. The applicant shall make available to the Director, Foreign Operations District, within the time prescribed by the Director all information that may be required by the Director in order to verify that representations relied upon by the Director in accepting the agreement are accurate, and that the obligations assumed by the applicant will be performed pursuant to the agreement. Failure to provide requested information promptly will usually result in rejection of the application. Instead of or in addition to such rejection, the Director, in his discretion, may also consider extension of an established target date for issuing a withholding certificate.

The parties shall agree that the review of books and records pursuant to the agreement shall not constitute an examination for purposes of section 7605(b) of the Code.

SEC. 5. AGREEMENT FOR THE PAYMENT OF TAX

.01 In general. The Service will issue a withholding certificate that excuses withholding or that permits a transferee to withhold a reduced amount if either the transferee or the transferor enters into an agreement for the payment of tax. An agreement for the payment of tax is a contract between the Service and any other person that consists of two necessary elements. Those elements are—

1 A contract between the Service and the other person, setting forth in detail the rights and obligations of each; and

2 A security instrument or other form of security acceptable to the Director, Foreign Operations District.

.02 Contents of agreement—In general. An agreement for the payment of tax must either provide adequate security for the payment of the tax in accordance with section 6 of this revenue procedure or provide for the payment of the tax through a combination of security and withholding of tax by the transferee. The agreement must cover an amount described in subdivision (a) or (b) of this paragraph.

(a) Tax that would otherwise be withheld. An agreement for the payment of tax may cover the tax that would otherwise be required to be withheld pursuant to section 1445(a). In addition to securing the amount computed pursuant to section 1445(a), the agreement must provide that the applicant will pay interest upon that amount, at the rates and in the manner, prescribed by sections 6621 and 6622, with respect to the period between the date on which the agreement is entered into and the date on which the transferor's payment of tax with respect to the disposition will be due. Interest and additions to tax with respect to the tax must also be secured. In most instances, payments of interest and additions to tax may be secured by the same agreement that secures payment of taxes. At the discretion of the Director, however, separate security agreements may be required.

(b) Maximum tax liabilty. An agreement for the payment of tax may provide for the payment of the transferor's maximum tax liability, determined in accordance with section 4.062 of this revenue procedure. The agreement must also provide for the payment of an additional amount equal to 25 percent of the amount determined under section 4.062. This additional amount secures the interest and additions to tax that would accrue between the date of a failure to file a return and pay tax with respect to the disposition, and the date on which the Service collects the tax upon that liability pursuant to the agreement.

.03 All agreements for the payment of tax will be between the Director, Foreign Operations District, and the applicant furnishing the security or personally guaranteeing payment of any tax later determined to be due. In addition, the Director may require as a signatory any other party deemed appropriate. The Director may require such other terms and conditions, or vary the format, as appropriate in the particular case, to provide adequate security.

.04 The agreement for the payment of tax should state the purpose and basis of the agreement. It should also recite any warranties or representations upon which the Director, Foreign Operations District, will be required to place material reliance in accepting the agreement.

.05 The agreement for the payment of tax must set forth in detail the obligations to be assumed and identify the nature of the security that is being offered. To the extent that the security is embodied in an instrument or document collateral to the agreement, such instrument or document must be incorporated by reference in the agreement.

.06 Sample agreement. The following sets forth the language of an agreement for the payment of tax that in most circumstances is acceptable to the Service:

1 This agreement is entered into pursuant to the provisions of section 1445 of the Internal Revenue Code (the "Code") and the regulations thereunder.

The signatories warrant that they are authorized under applicable law to make the agreements and undertake the actions and obligations specified herein.

2 ___ warrants that (s)he/it will make timely payment of any liability (including tax, penalties, interest, and additions to tax) that may become lawfully due and owing under the Code as a result of the diposition or distribution by ___ of the interest, or any part thereof, described in Exhibit(s) ___ [the "subject interest(s)"] giving rise to tax liability by reason of the operation of sections 871(b), 882, and/or 897 of the Code. The related security secures payment of such amounts. Security for the payment of such liability is provided in the amount of ___, in accordance with the requirements of section 1.1445-3T(e)(2) of the Temporary Income Tax Regulations. The computation of the proper amount of security to be provided is set forth in Exhibit ___ and such computation is hereby incorporated by reference.

3 The provisions of this agreement shall be construed as binding upon all signatories to this agreement, unless the intent to exclude any one or more signatories is clearly set forth in the provisions or is clearly implicit in the terms hereof.

4 The amount of each deposit of estimated tax that will be required with respect to the amount realized on the subject disposition may be collected by levy upon or recourse to the security as of the date following the date on which each such deposit is due (unless such deposit is timely made);

5 The entire amount of the liability may be collected by levy upon or recourse to the security at any time during the nine months following the date on which the payment of tax with respect to the subject disposition is due, subject to release of the security upon the full payment of the tax and any interest and penalties due. If the transferor requests an extension of time to file a return with respect to the disposition, then the Director may require that the term of the security instrument be extended until the date that is nine months after the filing deadline as extended.

6 The applicant shall make available to the Director within 30 days of a request from the Director all information that may be required by the Director in order to verify that representations relied upon by the Director in accepting this agreement are accurate, and that the obligations assumed by the applicant are performed purusant to this agreement.

7 The parties agree that the review of books and records pursuant to this agreement shall not constitute an examination for purposes of section 7605(b) of the Code.

8 Nothing in this agreement shall limit the Director from performing the obligations imposed upon or delegated to him under the law.

9 Upon the occurrence of any default by the applicant under the applicable provisions of this agreement, in addition to any and all other rights and remedies which the Director may then have hereunder, or under any other applicable law, or otherwise, the Director may reduce the claim to judgment, otherwise enforce the security interests by any available judicial procedure, and exercise any other rights and remedies the Director may have at law, or in equity, or otherwise, including, but not limited to, the right to apply toward payment of the obligations hereunder, without notice to the applicant, any sums which may then be held by the Director for said applicant.

10 For purposes of this agreement, the term "default" means a material misrepresentation of material fact or a failure to honor an obligation or warranty agreed to herein.

11 Except as otherwise provided in this agreement, no provision of this agreement shall be deemed to constitute a waiver of any right that any party may have to recover any amount in accordance with the laws, statutes, and regulations of the United States, nor shall any provision of the agreement be deemed to be an admission by any person, whether or not a party hereto, that such person is liable for any federal income tax, or, if a foreign corporation or nonresident alien, that such person is subject to the taxing jurisdiction of the United States, or if the Director, that the facts upon which this agreement is based are true and accurate.

12 This agreement and all of its terms and conditions shall inure to the benefit of, and be binding upon, the Director, and the applicant, and their respective successors and assigns.

13 All notices, instructions, and other communications ("Notices") required or permitted to be given, forwarded, or transmitted hereunder or necessary or convenient in connection herewith shall be in writing, shall be addressed either

To the Director: Director
Foreign Operations District
Attn: FOD:666
1325 K Street, N.W.
Washington, DC 20225

or

To [the applicant]: the applicant's address etc.], and shall be deemed to have been duly given when delivered personally; or sent by first class U.S. mail (postage pre-paid, by registered or certified mail, return receipt requested); or sent by cable, telex, telegram, or facsimile transmission (for example, telecopier) and confirmed by letter mailed the same day to the party receiving the notice. Any notice sent by mail to or from a place outside the continental United States shall be sent by air mail. Any notice sent by cable, telegram, or telex may be addressed to any published cable, telegram, or telex address that the addressee may have specified by notice to all the signatories. Any signatory may change the address or addresses to which communications are to be directed to it by giving written notice of such change to the persons above specified in the manner provided above; provided, however, that [the applicant] may establish or change an address to which notices are to be directed only if the new address is the address of [the applicant] itself or the address of a person with power of attorney to act for [the applicant] with respect to the disposition or distribution described in paragraph 2.

14 This agreement may not be amended, modified, superseded, or cancelled, and none of the terms hereof may be waived, except by a written instrument executed by the Director and the other party or parties hereto sought to be charged thereby. In the case of a waiver of the breach of any term contained in this agreement in any one or more instances, the waiver shall be neither deemed to be nor construed as a further or continuing waiver of any such breach or term or any other term contained in this agreement.

15 This agreement may be executed in any number of counterparts with all the counterparts together constituting one and the same agreement.

16 The term "Director" as used herein shall also include any successors in office, the Assistant Director, Foreign Operations District, and any and all agents or employees thereof duly authorized for the purpose.

17 This agreement shall not be binding upon any signatory hereto until it has been signed by the Director and the Director has received counterparts thereof duly executed by each of the signatories whose names appear at the foot of this agreement.

18 No provision of this agreement shall relieve any party or person of any obligation or liability under the internal revenue laws of the United States except as specifically provided in this agreement.

19 This agreement is made without prejudice to the assertion and/or collection of tax liabilities other than for any tax imposed by section 871(b)(1) or 882(a)(1) of the Code on any gain realized by the transferor on the disposition of the subject United States real property interest.

20 This agreement shall be governed, construed, and enforced in accordance with the laws of the United States of America and, where applicable, the laws of the State of [insert applicable local jurisdiction.]

21 It is agreed that nothing herein shall be construed to increase, decrease, or otherwise affect in any way the substantive tax liability of the taxpayer under any other provisions of the Code.

22 The Director will not, in part or in full, release, subordinate, or return the security held with respect to this agreement except upon the payment of any liability determined to be due or upon the deposit of an acceptable amount of estimated tax or upon a showing to the satisfaction of the Director that the liability is zero.

I accept this Agreement.	Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this Agreement, and related exhibits, schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief it is true, correct and complete.

SEC. 6. SECURITY

.01 There are four major types of security acceptable to the Service. These are:

1 Bond with surety or guarantor. The Service may accept as security with respect to a transferor's tax liability a bond that is executed with a satisfactory surety or guarantor. Only the following persons may act as surety or guarantor for this purpose:

(a) A surety company holding a certificate of authority from the Secretary as an acceptable surety on Federal bonds, as listed in Treasury Department Circular No. 570, published annually in the Federal Register on the first working day in July and as supplemented from time to time thereafter;

(b) A person that is engaged within or without the U.S. in the conduct of a banking, financing, or similar business under the principles of section 1.864-4(c)(5) of the regulations, and that is subject to U.S. or foreign (local or national) regulation of such business, if that person is otherwise acceptable to the Service; and

(c) A person that is engaged within or without the U.S. in the conduct of an insurance business that is subject to U.S. or foreign (local or national) regulation, if that person is otherwise acceptable to the Service.

2 Bond with collateral. The Service may accept as security with respect to a transferor's tax liability a bond that is secured by acceptable collateral. All collateral must be deposited with a responsible financial institution acting as escrow agent, or, in the Service's discretion, with the Service. Only the following types of collateral are acceptable:

(a) Bonds, notes, or other public debt obligations of the U.S., in accordance with the rules of 31 CFR Part 225; and

(b) A certified, cashier's, or treasurer's check, drawn on an entity acceptable to the Service that is engaged within or without the U.S. in the conduct of a banking, financing, or similar business under the principles of section 1.864-4(c)(5) of the regulations and that is subject to U.S. or foreign (local or national regulation of such business.

3 Letter of credit. The Service may accept as security with respect to a transferor's tax liability an irrevocable letter of credit issued by an entity acceptable to the Service that is engaged within or without the U.S. in the conduct of a banking, financing, or similar business under the principles of section 1.864-4(c)(5) of the regulations and that is subject to U.S. or foreign (local or national) regulation of such business. However, the Director, Foreign Operations District, will accept a letter of credit from an entity that is not engaged in a trade or business in the U.S. only if such letter may be drawn on an advising bank within the U.S.

4 Guarantee. The Service may accept as security with respect to a corporate transferor's tax liability a guarantee of the payment of such liability. The Service will accept such a guarantee only if (a) the corporation providing the guarantee is a corporation, foreign or domestic, any class of the stock of which is regularly traded on an established securities market on the date of the transfer; and (b) the corporation providing the guarantee (1) is the transferor or (2) holds, directly or indirectly, more than 80 percent of the voting stock of the transferor or (3) is engaged in a trade or business within the U.S.; and (c) has $25 million in gross assets in the U.S. in excess of the U.S. real property interest being disposed of.

5 Other forms of security. The Service may in unusual circumstances and at its discretion accept any additional form of security that it finds to be adequate.

.02 Listed below are sample forms of security instruments that in most circumstances are acceptable to the Service to be used when requesting a withholding certificate pursuant to section 1.1445-3T of the temporary regulations.

SEC. 7. INSTALLMENT SALES

.01 In general. A transferee in a disposition of a U.S. real property interest occurring after December 31, 1984, is required to satisfy its withholding obligation based on the full amount of the sales price regardless of the amount of the payment by the transferee. If the transferor will report gain from the disposition under section 453 of the Code, a withholding certificate that permits the transferee to withhold at a reduced rate may be obtained under the rules of this section. No refund of the amount withheld will be made unless such a withholding certificate is obtained.

.02 With respect to installment sales subject to withholding under section 1445(a), the Service will entertain requests for withholding certificates based on the transferee's agreement to do the following:

1 Withhold and pay over 10 percent, or such lesser amount as determined by the Director, Foreign Operations District, of any down payment, including any liabilities of the transferor assumed by the transferee or liabilities to which the subject U.S. real property interest was subject immediately before and after the transfer;

2 Withhold 10 percent, or such lesser amount as may be determined by the Director, Foreign Operations District, of each subsequent payment, (this amount is in addition to any other amount required to be withheld under section 1441 or 1442);

3 Pay over all amounts withheld using Forms 8288 and 8288-A, including thereon the identification number of the transferor; and

4 Notify the Director prior to the disposition or encumbrance of the subject U.S. real property interest, and upon such disposition or encumbrance pay over to the Service the amount remaining to be withheld pursuant to section 1445(a).

SEC. 8. APPLICATION FOR WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATES FOR AMOUNTS REQUIRED TO BE WITHHELD UNDER SECTION 1445(e)

.01 In general. Pursuant to the provisions of sections 1.1445-5T(c), (d), and (e) of the temporary regulations, withholding under section 1445(e) may be reduced or eliminated pursuant to a withholding certificate issued by the Service in accordance with the rules of section 1.1445-6T. A withholding certificate may be issued in cases where adjusted withholding is appropriate, where the relevant taxpayers are exempt from U.S. tax, or where an agreement for the payment of tax is entered into with the Service. The term "relevant taxpayer" shall mean any foreign person that will bear substantive income tax liability by reason fo a transaction upon which withholding is required under section 1445(e) of the Code.

.02 Applications. An application for a withholding certificate pursuant to section 1.1445-6T of the temporary regulations must follow the format set forth in section 4.04 of this revenue procedure and provide the information described in sections 4.05 through 4.10, with the following adjustments:

1 The application must include a preliminary item stating that it relates to withholding under section 1445(e) and specifying the applicable provisions of that section;

2 Item 2(b) of section 4.04 must state whether the applicant is a relevant taxpayer or a person required to withhold (and in what capacity that person is required to withhold, for example, as trustee);

3 Item 2(c) of section 4.04 must provide the required information with respect to each relevant taxpayer with respect to which adjusted withholding is sought; and

4 Information concerning the basis for the issuance of the certificate must be provided with respect to each relevant taxpayer.

.03 Installment sales. With respect to installment sales subject to withholding under section 1445(e), the Service will entertain requests for withholding certificates based on the entity's or the fiduciary's agreement to do the following:

1 Withhold and pay over 10 percent, or such lesser amount as may be determined by the Director, Foreign Operations District, of any down payment received, including any liabilities of the entity assumed by the transferee or liabilities to which the subject U.S. real property interest was subject immediately before and after the transfer;

2 Withhold 10 percent, or such lessor amount as may be determined by the Director, Foreign Operations District, of each subsequent payment received (this amount is in addition to any other amount required to be withheld under section 1441 or 1442);

3 Pay over all amounts withheld using Forms 8288 and 8288-A, including thereon the identification number of the interest holder subject to withholding; and

4 Notify the Director, Foreign Operations District, prior to the disposition or encumbrance of the subject installment obligation, and upon such disposition or encumbrance pay over to the Service the amount remaining to be withheld under section 1445(e).

SEC. 9 BLANKET WITHHOLDING CERTIFICATE

.01 In general. The Director, Foreign Operations District, may issue a withholding certificate (blanket withholding certificate) that excuses withholding with respect to multiple dispositions of U.S. real property interests by the transferor or the transferor's legal representative during a period of no more than 12 months. A blanket withholding certificate may be issued if the transferor holding the U.S. real property interests provides a letter of credit as specified in paragraph 1 of this subsection .01 and enters into an agreement with the Service that meets the requirements of paragraphs 2 and 3 of this subsection .01.

1 The transferor must provide an irrevocable letter of credit in an amount equal to the greater of (i) $100,000 or (ii) 10 percent of the amount to be realized on the projected dispositions covered by the certificate. The letter of credit must meet the requirements of paragraph 3 of subsection 6.01 of this revenue procedure and otherwise must be acceptable to the Director, Foreign Operations District. In addition, the letter of credit by its terms must be valid until at least the last day of the ninth month following the date (including extensions of time) on which a return will be required to be filed with respect to the tax year in which the 12th month covered by the withholding certificate falls. A letter of credit in the form specified in subsection 6.02(5) in most circumstances will be acceptable to the Service when requesting a blanket withholding certificate.

2 The transferor must provide with the letter of credit described in paragraph 1 of this subsection an executed tax payment and security agreement securing the payment of tax with respect to the projected dispositions covered by the blanket withholding certificate. The agreement must meet the requirements of subsections 5.02 through 5.05 of this revenue procedure, as modified to take account of this subsection 9.01 and otherwise must be acceptable to the Director, Foreign Operations District. In addition, the agreement must contain the terms as to notification of specific dispositions required by paragraph 3 of this subsection 9.01 and must provide that, in the event of a failure by the transferor to provide such notification or either timely to file a return, timely to deposit estimated tax, or timely to pay tax with respect to the gain on one or more of the dispositions covered by the certificate, the Director may draw upon the letter of credit to satisfy the transferor's liability for any tax imposed by section 871(b)(1) or 882(a)(1) of the Code, plus interest and penalties, if any, on any one or more dispositions covered by the certificate.

3 The agreement required by paragraph 2 of this subsection must state that the transferor agrees to notify the Director, Foreign Operations District, at least 30 days prior to any disposition of a U.S. real property interest covered by the blanket withholding certificate. This notice shall include the following information:

(a) The name, legal address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the transferor or the name and legal address of a legal representative of the transferor with the power to bind the transferor with respect to the disposition;

(b) The name, legal address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the transferee or the name and legal address of a legal representative of the transferee with the power to bind the transferee with respect to the disposition;

(c) A description of the U.S. real property interest to be transferred and the anticipated date of the transfer;

(d) The amount that would otherwise have been required to be withheld on the transfer (10 percent of the amount realized unreduced by the maximum tax calculation or for any other reason);

(e) The cumulative total of amounts that would otherwise have been required to be withheld with respect to dispositions (i) which have already taken place or are scheduled to take place prior to the disposition with respect to which notice is being given and (ii) with respect to which the Director has not sent the notice described in subsection .021 below;

(f) The amount of the original letter of credit provided; and

(g) A copy of the transferor's withholding certificate.

An agreement in the form prescribed by subsection 5.06 of this revenue procedure in most cases will be acceptable to the Service for purposes of paragraphs 2 and 3 of this subsection 9.01, with the following modifications: (i) the form should reflect and describe, as the "subject interests," the projected dispositions to be covered by the blanket withholding certificate to which the agreement will relate, (ii) paragraph 2 of the form should be modified to state that the agreement is entered into in connection with an application for a blanket withholding certificate and will extend to all dispositions covered by the blanket withholding certificate, (iii) the third sentence of paragraph 2 should be revised to read "Security for the payment of such liability is provided by an irrevocable letter of credit in the amount of _____, in accordance with the requirements of subsection 9.01(1) of Rev. Proc. 85-41," (iv) a new paragraph should be added to the form (designated as paragraph 3, with the other paragraphs being renumbered accordingly), containing the terms of paragraph 3 of this subsection 9.01, and (v) paragraph 5 of the form (paragraph 6 as renumbered) should be revised to read:

6 In the event of any failure by the transferor or the transferor's legal representative (i) properly to notify the Director, in accordance with paragraph 3, of a disposition of a U.S. real property interest covered by this agreement and the blanket withholding certificate to which it relates, or (ii) timely to file a return, timely to deposit estimated tax, or timely to pay tax with respect to the gain on one or more dispositions covered by this agreement and such certificate, the Director may draw upon the letter of credit provided as related security under this agreement in full to the extent of the tax imposed by section 871(b)(1) or section 882(a)(1) of the Code on any one or more dispositions covered by this agreement and such certificate, plus interest and additions to tax, if any. This amount shall be in addition to any other civil or criminal penalties that may apply with respect to the applicant's use of the withholding certificate in violation of the terms thereof.

.02 A withholding certificate issued by the Director, Foreign Operations District, under this section will state that no withholding is required with respect to any disposition of a U.S. real property interest by the applicant provided that (1) before the date of the transfer, the Director does not provide to the person that would otherwise be required to withhold notice (discussed in paragraph 1 below) that such withholding is required, and (2) the person who would otherwise be required to withhold timely provides the information and material described in paragraph 2 below and the disposition as consummated does not materially fail to correspond to the information so provided.

1 If one of the following conditions is met, the Director will provide notice to the applicant, and to the person required to withhold, that withholding is required despite the prior issuance of a withholding certificate:

(a) The applicant's letter of credit, in light of prior dispositions, is not sufficient to cover the amount otherwise required to be withheld on the transfer, or

(b) The applicant has otherwise violated the provisions of this section.

2 To be exempt from withholding tax liability, the person that would otherwise be required to withhold must, no less than 15 calendar days before the closing of a transaction, provide a statement to the Director containing the following information and material:

(a) The name, legal address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the transferee or the name and legal address of a legal representative of the transferee with the power to bind the transferee with respect to the acquisition;

(b) The name, legal address, and taxpayer identification number, if any, of the transferor or the name and legal address of a legal representative of the transferor with the power to bind the transferor with respect to the acquisition;

(c) A description of the acquired U.S. real property interest and the anticipated date of the acquisition;

(d) The total contract price of the acquired U.S. real property interest; the amount of liabilities, if any, to be assumed by the transferee; and the amount of liabilities, if any, subject to which the property is to be acquired; and

(e) A copy of the transferor's withholding certificate.

.03 The Director, Foreign Operations District, will, upon request, provide the transferor with a copy of a security agreement submitted pursuant to paragraph 9.012 executed by the Director, but such an executed copy is not needed to establish the validity of the blanket withholding certificate for purposes of the subject disposition. So long as no notice is given by the Director under section 9.021 and so long as the transferee timely provides the required information and materials, the withholding certificate remains valid.

.04 In the event of any failure by the transferor or the transferor's legal representative properly to notify the Director, in accordance with section 9.013, of a disposition of a U.S. real property interest, or either timely to file a return, timely to deposit estimated tax, or timely to pay tax with respect to the gain on one or more dispositions covered by the blanket withholding certificate, the letter of credit provided under section 9.011 may be drawn upon in full to the extent of the tax imposed by section 871(b)(1) or section 882(a)(1) of the Code, plus interest and additions to tax, if any, on any one or more dispositions covered by the blanket withholding certificate. This amount shall be in addition to any other civil or criminal penalties that may apply with respect to the applicant's use of the withholding certificate in violation of the terms thereof.

SEC. 10. AUTHORIZED REPRESENTATIVE

In any situation covered by this revenue procedure in which a person acts for or is designated as a legal representative of either a transferor or a transferee, such person must be authorized by either a general or a specific power of attorney on file with the Director, Foreign Operations District. Form 2848 may be used for this purpose.

Rev. Proc. 85-42

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide issuers of "mortgage subsidy bonds," as defined in section 103A(b)(1) of the Internal Revenue Code, with a list of the "average area purchase price" safe harbor limitations to assist the issuers in determining whether the bonds will be treated as tax-exempt obligations under section 103(a)(1) or (2).

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 103(a) of the Code provides that gross income does not include interest on (1) the obligations of a state, a territory, or a possession of the United States, or any political subdivision of any of the foregoing, or of the District of Columbia, and (2) qualified scholarship funding bonds.

.02 Section 103A was added to the Code by the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980, Pub. L. 96-499, 1980-2 C.B. 512. Section 103A was amended by Pub. L. 96-595, 1980-2 C.B. 647, the Tax Equity and Fiscal responsibility Act of 1982, Pub. L. 97-248, 1982-2 C.B. 462, 497, and the Tax Reform Act of 1984, Pub. L. No. 98-369, 1984-3 (Vol. 1) C.B. 1, 409. Section 103A(a) provides that, with certain exceptions, any mortgage subsidy bond will be treated as an obligation not described in section 103(a)(1) or (2). A mortgage subsidy bond is an obligation that is issued as part of an issue a significant portion of the proceeds of which is to be used directly or indirectly to provide mortgages on owner-occupied residences.

.03 Section 103A(b)(2)(A) of the Code provides that any "qualified mortgage bond" will not be treated as a mortgage subsidy bond. A qualified mortgage bond is an obligation issued as part of a "qualified mortgage issue." An issue by a state or political subdivision of a state of one or more obligations is a qualified mortgage issue if (1) all proceeds of the issue (exclusive of issuance costs and a reasonably required reserve fund) are to be used to finance owner-occupied residences, and (2) the issue meets the requirements of subsections (d), (e), (f), (g), (h), (i), and (j) of section 103A.

.04 An issue of obligations issued after September 3, 1982, meets the requirements of subsection (f) of section 103A of the Code if the acquisition cost of each residence, other than a targeted area residence, to be financed with the proceeds of such issue does not exceed 110 percent of the average area purchase price applicable to such residence. In the case of a targeted area residence (defined in subsection (k)), the acquisition cost may not exceed 120 percent of the average area purchase price applicable to such residence. The average area purchase price is, with respect to any residence, the average purchase price of single-family residences in the statistical area in which sufficient statistical information for the most recent 12-month period is available. Separate determinations are made for new and existing residences, and for two-, three-, and four-family residences.

.05 Section 103A(f)(2) of the Code provides that the determination of whether the acquisition cost of each residence does not exceed 110 or 120 percent of the average area purchase price for that statistical area shall be made as of the date on which the commitment to provide the financing is made or, if earlier, the date of the purchase of the residence.

.06 Temporary Income Tax Regulations relating to the tax-exempt status of certain mortgage subsidy bonds under section 103A of the Code were published in the Federal Register dated July 1, 1981 (46 FR 34311), T.D. 7780, 1981-2 C.B. 25, and were amended November 10, 1981 (46 FR 55513), T.D. 7794, 1981-2 C.B. 40; May 24, 1982 (47 FR 22360), T.D. 7817, 1982-1 C.B. 23; June 8, 1982 (47 FR 24701), T.D. 7819, 1982-2 C.B. 51; June 29, 1982 (47 FR 28094), T.D. 7821, 1982-2 C.B. 52, and December 12, 1984 (49 FR 48292), T.D. 7995, 1985-1 C.B. 49. The temporary regulations under section 6a.103A-2(f)(5)(i) provide that an issuer may rely upon the average area purchase price safe harbor limitations published by the Department of the Treasury for the statistical area in which a residence is located. An issuer may use a limitation different than the published safe harbor limitation if the issuer has more accurate and comprehensive data. However, when computing the average area purchase price for a statistical area that is a county, the issuer ordinarily must make the computation on an individual county basis and may not combine two or more counties.

.07 Section 103A(1)(4)(A) of the Code provides that a "statistical area" means (i) a standard metropolitan statistical area (SMSA) and (ii) any county that is not within an SMSA. In Press Release OMB-83-20, dated June 27, 1983, the Office of Management and Budget revised definitions of the nation's SMSAs effective June 30, 1983. The term "SMSA" was shortened to "metropolitan statistical area" (MSA). An area qualifies as an MSA if it contains a city of at least 50,000 population, or an urbanized area of at least 50,000 with a total metropolitan population of at least 100,000. If an area has more than one million population and meets certain other specified requirements, it is termed a "consolidated metropolitan statistical area" (CMSA), consisting of major components recognized as "primary metropolitan statistical areas" (PMSA).

.08 The average area purchase price safe harbor limitations for the period beginning August 2, 1984, and ending August 1, 1985, were released by News Release IR-84-86 on August 2, 1984, and were published in Rev. Proc. 84-56, 1984-2 C.B. 491.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

.01 Issuers of qualified mortgage bonds may rely on the average area purchase price safe harbor limitations contained in this revenue procedure for the period beginning August 2, 1985, and ending August 1, 1986. The safe harbor limitations are estimates of the average area purchase price on which issuers may rely to satisfy the requirements of section 103A(f) of the Code. The estimates are based on information from the Federal Home Loan Bank Board's monthly survey of "Terms of Conventional Home Mortgages." The survey contains sales price estimates for both new and existing one-family nonfarm residences. The safe harbor limitations are based on the sales price estimates for the calendar year 1984. The sales price data are adjusted for nonconventional (Federal Housing Administration (FHA) insured and Veterans Administration guaranteed) home sales. The data are presented for each MSA or PMSA for which a sufficient data sample was available. Data for the remaining areas in each state were combined to produce an estimate for "all other areas" in the state. If the data sample for a state or for "all other areas" in a state was too small, a regional estimate of the average purchase price was used. Safe harbor limitations for two-family residences are equal to the appropriate average area purchase price for single-family residences multiplied by the following adjustment factor: 1.126 for two-family residences, 1.363 for three-family residences, and 1.585 for four-family residences. These adjustment factors are similar to those used for the FHA mortgage limitations.

.02 Issuers of qualified mortgage bonds that sell the obligations prior to September 1, 1985, and make commitments prior to October 31, 1985, to provide financing for owner-occupied residences may continue to rely on the average area purchase price safe harbor limitations contained in Rev. Proc. 84-56. Issuers of qualified mortgage bonds that have received a letter ruling from the Service approving an average area purchase price limitation that is higher than the safe harbor limitation in this revenue procedure may rely on the letter ruling for 1 year after the date of the letter ruling.

.03 If an MSA or PMSA is contained in two or more states, the acquisition cost of a residence within that MSA or PMSA shall not exceed the safe harbor limitation provided for the MSA or PMSA, not the limitation provided for all other areas in the state.

.04 The following average area purchase price safe harbor limitations have not been adjusted to reflect either the 110 percent of the average area purchase price described in section 103A(f)(1) of the Code or the 120 percent of the average area purchase price described in section 103A(f)(5).

Rev. Proc. 85-43

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

.01 This revenue procedure supersedes the procedures set forth in Rev. Proc. 81-12, 1981-1 C.B. 652, in light of sections 414(m)(5) and 414(n), added to the Internal Revenue Code by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (TEFRA), Pub. L. 97-248, 1982-2 C.B. 462.

.02 This revenue procedure prescribes the procedures relating to the qualification, under section 401(a) or 403(a) of the Code, of an employees' pension, profit-sharing, stock bonus, or annuity plan established or maintained by (1) an employer that is, or may be, a member of an affiliated service group within the meaning of section 414(m) of the Code, or (2) an employer that utilizes the services of leased employees within the meaning of section 414(n) of the Code.

.03 Under this revenue procedure the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service will not issue rulings on whether particular entities are members of an affiliated service group within the meaning of section 414(m) of the Code, unless the ruling request was submitted before the effective date of this revenue procedure.

SEC. 2 BACKGROUND

.01 Applicable Law Prior To TEFRA. Section 414(m) of the Code as originally added by the Miscellaneous Revenue Act of 1980, Pub. L. 96-605, 1980-2 C.B. 702, provides that for purposes of certain employee benefit requirements including sections 401(a), 408(k), 410, 411, and 415 of the Code, employees of an affiliated service group, as defined in section 414(m), shall be treated as employed by a single employer. Thus, for example, if an employer that is a member of an affiliated service group establishes or maintains an employees' pension, annuity, profit-sharing, or stock bonus plan, employees of other members of the affiliated service group must be considered employees of that member in determining whether its plan meets applicable qualification requirements of section 401(a).

.02 TEFRA and Other Statutory Changes. Section 414(m)(5) of the Code, as added by section 246 of TEFRA, provides that certain organizations performing management functions and the organizations for which the management functions are performed will constitute an affiliated service group even though those organizations would not have been an affiliated service group for preTEFRA years. Section 240 of TEFRA, which added section 416 of the Code relating to top-heavy plans, amended section 414(m) to provide that employees of an affiliated service group shall also be treated as employed by a single employer for purposes of section 416. Section 414(n) of the Code, as added by section 248 of TEFRA, provides that for purposes of certain employee benefit requirements under sections 401(a), 408(k), 410, 411, 415, 416, a person who is employed by an organization ("leasing organization") and performs services for another trade or business ("recipient") shall be treated as an employee of the recipient when certain requirements are met. Section 526 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (TRA), Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 382, amended section 414(m)(6)(B) of the Code so that the attribution rules for ownership under section 318(a) of the Code, instead of section 267(c), are used for determining whether a group of employers constitutes an affiliated service group.

1 Section 414(m) of the Code does not impact on any plan unless the employer maintaining the plan is a member of an affiliated service group. In the case of an employer that is a member of an affiliated service group, section 414(m) affects several important areas of plan qualification. For example, being a member of an affilitaed service group expands the group of employees who must be considered in applying the coverage requirements of section 410(b). Also, certain form requirements are changed. This includes plan language for crediting years of service with respect to members of the affilitaed service group for purposes of the minimum participation standards in section 410(a) and the minimum vesting standards in section 411. For further discussion of these requirements, see Rev. Rul. 81-105, 1981-1 C.B. 256.

2 Section 414(n) of the Code does not impact on any plan if the employer maintaining the plan directly employs all of its employees. However, any employer ("recipient") that utilizes the services of "leased employees" may be required to consider the leased employees in determining whether its plan continues to satisfy certain qualification requirements. For example, the leased employees may be required to be considered in applying the coverage requirements of section 410(b), and, once covered, the entire period for which a leased employee has performed services for the recipient must be taken into account in determining years of service for purposes of both participation and vesting under the recipient's plan.

.04 Applicable Procedures.

1 Rev. Proc. 83-36, 1983-1 C.B. 763, sets forth for the general procedures of the Internal Revenue Service for issuing National Office rulings and opinion letters in the employee plans and exempt organizations area, and for issuance of determination letters by employee plans key district offices.

2 Notice 83-12, 1983-2 C.B. 412, provides procedures pertaining to the issuance of determination letters by employee plans key district offices on the qualification of pension, profit-sharing, and stock bonus plans that contain provisions to comply with the changes made by TEFRA.

3 Rev. Proc. 81-12, 1981-1 C.B. 652, provides procedures for obtaining rulings from the National Office regarding whether particular entities are members of an affiliated service group and procedures for obtaining termination letters from employee plans key district offices regarding the qualification of plans established or maintained by a member of an affiliated service group.

4 Rev. Proc. 80-30, 1980-1 C.B. 685, sets forth the general procedures pertaining to issuance of determination letters by employee plans key district offices on the qualification of pension, annuity, profit-sharing, and stock bonus plans involving sections 401, 403(a), 409A, and 4975(e) of the Code.

.05 Effective Dates of Section 414(m) and 414(n). Section 414(m)(1), (2), (3), (4), and (6) is effective immediately for all plans established after November 30, 1980. For plans in existence on November 30, 1980, section 414(m)(1), (2), (3), (4), and (6) is effective for plan years beginning after November 30, 1980. Section 414(m)(5) and section 414(n) are effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1983. Section 414(m)(6)(B), as amended by section 526 of TRA, is effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1984.

SEC. 3. RESPONSIBILITIES OF EMPLOYERS AND PLAN ADMINISTRATORS

.01 In General. An employer is responsible for determining at any particular time whether it is a member of an affiliated service group, and, if so, whether its plan(s) continues to meet the requirements of section 401(a) of the Code after the effective date of section 414(m), including section 414(m)(5). An employer or plan administrator also is responsible for taking appropriate action relative to their qualified plan if that employer becomes, or ceases to be, a member of an affiliated service group. An employer that is the recipient of services of leased employees within the meaning of section 414(n) of the Code also is responsible for determining at any particular time whether a leased employee is deemed an employee of the recipient for qualified plan purposes.

.02 Employers Not Affected by Section 414(m) or 414(n). An employer that is not and has not been a member of an affiliated service group, or an employer that does not and has not utilized the services of leased employees, is not required to change its qualified plan or plans to satisfy section 414(m) or 414(n) of the Code.

.03 Determination Letter Program. An employer that is subject to the provisions of section 414(m) or 414(n) of the Code may want a determination as to the effect of such provisions on the qualified status of its plan. For example, questions may arise whether certain form requirements are satisfied or coverage is adequate under section 410(b). Section 4 of this revenue procedure provides that Service key district offices will issue determination letters which consider the impact of section 414(m) or 414(n) on the qualified status of the plan. This determination letter procedure will be available (1) in the case of an initial request for a determination letter, (2) for a determination letter request on a plan amendment, and (3) in certain circumstances, even though the plan has not been amended.

SEC. 4 DETERMINATION LETTERS

.01 Procedures For Obtaining Determination Letters. An employer that has adopted a new employee plan, or an employer that has amended an employee plan to satisfy section 414(m) or 414(n) of the Code, may apply for a determination letter, under Rev. Proc. 80-30 and this revenue procedure, as to the plan's qualification, taking into consideration employees of any other organization that must be treated as employees of the applicant. Also, if an employer believes that the current plan, without amendment, will satisfy the requirements of section 401(a), but the employer's affiliated service group status has changed, the plan may be submitted for a determination letter which will consider the change in status and its effect on the plan. Generally, a determination letter will cover section 414(m) or 414(n) only if the employer submits, with the appropriate determination letter application, the information specified under section 5.

.02 Omission of Material Facts. Failure to properly indicate that there is or may be an affiliated service group and to provide the information specified in section 5.01 of this procedure, or failure to properly indicate that an employer is utilizing the services of leased employees and to provide the information specified in section 5.02 of this procedure, is an omission of a material fact. Such an omission will result in the applicant being unable to rely on any favorable determination letter concerning the effect of section 414(m) or 414(n) of the Code on the qualified status of the plan.

.03 Statement in Determination Letters. If the Service considers whether the plan of an employer satisfies the requirements of section 414(m) or 414(n) of the Code, the determination letter issued to the employer will state that questions arising under section 414(m) or 414(n) have been considered, and that the plan satisfies qualification requirements relating to that section. Absent such a statement pertaining to section 414(m) or 414(n), a determination letter does not apply to any qualification issue arising by reason of those provisions of the Code.

.04 Master and Prototype Plan Adopters-Determination Letters. An employer that has adopted a master or prototype plan (including an employer that has adopted a standardized plan) that wants a determination as to the effect of section 414(m) or 414(n) of the Code on the qualified status of its plan must attach the information required by section 5 of this revenue procedure to Form 5307 (Short Form Application For Determination For Employee Benefit Plan) and submit the information, Form 5307, Form 5302 (Employee Census), and any other materials necessary to make a determination to the appropriate key district office.

.05 Reliance on Determination Letters. The failure of the adopting employer to follow the above procedures will result in the employer being unable to rely on any favorable determination letter concerning the effect of section 414(m) or 414(n) of the Code on the qualified status of the plan.

SEC. 5. REQUIRED INFORMATION

.01 Information to Be Submitted with Applications for Determination Letters Covering Section 414(m) of the Code. A determination letter issued with respect to a plan's qualification under section 401(a) or 403(a) of the Code will be a determination as to the effect of section 414(m) upon that plan's qualified status only if the application includes:

1 A description of the nature of the business of the employer, specifically discussing whether it is a service organization or an organization whose principal business is the performance of management functions for another organization, including the reasons therefor;

2 The identification of other members (or possible members) of the affiliated service group;

3 A description of the nature of the business of each member (or possible member) of the affiliated service group describing the type of organization (corporation, partnership, etc.) and indicating whether such member is a service organization or an organization whose principal business is the performance of management functions for the other group member(s);

4 The ownership interests between the employer and the members (or possible members) of the affiliated service group (including ownership interests as described in section 414(m)(2)(B)(ii) or 414(m)(6)(B) of the Code);

5 A description of services performed for the employer by the members (or possible members) of the affiliated service group, or vice versa (including the percentage of each member's or possible member's gross receipts and service receipts provided by such services, if available, and data as to whether the services are a significant portion of the member's business) and whether, as of December 13, 1980, it was not unusual for the services to be performed by employees of organizations in that service field in the United States;

6 A description of how the employer and the members (or possible members) of the affiliated service group associate in performing services for other parties;

7 A description of management functions, if any, performed by the employer for the member(s) (or possible member(s)) of the affiliated service group, or received by the employer from any other member(s) (or possible member(s)) of the group (including data as to whether such management functions are performed on a regular and continuing basis) and whether it is not unusual for such management functions to be performed by employees of organizations in the employer's business field in the United States;

8 If management functions are performed by the employer for the member(s) (or possible member(s)) of the affiliated service group, a description as to what part of the employer's business constitutes the performance of management functions for the member(s) (or possible member(s)) of the group (including the percentage of gross receipts derived from management activities as compared to the gross receipts from other activities);

9 A brief description of any other plan(s) maintained by the members (or possible members) of the affiliated service group, if such other plan(s) is designated as a unit for qualification purposes with the plan for which a determination letter has been requested;

10 A description of how the plan(s) satisfies the coverage requirements of section 410(b) if the members (or possible members) of the affiliated service group are considered part of an affiliated service group with the employer;

11 A copy of any ruling issued by the National Office on whether the employer is a member of an affiliated service group; a copy of any prior determination letter that considered the effect of section 414(m) on the qualified status of the employer's plan; and, if known, a copy of any such ruling or determination letter issued to any other member (or possible member) of the same affiliated service group, accompanied by a statement as to whether the facts upon which the ruling or determination letter was based have changed.

.02 Information to Be Submitted with Applications for Determination Letters Covering Section 414(n) of the Code. Unless the plan provides that all leased employees within the meaning of section 414(n)(2) of the Code are treated as common law employees for all purposes under the plan, a determination letter issued with respect to the plan's qualification under section 401(a) or 403(a) of the Code will be a determination as to the effect of section 414(n) upon the plan's qualified status only if the application includes:

1 A description of the nature of the business of the recipient organization;

2 A copy of the relevant leasing agreement (s);

3 A description of the function of all leased employees within the trade or business of the recipient organization (including data as to whether all leased employees are performing services on a substantially full-time basis) and whether it is not unusual for the services to be performed by employees of organizations in the recipient organization's business field in the United States;

4 If the recipient organization is relying on any qualified plan(s) maintained by the employee leasing organization for purposes of qualification of the recipient organization's plan, a description of such plan(s) (including a description of the contributions or benefits provided for all leased employees which are attributable to services performed for the recipient organization, plan eligibility, and vesting).

SEC. 6. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

.01 Rev. Proc. 83-36 and Rev. Proc. 80-30 are amplified to prescribe the additional procedures for obtaining a determination letter which considers issues arising under section 414(m) or 414(n) of the Code.

.02 Notice 83-12 is amplified to provide additional information that must be submitted in a determination letter request when the applicant is a member of a management-type affiliated service group or the applicant utilizes the services of an employee(s) of an employee leasing organization.

.03 Rev. Proc. 81-12 is superseded.

SEC. 7. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective August 19, 1985. As of the effective date of this revenue procedure employers may no longer request a ruling from the National Office as to whether or not they are members of an affiliated service group.

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

Rev. Proc. 78-16, 1978-2 C.B. 489, sets forth the procedure to be followed by a taxpayer who has requested an advance ruling seeking a variation from the general rule of section 1.1017-1 of the Income Tax Regulations, relating to the adjustment to basis of depreciable property resulting from a discharge of indebtedness, and who desires to enter into a closing agreement pursuant to section 1.1017-2(b) because the taxpayer has a substantial number of depreciable properties. The purpose of this revenue procedure is to modify and update Rev. Proc. 78-16 in light of amendments to sections 108 and 1017 of the Internal Revenue Code by the Bankruptcy Tax Act of 1980 (P.L. 96-589), 1980-2 C.B. 607, and the addition of section 168 to the Code by the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 (P.L. 97-34), 1981-2 C.B. 256.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Section 108(a)(1)(C) of the Code provides that gross income does not include any amount which (but for this subsection) would be includible in gross income by reason of the discharge (in whole or in part) of indebtedness of the taxpayer if the indebtedness discharged is qualified business indebtedness. In addition, section 108(d)(4) provides that the indebtedness of the taxpayer shall be treated as qualified business indebtedness if (and only if) the indebtedness was incurred or assumed by a corporation, or an individual in connection with property used in his trade or business and such taxpayer makes an election with respect to such indebtedness. Section 1017(b)(3)(A), read in conjunction with section 1017(a), provides that when qualified business indebtedness is discharged the basis adjustment is only to be applied to reduce the basis of any depreciable property held by the taxpayer at the beginning of the taxable year following the year in which the discharge occurred. Section 1017(b)(3)(B) provides that, for purposes of section 1017, the term "depreciable property" means any property of a character subject to the allowance for depreciation, but only if a basis reduction under section 1017(a) will reduce the amount of depreciation or amortization that would otherwise be allowable for the period immediately following the reduction. This would include property subject to cost recovery under section 168. Section 1.1017-1 of the regulations provides, in general, that adjustments will, except as otherwise provided in section 1.1017-2, be made to the cost or other basis of property in a specified manner and order. Section 1.1017-2 provides for a variation from the general rule that may involve adjusting the basis of only part of the taxpayer's property, or adjusting the basis of all of the taxpayer's property, according to a fixed allocation. Agreement between the taxpayer and the Commissioner of Internal Revenue as to any variations from the general rule shall be effected only by a closing agreement entered into under the provisions of section 7121.

Taxpayers who own a substantial number of depreciable properties have elected under section 108 of the Code to exclude from gross income the discharge of qualified business indebtedness and have requested, as prescribed in section 1.1017-2 of the regulations, a variation that will allow the taxpayers to reduce the basis of only some of their depreciable properties (the "selected assets").

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

The Service will not issue an advance ruling or enter into a closing agreement when it appears the taxpayer will gain a significant tax advantage by adjusting the basis of only selected assets. However, the Service will generally issue an advance ruling and enter into a closing agreement permitting a variation from the general rule if the following conditions are met.

.01 The taxpayer has filed or intends to file an election under section 108(d)(4) of the Code with its return for the taxable year in which the discharge of indebtedness occurred.

.02 The discharge of indebtedness did not occur in a case under title 11 of the United States Code (relating to bankruptcy) nor when the taxpayer was insolvent.

.03 The discharged indebtedness would not be treated as price reduction under section 108(e)(5) of the Code.

.04 The taxpayer did not select the assets for basis adjustment with any preconceived plan or intention to dispose of those assets.

.05 The selected assets are depreciable properties having a weighted average remaining "useful life" no longer than the weighted average remaining "useful life" of all the taxpayer's depreciable properties, including properties subject to amortization or cost recovery, but excluding fully depreciated or amortized properties owned by the taxpayer at the beginning of the taxable year following the taxable year in which the discharge of indebtedness occurred. For purposes of this representation only, the "useful life" for properties subject to cost recovery under section 168 of the Code shall be the recovery period used by the taxpayer.

.06 The taxpayer has sufficient bases in the selected assets to absorb the basis adjustments required by section 1017 of the Code at the beginning of the taxable year following the taxable year in which the discharge of indebtedness occurred.

.07 None of the selected assets that are depreciated under section 167 of the Code will have their bases reduced below salvage value.

.08 The selected assets are not depreciated under the retirement—replacement—betterment method of accounting.

.09 To ensure that ordinary income treatment eventually will be given to the full amount of basis reduction, the taxpayer agrees that when a selected asset is sold, exchanged, retired, or otherwise disposed of, an amount equal to the income excluded and attributed to that asset under the section 108 election shall be included in gross income as ordinary income and added back to the basis of the selected asset at the time of its disposition.

.10 Only that portion of the basis of a selected asset remaining after applying the appropriate amount of adjustment resulting from the section 108 election shall be subject to the allowable deduction under section 167 or 168 of the Code, whichever is applicable, in the years subsequent to the year in which the discharge of indebtedness occurred.

SEC. 4. IMPLEMENTATION

A taxpayer wishing to take advantage of this procedure should file a request for a ruling under Rev. Proc. 85-44, and request that a closing agreement be entered into with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue as provided in section 1.1017-2 of the regulations. The request for ruling and closing agreement should be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:C, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington D.C. 20224, and should request the application of Rev. Proc. 85-44. If such requests are approved the taxpayer must attach a copy of the ruling and closing agreement to its return for the taxable year in which the discharge of indebtedness occurred.

SEC. 5. INQUIRIES

Inquiries regarding this Revenue Procedure should be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:C, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

Rev. Proc. 85-45

SECTION 1. PURPOSE AND SCOPE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to modify and supersede Rev. Proc. 84-3, 1984-1 C.B. 361, in order to conform it to section 1.994-1(e)(5)(v) of the Income Tax Regulations.

Rev. Proc. 84-3 prescribes the conditions and the procedures to be followed in cases in which intercompany prices paid by a domestic internatonal sales corporation (DISC) to its related supplier or commissions paid by a related supplier to a DISC, as originally determined by the parties under section 994 of the Internal Revenue Code, are redetermined by the Internal Revenue Service in a manner that results in an increase of the intercompany prices or reduction of the commissions. Procedures are prescribed below by which the DISC's related supplier and/or shareholder may request an adjustment of accounts and a reclassification of actual distributions previously made with respect to all or a part of the amount of the pricing or commission redetermination.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Section 995(b) of the Code treats a portion of a DISC's taxable income for each taxable year as a deemed distribution to its shareholder, which is taxable to the shareholder as a dividend. Under section 996(a)(3), actual distributions by a DISC out of previously taxed income (PTI), which consists of amounts taxed to a DISC's shareholder under section 995(b), are excluded from the shareholder's gross income. Actual distribution by a DISC out of its accumulated DISC income (ADI) or other earnings and profits (not constituting either PTI or ADI) are taxable to the DISC's shareholder as ordinary dividends.

Redeterminations by the Service of intercompany prices or commissions determined under the section 994(a) pricing rules generally have the effect of reducing a DISC's PTI and ADI for the taxable year of the redetermination. As a result of such a reduction in PTI, a portion of any nontaxable distribution previously made by a DISC out of PTI as originally computed by the parties is reclassified as a taxable distribution out of ADI or other earnings and profits.

SEC. 3. CASES IN WHICH ADJUSTMENT OF ACCOUNTS WILL BE PERMITTED

.01 The treatment provided in this revenue procedure will be available with respect to all transactions for any taxable year of a DISC to which intercompany prices paid by the DISC to its related supplier, or commissions paid by the related supplier to the DISC, as originally determined by the parties under section 994 of the Code, are subsequently redetermined by the Service in a manner that results in an increase of the intercompany prices or reduction of the commissions, provided it is determined by the Service that the arrangements or transactions, or the terms thereof, giving rise to the redetermined intercompany prices or commissions did not have as one of their principal purposes the avoidance of Federal income tax. The determination as to whether one of the principal purposes was avoidance of Federal income tax will be based upon all the facts and circumstances of the case.

.02 The treatment provided in this revenue procedure will not be available if any part of any underpayment of tax by the related supplier and/or shareholder for any taxable year affected by the Service's redetermination is due to fraud.

SEC. 4. ADJUSTMENT TO BE MADE OR ALLOWED

.01 In a case qualifying under section 3 above in which the DISC's shareholder complies with the requirements of section 5 below, in lieu of establishing an account receivable in accordance with section 1.994-1(e)(5)(i) of the regulations for all or part of an amount due a related supplier, the related supplier and DISC are permitted to treat all or part of any distribution which was made by the DISC out of its PTI with respect to the year to which the Service's determination or redetermination relates as an additional payment of transfer price or repayment of commission (and not as a distribution) made as of the date the distribution was made. To the extent that a distribution is so treated under section 1.994-1(e)(5)(v), it shall cease to qualify as a distribution for any Federal income tax purpose, and the DISC's PTI account shall be adjusted accordingly.

.02 Any additional amount arising on the determination or redetermination due the related supplier after the treatment under section 4.01 above shall be represented by an account receivable established under section 1.994-1(e)(5)(i) of the regulations. Such account receivable and any interest attributable thereto shall be paid in the time and manner set forth in section 1.994-1(e)(5).

.03 If all or part of any distribution made to a shareholder other than the related supplier is recharacterized under section 1.994-1(e)(5)(v) of the regulations, the related supplier shall establish an account receivable from that shareholder for the amount so recharacterized. Such account receivable and any interest attributable thereto shall be paid in the time and manner set forth in section 1.994-1(e)(5).

.04 The election of a DISC's shareholder to invoke this revenue procedure in no way affects the redetermination by the Service of the intercompany prices payable by the DISC or the commissions payable to the DISC. Such election shall, however, affect the taxable income of the shareholder, the DISC, and the DISC's related supplier to the extent indicated by sections 4.01, 4.02, and 4.03 above.

SEC. 5. PROCEDURES TO BE FOLLOWED

.01 Cases pending with the Internal Revenue Service

1 If a DISC's shareholder desires to invoke this revenue procedure, it must file a request in writing with the District Director of Internal Revenue or the Appeals Office having jurisdiction of the case before closing action is taken on the redetermination of DISC taxable income. The request shall be signed by a person having the authority to sign the shareholder's Federal income tax returns, and shall contain the following:

(a) a request that the shareholder be granted the treatment provided by section 4 of this revenue procedure for the years indicated; and

(b) an offer to enter into a closing agreement under section 7121 of the Code as provided in section 5.013 below.

2 The Service will determine whether the affected parties qualify under section 3 above for the requested treatment and inform the shareholder of its decision. If the request is rejected, the shareholder may pursue the matter through established channels of administrative appeal.

3 If the Service concludes that section 4 above properly applies and if the amount of the redetermination of DISC taxable income has been agreed upon, the shareholder will be requested to enter into a closing agreement, binding itself, the DISC, and any affected related supplier, establishing for each year involved:

(a) the amount of the redetermination of DISC taxable income;

(b) the amount of any actual distributions received by the shareholder which it elects to exclude from income under section 4.01 above;

(c) the amount of the account receivable from the DISC established by the DISC's related supplier under section 1.994-1(e)(5) of the regulations;

(d) the amount of the account receivable from the DISC's shareholder established by the related supplier under section 4.03 above; and

(e) the parties' rights to receive payment of the accounts receivable referred to in (c) and (d) above free of further Federal income tax consequences, provided such payments are made within the time and in the manner prescribed by section 1.994-1(e)(5) of the regulations.

.02 Cases pending before the United States Tax Court.—If a case has reached trial status in the Tax Court and it is determined that the taxpayer is entitled to the benefits of the provisions of section 4 above, the parties may stipulate or otherwise arrange with the Court so that any adjustment in tax for the years before the Court will reflect the application of section 4 above, provided the DISC's shareholder executes the required closing agreement.

.03 Closed cases.—In any closed case involving a redetermination of DISC income, the DISC's shareholder may file a request for the treatment provided by section 4 above, if such treatment will not change any taxpayer's liability for a year which is barred by the statute of limitations, or a year for which the tax liability has been finally determined by offer in compromise, closing agreement, or court action. Such request must be filed within 180 days after September 9, 1985, with the District Director for the District in which the shareholder filed its tax return for the year to which such redetermination relates, and shall contain the information required by section 5.011 above. The request will then be processed in the same manner as in a pending case described in sections 5.012 and 5.013 above.

.04 Cases within the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice.—If a taxpayer files a request for treatment under section 4 above with the appropriate District Director, with respect to a case within the jurisdiction of the Department of Justice, the Service, through its Chief Counsel, will recommend to the Department of Justice the action to be taken with respect to the taxpayer's request.

SEC. 6. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure will be effective as of October 12, 1984, the date on which section 1.994-1(e)(5)(v) of the regulations was adopted in final form and was published in the Federal Register.

Rev. Proc. 85-46

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide guidance in valuing and reporting gifts resulting from low-interest and interest-free demand loans for 1984 and prior years.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 2501 of the Internal Revenue Code imposes a tax on the transfer of property by gifts. Section 25.2511-1 of the Gift Tax Regulations provides that all transactions whereby property or property rights or interests are gratuitously passed or conferred upon another, regardless of the means or device employed, constitute gifts subject to gift tax. Section 25.2512-1 of the regulations provides that the value of the property transferred at the date of the gift is the amount of the gift. The value of the use of amoney subject to an interest-free demand note constitutes a gift for gift tax purposes. See Rev. Rul. 73-61, 1973-1 C.B. 408. In addition, the transfer of property in exchange for a note accruing interest at a rate below the prevailing market rate constitutes a gift for gift tax purposes. See Blackburn v. Commissioner, 20 T.C. 204 (1953), which held that the amount of the gift was the value of the property minus the mortgage note valued to reflect the present value of the deferral at prevailing interest rates.

.02 In Dickman v. Commissioner, 104 S. Ct. 1086 (1984), 1984-1 C.B. 197, the Supreme Court held that, in the case of an interest-free demand loan, a gift is made of the value of the use of the money loaned. While the Court did not decide the issue of valuation of such a gift, the Court did state that the right to use money is plainly a valuable right, readily measurable by reference to current interest rates. The Court also took notice of the fact that the interest rates for demand loans are ordinarily less than the interest rates for term certain loans.

.03 News Release IR-84-60, dated May 11, 1984, announced that for interest-free demand loan gifts made before January 1, 1984, donors may compute the value of the gifts by multiplying the average outstanding loan balance for the calendar period by interest rates that are based upon the lesser of either the statutory interest rate for refunds and deficiencies or the annual average rate for three month Treasury bills.

.04 News Release IR-84-60 also stated that the Service will not require gift tax reporting for interest-free demand loan gifts made before January 1, 1984, if the amount of the gift to a donee is less than the annual exclusion for the year, or if the average annual outstanding balance of the loan did not total, in the aggregate, more than $50,000 per year per donee made by a single taxpayer ($100,000 made by a married couple). News Release IR-84-60 was published as Announcement 84-60, 1984-23 I.R.B. 58, on June 4, 1984.

.05 Code Section 7872, which was enacted by the Tax Reform Act of 1984, (P.L. 98-369), 98 Stat. 699, provides special rules for valuing interest-free and other below market loan gifts made after the applicable effective date of that Act. Section 7872(c)(2) provides a de minimis exception rule for gift loans directly between individuals if the aggregate amount of all loans outstanding between the lender and borrower does not exceed $10,000.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

.01 Demand Loan Gifts—Years Affected. A taxpayer who loans money on an interest-free demand basis makes a gift of the value of the use of the money loaned. In addition, a taxpayer who loans money on a demand basis at an interest rate below the prevailing market rate makes a low-interest demand loan gift of the value of the use of the money based on the difference between the rate at which the money is loaned and the prevailing market rate.

When the loan is payable upon demand, a gift occurs, the value of which is measured by the number of days that the loan is outstanding. Whether the loan is outstanding for an entire gift tax reporting period or for only part of a period, the gift of the value of the use of the money loaned is to be computed as of the end of the reporting period. A gift tax return for that period is requied to be filed if the value of the gift exceeds the limits described in section 3.05 of this procedure. See section 3.12 for the nonapplicability of these limits to gifts of future interests. Preceding gift tax reporting periods are 1) June 2, 1924, to December 31, 1924, June 6, 1932, to December 31, 1932; 2) calendar years 1925 and 1933 through 1970; 3) the first calendar quarter of 1971 and all intervening quarters through 1981; and 4) all calendar years after 1981.

.02 Valuation of Demand Loan Gifts. The value of a gift resulting from an interest-free demand loan outstanding before January 1, 1984, may be computed for any calendar period by multiplying the average outstanding loan balance for that period by the interest rate for the applicable year in the list in section 3.05 of this procedure. The value of a gift resulting from a low-interest demand loan outstanding before January 1, 1984, may be computed for any calendar period by multiplying the average outstanding loan balance for each loan for that period by the difference between the rate of interest on the gift loan and the interest rate for the applicable year in the list in section 3.05. The value of a gift for periods before the effective date of section 7872 resulting from an interest-free or low-interest demand loan outstanding during 1984 may also be computed by using the applicable interest rate or rates for 1984 from the list in section 3.05. A rate of 9.9% is to be used for computing the value of gifts for each day that such loans were outstanding from January 1, 1984, through June 6, 1984, and for each day after June 6, 1984, that such loans were outstanding provided that the loan was outstanding on June 6, 1984, and repaid before September 17, 1984. Interest-free and low-interest demand loans which were outstanding after June 6, 1984, whose interest rate provisions were modified before September 17, 1984, are treated as if repaid on the date of modification. See News Release IR-84-95, dated August 28, 1984. Accordingly, these loans may be valued using the 9.9% rate for the period beginning on January 1, 1984, and ending on the date of modification. Section 7872 governs interest-free and low-interest demand loans outstanding after June 6, 1984, through December 31, 1984 (unless such loans were outstanding on June 6, 1984, and repaid before September 17, 1984), and requires that a rate of 10 percent, compounded semiannually, be used for computing the value of gifts for each day in 1984 after June 6 that the loan is outstanding. In the case of loans outstanding after June 6, 1984, whose interest rate provisions were modified before September 17, 1984, section 7872 governs the loan beginning on the day following the date of modification. For special rules applicable to interest-free and low-interest demand loans outstanding both on and after June 6, 1984 (and not repaid or modified before September 17, 1984), see section 3.07 of this Revenue Procedure. The rates in section 3.05 are based upon the lesser of either the statutory rate for refunds and deficiencies or the annual average rate for 13-week Treasury bills.

.03 De Minimis Demand Loan Principal Amounts. For low-interest and interest-free demand loan principal amounts out-standing before January 1, 1984, if the average annual outstanding balance of the loans did not total, in the aggregate, more than $50,000 per year per donee made by a single taxpayer ($100,000 made by a married couple), no gift tax reporting for the loan gifts is required. Married couples who were qualified for the split-gift election under section 2513 of the Code in any gift tax period before 1984, in which a gift loan was outstanding but were not required to file a gift tax return for any gifts other than for gifts resulting from loans outstanding during that period, are not required to file a gift tax return if the only reason for filing would be to elect the split-gift provision for that period. This $50,000/100,000 de minimis rule does not apply to gifts resulting from low-interest and interest-free demand loans outstanding after December 31, 1983.

.04 De Minimis Demand Loan Gifts. For low-interest and interest-free demand loans outstanding before January 1, 1984, if the aggregate amount of the loan gifts to one donee is less than the annual exclusion for the year during which any loans were outstanding, no gift tax reporting for the gifts is required. The annual exclusion from a gift was $5,000 for years before 1939, $4,000 for the years 1939 through 1942, $3,000 for the years 1943 through 1981, and $10,000 thereafter. Low-interest and interest-free demand loans resulting in gifts to a donee which in the aggregate are not in excess of the annual exclusion may be disregarded for purposes of filing gift tax returns for periods before 1984, even though the donor made gifts other than gifts from low-interest and interest-free demand loans to the same donee during the same year.

For gifts resulting from low-interest and interest-free demand loans outstanding after December 31, 1983, this special exclusion rule does not apply. Thus, after December 31, 1983, if the aggregate amount of the loan gifts to one donee plus gifts other than gifts from low-interest and interest-free demand loans during the same year to that donee is greater than the annual exclusion for the year, a gift tax return is required to be filed.

.05 Rates and De Minimis Gift and Principal Amounts. Applicable interest rates and yearly minimum average annual interest-free loan amounts corresponding to the gift amount that equals the annual exclusion are as follows:

Year	Interest Rate	Gift Amount		Average Annual Interest-Free Loan Amount
		Single Taxpayer	Married Taxpayer	Single Taxpayer	Married Taxpayer

*This rate also applies to demand loans outstanding on and after June 6, 1984, if the loan was repaid before September 17, 1984, or, if its interest rate was modified before September 17, 1984, the interest rate is applicable up to the date of the modification. In the case of any other low-interest or interest-free demand loans outstanding after June 6, 1984, see section 3.07 of this Revenue Procedure.

Interest rates and corresponding average annual interest-free loan amounts for years prior to 1939 have not been included in the table because a combination of low interest rates during those years and a relatively high ($5,000) statutory annual exclusion creates a very high loan amount that would exempt all but a relatively few donors from the requirement to report low-interest or interest-free demand loan gifts made in years before 1939. The interest rates for those years may be obtained by writing to the Associate Chief Counsel (Technical), 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

.06 Illustrative Computations. For years prior to 1984, the average annual (or quarterly) loan amount of an interest-free or low-interest demand loan is computed by multiplying the amount of each interest-free or low-interest demand loan made by the taxpayer (and the taxpayer's spouse, if applicable) to each donee which is outstanding during a gift reporting period by a fraction, the numerator of which is the number of days the loan is outstanding during that period and the denominator of which is the number of days in that reporting period. For 1984, the average annual loan amount is determined as in the case of pre-1984 loans, except that the numerator of the fraction is the number of days the loan was outstanding prior to June 7, 1984 (or prior to September 17, 1984, if the loan was repaid or its interest rate modified before September 17, 1984). For purposes of applying this revenue procedure, the number of days the loan is outstanding is calculated by including the day the loan is entered into but excluding the day the loan is repaid.

Number of days in the gift tax reporting periods:

For years prior to 1971, and for 1982, 1983, and 1984;

365—for annual reporting periods (366 for leap years).

For years 1971 through 1981:

90—for the first quarter (except 91 for the first quarter of 1972, 1976, and 1980)

91—for the second quarter

92—for the third quarter, and

92—for the fourth quarter.

Example A: An unmarried taxpayer, T, made an interest-free demand loan in the amount of $150,000 (loan 1), to child A on March 1, 1983. No payments were made by A until June 15, 1983, at which time the entire loan was repaid. On August 1, 1983, T made another interest-free demand loan to A in the amount of $200,000 (loan 2). A repaid $75,000 of loan 2 on September 10, 1983, leaving an outstanding principal amount of $125,000, none of which was repaid during 1983. On December 1, 1983, T made another interest-free demand loan to A in the amount of $50,000 (loan 3), none of which was repaid in 1983. The average annual loan amount for 1983 is computed as follows:

	Amount		No. of days outstanding divided by No. of days in reporting Period		Average Annual Loan Amount
Loan 1:	150,000	×	106/365	=	43,561.65
Loan 2:	200,000	×	40/365	=	21,917.80
	125,000	×	112/365	=	38,356.16
Loan 3:	50,000	×	30/365	=	4,109.59
Total Average Annual Loan Amount:					107,945.20

The average annual loan amount ($107,945.20) for the loans in 1983 is less than the limitation for a single taxpayer set forth in section 3.05 above. (The loans that contribute to the average annual loan amount constitute a gift to A of only $9,283.29 ($107,945.20 × 8.6%)). Therefore, T is not required to file a gift tax return for 1983 reporting the loans to A.

Example B: An unmarried taxpayer, S, made a demand loan to C of $100,000 at an interest rate of 8 percent (loan 1) on February 1, 1982. No payment was made by C until December 15, 1982, at which time the entire loan was repaid. On March 15, S made an interest-free demand loan to 2C in the amount of $150,000 (loan 2) which was repaid in full by C on October 10, 1982. A third loan was made by S to C on June 15, in the amount of $175,000 at an interest rate of 6 percent (loan 3). This loan was not repaid by C during 1982. The average annual loan amount and the gift for 1982 are computed as follows:

	Amount		No. of days outstanding divided by No. of days in reporting period		Average Annual Loan Amount
Loan 1:	100,000	×	317/365	=	86,849.32
Loan 2:	150,000	×	209/365	=	85,890.41
Loan 3:	175,000	×	199/365	=	95,410.96

The gifts to C are determined by use of the interest rates in section 3.05 reduced by the interest rate actually charged on each respective loan and are computed as follows:

	Average Annual Loan Amount		Interest Rate		Gift
Loan 1:	86,849.32	×	2.6%	=	2,258.08
Loan 2:	85,890.41	×	10.6%	=	9,104.38
Loan 3:	95,410.96	×	4.6%	=	4,388.90
Aggregate Gift to C:					$15,751.36

Since the aggregate gift ($15,751.36) from loans to C during 1982 exceeded the limitation for a single taxpayer set forth in section 3.05 above, S is required to file a gift tax return reporting the loans to C.

Example C: A married taxpayer, M, made a demand loan of $125,000 at an interest rate of 8 percent (loan 1) to child B on January 15, 1980. No payment was made by B until June 10, 1980, at which time the entire loan was repaid. On February 10, M made an interest-free demand loan to B in the amount of $80,000 (loan 2) which was not repaid by B during 1980. M made another interest-free demand loan to B on March 1, 1980, in the amount of $175,000 which was repaid by B on December 15, 1980. Gifts are determined on a quarterly basis for 1980 because gift tax returns were required to be filed on a quarterly basis for that year. The average quarterly loan amount for the first quarter of 1980 is computed as follows:

	Amount		No. of days outstanding divided by No. of days in reporting period		Average Quarterly Loan Amount
Loan 1:	125,000	×	76/91	=	104,395.60
Loan 2:	80,000	×	50/91	=	43,956.04
Loan 3:	175,000	×	30/91	=	57,692.30

	Average Quarterly Loan Amount		Average Annualized Loan Amount		Interest Rate		Gift
Loan 1:	104,395.60 × ¼	=	26,098.90	×	3.5%	=	913.46
Loan 2:	43,956.04 × ¼	=	10,989.01	×	11.5%	=	1,263.74
Loan 3:	57,692.30 × ¼	=	14,423.08	×	11.5%	=	1,658.65
	Aggregate Gift to B:						3,835.85

Since the amount of the aggregate gift for loans made to B by M in the first quarter of 1980 is $3,835.85 and does not exceed the annual limitation for a married taxpayer set forth in section 3.05 above, M is not required to file a quarterly gift tax return reporting the loans to B for the first quarter of 1980. However, M would be required to file quarterly gift tax returns for any subsequent quarter of 1980 in whhich the aggregate loan amount of prior quarters in 1980 plus the current quarter amount exceeds the limitations of section 3.05 above, taking into consideration the quarterly gift tax filing requirement under section 6075(b) of the Code as in effect in 1980 which required a quarterly return (rather than a yearly return) for a donor whose aggregate year-to-date gifts exceeded $25,000.

.07 Coordination with Section 7872. Interest-free and low-interest demand gift loans outstanding after June 6, 1984, are subject to the rules of section 7872 after June 6, 1984, unless the demand loan is repaid or the interest rate is modified before September 17, 1984. Interest-free and low-interest demand loans which were outstanding on June 6, 1984, whose interest rate provisions were modified before September 17, 1984, are subject to section 7872 beginning on the date of modification. For purposes of maiing gift tax computations, an interest-free or low-interest loan outstanding both on and after June 6, 1984, but not repaid or modified before September 17, 1984, is treated as if it was repaid on June 7, 1984 (the "first deemed loan"), and a new loan between the same parties with the same terms was entered into on June 7, 1984 (the "second deemed loan"). The amount of the loan gift with respect to the first deemed loan is determined under the rules set forth in this Revenue Procedure. The amount of the loan gift with respect to the second deemed loan is determined under section 7872. The loan gift amount for the entire year is the sum of the loan gift amounts of both deemed loans.

In the case of an interest-free demand loan of fixed principal amount which is outstanding for the entire 1984 calendar year, the donor may, as an alternative to the approach described in the above paragraph, determine the loan gift amount for 1984 by multiplying the outstanding balance by an ianterest rate of 10 percent. In the case of an interest-free demand loan of fixed principal amount outstanding for the entire period of June 7 through December 31, 1984, the donor may, as an alternative to the calculations described in the regulations under section 7872, determine the loan gift amount by multiplying the outstanding balance by an interest rate of 5.68 percent.

Example A: An unmarried taxpayer, P, made an interest-free demand loan in the amount of $150,000 to child D on January 15, 1984, which remained outstanding on December 31, 1984. The gift to D is determined by treating the loan as if it was repaid on June 7, 1984, and a second interest-free demand loan in the amount of $150,000 was entered into on June 7, 1984. As to the first loan deemed repaid on June 7, 1984, the average annual loan amount is computed as follows:

$150,000 × 144/366 = $59,016.39

The amount of the gift as to this first loan is $5,842.62

($59,016.39 × 9.9%).

Section 7872 governs the second loan deemed to have been made on June 7, 1984. However, because the second deemed loan is outstanding for the entire period June 7 through December 31, 1984, the amount of the loan gift with respect to this second loan may be determined by multiplying the outstanding principal amount ($150,000) by 5.68 percent, resulting in a loan gift of $8,520.00.

The loan gift to D for 1984 is the sum of the two deemed loan gift amounts, or $14,362.62 ($5,842.62 + $8,520.00).

Example B: Assume the same facts as in Example A except that the loan is already outstanding on January 1, 1984. Because the loan is outstanding for the entire 1984 calendar year, the taxpayer may value the loan gift amount by multiplying the outstanding balance by 10 percent, resulting in a loan gift amount of $15,000.00.

.08 Demand Loans other than De Minimis Loans. A donor is entitled to one statutory annual exclusion for qualifying gifts per donee per year. If part or all of the annual exclusion was applied to gifts, other than gifts resulting from low-interest and interest-free demand loans, made by the donor to the donee, only the remaining exclusion amount, if any, may be applied to gifts resulting from low-interest and interest-free demand loans that are not de minimis.

.09 Gift Tax Return not Previously Filed. If no gift tax return was filed for any prior taxable period during which the aggregate annualized amount of interest-free demand loans outstanding to one donee exceeded the average annual loan amount in section 3.05 above, the gift must be reported on a properly filed gift tax return and any gift tax due must be paid. Also, if the gifts from both outstanding low-interest and interest-free demand loans total in the aggregate more than the gift amount in section 3.05 above, and no gift tax return was filed for that prior taxable period, the gift must be reported and any gift tax due must be paid.

If the gifts from low-interest and interest-free demand loans to a donee outstanding in a year after December 31, 1983, and other present interest gifts to that donee made in the same year total in the aggregate more than the statutory annual exclusion amount, the gift(s) must be reported and any gift tax due must be paid.

.10 Gift Tax Return Previously Filed. If a gift tax return was filed for any period prior to 1984 during which the aggregate annualized amount of outstanding interest-free demand loans exceeded the average annual loan amount in section 3.05 or the aggregate gifts resulting from outstanding low-interest and interest-free demand loans exceeded the gift amount in section 3.05 and any gift resulting from such loans was not reported on the gift tax return, the gift must be reported on an amended gift tax return properly filed within the statutory limitations for assessment under section 6501 of the Code and any gift tax due must be paid. If a gift tax return was filed for any year which ends after December 31, 1983, during which an interest-free or low-interest demand loan to the donee was outstanding and the total gifts resulting from such loans, and any other present interest gifts to that donee exceeded the statutory $10,000 annual exclusion amount, the gift(s) must be reported on a properly filed amended gift tax return.

.11 Refunds for de minimis loan gift or overvaluation. If in any year before 1984, the donor made low-interest or interest-free demand loan gifts that did not in the aggregate exceed the statutory annual exclusion amount for that year and if a gift tax return was filed for that period reporting any such loan gift, a refund of any gift tax paid attributable to the outstanding low-interest and interest-free demand loans may be claimed, but only if the year is one for which a refund claim would otherwise be considered timely filed within the limitation period for refunds allowed under section 6511 of the code. A refund may also be claimed for the excess gift tax paid for any demand loan gift that was reported in a previously filed gift tax return if the gift was valued on the basis of a valuation in excess of the valuation determined pursuant to sections 3.02 and 3.05, but only if the year is one for which a refund claim would otherwise be considered timely filed within the limitation period for refunds allowed under section 6511 of the Code.

.12 Treatment of De Minimis Loan Gifts in Subseuqent Tax Returns. Gifts made before January 1, 1984, that resulted from low-interest and interest-free demand loans outstanding in prior gift tax periods of no more than the average annual loan amounts for those periods set forth in section 3.05, will be disregarded for purposes of computing the gift tax on the donor's gifts made in years subsequent to such loans and in computing the estate tax on the donor's estate. However, reportable gifts resulting from low-interest and interest-free demand loans outstanding after December 31, 1983, will not be disregarded for purposes of computing the donor's gift tax in subsequent years and the donor's estate tax.

.13 Indirect Gift Loans. Low-interest and interest-free demand loans made to trusts or other entities are treated for purposes of this revenue procedure as separate loans made proportionately to those individuals who have a beneficial interest in the trust or other entity. The exceptions set forth in sections 3.03 and 3.04 apply only to individuals who have a present interest in the loan proceeds or the income attributable to the loan proceeds. If the low-interest or interest-free demand loan is transferred to a trust or other entity for the benefit of a donee who is under age 21, te donee is not considered to have a future interest in the income attributable to the loan proceeds for any period during which the gift loan is outstanding and the donee is under age 21, if a) the income from the loan proceeds may be expended by or for the benefit of the donee prior to attaining age 21, b) any portion of the income attributable to the loan proceeds so disposed of will pass to the donee upon attaining the age of 21, and c) any portion of the income of the loan proceeds not disposed of in such manner prior to the donee attaining age 21, will be payable either to the estate of the donee or as the donee may appoint under a general power of appointment as defined in Code section 2514(c) if the donee dies before attaining the age of 21 years.

PART A.—GENERAL

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

.01 The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide the requirements and conditions for filing information return Forms 1098, 1099, 5498, and W-2G on diskette. THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IS TO BE USED FOR THE PREPARATION OF TAX YEAR 1985 INFORMATION RETURNS ONLY. THIS PROCEDURE IS UPDATED YEARLY TO REFLECT NECESSARY CHANGES. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY. Specifications for filing the following forms are contained in this procedure:

(a) Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

(b) Form 1099-A, Information Return for Acquisition or Abandonment of Secured Property.

(c) Form 1099-B, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds from Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions.

(d) Form 1099-DIV, Statement for Recipients of Dividends and Distributions.

(e) Form 1099-G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Government Payments.

(f) Form 1099-INT, Statement for Recipients of Interest Income.

(g) Form 1099-MISC, Statement for Recipients of Miscellaneous Income.

(h) Form 1099-OID, Statement for Recipients of Original Issue Discount.

(i) Form 1099-PATR, Statement for Recipients (Patrons) of Taxable Distributions Received From Cooperatives.

(j) Form 1099-R, Statement for Recipients of Total Distributions from Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, Etc.

(k) Form 5498, Individual Retirement Arrangement Information.

(l) Form W-2G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Gambling Winnings.

.02 This procedure also provides the requirements and specifications for diskette filing under the Combined Federal/State Filing Program. Refer to Part A, Sec. 14.

.03 The following revenue procedures and publications provide more detailed filing procedures for certain information returns, payer identification, transfer agents and paper substitute specifications, respectively.

(a) 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498, and 1096," provide further information on filing returns with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). These instructions are available at local IRS offices.

(b) Rev. Proc. 84-24, 1984-1 C.B. 465, regarding preparation of transmittal documents for information returns.

(c) Rev. Proc. 84-33, 1984-1 C.B. 502, regarding the optional method for agents to report and deposit backup withholding.

(d) Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

.04 This procedure supersedes the following revenue procedure: Rev. Proc. 84-68, 1984-2 C.B. 638, also published in Publication 1255 Rev. (10-84), Requirements and Conditions for Filing Information Returns in the Forms 1099, 5498, and W-2G Series on Magnetic Diskette.

.05 Refer to Part A, Sec. 15 for definitions of terms used in this publication.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND—PRIOR YEAR CHANGES (TAX YEAR 1984)

.01 This section contains a review of the changes described in the revenue procedure last year. Please insure that the necessary reprogramming was accomplished in order to comply with last year's changes as these changes will still be necessary in the program for the current year.

.02 The following were general changes:

(a) Procedures for applying for waivers for undue hardship were added.

(b) An explanation of penalties was added.

(c) Reports from different branches for one payer were consolidated under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of information return. For example, all like Form 1099-INT documents must be sorted together under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, followed by the appropriate Payee "B" Records and one End of Payer "C" Record.

(d) The explanation of Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs) was rewritten to clarify changes concerning backup withholding and due diligence requirements.

(e) Changes were made to the requirements concerning the paper copy of the information return furnished to the payee.

(f) A definition for "Transfer Agent" was added.

(g) A list of valid U.S. Postal Service State Abbreviations was added to aid in developing the State Code portion of Name Line fields.

.03 The following changes were made to the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record:

(a) Amount Indicator "2" was added for Form 5498.

(b) "Type of Return" and "Amount Indicators" were added for Form W-2G.

(c) The codes for "Type of Payer" and "Payee 'B' Record Surname Indicator" fields should have been deleted from your programs. However, the positions in the record should not have been deleted. Fill these positions with blanks.

(d) The "Second Payer Name" field was shortened from 40 characters to 39 characters. The contents of the "Second Payer Name" field, as well as the contents of the "Payer Shipping Address" and the "Payer City, State and ZIP Code" fields, are dependent upon the value in the "Transfer Agent Indicator".

(e) A "Transfer Agent Indicator" was added following the "Second Payer Name" field. The contents of this field let IRS programs know if the information in "Second Payer Name", "Payer Shipping Address" and "Payer City, State and ZIP Code" pertains to the Payer or to the Transfer Agent.

(f) The name of "Payer Mailing Address" was changed to "Payer Shipping Address." Beginning with Tax Year 1984 returns, IRS notified payers of any information returns not containing valid TINs. This notification includes a payee notice for each such information return. Therefore, we must have an address capable of accepting volume mail.

.04 The following changes were made to the Payee "B" Record:

(a) The meaning of the "Document Specific Code" for Form 1099-G was expanded.

(b) The use of the "Document Specific Code" was increased to include Type of Wager for Form W-2G.

(c) PLEASE NOTE: If any one Payment Amount Field exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total MUST be submitted for the Payee. Example: the total money amount to be reported for Payee ABC is $250,371,491.87. Three Payee "B" Records will have to be submitted for Payee ABC to contain the entire total amount. (DO NOT enter dollar signs, commas, or decimal points, in the Payment Amount fields.)

(d) New field definitions specific to Form W-2G were added.

SEC. 3. NATURE OF CHANGES—CURRENT YEAR (TAX YEAR 1985)

.01 DUE TO NUMEROUS LEGISLATIVE AND FORMS CHANGES BETWEEN TAX YEARS 1984 AND 1985, CHANGES HAVE NOT BEEN LISTED INDIVIDUALLY UNDER THIS SECTION. THIS ENTIRE PUBLICATION HAS BEEN REVISED. REVIEW THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IN ITS ENTIRETY.

SEC. 4. WAGE AND PENSION INFORMATION FILED WITH SSA

.01 Section 8(b), Public Law 94-202, 1976-1 C.B. 503, enacted in January 1976, authorized the combined reporting of FICA detailed information in one consolidated annual W-2 (Copy A) to the Federal government. AS A RESULT, FORMS W-2 AND W-2P ARE TO BE FILED WITH THE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION (SSA), NOT WITH THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE.

.02 SSA will accept magnetic media filing of Forms W-2 and W-2P and has issued the following concerning this: TIB-4a, "Magnetic Tape Reporting, Submitting FICA Wage and Tax Data to the Social Security Administration"; TIB-4b, "Magnetic Tape Reporting, Submitting Annuity, Pension, Retired Pay or IRA Payment to the Social Security Administration"; and TIB-4c, "Diskette Reporting, Submitting FICA Wage and Tax Data to the Social Security Administration". Applications for filing Forms W-2 and W-2P on magnetic media appear in TIBs-4a, 4b, and 4c.

.03 Copies of Social Security Administration publications TIB-4a, 4b, and 4c are available from any local Social Security Administration Office or the SSA Regional Magnetic Media Coordinators.

SEC. 5. APPLICATION FOR MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTING AND REQUESTS FOR UNDUE HARDSHIP WAIVERS

.01 For purposes of this revenue procedure, the PAYER is the organization making the payments and the TRANSMITTER is the organization preparing the diskette file. The payer and transmitter may be the same organization. Payers or their transmitters are required to complete Form 4419, Application for Magnetic Media Reporting of Information Returns. A copy of this form, for your use, can be found at the end of this publication. Requests for additional information or forms relating to magnetic media processing should be addressed to the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the appropriate service center or the National Computer Center.

On January 1, 1985, the National Computer Center assumed responsibility for the magnetic media processing previously handled by the Philadelphia, Kansas City, and Austin Service Centers. Beginning January 1, 1986, magnetic media processing for ALL service centers will be centralized at the National Computer Center. Addresses are listed in Part A, Sec. 13 of this revenue procedure.

.02 Applications should be filed with the National Computer Center or the appropriate service center 90 days before the due date of the return. IRS will act on an application and notify the applicant, in writing, of authorization to file. A five character Transmitter Control Code will be assigned and included in an acknowledgement letter within 30 days of receipt of the application. Diskette returns may not be filed with IRS until the application has been approved. Do not enter blanks in the "A" Record Transmitter Control Code field; enter the five character Transmitter Control Code which is assigned to you by IRS after you have filed an application and it has been approved.

.03 After you have received approval to file on magnetic media, you do not need to reapply each year UNLESS:

(a) there are hardware or software changes that would affect the characteristics of the magnetic media submission (e.g., changing from diskette to tape filing or vice versa) or,

(b) you discontinue filing on magnetic media for a year (your five character Transmitter Control Code may be reassigned).

If either of these conditions applies to you, you should contact your coordinator for clarification. In ALL correspondence, refer to your current five character Transmitter Control Code to assist the coordinator in locating your files.

.04 IRS will assist new filers with their initial diskette submission by reviewing "test" files submitted in advance of the filing season. Approved payers or transmitters should submit "test" files with the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the appropriate service center or the National Computer Center. You MUST submit a "test" file in order to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program; however, you are encouraged to submit "test" files if you are a new filer on magnetic media. As a guideline, IRS prefers that all "test" files be submitted between September and December. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Do not submit "test" diskettes after January 1. If you are unable to submit your "test" file by the end of December, you may only send a sample hardcopy printout or diskette dump to the National Computer Center which shows a sample of each record (A, B, C, K and F) used.

Clearly mark the hardcopy printout or diskette dump as "TEST DATA", and include identifying information such as name, address and telephone number of someone familiar with the "test" print or diskette dump who may be contacted to discuss its acceptability. After January 1, 1986, submit the "test" print or diskette dump showing a sample of each record to the National Computer Center only.

.05 If your magnetic media files have been prepared for you in the past by a service agency, and you now have computer equipment compatible with that of IRS and wish to prepare your own files, you must request your own five character Transmitter Control Code by filing an application, Form 4419, as described above.

.06 If you as an individual or organization are an approved filer on magnetic media and you change your name or the name of your organization, please notify the National Computer Center or service center Magnetic Media Coordinator so that your file may be updated to reflect the proper name.

.07 In accordance with section 1.6041-7 (b) of the Income Tax Regulations, payments to providers of medical and health care services from separate departments of a health care carrier may be reported as separate returns on magnetic media. In this case, the headquarters office will be considered to be the transmitter, and the individual departments of the company filing reports will be considered to be payers. A single application form covering all the departments which will be filing on diskette should be submitted. One five character Transmitter Control Code may be used for all departments.

.08 Section 1.6045-1(1) of the Income Tax Regulations requires brokers and barter exchanges to use magnetic media in reporting all Form 1099-B data to the IRS. Generally, NEW brokers and NEW barter exchanges may request an undue hardship exception by filing an application, by the end of the second month following the month in which they became a broker or barter exchange, with the National Computer Center or service center Magnetic Media Coordinator.

.09 All requests for undue hardship exemptions should be submitted at least 90 days before the due date of the return, except as stated in Sec. 5.08 above.

.10 The requirements to receive a waiver from filing required information returns on magnetic media for tax year 1985 are more stringent than they were for tax year 1984. Filers must submit a written statement requesting an undue hardship waiver from magnetic media filing for a specific period of time, not to exceed one tax year. If the filer requires a waiver for a longer period of time, the filer must reapply at the appropriate time each year (90 days before the due date of the return). Filers may not apply for a waiver for more than one tax year at a time. The written statement must contain the following identifying information:

(a) The filer's name and address.

(b) The filer's Taxpayer Identification Number (SSN or EIN).

(c) The period for which the waiver is requested: Tax Year 1985.

(d) The name and telephone number of a person to contact who is familiar with the information contained in the waiver request.

(e) The type of returns and expected volume of each form.

(f) The reason for the request.

(g) An estimated cost for filing the returns on paper, on magnetic media if you prepare the files, and on magnetic media using the services of an agency who will charge you for this service. IF YOU EXPECT TO FILE OVER 500 RETURNS, YOU MUST SUBMIT A COPY OF A WRITTEN COST ESTIMATE FOR MAGNETIC MEDIA FILING FROM A SERVICE AGENCY; FOR 500 OR LESS, SUBMIT AN ESTIMATE AS DESCRIBED ABOVE.

.11 If you request a waiver from filing on magnetic media and it is approved, do not send a copy of the approved waiver to the service centers. Do not staple, paperclip or use rubber bands on any scannable forms. Paper returns are read by an optical scanner (OCR) at the service centers.

.12 Waivers are granted on a case-by-case basis and may be approved at the discretion of the service center or National Computer Center Magnetic Media Coordinators. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Waiver requests should be filed 90 days before the due date of the return, except as stated in Sec. 5.08 above.

.13 If you are required to file on magnetic media but fail to do so, and you do not have an approved waiver on record, you may be subject to a failure to file penalty. Refer to Sec. 6.02 below.

.14 An approved waiver from filing information returns on magnetic media does not provide exemption from ALL filing; you MUST submit your information returns on acceptable paper forms.

.15 A diskette reporting package, which includes all the necessary transmittals, labels, and instructions, will be mailed to all approved filers between October and December of each year.

SEC. 6. FILING OF MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTS

.01 Section 6011(e) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended by the Interest and Dividend Tax Compliance Act of 1983, Pub. L. 98-67, 1983-2 C.B. 352, requires that any person, including individuals, estates and trusts, required to file more than 50 information returns in the aggregate for payments of interest (Forms 1099-INT and 1099-OID), dividends (Form 1099-DIV) or patronage dividends (Form 1099-PATR) for any calendar year, must file such returns on magnetic media. For example, if a payer must file 30 Forms 1099-DIV and 25 Forms 1099-INT, filing on magnetic media is required. This requirement shall not apply if you establish that it will cause you undue hardship.

.02 The penalty for both the failure to timely file certain information returns and failure to file returns as prescribed by IRS is now $50 per payee up to a maximum of $50,000 a year. However, there is no maximum penalty for returns of 1099-INT, 1099-OID, 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR or 5498. If the failure to file is due to intentional disregard of the filing requirements, the penalty may be greater than $50 per payee and there is no maximum penalty.

.03 Generally, payers are now subject to a $50 penalty for each failure to include the payee's correct TIN on an information return.

.04 Rev. Proc. 84-24, 1984-1 C.B. 465, gives detailed information on preparing transmittal documents for information returns and is available at your local IRS office. Specific guidelines are given on how to report the payer's name, address and TIN on transmittal documents and information returns. Instructions for multiple transmittals and the submission of transmittals by service bureaus or agents are also covered.

.05 THE DISKETTE RECORDS ARE TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE NATIONAL COMPUTER CENTER; HOWEVER, PAPER INFORMATION RETURNS ARE TO CONTINUE TO BE FILED WITH THE APPROPRIATE SERVICE CENTERS. See Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Form 4804, Transmittal of Information Returns Reported on Magnetic Media, must accompany diskette submissions. If you file for multiple payers and have the authority to sign the affidavit on Form 4804, you should also submit Form 4802, Multiple Payer Transmittal for Magnetic Media Reporting.

For the IRS to ensure that your actual data records were formatted following THIS revenue procedure, include a hardcopy printout, fast print or diskette dump showing a sample of each type of record (A, B, C, K and F) used on the diskette. This will be reviewed prior to actual processing to ensure that the data is in the proper format. Be sure to include Form 4804, 4802, or computer generated listing with your diskette shipment. IRS encourages the use of computer generated Form 4804 which includes all necessary information requested on the actual form. DO NOT MAIL THE DISKETTES AND THE TRANSMITTAL DOCUMENTS SEPARATELY.

Paper information returns must be transmitted to the appropriate service center using Form 1096, Annual Summary and Transmittal of U.S. Information Returns. Do not send information returns filed on paper forms to the National Computer Center.

.06 The affidavit which appears on Form 1096 and Form 4804 should be signed by the payer; however, the transmitter, service bureau, paying agent, or disbursing agent may sign the affidavit on behalf of the payer if all of the following conditions are met:

(a) It has the authority to sign the affidavit under an agency agreement (either oral, written, or implied) that is valid under the state law.

(b) It has the responsibility (either oral, written, or implied) conferred on it by the payer to request the TINs of borrowers, recipients, or participants reported on magnetic media or paper returns.

(c) It signs the affidavit and adds the caption "For: (name of payer)."

.07 Although a duly authorized agent signs the affidavit, the payer is held responsible for the accuracy of the Form 4804, and the payer will be liable for penalties for failure to comply with filing requirements.

.08 If a portion of the returns are submitted on paper documents with the service center, include a statement on the Form 1096 that the remaining returns are being filed on magnetic media with the National Computer Center. DO NOT REPORT THE SAME INFORMATION ON PAPER FORMS THAT YOU REPORT ON MAG-

NETIC MEDIA. IF YOU REPORT PART OF YOUR RETURNS ON PAPER AND PART ON MAGNETIC MEDIA, BE SURE THAT DUPLICATE RETURNS, WITH THE SAME INFORMATION, ARE NOT INCLUDED ON BOTH. This does not mean that corrected documents are not to be filed. If a return has been prepared and submitted improperly, you must file a corrected return as soon as possible. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for requirements and instructions on filing corrected returns.

.09 Reports from different branches for one payer MUST be consolidated under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of information return. For example, all Forms 1099-INT must be sorted together under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record followed by the appropriate "B" Records and one "C" Record.

.10 Health care carriers, or their agents, filing Form 1099-MISC per Part A, Sec. 5.07, may submit part of their returns on paper documents and part on magnetic media if the records of some departments are not maintained on computer files. However, an information return is required if the aggregate amount paid to a health care service provider from all departments equals $600 or more. For example, Department A pays $200, Department B pays $300, and Department C pays $100 to the same health care service provider. The aggregate amount paid from all departments equals $600. The health care carrier or agent must submit either one information return for the aggregate amount of $600 or three separate returns from the departments, indicating the amount paid by each department.

.11 Before submitting magnetic media files, include the following:

(a) A signed Form 4804 or computer generated substitute. If you send two copies of the Form 4804, one will be used as an acknowledgement.

(b) A Form 4802 (if you transmit for multiple payers).

(c) A hard copy printout or listing of the first five and last two blocks of your file. The listing should show a sample of each type of record (A, B, C, K and F) used on the magnetic media being submitted.

(d) The magnetic media with an external identifying label as described in part B, Sec. 1.

(e) On the outside of the shipping container, include a Form 4801 or a substitute for the form which reads "DELIVER UNOPENED TO TAPE LIBRARY—MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTING—BOX ____ of ____." If there is only one container, mark the outside as Box 1 of 1. For multiple containers, include the sequence (i.e., Box 1 of 33, 2 of 33, etc.).

(f) If you were granted an extension and are filing late, include a copy of the approved extension letter with the magnetic media.

.12 IRS will not pay or accept "Collect on Delivery" or "Charged to IRS" shipments of reportable tax information that an individual or organization is legally required to submit. The current policy is to return magnetic materials or requested information from the IRS, at U.S. Government expense.

.13 Files returned to you due to coding or format errors are to be corrected and returned to IRS within 30 days of receipt by the filer.

SEC. 7. FILING DATES

.01 The dates prescribed for filing paper returns with IRS also apply to magnetic media filing. Magnetic media reporting to the IRS for all types of Form 1098, 1099 Series, 5498, and W-2G must be on a calendar year basis.

.02 Information returns filed on magnetic media for Forms 1098, all types of Forms 1099, and W-2G must be submitted to IRS by February 28. The due date for furnishing the required copy or statement to the recipient is January 31.

.03 Information returns filed on magnetic media for Form 5498 must be submitted to IRS by May 31. Copies of this form or statements are due to the participant by May 31 for contributions made to IRAs and SEPs; however, participant copies or statements for DECs are due the time the contribution is made or January 31, whichever is the later. Form 5498 is filed for contributions to be applied to 1985 that are made between January 1, 1985, and April 15, 1986.

SEC. 8. EXTENSIONS OF TIME TO FILE

.01 If a payer or transmitter of returns on magnetic media is unable to submit their magnetic media file by the dates prescribed in Sec. 7.02 and 7.03 above, submit a letter requesting an extension of up to 30 days to file, as soon as you are aware that an extension will be necessary. The request MUST be filed before the due date of the return. The letter should be sent to the attention of the Magnetic Media Reporting Program at the National Computer Center where the diskette file is to be submitted. See part A, Sec. 13 for the address. The request should include:

(a) The filer's name and address.

(b) The filer's Taxpayer Identification Number (SSN or EIN).

(c) The tax year for which the extension of time is requested: tax year 1985.

(d) The name and telephone number of a person to contact who is familiar with the request.

(e) The type of returns and expected volume.

(f) The Transmitter Control Code assigned to the organization or individual requesting the extension (if a number has been assigned).

(g) The reason for the delay and date that you will be able to file.

.02 If an extension of time to file on magnetic media is granted by the National Computer Center, a copy of the letter granting the extension MUST be attached to the transmittal Form 4804 or computer generated substitute when the file is submitted.

SEC. 9. PROCESSING OF MAGNETIC MEDIA RETURNS

.01 The National Computer Center will process tax information from magnetic media files. All magnetic media files that are received timely by the National Computer Center will be returned to the filers by August 15 of the year in which submitted.

.02 After January 1, 1986, all magnetic media processing will be centralized at the National Computer Center. Due to the volume of input received and the cost to return special containers, special shipping containers should not be used for transmitting data to the National Computer Center since IRS cannot guarantee return of such containers.

.03 Files will be returned to you for correction if they are unprocessable due to format or coding errors, or by the request of the filer. Files must be corrected and returned to the National Computer Center within 30 days of receipt by the filer. The corrected files will be returned to the filer by the National Computer Center within 6 months of receipt. PLEASE BE SURE THAT YOUR FORMAT AND CODING COMPLY WITH THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE. THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IS TO BE USED FOR THE PREPARATION OF TAX YEAR 1985 INFORMATION RETURNS ONLY. AS SOME LEGISLATIVE AND FORMS CHANGES AFFECTING INFORMATION RETURNS OCCUR EACH YEAR, THIS PROCEDURE IS UPDATED TO REFLECT NECESSARY CHANGES. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY.

SEC. 10. HOW TO FILE CORRECTED RETURNS

.01 If a return has been prepared and submitted improperly, you must file a complete corrected return as soon as possible. ALL FIELDS OR BOXES MUST BE COMPLETED WITH THE CORRECT INFORMATION, NOT JUST THE DATA FIELDS NEEDING CORRECTION. If you file corrected returns on paper forms, submit Copy A to the appropriate service center. There are numerous types of errors. It may require more than one transaction to properly correct the initial error. You are strongly encouraged to read this ENTIRE section before attempting to make ANY correction. If the initial return was filed as an aggregate, you must consider this in filing the corrected returns.

.02 Corrected returns submitted to IRS on magnetic media, using a "G" coded Payee "B" Record, may be submitted on the same diskette as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, they must be submitted using a separate "A" Record. Corrected returns for different tax years may not be submitted on the same file. Corrected returns are to be identified as corrections on the transmittal document and the EXTERNAL label of the file.

.03 The instructions that follow will provide information on how to file corrected returns on magnetic media and on paper forms. Please refer to the appropriate chart and type of error for instructions on how to properly file the corrected return(s).

.04 You may file corrected returns on paper forms; however, you are encouraged to file on magnetic media if you file more than 50 corrected returns.

.05 If you file your corrected returns on paper forms, do not submit the paper returns to the National Computer Center. All paper returns, whether original or corrected, must be filed with the appropriate service center. Corrected returns filed on magnetic media must be filed with the National Computer Center. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.

.06 Statements to the recipient or participant should be identified as "CORRECTED" and should be provided to them as soon as possible.

.07 If you file corrected returns on paper forms, use IRS forms or acceptable OCR scannable paper substitutes. Always submit Copy A to the appropriate service center. NOTE: Form W-2G is not required to be in OCR scannable format. Publication 1179, "Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G" provides requirements and instructions. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for paper substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

.08 For further instructions on filing information returns with IRS, refer to the 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498 and 1096." If these instructions are not included in your magnetic media reporting packages, request a copy from your local IRS office.

.09 Type or machine print all information on returns filed on paper.

.10 Use the proper form. If you are in doubt, review the instructions noted in .08 above or contact your local IRS office.

.11 use only the boxes provided on the paper forms. Do not add additional boxes.

.12 Do not change the title of any box on the paper forms.

.13 Use the same name and TIN (SSN or EIN) for the filer on the Form 1096 transmittal form and all related forms that follow.

.14 A separate transmittal Form 1096 is required for each type of paper information return filed in the 1098, 5498 and 1099 Series. A transmittal Form W-3G is required to transmit paper Forms 1099-R and W-2G. DO NOT USE THE SAME TRANSMITTAL DOCUMENT TO FILE ORIGINAL AND CORRECTED RETURNS WHETHER ON PAPER FORMS OR MAGNETIC MEDIA. A transmittal Form 4804 or computer generated substitute is used to transmit magnetic media. A Form 4802 is a continuation form for a Form 4804. Please utilize a Form 4802 if you file on magnetic media for multiple payers and are an authorized agent for the payers.

.15 Do not staple, fold, paperclip or use rubberbands on any paper information returns filed with IRS. This could impair the OCR scanning process.

.16 Use the correct tax year's forms to file information returns with IRS (i.e., do not submit tax year 1985 returns using 1984 forms). The same is true for magnetic media filing. You must submit your returns filed on magnetic media using the revenue procedure for the tax year of the returns. Forms and revenue procedures are normally updated each year to include necessary changes.

.17 Most information returns contain a "VOID" box and a "CORRECTED" box. The "VOID" box is used only if you make an error while typing or printing the paper forms. Mark this box ONLY when you wish the return to be disregarded or passed over. The OCR scanner at the service centers will not read a "VOID" return; it will pass over it and go to the next form if the "VOID" box is marked. Do not confuse the "VOID" box and the "CORRECTED" box.

.18 On magnetic media files, the Payee "B" Record provides space to enter a Payer's Account Number for the Payee. This same account number may be provided on paper forms. In order to properly file corrected returns, this number will help identify the appropriate incorrect return. DO NOT ENTER A TIN (SSN OR EIN). A PAYER'S ACCOUNT NUMBER FOR THE PAYEE MAY BE A CHECKING ACCOUNT NUMBER, SAVINGS ACCOUNT NUMBER, SERIAL NUMBER OR ANY OTHER NUMBER ASSIGNED TO THE PAYEE BY THE PAYER, WHICH WILL DISTINGUISH THE SPECIFIC ACCOUNT. THIS NUMBER MUST APPEAR ON THE INITIAL RETURN AND ON THE CORRECTED RETURN IN ORDER TO IDENTIFY AND PROCESS THE CORRECTION PROPERLY.

.19 REVIEW BOTH CHARTS 1 AND 2 THAT FOLLOW. The types of errors made will normally fall under one of the four categories listed. Next to each type of error made, you will find a list of instructions to tell you how to properly file the corrected return for that type of error. READ ALL OF THE INSTRUCTIONS LISTED AND FOLLOW THEM FOR THE TYPE OF ERROR MADE ON THE INITIAL RETURN. IN SOME CASES TWO TRANSACTIONS ARE REQUIRED TO PROPERLY FILE CORRECTIONS. IF THE ORIGINAL RETURN WAS FILED AS AN AGGREGATE, YOU MUST CONSIDER THIS IN FILING THE CORRECTED RETURNS.

(PLEASE READ SEC. 10.01 THROUGH 10.19 OF THIS PUBLICATION BEFORE MAKING ANY CORRECTIONS)

Type of Error Made on the Original Return Filed on Magnetic Media	How to File The Corrected Return On Magnetic Media
1. Original return was filed with NO Payee TIN (SSN or EIN) OR the return was filed with an INCORRECT Payee TIN (SSN or EIN). THIS WILL REQUIRE TWO SEPARATE TRANSACTIONS TO MAKE THE CORRECTION PROPERLY. READ AND FOLLOW ALL INSTRUCTIONS FOR BOTH TRANSACTIONS 1 AND 2.	TRANSACTION 1: Identifying return submitted with NO TIN or an INCORRECT TIN A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. Prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or diskette dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format. 5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. The information in the "A" Record will be the same as it was in the original submission. 3. The Payee "B" Record must contain exactly the same information as submitted previously EXCEPT: insert a "G" code in diskette position 6 of the "B" Record AND for ALL payment amounts used, enter "0" (zero). 4. Corrected returns submitted to IRS using a "G" coded "B" Record may be submitted on the same diskette as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, a separate "A" Record is required. 5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the diskette "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION." 6. Submit the diskette(s), a diskette dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.) TRANSACTION 2: Reporting the correct information A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. If you submit records with the corrected information on a separate diskette from those that are "G" coded, prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file.

	(A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or diskette dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format. 5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file with the correct information in ALL records. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. 3. Do not code the Payee "B" Record as a corrected return for this type of correction. (Remove the "G" Code.) 4. Provide all of the correct information supplying the correct TIN (SSN or EIN). 5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the diskette "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION." 6. Submit the diskette(s), a diskette dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.)
2. Original return was filed with an incorrect payment amount(s) in the Payee "B" Record, OR a money amount was repoted using an incorrect Payment Amount Indicator Code in the original Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Correct Type Of Return indicator was used in the "A" Record. THIS WILL REQUIRE ONLY ONE TRANSACTION TO MAKE THE CORRECTION. (NOTE: If the wrong Type Of Return indicator was used, see number 3 of this chart.)	A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. Prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802) if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or diskette dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format. 5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. The information in the "A" Record will be the same as it was in the original submission EXCEPT, the correct Amount Indicators will be used. 3. The Payee "B" Record must contain exactly the same information as submitted previously EXCEPT: insert a

	"G" code in diskette position 6 of the "B" Record AND report the correct payment amounts as they should have been reported on the initial return. 4. Corrected returns submitted to IRS using a "G" coded "B" Record may be submitted on the same diskette as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, a separate "A" Record is required. 5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the diskette "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION." 6. Submit the diskette(s), a diskette dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to part A, Sec. 13 for address information.)
3. Original return was filed using the WRONG Type of Return indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. (For example, a return was coded using the Type of Return indicator for 1099-DIV and it should have been coded 1099-INT.) THIS WILL REQUIRE TWO SEPARATE TRANSACTIONS TO MAKE THE CORRECTION PROPERLY. READ AND FOLLOW ALL INSTRUCTIONS FOR BOTH TRANSACTIONS 1 AND 2.	TRANSACTION 1: Identifying return submitted with an incorrect Type Of Return indicator A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. Sec. 11. TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBERS

.01 Under section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code, recipients of all reportable payments on information returns are required to furnish Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs) to the payer. The number must be furnished to the payer whether or not the payee is required to file a tax return or is covered by social security. Refer to Sec. 15 for a definition of Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN).

.02 The recipient's TIN is used to associate and verify amounts reported to IRS with corresponding amounts on tax returns. Therefore, it is particularly important that correct social security and employer identification numbers for payees be provided on magnetic media or paper forms submitted to IRS. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROES.

.03 Under section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code, a $50 penalty applies for each failure to furnish a TIN to another person who is required to file an information return, and for each failure to include a TIN on an information return. The penalty for payments other than interest or dividends applies unless the failures were due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

.04 With respect to all payers of interest and dividends, section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that the payer must self-assess a $50 penalty for each failure to include a payee's TIN or each inclusion of an incorrect TIN on an information return, unless the payer can demonstrate that the payer met the due diligence requirements in attempting to acquire correct TINs for payees. Use form 8210, Self-Assessed Penalties Return.

.05 For any reportable payment, if the payee fails to provide a TIN to the payer or if IRS notifies you that the TIN provided is incorrect, then backup withholding must be instituted for that payee. In the case of notice of an incorrect TIN from IRS, the payer must begin withholding on the 31st day after the notice is received. If the payer receives another TIN in the manner required from the payee within 30 days of notice from IRS, no withholding is required.

.06 The TIN to be furnished to IRS depends primarily upon the manner in which the account is maintained or set up on the payer's record. The TIN to be provided must be that of the owner of the account. If the account is recorded in more than one name, furnish the TIN and name of one of the owners of the account. The TIN provided must be associated with the name of the payee provided in the first name line of the Payee "B" Record. For individuals, including sole proprietors, the payee TIN is the payee's social security number. For other entities, the payee TIN is the payee's employer identification number.

.07 Sole proprietors who are payers should show their employer identification number in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. However, sole proprietors who are not otherwise required to have an employer identification number should use their social security number.

.08 Sole proprietors' social security numbers must be used in the Payee "B" Record.

.09 The charts below will help you determine the number to be furnished to IRS for recipients of reportable payments (payees).

SEC. 12. EFFECT ON PAPER RETURNS

.01 Diskette reporting of the information returns listed in Part A, Sec. 1 applies only to the original (Copy A).

.02 For payments of dividends or interest (reported on Forms 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT or 1099-OID), the payer is required to furnish an official Form 1099 to a payee either in a separate mailing by First-Class mail or in person. These forms may not be combined or mailed with other information furnished to the recipient except Form W-9 or other Form 1099 statements. The payer may use substitute Forms 1099 if they are substantially similar to the official forms and if the payer complies with all revenue procedures relating to substitute Forms 1099 in effect at the time (see Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G). A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement. Copy B (For Recipient) of the substitute forms must contain the statement "This is important tax information and is being furnished to IRS. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty will be imposed on you if this income is taxable and IRS determines that it has not been reported."

.03 Statements to recipients for Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B, 1099-G, 1099-MISC (except for substitute payments in lieu of dividends and tax-exempt interest), 1099-R, 5498 or W-2G need not be a copy of the paper form filed with IRS. It is important that income items be properly classified for Federal tax purposes on the statement the payer gives to recipients. The message "This information is being furnished to IRS" must appear on the statements. The payer may combine the statements with other reports or financial or commercial notices, or expand them to include other information of interest to the recipient. Also, be sure that all copies of the forms are legible and provide the recipient with applicable instructions that appear on the back of the recipient's copy of the official IRS form so that the information may properly be used by the recipient in meeting his or her tax obligations.

.04 If a portion of the returns is reported on diskette and the remainder is reported on paper forms, those returns not submitted on diskette must be filed on official forms or on acceptable paper substitutes meeting specifications in Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

SEC. 13. MAGNETIC MEDIA COORDINATOR CONTACTS

.01 On January 1, 1985, the National Computer Center assumed responsibility for the magnetic media processing previously handled by the Philadelphia, Kansas City, and Austin Service Centers. Beginning January 1, 1986, magnetic media processing for all service centers will be centralized at the National Computer Center. On or after January 1, 1986, please direct all requests for magnetic media related publications, information, undue hardship waivers, or forms to the following address:

SEC. 14. COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING

.01 The Combined Federal/State Program was established to simplify information returns filing for the taxpayer. IRS will accept, upon prior approval, diskette files containing state reporting information only for those states listed in Table 1 in this section. FORMS 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B AND W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM.

.02 To request approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, a "test" file, coded for this program, must be submitted between September and December using the revenue procedure that will be used for the actual data files. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information. See Part A, Sec. 5.04 for general guidelines on submission of "test" files. Each record, both in the "test" file and actual data file, must be 360 positions in length, and the file must conform exactly to the revenue procedure for the tax year of the actual data. Combined Federal/State records must be coded using each state's dollar criteria from Table 2 of this Section for each type of return.

If the "test" diskette is determined to be acceptable, IRS will return it to the filer with a letter of approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program. Form 6847, Consent For Internal Revenue Service to Release Tax Information, will be included with the letter of approval. You must complete Form 6847, include your 5 character Transmitter Control Code on the form, and return it to IRS before IRS will release tax information to any of the participating states. Do not submit actual data records coded for the Combined Federal/State Program without prior approval from IRS. The first time you submit actual data files coded for this program, include the signed Form 6847.

.03 States that participate in this program and the valid state code assigned to each are listed in Table 1 of this Section. If the state that you wish information released to does not participate in the program, do not code your records for that state. If the state participates, if you have received prior approval, and if all other conditions are met, IRS will forward the tax information to the participating state at no charge to the filer.

.04 IF CORRECTIONS MUST BE MADE, IRS WILL NOT TRANSMIT CORRECTED RETURNS TO THE STATES. THIS WILL BE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE FILER.

.05 IRS will make no attempt to process files with any deviations. Approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program will be revoked if any files are submitted that do not totally conform.

.06 IRS is acting as a forwarding agent ONLY. Some participating states require separate notification that you are filing in this manner. It is your responsibility to contact the appropriate states for further information.

.07 The appropriate state code should be entered for those documents which meet that state's filing requirements. It is the filer's responsibility to determine the state code to be used and to obtain the filing requirements from the appropriate state(s).

.08 If you meet all of the requirements for this program, you must provide the state totals from the "K" record on a separate Form 4804 Transmittal of Information Returns on Magnetic Media (or Form 4802, Multiple Payer Transmittal For Magnetic Media Reporting) or computer generated substitute for each state, or you must include a listing which identifies each state and the "K" record totals for each.

.09 If you have met ALL of the above conditions:

(a) You must submit all records using two 128 position sectors which indicate the appropriate coding related to this program.

(b) The "C" record must be followed by a "K" Record for each state. The "K" record indicates the number of payees (different TINs) being reported to each particular state.

(c) Payment amount totals and the valid participating state code must included in the state totals "K" Record. Refer to Part B, Sec. 16, for a description of the "K" Record.

(d) The "K" record is followed by an end of transmission "F" Record (if this is the last record of the entire file).

.10 Only those states listed in Table 1 below will receive information from IRS. It is the filter's responsibility to file information returns with states that do not participate in this program.

NR—No filing requirement.

Footnotes:

[a] These requirements apply to individuals and business entities.

[b] Amounts are for aggregates of several types of income from the same payroll.

[c] State regulation changing filing requirement from $600 to $10 is pending.

[d] $10.01 for Savings and Loan Associations and Credit Unions.

[e] $600.01 for Rents and Royalties.

[f] Aggregate both types of returns. The state would prefer those returns filed with respect to non-Missouri residents to be sent directly to the state agency.

[g] Aggregate of several types of income.

[h] Return required for state of Oregon residents only.

[i] Same as federal requirement for this type of return.

*NOTE: Filing requirements for any state not shown on the above chart are the same as the Federal requirement.

SEC. 15. DEFINITIONS OF TERMS

Element	Description
b	Denotes a blank position. Enter blank(s) when this symbol is used (do 2not enter the letter "b). This appears in numerous areas throughout the record descriptions.
Coding Range	Indicates the allowable codes for a particular type of statement.
EIN	Employer Identification Number that has been assigned by IRS to the reporting entity.
Excess Golden Parachute Payment	Parachute payments (also called "golden parachutes") are certain payments in the nature of compensation which corporations make to key individuals, often in excess of their usual compensation, in the event that ownership or control of the corporation changes.
File	For purposes of this procedure, a file consists of all diskette records submitted by a Payer or Transmitter.
Payee	Person(s) or organization(s) receiving payments from the Payer, or for whom an information return must be filed.
Payer	Person or organization, including paying agent, making payments or the person liable for filing an information return. The Payer will be held responsible for the completeness, accuracy and timely submission of diskette files.
Special Character	Any character that is not a numeral, a letter or a blank
SSA	Social Security Administration.
SSN	Social Security Number.
Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)	May be either an EIN or SSN.
Transfer Agent (Paying Agent)	The transfer agent or paying agent is the entity who has been contracted or authorized by the payer to perform the services of paying and reporting backup withholding (Form 941). The payer must submit to IRS a Form 2678, Employer Appointment of Agent under Section 3504, which notifies IRS of the transfer agent relationship.
Transmitter	Person or organization preparing diskette file(s). May be Payer or agent of payer.
Transmitter Control Code	A five character number assigned by IRS to the transmitter prior to actual filing on magnetic media. This number is inserted in the "A" Record of your files and must be present before the file can be processed. An application Form 4419 must be filed with IRS to receive this number. See Part A, Sec. 5. (Abbreviation for this term is TCC.)

SEC. 16. U.S. POSTAL SERVICE STATE ABBREVIATIONS

You MUST use the following U.S. Postal Service State abbreviations when developing the state code portion of Name Line fields. (This table provides state abbreviations only and does not represent those states participating in the Combined Federal/State Program. For a list of states that participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, refer to Sec. 14.10.)

PART B. DISKETTE SPECIFICATION

SECTION 1. GENERAL

.01 The specifications contained in this part of the revenue procedure prescribe the required format and contents of the records to be included in the diskette file. These specifications must be adhered to unless deviations have been specifically granted by IRS in writing.

.02 To be compatible, a diskette file must meet the following specifications in total:

(a) 8 inches in diameter.

(b) recorded in basic data exchange mode.

(c) contain 77 tracks of which:

(1) Track 0 is the index track

(2) Tracks 1 through 73 are data tracks

(3) Track 74 is unused

(4) Tracks 75 and 76 are alternate data tracks.

(d) each Track must contain 26 sectors.

(e) each Sector must contain 128 bytes.

(f) data must be recorded on only one side of the diskette.

(g) IRS can only process single sided, single density, soft sectored diskettes; double sided, double density, hard sectored diskettes are NOT acceptable and will be returned if submitted.

(h) an IBM 3741 compatible diskette would meet the above specifications. Other types of diskettes would have to be tested to determine acceptability.

.03 Payers who can substantially conform to these specifications, but who require some minor deviations, MUST contact the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the National Computer Center or the service centers. Under no circumstances may diskettes deviating from the specifications in this revenue procedure be submitted without prior written approval from IRS. If you file under the Combined Federal/State program, your files must conform totally to this revenue procedure.

.04 An external label must appear on each diskette submitted for processing. The following information is needed:

(a) The trasmitter's name.

(b) The five character Transmitter Control Code.

(c) The type of computer equipment that the data was prepared on.

(d) The type of drive utilized.

(e) The tax year of the data (e.g., 1985).

(f) Document types (e.g., 1099 INT).

(g) The total number of payers (from the "F" record).

(h) The total number of payees (from the "C" record).

(i) The total number of diskettes in the file.

(j) A diskette number assigned by the transmitter.

(k) The sequence of each diskette (e.g., 001 of 008).

This information will assist IRS in processing the file or in locating a file, should the transmitter request that it be returned due to errors. IRS advises that special shipping containers not be used for transmitting data since it cannot be guaranteed that they will be returned.

SEC. 2. DISKETTE HEADER LABEL

.01 The header label on the diskette must be formatted as shown in the following layout:

HDR1	Blank	Data Set Name (For Transmitter's Use)	Blank	Sector Length	Blank	Beginning of Extent (BOE)
(a)	(b)	(c)	(b)	(d)	(b)	(e)
1–4	5	6–13	14–22	23–27	28	29–33
Blank	End of Extent (EOE)	Blank	Bypass Data Set	Data Set Accessibility	Write Protect	Blank
(b)	(f)	(b)	(g)	(h)	(i)	(b)
34	35–39	40	41	42	43	44
Multi-Volume	Blank	Expiration Date YYMMDD	Verify Mark	Blank	End of Data
(j)	(b)	(k)	(l)	(b)	(m)
45	46–66	67–72	73	74	75–79

(a) Header 1—Positions 1 through 4; enter HDR1.

(b) Unused—Any field marked blank is unused and should contain only blanks.

(c) Data Set Name—Positions 6 through 13; you can use this field to identify your data set.

(d) Sector Length—Positions 23 through 27; enter the sector length 128, right justify and fill positions 23 and 24 with zeroes.

(e) Beginning of Extent (BOE)—Positions 29 through 33; enter the five-digit address designated for the first record of this data set. For example, if the first record is to go in track 01, sector 02, enter 01002, or xx0yy where xx is the track number and yy is the sector number.

(f) End of Extent (EOE)—Positions 35 through 39; enter the five-digit address of the last position of the disk reserved for this data set. For example, to reserve the entire disk for a data set, enter 73026.
(g) Bypass Data Set—Position 41; enter B if you want to bypass this data set; otherwise, enter a blank.
(h) Data Set Accessibility—Position 42, enter a blank, any other character in this field causes the equipment to refuse the disk.
(i) Write Protect—Position 43; this field defines the protected status of the associated data set. P = read only; blank = read/write. With P in this position, you can only select the Update (U) mode.
(j) Multi-Volume—Position 45; this field indicates whether a complete data set is on a disk. Blank = data set complete; C = data set continued on another disk; L = last disk of a multi-disk data set.
(k) Expiration Date—Positions 67 through 72; may be used to contain the date that the data set expires. The format is YYMMDD where YY is the year, MM is the month and DD is the day.
(l) Verify Mark—Position 73; this single character field shows if the data set is verified. If it is, enter V, if it is not verified, enter a blank.
(m) End of Data (EOD)—Positions 75–79; enter the track number in positions 75 and 76, enter a "0" (zero) in position 77 and enter the sector number in positions 78 and 79.

SEC. 3. PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

.01 Identifies the payer and transmitter of the diskette and provides parameters for the succeeding Payee "B" Records. IRS computer programs rely on the absolute relationship between the parameters and data fields in the "A" Record and the data fields in the "B" Records to which they apply.

.02 The number of "A" Records appearing on a diskette will depend on the number of payers and the different types of returns being reported. After the header label on the diskette, the first record appearing in the file must be an "A" Record. For diskette filing, the actual record lengths for the "A" and "B" records must agree with whatever is entered in diskette positions 29–31 and 32–34 of the "A" Record. A transmitter may include Payee "B" Records for more than one payer on a diskette; however, each GROUP of Payee "B" Records must be preceded by an "A" Record. A single diskette may also contain different types of returns, but the returns MUST not be intermingled. A separate "A" Record is required for each type of return being reported. An "A" Record may be blocked with "B" Records; however, the initial record on a file must be an "A" Record. The IRS will accept an "A" Record after a "C" Record.

RECORD NAME: PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

Diskette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
SECTOR 1
1	Record Sequence	1	REQUIRED. Must be a "1". It is used to sequence the sectors making up a Service Record.
2	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "A".
3	Payment Year	1	REQUIRED. Must be the right most digit of the year for which information is being reported (e.g., if payments were made in 1985, enter "5"). Must be incremented each year.
4-6	Diskette Sequence Number	3	REQUIRED. Sequence number assigned by the Transmitter to each diskette starting with 001. (Blanks are acceptable or all zeroes.)
7-15	Payer's Federal EIN	9	REQUIRED. Must be the valid 9-digit number assigned to the payer by IRS. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROES.
16	Blank	1	REQUIRED. Enter blank.

RECORD NAME: PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD—Continued

SECTOR 1 (Continued)
17	Combined Federal/State Filer	1	REQUIRED. Enter the appropriate code from the table below. Prior approval is required. A Consent Form 6847 must be submitted to IRS before tax information will be released to the states. Refer to Part A, Sec. 14.11 for money criteria. Not all states participate in this Program. If the Payer/Transmitter is not participating in the Combined Federal/State Program, enter blanks. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 14 for the requirements that must be met prior to actual participation in this program.) Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B and W-2G cannot be filed on this Program. Code — Meaning 1 — Participating in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program blank — Not participating
18	Type of Return	1	REQUIRED. Enter appropriate code from table below: Type of Return — Code 1098 — 3 1099-A — 4 1099-B — B 1099-DIV — 1 1099-G — F 1099-INT — 6 1099-MISC — A 1099-OID — D 1099-PATR — 7 1099-R — 9 5498 — L W-2G — W
19-27	Amount Indicators	9	REQUIRED. In most cases, the boxes or Amount Indicators on paper information returns correspond with the Amount Codes used to file on magnetic media; however, should you notice discrepancies, please disregard them and program according to this revenue procedure for your returns filed on magnetic media. The amount indicators entered for a given type of return indicate type(s) of payment(s) which were made. Example: If position 18 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is "6" (for 1099-INT) and positions 19-27 are "123bbbbbb," this indicates that 3 payment amount fields are present in all of the following Payee "B" Records. The first payment amount field in the Payee "B" Record will represent Earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposit, etc., the second will represent Amount of forfeiture, and the third will represent Federal income tax withheld. Enter the Amount Indicators in ASCENDING SEQUENCE, left justify, filling unused positions with blanks. For any further clarification of the Amount Indicator codes, you may contact the service center or National Computer Center Magnetic Media Coordinators listed in Part A, Sec. 13.

	Amount Indicators Form 1099-G—Certain Government Payments		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-G: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Unemployment compensation 2 — State or local income tax refunds 4 — Federal income tax withheld 5 — Discharge or indebtedness 6 — Taxable grants 7 — Agriculture payments
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-INT—Interest Income		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-INT: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposit, etc. 2 — Amount of forfeiture 3 — Federal income tax withheld 4 — Foreign tax paid (if eligible for foreign tax credit) 5 — U.S. Savings Bonds, etc.
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-MISC—Miscellaneous Income (See Notes 1, 2 and 3)		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-MISC: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Rents 2 — Royalties 3 — Prizes and awards 4 — Federal income tax withheld 5 — Fishing boat proceeds 6 — Medical and health care payments 7 — Nonemployee compensation 8 — Direct sales "indicator" (see NOTE 1) 9 — Substitute payments in lieu of dividends or interest (see NOTE 2)

NOTE 1: Use Amount Code "8" to report direct sales of $5000 or more of consumer products on a buy-sell, deposit-commission, or other basis for resale. If not for resale, enter a "0" (zero) in tape position 4 of the Payee "B" Record. Please refer to the "B" Record Document Specific Code for clarification. The use of Amount Code "8" actually reflects the indicator of direct sales and not an actual payment amount or amount code. The corresponding payment amount field in the Payee "B" record MUST be reflected as 0000000100. This does not mean that a payment of $1.00 was made or is being reported. The use of Amount Code "8" relates directly to diskette position 5, Document Specific Code and Note 2 of the Payment Amount Field in the Payee "B" Record.

NOTE 2: Brokers are subject to a new reporting requirement for payments received after 1984. Brokers who transfer securities of a customer for use in a short sale must use Amount Code 9 of Form 1099-MISC to report the aggregate payments received in lieu of dividends or tax-exempt interest on behalf of a customer while the short sale was open. Generally, for substitute payments in lieu of dividends, a broker is required to file a Form 1099-MISC for each affected customer who is not an individual. Refer to the 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498, and 1096" for detailed information. (The instructions are available from local IRS offices.)

SEC. 5. PAYEE "B" RECORDS—GENERAL INFORMATION FOR ALL FORMS

.01 This section contains the general information concerning the Payee "B" Record for all information returns. For detailed description of the record refer to the following:

(a) Sec. 6. PAYEE "B" RECORDS—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORMS 1098, 1099-DIV, 1099-G, 1099-INT, 1099-MISC, 1099-OID, 1099-PATR, 1099-R and 5498.

(b) Sec. 8. PAYEE "B" RECORD—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORM 1099-A.

(c) Sec. 10. PAYEE "B" RECORD—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORM 1099-B.

(d) Sec. 12. PAYEE "B" RECORD—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORM W-2G.

.02 The Payee "B" Record contains the payment information from the individual statements. When filing information documents on diskette(s), the format for the Payee "B" Records will vary in relation to the number of payment amount fields being reported. The number of payment amount fields will depend upon the number of Payment Amount Indicator Codes used in positions 19-27 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT, position 18 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record will be coded with a "6." If the Amount Indicators used to report this interest are Amount Codes "1," "2," and "3," then diskette positions 19-27 of the "A" Record will be coded "123bbbbbb" (b represents a blank position). To correspond with Amount Indicators "1," "2," and "3" of the "A" Record, the "B" Record will contain three payment amount fields. Diskette positions 32-41 of the Payee "B" Record will contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "1" (earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposits, etc.); diskette positions 42-51 of the "B" Record would contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "2" (amount of forfeiture; and diskette positions 52-61 of the "B" record would contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "3" (Federal income tax withheld). The First Payee Name Line begins immediately after the last payment amount that is indicated as being used. In this example, the First Payee Name Line would begin in diskette position 62.

.03 All payee records must contain correct payee name and address information entered in the fields described in this section. Any records containing an invalid TIN (SSN or EIN) and having no address data present will be returned for correction.

.04 IRS must be able to identify the surname associated with the TIN (SSN or EIN) furnished on a statement. The specifications below include a field in the payee records called "Name Control" in which the first four alphabetic characters of the payees' surname or last name are to be entered by the payers. The surname or last name should appear first in the First Payee Name Line of all Payee "B" Records; however, if your records have been developed using the first name first, IRS programs will accept this but, a blank must appear between the first and last name.

.05 If payers are unable to provide the first four characters of the surname, the Name Control Field may be left blank; however, compliance with the following will facilitate IRS computer programs in generating the Name Control.

(a) The surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record should always appear first. If however, you enter the first name first, you must leave a blank space between the first and last name.

(b) In the case of multiple payees, only the surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record, must be present in the First Payee Name Line. Surnames of any other payees in the record must be entered in the Second Payee Name Line.

.06 Provision is also made in these specifications for data entries required by state or local governments. This should minimize the Payer/Transmitter's programming burden should payers desire to report on diskette to state or local governments. See Part A, Sec. 14, for the Combined Federal/State filing requirements.

.07 Those filers participating in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program must have 128 position sectors. Positions 127 and 128 in the Payee "B" Record Sector 2 or 3 must contain the appropriate state code for the state to receive the information. The file should also meet the money criteria described in Part A, Sec. 14.11. Do not code for the states unless prior approval to participate has been granted by IRS. See Part A, Sec. 14 for a list of the valid participating state codes. FORMS 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B AND W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM. Your files must meet all of the requirements specified in Part A, Sec. 14 in order to participate in this program.

SEC. 6 PAYEE "B" RECORD—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORMS 1098, 1099-DIV, 1099-G, 1099-INT, 1099-MISC, 1099-OID, 1099-PATR, 1099-R AND 5498

.01 This section contains the general payment information from individual statements for Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-DIV, 1099-G, 1099-INT, 1099-MISC, 1099-OID, 1099-PATR, 1099-R and 5498.

.02 In most instances each Payee "B" Record will be composed of two sectors on the diskette with positions 1-41 being a constant format and the variance occurring in positions 42-128 of the first sector and the entire second sector. In those instances where six or more payment amount fields are reported, each Payee "B" Record will be composed of three sectors on the diskette with positions 1-41 of the first sector being a constant format and the variance occurring in positions 42-128 of the first sector and the entire second and third sectors.

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD

Diskette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
SECTOR 1
1	Record Sequence	1	REQUIRED. Must be a "1". It is used to sequence the sectors making up a Service PAYEE Record.
2	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "B". Must be the second position of each PAYEE Record.
3-4	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which payments are being reported (e.g., if payments were made in 1985 enter "85"). Must be incremented each year.
5	Document Specific Code	1	REQUIRED for Forms 1099-R, 1099-MISC, and 1099-G. For Form 1099-R, enter the appropriate value for the Category of total IRA Distribution. For Form 1099-MISC, enter the appropriate value for Direct Sales. For Form 1099-G, enter the year of income tax refund. FOR ALL OTHER FORMS, ENTER BLANK.
	Category of Total Distribution (Form 1099-R only)		Use only for reporting on Form 1099-R to identify the category of Total Distribution. Enter the applicable code from the table below. Code 7 below is not required for Amount Indicators 1, 2 and 3. A "0" (zero) is not a valid code for Form 1099-R.

Category	Code
Premature distribution (other than codes 2, 3, 4, or 5)	1
Rollover	2
Disability	3
Death	4
Prohibited transaction	5
Other	6
Normal IRA, SEP or DEC distributions	7
Excess contributions refunded plus earnings on such excess contributions	8

	Direct Sales (Form 1099-MISC only)		Use only for direct sales reporting on Form 1099-MISC. If sales to the recipient of consumer products on a buy-sell, deposit-commission, or any other basis for resale, have amounted to $5,000 or more, ENTER "1". If not for resale, enter "0" (zero). If you are filing 1099-MISC, with an Amount Indicator of "8" in the "A" Record, you must enter a code "1" or "0" in this field. In Part B, Sec. 4, information concerning the direct sales indicator can be found under Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, NOTE 1.
	Refund is for Tax Year (Form 1099-G only)		Use only for reporting the tax year for which the refund was issued. If the payment amount field associated with Amount Indicator 2, Income Tax Refunds, contains a refund, credit or offset that is attributable to an income tax which applies exclusively to income from a trade or business and is not of general application, then enter the ALPHA equivalent of the year of refund from the table below. Otherwise, enter the NUMERIC Year for which the Refund was issued.

Years for which Refund was Issued	Alpha Equivalent
1	A
2	B
3	C
4	D
5	E
6	F
7	G
8	H
9	I
0	J

6-7	Blank	2	REQUIRED. Enter blanks. (Reserved for IRS use). Diskette position 6 is used to indicate a corrected return. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for specific instructions on how to file corrected returns using either magnetic media or paper forms.
8-11	Name Control	4	REQUIRED. Enter the first 4 letters of the surname of the payee. Surnames of less than four (4) letters should be left justified, filling the unused positions with blanks. Special characters and imbedded blanks should be removed. IF THE NAME CONTROL IS NOT DETERMINABLE BY THE PAYER, LEAVE THIS FIELD BLANK. A dash (–) or ampersand (&) are the only acceptable special characters.
12	Type of TIN	1	REQUIRED. This field is used to identify the Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) in positions 13-21 as either an Employer Identification Number, a Social Security Number, or the reason no number is shown. Enter the appropriate code from the table below:

Type of TIN	TIN	Type of Account
1	EIN	A business or an organization

			2	SSN	An individual
			9	SSN	The payee is a foreign individual and not a U.S. resident
			blank	N/A	A Taxpayer Identification Number is required but unobtainable due to legitimate cause; e.g. number applied for but not received.
13-21	Taxpayer Identification Number	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9-digit Taxpayer Identification Number of the payee (SSN or EIN, as appropriate). Where an identification number has been applied for but not received or where there is any other legitimate cause for not having an identification number, enter blanks. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROS. Any record containing an invalid identification number in this field will be returned for correction.
22-31	Payer's Account Number for Payee	10	REQUIRED. Payer may use this field to enter the payee's account number. The use of this item will facilitate easy reference to specific records in the payer's file should any questions arise. DO NOT ENTER A TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER IN THIS FIELD. An account number can be any account number assigned by the payer to the payee (i.e., checking account, savings account, etc.). THIS NUMBER WILL HELP TO DISTINGUISH THE INDIVIDUAL PAYEE'S ACCOUNT WITH YOU AND THE SPECIFIC TRANSACTION MADE WITH THE ORGANIZATION, SHOULD MULTIPLE RETURNS BE FILED. This information will be particularly necessary if you need to file a corrected return. You are strongly encouraged to use this field. You may use any number that will help identify the particular transaction that you are reporting.

	Payment Amount Fields		The number of payment amounts is dependent upon and must agree with the number of Amount Indicators present in positions 19-27 of the "A" Record. THE FIRST PAYEE NAME LINE MUST APPEAR IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE LAST PAYMENT AMOUNT INDICATED AS BEING USED. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT and you used only Amount Indicator "3" in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, then you will only use one ten position payment amount in the Payee "B" Record, right justified, and the First Payee Name Line will begin in position 42. Each payment field that you allow for, or use, must contain 10 numeric characters (see following NOTE). Do not provide a payment amount field when the corresponding Amount Indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is blank. Each payment amount must be entered in dollars and cents. Do not enter dollar signs, commas, decimal points, or NEGATIVE PAYMENTS (except those items that reflect a loss on Form 1099-B and must be negative overpunched in the units position). Example: If the Amount Indicators are reflected as "123bbbbbb", the Payee "B" Records must have only 3 payment amount fields. If Amount Indicators are reflected as "12367bbbb", the "B" Records must have only 5 payment amount fields. Payment amounts MUST be right-justified and unused positions MUST be zero-filled. NOTE 1: If any one payment amount exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total amount MUST be submitted for the Payee. NOTE 2: If you file 1099-MISC and use Amount Code "8" in the Amount Indicator field of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, you must enter 0000000100 in the corresponding Payment Amount Field. This will not represent an actual money amount; this is an amount code. (Refer to Part B, Sec. 3, NOTE 1, of the Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, for clarification.)

32-41	Payment Amount 1	10	REQUIRED. This amount is identified by the indicator in position 19 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. This amount must always be present.
	Determine at this point the number of payment fields to be reported within the Payee "B" Record. This can be determined from the number of Amount Indicators appearing in positions 19-27 of Sector 1 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Following are the formats for completing positions 42-128 of SECTOR 1, positions 1-128 of SECTOR 2 and positions 1-128 of SECTOR 3, if needed, of the Payee "B" Record. Use the appropriate format as required. SECTOR 3 is only applicable in the Payee "B" Record if you use seven or more payment amount fields.
42-81	First Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. The First Payee Name Line must appear immediately after the last payment amount indicated as being used. Do not enter address information in this field. Enter the name of the payee whose taxpayer identification number appears in positions 13-21 above. If fewer than 40 characters are required, left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. If more space is required for the name, utilize the Second Payee Name Line field below. If there are multiple payees, only the name of the payee whose taxpayer identification number has been provided can be entered in this field. The names of the other payees may be entered in the Second Payee Name Line field.
82-121	Second Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. If the payee name requires more space than is available in the First Payee Name Line, enter the remaining portion of the name only in this field. If there are multiple payees, this field may be used for those payee's names who are not associated with the taxpayer identification number in positions 13-21 above. Do not enter address information in this field. Left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. FILL WITH BLANKS IF NO ENTRIES ARE PRESENT FOR THIS FIELD.

SEC. 12. PAYEE "B" RECORDS—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORM W-2G

.01 This section contains the general payment information from individual statements for Form W-2G. For detailed explanations of the W-2G fields, see W-3G, Transmittal of Certain Information Returns, which is available at local IRS offices.

.02 When reporting information for form W-2G, the Payee "B" Records must contain 3 sectors.

.03 FORM W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM.

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD
FORM W-2G

Diskette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
SECTOR 1
1	Record Sequence	1	REQUIRED. Must be a "1". Used to sequence the sectors making up a Service PAYEE Record.
2	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "B". Must be the second position of each PAYEE Record.
3-4	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which payments are being reported (e.g. if payments were made in 1985 enter "85"). Must be incremented each year.
5	Document Specific Code Type of Wager (Form W-2G only)	1	REQUIRED for W-2G. Use only for reporting the Type of Wager on Form W-2G.

			Category — Code Horse Race Track (or Off Track Betting of a Horse Track nature) — 1 Dog Race Track (or Off Track Betting of a Dog Track nature) — 2 Jai-alai — 3 State Conducted Lottery — 4 Keno — 5 Casino Type Bingo. DO NOT use this code for any other type of Bingo winnings (i.e. Church, Fire Dept. etc.). — 6 Slot Machines — 7 Any other types of gambling winnings. This includes Church Bingo, Fire Dept. Bingo, unlabeled winnings, etc. — 8
6-7	Blank	2	REQUIRED. Enter blanks. (Reserved for IRS use). Diskette position 6 is used to indicate a corrected return. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for specific instructions on how to file corrected returns utilizing either magnetic media or paper forms.
8-11	Name Control	4	REQUIRED. Enter the first 4 letters of the surname of the payee. Surnames of less than four (4) letters should be left justified, filling the unused positions with blanks. Special characters and imbedded blanks should be removed. IF THE NAME CONTROL IS NOT DETERMINABLE BY THE PAYER, LEAVE THIS FIELD BLANK. A dash (–) or ampersand (&) are the only acceptable special characters.
12	Type of TIN	1	REQUIRED. This field is used to identify the Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) in positions 13-21 as either an Employer Identification Number, a Social Security Number, or the reason no number is shown. Enter the appropriate code from the table below: Type of TIN — TIN — Type of Account 1 — EIN — A business or an organization 2 — SSN — An individual 9 — SSN — The payee is a foreign individual and not a U.S. resident. blank — N/A — A Taxpayer Identification Number is required but unobtainable due to legitimate cause; e.g. number applied for but not received.
13-21	Taxpayer Identification Number	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9-digit Taxpayer Identification Number of the payee (SSN or EIN, as appropriate). When an identification number has been applied for but not received or when there is any other legitimate cause for not having an identification number, enter blanks. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROS. Any record containing an invalid identification number in this field will be returned for correction.

FORM W-2G

22-31	Payer's Account Number for Payee	10	REQUIRED. Payer may use this field to enter the payee's account number. The use of this item will facilitate easy reference to specific records in the payer's file should any questions arise. DO NOT ENTER A TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER IN THIS FIELD. Enter blanks if the Payer's Account Number for Payee is not to be entered in this field. An account number can be any account number assigned by the payer to the payee (i.e., checking account, savings account, etc.). THIS NUMBER WILL HELP TO DISTINGUISH THE INDIVIDUAL PAYEE'S ACCOUNT WITH YOU AND THE SPECIFIC TRANSACTION MADE WITH THE ORGANIZATION, SHOULD MULTIPLE RETURNS BE FILED. This information will be particularly necessary if you need to file a corrected return. You are strongly encouraged to use this field. You may use any number that will help identify the particular transaction that you are reporting.
	Payment Amount Fields		The number of payment amounts is dependent on the number of Amount Indicators present in positions 19-27 of Sector 1 of the "A" Record. The First Payee Name Line must appear immediately after the last payment amount indicated as being used. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT and you used only Amount Indicator "3" in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, then you will only use one ten position payment amount in the Payee "B" Record, right justified, and the First Payee Name Line will begin in position 42. Each payment field that you allow for, or use, must contain 10 numeric characters (see following NOTE). Do not provide a payment amount field when the corresponding Amount Indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is blank. Each payment amount must be entered in dollars and cents. Do not enter dollar signs, commas, decimal points, or NEGATIVE PAYMENTS (except those items that reflect a loss on Form 1099-B and must be negative overpunched in the units position). Example: If the Amount Indicators are reflected as "123bbbbbb", the Payee "B" Records must have only 3 payment amount fields. If Amount Indicators are reflected as "12367bbbb", the "B" Records must have only 5 payment amount fields. Payment amounts MUST be right-justified and unused portions MUST be zero-filled. NOTE 1: If any one payment amount exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total amount MUST be submitted for the Payee. NOTE 2: If you file 1099-MISC and use Amount Code "8" in the Amount Indicator field of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, you must enter 0000000100 in the corresponding Payment Amount Field. This will not represent an actual money amount; this is an amount code. (Refer to Part B., Sec. 3, NOTE 1, of the Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, for clarification.)
32-41	Payment Amount 1	10	REQUIRED. This amount is identified by the indicator in position 19 of Sector 1 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. This amount must always be present.

Determine at this point the number of payment fields to be reported within the Payee "B" Record. This can be determined from the number of Amount Indicators appearing in positions 19-27 of Sector 1 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Following are the formats for completing positions 42-128 of SECTOR 1, positions

SEC. 14. END OF PAYER "C" RECORD

.01 The Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Adjust your programs accordingly.

.02 Write this record after the last payee "B" Record following the last Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. A diskette will contain more than one (1) End of Payer "C" Record if the last Payee "B" Record for more than one payer is reported on the same diskette.

.03 Each End of Payer "C" Record must contain a count of the number of Payee "B" Records immediately preceding the End of Payer "C" Record and following the preceding Payer/Transmitter "A" Record under which a Payer is reporting payments for a type of return. To illustrate:

(a) Single diskette; where all the records of a Payer for a particular type of return are reported on a single diskette, the last preceding Payer/Transmitter "A" Record would be the "A" Record immediately preceding the Payer's Payee "B" Records for which the End of Payer "C" Record has been written.

(b) Multiple diskette; where the reporting of a Payer for a particular type of return begins on one diskette and ends on another diskette, the last preceding Payer/Transmitter "A" Record would immediately precede all the Payee "B" Records on the diskette for which the Payer "C" Record has been written.

.04 Payers/Transmitters must verify the accuracy of the totals in the "C" Record and must enter the totals on the transmittal, Form 4804, which will accompany the shipment.

.05 The End of Payer "C" Record must be followed by a State Totals "K" Record (if any), or new Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for the next Payer (if any), or an End of Transmission "F" Record.

SEC. 16. STATE TOTALS "K" RECORD

.01 The Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Adjust your programs accordingly.

.02 The State Totals "K" Record is a summary for a given payer and a given state in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program, used only when State Reporting approval has been granted.

.03 The "K" Record will contain the totals of the payment amount fields and the total number of payees filed by a given payer for a given state. The "K" Record(s) must be written after the "C" Record for the related "A" Record.

.04 There MUST be a separate "K" Record for each state being reported.

.05 Refer to Part A, Sec. 14 for the requirements and conditions that MUST be met to file on this Program.

NOTE: THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE MAY ONLY BE USED TO PREPARE CASSETTE OR MINI-DISK SUBMISSIONS FOR TAX YEAR 1985. UPDATED COPIES ARE PUBLISHED EACH YEAR. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY; YOU MAY BE SUBJECT TO PENALTIES IF YOU FAIL TO FOLLOW THE INSTRUCTIONS IN THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE. THESE INCLUDE PENALTIES OF $50 PER DOCUMENT FOR EACH DOCUMENT SUBMITTED WITHOUT A TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER (TIN) OR WITH AN INCORRECT TIN, AND FOR EACH DOCUMENT NOT SUBMITTED ON MAGNETIC MEDIA IF YOU ARE REQUIRED TO FILE THIS WAY. THE MAXIMUM PENALTY IS $50,000 (PAYERS OF INTEREST AND DIVIDENDS ARE NOT SUBJECT TO THIS MAXIMUM.)

PART A.—GENERAL

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

.01 The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide the requirements and conditions for filing information return Forms 1098, 1099, 5498, and W-2G on cassette or mini-disk. THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IS TO BE USED FOR THE PREPARATION OF TAX YEAR 1985 INFORMATION RETURNS ONLY. THIS PROCEDURE IS UPDATED YEARLY TO REFLECT NECESSARY CHANGES. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY. Specifications for filing the following forms are contained in this procedure:

(a) Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

(b) Form 1099-A, Information Return for Acquisition or Abandonment of Secured Property. (For Mini-Disk only.)

(c) Form 1099-B, Statement for Recipients of Proceeds from Broker and Barter Exchange Transactions. (For Mini-Disk only.)

(d) Form 1099-DIV, Statement for Recipients of Dividends and Distributions.

(e) Form 1099-G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Government Payments.

(f) Form 1099-INT, Statement for Recipients of Interest Income.

(g) Form 1099-MISC, Statement for Recipients of Miscellaneous Income.

(h) Form 1099-OID, Statement for Recipients of Original Issue Discount.

(i) Form 1099-PATR, Statement for Recipients (Patrons) of Taxable Distributions Received From Cooperatives.

(j) Form 1099-R, Statement for Recipients of Total Distributions from Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, Etc.

(k) Form 5498, Individual Retirement Arrangement Information.

(l) Form W-2G, Statement for Recipients of Certain Gambling Winnings. (For Mini-Disk only.)

.02 This procedure also provides the requirements and specifications for mini-disk filing under the Combined Federal/State Filing Program. Refer to Part A, Sec. 14. Cassette filers may not participate in this program due to the requirement that records on this program must be 360 characters in length. Cassette records cannot exceed 256 characters.

.03 The following revenue procedures and publications provide more detailed filing procedures for certain information returns, payer identification, transfer agents and paper substitute specifications, respectively.

(a) 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498, and 1096," provide further information on filing returns with the Internal Revenue Service (IRS). These instructions are available at local IRS offices.

(b) Rev. Proc. 84-24, 1984-1 C.B. 465, regarding preparation of transmittal documents for information returns.

(c) Rev. Proc. 84-33, 1984-1 C.B. 502, regarding the optional method for agents to report and deposit backup withholding.

(d) Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

.04 This procedure supersedes the following revenue procedure: Rev. Proc. 84-65, 1984-2 C.B. 553, also published in Publication 1253 Rev. (9-84), Requirements and Conditions for Filing Information Returns in the Forms 1099, 5498, and W-2G Series on Cassette or Mini-Disk.

.05 Refer to Part A, Sec. 15 for definitions of terms used in this publication.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND—PRIOR YEAR CHANGES (TAX YEAR 1984)

.01 This section contains a review of the changes described in the revenue procedure last year. Please insure that the necessary reprogramming was accomplished in order to comply with last year's changes as these changes will still be necessary in the program for the current year.

.02 The following were general changes.

(a) Procedures for applying for waivers for undue hardship were added.

(b) An explanation of penalties was added.

(c) Reports from different branches for one payer were consolidated under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of information return. For example, all like Form 1099-INT documents must be sorted together under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, followed by the appropriate Payee "B" Records and one End of Payer "C" Record.

(d) The explanation of Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs) was rewritten to clarify changes concerning backup withholding and due diligence requirements.

(e) Changes were made to the requirements concerning the paper copy of the information return furnished to the payee.

(f) A definition for "Transfer Agent" was added.

(g) A list of valid U.S. Postal Service State Abbreviations was added to aid in developing the State Code portion of Name Line fields.

.03 The following changes were made to the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record.

(a) Header label UHL1 was added as one of the standard labels IRS programs can process.

(b) Amount Indicator "2" was added for Form 5498.

(c) "Type of Return" and "Amount Indicators" were added for Form W-2G for Mini-Disk filers.

(d) The codes for "Type of Payer" and "Payee 'B' Record Surname Indicator" fields should have been deleted from your programs. However, the positions in the record should not have been deleted. Fill these positions with blanks.

(e) The "Second Payer Name" field was shortened from 40 characters to 39 characters. The contents of the "Second Payer Name" field, as well as the contents of the "Payer Shipping Address" and the "Payer City, State and ZIP Code" fields, are dependent upon the value in the "Transfer Agent Indicator".

(f) A "Transfer Agent Indicator" was added following the "Second Payer Name" field. The contents of this field let IRS programs know if the information in "Second Payer Name", "Payer Shipping Address" and "Payer City, State and ZIP Code" pertains to the Payer or to the Transfer Agent.

(g) The name of "Payer Mailing Address" was changed to "Payer Shipping Address." Beginning with Tax Year 1984 returns, IRS notified payers of any information returns not containing valid TINs. This notification includes a payee notice for each such information return. Therefore, we must have an address capable of accepting volume mail.

.04 The following changes were made to the Payee "B" Record.

(a) The meaning of the "Document Specific Code" for Form 1099-G was expanded.

(b) The use of the "Document Specific Code" was increased to include Type of Wager for Form W-2G for Mini-Disk filers.

(c) PLEASE NOTE: If any one Payment Amount Field exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total MUST be submitted for the Payee. Example: the total money amount to be reported for Payee ABC is $250,371,491.87. Three Payee "B" Records will have to be submitted for Payee ABC to contain the entire total amount. (DO NOT enter dollar signs, commas, or decimal points, in the Payment Amount fields.)

SEC. 3. NATURE OF CHANGES—CURRENT YEAR (TAX YEAR 1985)

.01 DUE TO NUMEROUS LEGISLATIVE AND FORMS CHANGES BETWEEN TAX YEARS 1984 AND 1985, CHANGES HAVE NOT BEEN LISTED INDIVIDUALLY UNDER THIS SECTION. THIS ENTIRE PUBLICATION HAS BEEN REVISED. REVIEW THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IN ITS ENTIRETY.

SEC. 4. WAGE AND PENSION INFORMATION FILED WITH SSA

.01 Section 8(b), Public Law 94-202, 1976-1 C.B. 503, enacted in January 1976, authorized the combined reporting of FICA detailed information in one consolidated annual W-2 (Copy A) to the Federal government. AS A RESULT, FORMS W-2 AND W-2P ARE TO BE FILED WITH THE SOCIAL SECURITY ADMINISTRATION (SSA), NOT WITH THE INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE.

.02 SSA will accept magnetic media filing of Forms W-2 and W-2P and has issued the following concerning this: TIB-4a, "Magnetic Tape Reporting, Submitting FICA Wage and Tax Data to the Social Security Administration"; TIB-4b, "Magnetic Tape Reporting, Submitting Annuity, Pension, Retired Pay or IRA Payment to the Social Security Administration"; and TIB-4c, "Diskette Reporting, Submitting FICA Wage and Tax Data to the Social Security Administration". Applications for filing Forms W-2 and W-2P on magnetic media appear in TIBs-4a, 4b, and 4c.

.03 Copies of Social Security Administration publications TIB-4a, 4b, and 4c are available from any local Social Security Administration office or the SSA Regional Magnetic Media Coordinators.

SEC. 5. APPLICATION FOR MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTING AND REQUESTS FOR UNDUE HARDSHIP WAIVERS

.01 For purposes of this revenue procedure, the PAYER is the organization making the payments and the TRANSMITTER is the organization preparing the cassette or Mini-Disk file. The payer and transmitter may be the same organization. Do not submit returns on cassette if you transmit for someone else due to the 256 character record restriction. Payers or their transmitters are required to complete Form 4419, Application for Magnetic Media Reporting of Information Returns. A copy of this form, for your use, can be found at the end of this publication. Requests for additional information or forms related to magnetic media processing should be addressed to the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the appropriate service center or the National Computer Center.

On January 1, 1985, the National Computer Center assumed responsibility for the magnetic media processing previously handled by the Philadelphia, Kansas City, and Austin Service Centers. Beginning January 1, 1986, magnetic media processing for ALL service centers will be centralized at the National Computer Center. Addresses are listed in Part A, Sec. 13 of this revenue procedure.

.02 Applications should be filed with the National Computer Center or the appropriate service center 90 days before the due date of the return. IRS will act on an application and notify the applicant, in writing, of authorization to file. A five character Transmitter Control Code will be assigned and included in an acknowledgement letter within 30 days of receipt of the application. Cassette or Mini-Disk returns may not be filed with IRS until the application has been approved. Do not enter blanks in the "A" Record Transmitter Control Code field; enter the five character Transmitter Control Code which is assigned to you by IRS after you have filed an application and it has been approved.

.03 After you have received approval to file on magnetic media, you do not need to reapply each year UNLESS:

(a) there are hardware or software changes that would affect the characteristics of the magnetic media submission (e.g., changing from cassette or Mini-Disk to tape filing or vice versa) or,

(b) you discontinue filing on magnetic media for a year (your five character Transmitter Control Code may be reassigned).

If either of these conditions applies to you, you should contact your coordinator for clarification. In ALL correspondence, refer to your current five character Transmitter Control Code to assist the coordinator in locating your files.

.04 IRS will assist new filers with their initial cassette or Mini-Disk submission by reviewing "test" files submitted in advance of the filing season. Approved payers or transmitters should submit "test" files with the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the appropriate service center or the National Computer Center. You MUST submit a "test" file in order to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program; however, you are encouraged to submit "test" files if you are a new filer on magnetic media. As a guideline, IRS prefers that all "test" files be submitted between September and December. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Do not submit "test" cassettes or Mini-Disks after January 1. If you are unable to submit your "test" file by the end of December, you may only send a sample hardcopy printout or cassette or Mini-Disk dump to the National Computer Center which shows a sample of each record (A, B, C, K and F) used. Clearly mark the hardcopy printout or dump as "TEST DATA", and include identifying information such as name, address and telephone number of someone familiar with the "test" print or dump who may be contacted to discuss its acceptability. After January 1, 1986, submit the "test" print or dump showing a sample of each record to the National Computer Center only.

.05 If your magnetic media files have been prepared for you in the past by a service agency, and you now have computer equipment compatible with that of IRS and wish to prepare your own files, you must request your own five character Transmitter Control Code by filing an application, Form 4419, as described above.

.06 If you as an individual or orgnaization are an approved filer on magnetic media and you change your name or the name of your organization, please notify the National Computer Center or service center Magnetic Media Coordinator so that your file may be updated to reflect the proper name.

.07 In accordance with section 1.6041-7(b) of the Income Tax Regulations, payments to providers of medical and health care services from separate departments of a health care carrier may be reported as separate returns on magnetic media. In this case, the headquarters office will be considered to be the transmitter, and the individual departments of the company filing reports will be considered to be payers. A single application form covering all the departments which will be filing on cassette or mini-disk should be submitted. One five character Transmitter Control Code may be used for all departments.

.08 Section 1.6045-1(1) of the Income Tax Regulations requires brokers and barter exchanges to use magnetic media in reporting all Form 1099-B data to the IRS. Generally, NEW brokers and NEW barter exchanges may request an undue hardship exception by filing an application, by the end of the second month following the month in which they became a broker or barter exchange, with the National Computer Center or service center Magnetic Media Coordinator.

.09 All requests for undue hardship exemptions should be submitted at least 90 days before the due date of the return, except as stated in Sec. 5.08 above.

.10 The requirements to receive a waiver from filing required information returns on magnetic media for tax year 1985 are more stringent than they were for tax year 1984. Filers must submit a written statement requesting an undue hardship waiver from magnetic media filing for a specific period of time, not to exceed one tax year. If the filer requires a waiver for a longer period of time, the filer must reapply at the appropriate time each year (90 days before the due date of the return). Filers may not apply for a waiver for more than one tax year at a time. The written statement must contain the following identifying information:

(a) The filer's name and address.

(b) The filer's Taxpayer Identification Number (SSN or EIN).

(c) The period for which the waiver is requested: Tax Year 1985.

(d) The name and telephone number of a person to contact who is familiar with the information contained in the waiver request.

(e) The type of returns and expected volume of each form.

(f) The reason for the request.

(g) An estimated cost for filing the returns on paper, on magnetic media if you prepare the files, and on magnetic media using the services of an agency who will charge you for this service. IF YOU EXPECT TO FILE OVER 500 RETURNS, YOU MUST SUBMIT A COPY OF A WRITTEN COST ESTIMATE FOR MAGNETIC MEDIA FILING FROM A SERVICE AGENCY; FOR 500 OR LESS, SUBMIT AN ESTIMATE AS DESCRIBED ABOVE.

.11 If you request a waiver from filing on magnetic media and it is approved, do not send a copy of the ap- proved waiver to the service centers. Do not staple, paperclip or use rubberbands on any scannable forms. Paper returns are red by an optical scanner (OCR) at the service centers.

.12 Waivers are granted on a case-by-case basis and may be approved at the discretion of the service center or National Computer Center Magnetic Media Coordinators. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Waiver requests should be filed 90 days before the due date of the return.

.13 If you are required to file on magnetic media but fail to do so, and you do not have an approved waiver on record, you may be subject to a failure to file penalty. Refer to Sec. 6.02 below, except as stated in Sec. 5.08 above.

.14 An approved waiver from filing information returns on magnetic media does not provide exemption from ALL filing; you MUST submit your information returns on acceptable paper forms.

.15 A cassette or mini-disk reporting package, which includes all the necessary transmittals, labels, and instructions, will be mailed to all approved filers between October and December of each year.

SEC. 6. FILING OF MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTS

.01 Section 6011(e) of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended by the Interest and Dividend Tax Compliance Act of 1983, Pub. L. 98-67, 1983-2 C.B. 352, requires that any person, including individuals, estates and trusts, required to file more than 50 information returns in the aggregate for payments of interest (Forms 1099-INT and 1099-OID), dividends (Form 1099-DIV) or patronage dividends (Form 1099-PATR) for any calendar year, must file such returns on magnetic media. For example, if a payer must file 30 Forms 1099-DIV and 25 Forms 1099-INT, filing on magnetic media is required. This requirement shall not apply if you establish that it will cause you undue hardship. Refer to Sec. 5 above.

.02 The penalty for both the failure to timely file certain information returns and failure to file returns as prescribed by IRS is now $50 per payee up to a maximum of $50,000 a year. However, there is no maximum penalty for returns on 1099-INT, 1099-OID, 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR or 5498. If the failure to file is due to intentional disregard of the filing requirements, the penalty may be greater than $50 per payee and there is no maximum penalty.

.03 Generally, payers are now subject to a $50 penalty for each failure to include the payee's correct TIN on an information return.

.04 Rev. Proc. 84-24, 1984-1 C.B. 465, gives detailed information on preparing transmittal documents for information returns and is available at your local IRS office. Specific guidelines are given on how to report the payer's name, address and TIN on transmittal documents and information returns. Instructions for multiple transmittals and the submission of transmittals by service bureaus or agents are also covered.

.05 THE CASSETTE OR MINI-DISK RECORDS ARE TO BE SUBMITTED TO THE NATIONAL COMPUTER CENTER; HOWEVER, PAPER INFORMATION RETURNS ARE TO CONTINUE TO BE FILED WITH THE APPROPRIATE SERVICE CENTERS. See Part A, Sec. 13 for addresses. Form 4804, Transmittal of Information Returns Reported on Magnetic Media, must accompany cassette or mini-disk submissions. If you file for multiple payers and have the authority to sign the affidavit on Form 4804, you should also submit Form 4802, Multiple Payer Transmittal for Magnetic Media Reporting.

For the IRS to ensure that your actual data records were formatted following THIS revenue procedure, include a hardcopy printout, fast print or cassette or mini-disk dump showing a sample of each type of record (A, B, C, K and F) used on the cassette or mini-disk. This will be reviewed prior to actual processing to ensure that the data is in the proper format. Be sure to include Form 4804, 4802 or computer generated listing with your cassette or mini-disk shipment. IRS encourages the use of computer generated Form 4804 which includes all necessary information requested on the actual form. DO NOT MAIL THE CASSTTES OR MINI-DISKS AND THE TRANSMITTAL DOCUMENTS SEPARATELY.

Paper information returns must be transmitted to the appropriate service center using Form 1096, Annual Summary and Transmittal of U.S. Information Returns. Do not send information returns filed on paper forms to the National Computer Center.

.06 The affidavit which appears on Form 1096 and Form 4804 should be signed by the payer; however, the transmitter, service bureau, paying agent, or disbursing agent may sign the affidavit on behalf of the payer if all of the following conditions are met:

(a) It has the authority to sign the affidavit under an agency agreement (either oral, written, or implied) that is valid under the state law.

(b) It has the responsibility (either oral, written, or implied) conferred on it by the payer to request the TINs of borrowers, recipients, or participants reported on magnetic media or paper returns.

(c) It signs the affidavit and adds the caption "For: (name of payer)."

.07 Although a duly authorized agent signs the affidavit, the payer is held responsible for the accuracy of the Form 4804, and the payer will be liable for penalties for failure to comply with filing requirements.

.08 If a portion of the returns are submitted on paper documents with the service center, include a statement on the Form 1096 that the remaining returns are being filed on magnetic media with the National Computer Center. DO NOT REPORT THE SAME INFORMATION ON PAPER FORMS THAT YOU REPORT ON MAGNETIC MEDIA. IF YOU REPORT PART OF YOUR RETURNS ON PAPER AND PART ON MAGNETIC MEDIA, BE SURE THAT DUPLICATE RETURNS, WITH THE SAME INFORMATION, ARE NOT INCLUDED ON BOTH. This does not mean that corrected documents are not to be filed. If a return has been prepared and submitted improperly, you must file a corrected return as soon as possible. Refer to Part A, Section 10 for requirements and instructions on filing corrected returns.

.09 Reports from different branches for one payer MUST be consolidated under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of information return. For example, all Forms 1099-INT must be sorted together under one Payer/Transmitter "A" Record followed by the appropriate "B" Records and one "C" Record.

.10 Health care carriers, or their agents, filing Form 1099-MISC per Part A, Sec. 5.07, may submit part of their returns on paper documents and part on magnetic media if the records of some departments are not maintained on computer files. However, an information return is required if the aggregate amount paid to a health care service provider from all departments equals $600 or more. For example, Department A pays $200, Department B pays $300, and Department C pays $100 to the same health care service provider. The aggregate amount paid from all departments equals $600. The health care carrier or agent must submit either one information return for the aggregate amount of $600 or three separate returns from the departments, indicating the amount paid by each department.

.11 Before submitting magnetic media files, include the following:

(a) A signed Form 4804 or computer generated substitute. If you send two copies of the Form 4804, one will be used as an acknowledgement.

(b) A Form 4802 (if you transmit for multiple payers).

(c) A hard copy printout or listing of the first five and last two blocks of your file. The listing should show a sample of each type of record (A, B, C, K and F) used on the magnetic media being submitted.

(d) The magnetic media with an external identifying label as described in Part B for Cassette and Part C for Mini-Disk.

(e) On the outside of the shipping container, include a Form 4801 or a substitute for the form which reads "DELIVER UNOPENED TO TAPE LIBRARY—MAGNETIC MEDIA REPORTING—BOX ___ of ___." If there is only one container, mark the outside as Box 1 of 1. For multiple containers, include the sequence (i.e., Box 1 of 33, 2 of 33, etc.).

(f) If you were granted an extension and are filing late, include a copy of the approved extension letter with the magnetic media.

.12 IRS will not pay or accept "Collect on Delivery" or "Charged to IRS" shipments of reportable tax information that an individual or organization is legally required to submit. The current policy is to return magnetic materials or requested information at U.S. Government expense.

.13 Files returned to you due to coding or format errors are to be corrected and returned to IRS within 30 days of receipt by the filer.

SEC. 7. FILING DATES

.01 The dates prescribed for filing paper returns with IRS also apply to magnetic media filing. Magnetic media reporting to the IRS for all types of Form 1098, 1099 Series, 5498, and W-2G must be on a calendar year basis.

.02 Information returns filed on magnetic media for Forms 1098, all types of Forms 1099, and W-2G must be submitted to IRS by February 28. The due date for furnishing the required copy or statement to the recipient is January 31.

.03 Information returns filed on magnetic media for Form 5498 must be submitted to IRS by May 31. Copies of this form or statements are due to the participant by May 31 for contributions made to IRAs and SEPs; however, participant copies or statements for DECs are due the time the contribution is made or January 31, whichever is the later. Form 5498 is filed for contributions to be applied to 1985 that are made between January 1, 1985, and April 15, 1986.

SEC. 8. EXTENSIONS OF TIME TO FILE

.01 If a payer or transmitter of returns on magnetic media is unable to submit their magnetic media file by the dates prescribed in Sec. 7.02 and 7.03 above, submit a letter requesting an extension of up to 30 days to file, as soon as you are aware that an extension will be necessary. The request MUST be filed before the due date of the return. The letter should be sent to the attention of the Magnetic Media Reporting Program at the National Computer Center where the cassette or mini-disk file is to be submitted. See Part A, Sec. 13 for the address. The request should include:

(a) The filer's name and address.

(b) The filer's Taxpayer Identification Number (SSN or EIN).

(c) The tax year for which the extension of time is requested: tax year 1985.

(d) The name and telephone number of a person to contact who is familiar with the request.

(e) The type of returns and expected volume.

(f) The Transmitter Control Code assigned to the organization or individual requesting the extension (if a number has been assigned).

(g) The reason for the delay and date that you will be able to file.

.02 If an extension of time to file on magnetic media is granted by the National Computer Center, a copy of the letter granting the extension MUST be attached to the transmittal Form 4804 or computer generated substitute when the file is submitted.

SEC. 9. PROCESSING OF MAGNETIC MEDIA RETURNS

.01 The National Computer Center will process tax information from magnetic media files. All magnetic media files that are received timely by the National Computer Center will be returned to the filers by August 15 of the year in which submitted.

.02 After January 1, 1986, all magnetic media processing will be centralized at the National Computer Center. Due to the volume of input received and the cost to return special containers, special shipping containers should not be used for transmitting data to the National Computer Center since IRS cannot guarantee return of such containers.

.03 Files will be returned to you for correction if they are unprocessable due to format or coding errors, or by the request of the filer. Files must be corrected and returned to the National Computer Center within 30 days of receipt by the filer. The corrected files will be returned to the filer by the National Computer Center within 6 months of receipt. PLEASE BE SURE THAT YOUR FORMAT AND CODING COMPLY WITH THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE. THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE IS TO BE USED FOR THE PREPARATION OF TAX YEAR 1985 INFORMATION RETURNS ONLY. AS SOME LEGISLATIVE AND FORMS CHANGES AFFECTING INFORMATION RETURNS OCCUR EACH YEAR, THIS PROCEDURE IS UPDATED TO REFLECT NECESSARY CHANGES. PLEASE READ THIS PUBLICATION CAREFULLY.

SEC. 10. HOW TO FILE CORRECTED RETURNS

.01 If a return has been prepared and submitted improperly, you must file a complete corrected return as soon as posssible. ALL FIELDS OR BOXES MUST BE COMPLETED WITH THE CORRECT INFORMATION, NOT JUST THE DATA FIELDS NEEDING CORRECTION. If you file corrected returns on paper forms, submit Copy A to the appropriate service center. There are numerous types of errors. It may require more than one transaction to properly correct the initial error. You are strongly encouraged to read this ENTIRE section before attempting to make ANY correction. If the initial return was filed as an aggregate, you must consider this in filing the corrected returns.

.02 Corrected returns submitted to IRS on magnetic media, using a "G" coded Payee "B" Record, may be submitted on the same cassette or minidisk as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, they must be submitted using a separate "A" Record. Corrected returns for different tax years may not be submitted on the same file. Corrected returns are to be identified as corrections on the transmittal document and the EXTERNAL label of the file.

.03 The instructions that follow will provide information on how to file corrected returns on magnetic media and on paper forms. Please refer to the appropriate chart and type of error for instructions on how to properly file the corrected return(s).

.04 You may file corrected returns on paper forms; however, you are encouraged to file on magnetic media if you file more than 50 corrected returns.

.05 If you file your corrected returns on paper forms, do not submit the paper returns to the National Computer Center. All paper returns, whether original or corrected, must be filed with the appropriate service center. Corrected returns filed on magnetic media must be filed with the National Computer Center. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.

.06 Statements to the recipient or participant should be identified as "CORRECTED" and should be provided to them as soon as possible.

.07 If you file corrected returns on paper forms, use IRS forms or acceptable OCR scannable paper substitutes. Always submit Copy A to the appropriate service center. NOTE: Form W-2G is not required to be in OCR scannable format. Publication 1179, "Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G" provides requirements and instructions. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for paper substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

.08 For further instructions on filing information returns with IRS, refer to the 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498 and 1096." If these instructions are not included in your magnetic media reporting packages, request a copy from your local IRS office.

.09 Type or machine print all information on returns filed on paper.

.10 Use the proper form. If you are in doubt, review the instructions noted in .08 above or contact your local IRS office.

.11 Use only the boxes provided on the paper forms. Do not add additional boxes.

.12 Do not change the title of any box on the paper forms.

.13 Use the same name and TIN (SSN or EIN) for the filer on the Form 1096 transmittal form and all related forms that follow.

.14 A separate transmittal Form 1096 is required for each type of paper information return filed in the 1098, 5498 and 1099 Series. A transmittal Form W-3G is required to transmit paper Forms 1099-R and W-2G. DO NOT USE THE SAME TRANSMITTAL DOCUMENT TO FILE ORIGINAL AND CORRECTED RETURNS WHETHER ON PAPER FORMS OR MAGNETIC MEDIA. A transmittal Form 4804 or computer generated substitute is used to transmit magnetic media. A Form 4802 is a continuation form for a Form 4804. Please utilize a Form 4802 if you file on magnetic media for multiple payers and are an authorized agent for the payers.

.15 Do not staple, fold, paperclip or use rubberbands on any paper information returns filed with IRS. This could impair the OCR scanning process.

.16 Use the correct tax year's forms to file information returns with IRS (i.e., do not submit tax year 1985 returns using 1984 forms). The same is true for magnetic media filing. You must submit your returns filed on magnetic media using the revenue procedure for the tax year of the returns. Forms and revenue procedures are normally updated each year to include necessary changes.

.17 Most information returns contain a "VOID" box and a "CORRECTED" box. The "VOID" box is used only if you make an error while typing or printing the paper forms. Mark this box ONLY when you wish the return to be disregarded or passed over. The OCR scanner at the service centers will not read a "VOID" return; it will pass over it and go to the next form if the "VOID" box is marked. Do not confuse the "VOID" box and the "CORRECTED" box.

.18 On magnetic media files, the Payee "B" Record provides space to enter a Payer's Account Number for the Payee. This same account number may be provided on paper forms. In order to properly file corrected returns, this number will help identify the appropriate incorrect return. DO NOT ENTER A TIN (SSN OR EIN). A PAYER'S ACCOUNT NUMBER FOR THE PAYEE MAY BE A CHECKING ACCOUNT NUMBER, SAVINGS ACCOUNT NUMBER, SERIAL NUMBER OR ANY OTHER NUMBER ASSIGNED TO THE PAYEE BY THE PAYER, WHICH WILL DISTINGUISH THE SPECIFIC ACCOUNT. THIS NUMBER MUST APPEAR ON THE INITIAL RETURN AND ON THE CORRECTED RETURN IN ORDER TO IDENTIFY AND PROCESS THE CORRECTION PROPERLY.

.19 REVIEW BOTH CHARTS 1 AND 2 THAT FOLLOW. The types of errors made will normally fall under one of the four categories listed. Next to each type of error made, you will find a list of instructions to tell you how to properly file the corrected return for that type of error. READ ALL OF THE INSTRUCTIONS LISTED AND FOLLOW THEM FOR THE TYPE OF ERROR MADE ON THE INITIAL RETURN. IN SOME CASES TWO TRANSACTIONS ARE REQUIRED TO PROPERLY FILE CORRECTIONS. IF THE ORIGINAL RETURN WAS FILED AS AN AGGREGATE, YOU MUST CONSIDER THIS IN FILING THE CORRECTED RETURNS.

(PLEASE READ SEC. 10.01 THROUGH 10.19 OF THIS PUBLICATION BEFORE MAKING ANY CORRECTIONS)

Type of Error Made on the Original Return Filed on Magnetic Media	How to File The Corrected Return On Magnetic Media
1. Original return was filed with NO Payee TIN (SSN or EIN) OR the return was filed with an INCORRECT Payee TIN (SSN or EIN). THIS WILL REQUIRE TWO SEPARATE TRANSACTIONS TO MAKE THE CORRECTION PROPERLY. READ AND FOLLOW ALL INSTRUCTIONS FOR BOTH TRANSACTIONS 1 AND 2.	TRANSACTION 1: Identifying return submitted with NO TIN or an INCORRECT TIN A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. Prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or cassette or mini-disk dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format. 5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer on Mini-Disk, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. The information in the "A" Record will be the same as it was in the original submission. 3. The Payee "B" Record must contain exactly the same information as submitted previously EXCEPT: insert a "G" code in cassette position 5 or mini-disk position 6 of the "B" Record AND for ALL payment amounts used, enter "0" (zero). 4. Corrected returns submitted to IRS using a "G" coded "B" Record may be submitted on the same cassette or mini-disk as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, a separate "A" Record is required.

	5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the cassette or mini-disk "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION." 6. Submit the cassette(s) or mini-disk(s), a cassette or mini-disk dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.) TRANSACTION 2: Reporting the correct information A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. If you submit records with the corrected information on a separate cassette or mini-disk from those that are "G" coded, prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or cassette or mini-disk dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format. 5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer on Mini-Disk, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file with the correct information in ALL records. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. 3. Do not code the Payee "B" Record as a corrected return for this type of correction. (Remove the "G" Code.) 4. Provide all of the correct information supplying the correct TIN (SSN or EIN). 5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the cassette or mini-disk "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION." 6. Submit the cassette(s) or mini-disk(s), a cassette or mini-disk dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.)
2. Original return was filed with an incorrect payment amount(s) in the Payee "B" Record, OR a money amount was reported using an incorrect Payment Amount Indicator Code in the original Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Correct Type Of Return indicator was used in the "A" Record. THIS WILL REQUIRE ONLY ONE TRANSACTION TO	A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. Prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802) if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.)

MAKE THE CORRECTION. (NOTE: If the wrong Type Of Return indicator was used, see number 3 of this chart.)	2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or cassette or mini-disk dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format. 5. B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns 1. Prepare a new file. 2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. The information in the "A" Record will be the same as it was in the original submission EXCEPT, the correct Amount Indicators will be used. 3. The Payee "B" Record must contain exactly the same information as submitted previously EXCEPT: insert a "G" code in cassette position 5 or mini-disk position 6 of the "B" Record AND report the correct payment amounts as they should have been reported on the initial return. 4. Corrected returns submitted to IRS using a "G" coded "B" Record may be submitted on the same cassette or mini-disk as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, a separate "A" Record is required. 5. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the cassette or mini-disk "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION." 6. Submit the cassette(s) or mini-disk(s), a cassette or mini-disk dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to part A, Sec. 13 for address information.)
3. Original return was filed using the WRONG Type of Return indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. (For example, a return was coded using the Type of Return indicator for 1099-DIV and it should have been coded 1099-INT.) THIS WILL REQUIRE TWO SEPARATE TRANSACTIONS TO MAKE THE CORRECTION PROPERLY. READ AND FOLLOW ALL INSTRUCTIONS FOR BOTH TRANSACTIONS 1 AND 2.	TRANSACTION 1: Identifying return submitted with an incorrect Type Of Return indicator A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute) 1. Prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.) 2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute. 3. Provide ALL requested information correctly. 4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or cassette or mini-disk dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format.

5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer on Mini-Disk, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer.

B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns

1. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported. The information in the "A" Record will be exactly the same as it was in the original submission using the same incorrect type of return indicator.
2. The corrected Payee "B" Record must contain the same information as submitted previously EXCEPT: insert a "G" code in cassette position 5 or mini-disk position 6 of the "B" Record and for ALL payment amounts used, enter "0" (zero).
3. Corrected returns submitted to IRS using a "G" coded "B" Record may be submitted on the same cassette or mini-disk as those corrections submitted without the "G" code; however, a separate "A" Record is required.
4. Mark the EXTERNAL label of the cassette or mini-disk "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION."
5. Submit the cassette(s) or mini-disk(s), a cassette or mini-disk dump showing sample records coded for this type of filing, and the transmittal document to the National Computer Center. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information.)

TRANSACTION 2: Reporting the correct information

A. Form 4804 and/or 4802 (or computer generated substitute)

1. If you submit records with the corrected information on a separate cassette or mini-disk from those that are "G" coded, prepare a new transmittal Form 4804 (and 4802 if you file for multiple payers), or a computer generated substitute, that includes information related to this new file. (A Form 4802 is a continuation form for multiple payers and may be used if you have the authority to sign the affidavit on the Form 4804.)
2. Write, type or machine print in uppercase letters "MAGNETIC MEDIA CORRECTION" at the top of the transmittal form or computer generated substitute.
3. Provide ALL requested information correctly.
4. Include a hardcopy print, listing or cassette or mini-disk dump exhibiting a small sample of each type of record (A, B, C and F), which can be reviewed for accuracy and acceptability of record format.
5. If you are a Combined Federal/State filer, IRS will not transmit corrected returns to the state. This will be the responsibility of the filer.

B. 1098, 1099 Series, 5498 and W-2G Returns

1. Prepare a new file with the correct information in ALL records.
2. Use a separate Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for each type of return being reported and use the correct Type Of Return indicator.

Sec. 11. TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBERS

.01 Under section 6109 of the Internal Revenue Code, recipients of all reportable payments on information returns are required to furnish Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs) to the payer. The number must be furnished to the payer whether or not the payee is required to file a tax return or is covered by social security. Refer to Sec. 15 for a definition of Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN).

.02 The recipient's TIN is used to associate and verify amounts reported to IRS with corresponding amounts on tax returns. Therefore, it is particularly important that correct social security and employer identification numbers for payees be provided on magnetic media or paper forms submitted to IRS. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROES.

.03 Under section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code, a $50 penalty applies for each failure to furnish a TIN to another person who is required to file an information return, and for each failure to include a TIN on an information return. The penalty for payments other than interest or dividends applies unless the failures were due to reasonable cause and not willful neglect.

.04 With respect to all payers of interest and dividends, section 6676 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that the payer must self-assess a $50 penalty for each failure to include a payee's TIN or each inclusion of an incorrect TIN on an information return, unless the payer can demonstrate that the payer met the due diligence requirements in attempting to acquire correct TINs for payees. Use form 8210, Self-Assessed Penalties Return.

.05 For any reportable payment, if the payee fails to provide a TIN to the payer or if IRS notifies you that the TIN provided is incorrect, then backup withholding must be instituted for that payee. In the case of notice of an incorrect TIN from IRS, the payer must begin withholding on the 31st day after the notice is received. If the payer receives another TIN in the manner required from the payee within 30 days of notice from IRS, no withholding is required.

.06 The TIN to be furnished to IRS depends primarily upon the manner in which the account is maintained or set up on the payer's record. The TIN to be provided must be that of the owner of the account. If the account is recorded in more than one name, furnish the TIN and name of one of the owners of the account. The TIN provided must be associated with the name of the payee provided in the first name line of the Payee "B" Record. For individuals, including sole proprietors, the payee TIN is the payee's social security number. For other entities, the payee TIN is the payee's employer identification number.

.07 Sole proprietors who are payers should show their employer identification number in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. However, sole proprietors who are not otherwise required to have an employer identification number should use their social security number.

.08 Sole proprietors' social security numbers must be used in the Payee "B" Record.

.09 The charts below will help you determine the number to be furnished to IRS for recipients of reportable payments (payees).

SEC. 12. EFFECT ON PAPER RETURNS

.01 Cassette or mini-disk reporting of the information returns listed in Part A, Sec. 1 applies only to the original (Copy A).

.02 For payments of dividends or interest (reported on Forms 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT or 1099-OID), the payer is required to furnish an official Form 1099 to a payee either in a separate mailing by First-Class mail or in person. These forms may not be combined or mailed with other information furnished to the recipient except Form W-9 or other Form 1099 statements. The payer may use substitute Forms 1099 if they are substantially similar to the official forms and if the payer complies with all revenue procedures relating to substitute Forms 1099 in effect at the time (see Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G). A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement. Copy B (For Recipient) of the substitute forms must contain the statement "This is important tax information and is being furnished to IRS. If you are required to file a return, a negligence penalty will be imposed on you if this income is taxable and IRS determines that it has not been reported."

.03 Statements to recipients for Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B, 1099-G, 1099-MISC (except for substitute payments in lieu of dividends and tax-exempt interest), 1099-R, 5498 or W-2G need not be a copy of the paper form filed with IRS. It is important that income items be properly classified for Federal tax purposes on the statement the payer gives to recipients. The message "This information is being furnished to IRS" must appear on the statements. The payer may combine the statements with other reports or financial or commercial notices, or expand them to include other information of interest to the recipient. Also, be sure that all copies of the forms are legible and provide the recipient with applicable instructions that appear on the back of the recipient's copy of the official IRS form so that the information may properly be used by the recipient in meeting his or her tax obligations.

.04 If a portion of the returns is reported on cassette or mini-disk and the remainder is reported on paper forms, those returns not submitted on cassette or mini-disk must be filed on official forms or on acceptable paper substitutes meeting specifications in Publication 1179, Requirements for Reproducing Paper Substitutes of Forms 1096, 1099 Series, 5498, W-2G and W-3G. A supplement will be issued to include instructions for substitutes of Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

SEC. 13. MAGNETIC MEDIA COORDINATOR CONTACTS

.01 On January 1, 1985, the National Computer Center assumed responsibility for the magnetic media processing previously handled by the Philadelphia, Kansas City, and Austin Service Centers. Beginning January 1, 1986, magnetic media processing for all service centers will be centralized at the National Computer Center. On or after January 1, 1986, please direct all requests for magnetic media related publications, information, undue hardship waivers, or forms to the following address:

SEC. 14. COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING

.01 The Combined Federal/State Program was established to simplify information returns filing for the taxpayer. IRS will accept, upon prior approval, mini-disk files containing state reporting information only for those states listed in Table 1 in this section. FORMS 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B AND W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM. DUE TO THE 256 CHARACTER RECORD RESTRICTION FOR CASSETTE FILERS, CASSETTE TAPES ARE NOT ACCEPTABLE ON THIS PROGRAM. EACH RECORD IN THE COMBINED

FEDERAL/STATE PROGRAM MUST BE 360 CHARACTERS IN LENGTH; THEREFORE ONLY MINI-DISK FILES ARE ACCEPTABLE.

.02 To request approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, a "test" file, coded for this program, must be submitted between September and December using the revenue procedure that will be used for the actual data files. Refer to Part A, Sec. 13 for address information. See Part A, Sec. 5.04 for general guidelines on submission of "test" files. Each record, both in the "test" file and actual data file, must be 360 positions in length, and the file must conform exactly to the revenue procedure for the tax year of the actual data. Combined Federal/State records must be coded using each state's dollar criteria from Table 2 of this Section for each type of return. If the "test" mini-disk is determined to be acceptable, IRS will return it to the filer with a letter of approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program. Form 6847, Consent For Internal Revenue Service to Release Tax Information, will be included with the letter of approval. You must complete Form 6847, include your 5 character Transmitter Control Code on the form, and return it to IRS before IRS will release tax information to any of the participating states. Do not submit actual data records coded for the Combined Federal/State Program without prior approval from IRS. The first time you submit actual data files coded for this program, include the signed Form 6847.

.03 States that participate in this program and the valid state code assigned to each are listed in Table 1 of this Section. If the state that you wish information released to does not participate in the program, do not code your records for that state. If the state participates, if you have received prior approval, and if all other conditions are met, IRS will forward the tax information to the participating state at no charge to the filer.

.04 IF CORRECTIONS MUST BE MADE, IRS WILL NOT TRANSMIT CORRECTED RETURNS TO THE STATES. THIS WILL BE THE RESPONSIBILITY OF THE FILER.

.05 IRS will make no attempt to process files with any deviations. Approval to participate in the Combined Federal/State Program will be revoked if any files are submitted that do not totally conform.

.06 IRS is acting as a forwarding agent ONLY. Some participating states require separate notification that you are filing in this manner. It is your responsibility to contact the appropriate states for further information.

.07 The appropriate state code should be entered for those documents which meet that state's filing requirements. It is the filer's responsibility to determine the state code to be used and to obtain the filing requirements from the appropriate state(s).

.08 If you meet all of the requirements for this program, you must provide the state totals from the "K" record on a separate Form 4804, Transmittal of Information Returns on Magnetic Media (or Form 4802, Multiple Payer Transmittal For Magnetic Media Reporting) or computer generated substitute for each state, or you must include a listing which identifies each state and the "K" record totals for each.

.09 If you have met ALL of the above conditions:

(a) You must submit all records using two 180 position sectors which indicate the appropriate coding related to this program.

(b) The "C" record must be followed by a "K" Record for each state. The "K" record indicates the number of payees (different TINs) being reported to each particular state.

(c) Payment amount totals and the valid participating state code must be included in the state totals "K" Record. Refer to Part B, Sec. 16, for a description of the "K" Record.

(d) The "K" record is followed by an end of transmission "F" Record (if this is the last record of the entire file).

.10 Only those states listed in Table 1 below will receive information from IRS. It is the filer's responsibility to file information returns with states that do not participate in this program.

[d] $10.01 for Savings and Loan Associations and Credit Unions.

[e] $600.01 for Rents and Royalties.

[f] Aggregate both types of returns. The state would prefer those returns filed with respect to non-Missouri residents to be sent directly to the state agency.

[g] Aggregate of several types of income.

[h] Return required for state of Oregon residents only.

[i] Same as federal requirement for this type of return.

*NOTE: Filing requirements for any state not shown on the above chart are the same as the Federal requirement.

SEC. 15. DEFINITIONS OF TERMS

Element	Description
b	Denotes a blank position. Enter blank(s) when this symbol is used (do not enter the letter "b"). This appears in numerous areas throughout the record descriptions.
Coding Range	Indicates the allowable codes for a particular type of statement.
EIN	Employer Identification Number that has been assigned by IRS to the reporting entity.
Excess Golden Parachute Payment	Parachute payments (also called "golden parachutes") are certain payments in the nature of compensation which corporations make to key individuals, often in excess of their usual compensation, in the event that ownership or control of the corporation changes.
File	For purposes of this procedure, a file consists of all cassette or mini-disk records submitted by a Payer or Transmitter.
Payee	Person(s) or organization(s) receiving payments from the Payer, or for whom an information return must be filed.
Payer	Person or organization, including paying agent, making payments or the person liable for filing an information return. The Payer will be held responsible for the completeness, accuracy and timely submission of cassette or mini-disk files.

Element	Description
Special Character	Any character that is not a numeral, a letter or a blank
SSA	Social Security Administration.
SSN	Social Security Number.
Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)	May be either an EIN or SSN.
Transfer Agent (Paying Agent)	The transfer agent or paying agent is the entity who has been contracted or authorized by the payer to perform the services of paying and reporting backup withholding (Form 941). The payer must submit to IRS a Form 2678, Employer Appointment of Agent under Section 3504, which notifies IRS of the transfer agent relationship.
Transmitter	Person or organization preparing cassette or mini-disk file(s). May be Payer or agent of payer.
Transmitter Control Code	A five character number assigned by IRS to the transmitter prior to actual filing on magnetic media. This number is inserted in the "A" Record of your files and must be present before the file can be processed. An application Form 4419 must be filed with IRS to receive this number. See Part A, Sec. 5. (Abbreviation for this term is TCC.)

SEC. 16. U.S. POSTAL SERVICE STATE ABBREVIATIONS

You MUST use the following U.S. Postal Service State abbreviations when developing the state code portion of Name Line fields. (This table provides state abbreviations only and does not represent those states participating in the Combined Federal/State Program. For a list of states that participate in the Combined Federal/State Program, refer to Sec. 14.10.)

PART B. CASSETTE SPECIFICATIONS

SECTION 1. GENERAL

.01 The specifications contained in this part of the revenue procedure prescribe the required format and contents of the records to be included in the cassette file. These specifications must be adhered to unless deviations have been specifically granted by IRS in writing.

.02 In most instances, IRS will be able to process any compatible cassette file. IRS has a Burrough's B-94 model mini-computer with free standing NRZ and PE cassette devices, style B 9497-11 and B 9497-15 respectively. We understand that most Burroughs B-90 series mini-computers will produce compatible cassettes. However, until this is absolutely determined, we request filers to provide test cassettes so that we may ascertain which models are compatible.

.03 A cassette contains a minimum of 282 feet (86m) of 2 track recording tape and a minimum of 6 inches (15.25 cm) of clear leader at both ends of the tape.

.04 The recording technique is either non-return to zero (NRZ) or Phase Encoded (PE).

05 Date is recorded on the cassette at a maximum density of 800 bits per inch (BPI) for NRZ cassettes and 1600 BPI for PE cassettes.

.06 When the NRZ technique is used, both tracks of the cassette are recorded simultaneously; data is recorded on one track and a synchronizing clock impulse is recorded on the other.

.07 When the PE technique is used, there is no requirement for a separate clock pulse track; one track is recorded when the cassette is driven in one direction, and the other track is recorded when the tape drive is driven in the other direction. Therefore two PE data tracks can be recorded over the full length of the tape.

.08 The data is recorded in blocks of characters, separated by interblock gaps (IBGs). Records may not span blocks.

.09. The recording mode is 9 channel ASCII (American Standard Code Information Exchange) or EPCDIC (Extended Binary Coded Decimal Interchange Code.

.10 The industry standard for cassettes is odd parity.

.11 The maximum block size is 256 characters; the minimum block size is 1 character for NRZ cassettes and 8 characters for PE cassettes.

.12 Each block of characters is followed by two 8-bit Cyclic Redundancy CHeck (CRC) characters which serve as a parity check on the data block during reading operations.

.13 The data characters plus the CRC characters are preceeded and followed by a Preamble character and a Postamble character which serve to delimit the data block.

.14 Tape marks which consist of a fixed number of null characters (all zero bits) are used to delimit logical portions of the cassette and also to mark the end of the file of data.

.15 Cassettes may be either labeled or unlabeled.

.16 Each block of data, including tape marks, are separated from the next block by the interblock gap (IBGs). The IBG is 1.4 inches (3.5 cm) in length. A tape mark length is approximately 6 inches (15 cm) in length.

.17 The beginning of the tape is marked by a BOT mark. This is a hole in the tape used to define the start of the recording tape. It is recommended that a tape mark, preamble character, null character (one character in which all bits are zero), a postamble character and ending label is placed on the cassette immediately after EOT is reached.

.18 An external label must appear on each cassette submitted for processing. The following information is needed:

(a) The transmitter's name.

(b) The five character Transmitter Control Code.

(c) The type of computer equipment that the data was prepared on.

(d) The type of drive utilized (e.g., PE or NRZ).

(e) Recording code (e.g., EBCDIC or ASCII).

(f) The tax year of the data (e.g., 1985).

(g) Document types (e.g., 1099 INT).

(h) The total number of payers (from the "F" record).

(i) The total number of payees (from the "C" record).

(j) The total number of cassettes in the file.

(k) A cassette number assigned by the transmitter.

(l) The sequence of each cassette (e.g., 001 of 008).

This information will assist IRS in processing the file or in locating a file, should the transmitter request that it be returned due to errors. IRS advises that special shipping containers not be used for transmitting data since it cannot be guaranteed that they will be returned.

SEC. 2. RECORD LENGTH

.01 The cassette records defined in this revenue procedure may be blocked or unblocked, subject to the following:

(a) The block must not exceed 256 cassette positions.

(b) A record must be a minimum of 200 positions and a maximum of 256 positions. Due to this restriction, cassette filers may not participate in the Combined Federal/State Program; cassette filers may only report a maximum of six payment amounts for any single record; also, Forms 1099-A, 1099-B and W-2G cannot be filed on cassette.

(c) If the use of blocked records would result in a short block, all remaining positions of the block must be filled with 9-s. DO NOT PAD A BLOCK WITH BLANKS.

(d) All records except the Header and Trailer Labels, may be blocked.

(e) Records may not span blocks.

SEC. 3. PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

.01 Identifies the payer and transmitter of the cassette file and provides parameters for the succeeding Payee "B" Records. IRS computer programs rely on the absolute relationship between the parameters and data fields in the "A" Record and the data fields in the "B" Records to which they apply.

.02 The number of "A" Records appearing on a cassette will depend on the number of payers and the different types of returns being reported. After the header label on the cassette, the first record appearing in the file must be an "A" Record. For cassette filing, the actual record lengths for the "A" and "B" Records must agree with whatever is entered in cassette positions 28-30 and 31-33 of the "A" Record. A transmitter may include Payee "B" records for more than one payer on a cassette; however, each GROUP of Payee "B" Records must be preceded by an "A" Record. A single cassette may also contain different types of returns, but the types of returns must not be intermingled. A separate "A" Record is required for each type of return being reported. An "A" Record may be blocked with "B" records; however, the initial record on a file must be an "A" Record. The IRS will accept an "A" Record after a "C" Record. For cassette files, do not begin any record at the end of a block and continue the same record into the next block.

RECORD NAME: PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "A".
2	Payment Year	1	REQUIRED. Must be the right most digit of the year for which information is being reported. (e.g., if payments were made in 1985, enter "5"). Must be incremented each year.
3-5	Cassette Sequence Number	3	REQUIRED. Sequence numbers of the cassette in the file starting with 001.
6-14	Payer's Federal EIN	9	REQUIRED. Must be the valid 9-digit number assigned to the payer by IRS. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROES.
15-16	Blank	2	REQUIRED. Enter blanks.
17	Type of Return	1	REQUIRED. Enter appropriate code from table below: Type of Return — Code 1098 — 3 1099-DIV — 1 1099-G — F 1099-INT — 6 1099-MISC — A 1099-OID — D 1099-PATR — 7 1099-R — 9 5498 — L NOTE: Forms 1099-A, 1099-B and W-2G cannot be filed on cassette due to the 256 character record restriction.
18-23	Amount Indicators	6	REQUIRED. In most cases, the boxes or Amount Indicators on paper information returns correspond with the Amount Codes used to file on magnetic media; however, should you notice discrepancies, please disregard them and program according to this revenue procedure for your returns filed on magnetic media. The amount indicators entered for a given type of return indicate type(s) of payment(s) which were made. Example: If position 17 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is "6" (for 1099-INT) and positions 18-23 are "123bbbbbb," this indicates that 3 payment amount fields are present in all of the following Payee "B" Records. The first payment amount field in the Payee "B" Record will represent Earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposit, etc., the second will represent Amount of forfeiture, and the third will represent Federal income tax withheld. Enter the Amount Indicators in ASCENDING SEQUENCE, left justify, filling unused positions with blanks. For any further clarification of the Amount Indicator codes, you may contact the service center or National Computer Center Magnetic Media Coordinators listed in Part A, Sec. 13.

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
	Amount Indicators Form 1098—Mortgage Interest Statement (New Form)		For Reporting Mortgage Interest Received from Payer(s) on Form 1098: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Mortgage interest received from payer(s) 2 — Optional field for items such as real estate taxes or insurance paid from escrow
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-DIV—Dividends and Distributions		For Reporting a maximum of six Payments on Form 1099-DIV: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Gross dividends and other distributions on stock 2 — Dividends qualifying for exclusion 3 — Dividends not qualifying for exclusion 4 — Federal income tax withheld 5 — Capital gain distributions 6 — Nontaxable distributions (if determinable) 7 — Foreign tax paid 8 — Cash liquidation distributions 9 — Noncash liquidation distributions (Show fair market value)
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-G—Certain Government Payments		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-G: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Unemployment compensation 2 — State or local income tax refunds 4 — Federal income tax withheld 5 — Discharge of indebtedness 6 — Taxable grants 7 — Agriculture payments
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-INT—Interest Income		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-INT: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposit, etc. 2 — Amount of forfeiture 3 — Federal income tax withheld 4 — Foreign tax paid (if eligible for foreign tax credit) 5 — U.S. Savings Bonds, etc.
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-MISC—Miscellaneous Income (See Notes 1, 2 and 3)		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-MISC: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Rents 2 — Royalties 3 — Prizes and awards 4 — Federal income tax withheld

			5 Fishing boat proceeds 6 Medical and health care payments 7 Nonemployee compensation 8 Direct sales "indicator" (see NOTE 1) 9 Substitute payments in lieu of dividends or interest (see NOTE 2)

NOTE 1: Use Amount Code "8" to report direct sales of $5000 or more of consumer products on a buy-sell, deposit-commission, or other basis for resale. If not for resale, enter a "0" (zero) in tape position 4 of the Payee "B" Record. Please refer to the "B" Record Document Specific Code for clarification. The use of Amount Code "8" actually reflects an indicator of direct sales and not an actual payment amount or amount code. The corresponding payment amount field in the Payee "B" record MUST be reflected as 0000000100. This does not mean that a payment of $1.00 was made or is being reported. The use of Amount Code "8" relates directly to cassette position 4, Document Specific Code and Note 2 of the Payment Amount Field in the Payee "B" Record.

NOTE 2: Brokers are subject to a new reporting requirement for payments received after 1984. Brokers who transfer securities of a customer for use in a short sale must use Amount Code 9 of Form 1099-MISC to report the aggregate payments received in lieu of dividends or tax-exempt interest on behalf of a customer while the short sale was open. Generally, for substitute payments in lieu of dividends, a broker is required to file a Form 1099-MISC for each affected customer who is not an individual. Refer to the 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498, and 1096" for detailed information. (The instructions are available from local IRS offices.)

NOTE 3: If you are reporting Excess Golden Parachute Payments, use paper forms 1099-MISC. Do not report Excess golden parachute Payments on magnetic media for tax year 1985. See Part A, Sec. 15 for a definition of an Excess Golden Parachute Payment.

Amount Indicators Form 1099-OID—Original Issue Discount

For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-OID:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Total original issue document (ratable) for the tax year covered by the return
2	Stated interest (the regular interest paid on this obligation without regard to any original issue discount)
3	Amount of forfeiture
4	Federal income tax withheld

Amount Indicators Form 1099-PATR—Taxable Distributions Received From Cooperatives

For Reporting a maximum of six Payments on Form 1099-PATR:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Patronage dividends
2	Nonpatronage distributions
3	Per-unit retain allocations
4	Federal income tax withheld
5	Redemption of nonqualified notices and retain allocations
6	Investment credit (See NOTE)
7	Energy investment credit (see NOTE)
8	Jobs credit (See NOTE)

NOTE: The amounts shown for Amount Indicators "6", "7" and "8" must be reported to the payee; however, since these amounts are not taxable, they need not be reported to IRS.

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-R—Total Distributions from Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, Etc. (See NOTE)		For Reporting a maximum of six Payments on Form 1099-R: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Amount includable as income (add amounts in codes 2 and 3) 2 — Capital gain (for lump-sum distributions only) 3 — Ordinary income 4 — Federal income tax withheld 5 — Employee contributions to profit-sharing or retirement plans 6 — IRA, SEP or DEC distributions 8 — Net unrealized appreciation in employer's securities 9 — Other NOTE: For tax year 1985 reporting, coding is not provided to report to IRS, on magnetic media, any state income tax withheld.
	Amount Indicators Form 5498—Individual Retirement Arrangement Information		For Reporting Payments on Form 5498: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Regular IRA, SEP or DEC contributions made in calendar year 1985 for tax year 1984 reporting 2 — Rollover IRA, SEP or DEC contributions 3 — Regular IRA, SEP or DEC contributions made in calendar year 1985 and 1986 for tax year 1985 reporting 4 — Allocable life insurance cost included in code 3 for endowment contracts only
24-27	Blank	4	REQUIRED. Enter blanks.
28-30	"A" Record Length	3	REQUIRED. . Enter the number of positions used or that you have allowed for the "A" Record. For cassette filing, the actual record length must agree with whatever you enter in this field. The record must not exceed 256 characters.
31-33	"B" Record Length	3	REQUIRED. Enter the number of positions used or that you have allowed for the "B" Record. For cassette filing, the actual record length must agree with whatever you enter in this field. The record must not exceed 256 characters.
34	Blank	1	REQUIRED. Enter blank.
35-39	Transmitter Control Code (TCC)	5	REQUIRED. Enter the 5 character Transmitter Control Code assigned by IRS. See Part A, Sec. 15 for a definition of Transmitter Control Code (TCC). You must have a TCC to file actual data on this program.

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
40	Blank	1	REQUIRED. Enter blank.
41-80	First Payer Name	40	REQUIRED. Enter the name of the payer in the manner in which it is used in normal business. Any extraneous information must be deleted from the name line. Left justify and fill with blanks.
81-119	Second Payer Name	39	REQUIRED. The contents of this field are dependent upon the TRANSFER AGENT INDICATOR in position 120 of this record. If the Transfer Agent Indicator contains a "1", this Field will contain the name of the Transfer Agent. If the Transfer Agent Indicator contains a "0" (zero), this field will contain either a continuation of the First Payer Name field or blanks. Left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. IF NO ENTRIES ARE PRESENT FOR THIS FIELD FILL WITH BLANKS. (See Part A, Sec. 15 for a definition of Transfer Agent.)
120	Transfer Agent Indicator	1	REQUIRED. Identifies the entity in the Second Payer Name Field. (See Part A, Sec. 15 for a definition of Transfer Agent.) Code — Meaning 1 — The entity in the Second Payer Name field is the Transfer Agent. 0 (zero) — The entity shown is not the Transfer Agent (i.e. the Second Payer Name field contains either a continuation of the First Payer Name field or blanks).
121-160	Payer Shipping Address	40	REQUIRED. If the TRANSFER AGENT INDICATOR in position 120 is a "1" enter the shipping address of the Transfer Agent. Otherwise, enter the shipping address of the payer. Left justify and fill with blanks.
161-200	Payer City, State and Zip Code	40	REQUIRED. If the TRANSFER AGENT INDICATOR in position 120 is a "1" enter the city, state and ZIP Code of the Transfer Agent. Otherwise, enter the city, state and zip code of the payer. Left justify and fill with blanks.
201-256	Blank	56	REQUIRED. Enter Blanks.

SEC. 4. PAYEE "B" RECORD—GENERAL FIELD DESCRIPTIONS

.01 The Payee "B" record contains the payment information from the individual statements. When filing information documents on cassette(s), the format for the Payee "B" Records will vary in relation to the number of payment amount fields being reported. The number of payment amount fields will depend upon the number of Payment Amount Indicator Codes used in positions 18-23 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT, position 17 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record will be coded with a "6." If the Amount Indicators used to report this interest are Amount Codes "1," "2," and "3," then cassette positions 18-23 of the "A" record will be coded "123bbb" (b represents a blank position). To correspond with Amount Indicators "1," "2," and "3" of the "A" Record, the "B" Record will contain three payment amount fields. Cassette positions 31-40 of the "B" Record will contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "1" (earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposits, etc.); cassette positions 41-50 of the "B" Record would contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "3" (Federal income tax withheld). The First Payee Name Line must begin immediately after the last payment amount that is used. In this example, the First Payee Name Line would begin in cassette position 61.

.02 All records must be a fixed length. Records may not span blocks. A block may not exceed 256 positions. DO NOT PAD A BLOCK WITH BLANKS. If the use of blocked records would result in a short block, all remaining positions of the block must be filled with 9s.

.03 All payee records must contain correct payee name and address information entered in the fields described in this section. Any records containing an invalid TIN (SSN or EIN) and having no address data present will be returned for correction.

.04 IRS must be able to identify the surname associated with the TIN (SSN or EIN) furnished on a statement. The specifications below include a field in the payee records called "Name Control" in which the first four alphabetic characters of the payees' surname or last name are to be entered by the payers. The surname or last name should appear first in the First Payee Name Line of all Payee "B" Records; however, if your records have been developed using the first name first, IRS programs will accept this but, a blank must appear between the first and last name.

.05 If payers are unable to provide the first four characters of the surname, the Name Control Field may be left blank; however, compliance with the following will facilitate IRS computer programs in generating the Name Control.

(a) The surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record should always appear first. If however, you enter the first name first, you must leave a blank space between the first and last name.

(b) In the case of multiple payees, only the surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record, must be present in the First Payee Name Line. Surnames of any other payees in the record must be entered in the Second Payee Name Line.

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "B".
2-3	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which payments are being reported (e.g., if payments were made in 1985 enter "85"). Must be incremented each year.
4	Document Specific Code	1	REQUIRED for Forms 1099-R, 1099-MISC, and 1099-G. For Form 1099-R, enter the appropriate value for the Category of total IRA Distribution. For Form 1099-MISC, enter the appropriate value for Direct Sales. For Form 1099-G, enter the year of income tax refund. FOR ALL OTHER FORMS, ENTER BLANK.
	Category of Total Distribution (Form 1099-R only)		Use only for reporting on Form 1099-R to identify the category of Total Distribution. Enter the applicable code from the table below. Code 7 below is not required for Amount Indicators 1, 2 and 3. A "0" (zero) is not a valid code for Form 1099-R.
			Category — Code Premature distribution (other than codes 2, 3, 4, or 5) — 1 Rollover — 2 Disability — 3 Death — 4 Prohibited transaction — 5 Other — 6 Normal IRA, SEP or DEC distributions — 7 Excess contributions refunded plus earnings on such excess contributions — 8
	Direct Sales (Form 1099-MISC only)		Use only for direct sales reporting on Form 1099-MISC. If sales to the recipient of consumer products on a buy-sell, deposit-commission, or any other basis for resale, have amounted to $5,000 or more, ENTER "1". If not for resale, enter "0" (zero). If you are filing 1099-MISC, with an Amount Indicator of "8" in the "A" Record, you must enter a code "1" or "0" in this field. In Part B, Sec. 4, information concerning the direct sales indicator can be found under Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, NOTE 1.

	Refund is for Tax Year (Form 1099-G only)		Use only for reporting the tax year for which the refund was issued. If the payment amount field associated with Amount Indicator 2, Income Tax Refunds, contains a refund, credit or offset that is attributable to an income tax which applies exclusively to income from a trade or business and is not of general application, then enter the ALPHA equivalent of the year of refund from the table below. Otherwise, enter the NUMERIC Year for which the Refund was issued.

Year for which Refund was Issued	Alpha Equivalent
1	A
2	B
3	C
4	D
5	E
6	F
7	G
8	H
9	I
0	J

5-6	Blank	2	REQUIRED. Enter blanks. (Reserved for IRS use). Cassette position 5 is used to indicate a corrected return. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for specific instructions on how to file corrected returns using either magnetic media or paper forms.
7-10	Name Control	4	REQUIRED. Enter the first 4 letters of the surname of the payee. Surnames of less than four (4) letters should be left justified, filling the unused positions with blanks. Special characters and imbedded blanks should be removed. IF THE NAME CONTROL IS NOT DETERMINABLE BY THE PAYER, LEAVE THIS FIELD BLANK. A dash (–) or ampersand (&) are the only acceptable special characters.
11	Type of TIN	1	REQUIRED. This field is used to identify the Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) in positions 12-20 as either an Employer Identification Number, a Social Security Number, or the reason no number is shown. Enter the appropriate code from the table below:

Type of TIN	TIN	Type of Account
1	EIN	A business or an organization
2	SSN	An individual
9	SSN	The payee is a foreign individual and not a U.S. resident
blank	N/A	A Taxpayer Identification Number is required but unobtainable due to legitimate cause; e.g. number applied for but not received.

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
12-20	Taxpayer Identification Number	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9-digit Taxpayer Identification Number of the payee (SSN or EIN, as appropriate). Where an identification number has been applied for but not received or where there is any other legitimate cause for not having an identification number, enter blanks. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROS. Any record containing an invalid identification number in this field will be returned for correction.
21-30	Payer's Account Number for Payee	10	REQUIRED. Payer may use this field to enter the payee's account number. The use of this item will facilitate easy reference to specific records in the payer's file should any questions arise. DO NOT ENTER A TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER IN THIS FIELD. An account number can be any account number assigned by the payer to the payee (i.e., checking account, savings account, etc.). THIS NUMBER WILL HELP TO DISTINGUISH THE INDIVIDUAL PAYEE'S ACCOUNT WITH YOU AND THE SPECIFIC TRANSACTION MADE WITH THE ORGANIZATION, SHOULD MULTIPLE RETURNS BE FILED. This information will be particularly necessary if you need to file a corrected return. You are strongly encouraged to use this field. You may use any number that will help identify the particular transaction that you are reporting.
	Payment Amount Fields		The number of payment amounts is dependent upon and must agree with the number of Amount Indicators present in positions 18-23 of the "A" Record. For cassette filers, a maximum of six payment amounts may be present. THE FIRST PAYEE NAME LINE MUST APPEAR IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE LAST PAYMENT AMOUNT INDICATED AS BEING USED. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT and you used only Amount Indicator "3" in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, then you will only use one ten position payment amount in the Payee "B" Record, right justified, and the First Payee Name Line will begin in position 41. Each payment field that you allow for, or use, must contain 10 numeric characters (see following NOTE). Do not provide a payment amount field when the corresponding Amount Indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is blank. Each payment amount must be entered in dollars and cents. Do not enter dollar signs, commas, decimal points, or NEGATIVE PAYMENTS (except those items that reflect a loss on Form 1099-B and must be negative overpunched in the units position). Example: If the Amount Indicators are reflected as "123bbb", the Payee "B" Records must have only 3 payment amount fields. If Amount Indicators are reflected as "12367b", the "B" Records must have only 5 payment amount fields. Payment amounts MUST be right-justified and unused positions MUST be zero-filled. NOTE 1: If any one payment amount exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total amount MUST be submitted for the Payee. NOTE 2: If you file 1099-MISC and use Amount Code "8" in the Amount Indicator field of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, you must enter 0000000100 in the corresponding Payment Amount Field. This will not represent an actual money amount;

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
			this is an amount code. (Refer to Part B, Sec. 3, NOTE 1, of the Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, for clarification.)
31-40	Payment Amount 1	10	REQUIRED. This amount is identified by the indicator in position 18 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. This amount must always be present.
	Determine at this point the number of payment fields to be reported within the Payee "B" Record. This can be determined from the number of Amount Indicators appearing in positions 18-23 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record.
41-50	Payment Amount 2	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 19 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 19 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
51-60	Payment Amount 3	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 20 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 20 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
61-70	Payment Amount 4	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 21 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 21 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
71-80	Payment Amount 5	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 22 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 22 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
81-90	Payment Amount 6	10	This amount is identified by the indicator in position 23 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. If position 23 is blank, do not provide for this payment amount.
THE NEXT 160 POSITIONS MUST BEGIN IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE LAST PAYMENT AMOUNT FIELD INDICATED AS BEING USED. THE NUMBER OF PAYMENT AMOUNT FIELDS IS DETERMINED BY THE NUMBER OF AMOUNT INDICATORS IN POSITIONS 18-23 OF THE PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD. (See PART B, Sec. 4.01 for an example.)
Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
	First Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. The First Payee Name Line must appear after the last payment amount indicated as being used. Do not enter address information in this field. If you use all payment amounts, the first Payee Name Line will begin in tape position 121. Enter the name of the payee whose taxpayer identification number appears in positions 12-20 above. If fewer than 40 characters are required, left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. If more space is required for the name, utilize the Second Payee Name Line field below. If there are multiple payees, only the name of the payee whose taxpayer identification number has been provided should be entered in this field. The names of the other payees should be entered in the Second Payee Name Line field.
	Second Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. If the payee name requires more space than is available in the First Payee Name Line, enter the remaining portion of the name only in this field. If there are multiple payees, this field may be used for those payees' names who are not associated with the taxpayer identification number in positions 12-20 above. Do not enter address information in this field. Left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. FILL WITH BLANKS IF NO ENTRIES ARE PRESENT FOR THIS FIELD.

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
	Payee Mailing Address	40	REQUIRED. Enter mailing address of payee. Left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. Address MUST be present. This field MUST NOT contain any data other than payee's mailing address.
	Payee City	29	REQUIRED. Enter the city, left justified and fill the unused positions with blanks. Do not enter state and ZIP Code information in this field. (If the payee lives outside of the United States, include their current mailing address and spell out the name of the country if possible.)
	Payee State	2	REQUIRED. Enter the abbreviation for the state. You MUST use valid U.S. Postal Service abbreviations for states as shown in Part A, Sec. 16. Use this field for state information only.
	Payee ZIP Code	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9 digit ZIP Code assigned by the U.S. Postal Service. If only the first 5 digits are known, left justify and fill the unused positions with blanks. Use this field for the ZIP Code only.

THE FOLLOWING FIELD DEFINITIONS DESCRIBE PAYEE "B" RECORD POSITIONS FOLLOWING PAYEE CITY, STATE AND ZIP CODE FOR FORMS 1098, 1099-DIV, 1099-G, 1099-INT, 1099-MISC, 1099-OID, 1099-PATR, 1099-R and 5498. FORMS 1099A, 1099-B AND W-2G CANNOT BE FILED ON CASSETTE.

	NEXT FIELD AFTER PAYEE CITY, STATE AND ZIP CODE
-250	Special Data Entries		REQUIRED. This portion of the Payee "B" Record may be used to record information for the payer. The Special Data Entries will begin in positions 201, 211, 221, 231, or 241 depending on the number of payment amounts used in the record. Special Data Entries may be used to make all records the same length; however, the "B" Record may not exceed 256 positions. If this field is not utilized, ENTER BLANKS.
251-256	Blank	6	REQUIRED. Enter blanks.

SEC. 5. END OF PAYEE "C" RECORD

.01 The Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Adjust your programs accordingly.

.02 The End of Payer "C" Record is a summary record for a Type of Return for a given payer. It MUST be the same length as the "B" Records in the payer's file.

.03 The "C" Record will contain the totals of the payment amount fields and the payees filed by a given payer. The "C" Record must be written after the last payee record for each Type of Return for a given payer. For each "A" Record on the file, there must be a corresponding "C" Record.

.04 Payers/Transmitters must verify the accuracy of the totals in the "C" Record and must enter the totals on the transmittal, Form 4804, which will accompany the shipment.

RECORD NAME: END OF PAYER "C" RECORD

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "C".
2-7	Number of Payees	6	REQUIRED. Enter the total number of payees ("B" Records) covered by the preceding Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Right justify and zero fill.
8-22	Control Total 1	15	REQUIRED. All Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Enter accumulated totals from payment Amount 1. Right justify and zero fill. IF LESS THAN NINE AMOUNT FIELDS ARE BEING REPORTED, ZERO FILL UNUSED CONTROL TOTAL FIELDS.
	Control Total 2 through Control Total 6 are OPTIONAL. If any corresponding Payment Amount Fields are present in the Payee "B" Records, accumulate into the appropriate Control Total field. ZERO FILL UNUSED CONTROL TOTAL FIELDS. Please note that all Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions.
23-37	Control Total 2	15
38-52	Control Total 3	15

83-97	Control Total 6	15
98-256	Blank	159	REQUIRED. Enter blanks.

SEC. 6. END OF TRANSMISSION "F" RECORD

.01 The "F" Record is a summary of the number of payers and tapes in the entire file.

.02 This record should be written after the last "C" Record.

.03 Only a Tape Mark or a Tape Mark and Trailer Label may follow the "F" Record.

RECORD NAME: END OF TRANSMISSION "F" RECORD

Cassette Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
1	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "F".
2-5	Number of Payers	4	Enter total number of payers for this transmission. Right justify and zero fill.
6-8	Number of Reels	3	Enter total number of reels in transmission. Right justify and zero fill.
9-30	Zero	22	REQUIRED. Enter zeroes.
31-256	Blank	226	REQUIRED. Enter blanks.

PART C. BURROUGHS SUPER MINI-DISK SPECIFICATIONS

SECTION 1. GENERAL

.01 The specifications contained in this part of the revenue procedure prescribe the required format and contents of the records to be included in the Burroughs Super Mini-Disk (BSMD) file. These specifications must be adhered to unless deviations have been specifically granted by the Service in writing.

.02 The Service has a Burroughs B-94 mini-computer with 2 mini-disk drives: a Burroughs Super Mini-Disk, style B 9489-11 and a Burroughs Super Mini-Disk II, style B 9489-21.

.03 It is our understanding that most Burroughs B-90 series mini-computers will produce a mini-disk that will be compatible with our system. However, until this is absolutely determined, we request that a test mini-disk be provided so that we may check for compatibility.

.04 To be compatible a mini-disk must meet the following specifications in total:

(a) The Burroughs Super Mini-Disk is a flexible mylar disk with an iron oxide coating. The disk is 8 inches (20.3 cm) in diameter with a 1.5 inch (3.8 cm) center hole.

(b) There are 32 Sector Markers (holes) in the disk at a distance of 1.5 inches (3.8 cm) from the center. These markers define the 32 sectors in which data can be recorded on each track of the disk.

(c) Recorded data is encoded using the Miller Frequency Mode (MFM) technique. Data transferred between the disk and the processor is encoded using the non return to zero (NRZ) technique.

(d) Bit serial data is written to the disk in the Burroughs standard 180 bytes per sector format.

(e) Number of usable sides is 2.

(f) Tracks per side is 88.

(g) Sectors per track is 32.

(h) Maximum recording density is 4774 bits per inch.

(i) When initializing the mini-disk, the name IRSTAX should be assigned to the mini-disk.

(j) The file name in the super mini-disk header label should be FED-MINI.

.05 Payers who can substantially conform to these specifications, but who require some minor deviations, MUST contact the Magnetic Media Coordinator at the National Computer Center or the service centers. Under no circumstances may mini-disks deviating from the specifications in this revenue procedure be submitted without prior written approval from IRS. If you file under the Combined Federal/State Program, your files must conform totally to this revenue procedure.

.06 An external label must appear on each mini-disk submitted for processing. The following information is needed:

(a) The transmitter's name.

(b) The five character Transmitter Control Code.

(c) The type of computer equipment that the data was prepared on.

(d) The type of drive utilized.

(e) The tax year of the data (e.g., 1985).

(f) Document types (e.g., 1099 INT).

(g) The total number of payers (from the "F" record).

(h) The total number of payees (from the "C" record).

(i) The total number of mini-disks in the file.

(j) A mini-disk number assigned by the transmitter.

(k) The sequence of each mini-disk (e.g., 001 of 008).

This information will assist IRS in processing the file or in locating a file, should the transmitter request that it be returned due to errors. IRS advises that special shipping containers not be used for transmitting data since it cannot be guaranteed that they will be returned.

SEC. 2. PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

.01 Identifies the payer and transmitter of the mini-disk and provides parameters for the succeeding Payee "B" Records. IRS computer programs rely on the absolute relationship between the parameters and data fields in the "A" Record and the data fields in the "B" Records to which they apply.

.02 The number of "A" Records appearing on a mini-disk will depend on the number of payers and the different types of returns being reported. After the header label on the mini-disk, the first record appearing in the file must be an "A" Record. For mini-disk filing, the actual record lengths for the "A" and "B" Records must agree with whatever is entered in mini-disk positions 29-31 and 32-34 of the "A" Record. A transmitter may include Payee "B" records for more than one payer on a mini-disk; however, each GROUP of Payee "B" Records must be preceded by an "A" Record. A single mini-disk may also contain different types of returns, but the types of returns must not be intermingled. A separate "A" Record is required for each type of return being reported. The initial record on a file must be an "A" Record.

RECORD NAME: PAYER/TRANSMITTER "A" RECORD

Mini-Disk Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
SECTOR 1
1	Record Sequence	1	REQUIRED. Must be a "1". It is used to sequence the sectors making up a Service Record.
2	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "A". Must be the second position of each PAYER/TRANSMITTER Record.
3	Payment Year	1	REQUIRED. Must be the right most digit of the year for which information is being reported (e.g., if payments were made in 1985, enter "5"). Must be incremented each year.
4-6	Mini-Disk Sequence Number	3	REQUIRED. Sequence number assigned by the Transmitter to each mini-disk starting with 001.

Mini-Disk Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
16	Blank	1	REQUIRED. Enter blank.
17	Combined Federal/State Filer	1	REQUIRED. Enter the appropriate code from the table below. Prior approval is required. A Consent Form 6847 must be submitted to IRS before tax information will be released to the states. Refer to Part A, Sec. 14.11 for money criteria. Not all states participate in this Program. If the Payer/Transmitter is not participating in the Combined Federal/State Program, enter blanks. (Refer to Part A, Sec. 14 for the requirements that must be met prior to actual participation in this program.) Forms 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B and W-2G cannot be filed on this Program. Code — Meaning 1 — Participating in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program blank — Not participating
18	Type of Return	1	REQUIRED. Enter appropriate code from table below: Type of Return — Code 1098 — 3 1099-A — 4 1099-B — B 1099-DIV — 1 1099-G — F 1099-INT — 6 1099-MISC — A 1099-OID — D 1099-PATR — 7 1099-R — 9 5498 — L W-2G — W
19-27	Amount Indicators	9	REQUIRED. In most cases, the boxes or Amount Indicators on paper information returns correspond with the Amount Codes used to file on magnetic media; however, should you notice discrepancies, please disregard them and program according to this revenue procedure for your returns filed on magnetic media. The amount indicators entered for a given type of return indicate type(s) of payment(s) which were made. Example: If position 18 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is "6" (for 1099-INT) and positions 19-27 are "123bbbbbb," this indicates that 3 payment amount fields are present in all of the following Payee "B" Records. The first payment amount field in the Payee "B" Record will represent Earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposit, etc., the second will represent Amount of forfeiture, and the third will represent Federal income tax withheld. Enter the Amount Indicators in ASCENDING SEQUENCE, left justify, filling unused positions with blanks. For any further clarification of the Amount Indicator codes, you may contact the service center or National Computer Center Magnetic Media Coordinators listed in Part A, Sec. 13.

	Amount Indicators Form 1099-G—Certain Government Payments		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-G: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Unemployment compensation 2 — State or local income tax refunds (see NOTE) 4 — Federal income tax withheld 5 — Discharge of indebtedness 6 — Taxable grants 7 — Agriculture payments
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-INT—Interest Income		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-INT: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposit, etc. 2 — Amount of forfeiture 3 — Federal income tax withheld 4 — Foreign tax paid (if eligible for foreign tax credit) 5 — U.S. Savings Bonds, etc.
	Amount Indicators Form 1099-MISC—Miscellaneous Income (See Notes 1, 2 and 3)		For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-MISC: Amount Code — Amount Type 1 — Rents 2 — Royalties 3 — Prizes and awards 4 — Federal income tax withheld 5 — Fishing boat proceeds 6 — Medical and health care payments 7 — Nonemployee compensation 8 — Direct sales "indicator" (see NOTE 1) 9 — Substitute payments in lieu of dividends or interest (see NOTE 2)

NOTE 1: Use Amount Code "8" to report direct sales of $5000 or more of consumer products on a buy-sell, deposit-commission, or other basis for resale. If not for resale, enter a "0" (zero) in mini-disk position 4 of the Payee "B" Record. Please refer to the "B" Record Document Specific Code for clarification. The use of Amount Code "8" actually reflects an indicator of direct sales and not an actual payment amount or amount code. The corresponding payment amount field in the Payee "B" record MUST be reflected as 0000000100. This does not mean that a payment of $1.00 was made or is being reported. The use of Amount Code "8" relates directly to mini-disk position 5, Document Specific Code and Note 2 of the Payment Amount Field in the Payee "B" Record.

NOTE 2: Brokers are subject to a new reporting requirement for payments received after 1984. Brokers who transfer securities of a customer for use in a short sale must use Amount Code 9 of Form 1099-MISC to report the aggregate payments received in lieu of dividends or tax-exempt interest on behalf of a customer while the short sale was open. Generally, for substitute payments in lieu of dividends, a broker is required to file a Form 1099-MISC for each affected customer who is not an individual. Refer to the 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498, and 1096" for detailed information. (The instructions are available from local IRS offices.)

NOTE 3: If you are reporting Excess Golden Parachute Payments, use paper forms 1099-MISC. Do not report Excess golden parachute Payments on magnetic media for tax year 1985. See Part A, Sec. 15 for a definition of an Excess Golden Parachute Payment.

Amount Indicators Form 1099-OID—Original Issue Discount

For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-OID:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Total original issue document (ratable) for the tax year covered by the return
2	Stated interest (the regular interest paid on this obligation without regard to any original issue discount)
3	Amount of forfeiture
4	Federal income tax withheld

Amount Indicators Form 1099-PATR—Taxable Distributions Received From Cooperatives

For Reporting Payment on Form 1099-PATR:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Patronage dividends
2	Nonpatronage distributions
3	Per-unit retain allocations
4	Federal income tax withheld
5	Redemption of nonqualified notices and retain allocations
6	Investment credit (See NOTE)
7	Energy investment credit (see NOTE)
8	Jobs credit (See NOTE)

NOTE: The amounts shown for Amount Indicators "6", "7" and "8" must be reported to the payee; however, since these amounts are not taxable, they need not be reported to IRS.

Amount Indicators Form 1099-R—Total Distributions from Profit-Sharing, Retirement Plans, Individual Retirement Arrangements, Etc. (See NOTE)

For Reporting Payments on Form 1099-R:

Amount Code	Amount Type
1	Amount includable as income (add amounts in codes 2 and 3)

(c) Sec. 9. PAYEE "B" RECORDS—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORM 1099-B.

(d) Sec. 11. PAYEE "B" RECORDS—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORM W-2G.

.02 The Payee "B" Record contains the payment information from the individual statements. When filing information documents on mini-disk(s), the format for the Payee "B" Records will vary in relation to the number of payment amount fields being reported. The number of payment amount fields will depend upon the number of Payment Amount Indicator Codes used in positions 19-27 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT, position 18 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record will be coded with a "6." If the Amount Indicators used to report this interest are Amount Codes "1," "2," and "3," then mini-disk positions 19-27 of the "A" Record will be coded "123bbbbbb" (b represents a blank position). To correspond with Amount Indicators "1," "2," and "3" of the "A" Record, the "B" Record will contain three payment amount fields. Mini-disk positions 32-41 of the Payee "B" Record will contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "1" (earnings from savings and loan associations, credit unions, bank deposits, bearer certificates of deposits, etc.); mini-disk positions 42-51 of the "B" Record would contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "2" (amount of forfeiture); and mini-disk positions 52-61 of the "B" Record would contain the payment amount to be reported for Amount Code "3" (Federal income tax withheld). The First Payee Name Line must begin immediately after the last payment amount that is used. In this example, the First Payee Name Line would begin in mini-disk position 61.

.03 All payee records must contain correct payee name and address information entered in the fields prescribed in this section. Any records containing an invalid TIN (SSN or EIN) and having no address data present will be returned for correction.

.04 IRS must be able to identify the surname associated with the TIN (SSN or EIN) furnished on a statement. The specifications below include a field in the payee records called "Name Control" in which the first four alphabetic characters of the payees' surname or last name are to be entered by the payers. The surname or last name should appear first in the First Payee Name Line of all Payee "B" Records; however, if your records have been developed using the first name first, IRS programs will accept this but, a blank must appear between the first and last name.

.05 If payers are unable to provide the first four characters of the surname, the Name Control Field may be left blank; however, compliance with the following will facilitate IRS computer programs in generating the Name Control.

(a) The surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record should always appear first. If however, you enter the first name first, you must leave a blank space between the first and last name.

(b) In the case of multiple payees, only the surname of the payee whose TIN (SSN or EIN) is shown in the Payee "B" Record, must be present in the First Payee Name Line. Surnames of any other payees in the record must be entered in the Second Payee Name Line.

.06 Provision is also made in these specifications for data entries required by state or local governments. This should minimize the Payer/Transmitter's programming burden should payers desire to report on tape to state or local governments. See Part A, Sec. 14, for the Combined Federal/State filing requirements.

.07 Those filers participating in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program must have 180 position sectors. Positions 127 and 128 in the Payee "B" Record Sector 2 or 3 must contain the appropriate state code for the state to receive the information. The file should also meet the money criteria described in Part A, Sec. 14.11. Do not code for the states unless prior approval to participate has been granted by IRS. See Part A, Sec. 14 for a list of the valid participating state codes. FORMS 1098, 1099-A, 1099-B AND W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM. Your files must meet all of the requirements specified in Part A, Sec. 14 in order to participate in this program.

SEC. 5 PAYEE "B" RECORDS—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORMS 1098, 1099-DIV, 1099-G, 1099-INT, 1099-MISC, 1099-OID, 1099-PATR, 1099-R AND 5498

.01 This section contains the general payment information from individual statements for Forms 1098, 1099-DIV, 1099-G, 1099-INT, 1099-MISC, 1099-OID, 1099-PATR, 1099-R and 5498.

.02 In most instances each Payee "B" Record described in this section will be composed of two sectors on the mini-disk positions 1-41 being a constant format and the variance occurring in positions 42-180 of the first sector and the entire second sector. In those instances where six or more payment amount fields are reported, each Payee "B" Record will be composed of three sectors on the mini-disk with positions 1-41 of the first sector being a constant format and the variance occurring in positions 42-180 of the first sector and the entire second and third sectors.

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD

Mini-Disk Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
SECTOR 1
1	Record Sequence	1	REQUIRED. Must be a "1". It is used to sequence the sectors making up a Service PAYEE Record.
2	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "B". Must be the second position of each PAYEE Record.
3-4	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which payments are being reported (e.g., if payments were made in 1985 enter "85"). Must be incremented each year.
5	Document Specific Code	1	REQUIRED for Forms 1099-R, 1099-MISC, and 1099-G. For Form 1099-R, enter the appropriate value for the Category of total IRA Distribution. For Form 1099-MISC, enter the appropriate value for Direct Sales. For Form 1099-G, enter the year of income tax refund. FOR ALL OTHER FORMS, ENTER BLANK.
	Category of Total Distribution (Form 1099-R only)		Use only for reporting on Form 1099-R to identify the Category of Total Distribution. Enter the applicable code from the table below. Code 7 below is not required for Amount Indicators 1, 2 and 3. "0" (zero) is not a valid code for Form 1099-R. Category — Code Premature distribution (other than codes 2, 3, 4, or 5) — 1 Rollover — 2 Disability — 3 Death — 4 Prohibited transaction — 5 Other — 6 Normal IRA, SEP or DEC distributions — 7 Excess contributions refunded plus earnings on such excess contributions — 8

If sale to the recipient of consumer products on a buy-sell, deposit commission, or any other basis for resale, have amounted t $5,000 or more, ENTER "1". If not for resale, enter "0" (zero) If you are filing 1099-MISC, with an Amount Indicator of "8" i the "A" Record, you must enter a code "1" or "0" in this field

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD—Continued

Mini-Disk Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
			In Part B, Sec. 4, information concerning the direct sales indicator can be found under Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, NOTE 1.
	Refund is for Tax Year (Form 1099-G only)		Use only for reporting the tax year for which the refund was issued. If the payment amount field associated with Amount Indicator 2, Income Tax Refunds, contains a refund, credit or offset that is attributable to an income tax which applies exclusively to income from a trade or business and is not of general application, then enter the ALPHA equivalent of the year of refund from the table below. Otherwise, enter the NUMERIC Year for which the Refund was issued.

Years for which Refund was Issued	Alpha Equivalent
1	A
2	B
3	C
4	D
5	E
6	F
7	G
8	H
9	I
0	J

6-7	Blank	2	REQUIRED. Enter blanks. (Reserved for IRS use). Mini-Disk position 6 is used to indicate a corrected return. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for specific instructions on how to file corrected returns using either magnetic media or paper forms.
8-11	Name Control	4	REQUIRED. Enter the first 4 letters of the surname of the payee. Surnames of less than four (4) letters should be left justified, filling the unused positions with blanks. Special characters and imbedded blanks should be removed. IF THE NAME CONTROL IS NOT DETERMINABLE BY THE PAYER, LEAVE THIS FIELD BLANK. A dash (–) or ampersand (&) are the only acceptable special characters.
12	Type of TIN	1	REQUIRED. This field is used to identify the Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) in positions 13-21 as either an Employer Identification Number, a Social Security Number, or the reason no number is shown. Enter the appropriate code from the table below:

Type of TIN	TIN	Type of Account
1	EIN	A business or an organization
2	SSN	An individual
9	SSN	The payee is a foreign individual and not a U.S. resident
blank	N/A	A Taxpayer Identification Number is required but unobtainable due to legitimate cause; e.g. number applied for but not received.

13-21	Taxpayer Identification Number	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9-digit Taxpayer Identification Number of the payee (SSN or EIN, as appropriate). Where an identification number has been applied for but not received or where there is any other legitimate cause for not having an identification number, enter blanks. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROS. Any record containing an invalid identification number in this field will be returned for correction.
22-31	Payer's Account Number for Payee	10	REQUIRED. Payer may use this field to enter the payee's account number. The use of this item will facilitate easy reference to specific records in the payer's file should any questions arise. DO NOT ENTER A TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER IN THIS FIELD. An account number can be any account number assigned by the payer to the payee (i.e., checking account, savings account, etc.). THIS NUMBER WILL HELP TO DISTINGUISH THE INDIVIDUAL PAYEE'S ACCOUNT WITH YOU AND THE SPECIFIC TRANSACTION MADE WITH THE ORGANIZATION, SHOULD MULTIPLE RETURNS BE FILED. This information will be particularly necessary if you need to file a corrected return. You are strongly encouraged to use this field. You may use any number that will help identify the particular transaction that you are reporting.
	Payment Amount Fields		The number of payment amounts is dependent upon and must agree with the number of Amount Indicators present in positions 19-27 of Sector 1 of the "A" Record. THE FIRST PAYEE NAME LINE MUST APPEAR IMMEDIATELY AFTER THE LAST PAYMENT AMOUNT INDICATED AS BEING USED. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT and you used only Amount Indicator "3" in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, then you will only use one ten position payment amount in the Payee "B" Record, right justified, and the First Payee Name Line will begin in position 42. Each payment field that you allow for, or use, must contain 10 numeric characters (see following NOTE). Do not provide a payment amount field when the corresponding Amount Indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is blank. Each payment amount must be entered in dollars and cents. Do not enter dollar signs, commas, decimal points, or NEGATIVE PAYMENTS (except those items that reflect a loss on Form 1099-B and must be negative overpunched in the units position). Example: If the Amount Indicators are reflected as "123bbbbbb", the Payee "B" Records must have only 3 payment amount fields. If Amount Indicators are reflected as "12367bbbb", the "B" Records must have only 5 payment amount fields. Payment amounts MUST be right-justified and unused positions MUST be zero-filled. NOTE 1: If any one payment amount exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total amount MUST be submitted for the Payee. NOTE 2: If you file 1099-MISC and use Amount Code "8" in the Amount Indicator field of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record you must enter 0000000100 in the corresponding Payment Amount Field. This will not represent an actual money amount; this is an amount code. (Refer to Part C, Sec. 2, NOTE 1, of the Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, for clarification.)

32-41	Payment Amount 1	10	REQUIRED. This amount is identified by the indicator in position 19, Sector 1, of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. This amount must always be present.
	Determine at this point the number of payment fields to be reported within the Payee "B" Record. This can be determined from the number of Amount Indicators appearing in positions 19-27 of Sector 1 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Following are the formats for completing positions 42-180 of SECTOR 1, positions 1-180 of SECTOR 2 and positions 1-180 of SECTOR 3 of the Payee "B" Record. Use the appropriate format as required.
42-81	First Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. The First Payee Name Line must appear immediately after the last payment amount indicated as being used. Do not enter address information in this field. Enter the name of the payee whose taxpayer identification number appears in positions 13-21 of SECTOR 1. If fewer than 40 characters are required, left justify aand fill unused positions with blanks. If more space is required for the name, utilize the Second Payee Name Line field below. If there are multiple payees, only the name of the payee whose Taxpayer Identification Number has been provided should be entered in this field. SEC. 7. PAYEE "B" RECORDS—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORM 1099-A

.01 This section contains the general payment information from individual statements for Form 1099-A. For detailed explanations of the 1099-A fields request a copy of the 1985 "Instructions for Form 1099 Series, 1098, 5498 and 1096," available from local IRS offices.

.02 For Form 1099-A, SECTOR 3 will be required if there is more than one payment field to be reported in the Payee "B" Record.

.03 FORM 1099-A CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM.

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD
FORM 1099-A

Mini-Disk Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
SECTOR 1
1	Record Sequence	1	REQUIRED. Must be a "1". Used to sequence the sectors making up a Service PAYEE Record.
2	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "B". Must be the second position of each PAYEE Record.
3-4	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which payments are being reported (e.g., if payments were made in 1985 enter "85"). Must be incremented each year.
5	Document Specific Code	1	REQUIRED. For Form 1099-A enter blank.
6-7	Blank	2	REQUIRED. Enter blanks. (Reserved for IRS use). Mini-Disk position 6 is used to indicate a corrected return. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for specific instructions on how to file corrected returns utilizing either magnetic media or paper forms.
8-11	Name Control	4	REQUIRED. Enter the first 4 letters of the surname of the payee. Surnames of less than four (4) letters should be left justified, filling the unused positions with blanks. Special characters and imbedded blanks should be removed. IF THE NAME CONTROL IS NOT DETERMINABLE BY THE PAYER, LEAVE THIS FIELD BLANK. A dash (—) or ampersand (&) are the only acceptable special characters.
12	Type of TIN	1	REQUIRED. This field is used to identify the Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) in positions 13-21 as either an Employer Identification Number, a Social Security Number, or the reason no number is shown. Enter the appropriate code from the table below: Type of TIN / TIN / Type of Account 1 / EIN / A business or an organization 2 / SSN / An individual 9 / SSN / The payee is a foreign individual and not a U.S. resident blank / N/A / A Taxpayer Identification Number is required but unobtainable due to legitimate cause; e.g. number applied for but not received.

13-21	Taxpayer Identification Number	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9-digit Taxpayer Identification Number of the payee (SSN or EIN, as appropriate). Where an identification number has been applied for but not received or where there is any other legitimate cause for not having an identification number, enter blanks. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROS. Any record containing an invalid identification number in this field will be returned for correction.
22-31	Payer's Account Number for Payee	10	REQUIRED. Payer may use this field to enter the payee's account number. The use of this item will facilitate easy reference to specific records in the payer's file should any questions arise. DO NOT ENTER A TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER IN THIS FIELD. Enter blanks if the Payer's Account Number for Payee is not to be entered in this field. An account number can be any account number assigned by the payer to the payee (i.e., checking account, savings account, etc.). THIS NUMBER WILL HELP TO DISTINGUISH THE INDIVIDUAL PAYEE'S ACCOUNT WITH YOU AND THE SPECIFIC TRANSACTION MADE WITH THE ORGANIZATION SHOULD MULTIPLE RETURNS BE FILED. This information will be particularly necessary if you need to file a corrected return. You are strongly encouraged to use this field. You may use any number that will help identify the particular transaction that you are reporting.
	Payment Amount Fields		The number of payment amounts is dependent upon and must agree with the number of Amount Indicators present in positions 19-27 of Sector 1 of the "A" Record. The First Payee Name Line must appear immediately after the last payment amount indicated as being used. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT and you used only Amount Indicator "3" in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, then you will only use one ten position payment amount in the Payee "B" Record, right justified, and the First Payee Name Line will begin in position 42. Each payment field that you allow for, or use, must contain 10 numeric characters (see following NOTE). Do not provide a payment amount field when the corresponding Amount Indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is blank. Each payment amount must be entered in dollars and cents. Do not enter dollar sign commas, decimal points, or NEGATIVE PAYMENTS (except those items that reflect a loss on Form 1099-B and must be negative overpunched in the units position). Example: If the Amount Indicators are reflected as "123bbbbbb", the Payee "B" Records must have only 3 payment amount fields. If Amount Indicators are reflected as "12367bbbb", the "B" Records must have only 5 payment amount fields. Payment amounts MUST be right-justified and unused portions MUST be zero-filled. NOTE 1: If any one payment amount exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total amount MUST be submitted for the Payee. NOTE 2: If you file 1099-MISC and use Amount Code "8" in the Amount Indicator field of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, you must enter 0000000100 in the corresponding Payment Amount Field. This will not represent an actual money amount; this is an amount code. (Refer to PART B, Sec. 4, NOTE 1, of the Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, for clarification.)

32-41	Payment Amount 1	10	REQUIRED. This amount is identified by the indicator in position 19, Sector 1, of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. This amount must always be present.

Determine at this point the number of payment fields to be reported within the Payee "B" Record. This can be determined from the number of Amount Indicators appearing in positions 19-27 of Sector 2 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Following are the formats for completing positions 42-180 of SECTOR 1, positions 1-180 of SECTOR 2 and positions 1-180 of SECTOR 3 of the Payee "B" Record. FOR FORM 1099-A SECTOR 3 WILL BE REQUIRED IF THERE IS MORE THAN ONE PAYMENT FIELD TO BE REPORTED IN THE PAYEE "B" RECORD. Use the appropriate format as required.

SEC. 11. PAYEE "B" RECORDS—FIELD DESCRIPTIONS FOR FORM W-2G

.01 This section contains the general payment information from individual statements for Form W-2G. for detailed explanations of the W-2G fields, see W-3G, Transmittal of Certain Information Returns, which is available at local IRS offices.

.02 When reporting information for form W-2G, the Payee "B" Records must contain 3 sectors.

.03 FORM W-2G CANNOT BE FILED UNDER THE COMBINED FEDERAL/STATE FILING PROGRAM.

RECORD NAME: PAYEE "B" RECORD
FORM W-2G

Mini-Disk Position	Field Title	Length	Description and Remarks
SECTOR 1
1	Record Sequence	1	REQUIRED. Must be a "1". Used to sequence the sectors making up a Service PAYEE Record.
2	Record Type	1	REQUIRED. Enter "B". Must be the second position of each PAYEE Record.
3-4	Payment Year	2	REQUIRED. Must be the last two digits of the year for which payments are being reported (e.g. if payments were made in 1985 enter "85"). Must be incremented each year.
5	Document Specific Code Type of Wager (Form W-2G only)	1	REQUIRED for W-2G. Use only for reporting the Type of Wager on Form W-2G. Category — Code Horse Race Track (or Off Track Betting of a Horse Track nature) — 1 Dog Race Track (or Off Track Betting of a Dog Track nature) — 2 Jai-alai — 3 State Conducted Lottery — 4 Keno — 5 Casino Type Bingo. DO NOT use this code for any other type of Bingo winnings (i.e. Church, Fire Dept. etc.). — 6 Slot Machines — 7 Any other types of gambling winnings. This includes Church Bingo, Fire Dept. Bingo, unlabeled winnings, etc. — 8
6-7	Blank	2	REQUIRED. Enter blanks. (Reserved for IRS use). Mini-Disk position 6 is used to indicate a corrected return. Refer to Part A, Sec. 10 for specific instructions on how to file corrected returns utilizing either magnetic media or paper forms.

FORM W-2G

8-11	Name Control	4	REQUIRED. Enter the first 4 letters of the surname of the payee. Surnames of less than four (4) letters should be left justified, filling the unused positions with blanks. Special characters and imbedded blanks should be removed. IF THE NAME CONTROL IS NOT DETERMINABLE BY THE PAYER, LEAVE THIS FIELD BLANK. A dash (–) or ampersand (&) are the only acceptable special characters.
12	Type of TIN	1	REQUIRED. This field is used to identify the Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) in positions 13-21 as either an Employer Identification Number, a Social Security Number, or the reason no number is shown. Enter the appropriate code from the table below: Type of TIN — TIN — Type of Account 1 — EIN — A business or an organization 2 — SSN — An individual 9 — SSN — The payee is a foreign individual and not a U.S. resident. blank — N/A — A Taxpayer Identification Number is required but unobtainable due to legitimate cause; e.g. number applied for but not received.
13-21	Taxpayer Identification Number	9	REQUIRED. Enter the valid 9-digit Taxpayer Identification Number of the payee (SSN or EIN, as appropriate). When an identification number has been applied for but not received or when there is any other legitimate cause for not having an identification number, enter blanks. DO NOT ENTER HYPHENS, ALPHA CHARACTERS, ALL 9s OR ALL ZEROS.
22-31	Payer's Account Number for Payee	10	REQUIRED. Payer may use this field to enter the payee's account number. The use of this item will facilitate easy reference to specific records in the payer's file should any questions arise. DO NOT ENTER A TAXPAYER IDENTIFICATION NUMBER IN THIS FIELD. Enter blanks if the Payer's Account Number for Payee is not to be entered in this field. An account number can be any account number assigned by the payer to the payee (i.e., checking account, savings account, etc.). THIS NUMBER WILL HELP TO DISTINGUISH THE INDIVIDUAL PAYEE'S ACCOUNT WITH YOU AND THE SPECIFIC TRANSACTION MADE WITH THE ORGANIZATION, SHOULD MULTIPLE RETURNS BE FILED. This information will be particularly necessary if you need to file a corrected return. You are strongly encouraged to use this field. You may use any number that will help identify the particular transaction that you are reporting.
	Payment Amount Fields		The number of payment amounts is dependent on the number of Amount Indicators present in positions 19-27 of Sector 1 of the "A" Record. The First Payee Name Line must appear immediately after the last payment amount indicated as being used. For example, if you are reporting 1099-INT and you used only Amount Indicator

			"3" in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, then you will only use one ten position payment amount in the Payee "B" Record, right justified, and the First Payee Name Line will begin in position 42. Each payment field that you allow for, or use, must contain 10 numeric characters (see following NOTE). Do not provide a payment amount field when the corresponding Amount Indicator in the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record is blank. Each payment amount must be entered in dollars and cents. Do not enter dollar signs, commas, decimal points, or NEGATIVE PAYMENTS (except those items that reflect a loss on Form 1099-B and must be negative overpunched in the units position). Example: If the Amount Indicators are reflected as "123bbbbbb", the Payee "B" Records must have only 3 payment amount fields. If Amount Indicators are reflected as "12367bbbb", the "B" Records must have only 5 payment amount fields. Payment amounts MUST be right-justified and unused portions MUST be zero-filled. NOTE 1: If any one payment amount exceeds "9999999999" (dollars and cents), as many SEPARATE Payee "B" Records as necessary to contain the total amount MUST be submitted for the Payee. NOTE 2: If you file 1099-MISC and use Amount Code "8" in the Amount Indicator field of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record, you must enter 0000000100 in the corresponding Payment Amount Field. This will not represent an actual money amount; this is an amount code. Refer to Part B., Sec. 2, NOTE 1, of the Amount Indicators, Form 1099-MISC, for clarification.)
32-41	Payment Amount 1	10	REQUIRED. This amount is identified by the indicator in position 19 of Sector 1 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. This amount must always be present.
	Determine at this point the number of payment fields to be reported within the Payee "B" Record. This can be determined from the number of Amount Indicators appearing in positions 19-27 of Sector 1 of the Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. Following are the formats for completing positions 42-180 of SECTOR 1, positions 1-180 of SECTOR 2 and positions 1-180 of SECTOR 3 of the Payee "B" Record. WHEN REPORTING INFORMATION FOR FORM W-2G THREE SECTORS MUST BE USED TO MAKE UP A PAYEE "B" RECORD. Use the appropriate format as required.
42-81	First Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. The First Payee Name Line must appear immediately after the last payment amount indicated as being used. Do not enter address information in this field. Enter the name of the payee whose Taxpayer Identification Number appears in positions 13-21 above. If fewer than 40 characters are required, left justify and fill unused positions with blanks. If more space is required for the name, utilize the Second Payee Name Line field below. If there are multiple payees, only the name of the payee whose Taxpayer Identification Number has been provided should be entered in this field. The names of the other payees should be entered in the Second Payee Name Line field.
82-121	Second Payee Name Line	40	REQUIRED. If the payee name requires more space than is available in the First Payee Name Line, enter the remaining portion of the name only in this field. If there are multiple payees, this field may be used for those payees' names who are not associated with the Taxpayer Identification Number in positions 13-21 above. Do

SEC. 13. END OF PAYER "C" RECORD

.01 The Control total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Adjust your programs accordingly.

.02 Write this record after the last payee "B" Record following the last Payer/Transmitter "A" Record. A mini-disk will contain more than one (1) End of Payer "C" Record if the last Payee "B" Record for more than one payer is reported on the same mini-disk.

.03 Each End of Payer "C" Record must contain a count of the number of Payee "B" Records immediately preceding the End of Payer "C" Record and following the preceding Payer/Transmitter "A" Record under which a Payer is reporting payments for a type of return. To illustrate:

(a) Single mini-disk; where all the records of a Payer for a particular type of return are reported on a single mini-disk, the last preceding Payer/Transmitter "A" Record would be the "A" Record immediately preceding the Payer's Payee "B" Records for which the End of Payer "C" Record has been written.

(b) Multiple mini-disk; where the reporting of a Payer for a particular type of return begins on one mini-disk and ends on another mini-disk, the last preceding Payer/Transmitter "A" Record would immediately precede all the Payee "B" Records on the diskette for which the Payer "C" Record has been written.

.04 Payers/Transmitters must verify the accuracy of the totals in the "C" Record and must enter the totals on the transmittal, Form 4804, which will accompany the shipment.

.05 The End of Payer "C" Record must be followed by a State Totals "K" Record or new Payer/Transmitter "A" Record for the next Payer (if any), or an End of Transmission "F" Record.

.01 The Control Total fields have been expanded from 12 to 15 positions. Adjust your programs accordingly.

.02 The State Totals "K" Record is a summary for a given payer and a given state in the Combined Federal/State Filing Program, used only when State Reporting approval has been granted.

.03 The "K" Record will contain the totals of the payment amount fields and the total number of payees filed by a given payer for a given state. The "K" Record(s) must be written after the "C" Record for the related "A" Record.

.04 There MUST be a separate "K" Record for each state being reported.

.05 Refer to Part A, Sec. 14 for the requirements and conditions that MUST be met to file on this Program.

PART D. BURROUGHS SUPER MINI-DISK II SPECIFICATIONS

SECTION 1. GENERAL

.01 The Burroughs Super Mini-Disk II is a flexible mylar disk with an iron oxide coating. The disk is 8 inches (20.3 cm) in diameter with a 1.5 inch (3.8 cm) center hole.

.02 There is one Index Hole which is used to indicate the beginning of a track on each side of the disk.

.03. Recorded data is encoded using the Miller Frequency Mode (MFM) technique. Data transferred between the disk and the processor is NOT encoded in any way. But serial data is written to the disk in a 180-byte sector format.

.04 Maximum bit density is 71 bits per inch.

.05 Track density is 150 tracks per inch.

.06 Data bytes per sector are 180.

.07 Data sectors per track are 60.

.08 Surfaces per disk are 2.

.09 When initializing the mini-disk, the name IRSTAX should be assigned to the mini-disk.

10. The file name in the mini-disk header label should be FED-MINI.

Rev. Proc. 85-49[1]

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

This revenue procedure modifies Rev. Proc. 82-61, 1982-2 C.B. 849, as modified by Rev. Proc. 83-74, 1983-2 C.B. 593 and Rev. Proc. 84-72, 1984-2 C.B. 735, by increasing the optional standard mileage rate for the business use of an automobile and for the operation of an automobile in connection with rendering gratuitous services to a charitable organization under section 170 of the Internal Revenue Code for 1985. This revenue procedure also states that depreciation is considered to be allowed at 8 cents a mile for 1985 if the optional method for computing the costs of business use of an automobile is used.

SEC. 2. PROCEDURE

.01. Paragraph (1)(a) of subsection .01 of section 3 of Rev. Proc. 82-61, which was modified by Rev. Proc. 83-74, is further modified to read as follows:

Subject to the conditions and limitations set forth in section 3.01(2) below, with respect to transportation expenses paid or incurred after December 31, 1984, deductions will be accepted if computed at a standard mileage rate of (a) 21 cents a mile for the first 15,000 miles of use each year for business purposes, and (b) 11 cents of mile for use for business purposes in excess of 15,000 miles per year.

.02. Paragraph (2)(b) of subsection .01 of section 3 of Rev. Proc. 82-61, which was modified by Rev. Proc. 83-74 (inadvertently cited (2)(a)) and Rev. Proc. 84-72, is further modified to read as follows:

[1]Also released as News Release IR-85-95, dated September 19, 1985.

In the case of automobiles placed in service for business purposes after December 31, 1979, and in which the optional method was used in 1980, 1981, 1982, 1983, 1984, or 1985, depreciation will be considered to have been allowed at the rate of 7 cents a mile for 1980 and 1981, 7.5 cents a mile in 1982, and 8 cents a mile in 1983, 1984, and 1985, except that if the "actual cost" method was used for one or more of those years the rates above will not apply to any year in which that method was used. This depreciation will act to reduce the basis of the automobile in determining adjusted basis as required by section 1016 of the Code. An automobile placed in service after December 31, 1979, with respect to which the optional method is used is considered to have a useful life of 60,000 miles of business use at the maximum standard mileage rate determined without reference to the age of the vehicle. After 60,000 miles of business use at the maximum standard mileage rate, the automobile will be considered fully depreciated. For purposes of this paragraph, an automobile will be considered to have been driven no more than 15,000 miles in any one year, even though the actual business mileage of the automobile may be greater.

.03. Paragraph 1 of subsection .02 of section 3 of Rev. Proc. 82-61 is amended to read as follows:

With respect to transportation expenses paid after December 31, 1979, for the operation of an automobile in connection with obtaining medical care under section 213 of the Code, deductions will be accepted if computed at a standard mileage rate of 9 cents a mile. The standard mileage rate of 9 cents a mile will also be accepted with respect to such transportation expenses paid or incurred as moving expenses under section 217. With respect to transportation expenses paid after December 31, 1984, for the operation of an automobile in connection with rendering gratuitous services to a charitable organization under section 170, deductions will be accepted if computed at a standard mileage rate of 12 cents a mile. For expenses paid after December 31, 1979, but before January 1, 1985, the standard mileage rate is 9 cents a mile. Allowance of the standard mileage rate for any of these purposes is subject to the conditions and limitations set forth in the applicable sections of the Code.

Rev. Proc. 85-50

SECTION 1. BACKGROUND

Rev. Proc. 85-1, 1985-1 C.B. 440, contains in section 16 the Internal Revenue Service's practice regarding the rendering of oral advice to taxpayers.

SEC. 2. PROCEDURE

Rev. Proc. 85-1 is modified in section 16 to read as follows:

.01 The Service does not issue rulings or determination letters on oral requests. However, personnel in the rulings division ordinarily will discuss with taxpayers or their representatives inquiries regarding: substantive tax issues; whether the Service will rule on particular issues; and questions relating to procedural matters about submitting ruling requests (including the application of section 9, of this revenue procedure, to a particular case). Any discussion of substantive issues will be at the discretion of the Service on a time-available basis, and will not be binding on the Service.

.02 A taxpayer may seek oral technical assistance from a Taxpayer Service Representative in a District Office or Service Center when preparing a return or report, under other established procedures. Oral advice is advisory only and the Service is not bound to recognize it in the examination of the taxpayer's return.

SEC. 3. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective October 7, 1985, the date of its publication in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

SEC. 4. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

Rev. Proc. 85-1 is modified.

26 CFR 601.602: Forms and instructions. (Also Part I, Sections 117, 4945; 1.117-1, 53.4945-4.)

Rev. Proc. 85-51

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to clarify Rev. Proc. 76-47, 1976-2 C.B. 670, and Rev. Proc. 80-39, 1980-2 C.B. 772, with regard to determining the number of employees' children who can be shown to be eligible recipients of employer-related educational grants or loans for purposes of the 10 percent test.

SECTION 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Rev. Proc. 76-47 provides guidelines to be used in determining whether a grant made by a private foundation under an employer-related educational grant program to a child of an employee of the particular employer to which the program relates is a scholarship or fellowship grant subject to the provisions of section 117(a) of the Code.

.02 Section 4 of Rev. Proc. 76-47 provides that if a private foundation's employer-related grant program satisfies seven conditions, and either a percentage test or a facts and circumstances test, the Service will assume that grants awarded under the program will be scholarship or fellowship grants subject to the provisions of section 117 of the Code. Section 4.08 of Rev. Proc. 76-47 provides that a program that awards grants to children of employees of a particular employer meets the percentage test if the number of grants awarded in any year to such children does not exceed 10 percent of the number of employees' children who can be shown to be eligible for grants (whether or not they submitted an application) in that year. An employee's child will be considered eligible only if that child meets all eligibility requirements imposed by the program and the requirements satisfy the conditions of section 4.03 of Rev. Proc. 76-47. Section 4.03 of Rev. Proc. 76-47 provides that, in the case of scholarships, the program must impose minimum eligibility requirements that limit the independent selection committee's consideration to those children of employees who meet the minimum standards for admission to an educational institution

(as defined in section 151(e)(4) of the Code) for which the grants are available. No persons will be considered eligible if they would not reasonably be expected to attend such an institution, however, even if they meet the minimum standards.

.03 Rev. Proc. 80-39 provides guidelines for determining whether educational loans made by a private foundation under an employer-related loan program are taxable expenditures under section 4945 of the Code.

.04 Section 4 of Rev. Proc. 80-39 provides that if a private foundation's employer-related loan program satisfies seven conditions, and either a percentage test or a facts and circumstances test, the Service will assume that loans awarded under the program will not be taxable expenditures under section 4945 of the Code. Section 4.10 of Rev. Proc. 80-39 provides that a program that awards loans to children of employees of a particular employer meets the percentage test if the number of loans awarded in any year to such children does not exceed 10 percent of the number of employees' children who can be shown to be eligible for loans (whether or not they submitted an application) in that year. An employee's child will be considered eligible only if that child meets all eligibility requirements imposed by the program and the requirements satisfy the conditions of section 4.05 of Rev. Proc. 80-39. Section 4.05 of Rev. Proc. 80-39 provides that the program must impose minimum eligibility requirements that limit the independent selection committee's consideration to those children of employees who meet the minimum standards for admission to an educational institution (as defined in section 151(e)(4) of the Code) for which the loans are available. No persons will be considered eligible if they would not reasonably be expected to attend such an institution, however, even if they meet the minimum standards.

SECTION 3. APPLICATION

The alternate 10 percent test under section 4.08 of Rev. Proc. 76-47 and section 4.10 of Rev. Proc. 80-39 is a safe harbor provision under which a private foundation may award educational grants or loans to 10 percent of the number of employees' children who can be shown to be eligible for a grant or loan in any year whether or not they applied for one. Therefore, application of the 10 percent test depends on whether the private foundation can determine how many employees' children are considered eligible, because the number of applications it received is not determinative. The eligibility requirements described in sections 4.03 and 4.05 or Rev. Proc. 76-47 and Rev. Proc. 80-39, respectively, are designed to ensure that, in determining how many employees' children are eligible, a private foundation only includes these persons who meet the minimum eligibility requirements imposed by the program and those persons who also meet the minimum standards for admission to an educational institution for which grants or loans are available.

Accordingly, for purposes of determining how many employees' children are eligible for a scholarship or loan under the 10 percent test, a private foundation may include as eligible only those children (1) who submit a statement in writing (or on whose behalf a statement is submitted by his/her authorized representative) or (2) for whom information is maintained sufficient to demonstrate, other than by statistical or sampling techniques, that (i) they meet the foundation's eligibility requirements; and (ii) they are enrolled in or have completed a course of study preparing them for admission to an educational institution at the level for which the scholarships or loans are available, have applied or intend to apply to such an institution, and expect, if accepted, to attend such an educational institution in the immediately succeeding academic year; or (iii) they currently attend an educational institution for which the scholarships or loans are available but are not in the final year for which an award may be made.

SEC. 4. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Rev. Proc. 76-47 and Rev. Proc. 80-39 are clarified.

26 CFR 601.602: Forms and instructions. (Also Part I, Section 6050H.)

Rev. Proc. 85-52

PART A. GENERAL

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

.01 The purpose of this revenue procedure is to supplement existing requirements for reproducing paper substitutes of Forms 1099 by adding Form 1098, Mortgage Interest Statement.

.02 This revenue procedure supplements Rev. Proc. 85-25, 1985-1 C.B. 558.

SECTION 2. APPLICATION FOR APPROVAL OF SUBSTITUTE FORMS 1098 COPY A

.01 Paper substitutes for Forms 1098 that totally conform to the specifications contained in this procedure may be privately printed without prior approval from the Service.

.02 Proposed substitutes not conforming to these specifications must be submitted for consideration by the Service according to instructions in Rev. Proc. 85-25.

SECTION 3. INSTRUCTIONS

.01 All definitions and instructions in Part A of Rev. Proc. 85-25 that apply to Forms 1099 (other than Forms 1099-DIV, INT, OID and PATR) also apply to Forms 1098.

.02 Due to the nature of Form 1098 all references in Part A of Rev. Proc. 85-25 to "recipient" or "payee/recipient" should be substituted with "payer" and references to "payer" should be substituted with "recipient".

.03 Statements to "payers" must follow the specifications in Section 8.05 of Revenue Procedure 85-25 for copies to recipients. They may not be combined with Forms 1099-DIV, INT, OID, and PATR.

.04 Rev. Proc. 85-25 instructions for magnetic media filing of Forms 1099 also apply to Forms 1098.

PART B. SUBSTITUTE FORM FORMAT REQUIREMENTS FOR FORMS 1098

SECTION 1. GENERAL

.01 All Forms 1099 format requirements in Parts B and D of Rev. Proc. 85-25 also apply to Forms 1098. In addition, ink colors must be OCR dropout brown Sinclair-Valentine J-22053 (or exact match) or OCR dropout maroon Sinclair-Valentine J-31859 (or exact match) for tax year 1985 Forms 1098 only.

.02 The form identifying number for Forms 1098 is "8181".

.03 The specifications for Copy A of Forms 1098 is provided on Exhibit A.

.04 The "Instruction for Interest Recipients" as it appears on the back of copies C of the official form need not be reproduced on each copy. If one copy is provided to the recipient with each order of forms, the requirement to provide the instructions will have been met.

SECTION 2. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Rev. Proc. 85-25 supplemented.

NOTES:

1. Vertical and horizontal measurements must be the same as the official 8'' width form.

2. The form identification number must consist of "8181" in OCR A font and placed in the same position as on the official form.

3. The printer's EIN must be printed in the botton margin of the face of each individual form of Copy A.

4. The titles for all numbered boxes for federally-required entries must correspond to the official form.

Rev. Proc. 85-53

PART A—GENERAL

SECTION 1. PURPOSE AND NATURE OF CHANGES

The purpose of this Revenue Procedure is to update and supersede Rev. Proc. 85-12, 1985-1 C.B. 500, that sets forth the requirements and conditions under which withholding agents, as defined in Section 2.01 below, may file Form 1042S information returns on magnetic tape.

For Tax Year 1985 Form 1042S has been revised. The most significant changes include the elimination of column (f) "Tax Released", consolidation of columns (e) "Amount of tax withheld" and (g) "Net Amount of tax withheld" into one column "Tax Withheld", and the addition of "Payer's name and employer identification number (if different from withholding agent's)".

The following changes have been included in this revenue procedure:

.01 The record size for all record types has been expanded from 393 positions to 450 positions.

.02 Part A, Section 3 .06 the mailing address for magnetic tape shipments has been changed.

.03 Part B, Section 2 .02 the definition of a Payer (as opposed to a Withholding Agent) has been included.

.04 Part B, Section 4 the references to the record length of the Transmitter "T" record have been changed from 393 positions to 450 positions.

.05 Part B, Section 4 Element 8, "MX" is no longer a valid State Code for the Transmitter's address.

.06 Part B, Section 4 Element 9, Zip Code of the Transmitting Agent, in the Transmitter "T" record has been expanded from 5 to 9 positions.

.07 Part B, Section 5 Element 7, Zip Code of the Withholding Agent, in the Recipient "Q" record has been expanded from 5 to 9 positions. This necessitates a shift in relative position for elements 8 and beyond in the Recipient "Q" record.

.08 Part B, Section 5 Element 10, Agent's ID Number, in the Recipient "Q" record has been expanded from 10 to 15 positions.

.09 Part B, Section 5 Element 11, Country Code list, Kampuchea has changed its name back to Cambodia, however the Country Code (CB) remains unchanged.

.10 Part B, Section 5 Element 28 in the Recipient "Q" record has been changed. Amount of Tax Released (element 28 last year) has been deleted and replaced with a new element "Payer's Name" consisting of 35 positions. For a definition of Payer, refer to Part B, Section 2 .02.

.11 Part B, Section 5 Element 29 in the Recipient "Q" record has been changed. Amount of Net Tax Withheld (element 29 last year) has been deleted and replaced with a new element "Payer's EIN".

.12 Part B, Section 5 Element 30, the reserved filler at the end of the Recipient "Q" record has been expanded to accommodate the increase in size of the Recipient "Q" record.

.13 Part B, Section 6, the references to the record length of the Withholding Agent "W" record have been changed from 393 positions to 450 positions.

.14 Part B, Section 6 Element 8, Zip Code of the Withholding Agent, in the Withholding Agent "W" record has been expanded from 5 to 9 positions. This necessitates a shift in relative position for elements 9 and beyond.

.15 Part B, Section 6 Elements 12, 13, and 14 in the Withholding Agent "W" record have been changed. "Total Tax Released" (Element 12 last year) and "Total Net Tax Withheld" (Element 13 last year) have been deleted and merged with last year's element 14 blank filler into a new element 12 consisting of blank filler.

.16 Part B, Section 7, the record length of the End of Reel "Z" record has been changed from 393 positions to 450 positions. Note that the format of the "Z" record is identical to the format of the "W" record as far as element positioning is concerned. Therefore, element 8 (Zip Code) will also expand in the "Z" record from 5 positions to 9 positions, and elements 12, 13, and 14 from last year's format have been merged into a new element 12 of blank filler.

.17 Part B, Section 8, the references to the record length of the End of Transmission "Y" record have been changed from 393 positions to 450 positions.

SEC. 2. APPLICATION FOR TAPE REPORTING

.01 A withholding agent is defined as any person or entity, U.S. or foreign, required to withhold U.S. tax on payments of income subject to withholding from sources within the United States as provided for in Chapter 3 of the Internal Revenue Code. A withholding agent may be an individual, partnership, corporation, trust, estate, government agency (Federal, State or local), association, or a tax-exempt foundation or organization.

.02 The Internal Revenue Service encourages any entities who must file information returns and who have facilities for submitting this information on magnetic tape to use this method of filing. Withholding agents filing Form 1042S information returns in the form of magnetic tape should also be aware of the current revenue procedures relating to magnetic tape reporting for wage and information documents, diskpack reporting for wage and information documents, and diskette reporting for wage and information documents. Copies of these revenue procedures are available from any Internal Revenue Service Center.

.03 Form 1042S statements may be filed on magnetic tape by withholding agents or by their agents. Tape reporting is not restricted to withholding agents with the ability to submit all their information on magnetic tape. A combination of tape records and paper documents is acceptable so long as there is no duplication or omission of documents.

.04 Withholding agents or their agents who desire to file statements in the form of magnetic tape must first file Form 4419, Application for Magnetic Media Reporting of Information. Mail the application to:

Director, Philadelphia Service Center,
Internal Revenue Service
P.O. Box 245
Bensalem, Pennsylvania 19020
Attention: Magnetic Media Coordinator.

The application must contain the following:

(a) Name, address, and Employer Identification Number (EIN) of person, organization or entity making the request.

(b) Name, title, and telephone number of person to contact regarding the request.

(c) An estimate of the number of Form 1042S statements to be reported in tape format, and the number, if any, to be reported on paper forms.

(d) Type and nature of equipment to be used to prepare tape, (i.e. manufacturer and model of main frame and tape drives, tape width (1/2", 3/4", etc.) density (character per inch), and recording mode (BCD, ASCII, EBCDIC, etc.).

(e) List of withholding agent(s) to be included in the file(s) if the requestor is a transmitter or Service Bureau that is filing for a group of withholding agents. This list must include each withholding agent's name, complete address (including Zip Code), and EIN. The list should be in EIN sequence.

(f) Signature of official responsible for the preparation of tax reports or his authorized agent.

.05 The Service will act on applications and notify applicants of authorization or disapproval within 30 days of receipt of applications.

.06 Generally, withholding agents using equipment compatible with the Service's can presume that their application will be approved. Compatible tape characteristics are shown in PART "B", Section 1.01. Where the capability to prepare several types of tapes exits, the Service prefers that compatible tapes be prepared.

.07 If withholding agents propose to submit convertible tapes, the Service will attempt to find conversion facilities. Generally, an application to file on magnetic tape will be disapproved only when the Service is unable to obtain facilities to convert a withholding agent's file to a compatible form.

.08 In general, once authorization to file on magnetic tape has been granted, such approval will continue in effect in succeeding years, providing that the requirements of this Revenue Procedure are met and there are no equipment changes by the withholding agent or transmitter. However, new applications are required:

(a) If the filers change from equipment producing compatible tapes to equipment producing convertible tapes.

(b) If the filers submit tapes that are not listed as either compatible or convertible.

(c) If the filers discontinue tape reporting for one or more years, then decide to resume this method of reporting.

SEC. 3. FILING OF TAPE REPORTS

.01 Packaging, shipping, and mailing instructions will be provided in the authorizing letter issued by the Service in response to an application for tape reporting.

.02 Withholding agents submitting a portion of their statements on magnetic tape and the remainder on paper forms, should file both magnetic tape records and paper documents at the Philadelphia Service Center, but in separate shipments.

.03 The withholding agent's Form 1042 tax return serves as the transmittal document for Form 1042S statements, including those on paper and on magnetic tape. For transmitters of Service Bureaus filing statements on tape for several withholding agents, separate Forms 1042 must be filed by each withholding agent included in the transmittal. Since the required Form 1042 is a tax return (with or without a remittance attached), it must be filed separately from the shipment of magnetic tape. Any additional documents required to be submitted should accompany Form 1042. (See instructions for Form 1042, U.S. Annual Return of Income Tax to Be Paid At Source under Chapter 3. Internal Revenue Code.)

.04 The dates prescribed for filing paper documents with the Service will also apply to magnetic tape filing. Requests for extensions of time for filing and related matters should be made to the Director, Philadelphia Service Center. If an extension has been granted by the Service, a copy of the letter granting the extension should be attached to the Form 1042.

.05 Enclose a transmittal in triplicate, in the first box of the tape shipment, with the following information:

(a) The complete name, address, and EIN of the transmitter of the tape file.

(b) Name, address, title, and telephone number of the person to contact regarding any tape file problem.

(c) The complete name and address to be used in returning the tape file.

(d) The manufacturer and model of the main frame and tape drives, the tape width, the density in characters per inch, and the recording code (BCD, Excess 3, Octal, etc.).

(e) The type of document being reported—i.e. Form 1042S.

(f) Total number of tape reels in the file.

.06 Ship to:

Internal Revenue Service Center
11601 Roosevelt Blvd.
Philadelphia, PA 19155
Attn: Magnetic Media Coordinator

Note on the address side of the shipment:

"EXPEDITE FORM 1042S STATEMENTS ON MAGNETIC TAPE, DELIVER UNOPENED TO TAPE LIBRARY.

.07 The magnetic tape specifications contained in PART "B" of this Revenue Procedure must be strictly adhered to. Deviations will not be permitted under any circumstances. All magnetic tape filings will be scanned for completeness of required fields, mathematical verification, and proper format. Tapes failing to meet specifications will not be processed, but will be returned to the transmitter for correction at the discretion of the Director, Philadelphia Service Center.

SEC. 4. PROCESSING OF TAPE STATEMENTS

.01 The Service will copy the information from the original tapes and will return the original tapes to the transmitter. Normally, tapes will be returned by September 15 of the year in which submitted. However, if the tapes submitted are unprocessable, and must be returned for correction prior to processing, they will be returned within six months of the receipt of acceptable tapes. We suggest that the withholding agent retain the original tape until the expiration of the statute of limitations for assessment.

.02 The Service will prepare the appropriate statements for transmittal to treaty countries.

SEC. 5. CORRECTED STATEMENTS

.01 The appropriate paper forms will normally be used if it is necessary to correct Recipient "Q" records in the magnetic tape files. Since corrected statements supersede information previously supplied, all required data fields must be completed. Annotate each form "Corrected" at the top. Corrected documents should be bundled separately from other paper documents. When correcting documents are shipped separately, an amended Form 1042 must be filed, also suitably annotated.

.02 If the withholding agent discovers that a large volume of records submitted have to be corrected, the service center magnetic tape coordinator should be contacted. He/She should ask that the original tape be returned so that the corrections can be made to it. If the service center has already processed the tape, paper documents must be prepared for the ones needing corrections.

SEC. 6. EFFECT ON PAPER DOCUMENTS

.01 Magnetic tape reporting to Internal Revenue Service eliminates the need for submission of paper Forms 1042S. However, withholding agents must continue to provide recipients with requisite information, although this need not be on a copy of Form 1042S.

.02 If only a portion of the statements are reported on magnetic tape and the remainder are reported on paper forms, those paper statements must be filed on the prescribed forms.

SEC. 7. DATA ENTRIES

.01 Since taxpayer identifying numbers are not required on all Forms 1042S (see specific Instructions for Withholding Agents, Copy C of the official Form 1042S), the specifications in PART "B" of this Revenue Procedure permit omission of such identifying numbers. Although identifying numbers are not always required for nonresident alien income recipients, the Service appreciates their being furnished when available.

.02 Recipient surnames are used to computer-generate Sort Names. Use an asterisk to indicate the beginning of the surname for this purpose. If the surname is the first name on the line, as may be the case for nationals of Asian countries, the asterisk is to be omitted. In the case of a partnership or joint ownership, or some other case where more than one individual is listed, asterisk only the first surname. A blank will always precede the asterisk when it is used, but no asterisk may be followed by a blank. Do not use an asterisk with corporate or any other business entity or governmental organization name, except partnerships or sole proprietorships.

.03 In case of multiple recipients, the name of the person whose identifying number has been provided should be placed before all other names.

.04 Sometimes the recipient identification recorded on the withholding agent's records is lengthy, and exceeds the 105 characters allotted in the Recipient Name Line and Supplemental Name Lines on the magnetic tape records. This is most common in the case of trusts or other types of fiduciary accounts. The first 105 characters of the recipient identification normally provide sufficient descriptive data for the Service's purposes. The Service encourages all agents to truncate or abbreviate lengthy recipient descriptions.

.05 All monetary amount fields must show dollars and cents (omit the decimal point). For example, $135.72 must be shown as 13572, and $100 must be shown as 10000. All money amount fields are positive and must not be signed in any fashion. All money amounts must be right-justified and zero filled. Do not truncate any money amount fields. If the amount is more than the allowed space, prepare a second "Q" record to show the difference.

SEC. 8. ADDITIONAL INFORMATION

Requests for additional copies of this Revenue Procedure, or requests for additional information on tape reporting, should be addressed to:

Internal Revenue Service
Post Office Box 245
Bensalem, Pennsylvania 19020
Attention: Magnetic Media Coordinator

PART "B"—MAGNETIC TAPE SPECIFICATIONS

SECTION 1. GENERAL

.01 These specifications prescribe the required format and content of the records to be included in the file, but not the methods or equipment to be used in their preparation. Usually, the Service will be able to process, without translation, any compatible tape file. To be compatible, a tape file must meet all of the following:

Type of Tape—1/2inch Mylar base, oxide coated

Interrecord Gap—

.75 inch for 556 or 800 bpi density 7-trac,

.6 inch for 800 bpi density 9-track,

.6 inch for 1600 bpi density,

.3 inch for 6250 bpi density 9-track

(a) When the Recording Mode is EBCDIC (Extended Binary Coded Decimal Interchange Code):

(1) Parity—Odd Parity

(2) Recording Density—800, 1600, or 6250 Densities

(3) 9 Channel

(b) When the Recording Mode is ASCII (American Standard Coded Information Interchange):

(1) Parity—Odd Parity

(2) Recording Density—800, 1600, or 6250 Densities

(3) 9 Channel

(c) When the Recording Mode is BCD (Binary Coded Decimal):

(1) Parity—Odd or Even Parity

(2) Recording Density—556 or 800 Densities

(3) 7 Channel or 9 Channel

.02 An acceptable tape file for each withholding agent will contain data records as follows:

(a) Single reel:

(1) a Transmitter "T" record; then

(2) one or more Recipient "Q" records followed by a specific Withholding Agent "W" record; then

(3) additional "Q" and "W" record sequences for other withholding agents as needed; then

(4) an End of Transmission "Y" record.

(b) Multiple Reels:

(1) a Transmitter "T" record at the beginning of each reel; then

(2) sequences of Recipient "Q" records followed with corresponding Withholding Agent "W" records; then

(3) an End of Reel "Z" record on every reel except the last; and

(4) an End of Transmission "Y" record ending the last reel.

(c) Notes:

(1) a sequence of Recipient "Q" records may be continued from one reel to the next if they apply to the same withholding agent, without the necessity of repeating the "W" record. The sequence might be, for example, QQQQZ (end of one reel); TQQQQW (beginning of next reel).

(2) the End of Reel "Z" record is identical to the Withholding Agent "W" record, except that it indicates the end of the reel, but not necessarily the end of a withholding agent's "Q'; records. For example, when end of reel will be reached before the end of an agent's "Q" records, the "Z" record will be used in lieu of a "W" record. The next tape reel will begin with a "T" record, followed by the remaining "Q" records for the withholding agent.

.03 Affix an external label to each tape with the following information:

(1) Name of Transmitter.

(2) Number of "Q" records on that reel.

(3) Density (556, 800, 1600 CPI, etc.).

(4) Channel (7 or 9).

(5) Recording Mode (EBCDIC, ASCII, etc.).

(6) Parity (odd or even).

(7) Manufacturer and model of mainframe and tape drives

(8) Sequence number of reel, and total reels in the file (i.e. 1 of 3, 2 of 4, etc).

.04 All records, including Header and Trailer labels (if used) must be transmitted at the same density.

.02 Definitions:

Element	Description
b	Denotes a blank position. For compatibility with Service equipment, if using BCD recording mode, use BCD bit configuration 010000 ("A" bit only) in even parity, 001101 ("841" bits) in odd parity.
Special Character	Any character that is not a numeral, a letter, or a blank.
Withholding Agent	Person or organization, including withholding agent, responsible for paying income and withholding taxes. The withholding agent is responsible for the completeness, accuracy, and timely submission of magnetic tape files.
Payer	Person or organization who is the originator of income and enters into a contractual agreement with the withholding agent for the purpose of disbursing income for the payer. For example, Corporation X is about to declare a dividend. Corporation X contracts Bank Y to calculate and distribute such dividends to recipients, and be responsible for withholding. Corporation X is considered the Payer and Bank Y is considered the Withholding Agent.
Transmitter	Person or organization preparing and filing tape files. May be the withholding agent or his agent.
Recipient	Person(s) or organization(s) receiving payments from a withholding agent.
Record	A group of related fields of information treated as a unit.
Blocked Records	Two or more records grouped together between interrecord gaps.
File	For the purpose of this Procedure, a file consists of all tape records submitted by a transmitter.
Reel	A spool of magnetic tape.
EIN	Employer Identification Number that has been assigned by the Service to the particular entity.
SSN	Social Security Number.

SEC. 2. CONVENTIONS AND DEFINITIONS

.01 Header Labels, Trailers Labels, Record Marks and Tape Marks are all optional. They may be used as required by the transmitter's equipment or programming. If used they must conform to the following standards:

(a) Header Labels must begin VOL1, VOL2, HDR1, HDR2, or 1HDR. If used, they must be the first record(s) on the reel immediately before the Transmitter "T" record. Header labels may not exceed 80 characters in length.

(b) Trailer Labels must begin 1EOR, 1EOF, EOF1, or EOR1. If used, they must be the last record(s) on the reel, after the "Z" or "Y" record and Tape Mark (if a Tape Mark is used). Trailer Labels may not exceed 80 characters in length.

(c) Record Marks, if used, may only follow the data portion of a record or block. All records are of uniform length, and record marks are not needed.

(d) Tape Marks, if used, must be IBM 001111 (Octal 17) in even parity. They always appear immediately after the "Z" or "Y" record. If Header and Trailers Labels are also used, the tape mark must follow the Header Label and must precede and/or follow the Trailers Label(s).

SEC. 3. RECORD LENGTH AND BLOCKING

.01 Tape records prescribed in the specifications may be blocked or unblocked, subject to the following:

(a) All data records are of a fixed length (450 positions).

(b) All records may be blocked, except Header and Trailer Labels.

(c) A block may not exceed 15,000 characters, although shorter blocks may be written as desired. If records are being blocked, but sufficient records are not available to fill a complete block, the block may either be "padded" with 9's to fill all unused positions or truncated after the last data record ("short block"). Do not pad the block with blanks, or create blank records (for example, Q followed by 449 blanks, etc.).

(d) Two forms of blocking are acceptable:

(1) Only "Q" Records are acceptable:

(2) All records, except Header and Trailer Labels, if used, are blocked. In this case, a "T" Record may only be the first record in the first block on the reel (first reel only); a "W" Record must follow all associated "Q" Records; and, "Y" or "Z" Records may only be the last record in the last block on the reel (only block padding (all 9's) could follow).

.02 The first position of each record indicates the record type:

Transmitter	T
Recipient	Q
Withholding Agent	W
End of Reel	Z
End of Transmission	Y

.03 The minimum file transmitted must consist of a Transmitter "T" record, a Recipient "Q" Record, a Withholding Agent "W" Record, and an End of Transmission "Y" Record.

SEC. 4. THE TRANSMITTER "T" RECORD

This record identifies the entity who prepares and transmits the magnetic tape file. The Transmitter and one of the withholding agents may be the same, but they need not be. The Transmitter "T" Record must be the first data record on a reel (preceded only by header labels, if any), and must appear on each reel in the file sent by the Transmitter. On multiple reel files the reel number must be incremented by 1 (one) for each tape reel after the first reel. Each "T" Record has a fixed length of 450 positions. The elements of data prescribed for each "T" Record are as follows:

Element	Positions	Title	Description
1	1	Record Type	Enter letter "T"
2	2 & 3	Tax Year	Enter the last two digits of the year for which income and withholding is being reported. All recipient "Q" and transmitter "T" Records on the file for every withholding agent must report payments for this year, and this year only. Transmit separate Forms 1042 and tape files for different tax years.
3	4 & 5	Reel Number	The two-digit serial number assigned by the Transmitter to this reel, starting with 01. If Header Labels are used, this should be the same as the Reel Sequence Number.
4	6–14	EIN	Enter the Employer Identification Number of the Transmitter. Omit hyphen.
5	15–54	Transmitter Name	Enter name of submitter of file; left justify and blank fill. Abbreviate if necessary to fit 40-character limit. Omit punctuation marks except hyphens and ampersands.
6	55–94	Street Address	Enter Street Address, PO Box, or other location of Transmitter. Left justify and blank fill. Abbreviate as needed to fit 40-character limit.
7	95–114	City	Enter City, Town, APO/FPO, etc. of Transmitter. Left justify and blank fill. Abbreviate to fit 20-character limit.
8	115 & 116	State Code	Enter two-letter PO Code as shown in the list below only. Do not spell out any state name.

(1) For other Foreign countries use XX

(2) APO & FPO addresses must show a city, state, and Zip. Do not use "XX" for APO & FPO: the four permissible State codes are "NY", "CA", "WA", and "FL".

Elements	Positions	Title
9	117–125	ZIP Code
10	126–450	Blanks

Description

Enter the Zip Code of the Transmitter for all U.S., U.S. Territory or possession, APO/FPO addresses. For Transmitters using a 5 digit zip code, enter the zip code in the left most 5 positions and zero fill the remaining 4 positions. For Transmitters outside the U.S. enter nine zeros only. DO NOT blank fill. Blank fill the rest of the "T" Record.

Blank fill the rest of the "T" Record.

SEC. 5. RECIPIENT "Q" RECORD

This Record contains complete name and address data for both Withholding Agent and Recipient of Income, together with all the particulars of the income paid and tax withheld. Complete Withholding agent data is required because each Recipient "Q" Record is treated as if it were a separate Form 1042S, and is processed independently of other records. Since the "Q" Record is restricted to one type of income only, it may be necessary to write more than one "Q" Record (up to 23) for any given individual income recipient, who may have received income of more than one type. All recipient "Q" Records for a particular Withholding Agent must be written before the corresponding Withholding Agent "W" Record, and before "Q" Records for another Withholding Agency may begin. Any order of "Q" Records within those belonging to a given Withholding Agency may be used (for example, they may be sorted alphabetically by surname, or by country code, or by country of the mailing address, etc.) at the convenience of the Transmitter or Withholding Agent, since the "Q" Records are fully independent. All "Q" Records have a fixed length of 450 positions. All Elements are required unless otherwise stated.

Element	Positions	Title
1	1	Record Type
2	2–10	Agent EIN
3	11–45	Agent Name
4	46–80	Agent Address
5	81–100	City
6	101 & 102	State Code
7	103–111	Zip Code

Description

Enter Q only.

Enter the 9-digit Employer Identification Number of the Withholding Agent. Omit the hyphen.

Enter the name of the Withholding Agent up to the limit of 35 characters. Abbreviate as needed, omitting punctuation Left justify and blank fill.

Enter Street address, PO Box, or other location of the Agent to a limit of 35 characters. Abbreviate as needed, omitting punctuation. Left justify and blank fill.

Enter the city or town (or other locality name) up to the limit of 20 characters. Left justify and blank fill.

Enter the two-character alphabetic code in the list in Sec. 4., above. DO NOT use CD (Canada), MX (Mexico), or XX (Other foreign country). If the state is not a U.S. state, blank fill this field and use the Country Code field (Element 11) to identify the foreign address. Do not spell out any state name.

Enter 9 numeric characters for all U.S. Addresses (including territories, possessions, and APO/FPO). If a 5 digit zip code is used, enter the zip code in the leftmost

Element	Positions	Title	Description
			5 positions and zero fill the remaining 4 positions. Zero fill for addresses outside the U.S.
8	112	Account Type Code	Enter "1" for U.S. business or organization; Element 9 must have an EIN. Enter "2" for U.S. citizen or resident alien; Element 9 must have SSN. Enter "3" for nonresident alien persons, businesses, or organizations. Element 9 should contain an EIN or SSN if one is available. Enter "4" if "1" or "2" applies, but an SSN or EIN is not available for a legitimate reason; for example, a number has been applied for but not received.
9	113–121	TIN	Enter the recipient's U.S. identification number; if Element 8 has a "1" you must enter an EIN; if Element 8 has a "2" you must enter an SSN; if Element 8 has a "3", enter an EIN or SSN if available—otherwise enter blanks; if Element 8 has a "4" you must enter blanks.
10	122–136	Agent's ID Number	Enter the account number assigned by the Withholding agent for this recipient up to a maximum of 15 positions. This number is used to facilitate identification of the specific record if there is any correspondence. Left justify and blank fill. This Element will be all blank if account numbers are not assigned. This field may contain numeric or alphabetic characters, blanks, or hyphens.
11	137 & 138	Country Code	Enter two alphabetic characters from the list below which represents the official country for which Tax Treaty benefits are based. This may or may not be the same as the country given in Element 20, below. Entry of a true country code is mandatory. "OC" (country unknown or not identified) is to be used with great reluctance. THE TAPE FILE WILL BE RETURNED FOR CORRECTION AT THE DISCRETION OF THE SERVICE CENTER DIRECTOR IF A SUBSTANTIAL NUMBER OF "Q" RECORDS SHOW COUNTRY CODE "OC". WHENEVER COUNTRY CODE "OC" IS USED, THE RATE OF TAX WITHHELD MUST EQUAL 30%.

Element	Positions	Title	Description
12	139–173	1st Name Line	Enter full name of recipient, or if there are more than one, the name of the first recipient only. Use an asterisk to indicate the surname as shown in Section 7.02 above. Valid characters are alphabetic, numeric, ampersand (&), hyphen(-), slash(/), asterisk(*), or blank. A name MUST be entered here; if the recipient is a numbered bank account, and the true recipient is not known, the account number must be supplied here. THE TAPE FILE WILL BE RETURNED FOR CORRECTION AT THE DISCRETION OF THE SERVICE CENTER DIRECTOR IF A SUBSTANTIAL NUMBER OF "Q" RECORDS SHOW A BLANK 1st NAME LINE OR AN INVALID 1st NAME LINE. Left justify and blank fill.
13	174–208	2nd Name Line	Enter supplementary name information of the recipient on this line. Use this line for additional names (e.g. of partners or joint owners), for trade names, stage names, aliases. Use this line also for "care of", "via", or "through" information. Valid characters are the same as in the 1st name line, except for the asterisk(*) which is invalid here, and the percent(%) which is valid in the first position only (as shorthand for "in care of"). If no additional name data is to be provided, blanks are to be inserted. Left justify and blank fill.
14	209–243	3rd Name Line	Enter further name data if applicable; otherwise blank fill. Specifications are precisely as for the 2nd Name Line. See Street Address, below.

NOTE: 105 total characters are available for name information. The Service encourages full identification of nonresident alien persons and organizations because data is furnished to their governments in accordance with tax treaties and exchange of information agreements.

15	244–278	Street Address	Enter the recipient's full street address. Valid characters are the same as in the 2nd Name Line except that the percent is not valid. If the street, building, military installation or other name is too long for the 35-character allotment of this element, use the 3rd Name Line as the 1st Street Address Line, and continue on this line as a 2nd Street Address line. This line may be all blank, but only for legitimate reasons; for example, if the recipient is from a small town or inlet or other place where a town or island name is sufficient to enable mail to be received. left justify and blank fill.

Element	Positions	Title	Description
16	279–303	City	Enter the name of City, Town, Village, Municipality or rural place of residence of the recipient. Valid characters are as in street address. Left justify, and blank fill. For U.S. military installations enter one of the following: APO New York — FPO New York APO San Francisco — FPO San Francisco APO Seattle — FPO Seattle APO Miami — FPO Miami The name of the installation or ship may not be entered here, but should be in the Street Address Line.
17	304–318	Province Name	Enter here the name of the Province, Foreign State (but not the U.S. State), County, Shire, District, Region, or other political subdivision. For many countries the province (or other political subunit is an important part of the postal address. For Canada the Province MUST be given here; a Canadian province must be expressed as a two-character code from the Canadian Province Code List below. No other abbreviations may be used, nor may the Canadian Province name be written out in full. If a Province (or other political subunit) is not available, blank fill this element. Valid characters are as in the street address. Left justify, blank fill.

18	319–327	Postal Code	Enter the Foreign or U.S. Postal Code (ZIP Code), if available. Withholding Agents should make an effort to obtain postal codes, especially for the following countries: Belgium, Canada, France, Germany, Italy, Spain, Switzerland, Netherlands, and United Kingdom. For U.S. addresses (including all possessions) a ZIP Code must be given. All postal codes should be left justified and blank filled. Alphabetic, numeric, and blank characters only are allowed here. Do not omit any blanks that may appear in the Zip Code.
19	328 & 329	State Code	For all U.S. addresses enter the correct two-letter code as prescribed for Post Office use. The state code must be present for all U.S. addresses, including territories and APO/FPO. Leave blank for non-U.S. addresses. See list in Section 4, above.
20	330–349	Country Name	Enter the unabbreviated name of the recipient's country. Omit political titles such as "People's Republic Of",

Element	Positions	Title	Description
			"Kingdom of", etc. Use the English Language name, as opposed to the native language name. For example, use "Finland" and not "Suomi". Leave this field blank for all U.S. addresses, including territories, and APO/FPO. Left justify and blank fill.
21	350 & 351	Income Code	Enter the two digit income code from the following list. Valid range is 01–23. If a given recipient receives more than one kind of income, additional "Q" records must be prepared, since only one income code may be shown per "Q" record.

Income Code List

01	Interest paid by U.S. obligators—general
02	Interest on real property mortgages
03	Interest paid to a controlling foreign corporation
04	Interest paid by foreign corporations (U.S. Agent)

23	354—364	Gross Income Paid	Enter dollars and cents up to 11 characters. Do not enter decimal point. Right justify and zero fill. An income amount other than zero must be shown. For whole dollar amounts, the cents must be shown by zeros. For example, $1500 should be shown as 00000150000 where the leftmost 5 zeros are "filler" and the rightmost 2 zeros represent cents.
24	365	Exemption Code	Enter the one-digit exemption code from the list below. If

			the rate of tax shown is 00%, enter the code of 1-4 that applies. If the rate of tax shown is other than 00%, enter a zero in this field. Code Description Zero No exemption claimed, rate of tax is above 00% 1 Income is effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business (Form 4224 must be attached to Form 1042) 2 Income is exempt from tax by th Internal Revenue Code 3 Income is non-U.S. sourced 4 No withholding per treaty for this type of income
25	366	Correction Indicator	Enter the one position code to identify if this return is the original issuance, an amendment to a previously submitted return, or a total replacement to a previously submitted return. Code Description Zero Original return R Replacement return A Amended return
26	367 & 368	Rate of Tax	Enter two-digit tax rate. Do not use percent signs or decimal points. A valid rate must be shown. For fractional rates, drop the fraction (e.g. for 12½ use 12, and for 27½ use 27). Valid tax rates are: 00 02 04 05 10 12 14 15 20 25 27 30 Note that when an exemption code of 1-4 is used for element 24, the Rate of Tax must be zero.
27	369–379	Amount of Tax Withheld	Enter in dollars and cents the amount of tax withheld, if any. An amount must be shown if the Rate of Tax is greater than 00, or if income is not otherwise exempt from withholding. Specifications are the same as for Element 23 (Gross Income Paid). Right justify and zero fill.
28	380–414	Payer's Name	Enter the name of the Payer of Income, if different from the Withholding Agent, up to the limit of 35 characters Abbreviate as needed, omitting punctuation. Left justify and blank fill. If withholding Agent and payer are one in the same, blank fill Payer Name.
29	415–423	Payer's EIN	Enter the 9 digit Payer's Employer Identification Number if element 28, Payere Name, is significant. Blank fill if unknown or Payer Name is blank.
30	424–450	(Reserved)	Blank Fill.

NOTE: All money fields must be mathematically verified by the transmitter before being sent to the Service.

SEC. 6. WITHHOLDING AGENT "W" RECORD

Enter a "W" record after the last "Q" record submitted for a particular Withholding Agent. The "W" record serves as a summary of the preceding "Q" record data, and enables the Service to double-check the correctness of information received. Several "W" records for different withholding agents may appear on the same Transmitter's file. Also, the "W" record may refer to "Q" records on more than one reel, provided all of the preceding "Q" records are for the same withholding agent. A "W" record may only be followed by new Recipient "Q" records for the next Withholding Agent, if any, or by an End of Transmission "Y" record. The "W" record cannot be followed by a tape mark. Each "W" record has a fixed length of 450 positions. All elements of data in the "W" record are required as follows:

Element	Positions	Title	Description
1	1	Record Type	Enter the letter "W".
2	2 & 3	Payment Year	Enter the last two digits of the calendar year for which income and withholding are being reported. All recipient "Q" records must report payments for this year only. Different tax years may not appear on the same file.
3	4–12	EIN	Enter the 9 digits of the Employer Identification Number of the Withholding Agent. Omit the hyphen.
4	13–47	Agent Name	Enter the name of the Withholding Agent, up to the limit of 35 characters. Abbreviate as needed, omitting punctuation. Left justify and blank fill.
5	48–82	Agent Address	Enter the street address, P.O. Box, or other location of the withholding agent to a limit of 35 characters. Abbreviate as needed, omitting punctuation. Left justify and blank fill.
6	83–102	City	Enter the city, town, or other locality name up to the limit of 20 characters. Left justify and blank fill.
7	103–104	State	Enter the two-character alphabetic code from the list in Section 4 above.
8	105–113	Zip Code	Enter 9 numeric characters for all U.S. addresses (including territories, possessions, and APO/FPO). For 5 digit zip codes, left justify and zero fill. Zero fill for addresses outside the U.S.
9	114–121	"Q" Record Count	Enter the total number of "Q" records for this withholding agent; that is, the total count of "Q" records following the last "W" record, or if this is the first "W" record on the file, the total number of "Q" records since the "T" record. The presence of a "Z" or "T" record does not interrupt the count, which may therefore include consecutive "Q" records on more than one tape reel.
10	122–134	Total Gross Amount Paid	Enter the sum of all gross amounts paid in all "Q" records, counted in Element 9 above. Zero fill and right justify. Do not "round off" this total, since it is used as a "hash total" check on the "Q" records.
11	135–147	Total Tax Withheld	Enter the sum of all tax withheld amounts from all "Q" records counted in Element 9 above. Right justify, zero fill.
12	148–450	Blank fill	Blank fill up to the total of 450 characters.

SEC. 7 END OF REEL "Z" RECORD

End every reel of a file, except the last reel, with an End of Reel "Z" record. A "Z" record may only appear as the last data record of a reel. If records are blocked, the "Z" record must be the last data record in the last block on the reel, but padding records (all 9's) may follow to fill the block. The "Z" record is identical in format to the "W" record. The "Z" record will replace the "W" record in every case where the "W" record would oridinarily fall last on the reel; that is, when all "Q" records for a particular withholding agent have been completed, and reel-end is reached. The "Z" record may only be preceded immediately by a "Q" record, and may only be followed by Trailer labels, if any. Elements of the "Z" record differ from the same elements of the "W" record as follows: (1) Element 1 Record type, will be "Z" instead of "W"; (2) Element 9, total Number of "Q" records, will include a count of all "Q" records since the last preceding "W" record or "T" record; (3) Elements 10 and 11 will likewise total corresponding amounts on "Q" records since the preceding "W" or "T" record.

SEC. 8 END OF TRANSMISSION "Y" RECORD

End the last reel on a file with an End of Transmission "Y" record. The "Y" record may only be preceded by a "W" record. It may only be followed by a tape mark or tape mark and a Trailer Label, if used. The "Y" record will count the total number of withholding agents in the transmission, and the total number of tape reels in the file. The "Y" record has a fixed length of 450 positions, and all elements listed are required.

Element	Positions	Title	Description
1	1	Record Type	Enter letter "Y"
2	2–4	Withholding Agent Count	Enter the total number of withholding agents on this file. This count will be the same as the total number of "W" records. Right justify and zero fill.
3	5–7	Reel Count	Enter the total number of reels for this transmission. Right justify and zero fill.
4	8–450	Blank fill	Blank fill up to the end of the record.

SEC. 9. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

This Revenue Procedure supersedes Rev. Proc. 85-12, 1985-1 C.B. 500.

26 CFR 601.204: Changes in methods of accounting.
(Also Part 1, Sections 446, 472; 1.446-1, 1.472-6.)

Rev. Proc. 85-54

SECTION 1. PURPOSE AND SCOPE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide a procedure by which taxpayers that use the last-in, first-out method of accounting for inventory (LIFO) and that issued nonconforming financial statements can automatically discontinue the use of the LIFO inventory method for their first tax year beginning on or after July 18, 1984, because of the enactment of section 95 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (the Act).

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

.01 Section 472(c) of the Internal Revenue Code requires a taxpayer using the LIFO inventory method to use no other procedure in inventorying its goods to ascertain the income, profit, or loss of the first tax year for which the LIFO inventory method is to be used, for the purpose of a report or statement covering such tax year to shareholders, partners, or other proprietors, or to beneficiaries, or for credit purposes. Subsection (e) extends this conformity requirement to subsequent tax years.

.02 In Insilco Corp. v. Commissioner, 73 T.C. 589 (1979), nonacq., 1982-1 C.B. 1, aff'd No. 2231-77 (2d Cir. 1980), three subsidiaries used the LIFO inventory method to compute their income for their financial reports. The subsidiaries issued these financial reports to their parent company. The parent company, however, reported the subsidiaries' earnings in its consolidated financial statements using a non-LIFO inventory method. The Tax Court held that this situation did not violate the LIFO conformity provisions of section 472(e) of the Code.

.03 Section 95(a) of the Act added a new subsection, (g), to section 472 of the Code. Section 472(g)(1), effective for tax years beginning on or after July 18, 1984, provides that all members of the same group of financially related corporations shall generally be treated as one taxpayer for purposes of section 472(c) and 472(e)(2). Section 472(g)(2) defines the term "group of financially related corporations" as (A) any affiliated group as defined in section 1504 determined by substituting "50 percent" for "80 percent" each place it appears in section 1504(a) and without regard to section 1504(b), and (B) any other group of corporations which consolidate or combine for purposes of financial statements.

.04 The Senate Committee on Finance, 98th Cong., 2d Sess., Deficit Reduction Act of 1984, Explanation of Provisions Approved by the Committee on March 21, 1984, 487 (Comm. Print 1984), expresses an expectation that taxpayers who elect to change from the LIFO method for tax purposes as a result of the enactment of section 472(g) will be allowed by the Service to spread over a period not to exceed four years any adjustments required under section 481 of the Code.

.05 Section 1.472-6 of the Income Tax Regulations provides that if a taxpayer is granted permission by the Commissioner to discontinue the use of the LIFO inventory method of taking inventories, and thereafter to use some other method, or if the taxpayer is required by the Commissioner to discontinue the use of the LIFO inventory method by reason of the taxpayer's failure to conform to the requirements detailed in section 1.472-2 (concerning adoption and use of the LIFO inventory method), the inventory of the specified goods for the first tax year affected by the change and for each tax year thereafter shall be taken:

(a) In conformity with the method used by the taxpayer under section 471 in inventorying goods not included in its LIFO inventory computations; or

(b) If the LIFO inventory method was used by the taxpayer with respect to all of the taxpayer's goods subject to the inventory, then in conformity, with the inventory method used by the taxpayer prior to the taxpayer's adoption of the LIFO inventory method; or

(c) If the taxpayer had not used inventories prior to adoption of the LIFO inventory method and had no goods currently subject to inventory by a method other than the LIFO inventory method, then in conformity with such inventory method as may be selected by the taxpayer and approved by the Commissioner as resulting in a clear reflection of income; or

(d) In any event, in conformity with any inventory method to which the taxpayer may change pursuant to application approved by the Commissioner.

.06 Section 446(e) of the Code and section 1.446-1(e)(2)(i) of the regulations state that, except as otherwise provided, a taxpayer must secure the consent of the Commissioner before changing a method of accounting for federal income tax purposes. Section 1.446-1(e)(3)(i) provides that except as otherwise provided in section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii), in order to secure the Commissioner's consent, the taxpayer must file an application on Form 3115, Application for Change in Accounting Method, with the National Office within 180 days after the beginning of the tax year in which the taxpayer desires to make the change. Section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii) provides that, notwithstanding section 1.446-1(e)(3)(i), the Commissioner may prescribe administrative procedures, subject to such limitations, terms, and conditions as he deems necessary to obtain his consent, to permit taxpayers to change their accounting methods to an acceptable method consistent with applicable regulations.

.07 Section 481(a) of the Code provides that if a taxpayer's taxable income for any tax year is computed under a method of accounting different from the method used for the preceding tax year, then there shall be taken into account those adjustments which are determined to be necessary solely by reason of the change in order to prevent amounts from being duplicated or omitted. Section 481(c) provides that in the case of any change described in subsection (a), the taxpayer may, in such manner and subject to such conditions as the Secretary may by regulations prescribe, take the adjustments required by subsection (a)(2) into account in computing the tax for the tax year or years permitted under such regulations.

SEC. 3. APPLICATION

.01 Consent. In accordance with section 1.446-1(e)(3)(ii) of the regulations, the 180-day rule is waived, and under section 1.446-1(e)(2)(i) consent is hereby granted to taxpayers to change from the LIFO method of accounting for inventory to another permissible method. This consent is given only to those taxpayers who now choose to discontinue using the LIFO inventory method because of the enactment of section 472(g) of the Code. Such consent is granted for the first tax year beginning on or after July 18, 1984, and the change shall be made in accordance with the provisions of this revenue procedure, including the adjustment under section 481(a) described in section 3.04 below.

.02 Change in accounting method. Such a change is a change in method of accounting within the meaning of sections 446 and 481 of the Code. Consent to discontinue the use of the LIFO inventory method and change to another acceptable method of inventory accounting will be granted automatically subject to the requirements of section 1.472-6 of the regulations and the provisions of this revenue procedure.

.03 Year of change. Pursuant to the consent granted in section 3.01 above, the taxpayers to whom this revenue procedure applies and who choose to change from the LIFO inventory method of accounting for inventory must make the change on their federal income tax return for their first tax year beginning on or after July 18, 1984.

.04 Section 481(a) adjustment. An adjustment is required to prevent amounts of income and deductions from being duplicated or omitted within the meaning of section 481 of the Code and the regulations thereunder when, pursuant to the provisions set forth in this revenue procedure, the change in method of accounting is made. That adjustment, whether positive or negative, is referred to as the "section 481(a) adjustment." It shall be taken into account in computing taxable income and in computing corporate earnings and profits. As to taxable income, the adjustment is taken into account in the manner provided in sections 3.05 and 3.06 below. As to corporate earnings and profits, the adjustment is taken into account in the manner provided in Rev. Proc. 79-47, 1979-2 C.B. 528. The change in method of accounting shall be considered to be a change in method of accounting initiated by the taxpayer.

.05 Section 481(a) adjustment period.

(1) The appropriate period for taking into account the section 481(a) adjustment, whether positive or negative, referred to in section 3.04 is to be determined as follows:

(a) When the entire net amount of the section 481(a) adjustment is attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change (first preceding year), the total net adjustment is to be taken into account in computing taxable income for the year of change. The amount attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change is the difference in the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change and the amount that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change to an acceptable method had been made in the preceding year.

(b) When subparagraph (a) above does not apply, the taxpayer has continuously used the LIFO inventory method for four tax years or more, and 75 percent or more of the net amount of the section 481(a) adjustment is attributable to the 1-tax-year period, 2-tax-year period, or 3-tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change, the highest percent attributable to the 1-, 2-, or 3-tax-year period will be taken into account ratably over a 3-tax-year period beginning with the year of change. Any remaining balance will be taken into account in the fourth year. An amount attributable to the 1-, 2-, or 3-tax-year period is the difference in the amount of the adjustment determined under section 481(a) of the Code for the year of change and the amount that would have been required under section 481(a) if the same change to an acceptable method had been made at the beginning of the preceding 1-, 2-, or 3-tax-year period.

(c) In all situations in which subparagraphs (a) and (b) do not apply, the net section 481(a) adjustment is to be taken into account ratably over the number of years (not to exceed four) the taxpayer has continuously used the LIFO inventory method.

(2) In applying section 3.05(1), if a taxpayer's books and records do not contain sufficient information to compute the section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the 1-, 2-, 3-tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change, the taxpayer may reasonably estimate these amounts. The taxpayer must submit the computations upon which the estimates are based with the Form 3115, and sign and attach to the Form 3115 the following statement:

Under penalty of perjury, I hereby certify that:

(a) The books and records of (name of the taxpayer) do not contain sufficient information to permit a computation of the section 481(a) adjustment attributable to the 1-tax-year period, 2-tax-year period, or 3-tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change as required by paragraph 3.05(1) of Rev. Proc. 85-54.

(b) Based on the information that is contained in such records, to the best of my information and belief, the entire amount of the section 481(a) adjustment for the year of change (indicate "is" or "is not," as the case may be) attributable to the tax year immediately preceding the year of change, and 75 percent or more of the section 481(a) adjustment for the year of change (indicate "is" or "is not," as the case may be) attributable to the 1-tax-year period, 2-tax-year period, or 3-tax-year period immediately preceding the year of change.

(3) If, on the last day of the two tax years of the adjustment period, the value of the taxpayer's inventory to which the section 481(a) adjustment relates is reduced by more than 33 1/3 percent of the inventory value at the beginning of the first tax year of the adjustment period and is so reduced by at least such percentage at the end of the following tax year (temporary fluctuations are not controlling; permanent reductions are controlling), the remaining balance of the section 481(a) adjustment must be taken into account in determining taxable income in the year succeeding the year of the reduction. If the value of the inventory does not remain reduced for one year, the reduction is not considered permanent and the provisions of this paragraph to not apply.

.06 Ceasing to engage in the trade or business. If, at any time prior to the expiration of the adjustment period (as defined in sections 3.05 and 3.06 above), a taxpayer ceases to engage in the trade or business to which the section 481(a) adjustment (as defined in section 3.04 above) relates, the taxpayer shall take into account in the year of such cessation the balance of the adjustment that was not previously taken into account in computing taxable income. See Rev. Rul. 80-39, 1980-1 C.B. 112, which holds that, if a division of a corporation for which a change in method of accounting had been granted ceases to operate the trade or business for which the change in method was granted, the remaining section 481(a) adjustment applicable to the business conducted by that division of the corporation must be taken into account in the year the corporation ceases to engage in that trade or business. For purposes of this condition, the taxpayer is not considered to have ceased the trade or business if the cessation is the result of a transaction to which section 381 of the Code applies. In that case, however, the acquiring corporation shall continue to be subject to this revenue procedure as though it were the acquired corporation.

SEC. 4. RECORDS

.01 Taxpayers must maintain adequate records so that the Internal Revenue Service may, upon examination, verify the data concerning the change in method of accounting.

.02 Taxpayers must keep their books and records for the year of change and for later tax years on the acceptable method that they have chosen and must use this method for all shareholder reports, financial statements, and statements for credit purposes.

SEC. 5. COMPLIANCE WITH CONDITIONS

Taxpayers making a change from the LIFO inventory method to an acceptable method without complying with all the conditions of this revenue procedure will be deemed to have made the change without obtaining the consent of the Commissioner.

SEC. 6. MANNER OF EFFECTING CHANGE

.01 Taxpayers to which this revenue procedure applies must effect the change in their methods of accounting for their first tax year beginning on or after July 18, 1984. The change is effected pursuant to the provisions set forth in this revenue procedure by filing a current Form 3115, in duplicate. The original of the Form 3115 shall be attached to the taxpayer's timely filed federal income tax return for such year (determined with regard to extensions) or to an amended return for such year filed no later than the extended time period prescribed in section 6081 of the Code and the regulations thereunder. Solely for this purpose, a federal income tax return which is filed late, but within the time period described in section 6081 of the Code and the regulations thereunder, shall be treated as timely, regardless of the fact that the taxpayer has not been granted an extension of time for filing its income tax return. At the time the original of the Form 3115 is filed with the federal income tax return, a copy of the Form 3115 shall be filed with the National Office, addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue Attention: CC:C:C:1, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224. In addition to the information required on Form 3115, the taxpayer must provide (1) a computation of the section 481(a) adjustment and (2) the period over which the section 481(a) adjustment will be taken into account and the basis for such conclusion. This additional information must accompany both the original Form 3115 and the required copy of Form 3115. The National Office will sample the Forms 3115 to determine whether the requirements of this revenue procedure have been followed.

.02 In order to assist in the processing of these changes in method of accounting and to ensure proper handling, reference to this revenue procedure shall be made a part of the Form 3115 by either typing or legibly printing the following statement at the top of page 1 of Form 3115: "FILED UNDER REV. PROC. 85-54.

.03 Taxpayers who apply the provisions of this revenue procedure to change their methods of accounting must attach and sign (or have signed by an officer who has personal knowledge of the facts) the following statement to the Form 3115:

Under penalty of perjury, I hereby certify that:

(name of taxpayer) is discontinuing the use of LIFO because of the provisions of section 472(g) of the Code.

.04 Taxpayers requesting to discontinue LIFO for reasons other than section 472(g) of the Code must timely file a Form 3115 with the National Office pursuant to section 1.446-1(e)(3)(i) of the regulations. See Rev.Proc. 84-74, 1984-2 C.B. 736. Such taxpayers must also attach a statement to their Form 3115 that under penalties of perjury they did not issue nonconforming financial statements as a result of the operation of section 472(g) of the Code.

SEC. 7. MISCELLANEOUS

.01 Where a taxpayer's change in method of accounting falls within the scope set forth in section 1 of this revenue procedure, the taxpayer must use this revenue procedure to effectuate such change in method of accounting and may not use the provisions of Rev. Proc. 84-74. Thus, the original of the application for permission to change the method of accounting described in this revenue procedure, if filed with the National Office under the general provisions of Rev. Proc. 84-74, will not be considered a valid application. Any such original applications filed by taxpayers with the National Office prior to or after November 18, 1985 (the date of publication of this revenue procedure) will not be processed and these taxpayers will be notified by the National Office to comply with this revenue procedure.

.02 The taxpayer may not elect the LIFO inventory method of accounting for a period of at least 10 tax years beginning with the year of change, unless consent is granted by the Commissioner to change its method of accounting at an earlier time based on a showing of extraordinary circumstances.

.03 The taxpayer shall value its inventory at the beginning and the end of the year of change and for later tax years under the method granted herein unless it obtains permission to change to another recognized method, including the LIFO inventory method (see section 1.446-1 of the regulations and section 7.02 above).

.04 For purposes of section 312 of the Code, the computation of earnings and profits available for the payment of dividends shall follow the new method of accounting and the taxpayer shall take the section 481(a) adjustment into account over the same period as it does for purposes of computing taxable income.

SEC. 8. CHANGE FROM LIFO INVENTORY METHOD NOT MADE UNDER THIS REVENUE PROCEDURE

Taxpayers who use the LIFO inventory method and issued nonconforming financial statements in violation of section 472(g) of the Code for tax years subsequent to their first tax year beginning on or after July 18, 1984, must request permission to change from the LIFO inventory method by filing an application (Form 3115) with the Commissioner in accordance with the requirements of section 1.446-1(e)(3) of the regulations and Rev. Proc. 84-74. Such taxpayers will receive an adjustment period not to exceed two tax years.

SEC. 9. INQUIRIES

Inquiries regarding this revenue procedure may be addressed to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention CC:C:C:1, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 10. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective November 18, 1985, the date of its publication in the Internal Revenue Bulletin.

(Also Part I, Sections 1, 63, 151, 6012, 6013; 1.1-1, 1.63-1, 1.151-4, 1.6012-1, 1.6013-2.)

Rev. Proc. 85-55

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to provide the income tax cost-of-living adjustment (indexing) factor as determined pursuant to section 1(f)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code for taxable years beginning in 1986. It also sets forth the application of the factor to the tax tables, the zero bracket amount, the personal exemption amount, and the tax return exemption amount.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Section 104 of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981, 1981-2 C.B. 256, 267-68, instituted, for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1984, adjustments to prevent inflation-caused income tax increases. It provides that the tax tables, the zero bracket amount, the personal exemption amount, and the tax return exemption amount are to be adjusted (indexed) each calendar year by a cost-of-living factor determined under a prescribed method. Rev. Proc. 84-79, 1984-2 C.B. 755, sets forth the adjustments for taxable years beginning in 1985.

SEC. 3. COST-OF-LIVING ADJUSTMENT FACTOR

Based on the method prescribed in section 1(f) of the Code, the cost-of-living adjustment factor for taxable years beginning in 1986 has been determined to be 7.9112588 percent, the percentage by which the average CPI for the 12 months ending in September 1985 (319.4083333) exceeds the average CPI for the 12 months ending in September 1983 (295.9916667). The adjustment factor is applied to the amounts that were in effect for taxable years beginning in 1984.

SEC. 4. APPLICATION OF FACTOR TO SECTIONS 1, 63, 151, 6012, AND 6013 OF THE CODE

.01 The following adjusted tax tables are prescribed in lieu of the tables contained in paragraph (3) of subsections (a), (b), (c), (d), and (e) of section 1 of the Code with respect to taxable years beginning in 1986:

.02 The following adjusted "zero bracket amounts" are set forth for purposes of section 63(d)(1) of the Code:

If the applicable tax table is:	The amount is:
Table 1	$3,670
Table 2	$2,480
Table 3	$2,480
Table 4	$1,835

.03 For purposes of the personal "exemption amount" under section 151(f) of the Code, the adjusted amount is $1,080.

.04 The following adjusted amounts are set forth for purposes of section 6012 of the Code:

1. The section 6012(a)(1)(D)(i) "zero bracket amount" is $2,480 for section 6012(a)(1)(A)(i) and $3,670 for sections 6012(a)(1)(A)(ii) and (iii).

2. The section 6012(a)(1)(D)(ii) "exemption amount" is $1,080.

3. The section 6012(a)(1)(A)(i) "sum of the exemption amount plus the zero bracket amount" is $3,560 ($1,080 + $2,480).

4. The section 6012(a)(1)(A)(ii) "sum of the exemption amount plus the zero bracket amount" is $4,750 ($1,080 + $3,670).

5. The section 6012(a)(1)(A)(iii) "sum of twice the exemption amount plus the zero bracket amount" is $5,830 ((2 × $1,080) + $3,670).

.05 For purposes of section 6013(b)(3) of the Code, the adjusted "exemption amount" is $1,080.

SEC. 5. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective January 1, 1986, for any taxable year beginning in 1986.

Rev. Proc. 85-56

SECTION 1. BACKGROUND

Rev. Proc. 66-3, 1966-1 C.B. 601, sets forth procedures to be followed by District Directors of the Internal Revenue Service in permitting inspection of federal tax returns and related documents filed under the Internal Revenue Code, and in furnishing copies of such returns and documents. Section 15 of Rev. Proc. 66-3 is entitled "Charges for Copies of Returns and Related Documents". Rev. Proc. 84-71, 1984-2 C.B. 735, modified Rev. Proc. 66-3 by substituting a new Section 15, effective October 1, 1983. Section 15.01, as modified by Rev. Proc. 84-71, imposes a $5.00 charge for each request of a copy of a return or other document (other than Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations Returns). Section 15.02, as modified, imposes a $2.50 charge for each request for a transcript of individual income tax account information. Section 15.03, as modified, imposes a charge of $1.00 for the first page and $.10 for each subsequent page for copies of Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations tax returns and related documents. Section 15.04, as modified, imposes a $2.50 charge for each Form 1040A and 1040EZ verification.

SEC. 2. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to further modify Rev. Proc. 66-3.

SEC. 3. PROCEDURE

Rev. Proc. 66-3 is modified to reflect a $4.25 charge in section 15.01, a $2.25 charge in section 15.02 and a charge of $.15 "for each subsequent page" in section 15.03. Section 15.04 is deleted, thereby eliminating a separate charge for verification of Forms 1040A or 1040EZ. Verification of those forms may now be secured through a request for tax account information under section 15.02 of this revenue procedure. The revised section 15 shall read:

SEC. 15. CHARGES FOR COPIES OF RETURNS, RELATED DOCUMENTS, AND RETURN INFORMATION

Charges for furnishing copies of returns, related documents, and return information will be as follows:

.01 A charge of $4.25 will be made for each request of a copy or other related document (other than Employee Plans and Exempt Organization Returns). Payments will be submitted in advance using Internal Revenue Service Form 4506, Request for copy of Tax Form or Individual Income Tax Account Information.

.02 A charge of $2.25 will be made for each request for a transcript of individual income tax account information. Payments will be submitted according to procedures prescribed in .01 (above).

.03 A charge of $1.00 for the first page and $.15 for each subsequent page will be made for copies of Employee Plans and Exempt organizations tax returns and related documents. Payments will be submitted subsequent to receipt of Form 2860, Document Transmittal and Bill.

SEC. 4. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure is effective October 1, 1985.

SEC. 5. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

Rev. Proc. 66-3, as modified by Rev. Proc. 84-71, is further modified, effective October 1, 1985.

26 CFR 601.201: Rulings and determination letters

Rev. Proc. 85-57

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to amplify section 9 of Rev. Proc. 85-1, 1985-1 C.B. 440 (Instructions to Taxpayer), to assure receipt of complete and adequate information and expedite the processing of requests for rulings from public utility taxpayers on the normalization requirements provided by sections 46(f), 167(l), and 168(e)(3) of the Internal Revenue Code.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Section 9 of Rev. Proc. 85-1 provides instructions to taxpayers requesting rulings from the Internal Revenue Service. Although the request for ruling on normalization matters is submitted by the public utility taxpayer, the proposed change is frequently initiated by the regulatory commission that has ratemaking authority for the taxpayer. Input by the regulatory commission will aid in making the ruling responsive to the needs of both the taxpayer and the regulatory commission.

SEC. 3. SCOPE AND OBJECTIVE

A ruling request that involves a question of whether a rate order, proposed or issued by a regulatory agency, will meet the normalization requirements of sections 46(f), 167(l), and 168(e)(3) of the Code, ordinarily will not be considered unless the taxpayer states in the request for ruling whether:

(1) the regulatory authority responsible for establishing or approving the taxpayer's rates has reviewed the request and believes that the request is adequate and complete, and

(2) the taxpayer will permit the regulatory authority to participate in any National Office conference concerning the request.

SEC. 4. EFFECT ON OTHER DOCUMENTS

Rev. Proc. 85-1 is amplified.

SEC. 5. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure will apply to all ruling requests submitted to the National Office after December 18, 1985.

26 CFR 601.204: Changes in accounting periods and methods of accounting.
(Also Part I, Section 442; 1.442-1.)

Rev. Proc. 85-58

SECTION 1. PURPOSE

The purpose of this revenue procedure is to modify and supersede Rev. Proc. 76-9, 1976-1 C.B. 547, and Rev. Proc. 79-2, 1979-1 C.B. 482, by simplifying the procedure to be followed by certain organizations exempt under section 501(a) of the Internal Revenue Code desiring to change their annual accounting periods.

SEC. 2. BACKGROUND

Rev. Proc. 76-9, as modified by Rev. Proc. 79-2, provides an administrative procedure whereby certain organizations exempt from federal income tax may expeditiously obtain approval of a change in accounting period.

SEC. 3. PROCEDURE

.01. Except as provided in section 3.03 below, organizations desiring to change their annual accounting periods (including organizations that come within the exception contained in section 1.442-1(c) of the Income Tax Regulations under which prior approval of the Commissioner to change is not required) may effect the change by timely filing the applicable information return, Form 990 (Return of Organization Exempt from Income Tax), Form 990-PF (Return of Private Foundation), Form 990-BL (Information and Initial Excise Tax Return for Black Lung Benefit Trusts and Certain Related Persons), or Form 1065 (U.S. Partnership Return of Income), with the appropriate Internal Revenue Service Center for the short period for which a return is required. The Form should indicate that a change of accounting period is being made.

.02. Annual information returns, Forms 990, 990-PF, and 990-BL, must be filed by the fifteenth day of the fifth month following the close of the short period. If an organization is not required to file an annual information return, but files a Form 990-T (Exempt Organization Business Income Tax Return), it may change its annual accounting period by timely filing the Form 990-T with the appropriate Service Center. If neither an information return nor a Form 990-T is required to be filed, it is not necessary to otherwise notify the Service that a change of accounting period is being made, except as provided in section 3.03. Applicants complying with this revenue procedure will be deemed to have obtained the approval of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for a change in accounting period.

.03. If an organization has previously changed its annual accounting period at any time within the ten calendar years ending with the calendar year that includes the beginning of the short period resulting from the change of an annual accounting period, and if it had a filing requirement at any time during that ten year period, it must file a Form 1128 (Application for Change in Accounting Period) with the appropriate Internal Revenue Service Center with its timely-filed annual information return or Form 990-T, as appropriate, whether or not the filing of the information return or Form 990-T would have otherwise been required for that year. The Form 1128 must be filed by the fifteenth day of the fifth month following the close of the short period.

SEC. 4. EXEMPT ORGANIZATIONS NOT COVERED BY SECTION 3

01. The procedures described in section 3 above do not apply to farmers' cooperatives exempt from federal income tax under section 521 of the Code, or to organizations described in sections 526, 527, or 528. These organizations file their applications on Form 1128 for a change in their annual accounting periods with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attn: CC:C:C, Washington, D.C. 20224.

02. This revenue procedure does not apply to organizations described in section 401(a) of the Code. In accordance with Rev. Proc. 77-44, 1977-2 C.B. 578, as modified by Announcement 79-43, 1979-12 I.R.B. 25, these organizations must file applications on Form 5308, Request for Change in Plan/Trust Year, with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attn: OP:E:EP, Washington, D.C. 20224.

SEC. 5. RECORDS

The books of the organization must be closed as of the last day of the last month of the new tax year. Returns for subsequent years must be made on the basis of a full 12 months ending on the last day of the last month of the new tax year.

SEC. 6. LATE APPLICATIONS FOR CHANGE IN ACCOUNTING PERIOD

Organizations described in section 3.03 that did not file a Form 1128 with a timely-filed annual information return or a timely-filed Form 990-T for the short period may request relief under section 1.9100-1 of the regulations. (See section 1.9100-1(a)(3) of the regulations and section 2 of Rev. Proc. 79-63, 1979-2 C.B. 578.)

SEC. 7. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Rev. Proc. 76-9 and Rev. Proc. 79-2 are modified and as modified are superseded. If any revenue procedure or revenue ruling makes reference to Rev. Proc. 76-9 or Rev. Proc. 79-2, the reference to this revenue procedure should be appropriately substituted. For the administrative procedures to be followed in requesting a change in accounting period of certain exempt organizations on a group basis, see Rev. Proc. 76-10, 1976-1 C.B. 548, and Rev. Proc. 79-3, 1979-1 C.B. 483.

SEC. 8. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure shall be effective for a change in accounting period where the last day of the short period ends on or after December 31, 1985.

26 CFR 601.201: Rulings and determination letters.

Rev. Proc. 85-59

SECTION 1. BACKGROUND

Rev. Proc. 85-22, 1985-1 C.B. 550, sets forth areas in which advance rulings or determination letters will not be issued by the Internal Revenue Service. Section 3 of Rev. Proc. 85-22 is entitled "Areas In Which Rulings Or Determination Letters Will Not Be Issued."

SEC. 2. PROCEDURE

Rev. Proc. 85-22 is hereby amplified by adding to section 3.01 the following two new sections:

(1) Section 871(g)(1)(B).—Original Issue Discount Obligations.—Whether a debt instrument having original issue discount within the meaning of section 1273 is not an original issue discount obligation within the meaning of section 871(g)(1)(B)(i) when the instrument is payable 183 days or less from the date of original issue (without regard to the period held by the taxpayer) and such debt instrument is issued by a domestic corporation and is purchased by its controlled foreign corporation.

(2) Section 956(b)(1)(C).—United States Property Defined.—Whether an indebtedness is excludable from the definition of the term "obligation" under section 1.956-2(d)(2)(ii) of the regulations because the indebtedness is collected within one year from the time it is incurred or matures within one year from the time it is incurred but is not collected within such period solely by reason of the inability or unwillingness of the debtor to make payment within such period.

SEC. 3. PURPOSE

These two sections are being added to Rev. Proc. 85-22 because, to the extent the answers to the issues are not clear as a matter of law, they are too dependent on subsequent facts for the Service to determine in advance the substance of the transactions.

SEC. 4. EFFECTIVE DATE

This revenue procedure will apply to all ruling requests on hand in the National Office on December 16, 1985, the date of publication of this revenue procedure in the Internal Revenue Bulletin, as well as to requests received thereafter.

SEC. 5. EFFECT ON OTHER REVENUE PROCEDURES

Rev. Proc. 85-22 is amplified.

Social Security Contribution and Benefit Base

Under authority contained in the Social Security Act, the Secretary, Department of Health and Human Services, has determined and announced (50 F.R. 45558, dated October 31, 1985) that the contribution and benefit base for remuneration paid in 1986 and self-employment income earned in taxable years beginning in 1986 is $42,000.

§ 10.0 Scope of part.

This part contains rules governing the recognition of attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents, and other persons representing clients before the Internal Revenue Service. Subpart A of this part sets forth rules relating to authority to practice before the Internal Revenue Service; Subpart B of this part prescribes the duties and restrictions relating to such practice; Subpart C of this part contains rules relating to disciplinary proceedings; and Subpart D of this part contains general provisions, including provisions relating to availability of official records.

[42 F.R. 38352, July 28, 1977]

Subpart A-Rules Governing Authority To Practice

§ 10.1 Director of practice.

(a) Establishment of office. There is established in the Office of the Secretary of the Treasury the office of Director of Practice. The Director of Practice shall be appointed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

(b) Duties. The Director of Practice shall act upon appeals from decisions of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue denying applications for enrollment to practice before the Internal Revenue Service; institute and provide for the conduct of disciplinary proceedings relating to attorneys, certified public accountants, and enrolled agents; make inquiries with respect to matters under his jurisdiction; and perform such other duties as are necessary or appropriate to carry out his functions under this part or as are prescribed by the Secretary of the Treasury.

(c) Acting Director. The Secretary of the Treasury will designate an officer or employee of the Treasury Department to act as Director of Practice in the event of the absence of the director or of a vacancy in that office.

§ 10.2 Definitions.

As used in this part, except where the context clearly indicates otherwise, the term:

(a) "Practice before the Internal Revenue Service" comprehends all matters connected with presentation to the Internal Revenue Service or any of its officers or employees relating to a client's rights, privileges, or liabilities under laws or regulations administered by the Internal Revenue Service. Such presentations include the preparation and filing of necessary documents, correspondence with and communications to the Internal Revenue Service, and the representation of a client at conferences, hearings, and meetings.

(b) "Attorney" means any person who is a member in good standing of the bar of the highest court of any State, possession, territory, Commonwealth, or the District of Columbia.

(c) "Certified public accountant" means any person who is duly qualified to practice as a certified public accountant in any State, possession, territory, Commonwealth, or the Distric of Columbia.

(d) "Commissioner" refers to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

[3] F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 37 F.R. 1017, Jan. 21, 1972; 42 F.R. 38352, July 28, 1977; 49 F.R. 6719, Feb. 23, 1984]

§ 10.3 Who may practice.

(a) Attorneys. Any attorney who is not currently under suspension or disbarment from practice before the Internal Revenue Service may practice before the Service upon filing with the Service a written declaration that he is currently qualified as an attorney and is authorized to represent the particular party on whose behalf he acts. An enrollment card issued to such person before the effective date of this regulation shall be invalid and may not be used in lieu of such written declaration.[1]

(b) Certified public accountants. Any certified public accountant who is not currently under suspension or disbarment from practice before the Internal Revenue Service may practice before the Service upon filing with the Service a written declaration that he is currently qualified as a certified public accountant and is authorized to represent the particular party on whose behalf he acts. An enrollment card issued to such person before the effective date of this regulation shall be invalid and may not be used in lieu of such written declaration.[1]

(c) Enrolled agents. Any person enrolled as an agent pursuant to this part may practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

(d) Enrolled Actuaries. (1) Any individual who is enrolled as an actuary by the Joint Board for the Enrollment of Actuaries pursuant to 29 U.S.C. 1242 may practice before the Internal Revenue Service upon filing with the Service a written declaration that he/she is currently qualified as an enrolled actuary and is authorized to represent the particular party on whose behalf he/she acts. Practice as an enrolled actuary is limited to representation with respect to issues involving the following statutory provisions.

Internal Revenue Code (Title 26 U.S.C.) sections: 401 (qualification of employee plans), 403(a) (relating to whether an annuity plan meets the requirements of section 404(a) (2), 404 (deductibility of employer contributions, 405 (qualification of bond purchase plans), 412 (funding requirements for certain employee plans), 413 (application of qualification requirements to collectively bargained plans and to plans maintained by more than one employer), 414 (containing definitions and special rules relating to the employee plan area), 4971 (relating to excise taxes payable as a result of an accumulated funding deficiency under section 412). 6057 (annual registration of plans) 6058 (information required in connection with certain plans of deferred compensation), 6059 (periodic report of actuary), 6652(e) (failure to file annual registration and other notifications by pension plan), 6652(f) (failure to file information required in connection with certain plans of deferred compensation), 6692 (failure to file actuarial report), 7805(b) (relating to the extent, if any, to which an Internal Revenue Service ruling or determination letter coming under the herein listed statutory provisions shall be applied without retroactive effect); and 29 U.S.C. 1083 (relating to waiver of funding for nonqualified plans).

(2) An individual who practices before the Internal Revenue Service pursuant to this subsection shall be subject to the provisions of this part in the same manner as attorneys, certified public accountants and enrolled agents.

(e) Others. Any person qualifying under § 10.7 or § 10.5(c) may practice before Internal Revenue Service.

(f) Government officers and employees; others. No officer or employee of the United States in the executive, legislative, or judicial branch of the Government, or in any agency of the United States, including the District of Columbia, may practice before the Service, except that such officer or employee may, subject to the conditions and requirements of these regulations and of 18 U.S.C. 205, represent a member of his immediate family or any other person or estate for which he serves as guardian, executor, administrator, trustee, or other personal fiduciary. No Member of Congress or Resident Commissioner (elect or serving) may practice before the Service in connection with any matter for which he directly or indirectly receives, agrees to receive, or seeks any compensation. 18 U.S.C. 203, 205. Nothing herein shall be construed as prohibiting an officer or employee of the United States as a foresaid, who is otherwise eligible to practice under the provision of this part, from representing others before the Internal Revenue Service when doing so in the proper discharge of his official duties.

(g) State officers and employees. No officer or employee of any State, or subdivision thereof, whose duties require him to pass upon, investigate, or deal with tax matters of such State or subdivision, may practice before the Service, if such State employment may disclose facts or information applicable to Federal tax matters.

[3] F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 35 F.R. 13205, Aug. 19, 1970; 36 F.R. 8671, May 11, 1971; 44 F.R. 4944, Jan. 24, 1979]

§ 10.4 Eligibility for enrollment.

(a) Enrollment upon examination. The Commissioner may grant enrollment to an applicant who demonstrates special competence in tax matters by written examination administered by the Internal Revenue Service and who has not engaged in any conduct which would justify the suspension or disbarment of any attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent under the provisions of this part.

(b) Enrollment of former Internal Revenue Service employees. The Commissioner may grant enrollment to an applicant who has not engaged in any conduct which would justify the suspension or disbarment of any attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent under the provisions of this part and who, by virtue of his past service and technical experience in the Internal Revenue Service has qualified for such enrollment, as follows:

(1) Application for enrollment on account of former employment in the Internal Revenue Service shall be made to the Commissioner. Each applicant will be supplied a form by the Commissioner which shall indicate the information required respecting the applicant's qualifications. In addition to the applicant's name, address, educational experience, etc., such information shall specifically include a detailed account of the applicant's employment in the Internal Revenue Service, which account shall show (i) positions held, (ii) date of each appointment and termination thereof, (iii) nature of services rendered in each position, with particular reference to the degree of technical experience involved, and (iv) name of supervisor in such positions, together with such other information regarding the experience and training of the applicant as may be relevant.

(2) Upon receipt of each such application, it shall be transmitted to the appropriate officer of the Internal Revenue Service with the request that a detailed report of the nature and rating of the applicant's services in the Internal Revenue Service, accompanied by the recommendation of the superior officer in the particular unit or division of the Internal Revenue Service that such employment does or does not qualify the applicant technically or otherwise for the desired authorization, be furnished to the Commissioner.

(3) In examining the qualification of an applicant for enrollment on account of employment in the Internal Revenue Service, the Commissioner will be governed by the following policies:

(i) Enrollment on account of such employment may be of unlimited scope or may be limited to permit the presentation of matters only of the particular class or only before the particular unit or division of the Internal Revenue Service for which his former employment in the Internal Revenue Service has qualified the applicant.

(ii) Application for enrollment on account of employment in the Internal Revenue Service must be made within 3 years from the date of separation from such employment.

(iii) It shall be requisite for enrollment on account of such employment that the applicant shall have had a minimum of 5 years continuous employment in the Service during which he shall have been regularly engaged in applying and interpreting the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations thereunder relating to income, estate, gift, employment, or excise taxes.

(iv) For the purposes of paragraph (b)(3)(iii) of this section an aggregate of 10 or more years of employment, at least 3 of which occurred within the 5 years preceding the date of application, shall be deemed the equivalent of 5 years continuous employment.

(c) Natural persons. Enrollment to practice may be granted only to natural persons.

(d) Attorneys; certified public accountants. Enrollment is not available to persons who qualify to practice under § 10.3(a) or (b).

[3] F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 35 F.R. 13205, Aug. 19, 1970; 42 F.R. 38352, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.5 Application for enrollment.

(a) Form; fee. An applicant for enrollment shall file with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue an application on Form 23, properly executed under oath or affirmation. Such application shall be accompanied by a check or money order in the amount set forth on Form 23, payable to the Internal Revenue Service, which amount shall constitute a fee which shall be charged to each applicant for enrollment. The fee shall be retained by the United States whether or not the applicant is granted enrollment.

(b) Additional information; examination. The Commissioner, as a condition to consideration of an application for enrollment, may require the applicant to file additional information and to submit to any written or oral examination under oath or otherwise. The Commissioner shall upon written request, afford an applicant the opportunity to be heard with respect to his application for enrollment.

(c) Temporary recognition. Upon receipt of a properly executed application, the Commissioner may grant the applicant temporary recognition to practice pending a determination as to whether enrollment to practice should be granted. Such temporary recognition shall not be granted if the application is not regular on its face; if the information stated therein, if true, is not sufficient to warrant enrollment to practice; if there is any information before the Commissioner which indicates that the statements in the application are untrue; or which indicates that the applicant would not otherwise qualify for enrollment. Issuance of temporary recognition shall not constitute enrollment to practice or a finding of eligibility for enrollment, and the temporary recogniton may be withdrawn at any time by the Commissioner.

(d) Appeal from denial of application. (1) The Commissioner, in denying an application for enrollment, shall inform the applicant as to the reason(s) therefor. The applicant may, within 30 days after receipt of the notice of denial, file a written appeal therefrom, together with his reasons in support thereof, to the Director of Practice. A decision on the appeal will be rendered by the Director of Practice as soon as practicable.

(2) A decision of the Director of Practice in substaining a denial of enrollment may be appealed to the Secretary of the Treasury within 30 days after receipt of the decision of the Director.

(Sec. 501. Pub. L. 82-137, 8b Stat. 290: 31 U.S.C. 483a).

§ 10.6 Enrollment.

(a) Roster. The Commissioner shall maintain rosters of all agents who are enrolled to practice, of all persons who have been disbarred or suspended from practice before the Internal Revenue Service, and of persons whose applications for enrollment have been denied.

(b) Enrollment card. The Commissioner shall issue an enrollment card to each agent who is enrolled to practice before the Internal Revenue Service after the effective date of this regulation. Each such enrollment card shall be valid so long as the holder shall remain enrolled and in good standing before the Service. Unless advised to the contrary by the Commissioner, any officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service may consider the holder of a valid enrollment card to be duly authorized to practice before the Service.

(c) Termination of enrollment. The enrollment of any agent to whom an enrollment card is issued after the effective date of this regulation shall terminate at such time as such agent may become eligible to practice without enrollment under § 10.3(a) or (b), and such agent shall forthwith return his enrollment card to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue for cancellation.

(31 U.S.C. 483a)
[31 F.R. 10773. Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38352, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.7 Limited practice; special appearances; return preparation and furnishing information.

(a) In general. Individuals may appear on their own behalf and may otherwise appear without enrollment, provided they present satisfactory indentificaton, in the following classes of cases:

(1) An individual may represent another individual who is his regular full-time employer, may represent a partnership of which he is a member or a regular full-time employee, or may represent without compensation a member of his immediate family.

(2) Corporations (including parents, subsidiaries or affiliated corporations), trusts, estates, associations, or organized groups may be represented by bona fide officers or regular full-time employees.

(3) Trusts, receiverships, guardianships, or estates may be represented by their trustees, receivers, guardians, administrators or executors or their regular full-time employees.

(4) Any governmental unit, agency, or authority may be represented by an officer of regular employee in the course of his official duties.

(5) Unenrolled persons may participate in rule making as provided by section 4 of the Administrative Procedure Act, 60 Stat. 238 (5 U.S.C. 1003).

(6) Enrollment is not required for representation outside of the United States before personnel of the Internal Revenue Service.

(7) Any individual who is not under disbarment or suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service or other practice of his profession by any other authority (in the case of attorneys, certified public accountants, and public accountants) and who signs a return as having prepared it for the taxpayer, or who prepared a return with respect to which the instructions or regulations do not require that it be signed by the person who prepared the return for the taxpayer, may appear without enrollment as the taxpayer's representative, with or without the taxpayer, before revenue agents and examining officers of the Examination Division in the offices of District Directors with respect to the tax liability of the taxpayer for the taxable year or period covered by that return. Proper authorization from the taxpayer will be required. All such persons will be subject to such rules regarding standards of conduct, the extent of their authority, and other matters as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue shall prescribe. Such persons will be permitted to represent taxpayers within those limits without enrollment, except that the Commissioner may deny permission to engage in such limited practice to any person who has engaged in conduct which would justify suspension or disbarment of any attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent under the provisions of this part.

(b) Special appearance. The Commissioner, subject to such conditions as he deems appropriate, may authorize any person to represent another without enrollment for the purpose of a particular matter.

(c) Preparation of tax returns and furnishing information. Any person may prepare a tax return, may appear as a witness for the taxpayer before the Internal Revenue Service, or furnish information at the request of the Internal Revenue Service or any of its officers or employees.

§ 10.8 Customhouse brokers.

Nothing contained in the regulations in this part shall be deemed to affect or limit the right of a customhouse broker, licensed as such by the Commissioner of Customs in accordance with the regulations prescribed therefor, in any customs district in which he is so licensed, at the office of the District Director of Internal Revenue or before the National Office of the Internal Revenue Service, to act as a representative in respect to any matters relating specifically to the importation or exportation of merchandise under the customs or internal revenue laws, for any person for whom he has acted as a customhouse broker.

Subpart B-Duties and Restrictions Relating to Practice Before the Internal Revenue Service

§ 10.20 Information to be furnished.

(a) To the Internal Revenue Service. No attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent shall neglect or refuse promptly to submit records or information in any matter before the Internal Revenue Service, upon proper and lawful request by a duly authorized officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service, or shall interfere, or attempt to interfere, with any proper and lawful effort by the Internal Revenue Service or its officers or employees to obtain any such record or information, unless he believes in good faith and on reasonable grounds that such record or information is privileged or that the request for, or effort to obtain, such record or information is of doubtful legality.

(b) To the Director of Practice. It shall be the duty of an attorney or certified public accountant, who practices before the Internal Revenue Service, or enrolled agent, when requested by the Director of Practice, to provide the Director with any information he may have concerning violation of the regulations in this part by any person, and to testify thereto in any proceeding instituted under this part for the disbarment or suspension of an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent, unless he believes in good faith and on reasonable grounds that such information is privileged or that the request therefor is of doubtful legality.

§ 10.21 Knowledge of client's omission.

Each attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent who, having been retained by a client with respect to a matter administered by the Internal Revenue Service, knows that the client has not complied with the revenue laws of the United States or has made an error in or omission from any return, document, affidavit, or other paper which the client is required by the revenue laws of the United States to execute, shall advise the client promptly of the fact of such noncompliance, error, or omission.

[42 F.R. 38352, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.22 Diligence as to accuracy.

Each attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent shall exercise due diligence:

(a) In preparing or assisting in the preparation of, approving, and filing returns, documents, affidavits, and other papers relating to Internal Revenue Service matters;

(b) In determining the correctness of oral or written representations made by him to the Department of the Treasury; and

(c) In determining the correctness of oral or written representations made by him to clients with reference to any matter administered by the Internal Revenue Service.

[35 F.R. 13205, Aug. 19, 1970, as amended at 42 F.R. 38352, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.23 Prompt disposition of pending matters.

No attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent shall unreasonably delay the prompt disposition of any matter before the Internal Revenue Service.

§ 10.24 Assistance from disbarred or suspended persons and former Internal Revenue Service employees.

No attorney, certified public accountant or enrolled agent, shall, in practice before the Internal Revenue Service, knowingly and directly or indirectly:

(a) Employ or accept assistance from any person who is under disbarment or suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

(b) Accept employment as associate, correspondent, or subagent from, or share fees with, any such person.

(c) Accept assistance from any former government employee where the provisions of § 10.26 of these regulations or any Federal law would be violated.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 35 F.R. 13205. Aug. 19, 1970, 44 F.R. 4940, Jan. 1979]

§ 10.25 Practice by partners of Government employees.

No partner of an officer or employee of the executive branch of the U:S. Government, of any independent agent of the United States, or of the District of Columbia, shall represent anyone in any matter administered by the Internal Revenue Service in which such officer or employee of the Government participates or has participated personally and substantially as a Government employee or which is the subject of his offical responsibility.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 35 F.R. 13205. Aug. 19, 1970]

§ 10.26 Practice by former Government employees, their partners and their associates.

(a) Definitions. For purposes of § 10.26. (1) "Assist" means to act in such a way as to advise, furnish information to or otherwise aid another person, directly of indirectly.

(2) "Government employee" is another officer or employee of the United States or any agency of the United States, including a "special government employee" as defined in 18 U.S.C. 202(a), or of the District of Columbia, or of any State, or a member of Congress or of any State legislature.

(3) "Member of a firm" is a sole practitioner or an employee or associate thereof, or a partner, stockholder, associate, affiliate or employee of a partnership, joint venture, corporation, professional association or other affiliation of two or more practioners who represent non-Government parties.

(4) "Practitioner" is an attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or any other person authorized to practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

(5) "Official responsibility" means the direct administrative or operating authority, whether intermediate or final, and either exercisable alone or with others, and either personally or through subordinates, to approve, disapprove, or otherwise direct Government action, with or without knowledge of the action.

(6) "Participate" or "participation" means substantial involvement as a Government employee by making decisions, or preparing or reviewing documents with or without the right to exercise a judgment of approval or disapproval, or participating in conferences or investigations, or rendering advice of a substantial nature.

(7) "Rule" includes Treasury Regulations, whether issued or under preparation for issuance as Notices of Proposed Rule Making or as Treasury Decisions, and revenue rulings and revenue procedures published in the Internal Revenue bulletin. "Rule" shall not include a "transaction" as defined in paragraph (a)(9) of this section.

(8) "Transaction" means any decision, determination, finding, letter ruling, technical advice, contract or approval or disapproval thereof, relating to a particular factual situation or situations involving a specific party or parties whose rights, privileges, or liabilities under laws or regulations administered by the Internal Revenue Service, or other legal rights, are determined or immediately affected therein and to which the United States is a party or in which it has a direct and substantial interest, whether or not the same taxable periods are involved. "Transaction" does not include "rule" as defined in paragraph (a)(7) of this section.

(b) General rules. (1) No former Government employee shall subsequent to his Government employment, represent anyone in any matter administered by the Internal Revenue Service if the representation would violate 18 U.S.C. 207(a) or (b) or any other laws of the United States.

(2) No former Government employee who participated in a transaction shall, subsesquent to his Government employment, represent or knowingly assist, in that transaction, any person who is or was a specific party to that transaction.

(3) No former Government employee who within a period of one year prior to the termination of his Government employment had official responsibility for a transaction shall, within one year after his Government employment is ended, represent or knowingly assist in that transaction any person who is or was a specific party to that transaction.

(4) No former Government employee shall, within one year after his Government employment is ended, appear before any employee of the Treasury Department in connection with the publication, withdrawal, amendment, modification, or interpretation of a rule in the development of which the former Government employee participated or for which, within a period of one year prior to the termination of his Government employment, he had official responsibility. However, this subparagraph does not preclude such former employee from appearing on his own behalf or from representing a taxpayer before the Internal Revenue Service in connection with a transaction involving the application or interpretation of such a rule with respect to that transaction: Provided. That such former employee shall not utilize or disclose any confidential information acquired by the former employee in the development of the rule, and shall not contend that the rule is invalid or illegal. In addition, this subparagraph does not preclude such former employee from otherwise advising or acting for any person.

(c) Firm representation. (1) No member of a firm of which a former Government employee is a member may represent or knowingly assist a person who was or is a specific party in any transaction with respect to which the restrictions of paragraph (b)(1) (other than 18 U.S.C. 207(b)) or (b)(2) of this section apply to the former Government employee, in that transaction, unless:

(i) No member of the firm who had knowledge of the participation by the Government employee in the transaction initiated discussions with the Government employee concerning his becoming a member of the firm until his Government employment is ended or six months after the termination of his participation in the transaction, whichever is earlier;

(ii) The former Government employee did not initiate any discussions concerning becoming a member of the firm while participating in the transaction or, if such discussions were initiated, they conformed with the requirement of 18 U.S.C. 208(b); and

(iii) The firm isolates the former Government employee is such a way that he does not assist in the representation.

(2) No member of a firm of which a former Government employee is a member may represent or knowingly assist a person who was or is a specific party in any transaction with respect to which the restrictions of paragraph (b)(3) of this section apply to the former employee, in that transaction unless the firm isolates the former Government employee in such a way that he does not assist in the representation.

(3) When isolation of the former Government employee is required under paragraphs (c)(1) or (c)(2) of this section, a statement affirming the fact of such isolation shall be executed under oath by the former Government employee and by a member of the firm acting on behalf of the firm, and shall be filed with the Director of Practice and in such other place and in the manner prescribed by regulation. This statement shall clearly identify the firm, the former Government employee, and transaction or transactions requiring such isolation.

(d) Pending representation. Practice by former Government employees, their partners and associates with respect to representation in specific matters where actual representation commenced before publication of this regulation is governed by the regulations set fourth in the June 1972 amendments to the regulations of this part (published at 37 F.R. 11676): Provided. That the burden of showing that representation commenced before publication is with the former Government employees, their partners and associates.

[42 F.R. 38352, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.27 Notaries.

No attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent as notary public shall with respect to any matter administered by the Internal Revenue Service take acknowledgments, administer oaths, certify papers, or perform any official act in connection with matters in which he is employed as counsel, attorney, or agent, or in which he may be in any way interested before the Internal Revenue Service (26 Op. Atty. Gen. 236).

§ 10.28 Fees.

No attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent shall charge an unconscionable fee for representation of a client in any matter before the Internal Revenue Service.

§ 10.29 conflicting interests.

No attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent shall represent conflicting interests in his practice before the Internal Revenue Service, except by express consent of all directly interested parties after full disclosure has been made.

§ 10.30 Solicitation.

(a) Advertising and Solicitation restriction. (1) No attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent, or other individual eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service shall, with respect to any Internal Revenue Service matter, in any way use or participate in the use of any form of public communication containing a false, fraudulent, misleading, deceptive, unduly influencing, coercive or unfair statement or claim. For the purposes of this subsection, the prohibition includes, but is not limited to, statements pertaining to the quality of services rendered unless subject to factual verification, claims of specialized expertise not authorized by State or Federal agencies having jurisdiction over the practitioner, and statements or suggestions that the ingenuity and/or prior record of a representative rather than the merit of the matter are principal factors likely to determine the result of the matter.

(2) No attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or other individual eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service shall make, directly or indirectly, an univited solicitation of employment, in matters related to the Internal Revenue Service. Solicitation includes, but is not limited to, in-person contacts, telephone communications, and personal mailings directed to the specific circumstances unique to the recipient. This restriction does not apply to: (i) seeking new business from an existing or former client in a related matter; (ii) solicitation by mailings, the contents of which are designed for the general public; or (iii) non-coercive in-person solicitation by those eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service while acting as an employee, member, or officer of an exempt organization listed in sections 501(c)(3) or (4) of the Internal Revenue code of 1954 (26 U.S.C.).

(b) Permissible Advertising. (1) Attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and other individuals eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service, may published, broadcast, or used in a dignified manner through any means of communication set forth in paragraph (d) of this section:

(i) The name, address, telephone number, and office hours of the practitioner or firm.

(ii) The names of individuals associated with the firm.

(iii) A factual description of the services offered.

(iv) Acceptable credit cards and other credit arrangements.

(v) Foreign language ability.

(vi) Membership in pertinent, professional organizations.

(vii) Pertinent professional licenses.

(viii) A statement that an individual's or firm's practice is limited to certain areas.

(ix) In the case of an enrolled agent, the phrase "enrolled to represent taxpayers before the Internal Revenue Service" or "enrolled to practice before the Internal Revenue Service."

(x) Other facts relevant to the section of practitioner in matters related to the Internal Revenue Service which are not prohibited by these regulations.

(2) Attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and other individuals eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service may use, to the extent they are consistent with the regulations in this section, customary biographical insertions in approved law lists and reputable professional journals and directories, as well as professional cards, letterheads and announcements: Provided. That: (i) attorneys do not violate applicable standards of ethical conduct adopted by the American Bar Association, (ii) certified public accountants do not violate applicable standards of ethical conduct adopted by the American Institute of Certified Public Accountants, and (iii) enrolled agents do not violate applicable standards of ethical conduct adopted by either the National Society of Public Accountants or the National Association of Enrolled Agents.

(c) Fee Information. (1) Attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and other individuals eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service may disseminate the following fee information:

(i) Fixed fees for specific routine services.

(ii) Hourly rates.

(iii) Range of fees for particular services.

(iv) Fee charged for an initial consultation.

(2) Attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and other individuals eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service may also publish the availability of a written schedule of fees.

(3) Attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and other individuals eligible to practice before the Internal Revenue Service shall be bound to charge the hourly rate, the fixed fee for specific routine services, the range of fees for particular services, or the fee for an initial consultation published for a reasonable period of time, but no less than thirty days from the last publication of such hourly rate or fees.

(d) Communications. Communications, including fee information, shall be limited to professional lists, telephone directories, print media, permissible mailings as provided in these regulations, radio and television. In the case of radio and television broadcasting, the broadcast shall be pre-recorded and the practitioner shall retain a recording of the actual audio transmission.

(e) Improper Associations. An attorney, certified public accountant or enrolled agent may, in matters related to the Internal Revenue Service, employ or accept employment or assistance as an associate, correspondent, or sub-agent from, or share fees with any person or entity who, to the knowledge of the practitioner, obtains clients or otherwise practices in a manner forbidden under this section: Provided. That a practitioner does not, directly or indirectly, act or hold himself out as an Internal Revenue Service practitioner in connection with that relationship. Nothing herein shall prohibit an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent from practice before the Internal Revenue Service in a capacity other than that described above.

§ 10.31 Negotiation of taxpayer refund checks.

No attorney, certified public accountant or enrolled agent who is an income tax return preparer shall endorse or otherwise negotiate any check made in respect of income taxes which is issued to a taxpayer other than the attorney, certified public accountant or enrolled agent.

[42 F.R. 38353, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.32 Practice of law.

Nothing in the regulations in this part shall be construed as authorizing persons not members of the bar to practice law.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966. Redesigned at 42 F.R. 38353, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.33 Tax shelter opinions.

(a) Tax shelter opinions and offering materials. A practitioner who provides a tax shelter opinion analyzing the Federal tax effects of a tax shelter investment shall comply with each of the following requirements:

(1) Factual matters. (i) The practitioner must make inquiry as to all relevant facts, be satisfied that the material facts are accurately and completely described in the offering materials, and assure that any representations as to future activities are clearly indentified, reasonable and complete.

(ii) A practitioner may not accept as true asserted facts pertaining to the tax shelter which he/she should not, based on his/her background and knowledge, reasonably believe to be true. However, a practitioner need not conduct an audit or independent verification of the asserted facts, or assume that a client's statement of the facts cannot be relied upon, unless he/she has reason to believe that any relevant facts asserted to him/her are untrue.

(iii) If the fair market value of property or the expected financial performance of an investment is relevant to the tax shelter, a practitioner may not accept an appraisal or financial projection as support for the matters claimed therein unless:

(A) The appraisal or financial projection makes sense on its face;

(B) The practitioner reasonably believes that the person making the appraisal or financial projection is competent to do so and is not of dubious reputation; and

(C) The appraisal is based on the definition of fair market value prescribed under the relevant Federal tax provisions.

(iv) If the fair market value of purchased property is to be established by reference to its stated purchase price, the practitioner must examine the terms and conditions upon which the property was (or is to be) purchased to determine whether the stated purchase price reasonably may be considered to be its fair market value.

(2) Relate law to facts. The practitioner must relate the law to the actual facts and, when addressing issues based on future activities, clearly identify what facts are assumed.

(3) Identification of material issues. The practitioner must ascertain that all material Federal tax issues have been considered, and that all of those issues which involve the reasonable possibility of a challenge by the Internal Revenue Service have been fully and fairly addressed in the offering materials.

(4) Opinion on each material issue. Where possible, the practitioner must provide an opinion whether it is more likely than not that an investor will prevail on the merits of each material tax issue presented by the offering which involves a reasonable possibility of a challenge by the Internal Revenue Service. Where such an opinion cannot be given with respect to any material tax issue, the opinion should fully describe the reasons for the practitioner's inability to opine as to the likely outcome.

(5) Overall evaluation. (i) Where possible, the practitioner must provide an overall evaluation whether the material tax benefits in the aggregate more likely than not will be realized. Where such an overall evaluation cannot be given, the opinion should fully describe the reasons for the practitioner's inability to make an overall evaluation. Opinions concluding that an overall evaluation cannot be provided will be given special scrutiny to determine if the stated reasons are adequate.

(ii) A favorable overall evaluation may not be rendered unless it is based on a conclusion that substantially more than half of the material tax benefits, in terms of their financial impact on a typical investor, more likely than not will be realized if challenged by the Internal Revenue Service.

(iii) If it is not possible to give an overall evaluation, or if the overall evaluation is that the material tax benefits in the aggregate will not be realized, the fact that the practitioner's opinion does not constitute a favorable overall evaluation, or that it is an unfavorable overall evaluation, must be clearly and prominently disclosed in the ofering materials.

(iv) The following examples illustrate the principles of this paragraph:

Example (1). A limited partnership acquires real property in a sale-leaseback transaction. The principal tax benefits offered to investing partners consist of depreciation and interest deductions. Lesser tax benefits are offered to investors by reason of several deductions under Internal Revenue Code section 162 (ordinary and necessary business expenses). If a practitioner concludes that it is more likely than not that the partnership will not be treated as the owner of the property for tax purposes (which is required to allow the interest and depreciation deductions), then he/she may not opine to the effect that it is more likely than not that the material tax benefits in the aggregate will be realized, regardless of whether favorable opinions may be given with respect to the deductions claimed under Code section 162.

Example (2). A corporation electing under subchapter S of the Internal Revenue Code is formed to engage in research and development activities. The offering materials forecast that deductions for research and experimental expenditures equal to 75% of the total investment in the corporation will be available during the first two years of the corporation's operations, other expenses will account for another 15% of the total investment, and that little or no gross income will be received by the corporation during this period. The practitioner concludes that it is more likely than not that deductions for research and experimental expenditures will be allowable. The practitioner may render an opinion to the effect that based on this conclusion, it is more likely than not that the material tax benefits in the aggregate will be realized, regardless of whether he/she can opine that it is more likely than not that any of the other tax benefits will be achieved.

Example (3). An investment program is established to acquire offsetting positions in commodities contracts. The objective of the program is to close the loss positions in year one and to close the profit positions in year two. The principal tax benefit offered by the program is a loss in the first year, coupled with the deferral of offsetting gain until the following year. The practitioner concludes that the losses will not be deductible in year one. Accordingly, he/she may not render an opinion to the effect that it is more likely than not that the material tax benefits in the aggregate will be realized, regardless of the fact that he/she is of the opinion that losses not allowable in year one will be allowable in year two, because the principal tax benefit offered is a one-year deferral of income.

Example (4). A limited partnership is formed to acquire, own and operate residential rental real estate. The offering material forecasts gross income of $2,000,000 and total deductions of $10,000,000, resulting in net losses of $8,000,000 over the first six taxable years. Of the total deductions, depreciation and interest are projected to be $7,000,000, and other deductions

$3,000,000. The practitioner concludes that it is more likely than not all of the depreciation and interest deductions will be allowable, and that it is more likely than not that the other deductions will not be allowed. The practitioner may render and opinion to the effect that it is more likely than not that the material tax benefits in the aggregate will be realized.

(6) Description of opinion. The practitioner must assure that the offering materials correctly and fairly represent the nature and extent of the tax shelter opinion.

(b) Reliance on other opinions—(1) In general. A practitioner may provide an opinion on less than all of the material tax issues only if:

(i) At least one other competent practitioner provides an opinion on the likely outcome with respect to all of the other material tax issues which involve a reasonable possibility of challenge by the Internal Revenue Service, and an overall evalution whether the material tax benefits in the aggregate more likely than not will be realized, which is disseminated in the same manner as the practitioner's opinion; and

(ii) The practitioner, upon reviewing such other opinions and any offering materials, has no reason to believe that the standards of paragraph (a) of this section have not been complied with. Notwithstanding the foregoing, a practitioner who has not been retained to provide an overall evaluation whether the material tax benefits in the aggregate more likely than not will be realized may issue an opinion on less than all the material tax issues only if he/she has no reason to believe, based on his/her knowledge and experience, that the overall evaluation given by the practitioner who furnished the overall evaluation is incorrect on its face.

(2) Forecasts and projections. A practitioner who is associated with forecasts or projections relating to or based upon the tax consequences of the tax shelter offering that are included in the offering materials, or are disseminated to potential investors other than the practitioner's clients, may rely on the opinion of another practitioner as to any or all material tax issues, provided that the practitioner who desires to rely on the other opinion has no reason to believe that the standards of paragraph (a) of this section have not been complied with by the practitioner rendering such other opinion, and the requirements of paragraph (b)(1) of this section are satisfied. The practitioner's report shall disclose any material tax issue not covered by, or incorrectly opined upon, by the other opinion, and shall set forth his/her opinion with respect to each such issue in a manner that satisfies the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section.

(c) Definitions. For purposes of this section:

(1) "Practitioner" is any person authorized under § 10.3 of this part to practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

(2) A "tax shelter," as the term is used in this section, is an investment which has as a significant and intended feature for Federal income or excise tax purposes either of the following attributes: (i) Deductions in excess of income from the investment being available in any year to reduce income from other sources in that year, or (ii) credits in excess of the tax attributable to the income from the investment being available in any year to offset taxes on income from other sources in that year. Excluded from the term are municipal bonds; annuities; family trusts [but not including schemes or arrangements that are marketed to the public other than in a direct practitioner-client relationship]; qualified retirement plans; individual retirement accounts, stock option plans; securities issued in a corporate reorganization; mineral development ventures, if the only tax benefit would be percentage depletion; and real estate where it is anticipated that in no year is it likely that deductions will exceed the tax attributable to the income from the investment in that year. Whether an investment is intended to have tax shelter features depends on the objective facts and circumstances of each case. Significant weight will be given to the features described in the offering materials to determine whether the investment is a tax shelter.

(3) A "tax shelter opinion," as the term is used in this section, is advice by a practitioner concerning the Federal tax aspects of a tax shelter either appearing or referred to in the offering materials, or used or referred to in connection with sales promotion efforts, and directed to persons other than the client who engaged the practitioner to give the advice. The term includes the tax aspects or tax risks portion of the offering materials prepared by or at the direction of a practitioner, whether or not a separate opinion letter is issued or whether or not the practitioner's name is referred to in the offering materials or in connection with the sales promotion efforts. In addition, a financial forcast or projection prepared by a practitioner is a tax shelter opinion if it is predicated on assumptions regarding Federal tax aspects of the investment, and it meets the other requirements of the first sentence of this subparagraph. The term does not, however, include rendering advice solely to the offeror or reviewing parts of the offering materials, so long as neither the name of the practitioner, nor the fact that a practitioner has rendered advice concerning the tax aspects, is referred to in the offering materials or in connection with the sales promotion efforts.

(4) A "material" tax issue as the term is used in this section is (i) any Federal income or excise tax issue relating to a tax shelter that would make a significant contribution toward sheltering from Federal taxes income from other sources by providing deductions in excess of the income from the tax shelter investment in any year, or tax credits available to offset tax liabilities in excess of the tax attributable to the tax shelter investment in any year; (ii) any other Federal income or excise tax issue relating to a tax shelter that could have a significant impact (either beneficial or adverse) on a tax shelter investor under any reasonably foreseeable circumstances (e.g., depreciation or investment tax credit recapture, availability of long-term capital gain treatment, or realization of taxable income in excess of cash flow, upon sale or other disposition of the tax shelter investment); and (iii) the potential applicability of penalties, additions to tax, or interest charges that reasonably could be asserted against a tax shelter investor by the Internal Revenue Service with respect to the tax shelter. The determination of what is material is to be made in good faith by the practitioner, based on information available at the time the offering materials are circulated.

Subpart C—Rules Applicable to Disciplinary Proceedings

§ 10.50 Authority to disbar or suspend.

Pursuant to section 3 of the Act of July 7, 1884, 23 Stat. 258 (31 U.S.C. 1026), the Secretary of the Treasury, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, may suspend or disbar from practice before the Internal Revenue Service any attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent shown to be incompetent, disreputable or who refuses to comply with the rules and regulations in this part or who shall, with intent to defraud, in any manner willfully and knowingly deceive, mislead, or threaten any claimant or prospective claimant, by word, circular, letter, or by advertisement.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 35 F.R. 13205, Aug. 19, 1970]

§ 10.51 disreputable conduct.

Disreputable conduct for which an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent may be disbarred or suspended from practice before the Internal Revenue Service includes, but is not limited to:

(a) Conviction of any criminal offense under the revenue laws of the United States, or of any offense involving dishonesty, or breach of trust.

(b) Giving false or misleading information, or participating in any way in the giving of false or misleading information to the Department of the Treasury or any officer or employee thereof, or to any tribunal authorized to pass upon Federal tax matters, in connection with any matter pending or likely to be pending before them, knowing such information to be false or misleading. Facts or other matters contained in testimony, Federal tax returns, financial statements, applications for enrollment, affidavits, declarations, or any other document or statement, written or oral, are included in the term "information."

(c) Solicitation of employment as prohibited under § 10.30 of this part, the use of false or misleading representations with intent to deceive a client or prospective client in order to procure employment, or intimating that the practitioner is able improperly to obtain special consideration or action from the Internal Revenue Service or officer or employee thereof.

(d) Willfully failing to make Federal tax return in violation of the revenue laws of the United States, or evading, attempting to evade, or participating in any way in evading or attempting to evade any Federal tax or payment thereof, knowingly counseling or suggesting a client or prospective client an illegal plan to evade Federal taxes or payment thereof, or concealing assets of himself or another to evade Federal taxes or payment thereof.

(e) Misappropriation of, or failure properly and promptly to remit funds received from a client for the purpose of payment of taxes or other obligations due the United States.

(f) Directly or indirectly attempting to influence, or offering or agreeing to attempt to influence, the offical action of any officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service by the use of threats, false accusations, duress or coercion, by the offer of any special inducement or promise of advantage or by the bestowing of any gift, favor or thing of value.

(g) Disbarment or suspension from practice as an attorney, certified public accountant, public accountant, or actuary by any duly constituted authority of any State, possession, territory, Commonwealth, the District of Columbia, any Federal court of record, or any Federal agency, body or board.

(h) Knowingly aiding and abetting another person to practice before the Internal Revenue Service during a period of suspension, disbarment, or ineligibility of such other person. Maintaining a partnership for the practice of law, accountancy, or other related professional service with a person who is under disbarment from practice before the Service shall be presumed to be a violation of this provision.

(i) Contemptuous conduct in connection with practice before the Internal Revenue Service, including the use of abusive language, making false accusations and statements knowing them to be false, or circulating or publishing malicious or libelous matter.

(j) Giving a false opinion, knowingly, recklessly, or through gross incompetence, including an opinion which is intentionally or recklessly misleading, or a pattern of providing incompetent opinions on questions arising under the Federal tax laws. False opinions described in this paragraph include those which reflect or result from a knowing misstatement of fact or law; from an assertion of a position known to be unwarranted under existing law; from counseling or assisting in conduct known to be illegal or fraudulent; from concealment of matters required by law to be revealed; or from conscious disregard of information indicating that material facts expressed in the tax opinion or offering material are false or misleading. For the pupose of this paragraph, reckless conduct is a highly unreasonable omission or misrepresentation, involving not merely simple or inexcusable negligence, but an extreme departure from the standards of ordinary care that is either known or is so obvious that the competent practitioner must or should have been aware of it. Gross incompetence includes conduct that reflects gross indifference, preparation which is grossly inadequate under the circumstances, and a consistent failure to perform obligations to the client.

§ 10.52 Violation of regulations.

(a) In General. Any attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent may be disbarred or suspended from practice before the Internal Revenue Service for willful violation of any of the regulations contained in this part.

(b) Tax shelter opinions. An attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or enrolled actuary may be disbarred or suspended from practice before the Internal Revenue Service for violating any part of § 10.33 of this part, if such violation is willfull, reckless or through gross incompetence (within the meaning of § 10.51(j) of this part); or if the violation is part of a pattern of providing tax shelter opinions that fail to comply with § 10.33 of this part.

§ 10.53 Receipt of information concerning attorneys, certified public accountants and enrolled agents.

If an officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service has reason to believe that an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent has violated any provision of this part, or if any such officer or employee receives information to that effect, he shall promptly make a written report thereof, which report or a copy thereof shall be forwarded to the Director of Practice. If any other person has information of such violations, he may make a report thereof to the Director of Practice or to any officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service.

§ 10.54 Institution of proceeding.

Whenever the Director of Practice has reason to believe that any attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent has violated any provision of the laws or regulations governing practice before the Internal Revenue Service, he may reprimand such person or institute a proceeding for disbarment or suspension of such person. The proceeding shall be instituted by a complaint which names the respondent and is signed by the Director of Practice and filed in his office. Except in cases of willfulness, or where time, the nature of the proceeding, or the public interest does not permit, a proceeding will not be instituted under this section until facts or conduct which may warrant such action have been called to the attention of the proposed respondent in writting and he has been accorded opportunity to demonstrate or achieve compliance with all lawful requirements.

§ 10.55 Conferences.

(a) In general. The Director of Practice may confer with an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent concerning allegations of misconduct irrespective of whether a proceeding for disbarment or suspension has been instituted against him. If such conference results in a stipulation in connection with a proceeding in which such person is the respondent, the stipulation may be entered in the record at the instance of either party to the proceeding.

(b) Resignation or voluntary suspension. An attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent, in order to avoid the institution or conclusion of disbarment or suspension proceeding, may offer his consent to suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service. An enrolled agent may also offer his resignation. The Director of Practice, in his discretion, may accept the offered resignation of an enrolled agent and may suspend an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent in accordance with the consent offered.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 35 F.R. 13206, Aug. 19, 1970]

§ 10.56 Contents of complaint.

(a) Charges. A complaint shall give a plain and concise description of the allegations which constitute the basis for the proceeding. A complaint shall be deemed sufficient if it fairly informs the respondent of the charges against him so that he is able to prepare his defense.

(b) Demand for answer. In the complaint, or in a separate paper attached to the complaint, notification shall be given of the place and time within which the respondent shall file his answer, which time shall not be less than 15 days from the date of service of the complaint, and notice shall be given that a decision by default may be rendered against the respondent in the event he fails to file his answer as required.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38353, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.57 Service of complaint and other papers.

(a) Complaint. The complaint or a copy thereof may be served upon the respondent by certified mail, or first-class mail as hereinafter provided; by delivering it to the respondent or his attorney or agent of record either in person or by leaving it at the office or place of business of the respondent, attorney or agent; or in any other manner which has been agreed to by the respondent. Where the service is by certified mail, the return post office receipt duly signed by or on behalf of the respondent shall be proof of service. If the certified matter is not claimed or accepted by the respondent and is returned undelivered, complete service may be made upon the respondent by mailing the complaint to him by first-class mail, addressed to him at the address under which he is enrolled or at the last address known to the Director of Practice. If service is made upon the respondent or his attorney or agent of record in person or by leaving the complaint at the office or place of business of the respondent, attorney or agent, the verified return by the person making service, setting forth the manner of service, shall be proof of such service.

(b) Service of papers other than complaint. Any paper other than the complaint may be served upon an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent as provided in paragraph (a) of this section or by mailing the paper by first-class mail to the respondent at the last address known to the Director of Practice, or by mailing the paper by first-class mail to the respondent's attorney or agent or record. Such mailing shall constitute complete service. Notices may be served upon the respondent or his attorney or agent of record by telegraph.

(c) Filing of papers. Whenever the filing of a paper is required or permitted in connection with a disbarment or suspension proceeding, and the place of filing is not specified by this subpart or by rule or order of the Administrative Law Judge, the paper shall be filed with the Director of Practice, Treasury Department, Washington, D.C. 20220. All papers shall be filed in duplicate.

§ 10.58 Answer.

(a) Filing. The respondent's answer shall be filed in writing within the time specified in the complaint or notice of institution of the proceeding, unless on application the time is extended by the Director of Practice or the Administrative Law Judge. The answer shall be filed in duplicate with the Director of Practice.

(b) Contents. The answer shall contain a statement of facts which constitute the grounds of defense, and it shall specifically admit or deny each allegation set forth in the complaint, except that the respondent shall not deny a material allegation in the complaint which he knows to be true, or state that he is without sufficient information to form a belief when in fact he possesses such information. The respondent may also state affirmatively special matters of defense.

(c) Failure to deny or answer allegations in the complaint. Every allegation in the complaint which is not denied in the answer shall be deemed to be admitted and may be considered as proved, and no further evidence in respect of such allegation need be adduced at a hearing. Failure to file an answer within the time prescribed in the notice to the respondent, except as the time for answer is extended by the Director of Practice or the Administrative Law Judge, shall constitute an admission of the allegations of the complaint and a waiver of hearing, and the Administrative Law Judge may make his decision by default without a hearing or further procedure.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.59 Supplemental charges.

If it appears that the respondent in his answer, falsely and in bad faith, denies a material allegation of fact in the complaint or states that the respondent has no knowledge sufficient to form a belief, when he in fact possesses such information, or if it appears that the respondent has knowingly introduced false testimony during proceedings for his disbarment or suspension, the Director of Practice may thereupon file supplemental charges against the respondent. Such supplemental charges may be tried with other charges in the case, provided the respondent is given due notice thereof and is afforded an opportunity to prepare a defense thereto.

§ 10.60 Reply to answer.

No reply to the respondent's answer shall be required, and new matter in the answer shall be deemed to be denied, but the Director of Practice may file a reply in his discretion or at the request of the Administrative Law Judge.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.61 Proof; variance; amendment of pleadings.

In the case of a variance between the allegations in a pleading and the evidence adduced in support of the pleading, the Administrative Law Judge may order or authorize amendment of the pleading to conform to the evidence: Provided, That the party who would otherwise be prejudged by the amendment is given reasonable opportunity to meet the allegations of the pleading as amended; and the Administrative Law Judge shall make findings on any issue presented by the pleadings as so amended.

[31 F.R. 10773. Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.62 Motions and requests.

Motions and requests may be filed with the Director of Practice or with the Administrative Law Judge.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.63 Representation.

A respondent or proposed respondent may appear in person or he may be represented by counsel or other representative who need not be enrolled to practice before the Internal Revenue Service. The Director may be represented by an attorney or other employee of the Internal Revenue Service.

§ 10.64 Administrative Law Judge.

(a) Appointment: An Administrative Law Judge appointed as provided by 5 U.S.C. 3105 (1966), shall conduct proceedings upon complaints for the disbarment or suspension of attorneys, certified public accountants, or enrolled agents.

(b) Powers of Administrative Law Judge. Among other powers, the Administrative Law Judge shall have authority, in connection with any disbarment or suspension proceeding assigned or referred to him, to do the following:

(1) Administer oaths and affirmations;

(2) Make rulings upon motions and requests, which rulings may not be appealed from prior to the close of a hearing except, at the discretion of the Administrative Law Judge, in extraordinary circumstances;

(3) Determine the time and place of hearing and regulate its course and conduct;

(4) Adopt rules of procedure and modify the same from time to time as occasion requires for the orderly disposition of proceedings;

(5) Rule upon offers of proof, receive relevant evidence, and examine witnesses;

(6) Take or authorize the taking of depositions;

(7) Receive and consider oral or written argument on facts or law;

(8) Hold or provide for the holding of conferences for the settlement or simplification of the issues by consent of the parties;

(9) Perform such acts and take such measures as are necessary or appropriate to the efficient conduct of any proceeding; and

(10) Make initial decisions.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38353, 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.65 Hearings.

(a) In general. The Administrative Law Judge shall preside at the hearing on a complaint for the disbarment of suspension of an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent. Hearings shall be stenographically recorded and transcribed and the testimony of witnesses shall be taken under oath or affirmation. Hearings will be conducted pursuant to 5 U.S.C. 556 (1966).

(b) Failure to appear. If either party to the proceeding fails to appear at the hearing, after due notice thereof has been sent to him, he shall be deemed to have waived the right to a hearing and the Administrative Law Judge may make his decision against the absent party by default.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966. as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.66 Evidence.

(a) In general. The rules of evidence prevailing in courts of law and equity are not controlling in hearings on complaints for the disbarment or suspension of attorneys, certified public accountants, and enrolled agents. However, the Administrative Law Judge shall exclude evidence which is irrelevant, immaterial, or unduly repetitious.

(b) Depositions. The deposition of any witness taken pursuant to § 10.67 may be admitted.

(c) Proof of documents. Offical documents, records and papers of the Internal Revenue Service and the Office of Director of Practice shall be admissible in evidence without the production of an officer or employee to authenticate them. Any such documents, records, and papers may be evidenced by a copy attested or identified by an officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service or the Treasury Department, as the case may be.

(d) Exhibits. If any document, record, or other paper is introduced in evidence as an exhibit, the Administrative Law Judge may authorize the withdrawal of the exhibit subject to any conditions which he deems proper.

(e) Objections. Objections to evidence shall be in short form, stating the grounds of objection relied upon, and the record shall not include argument thereon, except as ordered by the Administrative Law Judge. Rulings on such objections shall be a part of the record. No exception to the ruling is necessary to preserve the rights of the parties.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 35 F.R. 13206, Aug. 19, 1970; 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.67 Depositions.

Depositions for use at a hearing may, with the written approval of the Administrative Law Judge be taken by either the Director of Practice or the respondent or their duly authorized representatives. Depositions may be taken upon oral or written interrogatories, upon not less than 10 days written notice to the other party before any officer duly authorized to administer an oath for general purposes or before an officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service who is authorized to administer an oath in internal revenue matters. Such notice shall state the names of the witnesses and the time and place where the depositions are to be taken. The requirement of 10 days' notice may be waived by the parties in writing, and depositions may then be taken from the persons and at the times and places mutually agreed to by the parties. When a deposition is taken upon written interrogatories, any cross-examination shall be upon written interrogatories. Copies of such written interrogatories shall be served upon the other party with the notice, and copies of any written cross-interrogation shall be mailed or delivered to the opposing party at least 5 days before the date of taking the depositions, unless the parties mutually agree otherwise. A party upon whose behalf a deposition is taken must file it with the Administrative Law Judge and serve one copy upon the opposing party. Expenses in the reporting of depositions shall be borne by the party at whose instance the deposition is taken.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.68 Transcript.

In case where the hearing is stenographically reported by a Government contract reporter, copies of the transcript may be obtained from the reporter at rates not to exceed the maximum rates fixed by contract between the Government and the reporter. Where the hearing is stenographically reported by a regular employee of the Internal Revenue Service, a copy thereof will be supplied to the respondent either without charge or upon the payment of a reasonable fee. Copies of exhibits introduced at the hearing or at the taking of depositions will be supplied to the parties upon the payment of a reasonable fee (Sec. 501, Pub. L. 82-137, 65 Stat. 290 (31 U.S.C. 483a)).

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.69 Proposed findings and conclusions.

Except in cases where the respondent has failed to answer the complaint or where a party has failed to appear at the hearing, the Administrative Law Judge prior to making his decision, shall afford the parties a reasonable opportunity to submit proposed findings and conclusions and supporting reasons therefor.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.70 Decision of the Administrative Law Judge.

As soon as practicable after the conclusion of a hearing and the receipt of any proposed findings and conclusions timely submitted by the parties, the Administrative Law Judge shall make the initial decision in the case. The decision shall include (a) a statement of findings and conclusions, as well as the reasons or basis therefor, upon all the material issues of fact, law, or discretion presented on the record, and (b) an order of disbarment, suspension, or reprimand or an order of dismissal of the complaint. The Administrative Law Judge shall file the decision with the Director of Practice and shall transmit a copy thereof to the respondent or his attorney of record. In the absence of an appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury, or review of the decision upon motion of the Secretary, the decisison of the Administrative Law Judge shall without further proceedings become the decision of the Secretary of the Treasury 30 days from the date of the Administrative Law Judge's decision.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.71 Appeal to the Secretary.

Within 30 days from the date of the Administrative Law Judge's decision, either party may appeal to the Secretary of the Treasury. The appeal shall be filed with the Director of Practice in duplicate and shall include exceptions to the decision of the Administrative Law Judge and supporting reasons for such exceptions. If an appeal is filed by the Director of Practice, he shall transmit a copy thereof to the respondent. Within 30 days after receipt of an appeal or copy thereof, the other party may file a reply brief in duplicate with the Director of Practice. If the reply brief is filed by the Director, he shall transmit a copy of it to the respondent. Upon the filing of an appeal and a reply brief, if any, the Director of Practice shall transmit the entire record to the Secretary of the Treasury.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.72 Decision of the Secretary.

On appeal from or review of the initial decision of the Administrative Law Judge, the Secretary of the Treasury will make the agency decision. In making his decision the Secretary of the Treasury will review the record or such portions thereof as may be cited by the parties to permit limiting of the issues. A copy of the Secretary's decision shall be transmitted to the respondent by the Director of Practice.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.73 Effect of disbarment or suspension; surrender of card.

In case the final order against the respondent is for disbarment, the respondent shall not thereafter be permitted to practice before the Internal Revenue Service unless and until authorized to do so by the Director of Practice pursuant to § 10.75. In case the final order against the respondent is for suspension, the respondent shall not thereafter be permitted to practice before the Internal Revenue Service during the period of suspension. If an enrolled agent is disbarred or suspended, he shall surrender his enrollment card to the Director of Practice for cancellation, in the case of disbarment, or for retention during the period of suspension.

§ 10.74 Notice of disbarment or suspension.

Upon the issuance of a final order disbarring or suspending an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent, the Director of Practice shall give notice thereof to appropriate officers and employees of the Internal Revenue Service and to interested departments and agencies of the Federal Government. Notice in such manner as the Director of Practice may determine may be given to the proper authorities of the State by which the disbarred or suspended person was licensed to practice as an attorney or accountant.

§ 10.75 Petition for reinstatement.

The Director of Practice may entertain a petition for reinstatement from any person disbarred from practice before the Internal Revenue Service after the expiration of 5 years following such disbarment. Reinstatement may not be granted unless the Director of Practice is satisfied that the petitioner, thereafter, is not likely to conduct himself contrary to the regulations in this part, and that granting such reinstatement would not be contrary to the public interest.

[31 F.R. 10773, Aug. 13, 1966, as amended at 35 F.R. 13206, Aug 19, 1970]

§ 10.76 Advisory committee.

For purposes of advising the Director of Practice whether an individual may have violated § 10.33 of this part, the Director of Practice is authorized to establish an Advisory Committee, composed of at least five individuals authorized to practice before the Internal Revenue Service. Under procedures established by the Director of Practice, such Advisory Committee shall, at the request of the Director of Practice, review and make recommendations with regard to alleged violations of § 10.33 of this part.

Subpart D—General Provisions

§ 10.90 Records.

(a) Availability. There are made available to public inspection at the Office of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue the roster of all persons enrolled to practice and the roster of all persons disbarred or suspended from practice. Other records may be disclosed upon specific request, in accordance with the disclosure regulations of the Internal Revenue Service and the Office of the Secretary.

(b) Disciplinary procedures. A request by a practitioner that a hearing in a disciplinary proceeding concerning him be public, and that the record thereof be made available for inspection by interested persons may be granted if agreement is reached by stipulation in advance to protect from disclosure tax information which is confidential, in accordance with the applicable statutes and regulations.

§ 10.91 Effective date of regulations.

The regulations on this part shall become effective on August 29, 1977, and shall supersede all prior regulations related to practice before the Internal Revenue Service except to the extent and subject to the conditions set forth in § 10.26(d).

[42 F.R. 38354, July 28, 1977]

§ 10.92 Saving clause.

Any proceeding for the disbarment or suspension of an attorney, certified public accountant, or enrolled agent, instituted but not closed prior to the effective date of these revised regulations, shall not be affected by such regulations, except that any such proceeding based solely on conduct which would not justify disbarment or suspension under the provisions of the part as revised shall be dismissed. Any proceeding for disbarment or suspension based on conduct engaged in prior to the effective date of these regulations may be instituted subsequent to such effective date, provided that such conduct would continue to justify disbarment or suspension under the provisions of this part as revised.

§ 10.93 Special orders.

The Secretary of the Treasury reserves the power to issue such special orders as he may deem proper in any cases within the purview of this part.

Treasury Department Order No. 150-106

Relocation of the Nevada Internal Revenue Service District from Reno to Las Vegas

Dated: February 8, 1985

Under the authority vested in the President to establish Internal Revenue Districts by Section 7621 of the Internal Revenue Code, as amended, and as delegated to the Secretary of the Treasury by Executive Order 10289, 31 U.S.C. §321, Reorganization Plan No. 1 of 1952 as made applicable to the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 by Section 7804(a), and Executive Order 10574, and delegated to me by Treasury Department Order No. 101-5, it is ordered that:

the headquarters office of the Internal Revenue District for the State of Nevada be transferred from Reno, Nevada, to Las Vegas, Nevada; and the Internal Revenue District for the State of Nevada be known as the Las Vegas Internal Revenue District.

1. Las Vegas District: Shall include the State of Nevada, with the headquarters office located in Las Vegas, Nevada.

2. District Director of Internal Revenue: The title of the District office shall bear the title "District Director of Internal Revenue," identified by the name of the city or subdivision thereof, in which the headquarters office is located.

3. Implementation: The provisions of paragraphs numbered 1-2 of this order shall be implemented upon such date as the Commissioner of Internal Revenue may determine. Effective immediately, the Commissioner of Internal Revenue is authorized to effect, at appropriate times and in an orderly manner, such transfers of functions, personnel, positions, equipment, and funds as may be necessary to implement the provisions of this Order.

4. Effect on Prior Department of the Treasury Orders: Paragraph 4(d) of Treasury Order 150-20, dated November 21, 1952 is superseded.

R.T. McNamar,
Deputy Secretary of the Treasury.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John T. Ricotta of the Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, Attention: CC:LR:T (EE-66-84), telephone: 202-566-4396 (not a toll-free number).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations provide guidance concerning the limits on contributions to and the reserves of welfare benefit funds maintained pursuant to a collective bargaining agreement under section 419A(f)(5) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (Code), as added to the Code by section 511 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (26 U.S.C. §419A) [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 362]. The proposed regulations are issued under the authority contained in section 7805 of the Code (26 U.S.C. §7805). For the text of the temporary regulations, see F.R. Doc. [85-15940] published * * * [on page 146, this Bulletin].

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking which solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting the temporary regulations referred to in this document as final regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably 8 copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

M. EDDIE HEIRONIMUS,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Effective Dates, Transitional Rules, Restrictions on Plan Distributions, and Other Issues Under the Retirement Equity Act of 1984

EE-3-85

SUMMARY: * * * [T]he Internal Revenue Service is issuing temporary regulations relating to effective dates, transitional rules, restrictions on distributions from employee plans and other issues arising under the Retirement Equity Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-397, 1984-2 C.B. 433]. The text of those temporary regulations also serves as the text for this Notice of Proposed Rulemaking.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed before September 17, 1985. The amendments to the regulations generally would apply to plan years beginning after December 31, 1984, except as otherwise specified in the Retirement Equity Act of 1984, and are proposed be effective on the date of their publication in the Federal Register as a Treasury decision.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (EE-3-85), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Charles M. Watkins of the Employee Plans and Exempt Organizations Division, Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, Attention: CC:LR:T (EE-3-85), 202-566-3903 (not a toll-free number).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations * * * [on page 130, this Bulletin] amend 26 CFR by adding new sections under Part 1 to provide guidance so taxpayers can comply with Titles II and III of the Retirement Equity Act of 1984. The final regulations which are proposed to be based on the temporary regulations would amend Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations by adding similar sections to Part 1 (Income Tax; Taxable years beginning after December 31, 1953). The regulations are proposed to be issued under the authority contained in section 7805 of the Code (68A Stat. 917, 26 U.S.C. 7805). For the text of the temporary regulations, see F.R. Doc. 85-17238 (T.D. 8038) published * * * [on page 130, this Bulletin].

Withdrawal of Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Front-End Tertiary Oil Under The Crude Oil Windfall Profit Tax Act of 1980

LR-68-80

SUMMARY: This document withdraws the notice of proposed rulemaking relating to the treatment of front-end tertiary oil under the Crude Oil Windfall profit Tax Act of 1980 [Pub. L. 96-223, 1980-3 C.B.I.] that was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for December 5, 1980 (45 FR 80551).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document withdraws the notice of proposed rulemaking that was published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for December 5, 1980 (45 FR 80551). That notice contained proposed amendments (§51.4994-2) to the Excise Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 51) under section 4994(c) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. The regulations related to the treatment of front-end oil under the Crude Oil Windfall Profit Tax Act of 1980. A number of comments were received concerning the notice and a public hearing was held on February 24, 1981. Due to the fact that the front-end oil exemption expired on September 30, 1981, and the limited applicability of the proposed rules, it has been determined that such notice should be withdrawn. However, no inference should be drawn with respect to the positions taken in the proposed regulations because of the withdrawal of the notice.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of this document is David R. Haglund of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing this document, both in matters of substance and style.

Withdrawal of Proposed Amendments

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 51 relating to the treatment of front-end oil tertiary oil under the Crude Oil Windfall Profit Tax Act of 1980 published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for December 5, 1980 (45 FR 80551), are hereby withdrawn.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under section 23 (former section 44C) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, as amended (under its former designation) by sections 201(a), 202, and 203 of the Crude Oil Windfall Profit Tax Act of 1980 (Pub. L. 96-223, 94 Stat. 256) [1980-3 C.B. 1, 28, 30] and section 471 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369, 98 Stat. 826) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 333].

EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

Under section 23 a credit against Federal income tax is allowed for "qualified energy conservation expenditures" and "qualified renewable energy source expenditures."

Proposed §1.23-1(c) reflects the statutory increase of the credit for renewable energy expenditures to 40 percent of up to $10,000 of expenditures, for a maximum credit of $4,000. However, under proposed §1.23-1(d)(3), expenditures financed with subsidized energy financing are not taken into account in computing the credit except to reduce the maximum amount of allowable expenditures.

Proposed §1.23-2(b) expands the definition of the term "renewable energy source expenditures." Certain expenditures for an onsite well drilled for any geothermal deposit are treated as renewable energy source expenditures, but only if the taxpayer has not elected under section 263(c) to deduct any portion of such expenditures.

Proposed §1.23-2(f) expands the definition of the term "solar energy property" (a category of "renewable energy source property") to include systems that use solar energy to produce electricity. Additionally, certain solar roof panels, although structural components of the buildings in which they are installed, are treated as renewable energy source property. Proposed §1.23-2(f)(3) clarifies that certain systems utilizing thermal siphon principles are passive solar systems rather than active solar systems.

Proposed §1.23-2(i) provides a definition for the term "subsidized energy financing." An example in the definition clarifies the fact that the term subsidized energy financing includes subsidized financing under a Federal, State, or local program having two or more principal purposes, provided that at least one of the principal purposes is to provide subsidized financing to projects designed to conserve or produce energy.

Proposed §1.23-3(j) provides rules relating to jointly owned energy conservation property or renewable energy source property.

The proposed regulations would amend §1.23-4, previously reserved, to provide the performance and quality standards that must be met in order for certain items to qualify for the residential energy credit.

The performance and quality standards listed in these regulations contain standards for energy conserving components which are identical to the Department of Energy's standards for the Residential Conservation Service Program appearing in 10 CFR Part 456, subpart H.

The solar energy property standards listed in these regulations meet the applicable specific criteria of the National Bureau of Standards Building Science Series 147, Performance Criteria for Solar Energy Heating and Cooling Systems in Residential Buildings (September 1982).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held on written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SPECIAL ANALYSIS

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that these proposed rules are not subject to review under Executive Order 12291. Accordingly, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits its public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these regulations is Beverly A. Baughman of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations, both on matters of substance and style.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Parts 1 and 601 are as follows:

INCOME TAX REGULATIONS (26 CFR Part 1)

Paragraph 1. These regulations are issued under the authority of 26 U.S.C. 7805 and 226 U.S.C. 23. The authority citation for Part 1 is amended by adding at the end thereof "§1.23-1-§1.223-6 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 23."

Par. 2. §1.44C-1 is redesignated as §1.23-1 and is amended as follows:

1. Paragraph 9a) is amended—

1. By removing from the first sentence "Section 44C" and adding in its place the words "Section 23 or former section 44C",

2. By removing from the third sentence "§1.44C-3" and adding in its place "§1.23-3", and

3. By removing from the seventh sentence "§1.44C-3(h)" and adding in its place "§1.23-3(h)".

. 2. Paragraph (b) is amended by removing from the last sentence

"§1.44C-2(a)" and adding in its place "§1.23-2(a)".

3. Paragraph (c) is revised to read as set forth below.

4. Paragraph (d) is amended—

1. By removing from the first sentence of paragraph (d)(2)(i) "§1.44C-3(h)" and adding in its place "§1.23-3(h)",

2. By revising the second sentence of paragraph (d)(2)(i) to read as set forth below,

3. By removing from the last sentence of paragraph (d)(2)(ii) "§1.44C-3(h)" and adding in its place "§1.23-3(h)",

4. By redesignating paragraph (d)(3)(i), (ii), (iii), (iv), (v), (vi), (vii), (viii), (ix), and (x) as paragraph (d)(4)(ii)(A), (B), (C), (D), (E), (F), (G), (H), (I), and (J), respectively, and by inserting a new paragraph (d)(3) after paragraph (d)(2) to read as set forth below,

5. By inserting a new paragraph (d)(4)(i) after new paragraph (d)(3) to read as set forth below,

6. By removing from the heading of redesignated paragraph (d)(4)(ii) the words "Tax Liability Limitation." and adding in their place "For taxable years beginning before January 1, 1984.", and

7. In redesignated paragraph (d)(4)(ii), by removing the first word, "The", and adding in its place the words "For taxable years beginning before January 1, 1984, the".

5. Paragraph (e) is amended—

1. By removing from the heading the word "Carryover" and adding in its place the word "Carryforward",

2. By removing from the first sentence "section 44C(b)(5)" and adding in its place "section 23(b)(5) (or former section 44C(b)(5))",

3. By removing from the first sentence "paragraph (d)(3)" and adding in its place "paragraph (d)(4)", and

4. by removing the words "carryover" and "carried over" wherever they appear and adding in their place the words "carryforward" and "carried forward", respectively.

§1.23-1 Residential energy credit.

* * * * *

(c) Qualified renewable energy source expenditures. In the case of any dwelling unit, the qualified renewable energy source expenditures for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1979, and before January 1, 1986, are 40 percent of the renewable energy source expenditures made by the taxpayer during the taxable year with respect to such unit that do not exceed $10,000. In the case of taxable years beginning before January 1, 1980, the qualified renewable energy source expenditures are the renewable energy source expenditures made by the taxpayer with respect to the dwelling unit during the taxable year, but not in excess of—

(1) 30 percent of the expenditures up to $2,000, plus

(2) 20 percent of the expenditures over $2,000, but not more than $10,000.

See §1.23-2(b) for the definition of renewable energy source expenditures.

(d) Limitation. * * *

(2) Prior expenditures taken into account—(i) In general. * * * In the case of expenditures made during taxable years beginning before January 1, 1980, the reduction of the maximum amount under paragraph (c) must first be made with respect to the first $2,000 of expenditures (to which a 30 percent rate applies) and then with respect to the next $8,000 of expenditures (to which a 20 percent rate applies). * * *

* * * * *

(3) Effects of grants and subsidized energy financing—(i) In general. Qualified expenditures financed with Federal, State, or other grants shall be taken into account for purposes of computing the residential energy credit only if the amount of such grants is taxable as gross income to the taxpayer under section 61 (relating to the definition of gross income) and the regulations thereunder. In the case of taxable years beginning after December 31, 1980, qualified expenditures shall not be taken into account for purposes of computing the residential energy credit (except as provided in the following sentence) if made from subsidized energy financing (as defined in §1.23-2(i)). In addition, the taxpayer must reduce the maximum amount of allowable expenditures (reduced as provided in paragraph (d)(2) of this section) with respect to the dwelling unit in computing qualified energy conservation expenditures (under paragraph (b) of this section) or qualified renewable energy source expenditures (under paragraph (c) of this section), whichever is appropriate, by an amount equal to the sum of—

(A) The amount of the expenditures from subsidized energy financing (as defined in §1.23-2(i)) which were made by the taxpayer during the taxable year or any prior taxable year beginning after December 31, 1980, with respect to the same dwelling unit, and

(B) The amount of any funds received by the taxpayer during the taxable year or any prior taxable year as a Federal, State, or local government grant, made after December 31, 1980, which were used to make qualified expenditures with respect to the same dwelling unit and which were not included in the gross income of the taxpayer.

(ii) Example. The provisions of this paragraph (d)(3) may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. A had in 1979 made a renewable energy source expenditure of $2,000 in connection with A's residence for which he took the then allowed credit of $600. In 1981 A made additional renewable energy source expenditures of $9,000 with respect to which he received a loan of $5,000 from the Federal Solar-Energy and Energy Conservation Bank. Assume that the loan is subsidized energy financing. A computes the credit as follows: The initial maximum allowable dollar limit is $10,000 which is reduced by the sum of the prior year expenditures of $2,000 and the subsidized energy financing loan of $5,000 leaving a dollar limit of $3,000 ($10,000–($2,000 + 5,000)). The $5,000 portion of the $9,000 funded by the subsidized energy financing loan is not allowed as a renewable energy source expenditure. The remaining expenditures in 1981 are $4,000 ($9,000–$5,000). However, this amount exceeds the allowed maximum dollar limit of $3,000. Therefore, A's creditable expenses for 1981 are only $3,000 on which the credit is $1,200 (40 percent of $3,000).

(4) Tax liability limitation—(i) For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1983. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1983, the credit allowed by this section shall not exceed the amount of tax imposed by chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 for the taxable year, reduced by the sum of credits allowable under—

(A) Section 21 (relating to expenses for household and dependent care services necessary for gainful employment),

(B) Section 22 (relating to credit for the elderly and the permanently and totally disabled), and

(C) Section 24 (relating to contributions to candidates for public office).

See section 26(b) and (c) for certain taxes that are not treated as imposed by chapter 1.

* * * * *

Par. 3. Section 1.44C-2 is redesignated as §1.23-2 and is amended as follows:

1. In the first sentence, the language "section 44C" is removed and the language "section 23 or former section 44C" is added in its place.

2. Paragraph (a) thereof is amended—

1. By removing from the last sentence of paragraph (a)(1)(i) "§1.44C-3(e)" and adding in its place "§1.23-3(e)", and

2. By removing from the second sentence of paragraph (a)(1)(iii) "§1.44C-3(f)" and adding in its place "§1.23-3(f)".

3. Paragraph (b) is amended—

1. By removing from the last sentence of paragraph (b)(1) "§1.44C-3(e)" and adding in its place "§1.23-3(e)", and

2. By adding a new sentence as flush material immediately before the flush material that follows paragraph (b)(2), to read as set forth below.

4. Paragraph (c)(4) is amended by removing from the first sentence "§1.44C-4" and adding in its place "§1.23-4".

5. Paragraph (d) is amended—

1. By removing from paragraph (d)(3) "§1.44C-4" and adding in its place "§1.23-4",

2. By removing from the first sentence of paragraph (d)(4)(iv) the word "include" and adding in its place the word "mean", and

3. By removing from the last sentence of paragraph (d)(4)(viii) "§1.44C-6" and adding in its place "§1.23-6".

6. Paragraph (e) is amended—

1. By removing from paragraph (e)(1)(iii) "§1.44C-4" and adding in its place "§1.23-4",

2. By removing the first sentence from the flush material immediately following paragraph (e)(1)(iii) and adding in its place a new sentence to read as set forth below,

3. By removing "§1.44C-3(l)" from the last sentence in the flush material following paragraph (e)(1)(iii) and adding in its place "§1.23-3(l)",

4. By adding in paragraph (e)(2) the words "or (in the case of expenditures made after December 31, 1979) electricity" immediately following the words "or providing hot water" in the first sentence, and

5. By removing from the last sentence of paragraph (e)(2) "§1.44C-6" and adding in its place "§1.23-6".

7. Paragraph (f) is amended—

1. By revising the first and third sentences of paragraph (f)(11) to read as set forth below,

2. By removing the first sentence of paragraph (f)(2) and adding in its place a new sentence to read as set forth below,

3. By revising paragraph (f)(3) to read as set forth below, and

4. By revising the third sentence of paragraph (f)(4) and adding two new sentences immediately after that sentence, to read as set forth below.

8. Paragraph (g) is amended by removing from the beginning of the first sentence the word "includes" and adding in its place the word "means".

9. paragraph (h) is amended by removing from the first sentence the word "includes" and adding in its place the word "means" and by adding a new sentence immediately after the first sentence to read as set forth below.

10. A new paragraph (i) is added immediately after paragraph (h) to read as set forth below.

§1.23-2 Definitions.

* * * * *

(b) *Renewable energy source expenditures. * * Additionally, the term "renewable energy source expenditures" includes expenditures made after December 31, 1979, and before January 1, 1986, for an onsite well drilled for any geothermal deposit (as defined in paragraph (h)), or for labor costs properly allocable to onsite preparation, assembly, or original installation of such well, but only if the requirements of paragraph (b)(1) and (2) of this section are met and the taxpayer has not elected under section 263(c) to deduct any portion of such expenditures or allocable labor costs.

* * *

* * * * *

(e) Renewable energy source property—(1) *In general. * *

(iii) * * * Renewable energy source property does not include heating or cooling systems, nor systems to provide hot water or electricity, which serve to supplement renewable energy source equipment in heating, cooling, or providing hot water or electricity to a dwelling unit, and which employ a form of energy (such as oil or gas) other than solar, wind, or geothermal energy (or other forms of renewable energy provided in paragraph (e)(2) of this section).* * *

(f) Solar energy property—(1) In general. The term "solar energy property" means equipment and materials of a solar energy system as defined in this paragraph (and parts solely related to the functioning of such equipment) which, when installed in connection with a dwelling, transmits or uses solar energy to heat or cool the dwelling or to provide hot water or (in the case of expenditures made after December 31, 1979) electricity for use within the dwelling.* * * Property which uses, as an energy source, fuel or energy which is indirectly derived from sunlight (solar radiation), such as fossil fuel or wood or heat in underground water, is not considered solar energy property.* * *

(2) Active solar system. With respect to solar energy property acquired after the date of publication in the Federal Register of a Treasury decision promulgating this amended paragraph (f)(2) as a final regulation, an active solar system is based on the use of mechanically forced energy transfer, such as the use of fans or pumps to circulate solar generated energy.* * *

(3) Passive solar system—(i) In general. A passive solar system is based on the use of conductive, convective, or radiant energy transfer.

(ii) Passive solar space heating system. In order to qualify as a passive solar system, a solar system used for space heating purposes must contain all of the following: a solar collection area, an absorber, a storage mass, a heat distribution method, and heat regulation devices. The term "solar collection area" means an expanse of transparent or translucent material, such as glass which is positioned in such a manner that the rays of the sun directly strike an absorber. The term "absorber" means a surface, such as a floor, that is exposed to the rays of the sun admitted through the solar collection area, which converts solar radiation into heat, and then transfers the heat to a storage mass. The term "storage mass" means material, such as masonry, that receives and holds heat from the absorber and later releases the heat to the interior of the dwelling. The storage mass must be of sufficient volume, depth, and thermal energy capacity to store and deliver adequate amounts of solar heat for the relative size of the dwelling. In addition, the storage mass must be located so that it is capable of distributing the stored heat directly to the habitable areas of the dwelling through a heat distribution method. The term "heat distribution method" means the release of radiant heating from the storage mass within the habitable areas of the dwelling, or convective heating from the storage mass through airflow paths provided by openings or by ducts in the storage mass, to habitable areas of the dwelling. The term "heat regulation devices" means shading or venting mechanisms (such as awnings or insulated drapes) to control the amount of solar heat admitted through the solar collection areas and nighttime insulation or its equivalent to control the amount of heat permitted to escape from the interior of the dwelling.

(iii) Passive solar hot water system. With respect to solar energy property acquired after the date of publication in the Federal Register of a Treasury decision promulgating this paragraph (f)(3)(iii) as a final regulation, the term "passive solar system" includes a system used to provide hot water for a dwelling which uses passive thermal energy transfer such as systems utilizing thermal siphon principles. Such a system is not required to have all of the components described in paragraph (f)(3)(ii) of this section.

(4) Components with dual functions. * * * For example, roof ponds that form part of a roof (including additional structural components to support the roof), windows (including clerestories and skylights), and greenhouses do not qualify as solar energy property. However, with respect to expenditures made after December 31, 1979, a solar collector panel installed as a roof or portion thereof (including additional structural components to support the roof attributable to the collector) does not fail to qualify as solar energy property solely because it constitutes a structural component of the dwelling on which it is installed. For this purpose, the term "solar collector panel" does not include a skylight or other type of window.* * *

* * * * *

(h) Geothermal energy property. * * * With respect to expenditures made after December 31, 1979, the term "geothermal energy property" also means equipment (and parts solely related to the functioning of such equipment) necessary to transmit or use energy from a geothermal deposit to produce electricity for use within the dwelling.* * *

(i) Subsidized energy financing—(1) In general. The term "subsidized energy financing" means financing (e.g., a loan) made directly or indirectly (such as in association with, or through the facilities of, a bank or other lender) during a taxable year beginning after December 31, 1980, under a Federal, State, or local program, a principal purpose of which is to provide subsidized financing for projects designed to conserve or produce energy. For purposes of this paragraph (i), financing is made when funds that constitute subsidized energy financing are disbursed. Subsidized energy financing includes financing under a Federal, State, or local program having two or more principal purposes (provided that at least one of the principal purposes is to provide subsidized financing for projects designed to conserve or produce energy), but only to the extent that the financing—

(i) Is to be used for energy production or conservation purposes, or

(ii) Is provided out of funds designated specifically for energy production or conservation. Loan proceeds meet the use test of paragraph (i)(1)(i) of this section only to the extent that the loan application, the loan instrument, or any other loan-related documents indicate that the funds are intended for such use. However, loan proceeds designated for the purchase either of property that contains "insulation" or any "other energy conserving component" or of "renewable energy source property" as defined in paragraphs (c), (d), and (e), respectively, of this section meet the test of paragraph (i)(1)(i) of this section. Financing is subsidized if the interest rate or other terms of the financing (including any special tax treatment) provided to the taxpayer in connection with the program or used to raise funds for the program are more favorable than the terms generally available commercially. Additionally, financing is subsidized if the principal obligation of the financing provided to the taxpayer is reduced by funds provided under the program. Except as otherwise provided for in this paragraph (i)(1) with respect to a publicly or privately owned utility, the source from which the funds for the program are derived is not a factor to be taken into account in determining whether the financing is subsidized. If a publicly or privately owned utility disburses funds for the financing of renewable energy source property, and the source of the funds is sales to the utility's ratepayers, then the funds are not considered subsidized energy financing, even though the utility is a government agency. Subsidized energy financing does not include a grant includible in gross income under section 61, nontaxable grants, a credit against State or local taxes made directly to the taxpayer claiming the credit provided for in section 23, or a loan guarantee made directly to the taxpayer claiming the credit provided for in section 23.

(2) Examples. The provisions of this paragraph (i) may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). State A has a farm and home loan program. The program is used to provide low interest mortgage loans. In 1984 State A's legislature enacted statutory amendments to its farm and home loan program in an effort to encourage energy conservation-type measures. Low interest loans for such improvements were made available to qualified purchasers and owners under the farm and home loan program. The energy conservation measures subsidized by the program include energy conserving components and renewable energy source devices. State A's tax exempt bonds are the source of funds for loans under the program. Although the 1984 legislation authorizing loans for energy conserving components and renewable energy source improvements did not diminish the original purpose of the farm and home loan program, the 1984 legislation added another principal purpose to the program. Therefore, State A's program which has two principal purposes, one of which is the conservation or production of energy, is considered as providing subsidized energy financing for purposes of section 23(c)(10) of the Code, to the extent that financing is provided by State A out of funds designated specifically for energy production or conservation. State A's program will also be considered as providing subsidized energy financing to the extent that the loan proceeds are to be used for energy production or conservation purposes. Loan proceeds meet the use test of the preceding sentence only to the extent that the loan application, the loan instruments, or any other loan-related documents indicate that the funds are intended for such use.

Example (2). The United States Department of Energy disburses funds to State B that the Department received from settlements from alleged petroleum pricing and allocation violations. State B establishes a program under which B will use the funds to make loans at below market interest rates directly to qualified applicants for the purchase of renewable energy source property. B's loans are subsidized energy financing.

Example (3). State C establishes a program under which C will make loans at below market interest rates directly to qualified applicants for the purchase of renewable energy source property. The program is funded with money that State C was able to borrow after it obtained a loan guarantee from a Federal agency. C's loans provided under the program are subsidized energy financing.

Example (4). Company D is electric utility that is a federal agency. D purchases its electricity from another federal agency, transmits the electricity over its own distribution system, and sells the electricity to numerous local public utilities that in turn sell the electricity to their customers. D wishes to start a program under which D will make loans at below market interest rates directly to customers of the local utilities for the purchase of renewable energy source property from D. The local public utility will act as the collection agent for repayment of the loans. The loans will be repayable over a period of time not in excess of 15 years. Under law, D must cover its full costs through its own revenues derived from the sale of power and other services. While D may borrow by sale of bonds to the United States Treasury, D must borrow at rates comparable to the rates prevailing in the market for similar bonds. Thus, the subsidized loans made under D's program will be financed by the profits from the sale of electricity to consumers and not by the federal government. D's program, which is substantially the same as that carried out by private (investor-owned) utilities, is not a tax-supported subsidy for renewable energy source property because the source of the funds for the loan program is solely D's revenue from the sale of electricity or D's unsubsidized borrowing from the United States Treasury at rates comparable to the rates prevailing in the market. Therefore, D's loans are not subsidized energy financing.

Example (5). The Solar Energy and Energy Conservation Bank (Bank) disburses funds to State E. E disburses a portion of the funds to Financial Institution F. Both the Bank and State E make these disbursements under a program the principal purpose of which is to provide subsidized financing for projects designed to conserve or produce energy. F uses the funds to reduce a portion of the principal obligation on loans it issues to finance energy conservation or solar energy expenditures. Taxpayer G borrows $3,000 from F in order to purchase a solar water heating system. F uses $500 of the funds it received from the Bank to reduce the principal obligation of the loan to G to $2,500. The amount of subsidized energy financing to G is $3,000.

Example (6). State H allows a tax credit to Financial Institution J under a program the principal purpose of which is to provide loans at below market interest rates directly to qualified applicants for the purchase of renewable energy source property. J receives a credit each year in the amount of the excess of the interest that would have been paid at private market rates over the actual interest paid on such loans. The State H tax credit arrangement is an interest subsidy. Thus, any low-interest loans made pursuant to this credit arrangements are subsidized energy financing.

Par. 4. Section 1.44C-3 is redesignated as §1.23-3 and is amended as follows:

1. Paragraph (a)(1) is amended by removing from the first sentence "section 44C" and adding in its place "section 23 or former section 44C".

2. Paragraph (b) is amended by removing "section 44C" in the first and second sentences and adding in place thereof "section 23 or former section 44C".

3. Paragraph (c) is revised to read as set forth below.

4. Paragraph (d) is amended by removing "§1.44C-2(a)", "§1.44C-2(b)", "§1.44C-1(b)", and "§1.44C-1(c)" and adding in their places "§1.23-2(a)" "§1.23-2(b)", "§1.23-1(b)" and "§1.23-1(c)", respectively.

5. Paragraph (e) is amended by removing from the first sentence "section 44C" and adding in its place "section 23 or former section 44C".

6. Paragraph (h) is amended—

1. By removing from the first sentences of paragraph (h)(1)(i) and (ii) "section 44C" and adding in place thereof "section 23 or former section 44C",

2. By removing from paragraph (h)(2) "section 44C" and adding in its place "section 23 or former section 44C",

3. By removing from paragraph (h)(2) "§1.44C-1" and adding in its place "§1.23-1",

4. By removing from the second sentence of paragraph (h)(3) "section 44C" and adding in its place "section 23 or former section 44C", and

5. By revising the first sentence of example (2) in paragraph (h)(4) to read as set forth below.

7. Paragraph (j) is amended—

1. By revising the heading and text of paragraph (j)(1) to read as set forth below, and

2. By removing from the last sentence of the example in paragraph (j)(2) "§1.44C-1(d)(1)" and "§1.44C-1(d)(2)" and adding in their places "§1.23-1(d)(1)" and "§1.23-1(d)(2)", respectively.

8. Paragraph (k) is amended by removing "section 44C" and adding in its place "section 23 or former section 44C".

§1.23-3 Special rules.

* * * * *

(c) Cross reference. For rules relating to expenditures financed with Federal, State, or local government grants or subsidized financing see paragraph (d)(3) of §1.23-1 and paragraph (i) of §1.23-2.

* * * * *

(h) Joint occupancy. * * *

(4) * * *

* * * * *

Example (2). In 1978, spouses C and D make $10,000 of renewable energy source expenditures with respect to their principal residence, half of which is paid by each spouse. * * *

* * * * *

(j) Joint ownership of energy conservation property or renewable energy source property—(1) In general. Energy conservation property and renewable energy source property include property which is jointly owned by the taxpayer and another person (or persons) and installed in connection with two or more dwelling units. For example, the fact that a windmill, solar collector, or geothermal well and distribution system is owned by two or more individuals does not preclude its qualification as renewable energy source property. The amount of the credit allowable under section 23 shall be computed separately with respect to the amount of the expenditures made by each individual, subject to the limitations of $2,000 imposed by section 23(b)(1) and $10,000 imposed by section 23(b)(2), per dwelling unit of jointly owned property. For example, in 1982, A, B, and C purchased as joint owners renewable energy source property that serviced two houses. One of the houses is jointly owned and occupied by A and B and the other is owned and occupied by C alone. The renewable energy source property cost $30,000 of which A paid $9,000, B paid $6,000, and C paid $15,000. A and B must share the $4,000 credit (40% of $10,000 maximum) with respect to the expenditures for the jointly owned house. Therefore, a is allowed a $2,400 credit and B is allowed a $1,600

$$($4{,}000 \times \frac{$9{,}000}{$9{,}000 + $6{,}000})$$

with respect to the

expenditures attributable to the jointly owned house. C is entitled to a credit of $4,000 with respect to the expenditures attributable to the other house.

Par. 5. Reserved §1.44C-4 is redesignated §1.23-4 and the text is added to read as follows:

§1.23-4 Performance and quality standards

(a) In general. This section contains performance and quality standards with respect to energy-conserving components and solar energy property. Such an item acquired after the date of publication of this section in a Treasury decision must meet the standards, as in effect when the item is acquired, to qualify for the residential energy credit.

(b) Energy-conserving components standards—(1) In general. This paragraph provides standards with respect to insulation and certain other energy-conserving components. The standards are identical to the Department of Energy's standards for the Residential Conservation Service Program appearing in 10 CFR part 456, Subpart H. Paragraph (b)(2) of this section incorporates the applicable provisions of subpart H into this section by reference.

(2) Incorporation by reference. (i) Insulation (as defined in §1.23-2(c)) shall meet the applicable standards contained in §456.803-812.

(ii) A furnace replacement burner (as defined in §1.23-2(d)(4)(i)) for oil-fired furnaces shall meet the standards contained in §456.814(d).

(iii) A device for modifying flue openings (as defined in §1.23-(d)(4)(ii)) for gas-fired heating systems shall meet the standards contained in §456.814(g).

(iv) A furnace ignition system (as defined in §1.23-2(d)(4)(iii)) for gas-fired heating systems shall meet the standards contained in §456.814(f).

(v) A storm or thermal window or door (as defined in §1.23-2(d)(4)(iv)) shall meet the applicable standards contained in §456.813 Multi-glazing used in connection with a window or door shall meet the standards contained in §456.813(d).

(vi) Caulking (as defined in §1.23-2(d)(4)(vi)) shall meet the standards contained in §456.812.

(c) Solar energy property standards. Solar energy property shall meet the applicable specific criteria of the National Bureau of Standards Building Science Series 147, Performance Criteria for Solar Energy Heating and Cooling Systems in Residential Buildings (September 1982) as indicated in the table set forth below. In that table "A" refers to active solar systems for space heating or domestic hot water described in paragraph (f)(2) of §1.23-2. "P (ii)" refers to passive solar space heating systems and combined systems described in paragraph (f)(3)(ii) of §1.23-2. "P (iii)" refers to passive solar hot water systems utilizing thermal siphon principles. Manufacturers of equipment that meets the standards referred to in the table may apply for certification in accordance with the provisions of §1.23-5. If so certified, manufacturers may attach a decal, nameplate, or other marketing to their equipment so identifying their equipment.

Par. 6. Section 1.44C-5 is redesignated as §1.23-5 and is amended as follows:

1. Paragraph (a) is amended—

1. By removing from paragraph (a)(1) "§1.44C-2(c)(1)" and adding in its place "§1.23-2 (c)(1)",

2. By removing from paragraph (a)(2) "section 44C(c)(4)" and adding in its place "section 23(c)(4) or former section 44C(c)(4)",

3. By removing from paragraph (a)(2) "§1.44C-2(d)(4)" and adding in its place "§1.23-2(d)(4)",

4. By removing from paragraph (a)(3) "§1.44C-2(f)", "1.44C-2(g)" and "§1.44C-2(h)" and adding in their places "§1.23-2(f)", "§1.23-2(g)", and "§1.23-2(h)", respectively,

5. By removing from paragraph (a)(4) "§1.44C-2" and adding in its place "§1.23-2", and

6. By removing from paragraph (a)(5) "§1.44C-2" and adding in its place "§1.23-2".

2. Paragraph (b)(1) is amended by removing from the first sentence the words "Assistant Commissioner (Technical), T:C:E, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W.," and adding in their place the words "Associate Chief Counsel (Technical) CC:C:E, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W.,"

3. Paragraph (c) is amended—

1. By removing from the third sentence "§1.44C-2" and adding in its place "§1.23-2", and

2. By removing from the last sentence "§1.44C-4" and adding in its place "§1.23-4".

Par. 7. Section 1.44C-6 is redesignated as §1.23-6 and is amended as follows:

1. Paragraph (a)(1) is amended by removing from the first sentence "§1.44C-2" and adding in its place "§1.23-2".

2. Paragraph (e) is amended—

1. By removing from the first sentence "§1.44C-1" and adding in its place "§1.23-1", and

2. By removing from the third sentence "§1.44C-4" and adding in its place "§1.23-4."

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking
Election to Expense Certain Depreciable Business Assets
LR-233-81

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to the election to expense certain depreciable business assets. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 [Pub. L. 97-34, 1981-2 C.B. 256], the Subchapter S Revision Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-448, 1983-1 C.B. 451], and the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Division A of the Deficit Reduction Act of 1984) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. The regulations would provide the public with the guidance needed when making an election to expense certain depreciable business assets.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by November 11, 1985. Generally, the amendments are proposed to be effective for property placed in service after December 31, 1980, in taxable years ending after such date. The amendments made by the Subchapter S Revision Act of 1982 are proposed to be effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-233-81), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John Broadbent of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, Attention: CC:LR:T, (202) 566-3287, not a toll-free call.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:
BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under sections 179, 263, 1033, and 1245 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (Code). These amendments are proposed to reflect the amendments made by sections 202(a) and 209 of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 (Pub. L. 97-34, 95 Stat. 219, 226) [1981-2 C.B. 256, 282, 286], section 3(f) of the Subchapter S Revision Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97-354, 96 Stat. 1689) [1982-2 C.B. 702, 712], section 102(aa) of the Technical Corrections Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97-488, 96 Stat. 2369) [1983-1 C.B. 451, 453], and section 13 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369, 98 Stat. 505) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol.1) 1, 13] and are to be issued under the authority of Code sections 179(c), (d)(10) and 7805 (95 Stat. 219, 96 Stat. 2369, 68A Stat. 917; 26 U.S.C. 179(c), 179(d)(10), 7805).

IN GENERAL

Section 179, as amended by the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981, provides taxpayers (other than trusts, estates, and certain noncorporate lessors) with the opportunity to elect to expense the cost or portion of the cost of certain depreciable business assets rather than capitalizing the entire cost. A section 179 expense election may be made for the taxable year in which the section 179 property" and "placed in service" are defined in proposed §§1.179-3(a) and (f).

DOLLAR LIMITATION

Proposed §1.179-2(a) provides rules relating to the maximum amount a taxpayer may elect to expense. Proposed §1.179-1(c) allows a taxpayer to claim the maximum amount allowed by §1.179-2(a) for any taxable year, without proration based on the period of time the section 179 property has been in service during the taxable year. Proposed §1.179-2(e)(2) provides rules for where spouses file separate returns and then subsequently file a joint return. Under proposed §1.179-2(f), the maximum amount a married taxpayer filing a separate return may elect to expense is 50 percent of the amount determined under proposed §1.179-2(a).

CONTROLLED GROUPS

Rules for allocating the dollar limitation among component members of a controlled group of corporations are set forth in proposed §1.179-2(b). Component members are treated as one taxpayer in applying the dollar limitation. The dollar amount may be allocated to the members of the group by the common parent corporation if a consolidated return is filed; if separate returns are filed, the amount is to be allocated in accordance with an agreement made by the members. The definition of the term "controlled group of corporations" in section 1563(a) applies for purposes of section 179 by substituting "more than 50 percent" for the phrase "at least 80 percent" wherever it appears in section 1563(a)(1).

PARTNERSHIPS AND S CORPORATIONS

Proposed §1.179-2(c) provides that the dollar limitation of section 179(b) applies to both the partnership and each individual partner. Under proposed §1.179-2(c)(2), a partner's share of the partnership's section 179 expense is to be determined in accordance with section 704 and the regulations thereunder. Proposed §1.179-2(d) provides that similar rules apply to S corporations and their shareholders.

ADJUSTMENTS TO BASIS

Proposed §§1.179-1(f) and (g) provide that if a taxpayer elects section 179, the taxpayer must adjust the basis of the section 179 property prior to computing the deduction under section 168 or the investment credit under section 38. However, no such basis reduction is made for a section 179 expense deduction that is allocable by a partnership or S corporation to a partner or shareholder that is a trust or estate.

CHANGES IN USE; RECAPTURE

Section 179(d)(10) provides for recapture of any tax benefits derived from expensing under section 179 where, at any time prior to the close of the second taxable year following the taxable year in which the property is placed in service (recapture period), the property is not used predominantly in the taxpayer's trade or business. Proposed §1.179-1(e)(1) provides that the amount recaptured is equal to the excess of the amount expensed under section 179 over the total amount that would have been allowable for prior taxable years and the taxable year of recapture as a deduction under section 168 (had section 179 not been elected) for the portion of the cost of the property to which the expensing relates. The amount recaptured shall be treated as ordinary income for the taxable year in which the property is no longer used predominantly in the taxpayer's trade or business. Proposed §1.179-1(e)(2) provides that property will be treated as not predominantly used isn the taxpayer's trade or business if 50 percent or more of the use of such property during any taxable year within the recapture period is for a use other than in the taxpayer's trade or business. In addition, if, during any taxable year of the recapture period, the taxpayer disposes of the property (other than in a disposition to which section 1245(a) applies) or ceases to use the property in a trade or business in a manner that had the taxpayer claimed a credit under section 38 for such property such disposition or cessation in use would cause recapture under section 47, the property will be treated as not used predominantly in a trade or business of the taxpayer. However, for purposes of applying the recapture rules of section 47 pursuant to the preceding sentence, converting the use of the property from use in a trade or business to use in the production of income will be treated as a conversion to personal use.

SECTION 280F

Section 280F places limitations on the amount that may be expensed with respect to certain items of section 179 property. In addition, proposed §1.179-1(e)(1) provides that if the recapture rules of both section 280F-(b)(3) and §1.179-1(e)(1) apply to an item of section 179 property, the amount of recapture shall be detemined only under the rules of section 280F(b)(3) with respect to such property.

ELECTION

Proposed §1.179-4(a) provides rules relating to the time and manner of making a section 179 election. In addition, the regulations provide that the amount of the expense elected and the properties chosen must be specified on the taxpayer's tax return. Proposed §1.179-4(b) provides rules relating to the revocation fo the election under section 179 and to the changing of property selected for the section 179 expense.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required. Although this document is a notice of a proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The collection of information requirements contained in this notice of proposed rulemaking have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on these requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Office for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on these requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Neil W. Zyskind of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulation, both on matters of substance and style.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 are as follows:

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 1 continues to read in part:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. * * * Section 1.179-1 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 179(d). Section 1.179-4 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 179(c). * * *

Par. 2. Sections 1.179-1 through 1.179-4 are revised to read as set forth below.

§1.179-1 Election to expense certain depreciable assets.

(a) In general. Section 179 allows a taxpayer to elect to expense the cost (as defined in §1.179-3(e)), or portion of the cost, of section 179 property (as defined in §1.179-3(a)) for the taxable year in which the property is placed in service (as defined in §1.179-3(f)). The election is not available for trusts, estates, and certain noncorporate lessors. See paragraph (i)(2) of this section relating to noncorporate lessors.

(b) Amount subject to expense. The expense deduction under section 179 is allowed for the entire cost or a portion of the cost of one item of section 179 property, or the entire cost or a portion of the cost of several items of section 179 property, subject to the dollar limitation of section 179(b) and §1.179-2. The properties and apportionment of cost to be subject to the election shall be selected by the taxpayer.

(c) Proration not required. The expense deduction under section 179 is determined without any proration based on the period of time the section 179 property has been in service during the taxable year. For example, a taxpayer, a corporation which files its income tax returns on the calendar year basis, purchases and places in service on December 1, 1983, section 179 property costing $10,000. The corporation may elect to claim a section 179 expense deduction for the taxable year ending December 31, 1983, for the cost of the property (up to the $5,000 limitation imposed under section 179(b)(1)) without proration for the number of days in 1983 during which the property was in service.

(d) Partial business use. If a taxpayer uses section 179 property for both trade or business and non-trade or business purposes, the portion of the cost of the property attributable to the trade or business use is eligible for expensing under section 179, provided that more than 50 percent of the property's use in the taxable year the property is placed in service is for trade or business purposes. The dollar limitation of section 179(b) is then applied to the portion of the cost attributable to the trade or business use. For example, a taxpayer in 1983 purchases section 179 property costing $10,000 for which 80 percent of its use will be in the taxpayer's trade or business. The cost of the property, adjusted to reflect the business use of the property, is $8,000 (80 percent x $10,000). Thus, the taxpayer could elect to expense up to $5,000 of the cost of the property (see section 179(b)). However, for property placed in service after June 18, 1984, in taxable years ending after such date, see section 280F(d)(1) relating to the coordination of section 179 with the limitation on the amount of depreciation and investment tax credit for luxury automobiles and where certain property is used for personal purposes. Furthermore, see paragraphs (e)(1) through (3) of this section relating to recapture where the property is no longer predominantly used in the taxpayer's trade or business.

(e) Change in use; recapture—(1) In general. If a taxpayer's section 179 property is not used predominantly in a trade or business of the taxpayer at any time before the close of the second taxable year following the taxable year in which the property is placed in service by the taxpayer (recapture period), the taxpayer must recapture in the taxable year in which the section 179 property is not used predominantly in a trade or business any benefit derived from expensing such property. The benefit derived from expensing the property is equal to the excess of the amount expensed under this section over the total amount that would have been allowable for prior taxable years and the taxable year of recapture as a deduction under section 168 (had section 179 not been elected) for the portion of the cost of the property to which the expensing relates (regardless of whether such excess reduced the taxpayer's tax liability). For purposes of the preceding sentence, in the case of an individual who does not elect to itemize deductions under section 63(g) in the taxable year of recapture, the amount allowable as a deduction under section 168 in the taxable year of recapture shall be determined by treating property used in the production of income other than rents or royalties as being property used for personal purposes. The amount to be recaptured shall be treated as ordinary income for the taxable year in which the property is no longer used predominantly in a trade or business of the taxpayer. For taxable years following the year of recapture, the taxpayer's deductions under section 168(a) shall be determined as if no section 179 election with respect to the property had been made. However, for property placed in service after June 18, 1984, in taxable years ending after such date, see section 280(f)(d)(1) relating to the coordination of section 179 with the limitation on the amount of depreciation and investment tax credit for luxury automobiles and where certain perty is used for personal purposes. he recpture rules of both section F(b)(3) and this paragraph (e)(1) ly to an item of section 179 prop-, the amount of recapture shall be rmined only under the rules of sec- 280F(b)(3) with respect to such perty.

2) Predominant use. Property will reated as not used predominantly in ade or business of the taxpayer if 50 cent or more of the use of such perty during any taxable year within recapture period is for a use other in a trade or business of the tax- er. If during any taxable year of the pture period the taxpayer disposes he property (other than in a disposi- to which section 1245(a) applies) eases to use the property in a trade usiness in a manner that had the ayer claimed a credit under section or such property such disposition or ation in use would cause recapture er section 47, the property will be ed as not used in a trade or busi- of the taxpayer. However, for pur- s of applying the recapture rules of ion 47 pursuant to the preceding ence, converting the use of the erty from use in a trade or business se in the production of income will reated as a conversion to personal ) Basis; application with section 5. The basis of property with re- t to which there is recapture under graph (e)(1) of this section shall be eased immediately before the event lting in such recaptured by the unt recaptured. If section 1245(a) ies to a disposition of property, is no recapture under paragraph 1) of this section.

) Examples. Paragraphs (e)(1) ugh (3) of this section are trated by the following examples:

mple (1). A, an individual who is a calen- ear taxpayer, purchases and places in service nuary 1, 1983, section 179 property, which o 3-year recovery property under section costing $10,000. A elects to expense $5,000 cost (see section 179(b)(1)) and makes no on under section 168(b)(3). On January 1, A converts the property from use in A's ss to use for the production of income, and s the property in the latter capacity for the year. A elects to itemize deductions for Since the property was not predominantly n a trade or business of A in 1984, which he first taxable year following the taxable he property was placed in service. A must ure any benefit derived from expensing the ty under section 179. Had A not elected to expense the $5,000 in 1983, A would have been entitled to deduct, under section 168(a) and (b), 25 percent of the $5,000 in 1983, and 38 percent of the $5,000 in 1984. Therefore, A must include in ordinary income for the 1984 taxable year, the excess of $5,000 (the section 179 expense amount) over $3,150 (63 percent of $5,000), or $1,850. For purposes of computing the deduction under section 168 in 1985, the unadjusted basis of the property would be increased by $5,000.

Example (2). Assume the facts are the same as in example (1), except that during 1984 A uses the property 40 percent for trade or business purposes and 60 percent for personal use. Had A not elected to expense the $5,000 in 1983, A would have been entitled to deduct, under section 168(a), 25 percent of the $5,000 in 1983 and 15.2 percent (40 percent of 38 percent) of the $5,000 in 1984. See section 168(d)(1) and the regulations thereunder. Therefore, A must include in ordinary income for the 1984 taxable year the excess of $5,000 over $2,010 (40.2 percent of $5,000), or $2,990. If A uses the property solely in A's trade or business during 1985, A may deduct 37 percent of $5,000 in 1985 under section 168(a).

(f) Basis—(1) In general. A taxpayer who elects to expense under section 179 must reduce the unadjusted basis of the section 179 property by the amount of the section 179 expense deduction. See section 168(d)(1) and the regulations thereunder.

(2) Special rules for partnerships and S corporations. Generally, the basis of a partnership or S corporation's section 179 property must be reduced to reflect the amount of section 179 expense elected by the partnership or S corporation. However, since a partner or shareholder that is a trust or estate may not deduct its allocable share of the section 179 expense elected by the partnership or S corporation, a partnership or S corporation's basis in section 179 property shall not be reduced to reflect any portion of the section 179 expense that is allocable to the trust or estate.

(g) Disallowance of the section 38 credit. If a taxpayer elects to expense under section 179, no section 38 credit is allowable for the portion of the cost expensed. In addition, no section 38 credit shall be allowed under section 48(d) to a lessee of property for the portion of the cost of the property that the lessor expensed under section 179.

(h) Partnerships and S corporations. In the case of property purchased and placed in service by a partnership or S corporation, the determination of whether the property is section 179 property is to be made at the partnership or S corporation level, and the election to expense the cost of section 179 property is made by the partnership or S corporation. See sections 703(b), 1363(c), 6221, 6231(a)(3), 6241, and 6245. This paragraph (h) is illustrated by the following example:

Example. A is an individual taxpayer who owns certian residential property as an investment. A, and others, form ABC partnership whose function is to rent and manage such property. A and ABC partnership file their income tax returns on a calendar year basis. In 1984, ABC partnership purchases and places in service section 179 property. Assuming ABC partnership satisfies the section 179 election requirements and chooses to make an election for the property purchased, A will be entitled, subject to the limitation contained in section 179(b), to deduct A's share of the expense allocated to A by the partnership. Although such property was only for the production of income with respect to A, the property was being used in ABC's trade or business. Therefore, since the determination of whether property is section 179 property is made at the partnership level, the property was properly expensed.

(i) Leasing of section 179 property—(1) In general. A lessor of section 179 property who is treated as the owner of the property for Federal tax purposes will be entitled to the section 179 expense deduction if the requirements of section 179 and the regulations thereunder are met. These requirements will not be met if the lessor merely holds the property for the production of income. For certain leases entered into prior to January 1, 1984, the safe harbor provisions of section 168(f) (8) apply in determining whether an agreement is treated as a lease for Federal tax purposes.

(2) Noncorporate lessor. In determining the class of taxpayers (other than an estate or trust) for which section 179 is applicable, section 179(d)(5) provides that if a taxpayer is a noncorporate lessor (as described in section 46(e)(3)), the taxpayer shall not be entitled to claim a section 179 expense for property purchased by the taxpayer unless a credit under section 38 is allowable to the taxpayer for such property (determined without regard to section 179). Thus, for example, if a taxpayer, a noncorporate lessor, purchases section 179 property and leases it and the taxpayer would be entitled to a section 38 credit for the property, by having satisfied all the requirements of subparagraph (A) or (B) of section 46(e)(3) and the regulations thereunder, the taxpayer is not precluded by section 179(d)(5) from electing to claim a section 179 expense for such property.

(j) Cross references. See section 453(i) and the regulations thereunder with respect to installment sales of section 179 property. See section 263(a)(1)(H) and the regulations thereunder with respect to capitalizing section 179 property. See section 1033(g)(3) and the regulations thereunder relating to condemnation of outdoor advertising displays. See section 1245(a) and the regulations thereunder with respect to recapture rules for section 179 property.

§1.179-2 Dollar Limitation.

(a) Maximum amount subject to election. Section 179(b) limits the aggregate cost of section 179 property that a taxpayer may elect to expense under section 179 for any one taxable year. For a taxable year beginning in 1982, 1983, 1984, 1985, 1986, or 1987, the dollar limitation on the amount that can be expensed is $5,000; for a taxable year beginning in 1988 or 1989, $7,500; and for a taxable year beginning after 1989, $10,000. The dollar limitation of section 179(b) applies to each taxpayer and not to each trade or business in which the taxpayer has an interest. However, for property placed in service after June 18, 1984, in taxable years ending after such date, see sections 280F(a) and (d)(1) relating to the coordination of section 179 with the limitation on the amount of investment tax credit and depreciation for luxury automobiles. See paragraphs (b) through (f) of this section for special rules on applying the dollar limitation of section 179(b) with respect to controlled groups of corporations, partnerships, S corporations, and married individuals.

(b) Component members of a controlled group—(1) In general. Component members of a controlled group (as defined in paragraph (g) of §1.179-3) on a December 31 shall be treated as one taxpayer in applying the dollar limitation of section 179(b) and paragraph (a) of this section. The expense deduction under section 179 may be taken by any one such member or allocated (for the taxable year of each such member which includes such December 31) among the several members in any manner, pursuant to an allocation by the common parent corporation if a consolidated return is filed for all component members of the group, or in accordance with an agreement entered into by the members of the group if separate returns are filed. If a consolidated return is filed by some component members of the group and separate returns are filed by other component members, then the common parent of the group filing the consolidated return shall enter into an agreement with those members who do not join in filing the consolidated return allocating the amount between the group filing the consolidated return and the other component members of the controlled group who do not join in filing the consolidated return. The amount of the expense allocated to any component member, however, shall not exceed the cost of the section 179 property actually purchased by the member and placed in service by the member in the taxable year. If component members have different taxable years, the term "taxable year" in section 179(b)(1) shall mean the taxable year of the member whose taxable year begins on the earliest date.

(2) Statement to be filed. If a consolidated return is filed, the common parent corporation shall file a separate statement attached to the income tax return in which an election is made to claim an expense deduction under section 179. See §1.179-4. If separate returns are filed by some or all component members of the group, each component member not included in a consolidated return to which is allocated any part of the deduction under section 179 shall file a separate statement attached to the income tax return in which an election is made to claim an expense deduction. Such statement shall include the name, address, employer identification number, and the taxable year of each component member of the controlled group, a copy of the allocation agreement signed by persons duly authorized to act on behalf of the component members, and a description of the manner in which the deduction under section 179 has been divided among them.

(3) Revocation. If a consolidated return is filed for all component members of the group, an allocation among such members of the expense deduction under section 179 shall not be revoked after the due date of the return (including extensions of time) of the common parent corporation for the taxable year for which an election to take an expense deduction is made. If some or all of the component members of the controlled group file separate returns for taxable years including a particular December 31 for which an election to take the expense deduction is made, the allocation as to all members of the group shall not be revoked after the due date of the return (including extensions of time) of the component member of the controlled group whose taxable year which includes such December 31 ends on the latest date.

(c) Partnerships—(1) In general. The dollar limitation of section 179(b) and paragraph (a) of this section applies to the partnership as well as to each partner. Thus, neither a partnership nor a partner may deduct as a section 179 expense more than the amount provided for in section 179(b) and paragraph (a) of this section in any taxable year. In the case of a partner who is a member of two or more partnerships that elect section 179, the partner's aggregate share of the partnership section 179 expense may not exceed the dollar limitation of section 179(b). In the case of a member of a parternship that elects under section 179 who also has separately acquired section 179 property, the aggregate amount of the member's partnership and non-partnership section 179 expense may not exceed the dollar limitation of section 179(b).

(2) Partner's share of section 179 expense. Section 704 and the regulations thereunder shall govern the determination of a partner's share of a partnership's section 179 expense for any taxable year. However, no allocation among partners of the section 179 expense shall be modified after the due date of the partnership return (without regard to extensions of time) for the year for which the election under section 179 is made.

(3) Taxable year. If the taxable years of a partner and the partnership do not coincide, then for purposes of section 179, the amount of a partnership's section 179 expense attributable to a partner is determined in accordance with the provisions of section 706 and the regulations thereunder. For example, partnership AB has a taxable year ending Janaury 31. Taxpayer A, a member of the AB partnership, has a taxable year ending November 30. On March 10, 1984, the AB partnership purchases and places in service section 179 property. Under the provisions of section 706(a) and §1.706-1(a)(1), taxpayer A will be unable to claim any section 179 expense until A's taxable year ending November 30, 1985.

(d) S Corporations. For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982, rules similar to those contained in paragraphs (c)(1) through (3) of this section shall apply in the case of S corporations (as defined in section 13619a)) and their shareholders. Each shareholder's share of the section 179 expense of an S corporation shall be determined under section 1366.

(e) Joint returns—(1) In general. A husband and wife who file a joint income tax return under section 6013(a) shall be treated as one taxpayer in applying the dollar limitation of section 179(b)(1) and paragraph (a) of this section, regardless of which spouse purchased the property.

(2) Joint returns filed after separate returns. In the case of a husband and wife who elect under section 6013(b) to file a joint income tax return for a taxable year after the time prescribed by law for filing the return for such taxable year has expired; the dollar limitation under section 179 shall be the full dollar amount permitted by section 179(b)(1) provided the amount of one or both of the spouses' section 179 expense elections on their separate returns was limited as a result of the dollar limitation of section 179(b)(2) and paragraph (f) of this section. However, where neither of the spouses' section 179 expense elections on their separate returns was limited by the section 179(b)(2) dollar limitation, then the maximum dollar amount permitted on the joint return is the aggregate dollar amount the spouses elected on their separate returns. For example, H and W, who are calendar year taxpayers, purchase and place in service in 1983 section 179 property costing $10,000. H and W file separate income tax returns for the 1983 taxable year. H elects to claim $2,000 as an expense and W elects to expense $2,000. After the due date of the return H and W elect under section 6013(b) to file a joint income tax 1983. H and W may only elect to expense $4,000 on their joint income tax return.

(f) Married individuals filing separately. In the case of an individual who is married but files a separate tax return, the maximum amount of section 179 property which the taxpayer may elect to expense is 50 percent of the amount otherwise determined under section 179(b)(1) and paragraph (a) of this section. For this purpose, marital status shall be determined under section 143 and the regulations thereunder. For example, H and W are calendar year taxpayers. In 1983, H and W purchased and placed in service section 179 property costing $10,000. For the 1983 taxable year, H and W are living apart within the meaning of section 143 (b) and therefore are not considered married. H and W are each entitled to claim a section 179 expense of up to $5,000.

§1.179-3 Definitions.

The following definitions apply for purposes of section 179 and §§1.179-1 through 1.179-5:

(a) Section 179 property. The term "section 179 property" means any recovery property which is section 38 property and which is acquired by purchase for use in the taxpayer's trade or business. For this purpose, the term "trade or business" has the same meaning as in section 162 and the regulations thereunder. For definitions of the terms "recovery property," "section 38 property," and "purchase," see paragraphs (b), (c), and (d) of this section.

(b) Recovery property. The term "recovery property" shall have the same meaning assigned to it in section 168 (c)(1)(A) and the regulations thereunder.

(c) Section 38 property. The term "section 38 property" shall have the same meaning assigned to it in section 48(a) and the regulations thereunder.

(d) Purchase. (1)(i) Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (d)(2) of this section, the term "purchase" means any acquisition of the property, but only if all the requirements of paragraphs (d)(1)(ii), (iii), and (iv) of this section are satisfied.

(ii) Property is not acquired by purchase if it is acquired from a person whose relationship to the person acquiring it would result in the disallowance of losses under section 267 or 707(b). The property is considered not acquired by purchase only to the extent that losses would be disallowed under section 267 or 707(b). Thus, for example, if property is purchased by a husband and wife jointly from the husband's father, the property will be treated as not acquired by purchase only to the extent of the husband's interest in the property. However, in applying the rules of section 267(b) and (c) for this purpose, section 267(c)(4) shall be treated as providing that the family of an individual will include only his spouse, ancestors, and lineal descendants. For example, a purchase of property from a corporation by a taxpayer who owns, directly or indirectly, more than 50 percent in value of the outstanding stock of such corporation does not qualify as a purchase under section 179(d)(2); nor does the purchase of property by a husband from his wife. However, the purchase of section 179 property by a taxpayer from his brother or sister does qualify as a purchase for purposes of section 179(d)(2).

(iii) The property is not acquired by purchase if acquired from a component member of a controlled group of corporations (as defined in paragraph (g) of this section) by another component member of the same group.

(iv) The property is not acquired by purchase if the basis of the property in the hands of the person acquiring it is determined in whole or in part by reference to the adjusted basis of such property in the hands of the person from whom acquired, or is determined under section 1014(a), relating to property acquired from a decedent. For example, property acquired by gift of bequest does not quality as property acquired by purchase for purposes of section 179(d)(2); nor does property received in a corporate distribution the basis of which is determined under section 301(d)(2)(B), property acquired by a corporation in a transaction to which section 351 applies, property acquired by a partnership through contribution (section 723), or property received in a partnership distribution which has a carryover basis under section 732(a)(1).

(2) Property deemed to have been acquired by a new target corporation as a result of a section 338 election (relating to certain stock purchases treated as asset acquisitions) will be considered acquired by purchase.

(e) Cost. The cost of section 179 property does not include so much of the basis of such property as is determined by reference to the basis of other property held at any time by the taxpayer. For example, X Corporation purchases a new drill press costing $10,000 in November 1984 which qualifies as section 179 property, and is granted a trade-in allowance of $2,000 on its old drill press. The old drill press had a basis of $1,200. Under the provisions of sections 1012 and 1031(d), the basis of the new drill press is $9,200 ($1,200 basis of old drill press plus cash expended of $8,000). However, only $8,000 of the basis of the new drill press qualifies as cost for purposes of the section 179 expense deduction; the remaining $1,200 is not part of the cost because it is determined by reference to the basis of the old drill press.

(f) Placed in service. The term "placed in service" means the time that property is first placed by the taxpayer in a condition or state of readiness and availability for a specifically assigned function, whether for use in a trade or business, for the production of income, in a tax-exempt activity, or in a personal activity. See §1.46-3(d)(2) for examples regarding when property shall be considered in a condition or state of readiness and availability for a specifically assigned founction.

(g) Controlled group of corporations and component member of controlled group. The terms "controlled group of corporations" and "component member" of a controlled group of corporations shall have the same meaning assigned to those terms in sections 1563(a) and (b), except that the phrase ""more than 50 percent" shall be substituted for the phrase "at least 80 percent" each place it appears in section 1563(a)(1).

§1.179-4 Time and manner of making election.

(a) Election. A separate election must be made for each taxable year in which a section 179 expense deduction is claimed with respect to section 179 and §1.179-1 to claim a section 179 expense deduction for section 179 property shall be made on the taxpayer's income tax return for the taxable year to which the election applies. If the taxpayer does not file a timely return (taking into account extensions of time for filing) for such taxable year, the election shall be made at the time the taxpayer files the first return for such year. The election may be made on a return, as amended, filed within the time prescribed by law (including extensions) for filing the return for such taxable year. The election shall be made by showing as a separate item on the taxpayer's income tax return the following items:

(1) The total section 179 expense deduction claimed with respect to all section 179 property selected; and

(2) The portion of that deduction allocable to each specific item.

The person shall maintain records which permit specific identification of each piece of section 179 property and reflect how and from whom such property was acquired and when such property was placed in service. The election to claim a section 179 expense deduction under this section, with respect to any property, is irrevocable and will be binding on the taxpayer with respect to such property for the taxable year for which the election is made and for all subsequent taxable years, unless the Commissioner consents to the revocation of the election. Similarly, the selection of section 179 property by the taxpayer to be subject to the expense deduction and apportionment scheme must be adhered to in computing the taxpayer's taxable income for the taxable year for which the election is made and for all subsequent taxable years, unless consent to change is given by the Commissioner.

(b) Revocation. Any election made under section 179, and any specification contained in such election, may not be revoked except with the consent of the Commissioner. Such consent will be granted only in extraordinary circumstances. Requests for consent must be filed with the Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Washington D.C., 20224. The request must include the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of the taxpayer and must be signed by the taxpayer or his duly authorized representative. It must be accompanied by a statement showing the year and property involved, and must set forth in detail the reasons for the request.

Par. 3. A new §1.179-5 is added immediately following §1.179-4 to read as set forth below.

§1.179-5 Effective date.

In general, the provisions of §§1.179-1 through 1.179-4 apply to property placed in service after December 31, 1980, in taxable years ending after such date. However, §1.179-2(d), relating to the application of the dollar limitation rules with respect to S corporations, shall be effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982.

Par. 4. Section 1.263(a)-1 is amended by redesignating paragraphs (c)(4) and (5) as (c)(5) and (6) respectively, and adding a new paragraph (c)(4) before designated paragraph (c)(5) to read as set forth below.

§1.263(a)-1 Capital expenditures; in general.

(c) * * *

(4) Section 179 and §§1.179-1 through 1.179-5, rrelating to election to expense certain depreciable business assets,

* * * * *

Par. 5. Section 1.263(a)-3 is amended by redesignating paragraphs (b)(5), (6), (7), (8), (9), and (10) as (b)(6), (7), (8), (9), (10) and (11) respectively, and adding a new paragraph (b)(5) before redesignated paragraph (b)(6) to read as set forth below.

§1.263(a)-3 Election to deduct or capitalize certain expenditures.

(b) * * *

(5) Section 179 (election to expense certain depreciable business assets).

* * * * *

Par. 6. Section 1.1033(g)-1 is amended by revising the fourth sentence of paragraph (b)(1) to read as set forth below.

§1.1033(g)-1 Condemnation of real property held for productive use in trade or business or for investment.

* * * * *

(b) Election to treat outdoor advertising displays as real property—(1) * * * No election may be made with respect to any property for which (i) the investment credit under section 38 has been claimed, or (ii) an election to expense certain depreciable business assets under section 179(a) is in effect.

* * * * *

Par. 7. The second sentence of paragraph (a)(3) of §1.1245-2 is revised by removing "additional first-year depreciation allowance for small business" and adding in its place "expense allowance (additional first-year depreciation allowance for property placed in service before January 1, 1981)".

These regulations are proposed to be issued under the authority contained in sections 179(c), 179(d)(10), and 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (95 Stat. 219, 96 Stat. 2369, 68A Stat. 917; 26 U.S.C. 179(c), 179(d)(10), 7805).

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Investment Tax Credit for Certain Rehabilitation Expenditures

LR-238-81

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations under sections 46 and 48 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 relating to an investment tax credit for rehabilitation expenditures incurred in connection with the rehabilitation of a qualified rehabilitated buidling. Also, changes are made to the regulations under section 191 to reflect the repeal of that section. Changes to the applicable law were made by the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 [Pub. L. 97-34, 1981-2 C.B. 256], the Technical Corrections Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-448, 1983-1 C.B. 451], and the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. The regulations would provide the public with the guidance needed to comply with the law as amended by the Act.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by August 27, 1985. The amendments would be effective generally for rehabilitation expenditures incurred after December 31, 1981.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-238-81), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John G. Schmalz of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attention:CC:LR:T) (202-566-3516).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under section 46, 48, and 191 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Generally, these amendments are proposed to conform the Income Tax Regulations to section 212 of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 (95 Stat. 235) [Pub. L. 97-34, 1981-2 C.B. 256, 291], section 102(f) of the Technical Corrections Act of 1982 (96 Stat. 2371) [Pub. L. 97-448, 1983-1 C.B. 451, 454], and sections 31(c), 111(e)(8), and 1043(a) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (98 Stat. 518, 631, and 1044) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 26, 141, 552].

Section 38 of the Internal Revenue Code provides for a credit against tax in the case of investment in certain depreciable property (i.e., section 38 property). Section 48(a)(1)(E) of the Code defines section 38 property so as to include the portion of the basis of a qualified rehabilitated building that is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures. Section 48(g) and §1.48-12 define the terms "qualified rehabilitated building" and "qualified rehabilitation expenditure". Section 46(b)(4)(A) provides rules for determining the rehabilitation percentage that is to be applied to qualified rehabilitation expenditures in order to determine the amount of the investment tax credit that is allowable under section 38 to a taxpayer.

REHABILITATION PERCENTAGE

The Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 provided for a three-tier rehabilitation percentage in the case of qualified rehabilitation expenditures. In general, section 46(b)(4)(A) provides that the rehabilitation percentage is 15 percent in the case of a 40-year building, and 25 percent in the case of a certified historic structure. Section 46(b)(4)(B) provides that the regular percentages and the energy percentages do not apply to that portion of the basis of any property which is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures. Section 46(b)(4)(C) provides definitions relating to the three types of buildings. In general, a 30-year building is a building where 30 years have lapsed between the date the building was first placed in service and the date physical work on the rehabilitation work on the rehabilitation began. A 40-year building is a building where 40 years have elapsed between these dates. The proposed regulations provide for an allocation rule in certain cases where additions have been made to a building.

PROPERTY USED FOR LODGING

In general, section 48(a)(3) provides that section 38 property does not include property which is used predominantly to furnish lodging. The Economic Recovery Tax Act amended section 48(a)(3) to provide an exception to this exclusion in the case of certified historic structures.

QUALIFIED REHABILITATED BUILDINGS

The term "qualified rehabilitated building" is defined in section 48(g)(1) and §1.48-12(b). In order to qualify as a qualified rehabilitated building, four requirements must be met. First, the building must have been placed in service before the beginning of the rehabilitation. Second, at least 75 percent of the existing external walls of the building generally must be retained as external walls. Third, thirty years must have elapsed between the date the building was first placed in service and the date the physical work on the rehabilitation began. Fourth, the building must have been substantially rehabilitated.

The Tax Reform Act of 1984 added section 48(g)(1)(E) which provides for an alternative "external wall" test. Although the portion of these proposed regulations dealing with the new test is reserved, the Treasury Department invites public comment on this topic. Specifically, the Treasury Department invites public comment on the interpretation of the term "internal structural framework" in section 48(g)(1)(E).

The proposed regulations contain additional restrictions applying in the cases of buildings that have been moved. Rehabilitation is distinguished from new construction in these proposed regulations. A quantitative test for substantial rehabilitation is provided in section 48(g)(1)(C) and §1.48-12(b)(2). In general, the qualified rehabilitation expenditures during the appropriate measuring period must exceed the greater of $5,000 or the adjusted basis of the property. The proposed regulations provide rules for applying the test in various contexts.

QUALIFIED REHABILITATION EXPENDITURE

The term "qualified rehabilitation expenditure" is defined in section 48(g)(2) and §1.48-12(c). In general, the expenditures must be for property chargeable to capital account and must be incurred after December 31, 1981, for real property with a recovery period of 18 years in connection with the rehabilitation of qualified rehabilitated building. Section 48(g)(2)(B) and §1.48-12(c) exclude certain expenditures from the definition of qualified rehabilitation expenditures. The proposed regulations clarify that the term "qualified rehabilitation expenditures" is not limited to those expenditures incurred during the relevant measuring period used for purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test. In the case of rehabilitated property placed in service in a taxable year, if the building qualifies as a qualified rehabilitated building for that year, the taxpayer can claim as qualified rehabilitation expenditures the expenditures incurred before the beginning of the measuring period, during the measuring period, and after the measuring period but before the end of the taxable year.

CERTIFIED HISTORIC STRUCTURE

The term "certified historic structure" is defined in section 48(g)(3) and §1.48-12(d). In general, a certified historic structure is a building (and its structural components) which is listed in the National Register, or which is located in a registered historic district and is certified by the Secretary of the Interior as being of historic significance to the district. Although procedures for obtaining a National Register listing or a certification of significance are generally within the authority of the Department of Interior, (and therefore outside the scope of the Internal Revenue Code), these proposed regulations do address the issue of when a 25 percent investment tax credit can be claimed in the case of a pending application for certification by the Department of Interior.

ADJUSTMENTS TO BASIS

Section 48(8) and §1.48-12(e) provide rules concerning an adjustment to the basis of the qualified rehabilitated buildings. In general, the increase in the basis of the building that would result from the qualified rehabilitation expenditures must be reduced by the amount of the credit allowed under section 38 (50 percent of the credit in the case of a certified historic structure).

COORDINATION WITH OTHER PROVISIONS

Section 1.48-12(f) provides rules relating to the coordination between section 48(g) and various other provisions of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Rules and cross-references to other provisions of the Code are provided.

SECTION 191

Section 191, relating to amortization of rehabilitation expenditures for certified historic structures, was repealed by the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 for expenditures incurred after December 31, 1981. These proposed regulations reflect the repeal.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request of any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The collection of information requirements contained in this notice of proposed rulemaking have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on these requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer of Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on these requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that the proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 or the Treasury-Office of Management and Budget implementation of that order, dated April 29, 1983. Accordingly, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is John G. Schmalz of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing these regulations both on matters of substance and style.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 are as follows:

Paragraph 1. These regulations are issued under the authority of 26 U.S.C. 7805 and 26 U.S.C. 48(g)(1)(C)(i) and (iii). The authority citation for Part 1 is amended by inserting in the appropriate place "§1.48-12 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 48(g)(1)(C)(i) and (iii);".

Par. 2. Section 1.46-1 is amended by revising paragraphs (a)(2) and (d), by adding a new subparagraph (5) to paragraph (e), and by adding a new paragraph (q) at the end thereof, to read as follows:

§1.46-1 Determination of amount.

(a) Effective dates. * * *

(2) Acts covered. This section reflects changes made by the following Acts of Congress:

Act and Section

(d) Credit earned. The credit earned for the taxable year is the sum of the following percentages of qualified investment (as determined under section 46(c) and (d))—

(1) The regular percentage (as determined under section 46(a)(2)(B)),

(2) For energy property, the energy percentage (as determined under section 46(a)(2)(C)),

(3) The ESOP percentage (as determined under section 46(a)(2)(E)), and

(4) For the portion of the basis of a qualified rehabilitated building (as defined in §1.48-12(b)) that is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures (as defined in §1.48-12(c)), the rehablitation percentage (as determined under section 46(b)(4)).

(e) Designation of credits. The credit available for the taxable year is designated as follows:

* * * * *

(5) The credit attributable to the rehabilitation percentage for qualified rehabilitation expenditures in the rehabilitation investment credit.

* * * * *

(g) Rehabilitation percentage—(1) In general. For qualified rehabilitation expenditures (as defined in §1.48-12(c)), section 46(b)(4)(A) provides for a three-tier rehabilitation percentage. The applicable rehabilitation percentage depends on whether the qualified rehabilitation building is a "30-year building," a "40-year building," or a certified historic structure (as defined in section 48(g)(3) and 1.48-12(d)). The rehabilitation percentage for qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred with respect to a qualified rehabilitated building is 15 percent to the extent that the building is a 30-year building (i.e., at least 30 years, but less than 40 years, has elapsed between the date the physical work on the rehabilitation began and the date the building was first placed in service), 20 percent to the extent that the building is a 40-year building (i.e., at least 40 years has so elapsed), and 25 percent for certified historic structures, regardless of age. For purposes of this paragraph (q), a building is not a "30-year building" unless it has been at the location where it is being rehabilitated for the thirty-year period immediately preceding the beginning of the rehabilitation process, and is not a "40-year building" unless it has been at the location where it is being rehabilitated for the forty-year period immediately preceding the beginning of the rehabilitation process. See §1.48-12(b)(5). Also, for purposes of this paragraph (q), a building (other than a certified historic structure) is not a qualified rehabilitated building to the extent of that portion of the building that is less than 30 years old. If rehabilitation expenditures are incurred with respect to an addition to a qualified rehabilitated building, but the addition is not considered to be part of the qualified rehabilitated building because the addition does not meet the thirty-year requirement in section 48(g)(1)(B) and §1.48-12(b)(4), then no rehabilitation percentage will be applied to the expenditures attributable to the rehabilitation of the addition. Thus, for purposes of this paragraph (q)(1), it may be necessary to allocate rehabilitation expenditures incurred with respect to a building between the original portion of the building and the addition. Furthermore, if qualified rehabilitation expenditures are incurred for property that is excluded from section 38 property described in section 48(a)(1)(E) (because, for example, they are made with respect to a portion of the building used for lodging within the meaning of section 48(a)(3) and §1.48-1(h)), a similar allocation of the expenditures must be made between the expenditures that result in basis that is section 38 property and the expenditures that do not result in basis that in section 38 property since the rehabilitation percentage is applicable only to section 38 property. These allocations should be made using the principles contained in §1.48-12(c)(9)(ii).

(2) Regular and energy percentages not to apply. The regular percentage and the energy percentage shall not apply to that portion of the basis of any building that is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures (as defined in §1.48-12(c)).

(3) Effective date. The rehabilitation percentage is applicable only to qualified rehabilitation expenditures (as defined in §1.48-12(c)). For rules relating to applicability of the regular percentage to qualified rehabilitation expenditures (as defined in §1.48-11(c)), see §1.48-11.

Par. 3. Section 1.48-1 is amended by adding a new subdivision (iii) to paragraph (h)(1) and a new subdivision (iv) to paragraph (h)(2) to read as follows:

§1.48-1 Definition of Section 38 property.

* * * * *

(h) Property used for lodging—(1) In general. * * *

(iii) Notwithstanding any other provision of this paragraph (h), in the case of a qualified rehabilitated building (within the meaning of section 48(g)(1) and §1.48-12(b)), expenditures for property resulting in basis described in section 48(a)(1)(E) shall not be treated as section 38 property to the extent that such property is attributable to a portion of the building that is used for lodging or in connection with lodging. For example, if expenditures are incurred to rehabilitate a five story qualified rehabilitated building, three floors of which are used for apartments and two floors of which are used as commercial office space, the expenditures attributable to the commercial part of the building are not expenditures for property, or in connection with property, used predominantly for lodging. Allocation of expenditures between the two portions of the building are to be made using the principles contained in §1.48-12(c)(9)(ii).

(2) Exceptions. * * *

(iv) Certified historic structures. For purposes of this paragraph (h), regardless of the actual use of a certified historic structure, that portion of the basis of such certified historic structure which is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures (as defined in §1.48-12(c)) shall not be considered as property which is either used predominantly to furnish lodging or predominantly in connection with the furnishing of lodging. Accordingly, such portion of the basis may qualify as section 38 property. (For a definition of "certified historic structure," see section 48(g)(3) and §1.48-12(d).)

Par. 4. There is inserted immediately after §1.48-11 a new §1.48-12 to read as follows:

§1.48-12 Qualified rehabilitated building; expenditures incurred after December 31, 1981.

(a) General rule—(1) In general. Under section 48(a)(1)(E), the portion of the basis of a qualified rehabilitated building that is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures (within the meaning of section 48(g) and this section) is section 38 property. Property that is section 38 property by reason of section 48(a)(1)(E) is treated as new section 38 property and, therefore, is not subject to the used property limitation in section 48(c). Section 48(g)(1) and paragraph (b) of this section define the term "qualified rehabilitated building." Section 48(g)(2) and paragraph (c) of this section define the term "qualified rehabilitation expenditure." Section 48(g)(2)(B)(iv) and (3) and paragraph (d) of this section describe the rules applicable to "certified historic structures." Section 48(q) and paragraph (e) of this section provide rules concerning an adjustment to the basis of the rehabilitated building. Paragraph (f) of this section provides guidance for coordination of these provisions with other sections of the Code.

(2) Effective date—(i) In general. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph, this section applies to expenditures incurred after December 31, 1981, in connection with the rehabilitation of a qualified rehabilitated building. (See paragraph (c)(3)(i) of this section for rules concerning the determination of when an expenditure is incurred.) If, however, physical work on the rehabilitation began before January 1, 1982, and the building does not meet the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section, the rules in §1.48-11 shall apply to the expenditures incurred after December 31, 1981, in connection with such rehabilitation. (See paragraph (b)(6)(i) of this section for rules determining when physical work on a rehabilitation begins.) For property placed in service before March 16, 1984, and any property subject to the exception set forth in section 111(g)(2) of Public Law 98-369 (Deficit Reduction Act of 1984) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 29], the references to "18 years" in paragraphs (c)(1)(iii), (c)(2), (c)(4), and (c)(7)(v) shall be replaced with "15 years" and the reference to "18-year real property" in paragraph (c)(4) shall be replaced with "15-year real property."

(ii) Transition rule concerning external wall definition. Notwithstanding the definition of external wall contained in paragraph (b)(3)(iii) of this section, in any case in which the written plans and specifications for a rehabilitation were substantially completed on or before June 28, 1985, and the building being rehabilitated would fail to meet the requirement of paragraph (b)(1)(iii) of this section if the definition of external wall in paragraph (b)(3)(iii) of this section were used, then the term "external wall" shall be defined as a wall, including its supporting elements, with one face exposed to the weather or earth, and a common wall shall not be treated as an external wall. See paragraph (b)(2)(v) of this section for the definition of written plans and specifications.

(b) Definition of qualified rehabilitated building— (1) In general. The term "qualified rehabilitated building" means any building and its structural components—

(i) That has been substantially rehabilitated (within the meaning of paragraph (b)(2) of this section),

(ii) That was placed in service (within the meaning of §1.46-3(d)) as a building by any person before the beginning of the rehabilitation, and

(iii) 75 percent or more of the existing external walls of which are retained in place as external walls in the rehabilitation process (within the meaning of paragraph (b)(3) of this section).

See paragraph (b)(4) and (5) of this section for additional requirements related to the definition of a qualified rehabilitated building.

(2) Substantially rehabilitated building—(i) Substantial rehabilitation test. A building shall be treated as having been substantially rehabilitated for a taxable year only if the qualified rehabilitation expenditures (as defined in paragraph (c) of this section) incurred during any 24-month period selected by the taxpayer ending with or within the taxable year exceed the greater of

(A) the adjusted basis of the building (and its structural components), or

(B) $5,000.

(ii) Date to determine adjusted basis of the building—(A) In general. The adjusted basis of the building (and its structural components) shall be determined as of the beginning of the first day of the 24-month period selected by the taxpayer or the first day of the taxpayer's holding period of the building (within the meaning of section 1250(e)), whichever is later. For purposes of determining the holding period under section 1250(e), any reconstruction that is part of the rehabilitation shall be disregarded.

(B) Special rules. In the event a building is not owned by the taxpayer, the adjusted basis of the building shall be determined as of the date that would have been used if the owner had been the taxpayer. The adjusted basis of a building that is being rehabilitated by a taxpayer other than the owner shall thus be determined as of the beginning of the first day of the 24-month period selected by the taxpayer or the first day of the owner's holding period, whichever is later. Therefore, if a building that is being rehabilitated by a lessee is sold subject to the lease prior to the date that the lessee has substantially rehabilitated the building, the lessee's adjusted basis is determined as of the beginning of the first day of the new lessor's holding period or the beginning of the first day of the 24-month period selected by the lessee (the taxpayer), whichever is later. If, therefore, the irst day of the new lessor's holding pe-iod were later than the first day of the 4-month period selected by the lessee the taxpayer), the lessee's adjusted ba-is for purposes of the substantial reha-ilitation test would be the same as the djusted basis of the new lessor as de-ermined under paragraph (b)(2)(vii) of his section. If a building is sold after ne date that a lessee has substantially ehabilitated the building with respect o the original lessor's adjusted basis, owever, the lessee's basis may be de-ermined as of the first day of the 4-month period selected by the lessee r the first day of the original lessor's olding period, whichever is later, and e transfer of the building will not af-ct the adjusted basis for purposes of e substantial rehabilitation test.

(iii) Adjusted basis of the uilding—(A) In general. The term djusted basis of the building" means e aggregate adjusted basis (within the eaning of section 1011(a)) in the uilding (and its structural components) all the parties who have an interest the building.

(B) Special rules. In the case of a uilding that is leased to a tenant, the djusted basis of the building is deter-ined by adding the adjusted basis of e owner (lessor) in the building to the djusted basis of the lessee (or lessees) the leasehold and any leasehold im-ovements that are structural compo-nts of the building. Similarly, in the se of a building that is divided into ndominium units, the adjusted basis the building means the aggregate ad-sted basis of all of the respective con-minium owners (including the basis any lessee in the leasehold and lease-old improvements) in the building nd its structural components). If the djusted basis of a building would be termined in whole or in part by refer-ce to the adjusted basis of a person persons other than the taxpayer .g., a rehabilitation by a lessee) and e taxpayer is unable to obtain the re-ired information from such other per-n or persons, the adjusted basis of e building will be deemed to be the ir market value of the building. If a uilding is owned by a partnership e., the building is partnership prop-ty), adjusted basis is determined by king into account any adjustments to e basis of the building made under section 743 and section 734. Any adjustments to the building's basis that are made under section 743 or section 734 after the beginning of the partnership's holding period, but before the end of the measuring period, shall be deemed for purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test to have been made on the first day of the partnership's holding period. For purposes of determining the adjusted basis of a building, the portion of the adjusted basis of a building that is allocable to an addition (within the meaning of paragraph (b)(4)(ii) of this section) to the building that is less than thirty years old (within the meaning of section 48(g)(1)(B) and paragraph (b)(4)(i) of this section) shall be disregarded. (See paragraph (b)(2)(vii) of this section for a special rule applicable to the determination of the adjusted basis of a building when qualified rehabilitation expenditures are treated as incurred by the taxpayer.)

(iv) Rehabilitation. Rehabilitation includes renovation, restoration, or reconstruction of a building, but does not include an enlargement (within the meaning of paragraph (c)(9) of this section) or new construction. The determination of whether expenditures are attributable to the rehabilitation of an existing building or to new construction shall be based upon all the facts and circumstances.

(v) Special rule for phased rehabilitation. In the case of any rehabilitation that may reasonably be expected to be completed in phases set forth in written architectural plans and specifications completed before the physical work on the rehabilitation begins, paragraphs (b)(2)(i), (ii), and (vii) of this section shall be applied by substituting "60-month period" for "24-month period." A rehabilitation may reasonably be expected to be completed in phases if it consists of two or more distinct stages of development. The determination of whether a rehabilitation consists of distinct stages and therefore may reasonably be expected to be completed in phases shall be made on the basis of all the relevant facts and circumstances in existence before physical work on the rehabilitation begins. For purposes of this paragraph and paragraph (a)(2)(ii) of this section, written plans that describe generally all phases of the rehabilitation process shall be treated as written architectural plans and specifications. Such written plans are not required to contain detailed working drawings or detailed specifications of the materials to be used. In addition, the taxpayer may include a description of work to be done by lessees in the written plans. For example, where the owner of a vacant four story building plans to rehabilitate two floors of the building and plans to require, as a condition of any lease, that tenants of the other two floors must rehabilitate those floors, the requirements of this paragraph (b)(2)(v) shall be met if the owner provides written plans for the rehabilitation work to be done by the owner and a description of the rehabilitation work that the tenants will be required to complete. The work required of the tenants may be described in the written plans in terms of minimum specifications (e.g., as to lighting, wiring, materials, appearance) that must be met by such tenants. See paragraph (b)(6)(i) of this section for the definition of physical work on a rehabilitation.

(vi) Treatment of expenses incurred by persons who have an interest in the building. For purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test in paragraph (b)(2)(i) of this section, the taxpayer may take into account qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred during the same rehabilitation process by any other person who has an interest in the building. Thus, for example, to determine whether a building has been substantially rehabilitated a lessee may include the expenditures of the lessor and of other lessees; a condominium owner may include the expenditures incurred by other condominium owners; and an owner may include the expenditures of the lessees.

(vii) Special rules when qualified rehabilitation expenditures are treated as incurred by the taxpayer. In the case where qualified rehabilitation expenditures are treated as having been incurred by a taxpayer under paragraph (c)(3)(ii) of this section, the transferee shall be treated as having incurred the expenditures incurred by the transferor on the date that the transferor incurred the expenditures within the meaning of paragraph (c)(3)(i) of this section. For purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test in paragraph (b)(2)(i) of this section, the transferee's adjusted basis in the building shall be determined as of the beginning of the first day of a 24-month period, or the first day of the transferee's holding period, whichever is later, as provided in paragraph (b)(2)(ii) of this section. The transferee's basis as of the first day of the transferee's holding period for purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test in paragraph (b)(2)(i) of this section, however, shall be considered to be equal to the transferee's basis in the building on such date less—

(A) The amount of any qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred (or treated as having been incurred) by the transferor during the 24-month period that are treated as having been incurred by the transferee under paragraph (c)(3)(ii) of this section, and

(B) The amount of qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred before the transfer and during the 24-month period by any other person who has an interest in the building (e.g., a lessee of the transferor).

The preceding sentence shall not apply, however, unless the transferee's basis in the building is determined with reference to (1) the transferee's cost of the building (including the rehabilitation expenditures), (2) the transferor's basis in the building (where such basis includes the amount of the expenditures), and (3) any other amount that includes the cost of the rehabilitation expenditures. In the event that the transferee's basis is determined with reference to an amount not described above (e.g., transferee's basis in one building is determined with reference to the transferee's basis in another building under section 1031(d)), the amount of the expenditures incurred by the transferor and treated as having been incurred by the transferee are not deducted from the transferee's basis for purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test. If the transferee's basis is determined under section 1014, any expenditures incurred by the decedent within the measuring period that are treated as having been incurred by the transferee under paragraph (c)(3)(ii) of this section shall increase the transferee's basis for purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test.

(viii) Statement of adjusted basis, measuring period, and qualified rehabilitation expenditures. In the case of any tax return filed after August 27, 1985 on which an investment tax credit for property described in section 48(a)(1)(E) is claimed, the taxpayer shall indicate by way of a marginal notation on, or a supplemental statement attached to, Form 3468—

(A) The beginning and ending dates for the measuring period selected by the taxpayer under section 48(g)(1)(C)(i) and paragraph (b)(2) of this section,

(B) The adjusted basis of the building (within the meaning of paragraph (b)(2)(iii) or (vii) of this section) as of the beginning of such measuring period, and

(C) The amount of qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred, and treated as incurred, respectively, during such measuring period.

Furthermore, for returns filed after August 27, 1985, if the adjusted basis of the building for purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test is determined in whole or in part by reference to the adjusted basis of a person, or persons, other than the taxpayer, (e.g., a rehabilitation by a lessee), the taxpayer must attach to the Form 3468 filed with the tax return on which the credit is claimed a statement addressed to the District Director, signed by such third party, that states the first day of the third party's holding period and the amount of the adjusted basis of such third party in the building at the beginning of the measuring period ro the first day of the holding period, whichever is later. If the taxpayer is unable to obtain the required information, that fact should be indicated and the taxpayer should state the fair market value of the building on the proper date.

(ix) Examples. The following examples illustrate the application of the substantial rehabilitation test in this paragraph (b)(2):

Example (1). Assume that A, a calendar year taxpayer, purchases a building for $140,000 on January 1, 1982, incurs qualified rehabilitation expenditures in the amount of $48,000 (at the rate of $4,000 per month) in 1982, $100,000 in 1983, and $20,000 (at the rate of $2,000 per month) in the first ten months of 1984, and places the rehabilitated building in service on October 31, 1984. Assume that A did not have written architectural plans and specifications describing a phased rehabilitation within the meaning of paragraph (b)(2)(v) of this section in existence prior to the beginning of physical work on the rehabilitation. For purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test in paragraph (b)(2) of this section, A may select any 24-consecutive-month measuring period that ends in 1984, the taxable year in which the rehabilitated building was placed in service. Assume that on A's 1984 return, A selected a measuring period beginning on February 1, 1982, and ending on January 31, 1984, and specifies that A's basis in the building (within the meaning of section 1011(a)) was $144,000 on February 1, 1982 ($140,000 + $4,000). (Thus $4,000 of rehabilitation expenditures incurred during January 1982 are included in A's basis under section 1011 even though such property has not been placed in service.) The amount of qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred during the measuring period was $146,000 ($44,000 from February 1, to December 31, 1982, plus $100,000 in 1983, plus $2,000 in January 1984). The building shall be treated as "substantially rehabilitated" within the meaning of this paragraph (b)(2) for A's 1984 taxable year because the $146,000 of expenditures incurred by A during the measuring period exceeded A's adjusted basis of $144,000 at the beginning of the period. If the other requirements of section 48(g)(1) and this paragraph are met, the building is treated as a qualified rehabilitated building, and A can treat as qualified rehabilitation expenditures the amount of $168,000 (i.e., $146,000 of expenditures incurred during the measuring period, $4,000 of expenditures incurred prior to the beginning of the measuring period as part of the rehabilitation process, and $18,000 of expenditures incurred after the measuring period during the taxable year within which the measuring period ends (see paragraph (c)(6) of this section)). The result would be the same if the property attributable to the rehabilitation expenditures was placed in service as the expenditures were incurred. (See paragraph (f)(2) of this section.)

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in example (1), except that additional rehabilitation expenditures are incurred after the rehabilitated building was placed in service on October 31, 1984. Such expenditures are incurred through the end of 1984 and in 1985 when the porton of the basis attirbutable to the additional expenditures is placed in service. The fact that the building qualified as a substantially rehabilitated building for A's 1984 taxable year has no effect on whether the building is a qualified rehabilitated building for property placed in service in A's 1985 taxable year. In order to determine whether the building is a qualified rehabilitated building for A's 1985 taxable year, A must select a measuring period that ends in 1985 and compare the expenditures incurred within that period with the adjusted basis as of the beginning of the period. Solely for the purpose of determining whether the building was substantially rehabilitated for A's 1985 taxable year, expenditures incured during 1983 and 1984, even though considered in determining whether the building was substantially rehabilitated in 1984, may also be used to determine whether the building was substantially rehabilitated for A's 1985 taxable year, provided the expenditures were incurred during any 24-month measuring period selected by A that ends in 1985.

Example (3). (i) Assume that B purchases a building for $100,000 on January 1, 1982, and leass the building to C who rehabilitates the ding. Assume that C, a calendar year tax-r. places the property with respect to which bilitation expenditures were made in service 982 and selects December 31, 1982, as the of the measuring period for purposes of the antial rehabilitation test. The beginning of measuring period is January 2, 1982, the be-ing of B's holding period under section (e), and the adjusted basis of the building is ,000. Accordingly, if C incurred more than ,000 of qualified rehabilitation expenditures g 1982, the building would be substantially bilitated within the meaning of paragraph)(i) of this section.

) Assume the facts of example (3)(i), except after C begins physical work on the rehabili-, but before C incurs $100,000 of expendi-. D acquires the building, subject to C's from B for $200,000. D's holding period section 1250(e) begins on the day after D red the building, and C's adjusted basis for ses of the substantial rehabilitation test is ,000, less the amount of expenditures red by C before the transfer. (See paragraph (ii) and (vii) of this section.) Accordingly, incurred more than $200,000 (less the nt of expenditures incurred prior to the er) of qualified rehabilitation expenditures g 1982, the building would be substantially bilitated within the meaning of paragraph) of this section. Under paragraph)(ii)(B) of this section, however, C's ad-l basis for purposes of the substantial reha-ion test would be $100,000 if C had sub-ally rehabilited the building (i.e., incurred than $100,000 in rehabilitation expendi-prior to B's sale to D. mple (4). E owns a building with a basis of 00) and E incurs $5,000 of rehabilitation ex-itures. Before completing the rehabilitation t, E sells the building to F for $30,000. As-that F is treated under paragraph (c)(3)(ii) s section as having incurred the $5,000 of bilitation expenditures actually incurred by ecause F's basis in the building is deter-l under section 1011 with reference to F's 00 cost of the building (which includes the nt attributable to E's rehabilitation expend-). F's basis for purposes of the substantial bilitation test is $25,000 ($30,000 cost basis 5,000 rehabilitation expenditures treated as urred by F). (See paragraph (b)(2)(vii) of ection.) F would thus be required to incur than $20,000 of rehabilitation expenditures ddition to the $5,000 incurred by E and d as having been incurred by F) during a ring period selected by F to satisfy the sub-l rehabilitation test.

mple (5). G owns Building I with a basis of 00 and a fair market value of $20,000. H Building II with a basis of $5,000 and a fair t value of $20,000, with respect to which H ncurred $1,000 of rehabilitation expendi-. G and H exchange their buildings in a ction that qualifies for nonrecognition treat-under section 1031. Assume that G is d under paragraph (c)(3)(ii) of this section ving incurred $1,000 of rehabilitation ex-ures. G's basis in Building II is not deter-with reference to (A) the cost of Building H's basis in Building II (including the cost rehabilitation expenditures) or (C) any amount that includes the cost of the expend-but is instead determined with reference to G's basis in other property (Building I). Therefore, G's basis in Building II for purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test is not reduced by the $1,000 of rehabilitation expenditures treated as if occurred by G. (See paragraph (b)(2)(vii) of this section.) Accordingly, G's basis in Building II for purposes of the substantial rehabilitation test is $10,000, and G must incur additional rehabilitation expenditures in excess of $9,000 within a measuring period selected by G to satisfy the test.

(3) Retention of 75 percent of external walls—(i) In general. A building meets the requirement set forth in paragraph (b)(1)(iii) of this section if 75 percent or more of the existing external walls of the building (as measured by the total area of the existing external walls) are retained in place as external walls in the rehabilitation process. For this purpose, the area of existing external walls includes the area of windows and doors. If an addition to a building is not treated as part of a qualified rehabilitated building because it does not meet the 30-year requirement in paragraph (b)(4) of this section, then the external walls of such addition shall not be existing external walls of the building for purposes of section 48(g)(3)(A)(iii) and this section. The area of the existing external walls of a building shall be determined prior to any destruction, modification, or construction of walls that is undertaken by any party in anticipation of the rehabilitation.

(ii) Alternative test described in section 48(g)(1)(E). [Reserved]

(iii) Definition of external wall. For purposes of this paragraph (b), a wall includes both the supporting elements of the wall and the nonsupporting elements (e.g., a curtain) of the wall. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (b)(3), the term "external wall" includes any wall that has one face exposed to the weather, earth, or an abutting wall of an adjacent building. The term "external wall" also includes a shared wall (i.e., a single wall shared with an adjacent building), generally referred to as a "party wall," provided that the shared wall has no windows or doors in any portion of the wall that does not have one face exposed to the weather, earth, or an abutting wall. In general, the term "external wall" includes only those external walls that form part of the perimeter of the building or that surround an uncovered courtyard. Therefore, the walls of an uncovered internal shaft, designed solely to bring light or air into the center of building, which are completely surrounded by external walls of the building and which enclose space not designated for occupancy or other use by people (other than for maintenance or emergency), are not considered external walls. Thus, for example, a wall of a light well in the center of a building is not an external wall. However, walls surrounding an outdoor space which is usable by people, such as a courtyard, are external walls.

(iv) Retained in place. An existing external wall is retained in place if the supporting elements of the wall are retained inplace. An existing external wall is not retained in place if the supporting elements of the wall are replaced by new supporting elements. An external wall is retained in place, however, if the supporting elements are reinforced in the rehabilitation, provided that such supporting elements of the external wall are retained in place. An external wall also is retained in place if it is covered (e.g., with new siding). Moreover, an external wall is retained in place if the existing curtain is replaced with a new curtain, provided that the structural framework that provides for the support of the existing curtain is retained in place. An external wall is retained in place notwithstanding that the existing doors and windows in the wall are modified, eliminated, or replaced. An external wall is retained in place if the wall is disassembled and reassembled, provided the same supporting elements are used when the wall is reassembled and the configuration of the external walls of the building after the rehabilitation is the same as it was before the rehabilitation process commenced. Thus, for example, a brick wall is considered retained in place even though the original bricks are removed (for cleaning, etc.) and replaced to form the wall.

(v) Effect of additions. If an existing external wall is converted into an internal wall (i.e., a wall that is not an external wall), the wall is not retained in place as an external wall for purposes of this section.

(vi) Examples. The provisions of this paragraph (b)(3) may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). Taxpayer A rehabilitated a building all of the walls of which consisted of wood siding attached to gypsum board sheets (which covered the supporting elements of the wall, i.e., studs). A covered the existing wood siding with aluminum siding as part of a rehabilitation that otherwise qualified under this subparagraph. The addition of the aluminum siding does not affect the status of the existing external walls as external walls and they would be considered to have been retained in place.

Example (2). Taxpayer B rehabilitated a building, the external walls of which had a masonry curtain. The masonry on the wall face was replaced with a glass curtain. The steel beam and girders supporting the existing masonry curtain were retained in place. The walls of the building are considered to be retained in place as external walls, notwithstanding the replacement of the curtain.

Example (3). Taxpayer C rehabilitated a building that has two external walls measuring 75′ × 20′ and two other external walls measuring 100′ × 20′. C demolished one of the larger walls, including its supporting elements and constructed a new wall. Because one of the larger walls represents more than 25 percent of the area of the building's external walls, C has not satisfied the requirement that 75 percent of the existing external walls must be retained in place as external walls.

Example (4). The facts are the same as in example (3), except that C does not tear down any walls, but builds an addition that results in one of the smaller walls becoming an internal wall. In addition, C enlarged 8 of the existing windows on one of the larger walls, increasing them from a size of 3′ × 4′ to 6′ × 8′. Since the smaller wall accounts for less than 25 percent of the total wall area, C has satisfied the requirement that 75 percent of the existng external walls must be retained in place as external walls in the rehabilitation process. The enlargement of the existing windows on the larger wall does not affect its status as an external wall.

Example (5). Taxpayer D rehabilitated a building that was in the center of a row of three buildings. The building being rehabilitated by D shares its side walls with the buildings on either side. The shared walls measure 100′ × 20′ and the rear and front walls measure 75′ × 20′. As part of a rehabilitation, D tears down and replaces the front wall. Because the shared walls as well as the front and back walls are considered external walls and the front wall accounts for less than 25 percent of the total external wall area (including the shared walls), D has satisfied the requirement that 75 percent of the existng external walls must be retained in place as external walls int he rehabilitation process.

(4) Thirty-year requirement—(i) In general. Except in the case of a certified historic structure (within the meaning of paragraph (d) of this section), a building is considered a qualified rehabilitated building only if a period of at least 30 years has elapsed between the date physical work on the rehabilitation of the building began and the date the building was first placed in service (within the meaning of §1.46-3(d)) as a building by any person.

(ii) Additions. A building that was first placed in service at least 30 years before physical work on the rehabilitation began will not be disqualified because additions to such building are less than 30 years old. Additions to the building that are less than 30 years old, however, shall not be treated as part of the qualified rehabilitated building. The term "addition" means any construction that resulted in any portion of an external wall becoming an internal wall, that resutled in an increase in the height of the building, or that increased the volume of the building.

(iii) Vacant periods. The 30-year period required by this paragraph (b)(3) includes periods during which a building was vacant or devoted to a personal use and is computed without regard to the number of owners or the identity of owners during the period.

(5) Loction at which the rehabilitation occurs. A building, other than a certified historic structure (within the meaning of paragraph (d) of this section), is not a qualified rehabilitated building unless it has been located where it is being rehabilitated for the thirty-year period immediately preceding the date physical work on the rehabilitation began in the case of a "30-year building" or the forty-year period immediately preceding the date physical work on the rehabilitation began in the case of a "40-year building." (See §1.46-1(q)(1) for the definitions of "30-year building" and "40-year building.")

(6) Definition and special rule—(i) Physical work on a rehabilitation. For purposes of this section, "physical work on a rehabilitation" begins when actual construction, or destruction in preparation for construction, begins. The term "physical work on a rehabilitation," however, does not include preliminary activities such as planning, designing, securing financing, exploring, researching, developing plans and specifications, or stabilizing a building to prevent deterioration (e.g., placing boards over broken windows).

(ii) Special rule for adjoining buildings that are combined. For purposes of this paragraph (b), if as part of a rehabilitation process two or more adjoining buildings are combined and placed in service as a single building after the rehabilitation process, then, at the election of the taxpayer, all of the requirements for a qualified rehabilitation building in section 48(g)(1) and this section may be applied to the constituent adjoining buildings in the aggregate. For example, if such requirements are applied in the aggregate, any shared walls or abutting walls between the constituent buildings that would otherwise be treated as external walls (within the meaning of paragraph (b)(3) of this section) would not be treated as external walls of the building, and the substantial rehabilitation test in paragraph (b)(2) of this section would be applied to the aggregate expenditures with respect to all of the constituent buildings and to the aggregate adjusted basis of all of the constituent buildings. A taxpayer shall elect the special rule of this paragraph (b)(6)(ii) for adjoining buildings by indicating by way of a marginal notation on, or a supplemental statement attached to, the Form 3468 on which a credit is first claimed for qualified rehabilitation expenditures with respect to such buildings that such buildings are a single qualified rehabilitated building because of the application of the special rule in this paragraph (b)(6)(ii).

(c) Definition of qualified rehabilitation expenditures—(1) In general. Except as provided in paragraph (c)(7) of this section, the term "qualified rehabilitation expenditure" means any amount that is—

(i) Properly chargeable to capital account (as described in paragraph (c)(2) of this section),

(ii) Incurred by the taxpayer after December 31, 1981 (as described in paragraph (c)(3) of this section),

(iii) For recovery property that is real property (or additions or improvements to real property) with a recovery period (within a meaning of section 168) of 18 years (15 years for low-income housing) (as described in paragraph (c)(4) of this section), and

(iv) Made in connection with the rehabilitation of a qualified rehabilitated building (as described in paragraph (c)(5) of this section).

(2) Chargeable to capital account. For purposes of paragraph (c)(1) of this section, amounts are chargeable to capital account if they are properly includible in computing basis under §1.46-3(c). Amounts treated as an expense and deducted in the year they are aid or incurred or amounts that are nortized over a period of less than 18 ears (15 years in the case of low-come housing) do not qualify. For rposes of this paragraph (c), amounts curred for architectural and engineer-g fees, site survey fees, legal exnses, insurance premiums, develops fees, and other construction related sts, if added to the basis of real prop-y with a recovery period of 18 years

5 years in the case of low-income using), satisfy the requirement of this ragraph (c)(2). Construction period erest and taxes, as defined in section 9, are not qualified rehabilitation ex-nditures if they are amortized under ction 189. If, however, the taxpayer ects under section 266 to treat such erest and taxes as chargeable to capiaccount with respect to real property th a recovery period of 18 years (15 ars in the case of low-income housg), they shall be treated in the same nner as other costs described in this ragraph (c)(2). Any construction ped interest or taxes or other fees or sts incurred in connection with the quisition of land or a building are bject to paragraph (c)(7)(ii) of this ction.

(3) Incurred by the taxpayer—(i) In neral. Qualified rehabilitation ex-nditures are incurred by the taxpayer purposes of this section on the date ch expenditure would be considered curred under the accrual method of counting, regardless of the method of counting used by the taxpayer with spect to other items of income and pense. If qualified rehabilitation ex-nditures are treated as having been curred by a taxpayer under paragraph )(3)(ii) of this section, the taxpayer ll be treated as having incurred the penditures on the date such expendi-es were incurred by the transferor.

(ii) Qualified rehabilitation expendi-es treated as incurred by the tax-yer. (A) Where rehabilitation ex-nditures are incurred with respect to uilding by a person (or persons) ner than the taxpayer and the tax-yer subsequently acquires the build-g, or a position of the building to ich the expenditures are allocable, taxpayer acquiring such property
ll be treated as having incurred the abilitation expenditures actually urred by the transferor (or treated as incurred by the transferor under this paragraph (c)(3)(ii)) with respect to the acquired property, provided that—

(1) The building, or the portion of the building, acquired by the taxpayer was not used after the rehabilitation expenditures were incurred and prior to the date of acquisition, and

(2) No credit with respect to such qualified rehabilitation expenditures is claimed by anyone other than the taxpayer acquiring the property.

For purposes of this paragraph (c)(3)(ii), use shall mean actual use, whether personal or business.

(B) The amount of rehabilitation expenditures described in paragraph (c)(3)(ii)(A) of this section treated as incurred by the taxpayer under this paragraph shall be the lesser of—

(1) The amount of rehabilitation expenditures incurred before the date on which the taxpayer acquired the building (or portion thereof) to which the rehabilitation expenditures are attributable, or

(2) The portion of the taxpayer's cost or other basis for the property that is properly allocable to the property resulting from the rehabilitation expenditures described in paragraph (c)(3)(ii)(B)(1) of this section.

(C) For purposes of this paragraph (c)(3)(ii) of this section, the amount of rehabilitation expenditures treated as incurred by the taxpayer under this paragraph (c) shall not be treated as costs for the acquisition of a building. The portion of the cost of acquiring a building (or an interest therein) that is not treated under this paragraph as qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred by the taxpayer is not treated as section 38 property in the hands of the acquiring taxpayer. (See paragraph (c)(7)(ii) of this section.) (See paragraph (b)(2)(vii) for rules concerning the application of the substantial rehabilitation test when expenditures are treated as incurred by the taxpayer.)

(iii) Examples. The provisions of this paragraph (c) may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). In 1981, A, a taxpayer using the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting, commenced the rehabilitation of a 30-year old building. In June 1981, A signed a contract with a plumbing contractor for replacement of the plumbing in the building. A agreed to pay the contractor as soon as the work was completed. The work was completed in December 1981, but A did not pay the amount due until January 15, 1982. The expenditures for the plumbing are not qualified rehabilitation expenditures (within the meaning of paragraph (c) of this section) because they were not incurred under the accrual method of accounting after December 31, 1981.

Example (2). B incurred qualified rehabilitation expenditures of $300,000 with respect to an existing building between January 1, 1982, and May 15, 1982, and then sold the building to C on June 1, 1982. The portion of the building to which the expenditures were allocable was not used by B or any other person during the period from January 1, 1982, to June 1, 1982, and neither B nor any other person claimed the credit. Consequently, C will be treated as having incurred the expenditures on the dates that B incurred the expenditures.

Example (3). C, a taxpayer using the cash receipts and disbursements method of accounting, begins the rehabilitation of a building on January 11, 1982. Prior to May 1, 1982, C pays rehabilitation expenditures of $12,000. On May 3, 1982, C sells the building, the land, and the property attributable to the rehabilitation expenditures to D for $35,000. The purchase price is properly allocable as follows:

land	$8,000
existing building	11,000
property attributable to rehabilitation expenditures	16,000
total purchase price	$35,000

The property attributable to the rehabilitation expenditures is placed in service by D on September 5, 1982. D may treat a portion of the $35,000 purchase price as rehabilitation expenditures paid or incurred by him. Since the rehabilitation expenditures paid by C ($12,000) are less than the portion of the purchase price properly allocable to property attributable to these expenditures ($16,000), D may treat only $12,000 as rehabilitation expenditures paid or incurred by him. The excess of the purchase price allocable to rehabilitation expenditures ($16,000) over the rehabilitation expenditures paid by C ($12,000), or $4,000, is treated as the cost of acquiring an interest in the building and is not a qualified rehabilitation expenditures treated a sincurred by D.

Example (4). The facts are the same as in example (3), except that the purchase price properly allocable to the property attributable to rehabilitation expenditures is $10,000. Under these circumstances, D may treat only $10,000 of C's $12,000 expenditures as rehabilitation expenditures paid by C. The excess of the rehabilitation expenditures paid by C ($12,000) over the purchase price allocable to rehabilitation expenditures ($10,000), or $2,000, is treated as the cost of acquiring an interest in the building and is not a qualified rehabilitation expenditure treated as incurred by D.

(4) Incurred for 18-year property. For purposes of this section, an expenditure is incurred for recovery property having a recovery period of 18 years only if the amount of the expenditure is added to the basis of property which is 18-year real property or 15-year real property in the case of low-income housing (within the meaning of section 168(c)). For purposes of this section, the term "low-income housing" has the meaning given such term by section 168(c)(2)(F).

(5) Made in connection with the rehabilitation of a qualified rehabilitation building. In order to be qualified rehabilitation expenditures, expenditures must be incurred in connection with a rehabilitation as defined in paragraph (b)(2)(iv) of this section. Expenditures attributable to work done to facilities related to a building (e.g., sidewalk, parking lot, landscaping) are not considered made in connection with the rehabilitation of a qualified rehabilitated building.

(6) When expenditures may be incurred. An expenditure is a qualified rehabilitation expenditure only if the building with respect to which the expenditures are incurred is substantially rehabilitated (within the meaning of paragraph (b)(2) of this section) for the taxable year in which the property attributable to the expenditures is placed in service (i.e., the building is substantially rehabilitated during a measuring period ending with or within the taxable year in which the credit is claimed). (See paragraph (f)(2) of this section for rules relating to when property is placed in service.) The amount of qualified rehabilitation expenditures is limited to expenditures incurred:

(i) Before a measuring period, during which the building was substantially rehabilitated, that ends with or within the taxable year, provided that the expenditures were incurred in connection with the rehabilitation process that resulted in the substantial rehabilitation of the building;

(ii) Within a meaning period, during which the building was substantially rehabilitated, that ends with or within the taxable year, and

(iii) After a measuring period, during which the building was substantially rehabilitated, but prior to the end of the taxable year with or within which the measuring period ends.

(7) Certain expenditures excluded from qualified rehabilitation expenditures. The term "qualified rehabilitation expenditures" does not include the following expenditures:

(i) Any expenditure with respect to which an election is not made under section 168(b)(3) to use the straight-line method of depreciation. (See paragraph (c)(8) of this section.)

(ii) The cost of acquiring a building, any interest in a building (including a leasehold interest), or land, except as provided in paragraph (c)(3)(ii) of this section.

(iii) Any expenditure attributable to an enlargement of a building (within the meaning of paragraph (c)(9) of this section).

(iv) Any expenditure attributable to the rehabilitation of a certified historic structure or a building located in a registered historic district, unless the rehabilitation is a certified rehabilitation. (Paragraph (d) of this section contains definitions and special rules applicable to rehabilitations of certified historic structures and buildings located in registered historic districts.)

(v) Any expenditure of a lessee of a building if, on the date the rehabilitation is completed, the remaining term of the lease (determined without regard to any renewal period) is less than 18 years.

(vi) Any expenditure allocable to that portion of a building which is (or may reasonably be expected to be) tax-exempt use property (within the meaning of section 168(j) and the regulations thereunder), except that the exclusion in this paragraph (c)(7)(vi) shall not apply for purposes of determining whether the building is a substantially rehabilitated building under paragraph (b)(2) of this section.

(8) Election to use straight-line cost recovery. The requirement in section 48(g)(2)(B)(i) and paragraph (c)(7)(i) of this section that an election be made to use straight-line cost recovery applies only to the cost recovery of the portion of the basis of a qualified rehabilitated building that is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures. See section 168(f)(1) for rules relating to the use of different methods of cost recovering for different components of a building. In addition, the requirement in section 48(g)(2)(B)(i) and paragraph (c)(7)(i) of this section shall not apply to any expenditure to the extent that section 168(f)(12) or (j) applies to such expenditure.

(9) Enlargement defined—(i) In general. A building is enlarged to the extent that the total volume of the building is increased. An increase in floor space resulting from interior remodelling is not considered an enlargement. The total volume of a building is generally equal to the product of the floor area of the base of the building and the height from the underside of the lowest floor (including the basement) to the average height of the finished roof (as it exists or existed). For this purpose, floor area is measured from the exterior faces of external walls (other than shared walls that are external walls) and from the centerline of shared walls that are external walls.

(ii) Rehabilitation that includes enlargement. If expenditures for property only partially qualify as qualified rehabilitation expenditures because some of the expenditures are attributable to the enlargement of the building, the expenditures must be apportioned between the original portion of the building and the enlargement. The expenditures must be specifically allocated between the original portion of the building and the enlargement to the extent possible. If it is not possible to make a specific allocation of the expenditures, the expenditures must be allocated to each portion on some reasonable basis. The determination of a reasonable basis for an allocation depends on factors such as the type of improvement and how the improvement relates functionally to the building. For example, in the case of expenditures for an air-conditioning system or a roof, a reasonable basis for allocating the expenditures among the two portions generally would be the volume of the building, excluding the enlargement, served by the air-conditioning system or the roof, relative to the volume of the enlargement served by the improvement.

(d) Rules applicable to rehabilitations of certified historic structures—(1) Definition of certified historic structure. The term "certified historic structure" means any building (and its structural components) that is—

(i) Listed in the National Register of Historic Places ("National Register"); or

(ii) Located in a registered historic district and certified by the Secretary of the Interior to the Internal Revenue Service as being of historic significance to the district.

(2) Defintion of registered historic district. The term "registered historic district" means any district that is—

(i) Listed in the National Register, or

(ii) (A) Designated under a statute of the appropriate State or local government that has been certified by the Secretary of the Interior to the Internal Revenue Service as containing criteria that will substantially achieve the purpose of preserving and rehabilitating buildings of historic significance to the district, and (B) certified by the Secretary of the Interior as meeting substantially all of the requirements for the listing of districts in the National Register.

(3) Definition of certified rehabilitation. The term "certified rehabilitation" means any rehabilitation of a certified historic structure that the Secretary of the Interior has certified to the Internal Revenue Service as being consistent with the historic character of the building or the district in which such building is located. The determination of the scope of a rehabilitation shall be made on the basis of all the facts and circumstances surrounding the rehabilitation and shall not be made solely on the basis of ownership. The Secretary of the Interior shall take all of the rehabilitation work performed as part of a single rehabilitation, including any post-certification work, into account in determining whether the rehabilitation complies with the Department of Interior standards for rehabilitation and whether the certification should be granted, revoked, or otherwise invalidated.

(4) Revoked or invalidated certification. If the Department of Interior revokes or otherwise invalidates a certification after it has been issued to a taxpayer, the basis attributable to rehabilitation of the decertified property shall cease to be section 38 property described in section 48(a)(1)(E). Such cessation shall be effective as of the date the activity giving rise to the revocation or invalidation commenced. See section 47 for the rules applicable to property that ceases to be section 38 property.

(5) Special rule for certain buildings located in registered historic districts. The exclusion in paragraph (c)(7)(iv) of this section does not apply to a building in a registered historic district if—

(i) Such building was not a certified historic structure; and

(ii) The Secretary of the Interior certified to the Internal Revenue Service that such building was not of historic significance to the district.

If the certification referred to in paragraph (d)(5)(ii) of this section is requested by the taxpayer after physical work on the rehabilitation of the building has begun and is granted by the Secretary of the Interior, the taxpayer must certify to the Internal Revenue Service that, at the beginning of such rehabilitation, the taxpayer in good faith was not aware of the requirement of paragraph (d)(5)(ii) of this section. The certification referred to in the previous sentence must be attached to the Form 3468 filed with the tax return for the year in which the credit is claimed.

(6) Special rule for certain rehabilitations begun before an area is designated as a registered historic district. In general, paragraph (c)(7)(iv) of this section applies to any rehabilitation expenditures that are incurred after a building becomes a certified historic structure within the meaning of section 48(g)(3)(A) and paragraph (d)(1) of this section or the area in which a building is located becomes a registered historic district within the meaning of section 48(g)(3)(B) and paragraph (d)(2) of this section. Rehabilitation expenditures made after the date the area in which a building is located becomes a registered historic district, however, shall not be disqualified under paragraph (c)(7)(iv) of this section in any case in which physical work on the rehabilitation of a building begins prior to the date the taxpayer knows or has reason to know of an intention to nominate the area in which such building is located as a registered historic district. For purposes of this paragraph (d)(6), the taxpayer knows or has reason to know of such an intention if there is (A) a written communication to the owner of any building within the district that the district in which the building is located is being considered for designation as a registered historic district, (B) a legal notice of such consideration published in a newspaper, or (C) a public meeting held to discuss such consideration. In order to take advantage of the special rule of this paragraph (d)(6), the taxpayer must attach to the Form 3468 filed for the taxable year in which the credit is claimed, a statement that the taxpayer in good faith did not know, or have reason to know, of an intention to nominate the area in which the building is located as a registered historic district.

(7) Notice of certification—(i) In general. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (d)(7)(ii) of this section, a taxpayer claiming the credit for rehabilitation of a certified historic structure (within the meaning of section 48(g)(3) and paragraph (d)(1) of this section) must attach to the Form 3468 filed with the tax return for the taxable year in which the credit is claimed a copy of the final certification of completed work by the Secretary of the Interior.

(ii) Late certification. If the final certification of completed work has not been issued by the Secretary of the Interior at the time the tax return is filed for a year in which the credit is claimed, a copy of the first page of the Historic Preservation Certification Application—Part 2—Description of Rehabilitation (NPS Form 10-168a), with an indication that it has been received by the Department of the Interior or its designate, must be attached to the Form 3468 filed with the return. A notice from the Department of the Interior or the State Historic Preservation Officer, stating that the application has been received, or a date-stamped application shall be sufficient indication that the application has been received. The taxpayer must submit a copy of the final certification as an attachment to Form 3468 with the first income tax return filed after the receipt by the taxpayer of the certification. If the final certification is denied by the Department of Interior, the credit will be disallowed for any taxable year in which it was claimed. If the taxpayer fails to receive final certification of completed work prior to the date that is 30 months after the date that the taxpayer filed the tax return on which the credit was claimed, the taxpayer must submit a written statement to the District Director stating such fact prior to the last day of the 30th month, and the taxpayer shall be requested to consent to an agreement under section 6501(c)(4) extending the period of assessment for any tax relating to the time for which the credit was claimed.

(e) Adjustment to basis—(1) General rule. If a credit is allowed with respect to qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred in connection with a qualified rehabilitated building (other than a certified historic structure), the increase in the basis of the rehabilitated property that would otherwise result from the qualified rehabilitation expenditures must be reduced by the amount of credit allowed. If a rehabilitation investment credit is allowed with respect to qualified rehabilitation expenditures in connection with the rehabilitation of a certified historic structure, the increase in the basis of the rehabilitated property that would otherwise result from the qualified rehabilitation expenditures must be reduced by one-half of the amount of the credit allowed. See section 48 (q) for other rules concerning adjustments to basis in the case of section 38 property.

(2) Recapture of rehabilitation investment credit. If during any taxable year there is a recapture amount determined with respect to any credit that resulted in a basis adjustment under paragraph (e)(1) of this section, the basis of such building (immediately before the event resulting in such recapture) shall be increased by an amount equal to such recapture amount. For purposes of the preceding sentence, the term "recapture amount" means any increase in tax (or adjustment in carrybacks or carryovers) determined under section 47(a)(5).

(f) Coordination with other provisions of the Code—(1) Credit claimed by lessee for rehabilitation performed by lessor. A lessee may take the credit for rehabilitation performed by the lessor if the requirements of this section and section 48(d) are satisfied. For purposes of applying section 48(d), the fair market value of section 38 property described in section 48(a)(1)(E) shall be limited to that portion of the lessor's basis in the qualified rehabilitated building that is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures.

(2) When the credit may be claimed—(i) In general. The investment credit for qualified rehabilitation expenditures is generally allowed in the taxable year in which the property attributable to the expenditure is placed in service, provided the building is a qualified rehabilitated building for the taxable year. See paragraph (b) of this section and section 46(c) and §1.46-3(d). Under certain circumstances, however, the credit may be available prior to the date the property is placed in service. See section 46(d) and §1.46-5 (relating to qualified progress expenditures). Solely for purposes of section 46(c), property attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures will not be treated as placed in service until the building with respect to which the expenditures are made meets the definition of a qualified rehabilitated building (as defined in section 48(g)(1) and paragraph (b) of this section) for the taxable year. Accordingly, in the first taxable year for which the building becomes a qualified rehabilitated building, the property described in section 48(a)(1)(E) attributable to expenditures described in paragraph (c) of this section shall be considered to be placed in service, if such property was considered placed in service under section 46(c) and the regulations thereunder without regard to this subparagraph in that taxable year or a prior taxable year. For purposes of the proceding sentence, the requirement in section 48(g)(1)(A)(iii) and paragraph (b)(3) of this section relating to the definition of a qualified rehabilitated building shall be deemed to be met if the taxpayer reasonably expects that no rehabilitation work undertaken during the remainder of the rehabilitation process wilsl result in less than 75 percent of the external walls being retained as external walls within the meaning of paragraph (b)(3) of this section. If more than 25 percent of the external walls of the building are not retained in place as external walls in the rehabilitation process, however, the credit shall be disallowed for the taxable year in which it was claimed. If a taxpayer fails to complete physical work on the rehabilitation prior to the date that is 30 months after the date that the taxpayer filed a tax return on which the credit is claimed, the taxpayer must submit a written statement to the District Director stating such fact prior to the last day of the 30th month, and shall be requested to consent to an agreement under section 6501(c)(4) extending the period of assessment for any tax relating to the item for which the credit was claimed.

(ii) Example. The application of this paragraph (f)(2) may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. Assume that A, a calendar year taxpayer, purchases a four-story building on January 1, 1983, for $100,000, and incurs $10,000 of qualified rehabilitation expenditures in 1983 to rehabilitate floor one, $50,000 of qualified rehabilitation expenditures in 1984 to rehabilitate floor two, $70,000 of qualified rehabilitation expenditures in 1985 to rehabilitate floor three, and $60,000 of qualified rehabilitation expenditures in 1986 to rehabilitate floor four. Assume further that A places the property attributable to these expenditures in service on the last day of the year in which the respective expenditures were incurred. Under the rule in this paragraph (f)(2), the portion of the basis of the building that is attributable to qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred with respect to floor one and two are deemed to be placed in service in 1985, because that is the first year that the substantial rehabilitation test described in paragraph (b) of this section is met ($120,000 of expenditures incurred by A during a measuring period ending on December 31, 1985 is greater than the $110,000 basis at the beginning of the period). Assume that as of December 31, 1985, at least 75 percent of the external walls of the building have been retained during the rehabilitation process and that A has a reasonable expectation that no work during the remainder of the rehabilitation process will result in less than 75 percent of the external walls being retained. A may claim a credit for A's 1985 taxable year on $130,000 of qualified rehabilitation expenditures ($10,000 in 1983, $50,000 in 1984, and $70,000 in 1985). (See paragraph (c)(6) of this section for rules applicable to when qualified expenditures may be incurred. In addition, see section 46(d) and §1.46-5 for rules relating to qualified progress expenditures.) The fact that the building was a qualified rehabilitated building for A's 1985 taxable year, however, has no effect on whether the building is a qualified rehabilitated building for A's 1986 taxable year. In order to determine whether A is entitled to claim a credit on A's 1986 return for the $60,000 of qualified rehabilitation expenditures incurred in 1986, A must select a measuring period ending in 1986 and must determine whether the building is a qualified rehabilitated building for that year. Solely for purposes of determining whether the building was substantially rehabilitated, expenditures incurred in 1984 and 1985, even though considered in determining whether the building was substantially rehabilitated for A's 1985 taxable year, may be used in addition to the expenditures incurred in 1986 to determine whether the building was substantially rehabilitated for A's 1986 taxable year, provided the expenditures were incurred during any measuring period selected by A that ends in 1986.

(3) Coordination with section 47. If property described in section 48(a)(1)(E) is disposed of by the taxpayer, or otherwise ceases to be "section 38 property," section 47 may apply. Property will cease to be section 38 property, and therefore section 47 may apply, in any case in which the Department of Interior revokes or otherwise invalidates a certification of rehabilitation after the property is placed in service. If, for example, the taxpayer made modifications to the building inconsistent with Department of Interior standards, the Secretary of the Interior might revoke the certification. In addition, if all or a portion of a substantially rehabilitated building becomes tax-exempt use property (see paragraph (c)(7)(vi) of this section) for the first time within five years after the credit is claimed, the credit will be recaptured under section 47 at that time as if the building or portion of the building which becomes tax-exempt use property had then been sold.

Par. 5. Section 1.191-1 is amended by revising paragraphs (a), (b)(1)(i) and (3), and (c)(2)(iii), and by adding a new paragraph (f) to read as follows:

§1.191-1 Amortization of certain rehabilitation costs for certified historic structures.

(a) In general. Section 191 allows an owner of a certified historic structure who rehabilitates the structure to elect to amortize over a 60-month period certain expenditures attributable to certified rehabilitation. The election may be made only if the certified historic structure (as defined in §1.191-1 (a)) and the improvements made are otherwise of a character subject to depreciation under section 167. In general, only those rehabilitation expenditures which result in additions to capital account after June 14, 1976, and before January 1, 1984, are eligible for this special amortization procedure. To qualify for the election, the rehabilitation must be certified by the Secretary of the Interior to the Internal Revenue Service as consistent with the historic character of the structure. See §1.191-2(d) for the definition of certified rehabilitation. Along with the amortization deductions, the taxpayer may continue otherwise allowable depreciation deductions of the basis of the structure, exclusive of rehabilitation costs which are a part of the amortizable basis (as defined in §1.191-2(e)).

(b) Allowance of deduction—(1) Determination of amortization period—(i) General rule. The taxpayer may elect to begin the 60-month amortization period with the month following the month in which the amortizable basis is acquired, or with the first month of the succeeding taxable year. Generally amortizable basis must be acquired after June 14, 1976, and before January 1, 1984. For purposes of this section, the month in which the amortizable basis is acquired is the latest of the month in which the work (or a component part of the work) is completed, the month in which costs are added to capital account, or the month in which depreciation deducations under section 167 would be first allowable with respect to the structure. See, however, §1.191-2(e)(8) for special rules for certified rehabilitations in part occurring outside the effective period of section 191. No amortization deduction may be claimed before a building is used (or held for use) in a trade or business or for the production of income.

* * * * *

(3) Relation to section 167(o) and other provisions. If an election involving a certified historic structure is made under section 191, no election may be made under section 167(o) either for the same rehabilitation or for any subsequent rehabilitation of the same structure undertaken by the taxpayer making an election under section 191. Additionally, no election is permitted under section 191 if depreciation deductions or credits against tax based upon any part of the costs qualifying for amortization under section 191, are at any time claimed (or allowable) under any depreciation or other provision of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. However, this limitation with respect to investment tax credits under section 38 applies only to structures placed in service after October 31, 1978. Except as provided in paragraph (f)(3) of this section, if section 191 treatment is timely elected on a structure placed in service after October 31, 1978, the investment tax credit under section 38 is considered not to have been allowable with respect to that structure for the same rehabilitation. However, the rule in the preceding sentence does not preclude a taxpayer from claiming an investment tax credit with respect to a separate and distinct rehabilitation to a structure on which a section 191 election was previously made.

* * * * *

(c) Person to claim deduction. * * *

(2) Exceptions and special rules. * * *

(iii) Certain transferees of historic structures. If expenditures for certified rehabilitation are in fact made by the owner of a certified historic structure, and if one or more transferees then acquire the ownership of the rehabilitated directly from that owner before the structure is placed in service in its rehabilitated use, the transferees, solely for purposes of section 191, may be treated as having incurred the rehabilitation expenditures actually incurred by the transferor on the date that the transferor actually incurred those expenditures. Transferees acquiring structures in transfers occuring after the structure is placed in service after its rehabilitation but before the first day of the following taxable year, are not eligible for section 191 treatment, because depreciation deductions for rehabilitation costs are allowable to the transferor before the transfer. The amount of rehabilitation expenditures treated as made by the transferees under this subdivision (iii) is the lesser amount of—

(A) The rehabilitation expenditures actually made before the date on which the transferee acquired ownership of the structure, or

(B) The portion of the transferee's cost or other basis for the property (determined according to the rules of section 167) which is attributable to rehabilitation expenditures made before the date on which the transferee acquires ownership of the structure.

* * * * *

(f) Termination—(1) In general. Except as provided in paragraph (f)(2) of this section, section 191, this section, §1.191-2, and §1.191-3 shall not apply to expenditures incurred after December 31, 1981, in taxable years ending after such date.

(2) Transition rule. Section 191 and this section shall continue to apply to expenditures incurred after December 31, 1981, and before January 1, 1984, for the rehabilitation of a building if—

(i) The physical work on the rehabilitation began before January 1, 1982, and

(ii) The building does not meet the requirements of §1.48-12(b).

(3) Coordination with section 38. The fact that section 191 has been timely elected with respect to expenditures incurred prior to January 1, 1982, shall not prevent the investment tax credit under section 38 from being allowed with respect to qualified rehabilitation expenditures (within the meaning of section 48(g)(2) and §1.48-12(c)) incurred after December 31, 1981, as part of the same rehabilitation.

Par. 6. Section 1.191-2 is amended by revising paragraph (e)(8) to read as follows:

§1.191-2 Definitions and special rules.

* * * * *

(e) Amortizable basis. * * *

(8) Time when amounts are added to capital account. Under section 191, expenditures are treated as added to capital account at the time they are actually made (paid or accrued). However, amortizable basis includes only expenditures attributable to component parts of the structure completed before January 1, 1984. Therefore, expenditures for improvements completed after December 31, 1983 are not a part of the taxpayer's amortizable basis even through they may have been paid or accrued prior to that date. In the case of a single and continuous rehabilitation project all of which is certified by the Secretary of the Interior, expenditures for rehabilitation begun before June 14, 1976, but completed and charged thereafter, are a part of the taxpayer's amortizable basis. However, even where there is a single and continuous rehabilitation project, expenditures made for any component part of the improvements completed and charged before June 14, 1976, are not a part of the taxpayer's amortizable basis.

Par. 7. Section 1.191-3 is amended by revising paragraph (b)(4) to read as follows:

§1.191-3 Time and manner of making election.

* * * * *

(b) Special rules. * * *

(4) Elections to begin amortization deductions after December 31, 1983. Notwithstanding the rules of §1.191-1(b)(1)(i), expenditures for component parts of a rehabilitation project which is not completed and placed in service until after December 31, 1983, are included in amortizable basis if the component parts are completed and the expenditures are added to capital account under §1.191-2(e)(8) by that date. Amortization deductions for the costs of such component parts are allowable beginning with the month in which the entire rehabilitation would qualify under §1.191-1(b)(1), but for the expiration of section 191 on December 31, 1983.

ROSCOE L. EGGER, JR.,
Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Capital Gains Tax and Passive Investment Income Tax With Respect to Certain S Corporations

LR-267-82

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to a tax imposed on capital gains of certain S corporations and a tax imposed on the excess net passive income of certain S corporations that have accumulated earnings and profits from subchapter C years. Changes to the applicable law were made by the Subchapter S Revision Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-354, 1982-2 C.B. 702], as amended by the Technical Corrections Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-448, 1983-1 C.B. 451] and the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. The regulations would provide the public with the guidance needed to comply with the law as amended by these Acts.

DATE: Written comments and requests to comment orally at a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by September 3, 1985. The amendments under section 1374 are generally proposed to be effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982, and the amendments under section 1375 are generally proposed to be effective for taxable years beginning after 1981.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests to comment orally at a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, ATTN: CC:LR:T (LR-267-82), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: John G. Schmalz of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attn: CC:LR:T) (202-566-3516, not a toll-free call).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under sections 1374 and 1375 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Generally, these proposed regulations are proposed to conform the Income Tax Regulations to section 2 of the Subchapter S Revision Act of 1982 (96 Stat. 1669) [Pub. L. 97-354, 1982-2 C.B. 702-711], as amended by section 305(d)(3) of the Technical Corrections Act of 1982 (96 Stat. 2400) [Pub. L. 97-448, 1983-1 C.B. 451, 469] and sections 102(d)(1), 474(r), and 721(u) and (v) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (98 Stat. 623, 844, and 971) [1983-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 131, 347, 479].

IN GENERAL

Section 1374 imposes a tax on the capital gains of certain S corporations. The tax is imposed for any taxable year in which the S corporation has a net capital gain in excess of $25,000 for the taxable year if the amount of the net capital gain exceeds 50 percent of the taxable income for such year and the taxable income for such year is in excess of $25,000.

The amount of the tax is generally 28 percent of the amount of the net capital gain in excess of $25,000. However, in no case will the tax imposed by section 1374 on the corporation exceed the tax that would have been imposed by section 11 on the corporation if the corporation were not an S corporation. Section 1374(c) contains exceptions to the tax imposed by section 1374(a) and a special rule in the case of property with a substituted basis. Section 1374(d) and §1.1374A-1(d) define the term "taxable income" for purposes of section 1374.

Section 1375 imposes a tax on the excess net passive income of certain S corporations that have subchapter C earnings and profits. The tax can generally be avoided by the corporation distributing its subchapter C earnings and profits before the close of the taxable year. The tax is computed by multiplying the excess net passive income by the highest rate of tax specified in section 11(b). Section 1375(b) and §1.1375A-1(b) define the term "excess net passive income." A special rule contained in section 1375(c) ensures that a net capital gain that is taken into account under section 1375 in computing the passive income tax will not also be taken into account in determining the capital gains tax under section 1374. Section 1375(d) provides that the tax imposed by section 1375 may be waived in certain limited cases where an S corporation determined in good faith that it had no subchapter C earnings and profits at the end of a taxable year and it is later determined that it did have such earnings and profits. Section 1.1375A-1(d) provides rules concerning this waiver.

COMMENTS AND PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. If one is requested, a public hearing will be held and a notice of time and place for the public hearing will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The collection of information requirements contained in this notice of proposed rulemaking have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on these requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on these requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT AND EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not subject to a Regulatory Impact Analysis under Executive Order 12291 because under the Treasury-OMB agreement of April 29, 1983, it is not a major legislative regulation. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Also, these regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is John G. Schmalz of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations, both on matters of substance and style.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 are as follows:

Paragraph 1. These regulations are issued under the authority of 26 U.S.C. 7805, and the authority citation for Part 1 remains unchanged.

Par. 2. Sections 1.1361-1 through 1.1361-16 are removed.

Par. 3. There are inserted immediately after §1.1348-3 the following new §§1.1361A-0, 1.1374A-1, and 1.1375A-1 to read as follows:

§1.1361A-0 Effective date.

(a) Except as otherwise provided in the regulations, the provisions of §§1.1374A-1 and 1.1375A-1 apply to taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982.

(b) The provisions of §§1.1371-1 through 1.1378-3 apply to a qualified casualty insurance electing small business corporation and to a qualified oil corporation for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982, and the provisions of §§.1374A-1 and 1.1375A-1 shall not apply. See section 6(c)(2), (3), and (4) of the Subchapter S Revision Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-354, 1982-2 C.B. 702, 717].

§1.1374A-1 Tax imposed on certain capital gains.

(a) General rule. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c) of this section, if for a taxable year beginning after 1982 of an S corporation—

(1) The next capital gain of such corporation exceeds $25,000, and

(2) The net capital gain of such corporation exceeds 50 percent of its taxable income (as defined in paragraph (d) of this section) for such year, and

(3) The taxable income of such corporation (as defined in paragraph (d) of this section) for such year exceeds $25,000, section 1374 imposes a tax (computed under paragraph (b) of this section) on the income of such corporation. The tax is imposed on the S corporation and not on the shareholders.

(b) Amount of tax. The amount of tax shall be the lower of—

(1) An amount equal to the tax, determined as provided in section 1201(a)(2), on the amount by which the net capital gain of the corporation for the taxable year exceeds $25,000, or

(2) An amount equal to the tax which would be imposed by section 11 on the taxable income of the corporation (as defined in paragraph (d) of this section) for the taxable year were it not an S corporation.

No credit shall be allowable under part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (other than under section 34) against the tax imposed by section 1374(a) and this section. See section 1375(c)(2) and §1.1375A-1(c)(2) for a special rule that reduces the amount of the net capital gain of the corporation for purposes of this paragraph (b) in cases where a net capital gain is taxed as excess net passive income under section 1375. See section 1374(c)(3) and paragraph (c)(1)(ii) of this section for a special rule that limits the amount of tax on property with a substituted basis in certain cases.

(c) Exceptions to taxation—(1) New corporations and corporations with election in effect for 3 immediately preceding years—(i) In general. If an S corporation would be subject to the tax imposed by section 1374 for a taxable year pursuant to paragraph (a) of this section, the corporation shall, nevertheless, not be subject to such tax for such year, if:

(A) The election under section 1362(a) which is in effect with respect to such corporation for such year has been in effect for the corporation's three immediately preceding taxable years, or

(B) An election under section 1362(a) has been in effect with respect to such corporation for each of its taxable years for which it has been in existence, unless there is a net capital gain for the taxable year which is attributable to property with a substituted basis within the meaning of paragraph (c)(1)(iii) of this section.

(ii) Amount of tax on net capital gain attributable to property with a substituted basis. If for a taxable year of an S corporation either paragraph (c)(1)(i)(A) or (B) of this section is satisfied, but the S corporation has a net capital gain for such taxable year which is attributable to property with a substituted basis (within the meaning of paragraph (c)(1)(iii) of this section), then paragraph (a) of this section shall apply for the taxable year, but the amount of tax determined under paragraph (b) of this section shall not exceed a tax, determined as provided in section 1201(a), on the net capital gain attributable to property with a substituted basis.

(iii) Property with substituted basis. For purposes of this section, the term "property with a substituted basis" means:

(A) Property acquired by a corporation ("the acquiring corporation") during the period beginning 36 months before the first day of the acquiring corporation's taxable year and ending on the last day of such year;

(B) The basis of such property in the hands of the acquiring corporation is determined in whole or in part by reference to the basis of any property in the hands of another corporation; and

(C) Such other corporation was not an S corporation throughout the period beginning the later of:

(1) 36 months before the first day of the acquiring corporation's taxable year, or

(2) The time such other corporation came into existence, and ending on the date such other corporation transferred the property, the basis of which is used to determine, in whole or in part, the basis of the property in the hands of the acquiring corporation.

(iv) Existence of a corporation. For purposes of this section, a corporation shall not be considered to be in existence for any taxable year which precedes the first taxable year in which such corporation has shareholders or acquires assets or begins business, whichever is first to occur.

(v) References to prior law included. For purposes of this paragraph (c), the term "S corporation" shall include an electing small business corporation under prior subchapter S law, and the term "election under section 1362(a)" shall include an election under section 1372 of prior subchapter S law.

(vii) Examples. The provisions of this paragraph may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). M Corporation was organized and began business in 1977. M subsequently made an election under section 1362(a) which was effective for its 1984 taxable year. If such election does not terminate under section 1362 for its taxable years 1984, 1985, and 1986, M is not subject to the tax imposed by section 1374 for its taxable year 1987, or for any subsequent year for which such election remains in effect, unless it has, for any such year, an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss attributable to property with a substituted basis. If there is such an excess for any such year, and the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section are met, M will be subject to the tax for such year. If there is no such excess for any year after 1986, M will not be subject to the tax for any such year even though the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section are met.

Example (2). N corporation was organized in 1983, and was an S corporation for its first taxable year. N is not subject to the tax imposed by section 1374 for 1983, or for any subsequent year for which its original election under section 1362(a) has not terminated under section 1362(d), unless, for any such year, it has an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss attributable to property with a substituted basis and the requirements of paragraph (a) of this section are met.

(2) Treatment of certain gains of options and commodities dealers—(i) Exclusion of certain capital gains. For purposes of this section, the net capital gain of any options dealer or commodities dealer shall be determined by not taking into account any gain or loss (in the normal course of the taxpayer's activity of dealing in or trading section 1256 contracts) from any section 1256 contract or property related to such a contract.

(ii) Definitions. For purposes of this paragraph (c)(2)—

(A) Options dealer. The term "options dealer" has the meaning given to such term by section 1256(g)(8).

(B) Commodities dealer. The term "commodities dealer" means a person who is actively engaged in trading section 1256 contracts and is registered with a domestic board of trade which is designated as a contract market by the Commodities Futures Trading Commission.

(C) Section 1256 contracts. The term "section 1256 contracts" has the meaning given to such term by section 1256(b).

(iii) Effective dates—(A) In general. Except as otherwise provided in this paragraph (c)(2)(iii), this paragraph (c)(2) shall apply to positions established after July 18, 1984, in taxable years ending after such date.

(B) Special rule for options on regulated futures contracts. In the case of any option with respect to a regulated futures contract (within the meaning of section 1256), this paragraph (c)(2) shall apply to positions established after October 31, 1983, in taxable years ending after such date.

(C) Elections with respect to property held on or before July 18, 1984. See §§1.1256(h)-1T and 2T for rules concerning an election to have this paragraph (c)(2) apply to certain property held on or before July 18, 1984.

(d) Determination of taxable income— (1) General rule. For purposes of this section, taxable income of the corporation shall be determined under section 63(a) as if the corporation were a C corporation rather than an S corporation, except that the following deductions shall not apply in the computation—

(i) The deduction allowed by section 172 (relating to net operating loss deduction), and

(ii) The deductions allowed by part VIII of subchapter B (other than the deduction allowed by section 248, relating to organization expenditures).

For any taxable year in which a tax under this section is imposed on an S corporation, the S corporation shall attach a Form 1120 completed in accordance with this paragraph (d) to its tax return filed for such taxable year.

(2) Special rule for net capital gain taxed as excess net passive income under section 1375. See section 1375(c)(2) and §1.1375A-1(c)(2) for a special rule that reduces the taxable income of the corporation for purposes of section 1374(b)(2) and §1.1374A-1(b)(2) in cases where a net capital gain is taxed as excess net passive income under section 1375.

(e) Reduction in pass-thru for tax imposed on capital gain. See section 1366(f)(2) for a special rule reducing the S corporation's long-term capital gains and the corporation's gain from sales or exchanges of property described in section 1231 for purposes of section 1366(a) by an amount of tax imposed under section 1374 and this section.

(f) Examples. The following examples illustrate the principles of this section and assume that a tax will not be imposed under section 1375:

Example (1). Corporation M is an S corporation for its taxable year beginning January 1, 1983. For 1983, M has an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss in the amount of $30,000. However, its taxable income for the year is only $20,000 as a result of other deductions in excess of other income. Thus, although the excess of the net long-term capital gain over the net short-term capital loss exceeds $25,000 and also exceeds 50 percent of taxable income, M is not subject to the tax imposed by section 1374 for 1983 because its taxable income does not exceed $25,000.

Example (2). Corporation N is an S corporation for its 1983 taxable year. For 1983, N has an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss in the amount of $30,000, and taxable income of $65,000. Thus, although N's net capital gain ($30,000) exceeds $25,000, it does not exceed 50 percent of the corporation's taxable income for the year (50 percent of $65,000, or $32,500), and therefore N is not subject to the tax imposed by section 1374 for such year.

Example (3). Assume that Corporation O, an S corporation, is subject to the tax imposed by section 1374 for its taxable year 1983. For 1983, O has an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss in the amount of $73,000, and taxable income within the meaning of section 1374, which includes capital gains and losses, of $100,000. The amount of tax computed under paragraph (b)(1) of this section is 28 percent of $48,000 ($73,000–$25,000), or $13,440. Since this is lower than the amount computed under paragraph (b)(2) of this section, which is $25,750 ($3,750 + $4,500 + $7,500 + $10,000), $13,440 is the amount of tax imposed by section 1374.

Example (4). Assume that in example (3) the taxable income of O for 1983 is $35,000. This results from an excess of deductions over income with respect to items which were not included in determining the excess of the net long-term capital gain over the net short-term capital loss. In such case, the amount of tax, computed under paragraph (b)(2) of this section, is $5,550. Since this is lower than the amount computed under paragraph (b)(1) of this section, $5,550 is the amount of tax imposed by section 1374.

Example (5). Corporation P, an S corporation, for its taxable year 1983 has an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss in the amount of $65,000 and has taxable income of $80,000. P's election under section 1362 has been in effect for its three immediately preceding taxable years, but P, nevertheless, is subject to the tax imposed by section 1374 for 1983 since it has an excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss (in the amount of $20,000) attributable to property with a substituted basis. The tax computed under paragraph (b)(1) of this section, $11,200 (28 percent of $40,000 ($65,000–$25,000)), is less than the tax computed under paragraph (b)(2) of this section, $17,750. However, under the limitation provided in paragraph (c) of this section which is applicable in this factual situation, the tax imposed by section 1374 for 1983 may not exceed $5,600 (28 percent of $20,000, the excess of net long-term capital gain over net short-term capital loss attributable to property with a substituted basis).

§1.1375A-1 Tax imposed when passive investment income of corporation having subchapter C earnings and profits exceed 25 percent of gross receipts.

(a) General rule. For taxable years beginning after 1981, section 1375(a) imposes a tax on the income of certain S corporations that have passive investment income. In the case of a taxable year beginning during 1982, an electing small business corporation may elect to have the rules under this section not apply. See the regulations under section 1362 for rules on the election. For purposes of this section, the term "S corporation" shall include an electing small business corporation under prior law. This tax shall apply to an S corporation for a taxable year if the S corporation has—

(1) Subchapter C earnings and profits at the close of such taxable year, and

(2) Gross receipts more than 25 percent of which are passive investment income.

If the S corporation has no subchapter C earnings and profits at the close of the taxable year (because, for example, such earnings and profits were distributed in accordance with section 1368), the tax shall not be imposed even though the S corporation has passive investment income for the taxable year. If the tax is imposed, the tax shall be computed by multiplying the excess net passive income (as defined in paragraph (b) of this section) by the highest rate of tax specified in section 11(b).

(b) Definitions—(1) Excess net passive income— (i) In general. The term "excess net passive income" is defined in section 1375(b)(1), and can be expressed by the following formula:

$$ENPI = \frac{NPI \times PII - (.25 \times GR)}{PII}$$

where:

ENPI = excessive net passive income
NPI = net passive income
PII = passive investment income
GR = total gross receipts

(ii) Limitation. The amount of the excess net passive income for any taxable year shall not exceed the corporation's taxable income for the taxable year (determined in accordance with section 1374(d) and §1.1374A-1(d)).

(2) Net passive income. The term "net passive income" means—

(i) Passive investment income, reduced by

(ii) The deductions allowable under chapter 1 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 which are directly connected with the production of such income (other than deductions allowable under section 172 and part VIII of subchapter B).

For purposes of the preceding sentence, to be directly connected with the production of income, an item of deduction must have proximate and primary relationship to the income. Expenses, depreciation, and similar items attributable solely to such income qualify for deduction.

(3) Other definitions. The terms "subchapter C earnings and profits," "passive investment income," and "gross receipts" shall have the same meaning given these terms in section 1362(d)(3) and the regulations thereunder.

(c) Special rules—(1) Disallowance of credits. No credit is allowed under part IV of subchapter A of chapter 1 of the Code (other than section 34) against the tax imposed by section 1375(a) and this section.

(2) Coordination with section 1374. If any gain—

(i) Is taken into account in determining passive income for purposes of this section, and

(ii) Is taken into account under section 1374, the amount of such gain taken into account under section 1374(b) and §1.1374A-1(b)(1) and (2) in determining the amount of tax shall be reduced by the portion of the excess net passive income for the taxable year which is attributable (on a pro rata basis) to such gain. For purposes of the preceding sentence, the portion of excess net passive income for the taxable year which is attributable to such capital gain is equal to the amount determined by multiplying the excess net passive income by the following fraction:

$$\frac{NCG}{NPI}$$

Where:

NCG = net capital gain
NPI = net passive income

(d) Waiver of tax in certain cases—(1) In general. If an S corporation establishes to the satisfaction of the Commissioner that—

(i) It determined in good faith that it had no subchapter C earnings and profits at the close of the taxable year, and

(ii) During a reasonable period of time after it was determined that it did have subchapter C earnings and profits at the close of such taxable year such earnings and profits were distributed, the Commissioner may waive the tax imposed by section 1375 for such taxable year. The S corporation has the burden of establishing that under the relevant facts and circumstances the Commissioner should waive the tax. For example, if an S corporation establishes that in good faith and using due diligence it determined that it had no subchapter C earnings and profits at the close of a taxable year, but it was later determined on audit that it did have subchapter C earnings and profits at the close of such taxable year, and if the corporation establishes that it distributed such earnings and profits within a reasonable time after the audit, it may be appropriate for the Commissioner to waive the tax on passive income for such taxable year.

(2) Corporation's request for waiver. A request for waiver of the tax imposed by section 1375 shall be made in the form of a ruling request and shall contain all relevant facts to establish that the requirements of paragraph (d)(1) of this section are met. Such request shall contain a description of how and on what date the S corporation in good faith and using due diligence determined that it had no subchapter C earnings and profits at the close of the taxable year, a description of how and on what date it was determined that the S corporation had subchapter C earnings and profits at the close of the year and a description (including dates) of any steps taken to distribute such earnings and profits. If the earnings and profits have not yet been distributed, the request shall contain a timetable for distribution and an explanation of why such timetable is reasonable. On the date the waiver is to become effective, all subchapter C earnings and profits must have been distributed. Send requests for a waiver to: Internal Revenue Service, Associate Chief Counsel (Technical), Attention: CC:IND:S, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

(e) Reduction in pass-thru for tax imposed on excess net passive income. See section 1366(f)(3) for a special rule reducing each item of the corporation's passive investment income for purposes of section 1366(a) if a tax is imposed on the corporation under section 1375.

(f) Example. The following example illustrates the principles of this section:

Example. Assume Corporation M, an S corporation, has for its taxable year total gross receipts of $200,000, passive investment income of $100,000, $60,000 of which is interest income, and expenses directly connected with the production of such interest income in the amoung of $10,000. Assume also that at the end of the taxable year Corporation M has subchapter C earnings and profits. Since more than 25 percent of Corporation M's total gross receipts are passive investment income, and since Corporation M has subchapter C earnings and profits at the end of the taxable year, Corporation M will be subject to the tax imposed by section 1375. The amount of excess net passive investment income is $45,000 ($90,000 × (50,000/100,000)). Assume that the other $40,000 of passive investment income is attributable to net capital gain and that there are no expenses directly connected with such gain. Under these facts, $20,000 of the excess net passive income is attributable to the net capital gain ($45,000 × ($40,000/$90,000)). Accordingly, the amount of gain taken into account under section 1374(b)(1) and the taxable income of Corporation M under section 1374(b)(2) shall be reduced by $20,000.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Returns Required on Magnetic Media

LR-289-82

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to returns required to be filed on magnetic media. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-248, 1982-2 C.B. 462] and the Interest and Dividend Tax Compliance Act of 1983 [Pub. L. 98-67, 1983-2 C.B. 352]. The proposed regulations apply to persons required to file certain returns (other than individual, estate, and trust income tax returns), and provide guidance concerning the magnetic media filing requirements.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered by November 18, 1985. The regulations are proposed to be effective as of the date of publication in the FEDERAL REGISTER as final regulations and would apply to returns filed after December 31, 1986.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-289-82), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: C. Scott McLeod of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attention: CC:LR:T), (202)566-3288, not a toll-free call.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Procedure and Administration Regulations (26 CFR Part 301) under section 6011 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 relating to returns required to be filed on magnetic media. These amendments are proposed to reflect the addition to the Code of section 6011(e) by section 319 of the Tax Equity and Fiscal responsibility Act of 1982 (Pub. L. 97-248, 96 Stat. 610) [1982-2 C.B. 462, 566] and its amendment by section 109 of the Interest and Dividend Tax Compliance Act of 1983 (Pub. L. 98-67, 97 Stat. 383) [1983-2 C.B. 352, 359]. The proposed regulations provide magnetic media filing requirements for certain returns (other than individual, estate, and trust income tax returns).

This document also contains proposed amendments to the table of OMB control numbers under the Paperwork Reduction Act (26 CFR part 602).

EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

The proposed regulations generally would require that where the use of Form 1042S (Income Subject to Withholding Under Chapter 3, Internal Revenue Code), 1098 (Mortgage Interest Statement), 1099 series (Information Return), 5498 (Individual Retirement Arrangement Information), 6248 (Annual Information Return of Windfall Profit Tax), 8027 (Employer's Annual Information Return of Tip Income and Allocated Tips), W-2 (Wage and Tax Statement), W-2G (Statement for Recipients of Certain Gambling Winnings), W-2P (Statement for Recipients of Annuities, Pensions, Retired Pay, or IRA Payments), or W-4 (Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate) is required by the applicable regulations for the purpose of making a return, the information required by such forms shall be submitted on magnetic media. Failure to file a return on magnetic media when required to do so by the regulations would be treated as a failure to file such return and would subject the filer to the corresponding penalty. A person required to file a return on magnetic media may receive a waiver from such requirement in appropriate circumstances upon a showing of hardship.

Under the proposed regulations, filers would be required to obtain prior consent to the use of the magnetic medium on which the information is submitted. For additional information and requirements with respect to filing on magnetic media, including descriptions of types and formats of media that are acceptable, please see Rev. Proc. 85-40 page 445, this Bulletin and SSA Pub. No. 42-032 (April 1984). Although the proposed regulations would apply only to returns filed after December 31, 1986, filers are encouraged to begin use of magnetic media as soon as possible and voluntarily to begin filing on magnetic media for returns due after December 31, 1985.

The proposed regulations would provide that applications for consent to the use of a magnetic medium and requests for waiver generally must be filed at least 90 days before the filing of the first return for which consent or waiver is requested. In the case of certain returns (Forms W-2 and W-2P) filed in 1987 and 1988, however, the application for consent or request for waiver would be due no later than June 30 of the preceding year. Although the proposed regulations do not explicitly address the issue, applicable procedures would permit filing of an application for consent to the use of a particular magnetic medium together with a related request for waiver in appropriate cases.

The term "person," as used in these regulations with respect to filers of any return, includes any person required to make such return. Thus, in the case of Form W-2 or W-2P, an employer corporation is a person required to make the return even if returns are actually filed by reporting units within the corporation.

SPECIAL ANALYSIS

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291. Accordingly, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required.

It is hereby certified that the regulations proposed in this document will not have a significant impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, a regulatory flexibility analysis is not required under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6). The certification is based on a determination that the economic impact of the proposed reporting requirements will be minimal in most cases and, in any event, is primarily attributable to requirements directly imposed by the statute. Section 6011(e)(2) provides that any taxpayer who is required to file returns under sections 6042(a), 6044(a), or 6049(a) (relating to dividends, patronage dividends, and interest) with respect to more than 50 payees for any calendar year shall file such returns on magnetic media. Section 6011(e)(1) directs the Secretary to prescribe regulations requiring magnetic media filing taking into account the ability of taxpayers to comply with the requirement at a reasonable cost.

In the case of returns to which section 6011(e)(2) applies, the magnetic media filing requirements in the proposed regulations are imposed by the statute. In the case of other returns, the proposed regulations impose no more reporting or recordkeeping requirements than are necessary to carry out the statutory directives. Moreover, under existing voluntary magnetic media reporting procedures, a significant number of those persons who would be affected by these regulations already file on magnetic media.

Under the proposed regulations, magnetic media filing is required only where the volume of filings enables magnetic media filing to be done at a reasonable cost. This is generally the case if the taxpayer's operations are computerized because filing in accordance with the proposed regulations should be less costly than paper filing. Even if the taxpayer's operations are not computerized, the incremental cost of magnetic media filing should be nominal in most cases because of the availability of computer service bureaus. The Service recognizes that filing a small number of returns on magnetic media may not be cost effective. For calendar years (or annual filing period) beginning before January 1, 1987, the proposed regulations generally permit filing on a paper form if fewer than 500 returns of information were required to be filed on that form for the preceding year (or annual period). For calendar years (or annual filing periods) beginning on or after January 1, 1987, the proposed regulations generally permit filing on a paper form if fewer than 250 returns of information were required to be filed on that form for the preceding year (or annual period). The paper form, however, must be machine-readable if applicable revenue procedures provide a machine-readable form. The proposed regulations also provide that the Commissioner may waive the magnetic media requirement upon a showing of hardship. It is anticipated that the waiver authority will be exercised so as not to unduly burden taxpayers lacking both the necessary data processing facilities and access at a reasonable cost to computer service bureaus.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The collection of information requirements contained in this notice of proposed rulemaking have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on these requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on these requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Linda M. Kroening of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations, on matters of both substance and style.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR parts 301 and 602 are as follows:

PROCEDURE AND ADMINISTRATION REGULATIONS (26 CFR PART 301)

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 301 is amended by adding the following citation:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. * * * Section 301.6011-2 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 6011(e).

Par. 2. New §301.6011-2 is added immediately after §301.6011-1 to read as follows:

§301.6011-2 Required use of magnetic media.

(a) Meaning of terms. The following definitions apply for purposes of this section:

(1) Magnetic media. The term "magnetic media" means any magnetic media permitted under applicable regulations, revenue procedures, or Social Security Administration publications. These generally include magnetic tape, disk, diskette, and cassette as well as other media specifically permitted under the applicable regulations or procedures. Use of diskette and cassette may be subject to certain limitations or special rules in the case of returns of the information required by Form W-2 or W-2P.

(2) Machine-readable paper form. The term "machine-readable paper form" means—

(i) Optical-scan paper form; or

(ii) Any other machine-readable paper form permitted under applicable regulations, revenue procedures, or Social Security Administration publications.

(3) Person. The term "person" includes the Untied States, a State, the District of Columbia, a foreign government, a political subdivision of a State or of a foreign government, or an international organization.

(b) Returns required on magnetic media. (1) If the use of Form 1042S, 1098, 1099 series, 5498, 6248, 8027, W-2G, W-4, or other form treated as a form specified in this paragraph (b)(1) is required by the applicable regulations or revenue procedures for the purpose of making a return, the information required by such form shall, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c) of this section, be submitted on magnetic media. Returns on magnetic media shall be made in accordance with applicable revenue procedures. Pursuant to these procedures, the consent of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue (or other authorized officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service) to a magnetic medium shall be obtained prior to submitting a return on such magnetic medium. An application for such consent shall be in writing and must be filed at least 90 days before the filing of the first return for which consent is requested.

(2) If the use of Form W-2, W-2P, or other form treated as a form specified in this paragraph (b)(2) is required by the regulations or revenue procedures for the purpose of making a return (not including the attachment of Form W-2 or W-2P to an Individual Income Tax Return), the information required by such form shall, except as otherwise provided in paragraph (c) of this section, be submitted on magnetic media. Returns on magnetic media shall be made in accordance with applicable Social Security Administration procedures. Thus, the consent of the Secretary of Health and Human Services (or other authorized officer or employee of the Department of Health and Human Services) to a magnetic medium shall be obtained prior to submitting a return on such magnetic medium. An application for such consent shall be in writing and must be filed—

(i) On or before June 30, 1986, in the case of returns filed in 1987;

(ii) On or before June 30, 1987, in the case of returns filed in 1988; and

(iii) At least 90 days before the filing of the first return for which consent is requested in all other cases.

(3) The Commissioner may prescribe by revenue procedure that additional forms are treated, for purposes of this section, as forms specified in paragraph (b)(1) or (b)(2) of this section.

(c) Exceptions—(1) Low-volume filers—(i) In general. A person required to make returns of information on a particular type of form specified in paragraph (b) of this section (other than Form 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT, or 1099-OID) may make such returns on a prescribed paper form for a calendar year or other applicable annual period (whether such returns are filed during the calendar year or annual period or during the subsequent calendar year or annual period) if—

(A) In the case of a calendar year or annual period beginning before January 1, 1987—

(1) On the first day of such calendar year or annual period the person reasonably expects to file fewer than 500 returns of information on such form for the calendar year or annual period; and

(2) The person was not required to file 500 or more returns of information on such form for the preceding calendar year or annual period; or

(B) In the case of a calendar year or annual period beginning on or after January 1, 1987—

(1) On the first day of such calendar year or annual period the person reasonably expects to file fewer than 250 returns of information on such form for the calendar year or annual period; and

(2) The person was not required to file 250 or more returns of information on such form for the preceding calendar year or annual period.

Alternatively, such persons may make returns on magnetic media in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section.

(ii) Machine-readable forms. Returns made on a paper form under this paragraph (c)(1) shall be machine-readable if applicable revenue procedures provide for a machine-readable paper form.

(iii) Form 1099 series. Each form within the Form 1099 series is considered a separate type of form for purposes of this paragraph (c)(1).

(2) Special role for Form 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT, 1099-OID—(i) 50 or fewer returns. A person required to make returns on Form 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT, or 1099-OID may make such returns on a machine-readable paper form for a calendar year if—

(A) On the first day of such calendar year the person reasonably expects to file 50 or fewer returns of information on such forms for the calendar year; and

(B) The person was not required to file more than 50 returns of information on such forms for the preceding calendar year.

Alternatively, such persons may make returns on magnetic media in accordance with paragraph (b) of this section.

(ii) Aggregation of returns. For purposes of determining the number of returns that a person was required to file or reasonably expects to file on Form 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT, or 1099-OID, all such returns shall be aggregated. For example, if a person filed 30 Form 1099-INT's and 30 Form 1099-DIV's for a calendar year, or reasonably expects to do so for the succeeding calendar year, all returns made by such person on Form 1099-DIV, 1099-PATR, 1099-INT and 1099-OID for the succeeding calendar year shall be on magnetic media.

(3) Provided by regulations—(i) In general. This section does not apply to a return if the regulations relating to such return require reporting on magnetic media.

(ii) Example. The following example illustrates the application of the rule in paragraph (c)(3)(i) of this section:

Example. Section 1.6045-1(d), relating to returns of information of brokers and barter exchanges, requires the use of magnetic media as the method of reporting. Thus, this section does not apply to returns of information under section 6045.

(4) Waiver. The Commissioner may waive the requirements of this section if hardship is shown in an application filed in accordance with this paragraph (c)(4). Such waiver shall specify the type of form and period to which it applies and shall be subject to such terms and conditions regarding the method of reporting as may be prescribed by the Commissioner. In determining whether hardship has been shown, the principal factor to be taken into account will be the amount, if any, by which the cost of filing returns in accordance with this section exceeds the cost of filing the returns on other media. A request for waiver shall be in writing and must be filed—

(i) On or before June 30, 1986, in the case of returns on Form W-2 or W-2P filed in 1987;

(ii) On or before June 30, 1987, in the case of returns on From W-2 or W-2P filed in 1988; and

(iii) At least 90 days before the filing of the first return for which a waiver is requested in all other cases.

(d) Paper form returns. Returns submitted on paper forms (whether or not machine-readable) permitted under paragraph (c) of this section shall be made in accordance with applicable revenue or Social Security Administration procedures.

(e) Applicability of current procedures. Until procedures are prescribed which further implement that the mandatory filing on magnetic media provided by this section, a return to which this section applies shall be made in the manner and shall be subject to the requirements and conditions (including the requirement of applying for consent to the magnetic medium) prescribed in the regulations, revenue procedures and Social Security Administration publications relating to the filing of such return on magnetic media. In addition, consent to the use of a magnetic medium obtained in accordance with such regulations, revenue procedures and Social Security Administration publications (regardless of when obtained) will be considered consent to the use of such medium for purposes of paragraph (b) of this section.

(f) Failure to file. If a person fails to file a return on magnetic media when required to do so by section 6011(e) and this section, such person is deemed to have failed to file the return and is subject ot the corresponding penalties for failure to file such return.

(g) Effective date. this section applies to returns filed after December 31, 1986.

OMB CONTROL NUMBERS UNDER THE PAPERWORK REDUCTION ACT
(26 CFR Part 602)

Par. 3. the authority for Part 602 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805.

Par. 4. Section 602.101(c) is amended by inserting in the appropriate place in the table "§301.6011-2 . . . | |".

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Administrative Summonses

LR-10-83

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to administrative summonses. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsiblity Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-248, 1982-2 C.B. 462]. The regulations provide the public with the guidance needed to comply with that Act and affect persons who receive summonses, third party recordkeepers who receive summonses, and persons with respect to whose tax liability a summons is issued.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by August 12, 1985. The regulations pertaining to section 7602 of the Code are proposed to be effective after September 3, 1982. The regulations pertaining to section 7609 of the Code are proposed to be effective for summonses served after December 31, 1982.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T [LR-10-83], 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Bruce H. Jurist of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, (Attention: CC:LR:T) 202-566-3238, not a toll-free call.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

These proposed regulations would amend the Regulations on Procedure and Administration (26 CFR Part 301) under sections 7602 and 7609 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by sections 331, 332, and 333 of the Tax Equity and Fiscal Responsibility Act of 1982 (TEFRA) (96 Stat. 620) [Pub. L. 97-248, 1982-2 C.B. 462, 571,572]. The proposed regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in section 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (68A Stat. 917; 26 U.S.C. 7805).

ADMINISTRATIVE SUMMONSES

Under prior law the Secretary could issue summonses allowing for the examination of books, records, or witnesses for the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return, making a return where none has been made, determining the liability of any person for any internal revenue tax, or collecting such liability. The Secretary could not issue an administrative summons once the Internal Revenue Service had referred the case to the Justice Department for criminal prosecution, or had made an institutional commitment to refer the case to the Justice Department for criminal prosecution. This judicially conceived limitation, articulated in the case of United States v. Lasalle, 437 U.S. 298 (1978), spawned protracted litigation.

In order to simplify the determination of when the power to issue an administrative summons exists and when it does not exist in cases with a criminal aspect, Congress promulgated section 333 of TEFRA. The Act expands the Secretary's authority by including the right to issue a summons for the purpose of inquiring into any offense connected with the administration or enforcement of the internal revenue laws. Concurrently, the Act establishes a mechanical test for determining when the Secretary no longer has the power to issue a summons. The former test, based on institutional commitment, is abolished. Under the new test, the Secretary ceases to have authority to issue a summons once a case is referred to the Department of Justice.

These proposed regulations provide guidelines for determining when a referral to the Department of Justice is in effect.

SPECIAL PROCEDURE FOR THIRD-PARTY SUMMONSES

Generally, when a summons is served upon a third-party recordkeeper (recordkeeper) to examine records, section 7609(a) requires that notice be given of the service of the summons to the taxpayer and any other person who is identified in the description of the records contained in the body of the summons (the notified person). Under prior law, the notified person could prevent the recordkeeper from complying with a third-party summons by notifying the recordkeeper in writing not to comply with the summons and mailing a copy of this notice to the Secretary by registered or certified mail. The burden was on the Service to commence a proceeding to enforce the summons. These provisions were used frequently by taxpayers, solely to delay enforcement of summonses without regard to the merit of any objection they might have.

Section 331 of TEFRA shifts the burden of commencing litigation with respect to the validity of a third-party summons to the notified person. The notified person's right to stay compliance is replaced with the right to institute a proceeding to quash.

In addition, under prior law, there was no requirement that third-party recordkeepers immediately proceed to assemble summoned records. Section 332 of TEFRA requires recordkeepers to assemble the summoned records within the time allotted on the face of the summons.

These regulations contain interpretative guidelines as to how a notified person may institute a proceeding to quash. They also contain guidelines setting forth the duty of recordkeepers to assemble records, and procedures by which recordkeepers may be relieved of liability for disclosing records under certain circumstances.

COMMENTS AND REQUEST FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that these proposed regulations are not major rules as defined in Executive Order 12291. Therefore, a Regulatory Impact analysis is not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comments the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that these regulations are interpretive and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Therefore, a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is not required.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Bruce H. Jurist of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations, both on matters of substance and style.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 301 are as follows:

Paragraph 1. Section 301.7602-1 is amended by revising paragraphs (a) and (b) and adding new paragraphs (c) and (d). The amended section reads as follows:

§301.7602-1 Examination of books and witnesses.

(a) In general. For the purpose of ascertaining the correctness of any return, making a return where none has been made, determining the liability of any person for any internal revenue tax (including any interest, additional amount, addition to the tax, or civil penalty) or the liability at law or in equity of any transferee or fiduciary of any person in respect of any internal revenue tax, collecting any such liability, or inquiring into any offense connected with the administration or enforcement of the internal revenue laws, any authorized officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service may examine any books, papers, records or other data which may be relevant or material to such inquiry; and take such testimony of the person concerned, under oath, as may be relevant to such inquiry.

(b) Summons. For the purposes described in paragraph (a) of this section the Commissioner is authorized to summon the person liable for tax or required to perform the act, or any officer or employee of such person or any person having possession, custody, or care of books of accounts containing entries relating to the business of the person liable for tax or required to perform the act, or any other person deemed proper, to appear before a designated officer or employee of the Internal Revenue Service at a time and place named in the summons and to produce such books, papers, records, or other data, and to give such testimony, under oath, as may be relevant or material to such inquiry; and take such testimony of the person concerned, under oath, as may be relevant or material to such inquiry. This summons power may be utilized in an investigation of either civil or criminal tax-related liability. The Commissioner may designate any employee of the Internal Revenue Service as the individual before whom a person summoned pursuant to section 6420(e)(2), 6421(f)(2), 6424(d)(2), 6427(e)(2), or 7602 shall appear. Any such employee, when so designated in a summons, is authorized to take testimony under oath of the person summoned and to receive and examine books, papers, records, or other data produced in compliance with the summons.

(c) Proscription on issuing of administrative summons when a Justice Department referral is in effect—(1) In general. The Commissioner may neither issue a summons under this title nor initiate a proceeding to enforce a previously issued summons by way of section 7604 with respect to any person whose tax liability is in issue, if a Justice Department referral is in effect with respect to that person for that liability.

(2) Justice Department referral in effect. A Justice Department referral is in effect with respect to any person when:

(i) The Secretary recommends, within the meaning of this paragraph, that the Attorney General either commence a grand jury investigation of or criminal prosecution of such person for any alleged offense connected with the administration or enforcement of the internal revenue laws, or

(ii) The Attorney General (or Deputy Attorney General or Assistant Attorney General) under section 6103(h)(3)(B) requests in wrting that the Secretary disclose a return of, or return information relating to, such person. The request must set forth that the need for disclosure is for tax administration purposes.

The referral is effective at the time the document recommending criminal prosecution or grand jury investigation is signed by the Secretary or upon the Secretary's receipt of the section 6103(h)(3)(B) request.

(3) Cessation of Justice Department referral. A Justice Departent referral ceases to be in effect with respect to a person:

(i) When the Secretary receives written notification from the Attorney General that the Justice Department:

(A) Will not prosecute that person for any offense connected with the administration or enforcement of the internal revenue laws that gave rise to the referral under paragraph (2)(i) of this section, or

(B) Will not authorize a grand jury investigation of that person with respect to such offense, or

(C) Will discontinue any grand jury investigation of that person with respect to such offense;

(ii) When a final disposition with respect to a criminal proceeding brought against that person has been made; or

(iii) When the Secretary receives written notification from the Attorney General Deputy Attorney General, or an Assistant Attorney General, that the Justice Department will not prosecute such person for any offense connected with the administration or enforcement of the internal revenue laws, based upon a previous request for disclosure under section 6103(h)(3)(B).

(4) Taxable years and taxes imposed by separate chapters of the Code treated separately—(i) In general. For purposes of this section, each taxable period (or, if there is no taxable period, each taxable event) and each tax imposed by a separate chapter of the Code is treated separately.

(ii) Examples. The following examples illstrate the application of this paragraph (c)(4):

Example (1). A Justice Department referral is in effect for D's criminal evasion of income tax for the taxable year 1979. The Commissioner may issue a summons respecting D's 1980 criminal and/or civil tax liability. The Commissioner may not issue a summons respecting D's 1979 income tax liability.

Example (2). A referral has been made to the Department of Justice for the criminal prosecution of F with regard to F's income tax liability for the taxable year 1978. The Commissioner may issue a summons respecting F's gift tax liability for the taxable year 1978.

Example (3). A referral has been made to the Department of Justice for a grand jury investigation respecting G's 1980 income tax liability. The Commissioner may issue a summons related to an investigation of G's liability for Federal Insurance Contribution Act (FICA) taxes for the taxable year 1980.

Example (4). A referral has been made to the Department of Justice respecting J's criminal evasion of windfall profit tax for all quarters of the calendar year 1982. The Commissioner may issue a summons respecting J's liability for highway motor vehicle use tax covering the same periods.

(d) Effective date. This section is effective after September 3, 1982. For rules effective on or before September

3, 1982, see 26 CFR 301.7602-1 (revised as of April 1, 1984).

Par. 2. Section 301.7609-1 is amended by designating the original text as paragraph (a), revising redesignated paragraph (a), and adding a new paragraph (b). The amended section reads as follows:

§391.7609-1 Special procedures for third-party summonses.

(a) In general. Section 7609 requires the Internal Revenue Service to follow special procedures when summoning the records of persons defined by section 7609(a)(3) as "third-party recordkeepers." Under these special procedures, the person about whom information is being gathered must be notified in advance in many cases. If the person about whom information is being gathered has received a notice that person has the right to institute, until and including the 20th day following the day such notice was served on or mailed to such notified person, a proceeding to quash the summons. During the time the validity of the summons is being litigated, the statutes of limitations are suspended under section 7609(e). Section 7609 does not restrict the authority under section 7602 (or under any other provision of law) to examine records and witnesses without serving a summons and without giving notice of an examination. Sections 301.7609-1 through 301.7609-5 relate to section 7609; §301.7609-2, discusses matters under sections 7609(a)(32) and 7609(i) relating to third-party recordkeepers; §301.7609-3 discusses matters under section 7609(b), relating to intervention rights; and the institution of a proceeding to quash; §301.7609-4 discusses matters under section 7609(c), relating to summonses excepted from the section 7609 procedures; and §301.7609-5 discusses matters under section 7609(e), relating to the suspension of the statute of limitations.

(b) Effective dates. This section applies to summonses served after December 31, 1982. For the rules applicable to summonses issued on or after March 1, 1977 and served before January 1, 1983, see 26 CFR 301.7609-1 (revised as of April 1, 1984).

Par. 3. Section 301.7609-2 is amended by adding new paragraphs (c) and (d). The amended section reads as follows:

§301.7609-2 Third-party recordkeepers.

* * * * *

(c) Duty of third-party recordkeeper—(1) In general. Upon receipt of a summons, the third-party recordkeeper ("recordkeeper") must begin to assemble the summoned records. The recordkeeper must be prepared to produce the summoned records on the date which the summons states the records are to be examined regardless of the institution or anticipated institution of a proceeding to quash or the recordkeeper's intervention (as allowed under section 7609(b)(2)(C)) into a proceeding to quash.

(2) Disclosing recordkeepers not liable—(i) In general. A recordkeeper, or an agent or employee thereof, who makes a disclosure of records as required by this section, in good faith reliance on the certificate of the Secretary (as defined in paragraph (c)(2)(ii) of this section) or an order of a court requiring production of records, will not be liable for such disclosure to any customer, or to any party with respect to whose tax liability the summons was issued, or to any other person.

(ii) Certificate of the Secretary. The Secretary may issue to the recordkeeper a certificate stating both:

(A) that the 20 day period, within which a notified person may institute a proceeding to quash the summons, has expired; and

(B) that no proceeding has been properly instituted within that period.

The Secretary may also issue a certificate to the recordkeeper if the taxpayer, with respect to whose tax liability the summons was issued, expressly consents to the examination of the records summoned.

(3) Reimbursement of costs. Recordkeepers may be entitled to reimbursement of their costs of assembling and preparing to produce summoned records, to the extent allowed by section 7610, even if the summons ultimately is not enforced.

(d) Effective dates. This section, with the exception of paragraph (c), applies generally to all summonses issued on or after March 1, 1977. Paragraph (c) applies only to summonses served after December 31, 1982.

Par. 4. Section 301.7609-3 is amended by revising paragraphs (a), (b), (c), and by adding new paragraph (d). The amended section reads as follows:

§301.7609-3 Right to Intervene; right to institute a proceeding to quash.

(a) Notified person. Under section 7609(a), the Internal Revenue Service must give a notice of summons to any person, other than the person summoned, who is identified in the description of the books and records contained in the summons in order that such person may contest the right of the Service to examine the summoned records by instituting a proceeding to quash the summons. Thus, if the Service issues a summons to a bank requesting checking account records of more than one person all of whom are identified in the description of the records contained in the summons, then all such persons are notified persons entitled to notice under section 7609(a). Therefore, if the Service requests the records of a joint bank account of A and B both of whom are named in the summons, then both A and B are notified persons entitled to notice under section 7609(a).

(b) Right to institute a proceeding to quash—(1) In general. Section 7609(b) grants a notified person the right to institute a proceeding to quash the summons in the United States district court for the district within which the person summoned resides or is found. Jurisdiction of the court is based on section 7609 (h). The act of filing a petition in district court does not in and of itself institute a proceeding to quash under section 7609(b)(2). Rather, the filing of the petition must be coupled with notice as required by section 7609(b)(2)(B).

(2) Elements of institution of a proceeding to quash. In order to institute a proceeding to quash a summons the notified person (or the notified person's agent, nominee, of other person acting under the direction or control of the notified person) must, not later than the 20th day following the day the notice of the summons was served on or mailed to such notified person:

(i) file a petition to quash in a district court having jurisdiction,

(ii) notify the Service by sending a copy of that petition by registered or certified mail to the Service employee and office designated to receive the copy in the notice of summons that was given to the notified person, and

(iii) notify the recordkeeper by sending to that recordkeeper by registered or certified mail a copy of the petition.

Failure to give timely notice to either the summoned party or the Service in the manner described in this paragraph mreans that the notified person has failed to institute a proceeding to quash and the district court has no jurisdiction to hear the proceeding. Thus, for example, if the notified person mails a copy of the petition to the summoned person but not to the designated Service employee and office, the notified person has failed to institute a proceeding to quash. Similarly, if the notified person mails a copy of such petition to the summoned person but, instead of sending a copy of the notice by registered or certified mail to the designated employee and office, the notified person gives the designated employee and office the petition by some other means, the notified person has failed to institute a proceeding to quash.

(3) Failure to institute a proceeding to quash. If the notified person fails to institute a proceeding to quash within 20 days following the day the notice of the summons was served on or mailed to such notified person, the Service may examine the summoned records following the 23rd day after notice of the summons was served on or mailed to the notified person (see section 7609(d)(1)).

(c) Presumption no notice has been mailed. Section 7609(b)(2)(B) permits a notified person to institute a proceeeding to quash by filing a petition in district court and notifying both the Service and the summoned person. Unless the notified person has notified both the Service and the summoned person in the appropriate manner, the notified person has failed to institute a proceeding to quash. If the copy of the petition has not been delivered to the summoned person or the person and office designated to receive the notice on behalf of the Service within 3 days from the close of the 20-day period allowed to institute a proceeding to quash, it is presumed that the notification has not been timely mailed.

(d) Effective date. This section applies to summonses served after December 31, 1982. For the rules applicable to summonses issued on or after March 1, 1977 and served before January 1, 1983, see 26 CFR 301.7609-3 (revised as of April 1, 1984).

Par. 5. Section 301.7609-4 is amended by adding new paragraph (c). The amended section reads as follows:

§301.7609-4 Summons excepted from section 7609 procedures.

* * * * *

(c) Effective date. This section applies to all summonses issued after February 28, 1977.

Par. 6. Section 301.7609-5 is amended by revising paragraphs (b) and (c) and by adding new paragraph 9d). The amended section reads as follows:

§301.7609-5 Suspension of statutes of limitation.

(b) Period during which a proceeding, etc., is pending. Under section 7609(e), the statute of limitations may be suspended for the period during which a proceeding, and appeals therein, with respect to the enforcement of such summons is pending. This period begins on the date the petition to quash the summons is filed in District Court. The period continues until all appeals are disposed of, or until the expiration of the period in which an appeal may be taken or a request for a rehearing may be made. Full compliance, partial compliance, and noncompliance have no effect on the suspension provisions. Of course, if the notified person takes no action provided in subsection (b) of section 7609, no suspension of the statutes of limitations takes place. The periods of limitations which are suspended under section 7609(e) are those which apply to the taxable periods to which the summons relates.

(c) Taking of action as provided in section 7609(b). Section 7609(b) allows intervention by a notified person as a matter of right upon compliance with the Federal Rules of Civil Procedure. The phrase "takes any action as provided in subsection (b)," found in section 7609(e), includes any intervention, whether or not section 7609(b) is specifically mentioned in the order of the court allowing intervention. The phrase also includes the fulfilling of only part of the requirements of section 7609(b)(2), relating to the right of a person to institute a proceeding to quash. Thus, for instance, if a notified person notifies a person who has been summoned by sending a copy of the petition by registered or certified mail but does not mail a copy of that notice to the appropriate person and office under section 7609(b)(2)(B), the notified person has taken an action under section 7609(e).

(d) Effective dates. This section applies to summonses served after December 31, 1982. For the rules applicable to summonses issued on or after March 1, 1977 and before January 1, 1983, see 26 CFR 301.7609-5 (revised as of April 1, 1984).

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Excise Taxes on Gasohol and Other Alcohol Mixture Fuels, Tires, Tread Rubber, and Inner Tubes

LR–119–83

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to the excise tax on gasohol and other alcohol mixture fuels. This document also contains proposed regulations relating to the rate of excise tax on tires, tread rubber, and inner tubes. Changes to the applicable regulations relating to gasohol and other alcohol mixture fuels and tires are necessary due to amendments made by the Highway Revenue Act of 1982 [Pub. L. 97-424, 1983-1 C.B. 405] and the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. These regulations would provide necessary guidance to Internal Revenue Service personnel who administer the Code and members of the public who are subject to these laws.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by October 21, 1985. The regulations relating to alcohol fuels are proposed to be effective generally for sales or uses made on and after April 1, 1983. The regulations relating to tires are proposed to be effective for sales or uses on and after January 1, 1984.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-119-83), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Margaret M. O'Connor of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, Attention: CC:LR:T, 202-566-3287, not a toll-free call.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Excise Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 48) under sections 4041, 4071, 4081, 6420 and 6427 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (Code) and are issued under the authority contained in section 511(d)(1)(A) and 511(d)(2) of the Highway Revenue Act of 1982 (1982 Act) (Pub. L. 97-424, 96 Stat. 2171) [1983-1 C.B. 405, 406-07] and sections 732(a)(1), 912(a) and 912(b) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (1984 Act) (Pub. L. 98-369, 98-369, 98 Stat. 976 and 1007) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 484, 515]. The amendments are proposed to conform the regulations to sections 511(b), (d), (e), (f) and 514 of the 1982 Act and sections 732(a), 912(a), 912(b), 912(d), 912(f) and 913 of the 1984 Act.

TAXATION OF QUALIFYING ALCOHOL MIXTURE FUELS

In General

Prior to the passage of the 1982 Act, certain qualifying alcohol mixture fuels under section 4041(k) and section 4081(c) were entirely exempt from the tax imposed by sections 4041(a), relating to special fuels, and 4081(a), relating to gasoline. Sales of gasoline in order to produce a qualifying alcohol mixture fuels were also exempt from tax under section 4081(c). To qualify for the exemptions under either section 4041(k) or 4081(c), the alcohol mixture fuels was required to contain at least 10% alcohol by volume.

Under the 1982 Act, the tax on diesel fuel, special fuel and gasoline was increased from 4 cents per gallon to 9 cents per gallon. In addition, the 1982 Act eliminated the complete exemption for sales and uses of qualifying alcohol mixture fuels so that gasohol and alcohol mixture fuels sold or used after March 31, 1983, are taxed at a reduced rate. The 1984 Act, effective for sales or uses after December 31, 1984, amended the reduced rate of tax on gasohol and alcohol mixture fuels produced from special fuels to 3 cents per gallon and changed the rate of tax on alcohol mixture fuels produced from diesel fuels to 9 cents per gallon. These amendments increased the differential in tax rate between the qualifying alcohol mixture fuels and the fuels not containing the required mixture of alcohol to six cents per gallon. The proposed regulations clarify that the tax on qualifying alcohol mixture fuels is assessed upon the total volume of the mixture and not merely upon the nonalcohol content of the mixture.

Under technical amendments made by the 1984 Act (effective as if included in the 1982 Act), section 4081(c) also provides that gasoline sold for blending into gasohol is subject to a tax of 4 4/9 cents per gallon of gasoline. By applying this rate of tax, the total tax upon the sale of gasoline to be blended into gasohol is equivalent to the total tax of 4 cents per gallon which otherwise would be imposed upon the sale of the gasohol ultimately produced, assuming the gasohol contains 10% alcohol by volume. In this way, if tax has been paid upon the gasoline sold for blending into gasohol, no further tax will be imposed upon the subsequent sale or use of the gasohol produced. The 1984 Act decreased the tax upon gasoline sold for blending into gasohol to 3⅓ cents per gallon for sales after December 31, 1984, to conform this tax rate with the reduction in the rate of tax on gasohol.

Under the proposed regulations a producer of gasohol qualifies as a producer as defined in section 4082 of the Code and may register as such. If the producer is registered, the sale of gasoline to such producer of gasohol may be tax free under the rules of section 4083. If the sale of gasoline is tax free due to the application of section 4083, the tax will be imposed at the applicable rate upon the gasohol produced.

The proposed regulations specify that in order to determine whether the alcohol mixture contains at least 10% alcohol, the volume of each component in the fuel will be adjusted to its volume at a standard temperature of 60° Fahrenheit. This uniform temperature is necessary in order to take into account changes in volume and density of motor fuels and alcohol which occur with changes in temperatures. Such changes occur at different rates and at different temperatures for different fuels. Consequently, if temperature is not standardized, variations can occur in the percentage physical makeup of alcohol mixtures with identical mixture ratios, due to differences in the temperatures of the components.

Separation of or Failure to Blend Qualifying Alcohol Mixture Fuel

The 1982 Act and the 1984 Act also amended provisions regarding the tax consequences of separating the nonalcohol components of a qualifying alcohol mixture fuel or failing to blend gasoline into gasohol. Under prior law if the sale of a qualifying alcohol mixture was tax free under section 4041 separation of the liquid fuel would be treated as a sale subject to the 4 cent per gallon tax imposed on fuels not containing the required alcohol mixture. In addition if the sale of a qualifying mixture of alcohol and gasoline or the sale of gasoline for use in producing a qualifying mixture had been tax free under section 4081(c), the person who separated the gasoline from the gasohol or failed to blend the gasoline into gasohol would be considered the producer of such gasoline and would be subject to a tax of 4 cents per gallon upon its sale. In order to conform these provisions with the changes in the taxation of alcohol mixture fuels the 1982 Act provides that the separation of the special fuel or diesel fuel from a qualifying mixture is treated as a sale subject to the applicable tax imposed upon the type of fuel which has been separated, reduced by any tax previously paid on the fuel. Thus, if special fuel has been separated from an alcohol mixture, it is subject to a 9 cents per gallon tax reduced by the tax paid on the mixture. If diesel fuel has been separated from an alcohol mixture before August 1, 1984, it is subject to a 9 cents per gallon tax reduced by the tax previously paid. If diesel fuel has been separated after July 31, 1984, it is subject to a 15 cents per gallon tax, reduced by the tax previously paid.

The proposed regulations also provide that a person who separates or fails to blend gasoline into a qualifying mixture will be considered a producer subject to, upon the sale of the gasoline, a tax of 9 cents per gallon if the mixture or gasoline had been purchased tax-free, 4 5/9 cents per gallon if the mixture or gasoline had been purchased at the reduced rate of tax in effect before January 1, 1985, or 5⅔ cents per gallon if the mixture had been purchased at the reduced rate of tax in effect after December 31, 1984.

Credits and Refunds

The 1982 Act and the 1984 Act also revised section 6427(f), which relates to refunds or credits available to gasohol prroducers where the gasoline used to produce gasohol had been previously taxed at the higher rates imposed by section 4081 (a). Under prior law, the gasohol producer was entitled to a full refund or credit. Under both the 1982 Act and the 1984 Act and the proposed regulations, the refund or credit is equal to the excess of the tax paid upon the sale of gasoline over the tax which would have been paid on gasoline sold in order to produce gasohol. Thus, under the 1982 Act, if a blender purchases tax-paid gasoline subject to tax at a rate of 9 cents per gallon and uses it to blend qualifying gasohol; then the blender will be entitled to a credit of 4 5/9 cents per gallon of gasoline so used upon the sale of the gasohol or its use in the trade or business of the blender before January 1, 1985. Under the 1984 Act, if the mixture produced from gasoline taxed at a rate of 9 cents per gallon is sold or used in the blender's trade or business after December 31, 1984, the blender is entitled to a credit of 5⅔ cents per gallon of gasoline so used.

Exemptions From Fuel Tax

The 1982 Act also extended the refund provisions previously available to the ultimate purchaser for fuel used by aerial applicators for farming purposes under sections 6420 and 6427 to other applicators as well. Thus, under the proposed regulations, the ultimate purchaser of fuel who uses such fuel in the aerial application or other application of fertilizers, herbicides, pesticides, and other farm processes is entitled to a refund of the tax paid on the motor fuels.

A new exemption from all the fuel taxes was also created by the 1982 Act under section 4041(b)(2) for sales and uses of fuels consisting of at least 85% methanol, ethanol or other alcohols derived from sources other than petroleum or natural gas. The exemption is effective for sales and uses after March 31, 1984. The proposed regulations explain this new exemption and provide standards for qualification for this exemption.

A partial exemption from fuel tax was added by section 913(a) of the 1984 Act. Under section 4041(m) sales and uses of fuels consisting of at least 85% methanol, ethanol or other alcohols produced from natural gas will be taxed at a reduced rate of 4 ½ cents per gallon. This partial exemption is effective for sales and uses after July 31, 1984. Because these fuels are produced from natural gas, they do not qualify for the full exemption under section 4041(b)(2). Prior to the amendment made by the 1984 Act, such fuels were taxed at the rates imposed by section 4041(a) relating to diesel and special motor fuels or 4081(a) relating to gasoline.

MANUFACTURER'S TAX ON TIRES

These proposed regulations update the tax rate tables applicable to tires sold after December 31, 1983, and conform the regulations to section 514(a) of the 1982 Act which repealed the tax on nonhighway tires, laminated tires, inner tubes and tread rubber, effective January 1, 1984. The proposed regulations also provide that the determination of the weight of tires for purposes of the excise tax may be based upon averages computed by any method approved by the Commissioner rather than solely by averages published by the tire industry. See existing §48.4071-2(b).

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT AND EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking which solicits public comments, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commission of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register.

The collection of information requirements contained in this notice of proposed rulemaking have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on these requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20303. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on these requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Margaret M. O'Connor of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulation, both on matters of substance and style.

Proposed amendments to the regulations.

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 48 are as follows:

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 48 continues to read in part:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805.* * * Section 48.4041-18 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 4041(k)(1); §48.4041-2 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 4081(c)(1).

Par. 2. Section 48.4041-14 is redesignated as §48.4041-18 and revised to read as set forth below.

§48.4041-18 Fuels containing alcohol.

(a) In general—(1) Sale or use after December 31, 1984 and before January 1, 1993. Under section 4041(k) the rate of tax applicable to the sale or use after December 31, 1984 and before January 1, 1993, of any liquid fuel described in section 4041(a)91) or (2) which consists of at least 10% alcohol by volume is:

(i) 9 cents for each gallon of alcohol mixture sold or used in the case of mixtures described in section 4041(a)(1); or

(ii) 3 cents for each gallon of alcohol mixture sold or used in the case of mixtures described in section 4041(a)(2).

The amount of tax is based upon the total volume of fuel and not merely upon the volume of the nonalcohol components of such fuel. However see section 4041(b)(2) and §48.4041-19 for rules relating to the complete exemption from taxes imposed by section 4041(a) where at least 85% of the fuel consists of alcohol produced from certain sources.

(2) Sale or use after March 31, 1983, and before January 1, 1984. For rules relating to the rate of tax imposed on the sale or use after March 31, 1983, and before January 1, 1984 of any liquid fuel described in section 4041(a)(1) or (2) which consists of at least 10% alcohol by volume, see section 4041(k) prior to the enactment of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369, 98 Stat. 1007).

(3) Sale or use before April 1, 1983. No tax is imposed upon the sale or use of any liquid fuel described in section 4041(a)(1) or (a)(2) which consists of at least 10% alcohol if the sale or use occurs after December 31, 1978 and before April 1, 1983.

(b) Alcohol mixture fuels qualifying for special tax treatment. In order to qualify for the reduced rates of tax described in paragraphs (a)(1) and (a)(2) of this section or the exemption from tax described in paragraph (a)(3) of this section, at least 10% of an alcohol mixture fuel must consist of alcohol as defined in section 4081(c) and §48.4081-2(a)(3) of the regulations. To determine the percentage of alcohol present in a fuel, the actual gallonage of each chemical component will be adjusted to equivalent gallonage at 60° Fahrenheit.

(c) Later separation. If a person separates out the alcohol from a mixture which has been taxed under the rates of section 4041(k), such separation will be treated as a sale of the liquid on the date separated and is subject to tax at the rates set forth under section 4041(a)(1) or (2). The tax liability incurred upon the separation is reduced by the amount of any tax previously imposed under section 4041. Thus, if Y buys 1000 gallons of alcohol mixture fuel taxed at the rate of 3 cents per gallon under section 4041(k) and later separates the fuel into 900 gallons of special motor fuel and 100 gallons of alcohol, the separation is treated as a sale of 900 gallons of special motor fuel, taxed at the rate of 9 cents per gallon under section 4041(a), and a sale of 100 gallons of alcohol, exempt from tax under section 4041(b)(2). The tax of $81 on the deemed sale of special motor fuel is reduced by the tax of $30 previously paid on the sale of the alcohol mixture fuel.

(d) Exemption from tax for alcohol mixture fuels sold or used in an aircraft in noncommercial aviation—(1) In general. No tax is imposed upon the sale or use of any liquid fuel described in section 4041(a)(1) or (a)(2) which consists of at least 10% alcohol if such fuel is sold to or used by an owner, lessee or other operator of an aircraft as fuel in such aircraft in noncommercial aviation. See section 4041(c)(4) and the regulations thereunder for the definition of noncommercial aviation.

(2) Failure to use alcohol mixture fuel in an aircraft in noncommercial aviation. If fuel which is exempt from tax under paragraph (d)(1) of this section is not used as fuel in an aircraft in noncommercial aviation, any other use or sale of such fuel will be considered the use or sale of an alcohol mixture fuel subject to tax according to the rules of this section.

(e) Refunds relating to diesel, special motor and noncommercial aviation fuels. See section 6427 for rules which relate to the allowance of a refund or credit to a person who uses tax-paid diesel, special motor or noncommercial aviation fuels to produce an alcohol mixture fuel.

(f) Alcohol mixture fuel within the tank of a vehicle—(10) Mixtures within the tank of a vehicle before April 1, 1983. If an alcohol mixture fuel is put into the tank of a vehicle prior to April 1, 1983, the fuel is considered used prior to that date. Thus, such fuel will not be subject to the tax described in paragraph (a)(2) of this section and will be exempt from tax according to the provision of paragraph (a)(3) of this section.

(2) Mixture within the tank of a vehicle before January 1, 1985. If an alcohol mixture is put into the tank of a vehicle prior to January 1, 1985, the fuel is considered used prior to that date. Thus, such fuel is subject to the tax described in paragraph (a)(2) of this section.

Par. 3. A new §48.4041-19 is added to read as set forth below.

§48.4041-19 Exemption for qualified methanol and ethanol fuel.

(a) In general. Under section 4041(b)(2), the tax imposed upon the sale or use of motor fuels under section 4041(a) does not apply to the sale or use of qualified methanol or ethanol fuel.

(b) Qualified methanol or ethanol fuel defined. For purposes of section 4041(b)(2) and this section, qualified methanol or ethanol fuel is liquid motor fuel, 85% of the volume of which consists of alcohol, as defined in section 4081(c) and §48.4081-2(a)(3) of the regulations as modified by the following sentence. For purposes of section 4041(b)(2) and this section, the alcohol contained in a qualified methanol or ethanol fuel may be produced from coal. In determining whether the 85 percent alcohol requirement has been met with respect to a mixture, the actual gallonage of each chemical component will be adjusted to equivalent gallonage at 60° Fahrenheit.

(c) Refunds relating to fuels used to produce qualified fuels. See section 6427 for rules which relate to the allowance of a refund or credit to a person who uses tax-paid diesel, special motor or noncommercial aviation fuels to produce a qualified methanol or ethanol fuel and section 6416 for rules which relate to the allowance of a refund or credit to a person who uses tax-paid gasoline to produce a qualified methanol or ethanol fuel.

(d) Later blending. If a qualified methanol or ethanol fuel is blended with other motor fuel in a mixture less than 85 percent of which consists of alcohol, the subsequent sale or use of such alcohol mixture fuel is taxable under the provisions of section 4041 or section 4081 subject to the requirements, limitations and exemptions of those sections. Thus, if the alcohol mixture fuel is at least 10% alcohol by volume, sale or use of the fuel is taxed at the rates provided in section 4041(k) or section 4081(c), but if the fuel is less than 10% alcohol, sale or use of the fuel is taxed at the rates provided in section 4041(a) or section 4081(a).

(e) Effective date. Section 4041(b)(2) applies to sales or uses after March 31, 1983, and before October 1, 1988.

Par. 4. A new §48.4041-20 is added to read as set forth below.

§48.4041-20 Partially exempt methanol and ethanol fuel.

(a) In general. Under section 4041(m), the sale or use of partially exempt methanol or ethanol fuel is taxed at the rate of 4 ½ cents per gallon of fuel sold or used. The amount of tax is based upon the total volume of fuel and not merely upon the nonalcohol portion of the fuel.

(b) Partially exempt methanol or ethanol fuel defined. For purposes of section 4041(m) and this section, partially exempt methanol or ethanol fuel is liquid motor fuel, 85% of which by volume consists of alcohol, as defined in section 4081 and §48.4081-2(a)(3) of the regulations, as modified by the following sentence. For purposes of section 4041(m) and this section, the alcohol contained in partially exempt methanol or ethanol fuel must be produced from natural gas. In determining whether the 85 percent alcohol requirement has been met with respect to a mixture, the actual gallonage of each chemical component will be adjusted to equivalent gallonage at 60° Fahrenheit.

(c) Refunds relating to fuels. See section 6427 for rules which relate to the allowance of a refund or credit to a person who uses tax-paid diesel, special motor or noncommercial aviation fuel to produce a partially exempt methanol or ethanol fuel and section 6416 for rules which relate to the allowance of a refund or credit to a person who uses tax-paid gasoline to produce a partially exempt methanol or ethanol fuel.

(d) Later blending. If a partially exempt methanol or ethanol fuel is blended with other motor fuel in a mixture less than 85 percent of which consists of alcohol, the subsequent sale or use of such blended motor fuel is taxable under the provisions of section 4041(a) or section 4081(a), subject to the requirements, limitations and exemptions of those sections.

(e) Effective date. Section 4041(m) applies to sales and uses after July 31, 1984. If methanol or ethanol fuel meeting the requirements of paragraph (b) of this section was put into the tank of a vehicle prior to August 1, 1984, the fuel is considered used prior to that date and is subject to the tax described in paragraph (a) of section 4041.

Par. 5. Section 48.4071-1 is amended as follows:

(a) Paragraph (a) is revised to read as set forth below.

(b) paragraph (b)(1) is revised to read as set forth below.

(c) paragraph (b)(2) is redesignated paragraph (b)(3).

(d) A new paragraph (b)(2) is added to read as set forth below.

§48.4071-1 Imposition and rate of tax.

(a) Imposition of tax—(1) Imposition of tax before January 1, 1984. Section 4071 imposes a tax at the rates set forth in paragraph (b)(1) of this section on tires made wholly or in part of rubber, inner tubes (for tires) made wholly or in part of rubber and tread rubber which are sold by the manufacturer thereof before January 1, 1984.

(2) Imposition of tax after December 31, 1983. Section 4071 imposes a tax at the rates set forth in paragraph 9(b)(2) of this section on tires of the type used on highway vehicles and made wholly or in part of rubber which are sold by the manufacturer thereof after December 31, 1983.

(3) Definitions. For definitions of the terms "tires," "inner tubes," "tread rubber," "rubber" and "manufacturer," see §48.4072-1 of the regulations.

(b) Rates and computation of tax—(1) Rates of tax before January 1, 1984.

(i)	Tires:
	(A)	Of the type used on highway vehicles:
		(1) For the period July 1, 1965 to December 31, 1980, inclusive	10 cents per pound
		(2) For the period January 1, 1981 to December 31, 1983, inclusive . .	9.75 cents per pound
	(B)	Of the type used on other than highway vehicles
		(1) For the period July 1, 1965, to December 31, 1980, inclusive . .	5 cents per pound
		(2) For the period January 1, 1981 to December 31, 1983, inclusive . .	4.875 cents per pound
	(C)	Laminated tires for the period July 1, 1965 to December 31, 1983, inclusive	1 cent per pound
(ii)	Inner tubes:
		For the period July 1, 1965 to December 31, 1983, inclusive	10 cents per pound

(iii)	Tread Rubber:
		For the period July 1, 1965 to December 31, 1983, inclusive	5 cents per pound
(2)	Rates of tax on or after January 1, 1984. Tires of the type used on highway vehicles:
	(i)	Tires weighing not more than 40 pounds	0 cents
	(ii)	Tires weighing more than 40 pounds but not more than 70 pounds	15 cents for each pound in excess of 40 pounds
	(iii)	Tires weighing more than 70 pounds but not more than 90 pounds	$4.50 plus 30 cents for each pound in excess of 70 pounds
	(iv)	Tires weighing more than 90 pounds	$10.50 plus 50 cents for each pound in excess of 90 pounds

* * * * *

Par. 6. Paragraph (b) of §48.4071-2 is retitled "Alternative method of determining the weight of tires after December 31, 1983" and is amended by removing "and inner tubes" wherever it appears and by removing in the first sentence the phrase "shown in schedules published by the tire industry".

Par. 7. Section 48.4081-2 is amended as follows:

(a) Paragraph (a) is revised to read as set forth below.

(b) Paragraph (b) is revised to read as set forth below.

(c) The heading of paragraph (c) is revised to read as set forth below.

(d) Paragraph (c)(1) is amended by removing the first sentence of the paragraph and inserting in lieu thereof the sentence set forth below and by removing the word "exempt" in the fifth sentence.

(e) Paragraph (c)(2) is revised by removing "tax free" wherever it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "'at the reduced rate (or tax free for sales before April 1, 1983)".

(f) Paragraph (e)(1) is revised to read as set forth below.

(g) Paragraph (e)(2) is retitled to read as set forth below and is amended by removing the last sentence of the paragraph and inserting in lieu thereof the two sentences set forth below.

(h) A new paragraph (e)(3) is added to read as set forth below.

(i) Paragraph (f)(1) is retitled and is revised to read as set forth below.

(j) The heading and text of paragraph (f)(2) are amended by inserting "and less than 85 percent alcohol" after "40 percent alcohol" wherever it appears.

(l) A new paragraph (f)(3) is added to read as set forth below.

(m) Paragraph (g) is revised to read as set forth below.

(n) Paragraph (h) is revised by removing "tax free" wherever it appears and inserting in lieu thereof "at the reduced rate (or free for sales before April 1, 1983)".

(o) Paragraph (i) is removed.

§48.4081-2 Gasoline mixed with alcohol.

(a) In general—(1) Sale after March 31, 1983, and before October 1, 1988. Under section 4081(c), the rate of tax applicable to the sale of qqualifying gasohol (as defined in paragraph (a)(4) of this section) and on the sale of gasoline for the purpose of producing qualifying gasohol is:

(i) For sales occurring after December 31, 1984, and before October 1, 1988, 3 cents per gallon of fuel in the case of the sale of qualifying gasohol and 3 ⅓ cents per gallon of fuel in the case of the sale of gasoline purchased for the purpose of producing qualifying gasohol.

(ii) For sales occurring after March 31, 1983, and before January 1, 1985, 4 cents per gallon of fuel in the case of the sale of qualifying gasohol and 4¾ cents per gallon of fuel in the case of the sale of gasoline purchased for the purpose of producing qualifying gasohol.

(2) Sale before April 1, 1983. For sales before April 1, 1983 no tax is imposed upon the sale of qualifying gasohol or on the sale of gasoline to produce qualifying gasohol.

(3) Alcohol defined. For purposes of this section and section 4081(c), the term "alcohol" generally includes methanol, ethanol, and any other alcohol, whether produced domestically or imported, which is not produced from petroleum, natural gas, or coal. In the case of alcohol mixture fuels sold after December 31, 1984, alcohol produced from peat is considered alcohol produced from coal. The term alcohol, for purposes of this section and section 4081(c), does not include alcohol with a proof of less than 190° of proof (determined without regard to added denaturants). Thus, in determining what percentage of any mixture consists of alcohol, the volume of alcohol includes the volume of any impurities that reduce the purity of the alcohol to not less than 95% (190 degrees of proof), determined without regard to denaturants, unless such impurities consist of gasoline or the other non-alcohol fuel with which the alcohol is mixed. In addition, the volume of alcohol includes the volume of any denaturants (including gasoline or other non-alcohol fuel denaturants) which are added under any formula approved by the Secretary to the extent that the volume of such denaturants does not exceed 5% of the volume of the alcohol (including the denaturants). If the volume of such denaturants exceeds 5% of the volume of the alcohol, the excess over 5% is considered part of the non-alcohol content of the fuel. For certain requirements imposed on producers of alcohol (ethanol) under chapter 51 of the Code relating to distilled spirits, see 27 CFR part 201. For certain requirements imposed on purchasers of specially denatured alcohol (ethanol), see 27 CFR Part 211.

(4) Qualifying gasohol. Qualifying gasohol (hereinafter referred to as gasohol) is a blend of gasoline and alcohol in a mixture at least 10 percent of which is alcohol. The actual gallonage of each component of the gasohol is adjusted to its equivalent gallonage at 60° Fahrenheit in order to determine whether the 10% alcohol requirement has been met.

(b) Sale of gasoline to produce gasohol. The sale of gasoline for use in producing gasohol is subject to the provisions of section 4081(c) rather than section 4081(a) only if the sale is in bulk quantities for delivery into a bulk storage tank of a gasohol producer as defined in this paragraph (b). For purposes of this section, the term "gasohol producer" means any person who, in the ordinary course of his or her trade or business, regularly buys gasoline and alcohol in bulk quantities for blending into gasohol for the use in the trade or business or for resale. Thus, an isolated purchase of gasoline for blending into gasohol does not qualify the seller of such gasoline for taxation under section 4081(c) and this section. A person who qualifies as a gasohol producer for purposes of this section will also qualify as a "producer" for purposes of section 4082. Accordingly, the sale of gasoline to a gasohol producer, whether or not for use in producing gasohol, may be exempt from tax under section 4083 (relating to certain exempt sales to producers). If the sale of gasoline for use in producing gasohol is taxed at the rate provided in section 4081(c), no tax will be imposed upon the sale of the gasohol produced with such gasoline. In addition, if the sale of gasoline for use in producing gasohol is taxed at the rate provided in section 4081(c) applicable to sales before January 1, 1985, and such gasoline is blended into gasohol after December 31, 1984, no refund or credit is allowed for the difference between the tax imposed and the lower tax which would have been imposed if such gasoline had been taxed at the rate applicable to sales after December 31, 1984.

(c) Requirements for gasohol producers purchasing at lower rates or tax free—(1) Certificate of Registry. A person qualifying as a gasohol producer under paragraph (b) of this section who wishes to purchase gasoline taxed at a reduced rate (or exempt from tax in the case of sales prior to April 1, 1983) under section 4081(c)(1)(B) must be registered with the district director for the district in which his principal place of business is located, unless the person is exempt from registration requirements under section 4222(b).* * *

* * * * *

(e) Special rules—(1) Limitation on sales taxed at lower rates. The reduced rate of tax (or the exemption from tax in the case of sales prior to April 1, 1983) under §4081(c)(1)(B) only applies to the sale of gasoline for use in producing gasohol. Therefore, unless the sale is exempt from tax or is taxed at a reduced rate under another provision of the Code, the producer of the gasoline may sell at the reduced rate of tax provided in section 4081(c), only that portion of the gasoline that is intended for use in producing gasohol.

(2) Sales to exempt users. * * * Therefore, where the ultimate vendor sells both tax-paid gasoline and tax-paid gasohol and the sales of the two types of fuel are not clearly distinguished, the producer of the gasoline and gasohol will not be entitled to a full credit or refund with respect to these fuels, if the amounts of each type sold by the ultimate vendor to tax-exempt users cannot be established. If the producer cannot distinguish the amount of each type sold, the credit allowed will be equal to the credit that would have been allowed if all the fuel sold had been tax-paid gasohol.

(3) Later blending. If gasohol is blended with other motor fuel, the subsequent sale or use of such blended motor fuel is taxable under the provisions of section 4041(a) or 4081(a) if the resulting blend is less than 10% alcohol by volume.

(f) Refunds and credits—(1) Tax-paid gasoline under section 4081(a) used to produce gasohol. See section 6427(f) for rules which relate to the allowance of a refund or credit to a blender of gasohol where the blender uses tax-paid gasoline to produce the gasohol.

* * * * *

(3) Mixture of gasoline and alcohol containing at least 85% alcohol. If a person uses tax-paid gasoline in blending a mixture of gasoline and alcohol containing at least 85% alcohol by volume that qualifies for the exemption from tax under section 4041(b)(2) for qualified methanol or ethanol fuels, the refund provisions under section 6416 apply.

(g) Later separation and failure to blend—(1) In general. Any person who fails to use gasoline which was taxed at a reduced rate (or was exempt from tax in the case of sales prior to April 1, 1983) under section 4081(c) to make gasohol or who separates gasoline from gasohol which was taxed, if at all, under section 4081(c), is treated as a producer of gasoline (as defined under section 4082), and is subject to tax upon the subsequent sale of such gasoline. If gasoline is purchased under section 4081(c) for use in producing gasohol, and the amount purchased is in excess of the amount of gasoline that the purchaser is able to establish has actually been used to produce gasohol by the records required under paragraph (h)(3) of this section, then the purchaser is treated as having failed to use the excess gasoline to produce gasohol. In such a case, any of the excess gasoline that is not in the purchaser's possession is treated as having been disposed of by sale or by a use considered a sale. See section 7201 for criminal penalties relating to a willful attempt to evade or defeat tax, and section 6651 for additions to tax for failure to file a return or pay tax.

(2) Rates of tax. If gasoline or gasohol described in the preceding paragraph was purchased tax free prior to April 1, 1983, the person who is treated as separating the gasohol or failing to use the gasoline to produce gasohol is taxed as a producer at the applicable rate of tax in effect under section 4081(a) at the time of the sale of the gasoline by such person. If the gasoline or gasohol was purchased at the rate of tax applicable to sales after March 31, 1983, and before January 1, 1985, the rate of tax imposed upon the person treated as separating the gasohol or failing to use the gasoline to produce gasohol is 4⅘ cents per gallon. If the gasoline or gasohol was purchased at the reduced rate of tax applicable to sales after December 31, 1984, the rate of tax imposed upon the person treated as separating the gasohol or failing to use the gasoline to produce gasohol is 5⅔ cents per gallon.

(3) Examples. The requirements of this paragraph are illustrated by the following examples.

Example (1). A gasohol blender X produces 10,000 gallons of gasohol using 9,000 gallons of gasoline and 1,000 gallons of alcohol. Because of a lack of demand for the gasohol, X separates the gasoline and sells it. X will be treated as the producer of the gasoline.

(i) If the gasoline was previously subject to a 9 cents per gallon tax under section 4081(a), or $810, the sale of the separated gasoline is not subject to any additional tax.

(ii) If the gasoline was previously subject to a 4⅘ cents per gallon tax under section 4081(c), or $400, X will be subject to a 4⅘ cents per gallon tax upon the sale of gasoline, or $410.

(iii) If the gasoline was previously subject to a 3⅓ cents per gallon tax under section 4081(c), or $300, X will be subject to a 5⅔ cents per gallon tax upon the sale of gasoline, or $510.

(iv) Assume that X never blended the 9,000 gallons into gasohol but instead sold the gasoline. X will be treated as the producer of the gasoline. If the gasoline had been subject to a 9 cents per gallon tax, X will not be subject to any additional tax. If the gasoline had been taxed at a rate of 4⅘ cents per gallon, or $400, X will be subject to a 4⅘ cents per gallon tax upon the sale of the gasoline, or $410. If the gasoline had been taxed at a rate of 3⅓ cents per gallon, or $300, X will be subject to a 5⅔ cents per gallon tax upon the sale of the gasoline, or $510.

Par. 8. Section 48.6420-4 (l) is revised by inserting "or other applicator" after "an aerial applicator" wherever it appears.

Par. 9. Section 48.6427-1(a)(2)(iv) is revised by inserting "or other applicator" after "an aerial applicator" wherever it appears.

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations published * * * [on page 61, this Bulletin] amend existing temporary regulations by adding paragraph (d) to §1.163-5T, revising subdivisions (v) and (vi) of §§1.163-5T(c)(2), revising Q&As 10, 12, 14, and 15 of §35a.9999-5(b), and adding paragraph (d) to §35a.9999-5 consisting of Q&A 20. For the text of the temporary regulations, see FR Doc. 85-19893 [T.D. 8046] published * * * [on page 61, this Bulletin].

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT AND EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required. Although this document is a notice of a proposed rulemaking which solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations as final regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of this regulation is P. Ann Fisher of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations on matters of substance and style.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Limitation on Amount of Depreciation and Investment Tax Credit for Luxury Automobiles; Limitation When Certain Property is Used for Personal Purposes

LR-145-84

SUMMARY: * * * [T]he Internal Revenue Service is issuing temporary income tax regulations under section 274 and amending other temporary regulations under sections 162 and 280F. The temporary regulations under section 274 provide rules for the substantiation of any deduction or credit claimed with respect to traveling away from home, certain entertainment expenditures, business-related gifts, and "listed property." The amendments to the temporary regulations under section 162 relate to the deductibility of certain expenses incurred by employers and employees with respect to noncash fringe benefits. The amendments to the temporary regulations under section 280F provide new limitations on the deductions of lessees of passenger automobiles. The text of the new and amended temporary regulations serves as the comment document for the notice of proposed rulemaking contained in this document.

DATES: Proposed effective dates: The regulations under section 162 are proposed to be effective as of January 1, 1985. The regulations under section 274 relating to the substantiation of deductions and credits claimed with respect to certain business expenditures are proposed to be effective generally for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1985. The amendments relating to the limitations on the deductions of lessees of passenger automobiles are proposed to be effective generally for automobiles leased after April 2, 1985.

Dates for comments and requests for a public hearing: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by January 5, 1986.

ADDRESS: Send comments and request for a public hearing to Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention CC:LR:T (LR-145-84), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Michael A. Dazé of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 (202-566-6456, not a toll-free call).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations published * * * [on page 93, this Bulletin] amend the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) to reflect amendments to section 274 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, relating to substantiation requirements, and to section 280F relating to limitations on cost recovery deductions and the investment tax credit allowed for passenger automobiles. The temporary regulations issued under section 274 reflect amendments to section 274(d) by section 179 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369, 98 Stat. 494) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 221] and by sections 1(a) and 2 of the Repeal of Contemporaneous Recordkeeping Requirements (Pub. L. 99-44, 99 Stat. 77) [page 350, this Bulletin]. The amendments to the temporary regulations under section 280F reflect amendments to that section by section 4 of Public Law 99-44. The preamble to the temporary regulations contains an explanation of the provisions of those regulations. The temporary regulations will remain in effect until superseded by final regulations which are proposed to be based on the temporary regulations.

Before amendment by the Tax Reform Act of 1984 and Public Law 99-44, section 274(d) required that any deduction for expenses incurred for (1) traveling away from home, (2) entertainment, amusement, or recreation activities or the use of a facility in connection with those activities, or (3) business-related gifts be substantiated by adequate records or sufficient evidence corroborating a taxpayer's own statement. Section 274(d) did not apply to vehicles when used in local travel. Instead, the more general substantiation standards under section 162 were applicable. As amended, section 274(d) requires, for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1985, that any deduction or credit claimed for the expenses described above and for expenses incurred with respect to "listed property" be substantiated by adequate records or sufficient evidence corroborating a taxpayer's own statement. Section 274(d) will then apply to vehicles used in local travel.

First adopted by Treasury decision in 1962, §1.274-5 of the income Tax Regulations reflects the addition of section 274(d) to the Code. Amendments to §1.274-5 are proposed to conform the regulations to the 1984 Act and to Public Law 99-44. For the convenience of taxpayers who must comply with the section 274(d) substantiation requirements, the proposed amendments are incorporated into §1.274-5 and published in full in the format of a temporary regulation. New material is indicated by underlining.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before these proposed amendments are adopted, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying.

Comments are invited, however, on only those portions of new temporary §1.274-5T that are amendments to §1.274-5 to reflect the recent legislation. Specifically, comments are invited on the following provisions that are included among those amendments:

Paragraph (b)(6), the elements of an expenditure or use with respect to listed property,

Paragraph (c)(2)(ii)(C), substantiation of business use,

Paragraph (c)(3)(ii), sampling rule for the substantiation of business use,

Paragraph (c)(6)(i)(C), aggregation of business use,

Paragraph (d)(2) and (3), disclosure on tax returns of certain information with respect to the use of listed property,

Paragraph (e), substantiation of working condition fringe exclusions and certain employee deductions, and

Paragraph (k), other vehicles that may be designated as qualified nonpersonal use vehicles.

Comments are also invited on the provisions of §1.162-25T and §1.274-6T and the amendments to the temporary regulations under section 280F. Comments have been received previously on the limitations applicable to lessees contained in §1.280F-5T of those temporary regulations. The comments have pointed out that separate limitations are not applicable to lessees to whom lessors have elected to pass through the investment credit. The Internal Revenue Service intends to issue an announcement in the near future providing separate limitations for these lessees.

In the case of a fleet of vehicles owned or leased by an employer and used by employees in connection with the employer's business, the Service is considering an alternative method for the employer to satisfy its substantiation requirements. An employer would be able to establish the business use of each vehicle in the fleet and the personal use by an employee by a method similar to the following:

(1) The employer would identify a class of at least 100 vehicles that are physically similar and that are used in a similar fashion,

(2) No vehicle in the class would have a fair market value greater than $16,500,

(3) At the beginning of each taxable year, the employer would select from the class a random sample using accepted sampling techniques,

(4) The sample size would preferably be at least 250 vehicles, or one-half the class in the case of fleets of less than 500 vehicles (but in no event less than 50 vehicles),

(5) The taxpayer would determine the business use of each vehicle in the sample from adequate records maintained for each vehicle, and

(6) The average of the business use of each vehicle in the sample would be the business use of each vehicle in the class.

Comments are invited with respect to this alternative method of satisfying the substantiation requirements of section 274(d).

A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who submits written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The collection of information requirements contained in the temporary regulations have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on these requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on the requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291 AND REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required.

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking which solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6).

Withdrawal of Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Substantiation of Certain Deductions and Credits for Business Expenses; Taxation of Fringe Benefits

LR-145-84 and LR-216-84

SUMMARY: This document withdraws portions of two notices of proposed rulemaking by cross reference to temporary regulations published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for February 20, 1985 (50 FR 7071 and 7073) [LR-145-84 and LR-216-84, 1985-1 C.B. 649, 655], relating to the requirement to substantiate certain deductions and credits with "adequate contemporaneous records" and to the taxation of fringe benefits. The text of temporary income tax regulations under sections 132 and 274 served as the comment document for the notices of proposed rulemaking. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by Public Law 99-44, Repeal of Contemporaneous Recordkeeping Requirements [page 350, this Bulletin], that made, inter alia, sections of the temporary regulations ineffective. * * * [T]he Internal Revenue Service, therefore, is removing portions of those temporary regulations. This document withdraws those portions of the notices of proposed rulemaking that pertain to the removed temporary regulations.

DATES: The withdrawal of portions of the two notices of proposed rulemaking is generally effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1984.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

Sections 179 and 531 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369, 98 Stat. 718 and 877) (the 1984 Act) [1985-3 C.B. (Vol. 1), 1, 221, 385] made various amendments to Code sections 61, 274, 3121, 3231, 3306, 3401, and 3501, and added new Code sections 132, 280F, and 4977. Temporary regulations published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on October 24, 1984 (49 FR 42701) [T.D. 7986, 1984-2 C.B. 64] amended the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) to reflect amendments to section 274(d) of the Internal Revenue Code, relating to substantiation requirements, and the addition of section 280F to the Code, relating to the limitations on cost recovery deductions and the investment tax credit for certain property. Other temporary regulations published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for January 7, 1985 (50 FR 747) [T.D. 8004, 1985-1 C.B. 23] amended Parts 1, 31, and 54 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations, to reflect other amendments to the Code by the 1984 Act relating to the taxation of fringe benefits. Amendments to both sets of temporary regulations and a new temporary regulations relating to the substantiation requirements were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for February 20, 1985 (50 FR 7038) [T.D. 8009, 1985-1 C.B. 82].

Section 1(a) of Public Law 99-44, Repeal of Contemporaneous Recordkeeping Requirements (the 1985 Act) [page 350, this Bulletin], amended section 274(d) and section 1(c) of the same law made ineffective any regulations issued to carry out certain of the amendments made by the 1984 Act. * * * [T]he Internal Revenue Service is removing those sections of the temporary regulations that are no longer effective. Because the text of the temporary regulations served as the comment document for two notices of proposed rulemaking, the portions of the notices of proposed rulemaking that pertain to the removed temporary regulations must also be withdrawn. This document has no effect on the portions of the two notices of proposed rulemaking that pertain to the temporary regulations under section 280F or on the temporary income, employment, and excise tax regulations relating to the taxation of fringe benefits that are not removed. For discussion of the substantiation requirements under section 274(d) and the rules relating to the taxation of fringe benefits that remain in effect, see the preamble to the removal of the temporary regulations * * * [on page 90, this Bulletin].

However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing this document on matters of both substance and style.

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 relating to the "adequate contemporaneous record" requirement and the proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 that would have conformed the regulations relating to the taxation of fringe benefits to the "adequate contemporaneous record" requirement, published in the FEDERAL REGISTER for February 20, 1985 (50 FR 7071 and 7073) [LR-145-84 and LR-216-84, 1985-1 C.B. 649, 655], are hereby withdrawn.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking Employee Tip Reporting and Substantiation Requirements

LR-162-84

SUMMARY: * * * [T]he Internal Revenue Service is issuing temporary employment tax regulations relating to the reporting and substantiation requirements applicable to tipped employees. The text of the temporary regulations serve as the comment document for this notice of proposed rulemaking.

DATES:

PROPOSED EFFECTIVE DATE

The proposed amendments with respect to a lower allocation-of-tips percentage would be effective on and after July 18, 1984. The provisions relating to the definition of a large food or beverage establishment would be effective for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1982. The substantiation requirements would be effective with respect to tips received on or after October 1, 1985.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT AND EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection copying. A public hearing will be held upon written requests to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The collection of information requirements contained herein have been submitted for OMB review under the Paperwork Reduction Act, and comments on them should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attn: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests persons submitting comments to OMB to also send copies of the comments to the Service.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

LR-165-84

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to the Federal tax treatment of both the lender and the borrower in certain below-market interest rate loan transactions. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. These regulations would affect taxpayers who enter into certain below-market loans and provide them with guidance needed to comply with the law.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by October 21, 1985. The regulations are generally proposed to be effective after June 6, 1984, for below-market term loans made after June 6, 1984, and below-market demand loans outstanding after June 6, 1984. Section 1.7872-1(c) provides special effective date rules for certain loan transactions.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-165-84), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Sharon L. Hall of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, Attention: CC:LR:T, 202-566-3828 (not a toll-free call).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1), the Estate Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 20), the Gift Tax Regulations (26 CFR part 25) and the Excise Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 53) under section 7872 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. This document also amends the Table of OMB Control Numbers (26 CFR Part 602). These amendments are proposed to provide regulations under new section 7872, which was added to the Code by section 172 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (98 Stat. 699) [Pub. L.98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 207].

IN GENERAL

Prior to the enactment of section 7872, some taxpayers used interest-free loans or loans with an interest rate below the current market rate (in each case, "below-market loans") which purported to circumvent well-established rules of taxation. Thus, in family or similar situations, below-market loans have been used which purported to have the effect of avoiding taxation under the grantor trust rules and deflecting income to others. Corporations have made below-market loans to shareholders with the effect of avoiding taxation of income at the corporate level which is the economic equivalent of receiving a deduction for dividends paid to those shareholders. Employers have made below-market loans to employees with the effect of providing compensation which has not been subject to employment taxes. Interest-free loans have also been used to convert non-deductible expenses into the equivalent of deductible expenses.

Section 7872 addresses these and similar practices, generally, by treating certain below-market loans described in one of the categories specified in section 7872(c) as economically equivalent to loans bearing interest at the applicable Federal rate coupled with a payment by the lender to the borrower sufficient to fund the payment of interest by the borrower. Thus, the lender is treated as making (i) a loan to the borrower in exchange for a note requiring the payment of interest at the applicable Federal rate, and (ii) a transfer of funds to the borrower in an amount generally equal to the amount of interest imputed under section 7872. In the case of term gift loans, however, the amount of money treated as transferred by the lender to the borrower, which is subject to gift tax, and the amount of the imputed interest payment by the borrower to the lender are unequal because they are computed differently under the statute.

CHARACTER AND TIMING OF TRANSFERS

The character of the imputed transfer by the lender to the borrower is determined in accordance with the substance of the transaction. For example, the transfer is treated as a gift if the transaction is in substance a gift within the meaning of the gift tax provisions of the Code, and it is treated as compensation if the purpose of the transaction is the payment of compensation. This imputed transfer is computed annually and in the case of demand loans is treated as made, generally, on December 31. In the case of term loans, however, the imputed transfer is treated as made at the time the loan is made.

The timing and amount of the imputed interest payments by the borrower to the lender depend on the character of the amount transferred by the lender to the borrower and on whether the loan is a term loan or a demand loan. The imputed interest payment in the case of gift and demand loans is computed annually and generally is treated as transferred on December 31. The imputed interest payment in the case of term loans other than gift loans is computed on the date the loan is made and is subject to the original issue discount rules of section 1272.

DEFINITION OF LOAN

Because the purpose of section 7872 is to eliminate the use of below-market loans as a vehicle for tax avoidance, the term "loan" is interpreted broadly in the regulations. Accordingly, any extension of credit or any transaction under which the owner of money permits another person to use the money for a period of time after which the money is to be transferred back to the owner or applied according to an agreement with the owner, such as a refundable deposit, is a loan for purposes of section 7872. However, only those below-market loans that are gift loans, compensation-related loans, corporation-shareholder loans, tax avoidance loans or loans to be specified as significant-effect loans (see below), are subject to the provisions of section 7872. Proposed §1.7872-4(g) provides a special rule for a below-market loan which is made between two persons and is attributable to the relationship of a third person to either the lender or the borrower (for example, a loan by an employer to the child of an employee). In this case, the loan is restructured as two successive "indirect" loans for purposes of section 7872. In addition, the regulations provide that if a lender and a borrower use another entity as an intermediary or middleman, such as in a "back-to-back" loan transaction, for the purpose of avoiding the application of section 7872, the intermediary will be ignored and the two loans will be restructured as one loan made directly between the lender and the borrower.

Section 7872(c)(1)(B)(ii) states that loans between an independent contractor and a person for whom the independent contractor provides services are subject to section 7872. In addition, the proposed regulations define a loan to include any transaction which would be treated as a refundable deposit under current law. Accordingly, if a taxpayer makes a refundable deposit to an independent contractor in connection with the performance of services, the deposit will be subject to the imputation rules of section 7872 (unless the de minimis rules are applicable). The Service is aware that cash amounts are frequently deposited with independent contractors in the ordinary course of business and characterized by the parties as prepayments rather than refundable deposits. Consequently, if this characterization is appropriate, those amounts would not be subject to section 7872. The proper distinction between refundable deposits and prepayments is a factual determination, and, to assist the Service in developing guidelines for drawing this distinction, interested parties are invited to comment on this issue.

PARTNERSHIPS AND PARTNERS

The Service is aware that some taxpayers have entered into below-market loans with partnerships and that other taxpayers have achieved the economic and tax result afforded a below-market loan transaction by utilizing partnerships and the tax laws under subchapter K. The proposed regulations provide that certain below-market loans made by a partnership to a partner that are made in consideration for services performed by the partner other than in his capacity as a member of the partnership will be treated as compensation-related loans for purposes of section 7872.

The final regulations under section 7872 will further address the relationship of section 7872 to partnership transactions, such as certain purported distributions which, under the facts and circumstances, may properly be characterized as loans. The Service is considering several proposals regarding the application of section 7872 to transactions between partners and partnerships and requests interested taxpayers to submit written comments on this point.

SIGNIFICANT EFFECT LOAN

In addition to the four enumerated categories of below-market loans, section 7872(c)(1)(E) provides regulatory authority for applying section 7872 to any other below-market loan if "the interest arrangements of such loan have a significant effect on any Federal tax liability of the lender or the borrower." The Conference Report accompanying the Tax Reform Act of 1984 states, among other things, that any loan that results in the conversion of a nondeductible expense into the equivalent of a deductible expense has an effect on the tax liability of the borrower or lender. The Conference Report further provides that whether an effect is significant is determined in light of all the facts and circumstances including:

(1) Whether the items of income and deduction generated by the loan offset each other;

(2) The amount of such items;

(3) The cost to the taxpayer of complying with the provision; and

(4) Any non-tax reasons for deciding to structure the transaction as a below-market loan rather than a loan with interest at a rate equal to or greater than the applicable Federal rate and a payment by the lender to the borrower.

The Service is aware of numerous situations in which below-market loans have the potential to convert nondeductible personal expenses into the equivalent of deductible expenses. This potential is particularly apparent where interest earned on the borrowed amount may be used to compensate (or provide additional compensation to) the borrower for services or property provided to the lender. Examples of these situations include:

(1) Loans to a membership organization in lieu of part or all of a membership fee;

(2) Loans to institutions providing meals, lodging, and/or medical services (e.g., continuing care facilities) in lieu of fees for such services;

(3) Loans to colleges and secondary schools in lieu of part or all of the tuition, room, and board that would otherwise be charged; and

(4) Loans to an employee or independent contractor by an employer in lieu of payment for a service provided to such employer by the employee (e.g., housing, life insurance coverage, health care).

Many of these transactions have a significant potential for distortion of tax liability, especially if the amounts loaned are relatively large. The Service has decided, however, not to propose regulations treating transactions as having a significant effect until further comment is received on how the facts and circumstances test should be applied, including the proper role of the factors cited by the Conference Report. The Service intends to hold a hearing after publication of these proposed regulations, if a public hearing is requested by any person who submits written comments. The Service urges taxpayers to submit written comments and to speak on this point at that hearing. No transaction will be treated under the regulations as a significant effect loan earlier than the date that future regulations under section 7872(c)(1)(E) are published in proposed form.

EXCLUSION FROM SECTION 7872

Proposed §§1.7872-7 and 1.7872-8 provide for the exclusion of certain below-market loans from the rules of section 7872. Generally, if the amount of loans between a lender and a borrower does not exceed $10,000, section 7872 does not apply. Furthermore, in the case of gift loans of less than $100,000, directly between natural persons, the imputed interest payment by the borrower to the lender each year generally is limited to the amount of the borrower's net investment income (as defined section 7872(d)(1)(E)) for the taxable year.

In addition, section 7872(g)(1)(C) provides regulatory authority for exempting from the application of section 7872 any class of transactions if the application of section 7872 would not have a significant effect on any Federal tax liability of the lender or the borrower. Accordingly, proposed §1.7872-5 provides that certain below-market loans which are not structured as such for tax avoidance purposes are exempted from the provisions of section 7872. If, however, such a loan is structured as one of the exempted loans for tax avoidance purposes, the Service may recharacterize the transaction according to its economic substance and apply section 7872 in accordance with its terms. Interested taxpayers are invited to comment on whether other transactions should be exempted from section 7872, and on the proper tax treatment under section 7872 of private placements of convertible debt.

Section 7872(f)(8) provides that section 7872 does not apply to any loan to which section 483 or 1274 applies. The regulations clarify that generally section 7872 does not apply to any loan to which section 483 or 1274 could apply even though the rules of those sections do not apply because of exceptions or safe harbor provisions in one of those sections. The regulations further clarify that debt instruments issued for property and payable on demand, debt instruments described in section 1273(b)(3) and debt instruments described in section 1275(b) are not subject to sections 483 and 1274 and are subject to section 7872 if those instruments are described in section 7872(c)(1)(A), (B), or (C).

Certain loans subject to section 7872 are also described in section 482 of the Code (concerning the allocation of income and deductions among related taxpayers). These regulations provide for one limited exception to section 7872 in the case of a loan which is also described in §1.482-2(a)(3), concerning indebtedness arising in the ordinary course of business out of sales, leases, or the rendition of services by or between members of a group outstanding for six months or less (the "open accounts exception"). This limited exception will expire on June 30, 1986, by which time the Service plans to have completed its review of the commercial need for an exception from section 7872 in the case of certain "open account" transactions between parties described in section 7872. The Service invites written comments on this issue.

FOREIGN CURRENCY LOANS

The proposed regulations state that for purposes of applying the below-market loan rules to loans denominated in a foreign currency, a market rate of interest appropriate for that currency shall be used in lieu of the applicable Federal rate. However, the proposed regulations expressly leave open the question of how the imputed transfer from the borrower to the lender is to be treated for tax purposes. The Service is aware that high nominal rates of interest in currencies expected to depreciate with respect to the dollar may overstate the true cost of borrowing to a U.S. taxpayer, if offsetting foreign currency gains are not taken into account. Conversely, low rates of interest in currencies expected to appreciate with respect to the dollar may understate true borrowing costs. The Service is studying this issue further, in the context of transactions governed by section 7872 as well as those governed by sections 1271 through 1275, and plans to address this issue in future regulations under these sections.

REQUEST FOR COMMENTS ON CERTAIN TRANSACTIONS

The Service is aware that numerous transactions which occur in the ordinary course of business in many industries may be characterized under section 7872(c)(1)(B) as compensation-related loans. (One example is a transaction in which a cash margin deposit is made pursuant to requirements of an exchange to a futures commission merchant or to the exchange as a condition for trading futures contracts. See §1.7872-5 for a special temporary rule pending comments.) In order to determine whether these transactions are subject to section 7872 and whether the interest arrangements of such transaction have a significant effect on the Federal tax liability of the lender or borrower, the Service requests that taxpayers submit written comments providing a full explanation of the transactions.

The Service is also aware that other persons subject to section 7872 may enter into numerous short-term demand loans for business-related or other purposes. (One example is short-term loans resulting from the extension of credit through the use of a credit card. See §1.7872-10(a)(6) for a special rule relating to revolving credit loans.) Because of the volume and the short-term nature of the loans in these situations, the Service is also considering whether special rules of convenience can be formulated in some circumstances to reduce the cost of compliance without creating opportunities for manipulation or tax avoidance. The Service invites comments and suggestions with respect to such possible rules of convenience, the circumstances in which they would be applicable, and any exceptions that may be necessary if such rules are adopted.

APPLICABLE FEDERAL RATE

Under the proposed regulations, the applicable Federal rate in effect at any time depends upon the Federal statutory rates established for semiannual periods and the alternate Federal rates established by the Commissioner on a monthly basis (see §1.1274-3T). The Federal statutory rates and the alternate Federal rates are published by the Commissioner along with equivalent rates which are based on different compounding periods. The choice of the appropriate Federal statutory rate or alternate Federal rate for any loan depends upon the payment intervals or compounding periods required under the loan agreement. The regulations provide special rules to permit use of the alternate Federal rate in the case of demand loans. In addition, the proposed regulations provide special rules for certain variable interest rate loans.

UNASCERTAINABLE TERM

The proposed regulations do not address the treatment of term loans in the case where the period for which the loan is outstanding is unascertainable. For example, a loan which must be repaid when the borrower marries is a term loan outstanding for an unascertainable period of time. In order to make the calculations required by section 7872(b), it is necessary to know the period of time that the term loan is outstanding. The Service invites comments on this issue.

OTHER ISSUES: CONSISTENCY; ESTATE AND GIFT TAX RULES; PRIVATE FOUNDATIONS

Section 7872(g)(1)(B) provides regulatory authority for assuring that the positions of the lender and borrower are consistent as to the application or nonapplication of section 7872. Accordingly, proposed §1.7872-11(f) provides that the lender and the borrower each must attach a statement to their income tax returns for any taxable year in which they either have imputed income or claim a deduction for an amount imputed under section 7872.

In addition, proposed §20.7872-1 implements section 7872(g)(2) by prohibiting the discounting, at other than the applicable Federal rate, for estate tax purposes, of any term loan made by a decedent with donative intent after June 6, 1984. Proposed §25.7872-1 implements section 7872(a) by providing that the amount transferred by the lender to the borrower and characterized as a gift is subject to the gift tax provisions. Finally, §53.4941(d)-2 is amended to provide that the amount of interest on loans between a disqualified person and a private foundation is computed without regard to section 7872 for purposes of application of the excise tax imposed by that section.

EFFECTIVE DATES

In general, the provisions of section 7872 apply after June 6, 1984, to term loans made after June 6, 1984, and to demand loans outstanding after June 6, 1984. If, however, a demand loan that was outstanding after June 6, 1984, is retired before September 17, 1984, the provisions of section 7872 will not apply to the demand loan for the period ending on the date on which the loan is retired. For this purpose, the demand loan is retired by repayment, cancellation, forgiveness, modification of the interest arrangement, or some other similar action (see Internal Revenue Service News Release, IR-84-95, published August 28, 1984).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is to be held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The collection of information requirements contained in this notice of proposed rulemaking have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on these requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on these requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291. Accordingly, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the proposed regulations are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Howard A. Balikov of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations on matters of both substance and style.

Proposed Amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1, 26 CFR Part 20, 26 CFR Part 25, and 26 CFR Part 53 are as follows:

INCOME TAX REGULATIONS 26 CFR PART 1

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 1 is amended by adding the following citation:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. * * * §§1.7872-1 through 1.7872-14 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 7872.

Par. 2. New §§1.7872-1 through 1.7872-14 are added in the appropriate place. These new sections read as follows:

§1.7872-1 Introduction.

(a) Statement of purpose. Section 7872 generally treats certain loans in which the interest rate charged is less than the applicable Federal rate as economically equivalent to loans bearing interest at the applicable Federal rate, coupled with a payment by the lender to the borrower sufficient to fund all or part of the payment of interest by the borrower. Such loans are referred to as "below-market loans." See §1.7872-3 for detailed definitions of below-market loans and the determination of the applicable Federal rate.

Accordingly, section 7872 recharacterizes a below-market loan as two transactions:

(1) An arm's-length transaction in which the lender makes a loan to the borrower in exchange for a note requiring the payment of interest at the applicable Federal rate; and

(2) A transfer of funds by the lender to the borrower ("imputed transfer").

The timing and the characterization of the amount of the imputed transfer by the lender to the borrower are determined in accordance with the substance of the transaction. The timing and the amount of the imputed interest payment (the excess of the amount of interest required to be paid using the applicable Federal rate, over the amount of interest required to be paid according to the loan agreement) by the borrower to the lender depend on the character of the imputed transfer by the lender to the borrower and whether the loan is a term loan or a demand loan. If the imputed transfer by the lender is characterized as a gift, the provisions of chapter 12 of the Internal Revenue Code, relating to gift tax, also apply. All imputed transfers under section 7872 (e.g., interest, compensation, gift) are characterized in accordance with the substance of the transaction, and, except as otherwise provided in the regulations under section 7872, are treated as so characterized for all purposes of the Code. For example, for purposes of section 170, an interest-free loan to a charity referred to in section 170 for which interest is imputed under section 7872, is treated as an interest bearing loan coupled with periodic gifts to the charity in the amount of the imputed transfer, for purposes of section 170. In addition, all applicable information and reporting requirements (e.g., reporting on Form W-2 and Form 1099) must be satisfied.

(b) Effective date—(1) In general. The provisions of section 7872 generally apply, for periods after June 6, 1984, to demand loans outstanding after that date and to loans other than demand loans made after that date.

(2) Demand loans repaid before September 17, 1984. If a demand loan which was outstanding on June 6, 1984, is repaid before September 17, 1984, section 7872 does not apply to the loan. For purposes of this paragraph (b)(2) only, a loan is treated as repaid if it is repaid, cancelled, forgiven, modified, or otherwise retired. For example, if the loan agreement for an interest-free demand loan, which is outstanding on June 6, 1984, is modified on September 10, 1984, to require the borrower to pay a 5 percent simple rate of interest, then for purposes of this paragraph (b)(2) the original loan is treated as repaid on September 10, 1984, and section 7872 applies to the modified loan beginning on that date.

(3) Change in loan agreement. For purposes of section 7872, any loan which is renegotiated, extended, or revised after June 6, 1984, is treated as a loan made after June 6, 1984. Accordingly, for purposes of the effective date provisions of this paragraph (b) in the case of such a loan, the provisions of section 17872 apply as if the loan were a new loan made on the day the lender and borrower enter into a binding agreement to change the provisions of the loan.

(4) Other Federal tax consequences. Section 7872 does not alter the law applicable to below-market loans for periods prior to the effective date of section 7872. Accordingly, below-market interest rate loans which are not subject to section 7872 by reason of the effective date provisions of this paragraph (b), including loans which are repaid under the rule described in paragraph (b)(2) of this section, may still have Federal tax consequences. See, e.g., Dickman v. Commissioner, 465 U.S. ___ (1984), 104 S.Ct. 1086.

(c) Key to Code provisions. The following key is intended to facilitate research with respect to specific Code provisions. The key identifies the regulations section in which the principal discussion of a particular Code provision appears. As a result of the interrelationship among Code provisions, other regulation sections may also discuss the particular Code provisions. Section 1.7872-2 deals with the definition of the term "loan" for purposes of section 7872. The following table identifies the provisions of section 7872 that are dealt with in §§1.7872-2 through 1.7872-14 and lists each provision of Code section 7872 below the regulation section in which it is covered.

§1.7872-2 Definition of loan.

(a) In general—(1) "Loan" interpreted broadly. For purposes of section 7872, the term "loan" includes generally any extension of credit (including, for example, a purchase money mortgage) and any transaction under which the owner of money permits another person to use the money for a period of time after which the money is to be transferred to the owner or applied according to an express or implied agreement with the owner. The term "loan" is interpreted broadly to implement the anti-abuse intent of the statute. An integrated series of transactions which is the equivalent of a loan is treated as a loan. A payment for property, goods, or services under a contract, however, is not a loan merely because one of the payor's remedies for breach of the contract is recovery of the payment. Similarly, a bona fide prepayment made in a manner consistent with normal commercial practices for services, property, or the use of property, generally, is not a loan; see section 1461 and the regulations thereunder for the treatment of certain prepaid expenses and for the special rules of sections 461(h) and (i). However, a taxpayer's characterization of a transaction as a prepayment or as a loan is not conclusive. Transactions will be characterized for tax purposes according to their economic substance, rather than the terms used to describe them. Thus, for example, receipt by a partner from a partnership of money is treated as a loan if it is so characterized under §1.731-1(c)(d).

(2) Limitations on applicability of section 7872—(i) In general. Section 7872 applies only to certain below-market loans (as defined in section 7872(e)(1)). Section 1.7872-4 lists the categories of below-market loans to which section 7872 generally applies. Certain below-market loans within these categories, however, are exempt from the provisions of section 7872. See §1.7872-5 for specific exemptions from the rules.

(ii) Loans to which section 1483 or 1274 applies. Generally, section 7872 does not apply to any loan which is given in consideration for the sale or exchange of property (within the meaning of section 1274(c)(1)) or paid on account of the sale or exchange of property (within the meaning of section 483(c)(1)), even if the rules of those sections do not apply by reason of exceptions or safe harbor provisions. Any transaction, however, which otherwise is described in section 7872(c)(1)(A), (B), or (C), and is—

(A) A debt instrument that is issued in exchange for property and that is payable on demand,

(B) A debt instrument described in section 1273(b)(3), or

(C) A debt instrument described in section 12275(b), unless the transaction is described in §1.7872-5(b)(1).

is not subject to sections 483 and 1274 and is subject to section 7872.

(iii) Relation to section 482. If a below-market loan subject to section 7872 would also be subject to section 482 if the Commissioner chose to apply section 482 to the loan transaction, then section 7872 will be applied first. If the Commissioner chooses to apply section 482, then the loan transaction is subject to section 482 in addition to section 7872.

(3) Loan proceeds transferred over time. In general, each extension of credit or transfer of money by a lender to a borrower is treated as a separate loan. Accordingly, if the loan agreement provides that the lender will transfer the loan proceeds to the borrower in installments, each installment payment is treated as a separate loan. Similarly, in the case of a loan in which the transfer of the loan proceeds to the borrower is subject to a draw-down restriction, each draw-down of loan proceeds is treated as a separate loan.

(b) Examples of transactions treated as loans.–(1) Refundable Deposits—(i) In general. If an amount is treated for Federal tax purposes as a deposit rather than as a prepayment or an advance payment, the amount is treated as a loan for purposes of section 7872.

(ii) Partially refundable deposits. If an amount is treated for Federal tax purposes as a deposit rather than as a prepayment or an advance payment and the amount is refundable only for a certain period of time or is only partially refundable, then the deposit is treated as aloan only to the extent that it is refundable and only for the period of time that it is refundable.

(iii) Exception. paragraph (b)(1)(i) does not apply if the deposit is custodial in nature or is held in trust for the benefit of the transferor. The deposit is treated as custodial in nature if the transferee is not entitled to the beneficial enjoyment of the amount deposited including interest thereon (except as security for an obligation of the transferor). Thus, if an amount is placed in escrow to secure a contractual obligation of the transferor, and the escrow agreement provides that all interest earned is paid to the transferor and that the transferee has no rights to or interest in the escrowed amount unless and until the transferor defaults on the obligation, then, in the absence of any facts which indicate that the transaction was entered into for tax avoidance purposes, the deposit is not a loan.

(2) Permitting agent or intermediary to retain funds. An agreement under which an agent or intermediary is permitted to retain possession of money for a period of time before transferring the money to his or her principal is treated as a loan for purposes of section 7872. For example, a taxpayer who enters into an agreement with a broker under which the broker may retain possession of the proceeds from the sale of the taxpayer's property (e.g., securities issued by the taxpayer) for a period of time and uses or invests those funds (other than for the taxpayer's account) is treated as making a loan to the broker for the period of time that the broker retains possession of the proceeds.

(3) Advances. An advance of money to a employee, salesman, or other similar person to defray anticipated expenditures is not treated as a loan for purposes of section 7872 if the amount of money advanced is reasonably calculated not to exceed the anticipated expenditures and if the advance of money is made on a day within a reasonable period of time of the day that the anticipated expenditure will be incurred. An advance or draw of money against a partner's distributive share of income which is treated in the manner described in §1.731–1(a)(1)(ii) is not a loan for purposes of section 7872.

§1.7872-3 Definition of below-market loans

(a) In general. Section 7872 does not impute interest on loans which require the payment of interest at the applicable Federal rate. This section defines the applicable Federal rate and provides rules for determining whether an interest-bearing loan provides sufficient stated interest to avoid classification as a below-market loan. The term "below-market loan" means any loan if—

(1) In the case of a demand loan, interest is payable at a rate less than the applicable Federal rate; or

(2) In the case of a term loan, the amount loaned exceeds the present value of all payments due under the loan, determined as of the day the loan is made, using a discount rate equal to the applicable Federal rate in effect on the day the loan is made.

Sections 1.7872-13 and 1.7872-14 contain the computations necessary for determining the amount of imputed interest on a below-market loan which is subject to section 7872.

(b) Applicable Federal rate—(1) In general. The applicable Federal rate is an annual stated rate of interest based on semiannual compounding. In addition, the Commissioner may prescribe equivalent rates based on compounding periods other than semiannual compounding (for example, annual compounding, quarterly compounding, and monthly compounding), to facilitate application of this section to loans other than those involving semiannual payments or compounding. Thus, loans providing for annual payments or annual compounding of interest over the entire life of the loan will use the applicable Federal rates based on annual compounding; loans providing for quarterly payments or quarterly compounding over the entire life of the loan will use the applicable Federal rates based on quarterly compounding; and loans providing for monthly payments or monthly compounding over the entire life of the loan will use the applicable Federal rates based on monthly compounding. The shorter of the compounding period or the payment interval determines which rate is appropriate. Loans providing for payments or compounding of interest at other intervals (e.g., daily, weekly, bi-monthly) may use the applicable Federal rates published by the Commissioner based on the shortest compounding period that is longer than the shorter of the compounding period or the payment interval provided for over the entire life of the loan. Thus, loans providing for daily or weekly payments or compounding of interest may use the applicable Federal rate based on monthly compounding; loans providing for bimonthly payments or compounding of interest will use the applicable Federal rates based on quarterly compounding; etc. Alternatively, taxpayers may compute and use interest rates other than those published by the Commissioner for other interest payment or compounding periods if such rates are equivalent to the applicable Federal rates. Any reference to the applicable Federal rate in the regulations under section 7872 includes the equivalent rates based on different compounding or payment periods.

(2) Determination of applicable Federal rate—(i) In general. The applicable Federal rate for loans described in paragraphs (b)(3), (4), and (5) of this section is defined by reference to Federal statutory rates and alternate Federal rates.

(ii) Definition of Federal statutory rate. The Federal statutory rates are the short-, mid-, and long-term rates in effect under section 1274(d) and their equivalent rates based on different compounding assumptions. These rates are published by the Commissioner for each semiannual period January 1 through June 30 and July 1 through December 31.

(iii) Definition of alternate Federal rate. The alternate Federal rates are the short-, mid-, and long-term rates established by the Commissioner on a monthly basis, and their equivalent rates based on different compounding assumptions. These rates are published by the Commissioner on a monthly basis.

(iv) Definition of semiannual period. For purposes of section 7872 and the regulations thereunder, the first semiannual period means the period in any calendar year beginning on January 1 and ending on June 30, and the second semiannual period means the period in any calendar year beginning on July 1 and ending on December 31.

(3) Demand loans—(i) In general. In the case of a demand loan, the applicable Federal rate for a semiannual period (January 1 through June 30 or July 1 through December 31), is the lower of:

(A) The Federal statutory short-term rate in effect for the semiannual period; or

(B) The special rate for demand loans described in paragraph (b)(3)(ii) of this section.

(ii) Special rate for demand loans. The special rate for demand loans is—

(A) For the semiannual period in which the loan is made, the alternate Federal short-term rate which is in effect on the day the loan is made; and

(B) For each subsequent semiannual period in which the loan is outstanding, the alternate Federal short-term rate which is in effect for the first month of that semiannual period (i.e., January or July).

For a special safe harbor rule for certain variable interest rate demand loans, see paragraph (c)(2) of this section.

(4) Term loans. In the case of a term loan, including a gift term loan or a term loan that is treated as a demand loan as provided in §1.7872-10(a)(5), the applicable Federal rate is the lower of:

(i) The Federal statutory rate for loans of that term in effect on the day the loan is made; or

(ii) The alternate Federal rate for loans of that term in effect on the day the loan is made.

(5) Loans conditioned on future services. In the case of a term loan that is treated as a demand loan as provided in §1.7872-10(a)(5), on the date the condition to perform substantial services is removed or lapses, the demand loan is treated as terminated and a new term loan is created. The applicable Federal rate for the new term loan is the lower of the following:

(i) The applicable Federal rate in effect on the day the original loan was made; or

(ii) The applicable Federal rate in effect on the day the condition lapses or is removed.

(6) Periods before January 1, 1985. For term loans made and demand loans outstanding after June 6, 1984, and before January 1, 1985, the applicable Federal rate under section 7872(f)92) is as follows:

(i) 10.25 percent, compounded annually;

(ii) 10.00 percent, compounded semiannually;

(iii) 9.88 percent, compounded quarterly; and

(iv) 9.80 percent, compounded monthly.

(c) Loans having sufficient stated interest.—(1) In general. Section 7872 does not apply to any loan which has sufficient stated interest. A loan has sufficient stated interest if it provides for interest on the outstanding loan balance at a rate now lower than the applicable Federal rate based on a compounding period appropriate for that loan. See paragraph (b)(1) of this section for a description of appropriate compounding periods. See §1.7872-11(a) for rules relating to waiver of interest.

(2) Safe harbor for demand loans. If the interest rate on a demand loan is changed, either under the terms of the original loan agreement, or subsequently, the loan will be treated as a new loan for purposes of determining the applicable Federal rate for that loan. Thus, the loan will have sufficient stated interest for the remainder of the semiannual period following such change of interest rate if the new interest rate is not less than the lower of the Federal statutory short-term rate in effect for the semiannual period or the alternate Federal short-term rate in effect on the day the new interest rate takes effect.

(3) Examples. The provisions of this paragraph (c) may be illustrated by the following examples.

Example (1). On December 1, 1984, A makes a $100,000 5-year gift term loan to B, requiring 10 interest payments of $5,000 each, payable on May 31 and November 30 of each year the loan is outstanding. Since the loan requires semiannual interest payments, the appropriate compounding assumption is semiannual compounding. For term loans made during 1984, the applicable Federal rate based on semiannual compounding is 10 percent. The loan is not a below-market loan because it provides for interest at a rate of 10 percent, payable semiannually.

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in Example (1), except that the loan requires 5 annual interest payments of $10,000 each, payable on November 30 of each year the loan is outstanding. Since the loan requires annual interest payments, the appropriate compounding assumption is annual compounding. The loan is a below-market loan because, although interest is stated at a rate of 10 percent, a rate that reflects semiannual compounding is not appropriate for a loan with annual payments.

Example (3). Assume the same facts as in Example (2), except that the loan requires 5 annual interest payments of $10,250 each, payable on November 30 of each year that the loan is outstanding. Since the loan requires annual interest payments, the appropriate compounding assumption is annual compounding. For term loans made during 1984, the applicable Federal rate based on annual compounding is 10.25 percent. The loan is not a below-market loan because it provides for interest at a rate of 10.25 percent, compounded annually.

Example (4). Assume the same facts as in Example (1), except that the loan requires 120 monthly interest payments of $816.67 each, payable on the last calendar day of each month that loan is outstanding. Since the loan requires monthly interest payments, the appropriate compounding assumption is monthly compounding. The loan is not a below-market loan because it requires monthly payments of interest based on a rate of 9.80 percent, the applicable Federal rate of interest based on monthly compounding.

Example (5). (i) A makes a demand loan to her son, B, on April 1, 1985. The loan requires quarterly interest payments due at the end of each calendar quarter at a rate of 10 percent. Assume that on April 1, 1985, the Federal statutory short-term rate in effect is 12 percent, compounded quarterly, and that the alternate Federal short-term rate in effect for the month of April is 10 percent, compounded quarterly. The loan is not a below-market loan for the period April 1, 1985, through June 30, 1985.

(ii) Assume that on July 1, 1985, the Federal statutory short-term rate in effect is 11 percent, compounded quarterly, and the alternate Federal short-term rate in effect for the month of July is 10.20 percent, compounded quarterly. The loan no longer has sufficient stated interest. If A raises the interest rate to at least 10.20 percent, the loan will have sufficient stated interest and will not be a below-market loan for the period of July 1 through December 31, 1985.

(iii) Assume that on July 1, 1985, A increases the interest rate on the loan to 10.20 percent, a rate equal to the alternate Federal short-term rate in effect for July. Further assume that the alternate Federal short-term rate subsequently decreases so that such rate in effect for the month of August decreases to 10 percent. On August 1, 1985, A lowers the interest rate on this loan to 10 percent and does not change that rate for the remainder of the semiannual period. The loan has sufficient stated interest and will not be a below-market loan for the semiannual period beginning on July 1, 1985, even if the alternate Federal rate is greater than 10 lpercent for any or all of the four remaining months in the semiannual period ending on December 31, 1985.

(d) Short periods. The rules for determining whether a loan has sufficient stated interest also apply to short periods (e.g., a period that is shorter than the interval between interest payments or interest compounding under the loan which may occur at the beginning or end of the loan). For special computational rules and examples relating to a short periods, see §1.7872-12.

(e) Variable rates of interest—(1) In general. If a loan requires payments of interest calculated at a rate of interest based in whole or in part on an objective index or combination of indices of market interest rates (e.g., a prime rate, the applicable Federal rate, the average yield on government securities as reflected in the weekly Treasury bill rate, the Treasury constant maturity series, or LIBOR (London interbank offered rate)), the loan will be treated as having sufficient state stated interest if—

(i) In the case of a term loan, the rate fixed by the index or indices is no lower than the applicable Federal rate, as determined under paragraph (b)(4) of this section (as modified by paragraph (e)(2) of this section), on the date the loan in made; or

(ii) In the case of a demand loan, the interest rate fixed by the index or indices is no lower than the applicable Federal rate, as determined under paragraph (b)(3) of this section, for each semiannual period that the loan is outstanding. See paragraph (e)(2)(i) of this section for rules relating to variable interest rate demand loans the interest rates of which are tied to the applicable Federal rate.

(2) Special rules—(i) Demand loans tied to the applicable Federal rate. A variable rate demand loan will be treated as having sufficient stated interest if, by the terms of the loan agreement, the interest rate cannot be less than the lower of the Federal statutory short-term rate or the alternate Federal short-term rate in effect at the beginning (or, if the agreement so provides, at the end) of the payment or compounding period (whichever is shorter).

(ii) Applicable Federal rate for variable interest rate term loans. For purposes of determining the applicable Federal rate, if a term loan requires payments or compounding of interest based on a variable rate (within the meaning of paragraph (e)(1) of this section), the term of the loan shall be treated as being equal to the longest period of time that exists between the dates that, under the loan agreement, the interest rate charged on the loan is required to be recomputed (whether or not the recomputation results in a rate different from the immediately preceding rate). Thus, for example, in the case of a 10 year term loan that charges interest at a variable rate equal to a rate 2 points above the prime rate, and that requires that the interest rate be adjusted every 18 months to reflect any changes in the prime rate, the applicable Federal rate is determined by treating the loan as having a term of 18 months rather than a term of 10 years. Accordingly, the applicable Federal short-term rate rather than the applicable Federal long-term rate shall apply.

(3) The provision of paragraph (e)(1) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). On April 1, 1985, A loans $200,000 to B, repayable on demand. The note calls for interest to be paid semiannually on September 30 and March 31 of each year at a rate equal to the alternate Federal short-term rate (based on semiannual compounding) for the month in which the payment is made. The loan has sufficient stated interest.

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in Example (1) except that the note calls for interest at a rate equal to the lower of the alternate Federal short-term rate or the statutory Federal short-term rate (in each case, based on semiannual compounding) for the month in which the payment is made. The loan has sufficient stated interest.

Example (3). Assume the same facts as in Example (1) except that interest is computed and compounded at the end of each month at a rate equal to the lower of the alternate Federal short-Term rate or the statutory Federal short-term rate (in each case, based on monthly compounding) in effect for that month. Accrued interest is payable semiannually on September 30 and March 31 of each year. The loan has sufficient stated interest.

Example (4). Assume the same facts as in Example (1) except that interest is payable at the prime rate of a major lending institution at the time each payment is made. The prime rate is not an index which by its terms cannot be less than the lower of the statutory Federal short-term rate or the alternate Federal short-term rate. Therefore, the loan will be tested for sufficient stated interest in each semiannual period under the rules of paragraph (b)(3) of this section.

(f) Contingent interest.

[RESERVED]

§1.7872-4 Types of below-market loans

(a) In general. Section 7872 applies only to certain categories of below-market loans. These categories are gift loans, compensation-related loans, corporation-shareholder loans, tax avoidance loans, and certain other loans classified in the regulations under section 7872 as significant tax effect loans (i.e., loans whose interest arrangements have a significant effect on any Federal tax liability of the lender or the borrower.)

(b) Gift loans—(1) In general. The term "gift loan" means any below-market loan in which the foregoing of interest is in the nature of a gift within the meaning of Chapter 12 of the Internal Revenue Code (whether or not the lender is a natural person).

(2) Cross reference. See §1.7872-8 for special rules limiting the application of section 7872 to gift loans. See paragraph (g) of this section for rules with respect to below-market loans which are indirectly gift loans.

(c) Compensation-related loans—(1) In general. A compensation-related loan is a below-market loan that is made in connection with the performance of services, directly or indirectly, between—

(i) An employer and an employee,

(ii) An independent contractor and a person for whom such independent contractor provides services, or

(iii) A partnership and a partner if the loan is made in consideration for services performed by the partner acting other than in his capacity as a member of the partnership.

The imputed transfer (amount of money treated as transferred) by the lender to the borrower is compensation. For purposes of this section, the term "in connection with the performance of services" has the same meaning as the term has for purposes of section 83. A loan from a qualified pension, profit-sharing, or stock bonus plan to a participant of the plan is not, directly or indirectly, a compensation-related loan.

(2) Loan in part in exchange for services. Except as provided in paragraph (d)(2) of this section (relating to a loan from a corporation to an employee who is also a shareholder of the corporation), a loan which is made in part in exchange for services and in part for other reasons is treated as a compensation-related loan for purposes of section 7872(c)(3) only if more than 25 percent of the amount loaned is attributable to the performance of services. If 25 percent or less of the amount loaned is attributable to the performance of services, the loan is not subject to section 7872 by reason of being a compensation-related loan. The loan may, however, be subject to section 7872 by reason of being a below-market loan characterized other than as a compensation-related loan (e.g., corporation-shareholder loan or tax avoidance loan). If—

(i) a loan is characterized as a "compensation-related" loan under this paragraph (c),

(ii) less than 100 percent of the amount loaned is attributable to the performance of services, and

(iii) the portion of the amount loaned that is not attributable to the performance of services is not subject to section 7872, then the amounts of imputed transfer (as defined in §1.7872-1(a)(2)) and imputed interest (as defined in §1.7872-1(a)) are determined only with respect to that part of the loan which is attributable to services. All of the facts and circumstances surrounding the loan agreement and the relationship between the lender and the borrower are taken into account in determining the portion of the loan made in exchange for services.

(3) Third-party lender as agent. A below-market loan by an unrelated third-party lender to an employee is treated as attributable to the performance of services if, taking into account all the facts and circumstances, the transaction is in substance a loan by the employer made with the aid of a third-party lender acting as an agent of the employer. Among the facts and circumstances which indicate whether such a loan has been made is whether the employer bears the risk of default at and immediately after the time the loan is made. The principles of this paragraph (c)(3) also apply with respect to a below-market loan by an unrelated third-party lender to an independent contractor.

(4) Special rule for continuing care facilities. Any loan to a continuing care facility will not be treated, in whole or in part, as a compensation-related loan.

(5) Cross-references. For a special rule in the case of a below-market loan that could be characterized as both a compensation-related loan and a corporation-shareholder loan, see paragraph (d)(2) of this section. See paragraph (g) of this section for rules with respect to below-market loans which are indirectly compensation-related loans.

(d) Corporation-shareholder loans—(1) In general. A below-market loan is a corporation-shareholder loan if the loan is made directly or indirectly between a corporation and any shareholder of the corporation. The amount of money treated as transferred by the lender to the borrower is a distribution of money (characterized according to section 301 or in the case of an S corporation, section 1368) if the corporation is the lender, or a contribution to capital if the shareholder is the lender.

(2) Special rule. A below-market loan—

(i) from a publicly held corporation to an employee of the corporation who is also a shareholder owning directly or indirectly more than 0.5 percent of the total voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or more than 0.5 percent of the total value of shares of all other classes of stock or 0.5 percent of the total value of shares of all classes of stock (including voting stock) of the corporation; or

(ii) from a corporation that is not a publicly held corporation to an employee of the corporation who is also a shareholder owning directly or indirectly more than 5 percent of the total voting power of all classes of stock entitled to vote or more than 5 percent of the total number of shares of all other classes of stock or 5 percent of the total value of shares of all classes of stock (including voting stock) of the corporation; will be presumed to be a corporation-shareholder loan, in the absence of clear and convincing evidence that the loan is made solely in connection with the performance of services. For purposes of determining the percentage of direct and indirect stock ownership, the constructive ownership rules of section 267(c) apply.

(3) Cross-reference. See paragraph (g) of this section for rules with respect to below-market loans which are indirectly corporation-shareholder loans.

(e) Tax avoidance loans. A tax avoidance loan is any below-market loan one of the principal purposes for the interest arrangements of which is the avoidance of Federal tax with respect to either the borrower or the lender, or both. For purposes of this rule, tax avoidance is a principal purpose of the interest arrangements if a principal factor in the decision to structure the transaction as a below-market loan (rather than, for example, as a market interest rate loan and a payment by the lender to the borrower) is to reduce the Federal tax liability of the borrower or the lender or both. The purpose for entering into the transaction (for example, to a make a gift or to pay compensation) is irrelevant in determining whether a principal purpose of the interest arrangements of the loan is the avoidance of Federal tax.

(f) Certain below-market loans with significant effect on tax liability ("significant-effect" loans)—[RESERVED].

(g) Indirect loans—(1) In general. If a below-market loan is made between two persons and, based on all the facts and circumstances, the effect of the loan is to make a gift or a capital contribution or a distribution of money (under section 301 or in the case of an S corporation, section 1368), or to pay compensation to a third person ("indirect participant"), or is otherwise attributable to the relationship of the lender or borrower to the indirect participant, the loan is restructured as two or more successive below-market loans ("deemed loans") for purposes of section 7872, as follows:

(i) A deemed below-market loan made by the named lender to the indirect participant; and

(ii) A deemed below-market loan made by the indirect participant to the borrower.

Section 7872 is applied separetely to each deemed loan, and each deemed loan is treated as having the same provisions as the original loan between the lender and the borrower. Thus, for example, if a father makes an interest-free loan to his daughter's corporation, the loan is restructured as a below-market loan from father to daughter (deemed gift loan) and a second below-market loan from daughter to corporation (deemed corporation-shareholder loan). Similarly, if a corporation makes an interest-free loan to another commonly controlled corporation, the loan is restructured as a below-market loan from the lending corporation to the common parent corporation and a second below-market loan from the parent corporation to the borrowing corporation.

(2) Special rule for intermediaries. If a lender and a borrower use another person, such as an individual, a trust, a partnership, or a corporation, as an intermediary or middleman in a loan transaction and a purpose for such use is to avoid the application of section 7872(c)(1)(A), (B), or (C), the intermediary will be ignored and the loan will be treated as made directly between the lender and the borrower. Thus, for example, if a father and a son arrange their below-market loan transaction by having the father make a below-market loan to the father's partnership, followed by a second below-market loan (with substantially identical terms and conditions as the first loan) made by the partnership to the son, the two below-market loans will be restructured as one below-market loan from the father to the son.

§1.7872-5 Exempted loans.

(a) In general—(1) General rule. Except as provided in paragraph (a)(2) of this section, notwithstanding any other provision of section 7872 and the regulations thereunder, section 7872 does not apply to the loans listed in paragraph (b) of this section because the interest arrangements do not have a significant effect on the Federal tax liability of the borrower or the lender.

(2) No exemption for tax avoidance loans. If a taxpayer structures a transaction to be a loan described in paragraph (b) of this section and one of the principal purposes of so structuring the transaction is the avoidance of Federal tax, then the transaction will be recharacterized as a tax avoidance loan as defined in section 7872(c)(1)(D).

(b) List of exemptions. Except as provided in paragraph (a) of this section, the following transactions are exempt from section 7872:

(1) Loans which are made available by the lender to the general public on the same terms and conditions and which are consistent with the lender's customary business practices;

(2) Accounts or withdrawable shares with a bank (as defined in section 581), or an institution to which section 591 applies, or a credit union, made in the ordinary course of its business;

(3) Acquisitions of publicly traded debt obligations for an amount equal to the public trading price at the time of acquisition.

(4) Loans made by a life insurance company (as defined in section 816(a)), in the ordinary course of its business, to an insured, under a loan right contained in a life insurance policy and in which the cash surrender values are used as collateral for the loans;

(5) Loans subsidized by the Federal, State (including the District of Columbia), or Municipal government (or any agency or instrumentality thereof), and which are made available under a program of general application to the public;

(6) Employee-relocation loans that meet the requirements of paragraph (c)(1) of this section;

(7) Obligations the interest on which is excluded from gross income under section 103;

(8) Obligations of the United States government;

(9) Loans to a charitable organization (described in section 170(c)), but only if at no time during the taxable year will the aggregate outstanding amount of loans by the lender to all such organizations exceed $10,000;

(10) Loans made to or from a foreign person that meet the requirements of paragraph (c)(2) of this section;

(11) Loans made by a private foundation or other organization described in section 170(c), the primary purpose of which is to accomplish one or more of the purposes described in section 170(c)(2)(B);

(12) Loans made prior to July 1, 1986, to the extent excepted from the application of section 482 for the 6-month (or longer) period referred to in §1.482-2 (a)(3);

(13) for periods prior to July 1, 1986, all money, securities, and property received by a futures commission merchant or by a clearing organization (i) to margin, guarantee or secure contracts for future delivery on or subject to the rules of a qualified board or exchange (as defined in section 1256(g)(7)), or (ii) to purchase, margin, guarantee or secure options contracts traded on or subject to the rules of a qualified board or exchange, and all money accruing to account holders as the result of such futures and options contracts;

(14) Loans where the taxpayer can show that the below market interest arrangements have no significant effect on any Federal tax liability of the lender or the borrower, as described in paragraph (c)(3) of this section; and

(15) Loans, described in revenue rulings or revenue procedures issued under section 7872(g)(1)(C), if the Commissioner finds that the factors justifying an exemption for such loans are sufficiently similar to the factors justifying the exemptions contained in this section.

(c) Special rules—(1) Employee-relocation loans—(i) Mortgage loans. In the case of a compensation-related loan to an employee, where such loan is secured by a mortagage on the new principal residence (within the meaning of section 217 and the regulations thereunder) of the employee, acquired in connection with the transfer of that employee to a new principal place of work (which meets the requirements in section 217(c) and the regulations thereunder), the loan will be exempt from section 7872 if the following conditions are satisfied:

(A) The loan is a demand loan or is a term loan the benefits of the interest arrangements of which are not transferable by the employee and are conditioned on the future performance of substantial services by the employee;

(B) The employee certifies to the employer that the employee reasonably expects to be entitled to and will itemize deductions for each year the loan is outstanding; and

(C) The loan agreement requires that the loan proceeds be used only to purchase the new principal residence of the employee.

(ii) Bridge loans. If the case of a compensation-related loan to an employee which is not described in paragraph (c)(1)(i) of this section, and which is used to purchase a new principal residence (within the meaning of section 217 and the regulations thereunder) of the employee acquired in connection with the transfer of that employee to a new principal place of work (which meets the requirements in section 217(c) and the regulations thereunder), the loan will be exempt from section 7872 if the following conditions are satisfied:

(A) The conditions contained in paragraphs (c)(1)(i)(A), (B), and (C) of this section;

(B) The loan agreement provides that the loan is payable in full within 15 days after the date of the sale of the employee's immediately former principal residence;

(C) The aggregate principal amount of all outstanding loans described in this paragraph (c)(1)(ii) to an employee is no greater than the employer's reasonable estimate of the amount of the equity of the employee and the employee's spouse in the employee's immediately former principal residence, and

(D) The employee's immediately former principal residence is not converted to business or investment use.

(2) Below-market loans involving foreign persons—(i) Section 7872 shall not apply to a below-market loan (other than a compensation-related loan or a corporation-shareholder loan where the borrower is a shareholder that is not a C corporation as defined in section 1361(a)(2)) if the lender is a foreign person and the borrower is a U.S. person, unless the interest income imputed to the foreign lender (without regard to this paragraph) would be effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business within the meaning of section 864(c) and the regulations thereunder and not exempt from U.S. income taxation under an applicable income tax treaty.

(ii) Section 7872 shall not apply to a below-market loan where both the lender and the borrower are foreign persons unless the interest income imputed to the lender (without regard to this paragraph) would be effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business within the meaning of section 864(c) and the regulations thereunder and not exempt from U.S. income taxation under an applicable income tax treaty.

(iii) For purposes of this section, the term "foreign person" means any person that is not a U.S. person.

(3) Loans without significant tax effect. Whether a loan will be considered to be a loan the interest arrangements of which have a significant effect on any Federal tax liability of the lender or the borrower will be determined according to all of the facts and circumstances. Among the factors to be considered are—

(i) whether items of income and deduction generated by the loan offset each other;

(ii) the amount of such items;

(iii) the cost to the taxpayer of complying with the provisions of section 7872 if such section were applied, and

(iv) any non-tax reasons for deciding to structure the transaction as a below-market loan rather than a loan with interest at a rate equal to or greater than the applicable Federal rate and a payment by the lender to the borrower.

§1.7872-6 Timing and amount of transfers in connection with gift loans and demand loans

(a) In general. Section 7872(a) and the provisions of this section govern the timing and the amount of the imputed transfer by the lender to the borrower and the imputed interest payment by the borrower to the lender in the case of a below-market demand loan. Section 7872(a) and this section also govern the timing and the amount of the imputed transfer by the lender to the borrower and the imputed interest payment by the borrower to the lender for income tax purposes in the case of term gift loans. (See section 7872(b), 7872(d)(2), and §1.7872-7 for rules governing the timing and the amount of the imputed transfer by the lender to the borrower in the case of term gift loans for gift tax puirposes.) Section 7872 (d)(1) and §1.7872-8 limit the amount of the imputed interest payment with respect to certain gift loans. See §1.7872-10(a) for rules for distinguishing demand loans from term loans. See 1.7872-11(f) for special rules governing loans repayable in foreign curency, which apply notwithstanding any contrary rules set forth in this section.

(b) Time of transfer—(1) In general. Except as otherwise provided in paragraphs (b)(3), (4), and (5) of this section, the foregone interest (as defined in section 7872(e)(2) and paragraph (c) of this section) attributable to periods during any calendar year iis treated as trasferred by the lender to the borrower (and retransfered by the borrower to the lender) on December 31 of that calendar year and shall be treated for tax purposes in a manner consistent with the taxpayer's method of accounting.

(2) Example. Paragraph (b)(1) of this section may be illustrated by the following example.

Example. On January 1, 1985, E makes a $200,000 interest-free demand loan to F, an employee of E. The loan remains outstanding for the entire 1985 calendar year. E has a taxable year ending September 30. F is a calendar year taxpayer. For 1985, the imputed compensation payment and the imputed interest payment (as computed under paragraph (c) of this section) are treated as made on December 31.

(3) Gift loans between natural persons. In the case of gift loans directly between natural persons within the meaning of §1.7872-8(a)(2), any imputed transfer and any imputed interest payment to which this section applies during the borrower's taxable year is treated, for both the lender and the borrower, as occurring on the last day of the borrower's taxable year.

(4) Death, liquidation or termination of borrower. If the borrower dies (in the case of a borrower who is a natural person) or is liquidated or otherwise terminated (in the case of a borrower other than a natural person) any imputed transfer and any imputed interest payment arising during the borrower's final taxable year are treated, for both the lender and the borrower as occurring on the last day of the borrower's final taxable year.

(5) Repayment of loan. If a below-market loan is repaid, any imputed transfer and any imputed interest payment arising during the borrower's taxable year which includes the date of repayment is treated, for both the lender and the borrower, as occurring on the day the loan is repaid.

(c) Amount of transfer In the case of a below-market loan to which section 7872 applies and which is a demand loan (including a term loan that is treated as a demand loan as provided in section §1.7872-10(a)(5)) or a gift term loan, the foregone interest (as computed under the provisions of §1.7872-13) with respect to the loan is treated as transferred by the lender to the borrower and retransferred as interest by the borrower to the lender. Generally, for any calendar year the term "foregone interest" means the excess of—

(1) The amount of interest that would have been payable in that year if interest had accrued at the applicable Federal rate (as determined in §1.7872-13); over

(2) Any interest payable on the loan properly allocable to that year.

The amount of foregone interest is computed for each day during the period for which section 7872(a) applies to the loan and is treated as transferred and retransferred on the date specified in paragraph (b) of this section.

§1.7872-7 Timing and amount of transfers in connection with below-market term loans.

(a) In General. This section governs the Federal income tax consequences of below-market term loans, other than gift term loans or term loans treated as demand loans under the provisions of §1.7872-10(a)(5), to which section 7872 applies. It also governs the Federal gift tax consequences of below-market gift term loans. See §1.7872-11(f) for special rules which govern loans repayable in foreign currency and which apply notwithstanding any contrary rules set forth in this section.

(1) Timing and amount of transfer from lender to borrower. In the case of term loans to which this section applies, the amount of the imputed transfer by the lender to the borrower—

(i) is treated as transferred at the time the loan is made and is treated for tax purposes in a manner consistent with the taxpayer's method of accounting; and

(ii) Is equal to the excess of—

(A) The amount loaned (as defined in paragraph (a)(4) of this section); over

(B) The present value (as determined in paragraph (a)(5) of this section and §1.7872-14) of all payments which are required to be made under the terms of the loan agreement, whether express or implied.

(2) Gift term loans. In the case of a gift term loan, the rules of paragraph (a)(1) of this section apply for gift tax purposes only. For rules governing the income tax consequences of gift term loans, see §1.7872-6.

(3) Treatment of amount equal to imputed transfer as original issue discount—(i) In general. Any below-market loan to which paragraph (a)(1) of this section applies shall be treated as having original issue discount in an amount equal to the amount of the imputed transfer determined under paragraph (a)(1) of this section. This imputed original issue discount is in addition to any other original issue discount on the loan (determined without regard to section 7872(b) or this paragraph). For purposes of applying section 1272 to a loan described in this paragraph, the issue price shall be treated as equal to the stated principal reduced by the amount of the imputed transfer and the yield to maturity is the applicable Federal rate.

(ii) Example. The provisions of this paragraph (a)(3) may be illustrated by the following example.

Example. (i) On June 10, 1984, L lends $45,000 to B, a corporation in which L is a shareholder, for five years in exchange for a $50,000 note bearing interest at a below-market rate. Assume that the present value of all payments that B must make to L is $42,000. This loan is a corporation-shareholder term loan under section 7872(c)(1)(C). Accordingly, the amount of the imputed transfer by L to B is determined under the provisions of section 7872(b).

(ii) On June 10, 1984, L is treated as transferring $3,000 (the excess of $45,000 (amount loaned) over $42,000 (present value of all payments)), in accordance with section 7872(b)(1). This imputed transfer is treated as a contribution to B's capital by L. An amount equal to the imputed transfer is treated as original issue discount. This original issue discount is in addition to the $5,000 ($50,000, the stated redemption price, less $45,000, the issue price) of original issue discount othewise determined under section 1273. As a result, the loan is treated as having a total of $8,000 of original issue discount.

(4) Amount loaned. The term "amount loaned" means the amount received by the borrower (determined without regard to section 7872). See §1.7872-2(a)(3) for the treatment of the transfer of the loan proceeds to the borrower in installments or subject to draw-down restrictions.

(5) Present value. The present value of all payments which are required to be made under the provisions of the loan agreement is computed as of the date the loan is made (or, if later, as of the day the loan first becomes subject to the provisions of section 7872). The discount rate for the present value computation is the applicable Federal rate as defined in §1.7872-3(b) in effect on the day on which the loan is made. For rules governing the computation of present value, see §1.7872-14. See also Example (3) in §1.7872-8(b)(5).

(6) Basis. In the case of a term loan the lender's basis in the note received in exchange for lending money is equal to the present value of all payments which are required to be made under the terms of the loan agreement, whether express or implied, with adjustments as provided for in section 1272(d)(2).

(b) Special rule for the de minimis provisions—(1) In general. If as a result of the application of the de minimis provisions of section 7872(c)(2) or (3), a loan becomes subject to section 7872 and this section on a day after the day on which the loan is made, the provisions of this section generally apply to the loan as if the loan were made on that later day. The applicable Federal rate applied to this loan (including for purposes of computing the present value of the loan), however, is the applicable Federal rate (as defined in §1.7872-3(b)) in effect on the day on which the loan is first made. The present value computation described in paragraph (a)(1)(ii)(B) of this section is made as of the day on which section 7872 and this section first apply to the loan. For purposes of making this computation, the term of the loan is equal to the period beginning on the day that section 7872 first applies to the loan and ending on the day on which the loan is to be repaid according to the loan agreement. Any payments payable according to the loan agreement before the day on which section 7872 and this section first apply to the loans are disregarded.

(2) Continuing application of section 7872. Once section 7872 and this section apply to a term loan, they continue to apply to the loan regardless of whether the de minimis provisions of section 7872(c)(2) or (3) apply at some later date. In the case of a gift term loan, this paragraph applies only for gift tax purposes and does not apply for income tax purposes.

§1.7872-8 Special rules for gift loans directly between natural persons

(a) Special rules for gift loans directly between natural persons—(1) In general. Section 7872(c)(2) and (d) apply special rules to gift loans directly between natural persons if the aggregate outstanding amount of loans (as determined in paragraph (b)(2) of this section) between those natural persons does not exceed specified limitations.

(2) Loans directly between natural persons—(i) For purposes of this section, a loan is made directly between natural persons only if both the lender and borrower are natural persons. For this purpose, a loan by a natural person lender to the guardian (or custodian, in the case of a gift made pursuant to the Uniform Gift to Minors Act) of a natural person is treated as a loan directly between natural persons. If, however, a parent lends money to a trust of which the child is the sole beneficiary, the loan is not treated as directly between natural persons for purposes of this section.

(ii) A gift loan which results from restructuring an indirect loan as two or more loans (as described in §1.7872-4(g)) and in which natural persons are deemed to be the lender and the borrower is treated as a loan directly between natural persons. Thus, for example, if an employer makes a below-market loan to an employee's child, the loan is restructured as one loan from the employer to the employee, and a second loan from the employee to his child. The deemed gift loan between the employee and the employee's child is treated as directly between natural persons.

(b) De minimis exception—(1) In general. Except as otherwise provided in paragraph (b)(3) of this section or in §1.7872-7(a) (with respect to the gift tax consequences of a gift term loan to which the provisions of section 7872 have already been applied), in the case of any gift loan directly between natural persons, the provisions of section 7872 do not apply to any loan outstanding on any day on which the aggregate outstanding amount of loans between the lender and borrower does not exceed $10,000. The de minimis rule of this paragraph (b)(1) applies with respect to a gift loan even though that loan could also be characterized as a tax avoidance loan within the meaning of section 7872(c)(1)(D) and §1.7872-4(e).

(2) Aggregate outstanding amount of loans. The aggregate outstanding amount of loans between natural persons is the sum of the principal amounts of outstanding loans directly between the individuals, regardless of the character of the loans, regardless of the interest rate charged on the loans, and regardless of the date on which the loans were made. For this purpose, the principal amount of a loan which is also subject to section 1272 (without applying the limitation of section 1273(a)(3)) is the "adjusted issue price" as that term is defined in section 1272(a)(4). See §1.7872-7(a)(3)(i) for the determination of the issue price of a loan which is also subject to section 1272.

(3) Loans attributable to acquisition or carrying of income-producing assets. The de minimis exception described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section does not apply to any gift loan directly attributable to the purchase or carrying of income-producing assets. A gift loan is directly attributable to the purchase or carrying of income-producing assets, for example, if the loan proceeds are directly traceable to the purchase of the income-producing assets, the assets are used as collateral for the loan, or there is direct evidence that the loan was made to avoid disposition of the assets.

(4) Income-producing assets. For purposes of this paragraph 9b), the term "income-producing asset" means (i) an asset of a type that generates ordinary income, or, (ii) a market discount bond issued before July 19, 1984. Accordingly, an income producing asset includes, but is not limited to, a business, a certificate of deposit, a savings account, stock (whether or not dividends are paid), bonds and rental property.

(5) Examples. The provisions of this paragraph (b) may be illustrated by the following examples.

Example (1). (i) As of January 1, 1985, the total aggregate outstanding amount of loans by Parent P, to child, C, is $6,000. None of these loans is a below-market loan. On February 1, 1985, P makes a $3,000 below-market demand loan to C. On March 1, 1985, P makes a $2,000 below-market demand loan to C. On November 1, 1985, C repays $1,500 of principal of the market-rate loans to P; all of the other loans remain outstanding as of December 31, 1985. The below-market loans are gift loans and are the only new loans between P and C for calendar year 1985.

(ii) For the periods January 1, 1985, through February 28, 1985, and November 1, 1985, through December 31, 1985, section 7872 does not apply to the loans between P and C because the outstanding loan balance between P and C does not exceed $10,000 during these periods. For the period beginning on March 1, 1985, and ending on October 31, 1985, however, the aggregate outstanding amount of loans directly between P and C exceeds $10,000. Accordingly, the provisions of section 7872(a) apply to the $3,000 gift loan and $2,000 gift loan during that period.

Example (2). (i) Assume the same facts as in Example (1) except that the $2,000 gift loan made on March 1, 1985, is a term loan for a period of five years. The Federal gift tax and income tax consequences of the $3,000 gift demand loan made on February 1, 1985, are the same as in Example (1).

(ii) With respect to the $2,000 gift term loan, section 7872(b)(1) applies beginning on March 1, 1985, for purposes of computing the amount of the imputed gift by P to C. For the period beginning on March 1, 1985, and ending on October 31, 1985, section 7872(a) applies to the $2,000 gift term loan for purposes of determining the amount and the timing of the imputed interest payment by C to P. For the two-month period beginning on November 1, 1985, section 7872(a) does not apply to the $2,000 loan for Federal income tax purposes because the outstanding loan balance between P and C does not exceed $10,000 during this period.

Example (3). (i) Assume the same facts as in Example (1) except that the $3,000 gift loan made on February 1, 1985, is a term loan for a period of five years. The Federal gift tax and income tax consequences of the $2,000 demand gift loan made on March 1, 1985, are identical to those in Example (1).

(ii) On February 1, 1985, section 7872 does not apply to the $3,000 loan because the outstanding loan balance between P and C does not exceed $10,000. On March 1, 1985, however, the aggregate outstanding amount of loans between P and C exceeds $10,000. For Federal gift tax purposes, § 7872(b)(1) applies to the $3,000 loan beginning on March 1, 1985. Under §1.7872-7(b), the provisions of section 7872 apply to the $3,000 loan for gift and income tax purposes as if the loan had been made on March 1, 1985. See §1.7872-7(a)(5) for special rules for computing the present value of payments due on the loan. For the eight-month period beginning on March 1, 1985, section 7872(a) applies to the $3,000 loan for purposes of determining the imputed interest payment by C to P. For the two-month period beginning on November 1, 1985, section 7872(a) does not apply to the $3,000 loan for Federal income tax purposes because of the application of the de minimis provisions.

Example (4). On June 10, 1984, parent, L, makes an $8,000 interest-free gift term loan to L's child, B. This is the only loan outstanding between L and B during 1984. On June 11, 1984, B invests the $8,000 in corporate stock. The $10,000 de minimis provision does not apply to the loan, because the loan proceeds are directly attributable to the purchase of corporate stock, an income-producing asset.

(c) Limitation on amount of imputed interest payment—(1) In general. In the case of a loan between a borrower and a lender both of whom are natural persons (within the meaning of paragraph (a)(2) of this section), for all days during the borrower's taxable year on which the aggregate outstanding amount of loans (within the meaning of paragraph (b)(2) of this section) between the borrower and the lender, is $100,000 or less, the amount of the imputed interest payment by the borrower to the lender with respect to any gift loan is limited to the borrower's net investment income (as determined under paragraph (c)(7) of this section) for the taxable year. This paragraph (c) does not affect the gift tax consequences of any loan under section 7872.

(2) Tax avoidance loan. Paragraph (c)(1) of this section does not apply to any loan which is a tax avoidance loan within the meaning of §1.7872-4(e).

(3) No limitation if investment income is manipulated. Paragraph (c)(1) of this section does not apply if a borrower can control the timing of the receipt of investment income and actually does manipulate the timing to accelerate or defer the receipt of investment income. For example, if the borrower can, and actually does, control the timing of dividends paid by a closely held corporation, the limitation on the amount of the imputed interest payment does not apply.

(4) Net investment income of $1,000 or less disregarded. If paragraph (c)(1) of this section applies and if the borrower's net investment income (as determined under paragraph (c)(7) of this section) for a taxable year is $1,000 or less, the borrower's net investment income for that year is deemed to be zero for purposes of this paragraph (c).

(5) No proration of net investment income. The entire amount of the borrower's net investment income for a taxable year (as determined under paragraph (c)(7) of this section) is taken into account in determining the maximum imputed interest payment for those days during the year on which the net investment income limitation applies. Accordingly, the amount of net investment income is not allocated among the days of the borrower's taxable year. Further, for a taxable year of a borrower which ends after June 6, 1984, and includes any day or days before June 7, 1984, the entire amount of net investment income for the taxable year is taken into account in determining the maximum imputed interest payment for the days during that year on which the limitation applies.

(6) Allocation among gift loans. In the case of a borrower who has more than one gift loan outstanding during a taxable year, the borrower's net investment income for that year is allocated among the gift loans in proportion to the respective amounts which would be treated as imputed interest payments by the borrower to the lender or lenders with respect to those loans without regard to this paragraph (c). (See Example (2) of paragraph (c)(9) of this section.) No amount of the net investment income is allocable to any gift loan between the lender and the borrower for periods during which the aggregate outstanding amount of loans (within the meaning of paragraph (b)(2) of this section) between the borrower and that lender exceeds $100,000.

(7) Amounts included in net investment income. For purposes of section 7872, net investment income for a taxable year equals the sum of—

(i) Net investment income for that year as determined under section 163(d)(3), excluding any item of income on a deferred payment obligation which is treated under section 7872(d)(1)(E)(iii) and paragraph (c)(7)(ii) of this section as interest received in a prior taxable year ending after June 6, 1984, and

(ii) The amount that is treated under section 7872(d)(1)(E)(iii) as interest received for that year on a deferred payment obligation.

(8) Deferred payment obligation. The term "deferred payment obligation" means a market discount bond issued before July 18, 1984, or an obligation that, if held to maturity, would produce a predictable and regular flow of ordinary income which, under applicable tax rules, is not recognized until a subsequent period. Accordingly, deferred payment obligations include, but are not limited to, those obligations listed in section 7872(d)(1)(E)(iv).

(9) Examples. The provisions of this paragraph (c) may be illustrated by the following examples.

Example (1). On January 1, 1985, parent P makes a $50,000 below-market gift loan to C, P's child, who uses the calendar year as the taxable year. On March 1, 1985, P makes an additional $75,000 market-rate loan to C. On October 1, 1985, C repays $30,000 of the market-rate loan. Assume that C's net investment income (as determined under paragraph (c)(7) of this section) for 1984 is $2,400. The limitation under section 7872(d)(1) on the amount of imputed interest payment applies to the $50,000 loan for the two-month period beginning on January 1, 1985, and the three-month period beginning on October 1, 1985. ACcordingly, the imputed interest payment on the $50,000 loan for 1985 may not exceed $2,400.

Example (2). During 1985, natural person borrower B has three gift loans outstanding, each from a different lender. Each loan is eligible for the entire year for the special limitation on the amount of imputed interest payments under section 7872(d)(1) but none of the loans is eligible for the de minimis exception of paragraph (b) of this section. B's net investment income for 1985 is $6,000. The aggregate imputed interest payments on these loans (determined without regard to section 7872(d)(1)) would be $9,000. The amount of imputed interest payment attributable to each loan after application of section 7872(d)(1) is computed as follows:

Loan	Imputed interest payments (before application of section 7872(d)(1)		Relative share of net investment income (imputed interest payment after application of section 7872(d)(1))
1	$3,000	$2,000	($6,000 × $3,000/$9,000)
2	4,000	2,667	(6,000 × 4,000/ 9,000)
3	2,000	1,333	(6,000 × 2,000/ 9,000)
Total	$9,000	$6,000

Consequently, the imputed interest payment to lender 1 cannot exceed $2,000; the imputed interest payment to lender 2 cannot exceed $2,667; and, the imputed interest payment to lender 3 cannot exceed $1,333.

§12.7872-9 De minimis exception for compensation-related or corporation-shareholder loans.

(a) In general. In the case of any demand loan described in section 7872(c)(1)(B) or (C), the provisions of section 7872 do not apply to any day on which the aggregate outstanding amount of loans between the lender and the borrower does not exceed $10,000. In the case of any term loan described in section 7872(c)(1)(B) or (C) (relating to the de minimis rules), the provisions of section 7872 apply to the loan as of the first day on which the aggregate outstanding amount of loans between the lender and the borrower exceeds $10,000. Once section 7872 applies to a term loan, section 7872 continues to apply to the loan regardless of whether the $10,000 limitation applies at some later date.

(b) Aggregate outstanding amount of loans. The aggregate outstanding amount of loans between the lender and the borrower is the sum of the principal amounts of outstanding loans directly between the parties, regardless of the character of the loans, regardless of the interest rate charged on the loans, and regardless of the date on which the loans were made. For this purpose, the principal amount of a loan which is also subject to section 1272 (without applying the limitation of section 1273(a)(3)) is the "adjusted issue price" as that term is defined in section 12272(a)(4). See §1.7872-7(a)(3)(i) for the determination of the issue price of a loan which is also subject to section 7872.

(c) Tax avoidance loan. This section does not apply to any loan which is a tax avoidance loan within the meaning of §1.7872-4(e).

(d) Example. The provisions of this section may be illustrated by the following example:

Example. (i) On January 1, 1985, L made a $4,000 four-year term loan to B, a corporation in which L is a shareholder. On October 15, 1986, L made a $7,000 five-year term loan to B. Both loans are interest-free and are payable on the last day of the loan term. There are no other outstanding loans between L and B. Neither loan is a tax avoidance loan.

(ii) For the period beginning on January 1, 1985 and ending on October 14, 1986, the provisions of section 7872 do not apply to the $4,000 loan because the outstanding loan balance between L and B does not exceed $10,000. On October 15, 1986, however, the aggregate amount of loans between L and B exceeds $10,000. Accordingly, the provisions of section 7872(b) apply to both loans. See §1.7872-4(d) for the proper Federal tax treatment of the imputed transfer by L to B. For purposes of computing the present value of all payments to be made under the loan agreements, the applicable Federal rate for the $4,000 loan is the applicable Federal rate in effect on January 1, 1985, for loans with a term of 4 years, (even though less than three years remain before the loan ends). Under §1.7872-7(b), the present value of the payment to be made under the $4,000 loan agreement is determined as of October 15, 1986 (the date on which section 7872 first applies to the $4,000 loan) for a loan with a term which begins on October 15, 1986, and ends on January 1, 1989.

§1.7872-10 Other definitions.

(a) "Term" and "demand" loans distinguished. For purposes of section 7872—

(1) Demand loan. Any loan which is payable in full at any time on the demand of the lender (or within a reasonable time after the lender's demand), is a "demand loan."

(2) Term loan. A loan is treated as a "term loan" if the loan agreement specifies an ascertainable period of time during which the loan is to be outstanding. For purposes of this rule, a period of time is treated as being ascertainable if the period may be determined actuarially. Thus, a loan agreement which provides that D loans E $16,000 for E's life, will be treated as a term loan because the life expectancy of E may be determined actuarially.

(3) Acceleration and extension clauses. Acceleration clauses and similar provisions that would make a loan due before the time otherwise specified including provisions permitting prepayment of a loan or accelerating the maturity date on disposition of collateral ("due on sale" clauses) are disregarded for purposes of section 7872. Thus, a loan for a term of 15 years is a term loan for 15 years even if it is subject to acceleration upon some action of the borrower. If the loan agreement specifies an ascertainable period of time during which the loan is to be outstanding but contains an extension clause or similar provision that would make the loan due after the time otherwise specified, the loan is a term loan during the ascertainable period and a second demand or term loan thereafter; the classification of the second loan as term or demand depends upon the terms of the extension clause.

(4) Loans for a period of time not ascertainable. [Reserved]

(5) Certain loans conditioned on future services. For all purposes of section 7872 other than determining the applicable Federal rate (see, §1.7872-3(b)), if the benefits of the interest arrangements of a term loan are not transferable by the individual borrower and are conditioned on the future performance of substantial services by the individual borrower (within the meaning of section 83), the loan is treated as a demand loan. All facts and circumstances must be examined to determine whether the future services to be performed are substantial.

(6) Revolving credit loans. For purposes of section 7872, an extension of credit by reason of the use of a credit card that is available to a broad segment of the general public is treated as a demand loan, and the provisions of section 7872 may apply if the loan is described in one of the categories set forth in §1.7872-4. The period during which the loan is outstanding begins on the first day on which a finance charge would be assessed if payment of the outstanding balance is not made. For rules governing the computation of foregone interest for demand loans with variable balances, see §1.7872-13(c).

(b) [Reserved for further definitions as needed]

§1.7872-11 Special rules

(a) Waiver, cancellation or forgiveness of interest payments. If a loan is made requiring the payment of stated interest and the accrued but unpaid interest is subsequently waived, cancelled, or forgiven by the lender, such waiver, cancellation, or forgiveness is treated as if the interest had in fact been paid to the lender and then retransferred by the lender to the borrower but only if—

(1) the loan initially would have been subject to section 7872 had it been made without interest;

(2) the waiver, cancellation or forgiveness does not include in substantial part the loan principal; and

(3) a principal purpose of the waiver, cancellation, or forgiveness is to confer a benefit on the borrower, such as to pay compensation or make a gift, a capital contribution, a distribution of money under section 301, or a similar payment to the borrower.

The retransferred amount is characterized for Federal tax purposes in accordance with the substance of the transaction. The requisite purpose described in paragraph (a)(iii) of this section is presumed in the case of loans between family members, corporations and shareholders, employers and employees, or an independent contractor and a person for whom such independent contractor provides services unless the taxpayer can show by clear and convincing evidence that the interest obligation was waived, cancelled, or forgiven for a legitimate business purpose of the lender who is acting in the capacity as a creditor seeking to maximize satisfaction of a claim, such as in the case of a borrower's insolvency.

(b) Disposition of interest or obligation in loan. [RESERVED]

(c) Husband and wife treated as 1 person. Section 7872(f)(7) provides that a husband and wife shall be treated as 1 person. Accordingly, all loans to or from the husband will be combined with all loans to or from the wife for purposes of applying section 7872. All loans between a husband and a wife are disregarded for purposes of section 7872.

(d) Withholding. In the case of any loan (term or demand) subject to section 7872, no amount is required to be withheld under chapter 24, relating to the collection of income tax at the source on wages and back-up withholding, with respect to any amount treated as transferred or retransferred under section 7872(a) or (b). Withholding is required where appropriate, however, for purposes of chapter 21, relating to the Federal Insurance Contributions Act, and chapter 22, relating to the Railroad Retirement Tax Act, on any amount of money treated as transferred and retransferred between the lender and borrower because of the application of section 7872.

(e) Treatment of renegotiations. [RESERVED]

(f) Loans denominated in foreign currencies—(1) Applicable rate. If a loan is denominated in a currency other than the U.S. dollar, then for purposes of section 7872 and the regulations thereunder, a rate that constitutes a market interest rate in the currency in which the loan is denominated shall be substituted for the applicable Federal rate.

(2) Treatment of imputed transfer as interest—(i) In general. If a loan is denominated in a currency other than the U.S. dollar then, notwithstanding section 7872(a)(1)(B), §1.7872-6, and §1.7872-7, the amount of imputed interest treated as retransferred by the borrower to the lender shall only be treated as interest to the extent consistent with other principles of tax law regarding foreign currency lending transactions and to the extent provided in this paragraph (f)(2).

(ii) Loans denominated in appreciating currencies. [Reserved]

(iii) Loans denominated in depreciating currencies. [Reserved]

(3) Example. The provisions of this paragraph (f)(1) may be illustrated by the following example.

Example. A lends her daughter B the sum of 100,000 foreign currency units, repayable in 5 years with interest payable semiannually at a rate of 12 percent. Assume that the market rate of interest for loans denominated in that foreign currency at the time of the transaction is 30 percent, computed semiannually, and that the current exchange rate is 5 foreign currency units to the dollar. A has made a below-market gift loan to B. The amount of A's gift to B is the excess of 100,000 foreign currency units (or $20,000) over the present value of all payments to be made under the loan, using a discount rate of 30 percent, which is 54,831 foreign units (or $10,966). Thus, the amount of A's gift is $9,034.

(g) Reporting requirements—(1) Lender. A lender must attach a statement to the lender's income tax return for any taxable year in which the lender either has interest imputed under section 7872 or claims a deduction for an amount deemed to be transferred to a borrower under section 7872. The statement must—

(i) Explain that it relates to an amount includible in income or deductible by reason of section 7872,

(ii) Provide the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of each borrower,

(iii) Specify the amount of imputed interest income and the amount and character of any item deductible by reason of section 7872 attributable to each borrower,

(iv) Specify the mathematical assumptions used (e.g., 360 day calendar year, the exact method or the approximate method for computing interest for a short period (see, §1.7872-13)) for computing the amounts imputed under section 7872, and

(v) Include any other information required by the return or the instructions thereto.

(2) Borrower. A borrower must attach a statement to the borrower's income tax return for any taxable year in which the borrower either has income from an imputed transfer under section 7872 or claims a deduction for an amount of interest expense imputed under section 7872. The statement must—

(i) Explain that it relates to an amount includible in income or deductible by reason of section 7872,

(ii) Provide the name, address, and taxpayer identification number of each lender,

(iii) Specify the amount of imputed interest expense and the amount of character of any income inputed under section 7872 attributable to each lender,

(iv) Specify the mathematical assumptions used (e.g., 360 day calendar year, the exact method or the approximate method for computing interest for a short period (see, §1.7872–13)) for computing the amounts imputed under section 7872, and

(v) Include any other information required by the return or the instructions thereto.

(3) Special rule for gift loans. In the case of a gift loan directly between natural persons, the lender must recognize the entire amount of interest income inputed under section 7872 (determined without regard to section 7872(d)(1)) unless the borrower notifies the lender, in a signed statement, of the amount of the borrower's net investment income properly allocable to the loan according to the provisions of section 7872(d)(1) and §1.7872-8(c)(6).

(4) Information and reporting. All amounts inputed under section 7872 (e.g., interest, compensation, gift) are characterized in accordance with the substance of the transaction and, except as otherwise provided in the regulations under section 7872, are treated as so characterized for all purposes of the Code. Accordingly, all applicable information and reporting requirements (e.g., reporting on Form W-2 and Form 1099) must be satisfied.

§1.7872-12 Computational rules to determine sufficient stated interest for short periods.

(a) Scope. This section provides computational rules only for the purpose of determining whether the interest payable on a loan during a short period is sufficient to prevent characterization of a loan as a below-market loan under §1.7872-3. For rules for the calculation of the amount of interest to be imputed on a below-market loan, including rules for short periods, see §1.7872-13 and §1.7872-14.

(b) Short period defined—(1) In general. A short period (as referred to in §1.7872-3(d)) for a loan is any period shorter than the regular compounding period or regular payment interval required under the loan agreement. Generally, a short period will arise at the beginning or the end of a loan (or at the time the loan first become subject to section 7872 because of the application of the de minimis provisions). For example, a loan made on January 17, 1985, and calling for semiannual payments of interest on June 30 and December 31 of each year will have a short period beginning on January 17, 1985, and ending on June 30, 1985.

(2) Special short periods in the case of demand loans. In the case of a demand loan, in addition to any short periods described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section, additional short periods may also arise because of the need to adjust the applicable Federal rate on January 1 and July 1 of each year. This short periods arise in cases when the dates January 1 or July 1 fall within the compounding periods or payment intervals required under the loan agreement. For example, a below market demand loan made on April 1, 1985, that is outstanding throughout 1985 and that calls for semiannual interest payments on September 30 and March 31 of each year will have 3 short periods in 1985. The first short period begins on April 1, 1985, and ends on June 30, 1985. The second short period begins on July 1, 1985, and ends on September 30, 1985. The third short period begins on October 1, 1985, and ends on December 31, 1985.

(c) Interest payable for a short period—(1) Exact method. The smallest amount of interest that must be paid for a short period in order to prevent the loan from being a below-market loan is determined by the exact method. The exact method assumes daily compounding of interest.

(2) Approximate method. The approximate method is also provided for the convenience of taxpayers who do not wish to use the exact method. The approximate method assumes simple interest within any compounding period and will always produce an amount of interest for the short period that is slightly higher than that produced under the exact method. Under this method, a sufficient amount of interest for any short period is determined by multiplying the amount that would constitute sufficient stated interest for a full period for a fraction the numerator of which is equal to the length of the short period and the denominator of which is the length of a full period.

(3) Counting convention. In computing the length of a short period, any reasonable convention may be used. Common conventions are "30 days per month/360 days per year", "actual days per month/actual days per year", and "actual days per month/360 days per year". The examples in the regulations under section 7872 all use the "30 days per month/360 days per year" convention.

(d) Examples. This section may be illustrated by the following examples.

Example (1). On February 1, 1986, A makes a $100,000 loan to B for a term of 4 months. The loan in repaid on May 31, 1986. Assume that the applicable Federal rate on February 1, 1986, for a loan of this term is 10 percent, compounded semiannually. Using the exact method, the amount of interest that must be paid on May 31, 1986, if the loan is not to be a below-market loan is $3,3096.16, calculated as follows:

$$100{,}000 \times [(1 + .10/2^{4/6} - 1] = $3{,}306.16$

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in Example (1). Using the approximate method, a sufficient amount of interest is stated on the loan if $3,333.33 of interest is payable on May 31, 1986, calculated as follows:

$$100{,}000 \times [(.10/2) \times (4/6)] = $3{,}333.33$

§1.7872-13 Computation of foregone interest.

(a) Demand loans outstanding for an entire calendar year—(1) In general. In the case of a below-market demand loan of a fixed principal amount that remains outstanding for an entire calendar year, the amount of foregone interest (as referred to in §1.7872-6(c)) shall be the excess of—

(i) The result produced when the "blended annual rate" is multiplied by the principal amount of the loan, over

(ii) The sum of all amounts payable as interest on the loan properly allocable to the calendar year (including all amounts of original issue discount allocated to that year under section 1272).

The "blended annual rate" will be published annually by the Commissioner and is determined generally by blending the applicable Federal rates for demand loans outstanding for the entire year.

(2) Example. Paragraph (a)(1) may be illustrated by the following example.

Example. On January 1, 1985, A makes a $100,000 demand loan to B with stated interest equal to 9 percent. Interst is payable semiannually on June 30, and December 31. The loan remains outstanding for the entire year. On both June 30, and December 31, 1985, D makes a $4,500 payment of interest to A. Assume that the blended annual rate for 1985 is 10.45 percent. The amount of foregone interest is $1,450, computed as follows:

$10,450 = $100,00 × 10.45 percent
$1,450 = $10,450 − $9,000

(b) Demand loans outstanding for less than an entire calendar year—(1) In general. In the case of any below-market demand loan outstanding for less than the calendar year, the amount of foregone interest shall be the excess of—

(i) 'The amount of interest ("I") which would have been payable on the loan for the year if interest accured on the loan at the applicable Federal rate and were payable on the date specified in section 7872(a)(2) and §1.7872-6(b), over

(ii) The sum of all amounts payable as interest on the loan properly allocable to the calendar year (including all amounts of original issue discount allocated to that year under secion 1272).

In general, "I" is determined by assuming daily compounding of interest. However, individual taxpayers who are parties to below-market loans in the aggregate of $250,000 or less may choose (see, §1.7872-11(g)) to compute and report foregone interest under the approximate method set forth in paragraph (b)(2) of this section. If the taxpayer chooses the approximate method but fails to properly compute the amount of foregone interest under that method, the correct amount of foregone interest will be recomputed under the approximate method.

(2) Approximate method. Under the approximate method, "I" is calculated as follows:

(i) Loan outstanding during one semiannual period only. If a loan is outstanding only during one semiannual period of a calendar year, to determine "I", multiply the principal amount of the loan by one-half the applicable Federal rate based on semiannual compounding in effect for that loan, then multiply the result by a fraction representing the portion of the semiannual period during which the loan was outstanding.

(ii) Example. Paragraph (b)(2)(i) of this section may be illustrated by the following example.

Example. A $200,000 interest-free demand loan is outstanding on January 1, 1986, and is repaid on March 31, 1986. Assume that the applicable Federal rate (based on semiannual compounding) for demand loans made in January 1986, is 10 percent. The amount of interest that would have been payable on the loan for the year if the loan provided for interest at the applicable Federal rate determined under the approximate method is $5,000, computed as follows:

$5,000 = $200,000 × (.10/2) × (3/6)

Because no interest is payable on the loan, this amount is also the amount of foregone interest.

(iii) Loans outstanding during both semiannual periods. If a loan is outstanding for at least part of each semiannual period (but less than the full calendar year), then, under the approximate method, "I" must be calculated in two steps. First, calculate an amount of interest for the first semiannual period by treating the loan as if it were repaid on June 30, using the approach described in paragraph (b)(3)(i) of this section. Second, add this amount of interest to the principal of the loan, and then calculate an amount of interest for the second semiannual period as if the loan of this higher amount were made on July 1, again using the approach described in paragraph (b)(3)(i) of this section. The sum of these two interest amounts is the value for "I" calculated under the approximate method.

(3) Examples. Paragraph (b)(2) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples.

Example (1). On March 1, 1986, A makes a $100,000 interest-free demand loan to B. The loan remains outstanding on December 31, 1986. Assume that the applicable Federal rate for a demand loan made in March 1986, based on semiannual compounding, for the first semiannual period in 1986 is 9.89 percent and that the applicable Federal rate, based on semiannual compounding, for a demand loan outstanding in July 1986 is 10.50 percent. The amount of foregone interest under the exact method is $8,691.76, calculated as follows:

$$$100{,}000 \times [(1 + .0989/2)^{4/6}(1 + .1050/2) - 1] = $8{,}691.76$$

Example (2). (i) Assume the same facts as in Example (1). The amount of foregone interest under the approximate method is $8,719.92, calculated as follows:

(ii) For the short period March 1 to June 30, 1986, the amount of foregone interest is $3,296.67, calculated as follows:

$3,296.67 = $100,000 × (.0989/2) × (4/6)

(iii) For the second semiannual period in 1986, the amount of foregone interest is computed by first adding the interest for the first semiannual period ($3,296.67) to the original principal amount to obtain a new principal amount of $103,296.67. Foregone interest for the second semiannual period is then $5,423.08, computed as follows:

$5,423.08 = $103,296.67 × (.1050/2)

(iv) Using the approximate method, the amount of foregone interest for 1986 is $8,719.75 ($3,296.67 + $5,423.08).

(c) Demand loans with fluctuating loan balances. If a demand loan does not have a constant outstanding principal amount during a period, the amount of foregone interest shall be computed according to the principles set forth in paragraph (b) of this section, with each increase in the outstanding loan balance being treated as a new loan and each decrease being treated as first a repayment of accrued but unpaid interest (if any), and then a repayment of principal.

(d) Examples. This provisions of paragraph (c) of this section may be illustrated by the following examples.

Example (1). (i) On October 1, 1984, C makes a $50,000 interest-free demand loan to D. On October 1, 1985, C makes an additional interest-free demand loan of $25,000 to D. Assume that section 7872 applies to both loans, that the blended annual rate for 1985 is 10.45 percent, and that the applicable Federal rate based on semiannual compounding for demand loans made in October 1985, is 10.50 percent. The amount of foregone interest for 1985 is calculated as follows:

(ii) $50,000 is outstanding for the entire year. The foregone interest on this amount is ($5,000 × .1045) = $5,225.00

(iii) $25,000 is outstanding for the last three months of 1985. Under the exact method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $647.86, computed as follows:

$25,000 × [(1 + .1050/2)^{3/6} − 1] = $647.86

Under the approximate method, the amount of foregone interest is $656.25, computed as follows:

$25,000 × (.1050/2) × (3/6) = $656.25

(iv) The total amount of foregone interest is $5,872.86 ($5,225.00 + $647.86) under the exact method, and $5,881.25 ($5,225.00 + $656.25) under the approximate method.

Example (2). (i) On September 1, 1985, E makes a $100,000 interest-free demand loan to F. The loan agreement requires F to repay $10,000 of the principal amount of the loan at the end of each month that the loan is outstanding. Assume that section 7872 applies to the loan and that the applicable Federal rate based on semiannual compounding for demand loans made in September 1985, is 10.50 percent. The amount of foregone interest for 1985 is calculated as follows:

(ii) $70,000 is outstanding for four months. Under the exact method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $2,429.05, computed as follows:

$70,000 × [(1 + .1050/2)^{4/6} − 1] = $2,429.05

Under the approximate method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $2,450.00, computed as follows:

$70,000 × (.1050/2) × (4/6) = $2,450.00

(iii) $10,000 is outstanding for 3 months. Under the exact method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $259.14, computed as follows:

$10,000 × [(1 + .1050/2)^{3/6} − 1] = $259.14

Under the approximate method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $262.50, computed as follows:

$10,000 × (.1050/2) × (3/6) = $262.50.

(iv) An additional $10,000 is outstanding 2 months. Under the exact method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $172.02, computed as follows:

$10,000 × [(1 + .1050/2)^{2/6} − 1] = $17.02

Under the approximate method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $175.00, computed as follows:

$10,000 × (.1050/2) × (2/6) = $175.00

(v) A final $10,000 is outstanding for 1 month. Under the exact method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $85.65, computed as follows:

$10,000 × [(1 + .1050/2)^{1/6} − 1] = $85.65

Under the approximate method, the amount of foregone interest on this portion of the loan is $87.50, computed as follows:

$10,000 × (.1050/2) × (1/6) = $87.50

(vi) The total amount of foregone interest is $2,945.86 under the exact method, and $2,975.00 under the approximate method.

(e) Gift term loans and certain loans conditioned on future services—(1) In general. In the case of any gift term loan or any term loan that is treated as a demand loan as provided in §1.7872-10(a)(5), the amount of foregone interest for income tax purposes shall be computed as if the loan were a demand loan, except that:

(i) In applying paragraph (a)(1)(i), use the applicable Federal rate based on annual compounding in effect on the day the loan is made instead of the blended annual rate, and

(ii) In applying paragraph (b), use the applicable Federal rate based on semiannual compounding in effect on the day the loan is made instead of the applicable Federal rate for demand loans in effect during the period for which foregone interest is being computed.

(2) Example. The provisions of this paragraph (e) may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). On January 1, 1986, parent P makes a $200,000 gift term loan to child C. The loan agreement provides that the term of the loan is four years and that 5 percent simple interest is payable annually. Both P and C are calendar year taxpayers, and both are still living on December 31, 1986. Assume that the Federal mid-term rate based on annual compounding in effect on January 1, 1986, is 11.83 percent. The loan is a below-market loan. The amount of foregone interest for each year is $13,660.00, computed as follows:

($200,000) × .1183 = $23,660.00
$23,660.00 − $10,000.00 = $13,660.00

For gift tax purposes, an imputed gift is treated as made on January 1, 1986, and is equal to the excess of the amount loaned ($200,000) over the present value of all payments due under the loan, discounted at 11.83 percent compounded annually ($153,360.82), or $41,639.82. For rules for determining the computation of present value, see §1.7872-14.

Example (2). Assume the same facts as in Example (1) except that C repays the loan on September 30, 1987, along with an interest payment of $7,500. For income tax purposes, the imputed payments are treated as transferred on December 31, 1986 and September 30, 1987. The amount of the imputed payments for 1986 are the same as in Example (1). For 1987, under the exact method the amount of foregone interest is $9,994.73, computed as follows:

$17,494.73 − $7,500 = $9,994.73

For gift tax purposes, the imputed gift is treated as made January 1, 1986, and is the same as in Example (1).

(f) Allocation of stated interest. If interest that is payable on a demand loan is properly allocable to a period which includes more than one calendar year, the amount of interest to be allocated to each calendar year is determined by using any reasonable method of allocation.

(g) Counting conventions—(1) whole periods. All whole periods, whether expressed annually, semiannually, quarterly, or monthly, shall be treated as having equal length. For example, a leap year shall be treated as having the same number of days as a non-leap year; all months shall be treated as having the same number of days.

(2) Short periods. In computing the length of a short period, any reasonable convention may be used. See §1.7872-12(c)(2) for a list of conventions commonly used.

§1.7872-14 Determination of present value.

(a) In general. This section provides rules for computing the present value of a payment (as referred to in §1.7872-7(a)(1)) to be made in the future. In general, for purposes of section 7872, the present value of a loan payment to be made in the future is the amount of that payment discounted at the applicable Federal rate from the date in the future that the payment is due to the date on which the computation is made. For this purpose, the computation date is the date the loan first becomes subject to section 7872. To determine the present value of a payment, use the applicable Federal rate in effect on the day the loan is made that reflects the compounding assumption (i.e., annual, semiannual, quarterly, or monthly) that is appropriate for the loan. See §1.7872-3(b).

(b) Examples. The provisions of this section may be illustrated by the following examples:

Example (1). (i) On July 1, 1984, corporation A makes a $200,000 interest-free three-year term loan to shareholder B. The applicable Federal rate is 10-percent, compounded semiannually.

(ii) The present value of this payment is $149,243.08, determined as follows:

$$$149{,}243.08 = \frac{$200{,}000}{[1 + (.10/2)]^6}$$

(iii) The excess of the amount loaned over the present value of all payments on the loan ($200,000 − $149,243.08), or $50,756.92, is treated as a distribution of property (characterized according to section 301) paid to B on July 1, 1984. The same amount, $50,756.92, is treated as original issue discount under sections 1272 and 163(e).

Example (2). (i) On July 1, 1984, Employer X makes a $3,000 interest-free three year compensation-related term loan to employee Y. On December 1, 1984, E makes an $9,0 interest-free compensation-related demand loan to W. The demand loan remains outstanding throughout December 1984. The two loans are the only loans outstanding between E and W during 1984, and neither is characterized under section 7872(c)(1)(D) as a tax avoidance loan. The applicable Federal rate for all loans for periods before January 1, 1985, is 10 percent, compounded semiannually.

(ii) For the period beginning on July 1, 1984, and ending on November 30, 1984, the provisions of section 7872 do not apply to the $3,000 loan because of the application of the de minimis rules of section 7872(c)(3).

(iii) On December 1, 1984, however, the aggregate amount of loans outstanding between E and W exceeds $10,000. As a result, section 7872 applies to both loans for December 1984. Both the imputed transfer and the imputed interest payment with respect to the $9,000 demand loan are determined under section 7872(a). The amount of the imputed transfer by E to W with respect to the $3,000 term loan is determined under section 7872(b)(1). An amount equal to the amount of the imputed transfer with respect o the $3,000 term loan is treated as original issue discount.

(iv) With respect to the $3,000 term loan, the amount of the imputed transfer is equal to the excess of the amount loaned, over the present value of all payments which are required to be made under the $3,000 two-year term loan agreement, determined as of December 1, 1984 (the day section 7872 first applies to the $3,000 loan). The present value of $3,000 payable on June 30, 1987, determined as of December 1, 1984, is $2,331.54, computed as follows:

$$$2,331.54 = \frac{$3,000}{(1 + .10/2)^5 + 1/6}$$

The imputed transfer on the $3,000 loan is $668.46 ($3,000.00 − $2,331.54).

(v) The foregone interest on the $9,000 demand loan is determined as of December 31, 1984, with respect to the one month during 1984 to which section 7872 applies to the loan. The amount of foregone interest for 1984 under the exact method is $73.48, computed as follows:

$$$73.48 = $9,000 \times [(1 + .10/2)^{1/6} - 1]$$

Example (3). (i) Assume the same facts as in Example (2) except that the provisions of the $3,000 three-year term loan require W to make annual payments of interest at a 5 percent simple rate and except that E makes W the $9,000 loan on November 27, 1985.

(ii) Under the agreement W pays $150 (5 percent of $3,000) on June 30, 1985, June 30, 1986, and June 30, 1987. Since the first of these payments is payable prior to November 27, 1985, only the second and third $150 payments are taken into account. W is treated as paying $150 on June 30, 1986 and $3,150 ($3,000 principal and $150 interest) on June 30, 1987.

(iii) The present value as of November 27, 1984 of the $150 payable on June 30, 1986, is $128.39, computed as follows:

$$$128.39 = \frac{$150,000}{(1 + .10/2)^3 + 34/180}$$

(iv) The present value as of November 27, 1984 of the $3,150 payable on June 30, 1987, is $2,445.47, computed as follows:

$$$2,445.47 = \frac{$3,150,000}{(1 + .10/2)^5 + 34/180}$$

The sum of these two present values of $2,573.86 ($128.39 + $2,445.47). Therefore, the amount of the imputed transfer with respect to the $3,000 loan is $426.14 ($3,000.00 − $2,573.86).

(v) The foregone interest on the $9,000 demand loan under the exact method is $83.33 ($9,000 × [(1 + .10/2)$^{34/180}$ − 1]).

GIFT TAX REGULATIONS
26 CFR PART 25

Par. 3. The authority for Part 25 is amended by adding the following citation:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. * * * §25.2512-4 and 25.7872-1 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 7872.

Par. 4. Section 25.25122-4 is amended by adding a new sentence at the end to read as follows:

§25.2512-4 Valuation of notes.

* * * See §25.7872-1 for special rules in the case of gift loans (within the meaning of §1.7872-4(b)) made after June 6, 1984.

Par. 5. New §25.78722-1 is added in the appropriate place to read as follows:

§25.7872-1 Certain Below-Market Loans.

For purposes of chapter 12 of the Internal Revenue Code, relating to gift tax, if a taxpayer makes a gift loan (within the meaning of §1.7872-4(b)) that is a term loan (within the meaning of §1.7872-10(a)(2)) and that is made after June 6, 1984, the excess of the amount loaned over the present value of all payments which are required to be made under the terms of the loan agreement shall be treated as a gift from the lender to the borrower on the date the loan is made. If a taxpayer makes a gift loan that is a demand loan (within the meaning of §1.7872-10(a)(1)) and that is outstanding during any calendar period after June 6, 1984, and not repaid before September 17, 1984, the amount of foregone interest (within the meaning of section 7872(e)(2)) attributable to that calendar period shall be treated as a gift from the lender to the borrower. The de minimis exception described in section 7872(c)(2) applies to the gift tax treatment of a gift loan. In the case of a term gift loan, however, once section 7872 applies to the loan, the de minimis exception will not apply to the loan at some later date regardless of whether the aggregate outstanding amount of loans does not continue to exceed the limitation amount. For a detailed analysis of section 7872, see the income tax regulations under section 7872, §1.7872-1 through §1.7872-14.

Par. 7. Section 20.2031-4 is amended by adding a new sentence at the end to read as follows:

§20.2031-4 Valuation of notes.

* * * See §20.7872-1 for special rules in the case of gift loans (within the meaning of §1.7872-4(b)) made after June 6, 1984.

Par. 8. New §20.7872-1 is added in the appropriate place to read as follows:

§20.7872-1 Certain below-market loans.

For purposes of chapter 11 of the Internal Revenue Code, relating to estate tax, a gift term loan (within the meaning of §1.7872-4(b)) that is made after June 6, 1984, shall be valued at the lesser of:

(a) the unpaid stated principal, plus accrued interest; or

(b) the sum of the present value of all payments due under the note (including accrual interest), using the applicable Federal rate for loans of a term equal to the remaining term of the loan in effect at the date of death.

No discount is allowed based on evidence that the loan is uncollectible unless the facts concerning collectibility of the loan have changed significantly since the time the loan was made. This section applies with respect to any term loan made with donative intent after June 6, 1984, regardless of the interest rate under the loan agreement, and regardless of whether that interest rate exceeds the applicable Federal rate in effect on the day on which the loan was made.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking Returns Relating to Mortgage Interest Received in a Trade or Business From Individuals

SUMMARY: * * *[T]he Internal Revenue Service is issuing temporary regulations relating to the requirement of reporting mortgage interest received in a trade or business from individuals. The text of those temporary regulations also serves as the comment document for this proposed rulemaking.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered by October 21, 1985. The regulations are proposed to be effective for mortgage interest received after December 31, 1984.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-214-84), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Annette J. Guarisco of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, Attention: CC:LR:T, (202) 566-3238 (not a toll-free call).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations * * * on page 311, this Bulletin] amend Parts 1 and 602 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. The temporary regulations are designated by a "T" following their section citation. The final regulations, which this document proposes to base on those temporary regulations, would amend Parts 1 and 602 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

The regulations provide guidance concerning information returns relating to mortgage interest received in a trade or business from individuals as required by section 6050H of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. Section 6050H was added to the Code by section 145 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369, 98 Stat. 685) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1), 1, 192]. The regulations are to be issued under the authority contained in sections 6050H and 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 (98 Stat. 685, 26 U.S.C. 6050H; 68A Stat. 917, 26 U.S.C. 7805). For the text of the temporary regulations, see FR Doc. [T.D. 8047] * * * [on page 311, this Bulletin]. The preamble to the temporary regulations provides a discussion of the rules.

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291. Accordingly, a Regulatory Impact Analysis is not required.

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comments, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, a regulatory flexibility analysis is not required under the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The collection of information requirements contained in these regulations have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) in accordance with the requirement of the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980. Comments on those requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on those requirements to OMB also send copies to the Service.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these regulations is Annette J. Guarisco of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations on matters of both substance and style.

ROSCOE L. EGGER, JR.,

Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking Taxation of Fringe Benefits

LR-216-84

SUMMARY: * * * [T]he Internal Revenue Service is issuing temporary income tax regulations under sections 61 and 132. The temporary regulations under section 61 provide rules for valuation of the commuting use of employer-provided vehicles. The temporary regulations under section 132 provide rules relating to working condition fringe exclusions. The text of the temporary regulations serves as the comment document for the notice of proposed rulemaking contained in this document.

DATES: Proposed effective date: The regulations are generally proposed to be effective as of January 1, 1985.

Dates for comments and request for a public hearing: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by January 5, 1986.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 1111 Constitution Ave., N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-216-84).

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Annette J. Guarisco of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, (202) 566-3918 (not a toll-free number).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations * * * [on page 93, this Bulletin] amend Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. The temporary regulations are designated by a "T" following their section citation. The final regulations, which this document proposes to base on those temporary regulations, would amend Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations.

Section 61 was amended and section 132 was added to the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 ("Code") by section 531 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Pub. Law 98-369, 98 Stat. 877) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 385]. Section 274(d) of the Code was amended by section 179 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (99 Stat. 494) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 221] and section 1(a) of the Repeal of Contemporaneous Recordkeeping Requirements (Pub. Law 99-44, 99 Stat. 77) [page 350, this Bulletin]. Because of the relationship between sections 274(d) and 132 of the Code, the temporary regulations under section 132 are amended.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before these proposed amendments are adopted, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying.

A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

The collection of information requirements contained in the temporary regulations have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980. Comments on those requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on the requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291 AND REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required.

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking which solicits public comments, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6).

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking Residential Rental Property

SUMMARY: This document provides proposed regulations that relate to the tax exempt status of industrial development bonds. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. These regulations affect all purchases, beneficiaries, and governmental issuers of tax exempt industrial development bonds.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by January 6, 1986. Generally, the provisions permitting a residential rental project to be part of a mixed-use project are proposed to be effective for obligations issued after April 30, 1968. However, the provisions relating to the definition of low or moderate income are proposed to be effective for obligations issued after December 31, 1985.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-269-84), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mitchell H. Rapaport of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attention: CC:LR:T) (202-566-3740).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under section 103(b) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954. The proposed amendments reflect changes to section 103(b)(4) made by sections 614 and 628(e) of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369; 98 Stat. 914, 932) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 422, 439]. The proposed amendments would also clarify the regulations under section 103(b)(12)(C), relating to the definition of individuals of low and moderate income.

EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

Section 103(a) provides that gross income does not include interest on the obligations of a State or political subdivision thereof. Section 103(b)(1) provides that any industrial development bond shall be treated as an obligation not described in section 103(a).

Section 103(b)(4)(A) and §1.103-8(b)(1) provide that section 103(b)(1) shall not apply to an obligation issued as part of an issue substantially all of the proceeds of which are to be used to provide a residential rental project as defined in §1.103-8(b)(4) in which 20 percent or more of the units provided with the proceeds of the issue are to be occupied by individuals or families of low or moderate income.

The notice of proposed rulemaking would amend §1.103-8(b)(4) to provide that a residential rental project will not fail to qualify as such merely because part of the building or structure in which such property is located is used for purposes other than similarly constructed rental units, e.g., commercial office space, owner-occupied residences. Thus for example, a building the first floor of which is used for commercial purposes and the balance of which consists of rental units may qualify as a residential rental project.

In the case of such a mixed-use project, for purposes of determining whether substantially all of the proceeds are to be used to provide a residential rental project only the proceeds to be used to provide rental units that, in the aggregate, meet the low or moderate income occupancy requirement and other portions of the project allocable to such units are treated as providing a residential rental project. For this purpose, the cost of property benefitting, directly or indirectly, both the rental units qualifying for financing and the nonqualifying property must be properly allocated between the units and the nonqualifying property, with only the portion allocable to the units being treated as a cost of providing a residential rental project. In general, the proposed regulations provide that this allocation will be considered proper if made based on the ratio of the amount of floor space in the project to be used for nonqualifying property to the total floor space in the project. However, in those situations in which the use of this allocation method would not reasonably reflect the benefits to be received, directly or indirectly, from such property by the rental units and the nonqualifying property, the allocation may not be made under this method. In such circumstances the allocation may be made under any reasonable method. Comments are specifically requested concerning any other allocation methods that may be appropriate for this purpose.

Section 103(b)(4)(A) and §1.103-8(b) provide that an obligation will be treated as being described in section 103(a) if substantially all of the proceeds of the issue of which such obligation is a part are to be used to provide a project for residential rental property in which at least 20 percent of the units (15 percent in targeted areas) are to be occupied by individuals or families of low or moderate income. Section 1.103-8(b)(8)(v) defines low or moderate income as 80 percent of the median gross income for the area. The proposed regulations would amend the definition of low or moderate income to make clear that median gross income for an area is to be determined with adjustments for family size.

The proposed regulations would amend §1.103-8(b)(3), relating to the transitional rules provided in the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980 [Pub. L. 96-499, 1980-2 C.B. 509, 512], to reflect the amendments made to those rules by the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1], which terminated most of those transitional rules for obligations issued after December 31, 1984.

NON-APPLICABILITY OF EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a regulatory impact analysis therefore is not required.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ANALYSIS

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6).

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Mitchell H. Rapaport of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations, on matters of both substance and style.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before the adoption of these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Proposed amendments to the regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 as follows:

Paragraph 1. The authority for Part 1 continues to read in part:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805. * * *

Par. 2. Section 1.103-8 is amended by revising paragraph (b)(1), (b)(3) and paragraph (b)(4)(i) and (ii), by adding a new paragraph (b)(4)(v), by revising paragraph (b)(5), paragraph (b)(7)(ii), and paragraph (b)(8)(v), by revising example (3) of paragraph (b)(9), and by adding new Example (12) and Example (13) to follow Example (11) of paragraph (b)(9). These revised and added provisions read as follows:

§1.103-8 Interest on bonds to finance certain exempt facilities.

* * * * *

(b) Residential rental property—(1) General rule for obligations issued after April 24, 1979. Section 103(b)(1) shall not apply to any obligation which is issued after April 24, 1979, and is part of an issue substantially all of the proceeds of which are to be used to provide a residential rental project in which 20 percent or more of the units in the project that are to be provided with the proceeds of the issue (other than those units to be provided with an insubstantial amount of the proceeds of the issue as permitted under paragraph (a)(3) of this section) are to be occupied by individuals or families of low or moderate income (as defined in paragraph (b)(8)(v) of this section). See paragraph (b)(4)(v) with respect to mixed-use projects. In the case of a targeted area project, the minimum percentage is 15 percent. See generally §1.103-7 for rules relating to refunding issues.

* * * * *

(3) Transitional rule. For purposes of this section, obligations issued after April 24, 1979, may be treated as issued before April 25, 1979, if the transitional requirements of section 1104 of the Mortgage Subsidy Bond Tax Act of 1980 (94 Stat. 2670) [Pub. L. 96-499, 1980-2 C.B. 509, 512, 517], as amended by section 614 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984 (98 Stat. 914) [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 422], are satisfied.

(4) Residential rental project—(i) In general. A residential rental project is a building or structure, together with any facilities functionally related and subordinate thereto, containing one or more similarly constructed units that—

(a) Are not used on a transient basis, and

(b) Satisfy the requirements of paragraph (b)(5)(i) of this section and are available to members of the general public in accordance with the requirements of paragraph (a)(2) of this section.

Although a residential rental project may include other property, such as commercial office space, special rules apply to such mixed-use projects (see paragraph (b)(4)(v)). Hotels, motels, dormitories, fraternity and sorority houses, rooming houses, hospitals, nursing homes, sanitariums, and rest homes are not residential rental projects (but, with respect to obligations issued prior to January 1, 1986, only if such facilities are for use on a transient basis). In addition, trailer parks and courts for use on a transient basis are not residential rental projects.

(ii) Multiple buildings and partial use of buildings. (a) Proximate buildings or structures that have similarly constructed units are treated as part of the same project if they are owned for Federal tax purposes by the same person and they are financed pursuant to a common plan.

(b) Buildings or structures are proximate if they are located on a single tract of land. The term "tract" means any parcel or parcels of land that either are contiguous or are contiguous except for the interposition of a road, street, stream or similar property. Parcels are contiguous if their boundaries meet at one or more points.

(c) Similarly constructed units located in a single building and financed pursuant to a common plan of financing are treated as part of the same project.

(d) A common plan of financing exists if, for example, all such buildings or similarly constructed units are provided by the same issue or several issues subject to a common indenture.

* * * * *

(v) Mixed-use projects. (a) For purposes of this paragraph (b), a mixed-use project is a building or structure, together with any facilities functionally related and subordinate thereto, containing—

(1) One or more similarly constructed units rented or available for rental that, in the aggregate, meet the low or moderate income occupancy requirement of paragraph (b)(5)(ii), and

(2) Other property the use of which is unrelated to such units, e.g., commercial office space, owner-occupied residences, and units that, in the aggregate, do not meet the low or moderate income occupancy requirement of paragraph (b)(5)(ii) ("nonqualifying property").

(b) For purposes of determining whether, in the case of a mixed-use project, substantially all of the proceeds of the issue are to be used to provide a residential rental project, only the proceeds to be used to provide the units described in paragraph (b)(4)(v)(a)(1) and the other portions of the project allocable to such units are treated as being used to provide a residential rental project. Other portions of the project allocable to such units include—

(1) The allocable portion of property benefitting both such units and the nonqualifying property (e.g., common elements), and

(2) All property benefitting only such units (e.g., recreational facilities used only by occupants of the units described in paragraph (b)(4)(v)(a)(1)).

(c) In determining whether, in the case of a mixed-use project, substantially all of the proceeds of an issue are to be used to provide a residential rental project, the cost of property that will benefit, directly or indirectly, both the units described in paragraph (b)(4)(v)(a)(1) and the nonqualifying property must be allocated between such units and the nonqualifying property. For example, in the case of a mixed-use project part of which is to be used for commercial purposes, the cost of the building's foundation must be allocated between the commercial portion of the building and the units described in paragraph (b)(4)(v)(a)(1). The allocation of the cost of such common elements may be made according to any reasonable method that properly reflects the proportionate benefit to be derived, directly or indirectly, by the units described in paragraph (b)(4)(v)(a)(1) and the nonqualifying property. Allocating the cost of such common elements based on the ratio of the total floor space in the building or structure that is to be used for nonqualifying property to all other floor space in the building or structure is, generally, a reasonable method; however, in the case of any common elements with respect to which an allocation according to this method does not reasonably reflect the relative benefits to be derived, directly or indirectly, by the units described in paragraph (b)(4)(v)(a)(1) and the nonqualifying property, the allocation may not be made according to this method. For example, this method would not be a reasonable method for making the allocation in the case of a residential rental project one-half of the floor space of which is used for shopping space where three-fourths of the parking lot for the building will be used to serve the shopping space and the balance of the parking lot will be used to serve tenants of the units described in paragraph (b)(4)(v)(a)(1); the cost of constructing the parking lot must be allocated based on the proportion of the parking lot to be used, directly or indirectly, by the tenants of the units described in paragraph (b)(4)(v)(a)(1) and by the owners and tenants of the nonqualifying portion of the project.

(5) Requirements must be continuously satisfied—(i) Rental requirement. Once available for occupancy, each unit (as defined in paragraph (b)(8)(i) of this section) in a residential rental project that was provided with the proceeds of an issue described in section 103(b0(4)(A) (other than those units provided with an insubstantial amount of the proceeds of the issue as permitted under paragraph (a)(3) of this section) must be rented or available for rental on a continuous basis for the longer of—

(a) the remaining term of the obligation, or

(b) the qualified project period (as defined in paragraph (b)(7) of this section).

(ii) Low or moderate income occupancy requirement. Individuals or families of low or moderate income must occupy that percentage of completed units in the project that were provided with the proceeds of an issue described in section 103(b)(4)(A) (other than those units provided with an insubstantial amount of the proceeds of the issue as permitted under paragraph (a)(3) of this section) applicable to the project under paragraph (b)(1) of this section continuously during the qualified project period. For this purpose, a unit occupied by an individual or family who at the commencement of the occupancy is of low or moderate income is treated as occupied by an individual or family of low or moderate income even though the individual or family ceases to be of low or moderate income during the period of their occupancy. Moreover, such unit is treated as occupied by an individual or family of low or moderate income until reoccupied, other than for a temporary period not in excess of 31 days, at which time a redetermination of whether the unit is occupied by an individual or family of low or moderate income shall be made.

* * * * *

(7) Qualified project period. * * *

(ii) For obligations issued after September 3, 1982, a period beginning on the later of the first day on which at least 10 percent of the units in the project that are provided with the proceeds of the issue are first occupied or the date of issue of an obligation described in section 103(b)(4)(A) and this paragraph and ending on the later of the date—

(a) Which is 10 years after the date on which at least 50 percent of the units in the project that are provided with the proceeds of the issue are first occupied,

(b) Which is a qualified number of days after the date on which any of the units in the project that are provided with the proceeds of the issue are first occupied, or

(c) On which any assistance provided with respect to the project under section 8 of the United States Housing Act of 1937 terminates.

For purposes of this paragraph (b)(7)(ii), the "qualified number of days" means 50 percent of the total number of days comprising the term of the obligation with the longest maturity in the issue used to provide the project. In the case of a refunding of such an issue, the longest maturity is equal to the sum of the period the prior issue was outstanding and the longest term of any refunding obligations.

(8) Other definitions. * * *

(v) Low or moderate income. Individuals and families of low or moderate income shall be determined in a manner consistent with determinations of lower income families under section 8 of the United States Housing Act of 1937, as amended, except that the percentage of median gross income that qualifies as low or moderate income shall be 80 percent of the median gross income for the area with adjustments for smaller and larger families. Therefore, occupants of a unit are considered individuals or families of low or moderate income only if adjusted income (computed in the manner prescribed in §1.167(k)-3(b)(3)) does not exceed 80 percent of the median gross income for the area with adjustments for smaller and larger families. With respect to obligations issued prior to January 1, 1986, determinations of low or moderate income shall be made in accordance with the requirements of this paragraph (b)(8)(v) except that median gross income for the area need not be adjusted for family size. Notwithstanding the foregoing the occupants of a unit shall not be considered to be of low or moderate income if all the occupants are students (as defined in section 151(e)(4)), no one of whom is entitled to file a joint return under section 6013. The method of determining low or moderate income in effect on the date of issue will be determinative for such issue even if such method is subsequently changed. In the event programs under section 8(f) of the Housing Act of 1937, as amended, are terminated prior to the date of issue the applicable method shall be that in effect immediately prior to the date of such termination.

(i) Examples. * * *

Example (3). The facts are the same as in example (1), except that the proceeds of the obligation are provided to N, a cooperative housing corporation. N uses the proceeds to finance the construction of a portion of a cooperative housing project. The balance of the project is financed with the proceeds of a note that is not described in section 103(a). Shares in the cooperative carrying the rights to occupy the units in the portion of the project financed with the proceeds of the obligation issued by City X will be sold to shareholders who will rent the units to other persons. The balance of the shares in the cooperative, carrying the rights to occupy more than half of the space in the project, will be sold to individuals who will occupy the units themselves. The project is a residential rental project within the meaning of section 103(b)(4)(A) and this paragraph (b).

* * * * *

Example (12). In July 1985, County X issues a $10 million issue of industrial development bonds to be used to finance the construction of a building to be owned by Corporation W. Corporation W will construct a 10 story building. The first 2 floors of the building will be made available for commercial use. The remaining 8 floors will consist of similarly constructed units that will be made available as residences on a rental basis to members of the general public. Corporation W uses substantially all of the proceeds of the issue to finance the 8 floors of the building to be made available as rental units, the portions of the building benefitting, directly or indirectly, only the rental units, and the portions of the building benefitting, directly or indirectly, both the rental units and the commercial space that are properly allocable to the rental units. The remainder of the building is financed other than with the proceeds of an obligation described in section 103(a). Corporation W will make 20 percent of the rental units available to low or moderate income individuals, and all of the other requirements of this section are met. The obligtions are used to provide a residential rental project within the meaning of section 103(b)(4)(A) and this section, and the obligations are described in section 103(a).

Example (13). The facts are the same as in example (12), except that Corporation W uses the proceeds of the issue to finance the entire building including the 2 floors to be available for commercial use. The cost of the 2 floors available for commercial use, including those portions of the building that benefit both the commercial space and the rental units that are properly allocable to the commercial space, is $2 million. Under paragraph (b)(4)(v) of this section, the building is a residential rental project. However, substantially all of the proceeds of the issue are not used to provide a residential rental project since, in making this determination, proceeds used to provide nonqualifying property are treated as not used to provide a residential rental project. Therefore, the obligations are not described in section 103(b)(4)(A) and this paragraph (b).

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Limitation of Investment Credit in the Case of Certain Regulated Companies; Synchronization of Interest

LR-227-84

SUMMARY: This document contains proposed regulations relating to the limitation on the investment credit in the case of certain regulated companies. Questions have arisen concerning the permissibility of synchronization of interest under the ratable flow-through method of accounting for the investment credit with respect to public utility property. The proposed regulations would provide guidance on this issue and would affect regulated companies that use the ratable flow-through method of accounting for the investment credit with respect to public utility property.

DATES: Written comments or requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by July 26, 1985. The amendments are proposed to be effective generally with respect to all property to which section 46(f) applies (generally, pubic utility property constructed or acquired by the taxpayer after August 15, 1971). See section 105(d) of the Revenue Act of 1971 (1972-1 C.B. 443).

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-227-84), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Paulette Chernyshev of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, Attention: CC:LR:T, 202-566-3288, not a toll-free call.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

This document contains proposed amendments to the Income Tax Regulations (26 CFR Part 1) under section 46(f) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, relating to the limitation on the investment credit in the case of certain regulated companies. Section 46(f) was added to the Code by section 105(c) of the Revenue Act of 1971 (Pub. L. No. 92-178; 85 Stat. 503). [1972-1 C.B. 443, 447]. The proposed amendments clarify the manner in which the limitation applies in the case of regulated companies that use the ratable flow-through method of accounting for the investment credit with respect to public utility property.

EXPLANATION OF PROVISIONS

Section 46(f)(2) permits the use of a ratable flow-through method of accounting for the investment credit with respect to public utility property. Under this method of accounting, the taxpayer's cost of service for ratemaking purposes may be reduced by a ratable portion of the investment credit. The credit is disallowed, however, if the cost of service is reduced by more than a ratable portion of the credit or if the base to which the taxpayer's rate of return for ratemaking purposes is applied ("rate base") is reduced by any portion of the credit.

In determining whether a credit has been used to reduce rate base, §1.46-6(b)(3) of the regulations requires reference to "any accounting treatment that affects the permitted return on investment by treating the credit in any way other than as though it were capital supplied by common shareholders to which a 'cost of capital' rate is assigned that is not less than the taxpayer's overall cost of capital rate." This requirement appears only in the definition of rate base and it is unclear whether the credit also must be treated as capital provided by common shareholders in determining cost of service. As a result, the Service has received a number of ruling requests asking whether a portion of the return on the rate base attributable to the credit may be characterized as interest expense and taken into account in computing Federal income tax expense for ratemaking purposes ("interest synchronization").

This issue is addressed indirectly in several cases reviewing rate orders. Although the permissibility of synchronization of interest was an issue in these reviews, the Internal Revenue Service was not a party to the cases and the decisions did not determine the actual tax liability of the regulated companies. Two courts of appeals determined that interest synchronization does not violate section 46(f)(2) or the existing regulations. Union Electric v. FERC, 668 F.2d 389 (8th Cir. 1981); Nepco Municipal Rate Commission v. FERC, 668 F.2d 1327 (D.C. Cir. 1981); Public Service of New Mexico v. FERC, 653 F.2d 681 (D.C. Cir. 1981). Other courts, however, concluded that synchronization of interest is not permitted under section 46(f)(2) and the existing regulations. See, Utilities Commission v. Carolina Telephone & Telegraph, 300 S.E. 2d 395 (1983).

Although synchronization of interest reduces cost of service, the Service has concluded that this reduction is not attributable to the credit. This conclusion is consistent with financial market realities since, in the absence of the credit, the additional capital needed to finance the investment property generally would be obtained from a similar proportion of debt and equity as in the existing capital structure of the utility. Synchronization of interest properly takes account of the additional interest expense that would have been incurred in those circumstances.

Further, the Service believes that synchronization of interest under section 46(f)(2) results in an appropriate accounting for the credit in establishing rates. The basis for this conclusion may be illustrated by a comparison of the rates that would be established without synchronization of interest with the rates that would be established if the credit were unavailable. Under certain factual circumstances (e.g., long-lived assets with respect to which the credit was allowed), the rates that would be established without synchronization of interest may actually exceed in one or more service years the rates that would be established if the credit were unavailable. In contrast, the rates that would be established with synchronization of interest cannot exceed in any year the rates that would be established if the credit were unavailable. Accordingly, the proposed amendments would clarify that interest synchronization is permitted under a ratable flow-through method of accounting.

More generally, the amendments would provide that the extent to which cost of service or rate base is reduced by reason of the credit is determined by reference to the capital that would have been provided by common and preferred shareholders and long-term creditors if the credit were unavailable. Thus, a reduction in Federal income tax expense to reflect the additional interest the taxpayer would pay or accrue if the credit were unavailable is not treated as a reduction in cost of service by reason of the credit for purposes of section 46(f)(2). Similarly, assigning the credit the overall cost of capital rate, determined on the basis of a weighted average, for the capital that would have been provided if the credit were unavailable is not treated as a reduction in rate base by reason of the credit. The proposed regulations provide that the composition of the capital that would have been provided if the credit were unavailable depends on the facts and circumstances, but permit determinations that additional capital would have been provided in the same proportions and at the same rates of return as the capital actually provided by common and preferred shareholders and long-term creditors.

AMENDMENTS NOT COVERED BY THESE PROPOSED REGULATIONS

The proposed amendments do not reflect amendments made to section 46 after the enactment of the Revenue Act of 1971, other than the redesignation of section 46(e) as section 46(f) by the Tax Reduction Act of 1975 [Pub. L. 94-12, 1975-1 C.B. 545]. In addition, the proposed regulations do not reflect the amendment made to section 167(l)(2)(C) by section 209(d)(3) of the Economic Recovery Tax Act of 1981 (Pub. L. 97-34, 95 Stat. 227) [1981-2 C.B. 256, 287]. That amendment has the effect of eliminating the special rule for immediate flow-through under section 46(f)(3) for property placed in service after December 31, 1980.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT; EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking which solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. Chapter 6). The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291, and that a regulatory impact analysis therefore is not required.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will published in the Federal Register.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Paulette Chernyshev of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations on matters of both substance and style.

* * * * *

Proposed Amendments to the Regulations

The proposed amendments to 26 CFR Part 1 are as follows:

INCOME TAX REGULATIONS (26 CFR Part 1)

Paragraph 1. These regulations are issued under the authority contained in 26 U.S.C. 7805 and 26 U.S.C. 46(f)(7). The authority citation for Part 1 is amended by adding at the appropriate place an additional citation of authority, reading as follows:

§1.46-6 also issued under 26 U.S.C. 46(f)(7).

Par. 2. Section 1.46-6 is amended by revising paragraph (b)(2)(i), (3), and (4)(ii) to read as follows:

§1.46-6 Limitation in case of certain regulated companies.

* * * * *

(b) Definitions. * * *

(2) Cost of service. (i)(A) For purposes of this section, "cost of service" is the amount required by a taxpayer to provide regulated goods or services. Cost of service includes operating expenses (including salaries, cost of materials, etc.) maintenance expenses, depreciation expenses, tax expenses, and interest expenses. For purposes of this section, any effect on a taxpayer's permitted return on investment that results from a reduction in the taxpayer's rate base does not constitute a reduction in cost of service, even though, as a technical ratemaking term, "cost of service" ordinarily includes a permitted return on investment. In addition, taking into account a deduction for the additional interest that the taxpayer would pay or accrue if the credit were unavailable in determining Federal income tax expense ("synchronization of interest") does not constitute a reduction in cost of service for purposes of section 46(f)(2). This adjustment to Federal income tax expense may be taken into account in determining cost of service for the regulated accounting period or periods that include the taxable year to which the adjustment relates or for any subsequent regulated accounting period.

(B) See paragraph (b)(3)(ii)(B) of this section for rules relating to the amount of additional interest that the taxpayer would pay or accrue if the credit were unavailable.

* * * * *

(3) Rate base. (i) For purposes of this section, "rate base" is the monetary amount that is multiplied by a rate of return to determine the permitted return on investment.

(ii)(A) In determining whether, or to what extent, a credit has been used to reduce rate base, reference shall be made to any accounting treatment that affects rate base. In addition, in those cases in which the rate of return is based on the taxpayer's cost of capital, reference shall be made to any accounting treatment that reduces the permitted return on investment by treating the credit less favorably than the capital that would have been provided by common and preferred shareholders and long-term creditors if the credit were unavailable. Thus, the credit may not be assigned a "cost of capital" rate that is less than the overall cost of capital rate, determined on the basis of a weighted average, for the capital that would have been provided by such shareholders and creditors if the credit were unavailable.

(B) For purposes of determining the cost of capital rate assigned to the credit and the amount of additional interest that the taxpayer would pay or accrue, the composition of the capital that would have been provided if the credit were unavailable depends on all the relevant facts and circumstances. For this purpose, however, such capital ordinarily may be considered to be provided by common shareholders, preferred shareholders, and long-term creditors in the same proportions and at the same rates of return as the capital actually provided to the taxpayer by such shareholders and creditors.

(iii) Whether, or to what extent, a credit has been used to reduce rate base for any period to which pre-1986 rates apply will be determined under 26 CFR 1.46-6(b)(3) and (4) (revised as of April 1, 1985) if such a determination avoids disallowance of a credit that would be disallowed under paragraph (b)(3)(ii) or (4)(ii) of this section. For this purpose, a period to which pre-1986 rates apply is any period for which the effect of the credit or rate base for ratemaking purposes is established under a determination put into effect before January 1, 1986 (within the meaning of paragraph (f) of this section).

(4) Indirect reductions to cost of service or rate base. * * *

(ii) One type of such indirect reduction is any ratemaking decision in which the credit is treated as operating income (subject to ratemaking regulation) or is treated less favorably than the capital that would have been provided if the credit were unavailable. For example, if the credit is accounted for as nonoperating income on a company's regulated books of account but a ratemaking decision has the effect of treating the credit as operating income in determining rate of return to common shareholders, then cost of service has been indirectly reduced by reason of the credit.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations (designated by a "T" following the section citation) * * * [on page 333, this Bulletin] amend Part 301 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations to provide rules relating to section 6402(d) and (e) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954, and section 3720A of subchapter II of chapter 37 of title 31, United States Code, as added by section 2653 of the Spending Reduction Act of 1984 (Pub. L. 98-369, 98 Stat. 1153) [1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1, 661]. This document proposes to adopt those temporary regulations as final regulations; acordingly, the text of the temporary regulations serves as the comment document for this notice of proposed rulemaking. In addition, the preamble to the temporary regulations provides a discussion of the proposed and temporary rules. For the text of the temporary regulations, see FR Doc. 85-23285 (T.D. 8053) published * * * [on page 333, this Bulletin].

SPECIAL ANALYSES

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that these proposed rules are not major rules as defined in Executive Order 12291 and, therefore, a regulatory impact analysis is not required. Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before these proposed regulations are adopted, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably eight copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Sharon L. Hall of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations on matters of both substance and style.

JAMES I. OWENS,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Tax Return Preparers

LR-3-85

SUMMARY: This document contains a proposed amendment to the Regulations on Procedure and Administration. The amendment relates to disclosure of tax return information by tax return preparers for the purposes of monitoring and auditing return preparation and for the purpose of assisting the tax return preparer or his legal representative in operating the business in the event of incapacity or death of the tax return preparer. This amendment is made in order to provide guidance to tax return preparers with regard to disclosure of tax return information in this context.

EFFECTIVE DATES: This amendment is proposed to be effective [Date which is 30 days after publication of final regulations in this Federal Register]. Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by December 19, 1985.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T [LR-3-85], Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Richard Chewning of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224, Attention: CC:LR:T (202-566-3289, not a toll free call).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

This document contains a proposed amendment to the Regulations on Procedure and Administration under section 7216(b)(3) (26 CFR Part 301). The proposed amendment adds a new category to the list of permitted disclosures or use of tax return information without the formal consent of the taxpayer. This amendment is to be issued under the authority contained in section 7216(b)(3) (85 Stat. 529, 26 U.S.C. 7216) and 7805 (68A Stat. 917, 26 U.S.C. 7805) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1954.

DISCUSSION

Section 7216(b) provides that the penalty provision of section 7216(a) will not apply to the disclosure or use of information by preparers of returns if the disclosure is made pursuant to provisions of the Code or pursuant to an order of a court. Section 7216(b)(3) gives the Secretary the regulatory authority to prescribe other exceptions to section 7216(a). Those regulatory exceptions are enumerated in §301.7216-2 (relating to permitted disclosure of tax return information without the formal consent of the taxpayer) and §301.7216-3 (relating to permitted disclosure of tax return information with the formal consent of the taxpayer). This amendment to the regulations would add an additional category of permitted disclosures to §301.7216-2. New proposed §301.7216-2(o) would permit disclosure of tax return information by a tax return preparer for the purpose of permitting the auditing and monitoring of the preparation of tax returns by the tax return preparer. This will assist the tax return preparer to provide the quality of service that the taxpayer expects when he or she goes to the tax return preparer.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adopting as a final regulation this proposed regulation, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the Federal Register.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT OF 1980 AND EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Secretary of the Treasury has certified that this proposed amendment to the regulations would not have significant economic impact on a substantial number of small entities. Accordingly, this proposed amendment to the regulations does not constitute a regulation subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act of 1980 (5 U.S.C. chapter 6) and a Regulatory Flexibility Analysis is not required and has not been prepared. The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major regulation subject to Executive Order 12291 and that a Regulatory Impact Analysis is therefore not required.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of this regulation is Richard Chewning of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing this regulation, both on matters of substance and style.

Proposed amendment of the regulations

Accordingly, the proposed amendment to 26 CFR Part 301 is as follows:

REGULATIONS ON PROCEDURE AND ADMINISTRATION

1. The authority citation for part 301 continues to read as follows:

Authority: 26 U.S.C. 7805; Section 301.7216-2 is also issued under 26 U.S.C. 7216(b)(3)

2. Section 301.7216-2 is amended by adding a new paragraph (o) at the end thereof, as set forth below:

§301.7216-2 Disclosure or use without formal consent of taxpayer.

* * * * *

(o) Disclosure of tax return information for the monitoring and auditing of tax return preparation. The provisions of section 7216(a) and §301.7216-1 do not apply to any disclosure of tax return information made by a tax return preparer to any person who is expected to use such information in connection with the monitoring and auditing of the accuracy of tax returns prepared by the tax return preparer that are to be filed or have been filed with the Internal Revenue Service and to which the tax return information pertains.

In addition, disclosure of tax return information may be made by the tax return preparer for the purpose of assisting the tax return preparer or his legal representative in operating the business in the event of incapacity or death of the tax return preparer. Persons receiving tax return information under the provisions of this paragraph (o) are tax return preparers for purposes of this section.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking Tax-Exempt Entity Leasing

LR-31-85

SUMMARY: This document provides proposed regulations regarding tax-exempt entity leasing. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. * * * [T]he Internal Revenue Service is issuing temporary regulations relating to tax-exempt entity leasing; the text of those temporary regulations also serves as the comment document for this notice of proposed rulemaking.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by September 3, 1985. In general, the regulations are proposed to apply to leases involving tax-exempt entities entered into after May 23, 1983, and to property placed in service by the taxpayer after May 23, 1983. The revisions to the safe-harbor lease reporting requirements are proposed to apply to such lease agreements executed after June 30, 1985.

ADDRESS: Please mail or deliver comments to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-31-85), 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Robert Beatson of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attention: CC:LR:T) (202-566-3590).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations * * * [on page 73, this Bulletin] add new §§1.48-12T, 1.168(f)(8)-1T, and 1.168(j)-1T to Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. When §1.48-12T is promulgated as a final regulation, it would be renumbered as §1.48-12 of Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. When §1.168(f)(8)-1T is promulgated as a final regulation, it would be renumbered as §1.168(f)(8)-1 of Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. When §1.168(j)-1T is promulgated as a final regulation, it would be renumbered as §1.168(j)-1 of Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. For the text of the temporary regulations, see FR Doc. 85-15846 (T.D. 8033) published * * * [on page 73, this Bulletin]. The preamble to the temporary regulations explains these additions to the Income Tax Regulations.

The proposed regulations provide needed guidance regarding the provisions of section 168(j) and 7701(e) which were enacted by section 31 of the Tax Reform Act of 1984.

NON-APPLICABILITY OF EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a regulatory impact analysis therefore is not required.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ACT

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

PAPERWORK REDUCTION ACT

The collection of information requirements contained in the temporary regulations have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under Section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on these requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests that persons submitting comments on the requirements to OMB also send copies of those comments to the Service.

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Robert Beatson of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of the Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. Personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and the Treasury Department participated, however, in developing the regulations on matters of both substance and style.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before adoption of these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. In particular, comments are invited concerning the rules for determining whether partnership allocations are qualified under section 168(j)(9)(B). All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER.

Notice of Proposed Rulemaking

Information Reporting for Mortgage Credit Certificates

LR-114-85

SUMMARY: This document provides proposed regulations that relate to mortgage credit certificates. Changes to the applicable tax law were made by the Tax Reform Act of 1984 [Pub. L. 98-369, 1984-3 C.B. (Vol. 1) 1]. These regulations affect all holders and issuers of mortgage credit certificates. In addition, * * *, the Internal Revenue Service is issuing temporary regulations that relate to mortgage credit certificates. The text of those temporary regulations also serves as the comment document for this proposed rulemaking.

DATES: Written comments and requests for a public hearing must be delivered or mailed by November 4, 1985. These regulations are proposed to be effective with respect to mortgage credit certificates issued after September 30, 1985.

ADDRESS: Send comments and requests for a public hearing to: Commissioner of Internal Revenue, Attention: CC:LR:T (LR-114-85), Washington, D.C. 20224.

FOR FURTHER INFORMATION CONTACT: Mitchell H. Rapaport of the Legislation and Regulations Division, Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service, 1111 Constitution Avenue, N.W., Washington, D.C. 20224 (Attention: CC:LR:T) (202-566-3740).

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION:

BACKGROUND

The temporary regulations * * * [on page 1, this Bulletin] amend §1.25-4T of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. The final regulations, which this document proposes to be based on those temporary regulations, would be added to Part 1 of Title 26 of the Code of Federal Regulations. For the text of the Temporary Regulations, see FR Doc. 85-20969 (T.D. 8048) published * * * [on page 1, this Bulletin]. The preamble to the temporary regulations explains the addition to the regulations.

On May 8, 1985, temporary and proposed regulations with respect to mortgage credit certificates were published in the FEDERAL REGISTER (50 FR 19344; 50 FR 19383) [T.D. 8023, 1985-1 C.B. 1; LR-245-84, 1985-1 C.B. 659]. Those regulations reserved §1.25-4T(e), relating to the information reporting requirement, and §1.25-4T(f), relating to the policy statement requirement. The Service received numerous written comments responding to a notice of proposed rulemaking published in the FEDERAL REGISTER on December 12, 1984 (49 FR 48323) [LR-240-84, 1985-1 C.B. 658], with respect to the reporting and policy statement requirements as they apply to qualified mortgage bonds and qualified veterans' mortgage bonds, and a public hearing was held on April 30, 1985. After consideration of all comments regarding those proposed regulations, temporary and proposed regulations relating to the information reporting and policy statement requirements applicable to mortgage credit certificates are being provided.

The regulations interpret the provisions of section 25(g) of the Code, which add certain information reporting requirements to the requirements that mortgage credit cretificate programs must meet.

These regulations are proposed to be issued under the authority of section 25(g) and section 7805 of the Internal Revenue Code (98 Stat. 911, 26 U.S.C. 25(g); 68A Stat. 917, 26 U.S.C. 7805).

NON-APPLICABILITY OF EXECUTIVE ORDER 12291

The Commissioner of Internal Revenue has determined that this proposed rule is not a major rule as defined in Executive Order 12291 and that a regulatory impact analysis therefore is not required.

REGULATORY FLEXIBILITY ANALYSIS

Although this document is a notice of proposed rulemaking that solicits public comment, the Internal Revenue Service has concluded that the regulations proposed herein are interpretative and that the notice and public procedure requirements of 5 U.S.C. 553 do not apply. Accordingly, these proposed regulations do not constitute regulations subject to the Regulatory Flexibility Act (5 U.S.C. chapter 6).

DRAFTING INFORMATION

The principal author of these proposed regulations is Mitchell H. Rapaport of the Legislation and Regulations Division of the Office of Chief Counsel, Internal Revenue Service. However, personnel from other offices of the Internal Revenue Service and Treasury Department participated in developing the regulations, on matters of both substance and style.

COMMENTS AND REQUESTS FOR A PUBLIC HEARING

Before the adoption of these proposed regulations, consideration will be given to any written comments that are submitted (preferably seven copies) to the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. All comments will be available for public inspection and copying. A public hearing will be held upon written request to the Commissioner by any person who has submitted written comments. If a public hearing is held, notice of the time and place will be published in the FEDERAL REGISTER. The collection of information requirements contained herein have been submitted to the Office of Management and Budget (OMB) for review under section 3504(h) of the Paperwork Reduction Act. Comments on the requirements should be sent to the Office of Information and Regulatory Affairs of OMB, Attention: Desk Officer for Internal Revenue Service, New Executive Office Building, Washington, D.C. 20503. The Internal Revenue Service requests persons submitting comments to OMB also to send copies of the comments to the Service.

JAMES I. OWENS,
Acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue.

(Filed by the Office of the Federal Register on August 29, 1985, 10:54 a.m., and published in the issue of the Federal Register for September 3, 1985, 50 F.R. 35572)

Announcement of the Disbarment, Suspension, or Consent to Voluntary Suspension of Attorneys, Certified Public Accountants, Enrolled Agents and Enrolled Actuaries from Practice Before the Internal Revenue Service

Under 31 Code of Federal Regulations, Part 10, an attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or enrolled actuary, in order to avoid the institution or conclusion of a proceeding for his disbarment or suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service, may offer his consent to suspension from such practice. The Director of Practice, in his discretion, may suspend an attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or enrolled actuary in accordance with the consent offered.

Attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents, and enrolled actuaries are prohibited in any Internal Revenue Service matter from directly or indirectly employing, accepting assistance from, being employed by or sharing fees with, any practitioner disbarred or under suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

To enable attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and enrolled actuaries to identify practitioners under consent suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service, the Director of Practice will announce in the Internal Revenue Bulletin the names and addresses of practitioners who have been suspended from such practice, their designation as attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or enrolled actuary and the date or period of suspension. This announcement will appear in the weekly Bulletin at the earliest practicable date after such action and will continue to appear in the weekly Bulletins for five successive weeks or for as many weeks as is practicable for each attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or enrolled actuary so suspended and will later be consolidated and published in the Cumulative Bulletin.

The following individuals have been placed under consent suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service:

Benjamin Ostfield	Minneapolis, MN	Attorney and Certified Public Accountant	Indefinite from November 20, 1985
Kenneth D. Short	Ellicott City, MD	Attorney	Indefinite from November 6, 1985

Under Section 330, Title 31 of the United States Code (1970 ed.), the Secretary of the Treasury, after due notice and opportunity for hearing, is authorized to suspend or disbar from practice before the Internal Revenue Service any attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent, or enrolled actuary who has violated the rules and regulations governing such practice.

Attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and enrolled actuaries are prohibited in any Internal Revenue Service matter from directly or indirectly employing, accepting assistance from, being employed by or sharing fees with, any practitioner disbarred or under suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service.

To enable attorneys, certified public accountants, enrolled agents and enrolled actuaries to identify such disbarred or suspended practitioners, the Director of Practice will announce in the Internal Revenue Bulletin the names and addresses of practitioners who have been disbarred or suspended from such practice, their designation as attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or enrolled actuary, and the date of disbarment or period of suspension. This announcement will continue to appear in the weekly Bulletin for five successive weeks for each attorney, certified public accountant, enrolled agent or enrolled actuary so suspended or disbarred and will later be consolidated and published in the Cumulative Bulletin.

After due notice and opportunity for hearing, the following individuals have been disbarred from further practice before the Internal Revenue Service:

Name	Address	Designation	Effective Date
Gary E. Early	Gonzalez, FL	Certified Public Accountant	June 24, 1984
Allan T. Quello	Wayzata, MN	Attorney	October 12, 1985

Announcement of the Resignation of Enrolled Agents From Practice Before the Internal Revenue Service

Under 31 Code of Federal Regulations, Part 10, an enrolled agent in order to avoid the institution of a proceeding for his disbarment or suspension from practice before the Internal Revenue Service, may offer his resignation. The Director of Practice, in his discretion, may accept the offered resignation of an enrolled agent.

To enable the public and other practitioners to identify such resigned enrolled agents, the Director of Practice will announce in the Internal Revenue Bulletin the name and address of each enrolled agent who has resigned and the effective date of resignation. This announcement will appear in the weekly Bulletin at the earliest practicable date after the action and will continue to appear in the weekly Bulletins for five successive weeks or for as many weeks as is practicable for each resigned enrolled agent, and will later be consolidated and published in the Cumulative Bulletin.

The following individuals have entered a consent resignation from enrollment to practice before the Internal Revenue Service:

Name of Enrolled Agent	Address	Effective Date of Resignation
Katheleen McAnnally	Warrior, AL	June 5, 1985
George N. Pelletier	Las Vegas, NV	July 15, 1985
Daniel H. Hess	Ogden, UT	July 24, 1985
David A. Ostrager	Brooklyn, NY	July 23, 1985
